The report is understood to present to the Federal government charges that the motion picture code is fostering a dangerous monopoly controlled by the major producers, and recommending to the national administration a sweeping investigation of these charges.

While the report is said to defend the principles of the NRA, it is understood to point out numerous defects in the administration of the code, with recommendations for their correction. The full and complete reasons why Judge Lindsey took issue with Rosenblatt are also said to be contained in the report, together with a general airing of conditions as observed by the Judge in Hollywood.

Term For Ray Turner

Ray Turner, Paramount's music department pianist, was handed a new contract yesterday and goes into his fourth year with the studio.

Forbes For 'Barretts'

Ralph Forbes was signed by Irving Thalberg at MGM yesterday for an important spot in "Barretts of Wimpole Street."

NATALIE MOORHEAD

plays JULIA WOLF in

"THE THIN MAN"

MGM

'MURDER ON BLACKBOARD' GOOD, EXCITING MYSTERY

Edna May Oliver Carries Off Honors

"MURDER ON THE BLACKBOARD"
(RKO-Radio)

Direction .....George Archainbaud
Author .....Stuart Palmer
Screen Play.....Willis Goldbeck
Photography .....Nick Musuraca
Cast: Edna May Oliver, James Gleason, Bruce Cabot, Gertrude Michael, Regis Toomey, Edgar Kennedy, Tully Marshall, Jackie Searl, Fredrik Vogeding and Barbara Fritchie.

A particularly gory murder committed in the echoing silence of a deserted classroom, just a little while after the children have all gone home, is the unusually effective beginning of the RKO-Radio picture, "Murder on the Blackboard."

From then on, with Edna May Oliver and James Gleason supplying the sleuthing and the comedy, the picture hits a fairly good tempo, although it is undeniably true that a little speeding up wouldn't hurt it at all in places.

However, Miss Oliver and Gleason work so well together, and their business is so funny, that the picture is a good bet the way it stands now.

There are two young teachers in this school, Barbara Fritchie and Gertrude Michael. Besides rooming together, they both love the same man, Bruce Cabot. An older teacher, whom everyone calls Snoopy Withers (Miss Oliver) is horrified to discover this certain afternoon the dead body of Miss Fritchie. Knowing practically everything that goes on within her eyesight or earshot, she elects herself aide de sleuth to Inspector Piper (Gleason.)

After a series of horrifying experiences, another near murder, the discovery that violence was not needed to kill the young teacher as she was rapidly dying from a poison that was being administered her, Snoopy Withers unearths the whole plot which, miraculously, corresponds to the ideas that Gleason has had all along—AFTER she tells him all about it.

Miss Oliver is priceless as Snoopy. Her indignant sniffs, her important adjusting of her ratty little fur piece, and her knowing glances at dead ants and lighter fluid, make grand comedy. Gleason is clever and amusing as the inspector. Regis Toomey does a bit well; Gertrude Michael is more than pleasing as the murderee's friend; Edgar Kennedy is funny as Detective Donahue; Tully Marshall is the principal; Jackie Searl is splendid as a bad little boy; Fredrik Vogeding staggers neatly through the role of a drunken janitor, and Bruce Cabot is ineffective.

George Archainbaud imbued the piece with real eeriness; Willis Goldbeck adapted the Stuart Palmer story, and the photography by Nick Musuraca is just what a mystery needs.

The picture is good now. With a little speeding up, it will go in any house that likes mysteries.

Thar's Gold in Them Thar Sherman Vines

When Lowell Sherman went out to Universal several months ago to direct a picture, he was given a neat little bungalow, with nicely trimmed vines about it. To date he has drawn total salary of $120,000, directed no picture, and the vines have grown about the bungalow door so heavily it can hardly be opened.

Elsa Lanchester Cast In 'Marie Antoinette'

Elsa Lanchester, wife of Charles Laughton, joins the cast of "Marie Antoinette" for a featured assignment.

Sidney Franklin directs the Norma Shearer picture, which the Irving Thalberg unit produces for MGM.

Oland Option Lifted

Warner Oland has had his option taken up by Fox and will appear in some more "Charlie Chan" pictures. Jack Gardner set the deal.

'U' Changing Set-up

(Continued from Page 1)

responsibilities, but as an aide to Gatzert.

Lou Ostrow's deal with Universal is also slated for final signatures today, or, at latest, before Carl Laemmle starts East this week-end. The arrangement is expected to call for six Royal Productions for Universal release, and two pictures to be made by Ostrow as a Universal producer.

Ostrow is about set on two of his stories, one said to have a French locale, but is withholding titles for the time. The only other serial story so far decided on by Gatzert is "Tailspin Tommy," from the Hal Forrest cartoon series.

Universal is also expected to announce a curtailed shorts output for next season at the convention. The universality of the double-feature is blamed for a lessened market in the short-subject field.

Warren Doane, independent producer of two-reel comedies for Universal the past two years, is anxious to go into the production of feature-length comedies. He has given Universal the quits notice, permitted either party each May during their eleven-year contract, but Mastroly and the Senior Laemmle do not consider it final and expect him to continue with the two-reelers. This will also be decided this week.

However, the John Hix "Strange As It Seems," a monthly novelty release by Universal for over three years, has been definitely dropped.

Universal's Mentone musical shorts, made in the East by Rowland and Rice, are on the teeter board, their fate to be decided before the convention.

Impartial Member of Labor Com. Named

Sol A. Rosenblatt yesterday appointed W. Jefferson Davis, an attorney, of 458 South Spring street, Los Angeles, as the third and impartial member of the Studio Labor Committee.

The committee, whose duty is to handle complaints on the part of studio labor, now consists of Pat Casey, chairman, representing the studios; Ed Smith, representing labor, and Davis. It replaces a former committee composed of Casey, Smith, Al Berres and Dick L'Estrange.

Chas. Burr Crashing Into Production Again

Charles C. Burr is setting up headquarters at General Service with plans for an untitled outdoor feature.

His claim against Educational for cash alleged due as director on his last Educational comedy is set for hearing in Superior Court tomorrow.

Monogram Boosts Ante on Westerns

Paramount's inclusion of westerns in next season's program has encouraged Monogram to order a new set of Lone Star pictures, with a tilt of 25 percent in the production budget.

First of the new feature westerns will be "The Wolf Hunters," a James Oliver Curwood story, which will go into production in June as John Wayne's first vehicle for the season. Lindsley Parsons was assigned last night to the adaptation, screen play and dialog. R. N. Bradbury will direct.

Parsons also received from Paul Malvern, Lone Star producer, the story of "The Texas Terror" to adapt as one of the three Waynes to follow.

Chicago Tribune Digs Into Alleged Film Dirt

Philip Kinsley, one of the star reporters of the Chicago Tribune, has arrived in Hollywood with an assignment from his paper to get at the facts about the alleged smut in recent motion pictures.

There has been so much talk about this subject by church people and women's organizations that the Tribune wants the truth.

LINCOLN V12—

It's harmonized!

There's real melody in the mighty motor of the new Lincoln . . . and the music of the motor is in perfect harmony with the safe chassis—the beautiful and luxurious bodies.

No wonder famous stars of song such as Mr. BING CROSBY and Mr. GUY LOMBARDO have recently taken delivery of 1934 Lincoln V12's from Maddux in Hollywood.

MADDUX
INCORPORATED

1353 North Vine GLadstone 5171

precision performance prestige

FRAUD CHARGES TOSSED ABOUT IN INDIES' BATTLE

The fight among the board of directors of Screencrafts Productions over the ownership of its last picture, "Within the Rock," broke in court yesterday. Superior Court Judge Frank C. Collier granted Sam Katzman a temporary injunction against Al Alt and Abe Prell from taking over the property. Hearing was set for June 8. The Davidge Laboratory is holding the negative.

Katzman, in his complaint, accused Alt, Prell, Dr. Benjamin Naidis and their Showman's Productions of "sham, fraud and conspiracy," alleging that the trio had the releasing contract between Screencrafts and the New York firm of Showmens Pictures cancelled with the intent to take it over themselves. Katzman claims that he and A. W. Hackle were forced out of defunct company.

Dr. Benjamin Naidis, the complaint declares, is Prell's brother-in-law and insolvent, and entered a third party claim against the picture on an alleged chattel mortgage and note which are "sham and fraud." Naidis was used as a dummy in Alt and Prell's scheme, according to Katzman, in order to compel the complainant to post a $28,000 bond or lose the rights to the picture.

Para. Signs Ann Ronell

Ann Ronell was signed by Paramount yesterday to write songs for "The Big Broadcast of 1934."

Mae West Finishes In 'It Ain't No Sin'

"It Ain't No Sin" is completed so far as Mae West personally is concerned. Leo McCarey is cleaning up musical sequences and expects to go off the shooting schedule Friday.

While Paramount has "Me and the King" as next for the star, no writing assignments have been announced, and Miss West has been weighing the attractions of Honolulu vs. the Baer-Carnera fight in New York as between-picture relaxations.

Thew Back to MGM For 'Death on the Diamond'

Off the salary list at MGM for five days when he finished the script on "Rear Car" last week, Harvey Thew was recalled yesterday to handle the screen play on "Death on the Diamond."

Edward Sedgwick directs under Lucien Hubbard's supervision.

Buffington Polishing

Mascot has signed Adele Buffington to polish up the script on her own original, "Along Came a Woman." Screen play has been written by Douglas Doty and George Sayre. Picture will be one of the first of the studio's series of features to get into work.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Claudia Coleman by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall and Lucien Prival by Hallam Cooley to MGM's "Merry Widow."

Hyram Hoover to "Happy Landings," Monogram.

John Hale by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall to "Student Tour," MGM.

Doris Lloyd by Max Shagrin to "She Was A Lady," Fox.

Gay Seabrook to "She Learned About Sailors," Fox, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall.

Russ Powell by Max Shagrin for Reliance's "The Count of Monte Cristo."

Reginald Sheffield by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall for "One More River," Universal.

Charles Grapewin for "Old Judge Priest," Fox, by Beyer-MacArthur.

Dick Quine for "Jane Eyre," Monogram, by Max Shagrin.

Albert Conti by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall for Paramount's "Ladies First."

Chanslor to Warners

New York.—Roy Chanslor was signed by Warners yesterday on a three months writing deal. He will arrive in Hollywood May 28.

Boston Writer Coming

Elizabeth Borton, of the Boston Traveler and Herald staff, arrives here June 15 to write a series of star interviews for her paper.

Reed To Direct One For Beauty Winners

New York.—Luther Reed is to direct a picture in the East which will have a tie-up with the Atlantic City beauty contest next month and will have four of the contestants in the cast.

The picture is called "Convention Girl" and will be produced by Dave Thomas' Major Productions in the Photocolor studios at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. Starting date is June 25.

Barker Will Direct Mono's 'Moonstone'

Reginald Barker will direct "Moonstone" for Monogram. The picture is based on the Wilkie Collins mystery novel.

Either "Moonstone," "King Kelly of the U.S.A.," or "Redhead," which Mrs. Wallace Reid is adapting with Betty Burbridge, will be the next Monogram feature in production.

Kolker to Columbia

Columbia yesterday signed Henry Kolker to replace Guy Usher in the cast of "The Criminal Within," the latter being previously committed to another studio. Richard Cromwell and Arline Judge have the top spots in the picture, which Al Rogell directs.

Doty-Sayre Set

Douglas Doty and George Sayre have been assigned to do the continuity on "One Frightened Night" for Mascot. George Rosener has completed his treatment of the story.

"AN INSTITUTION AS GREAT AS THE INDUSTRY IT SERVES"

OPERATING morning... noon... and night...

THE motion picture industry requires speedy service — sometimes overnight deliveries. And Consolidated is organized to give it. When the occasion demands, our plants operate the entire 24 hours—continuously.

CONSOLIDATED FILM INDUSTRIES, INC.

NEW YORK HOLLYWOOD

TELL

The Contract Signers

WHAT YOU HAVE DIRECTED

TELL THEM

in the

DIRECTORS' NUMBER of the

HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

OUT SOON

THE ACES

WHO THEY ARE . . .

WHAT THEY DIRECTED . . .

WHERE . . .

WHEN . . .

FOR WHOM . . .

And a lot of other interesting facts about directors

EXECUTIVES FORGET–
AND
MUST BE REMINDED

LAST CALL FOR COPY

M-G-M STUDIOS,
% READING DEPT.
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 14. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Thursday, May 24, 1934

PARA. PLAN SHAPING UP

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•ONE of the most popular and sagacious moves that Paramount has made during recent years was the elevation of George Schaefer to the spot he now holds in that organization. They have given him a flock of titles (not even Schaefer knows how many), but with each title goes a certain amount of duty that will be exercised in a manner that will be of the greatest benefit to Paramount and the whole picture industry.

The worst that anyone can say about Schaefer is that he is "bull-headed." He is that to the nth degree. He gets an idea he believes in, and it takes a cyclone to move him from that stand and not even then unless he is convinced he is wrong. But even his severest critic (and he has plenty who are inspired by jealousy) can not point a finger at him and accuse him of trickery, dishonesty or in any way fashioning his moves or decisions to suit some political move. And it is for those reasons that George is at the top today and at that spot he will remain until he desires to step down or out.

•

Schaefer divides the affections of exhibitors throughout the country with Jimmie Grainger, because both of them operate the same way in handling theatre owners. They make tough deals, but stand up behind those deals, and any showman can bank on the word of Schaefer or Grainger. For that reason all that either has to do is to write a letter, send a wire or put in a phone call to do 90 percent of his selling.

We have known Schaefer since the early World Film days. He was one of the first exchange managers we ever worked for in the New York exchange of World and, even at that early period of his selling, he won the respect of the men working under him and, as a result, had the best paying office in the organization.

•

There are all kinds of whispers about who will be brought into Paramount when the reorganization sets in and there will be plenty brought in and quite a few let out, but it is our opinion, from reading between the lines and knowing George Schaefer, that nothing will happen without his

(Continued on Page 2)

Rockefellers Now In Show Business

New York.—The operating of the Radio City Music Hall is now directly in the hands of the Rockefellers. RKO must consult with them on bookings and everything else pertaining to the big amusement palace.

Moeller Likely to Direct 'Fountain'

"The Fountain" will probably be the first feature to stop Radio's current production gap, possibly getting started before the end of next week. Jean Hersholt was signed for it yesterday to support Ann Harding.

Philip Moeller, Theatre Guild director who arrived from the East Sunday, is likely to be given direction.

Mark Sandrich is supposed to start "The Gay Divorce" a week later, with

(Continued on Page 4)

Wesley Ruggles Signs For New Term at Para.

Paramount yesterday signed Wesley Ruggles to a new contract to start immediately on the completion of his present deal. It is a one year ticket, set by the Berg, Stebbins, Allenberg and Blum office, which has signed the director to a managerial deal.

Charlie Beahan Back

Changing his mind about waiting for Harry Cohn, Charles Beahan reached here by plane yesterday. Cohn is remaining in New York, to fly back over the week-end.

More Than Half Of Six Percent Bonds Deposited In Kuhn-Loeb Scheme Of Reorganization

New York.—The reorganization plan being worked out by Kuhn, Loeb and Company for Paramount-Publix is rounding into shape and a definite announcement about it is expected any day. Already more than one-half of the six per cent bonds of the Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation have been deposited, according to a report made to the New York Stock Exchange yesterday.

The report shows that, of the bonds originally listed, $5,944,000 remain, while $5,974,000 have been removed from listing and relisted under certificates of deposit. No mention is made of how many of the two issues of Paramount-Publix 5½ per cent bonds have been depisited.

Samuel Zirn, counsel for one group of Paramount creditors, renewed his

(Continued on Page 2)

Marshall and Carlisle For 'Enter Madame'

Paramount yesterday purchased "Enter Madame," an original by Gilda Varesi and Dolly Byrne, and will spot Herbert Marshall and Kitty Carlisle in the top spots. Jacques Duval and Gladys Lehman have been assigned to write the screen play.

U. A. Convention June 2

New York.—The date of the United Artists sales convention has been changed to June 2, at the Hotel Drake, Chicago. The line-up will be 20 features and the Disney shorts.

Royalty May View 'Are We Civilized?'

New York.—Edwin Carewe and his editorial associate, Dan Milner, expect to sail for England this week-end with a print of "Are We Civilized?"

It is understood that a command preview will be given before King George as a sequel to the private American showing given President Roosevelt, May 3. Mrs. Roosevelt, in her international peace talk on a national hook-up the following evening, stated that the President had previewed a picture for the first time, and, without identifying it, called it "one of the finest pictures against war" she had ever seen, coupling it with "Cavalcade."

Cortez, Not Lukas, In 'Hat, Coat and Glove'

Radio finally settled the problem yesterday of who will play the lead in "Hat, Coat and Glove." Ricardo Cortez will have the role, being loaned by Warner Brothers.

John Barrymore had the part first, and pulled out. Adolphe Menjou declined it, and Paul Lukas was understood to be set for it.

Wanger Sails Saturday

New York.—Walter Wanger sails for Europe on the Ile de France Saturday in search of material for his independent production venture.

Howard Hawks to 'U'

Howard Hawks has been signed by Universal to direct one picture and will report there as soon as the story is selected.

Brands to Honolulu

Harry and Mrs. Brand sail for Honolulu at the end of next week for a fortnight's vacation.

CASEY LEAVES, SPIKING LABOR BOARD'S WORK

Pat Casey, chairman of the Producers Committee and chairman of the NRA Studio Labor Committee, left for New York last night.

When it was learned yesterday that he was leaving there were loud howls from labor men who pointed out that, by his departure, the Studio Labor Committee is once more placed in a spot where it cannot function, and the labor men are again left out on a limb as far as having their complaints attended to.

"It is just the old merry-go-round," exclaimed one labor man yesterday. "When Judge Lindsey started to take

(Continued on Page 4)

MGM Allows Option On Lupe Velez to Lapse

MGM omitting to call its option on Lupe Velez this week means that she is free for new alliances about June 20. She is now in Washington, one of her early stands in a six weeks personal tour.

Her last assignment was in "Laughing Boy" with Ramon Novarro.

Eddie Mannix East

E. J. Mannix, MGM executive, leaves by plane tonight for New York.

WILLIAM R. LIPMAN ADAPTATION "LITTLE MISS MARKER"
(Management: DESHON-NAYLOR) (Screenplay and Dialogue In Collaboration) (OPENS PARAMOUNT THEATRE TODAY)

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Joe Schenck gets back to town today. . . . and Kendall Glaenzer left for N. Y. last night. . . . Jean Muir is mad at the publicity boys for linking her name via print with so many fellers . . . there being nothing serious in her love-life, it seems. . . . The Ben Hecht script on "Viva Villa" is being published in book form in New York —first time that we know of. . . . Did you know that C. Aubrey Smith is seventy-one years old and still one swell cricketer? . . . The "Shim Sham Revue" in condensed form will probably go into the Pantages end of this month. . . . Davie Harris, back from a jaunt to Frisco. . . . Carole Lombard throwing a cocktail party for Mme. Frances Spingold this afternoon. . . . Eddie Lowe's house-guest, Desmond Gallagher, is a recitation specialist de luxe.

•

Bette Davis and husband are up in the High Sierras. . . . Gary Cooper has bought his bride a new Packard . . . and Norman Krasna is sporting a fancy Rolls-Royce—migod! the UPKEEP. . . The home (almost completed) of Adolphe Menjou and Veree Teasdale, will boast a fourteen hundred dollar refrigerator with a gold plaque, reading, "Donated by Jesse Lasky and Albert Kaufman"—Adolphe won the money from them at golf. . . . Mae West (laden down with false eyelashes), the Stephen Ameses, the Jack Haleys, B. P. Schulberg, Sylvia Sidney, Adolph Zukor, the Mervyn LeRoys enjoying the fights Tuesday night.

•

What famous French writer at a major studio took the "precaution" to bring two mistresses with him from Europe? And there's an angle to the whole thing that is even funnier than that! . . . Phillip Reed has bought a house at Malibu. . . . Gloria Swanson, Louella Parsons, Wm. E. Goodman Jr., Consul to Siam, Mrs. Walter Winchell, Hedda Hopper, Wally Beery, Lola Lane with Al Hall, Alice White, the Al Newmans, Nigel Bruce, Heather Angel, Bill Goetz, Mrs. Leslie Howard, Mollie Merrick, glimpsed at the Vendome yesterday. . . . Mae Sunday, house-hunting for Virginia Pine who will leave the hospital in a few days.

New York REVIEWS

"SADIE McKEE"

MGM prod.; director, Clarence Brown; writers, Vina Delmar, John Meehan; music and lyrics, Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed.

Capitol Theatre

Mirror: Joan Crawford gives two admirable performances in this handsome and highly entertaining film. She performs brilliantly as an actress and just as brilliantly as a sport in permitting Edward Arnold to steal her film. Arnold plays one of the finest character roles ever exhibited on the screen.

Post: Though it would be accurate to say that the plot is the heartiest kind of tripe, the same cannot be said of the picture, for the good reason that Edward Arnold's performance is a brilliant piece of redemption. It is not only one of the best drunk characterizations we have ever seen, but Mr. Arnold's presence together with that of Jean Dixon supply the only genuine acting contributions to the picture.

Sun: Another of those innately cheap stories which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer knows how to handle so expertly. Glazed, varnished, fitted up with smooth dialogue and direction, acted by such players as Joan Crawford, Franchot Tone and Gene Raymond, "Sadie McKee" is good box-office stuff. As drama it's pretty second rate.

Times: Clarence Brown's direction of this film is studied and in its way effective, but it scarcely improves the flow of the story. There are many static interludes, a great deal of talk, which is by no means as interesting as the producers evidently thought it to be. It is, in fact, an exasperating type of motion picture.

News: "Sadie McKee" is not a pretty picture, but it is a singularly truthful transcription of a novel to the screen. Clarence Brown has taken off his kid gloves for the Vina Delmar story and has given us a bare-knuckle, two-fisted screen version of it. The unpleasant, but nevertheless interesting group of characters emerges on the screen just as Miss Delmar created them.

Herald-Tribune: In a series of panels printed by Clarence Brown with bold sweeping strokes, the story of "Sadie McKee" comes to life on the screen as a fascinating study of one woman's life. That the film is, in its writing and treatment, a lurid canvas cannot be denied; nor is its melodrama typical, yet certain of the characters ring so true that the false ending may be discounted.

Journal: "Sadie McKee" was expertly tailored for its star, Joan Crawford. With a story by Vina Delmar that brings in a bit of "Bad Girl," a bit of "Dancing Lady" and an ending that gives the glamorous Miss Crawford every opportunity to be glamorous, the picture will undoubtedly delight Crawford fans.

World-Telegram: It is a quite standardized plot, but it is extremely well worked out and capitally played by its entire cast, so that it results in a thoroughly effective and entertaining melodrama. Miss Crawford plays Sadie quietly and forcefully, but the film belongs, by the sheer brilliance of his acting, to Mr. Arnold.

American: The production is skilfully aimed at the bull's eye of popular appeal and, with the svelte star heading a superb cast, the film is destined for wide approval. Despite the excellence of Miss Crawford, and notwithstanding the infectiousness of Gene Raymond's portrayal, first histrionic honors go lock, stock and barrel to that superb player, Edward Arnold. Clarence Brown's skilful direction is another asset.

Paul Muni Will Play Nijinski For Harris

New York.—Paul Muni has agreed to play the role of Nijinski, the famous dancer, in the piece to be produced by Sam H. Harris, provided the Melchior Lengyl play satisfies him.

Harris made arrangements to produce the play through Alexander Korda, who controls both the stage and screen rights.

Tannura Going Home

New York.—Phil Tannura, cameraman, sails tomorrow for England and the British Gaumont studios.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

sanction, nothing will be done without his approval. And that's as it should be, for Paramount or any other company never had a more loyal, yes, a more successful, worker than George Schaefer.

Una O'Connor Signed

David Selznick closed a deal with Jack Gardner, via cable from London yesterday, for Una O'Connor's appearance in "David Copperfield." Player is now in "Barretts of Wimpole Street."

FOR RENT
Beautifully Furnished
5 ROOM DUPLEX APT.
Corner Fountain and Harper.
Reasonable. No Agents
Phone HE-2737

Authors' League Hits At Richberg

New York.—Marc Connelly and Elmer Davis, president and vice-president of the Authors' League of America, yesterday issued a statement questioning several phases of Donald Richbergs reply to the Darrow Board. The statement quotes one phrase from the Richberg answer, which says: "The Code affords great relief from the monopolistic effect of the copyright law."

"The Authors' League," the statement says, "had not understood that the Motion Picture Code nor any other code deprives the author of a literary work of his monopoly right in it until he sells it to someone else. Do we understand that if a large enterprise buys a work from its author, it no longer has the exclusive right to produce it as a book, play or motion picture, and that that right is open to anybody who chooses to take it without paying for it We hope that this is not what Mr. Richberg means, but it is what his language seems to mean."

Para. Plans Shaping Up

(Continued from Page 1)

attack on the trustees yesterday, following the answer, filed by counsel for the trustees, that in his application for their removal he had proved neither disqualification nor improper election.

Replying to this, Zirn said that the Chase bank has secured virtual control of Paramount by having as two of the trustees "its direct representatives" in Fox and Loew's, two competing concerns. These two, Zirn says, are controlled by Chase and he questions the likelihood of these two trustees, who owe their livelihood to Chase, prosecuting the preference suit against the banks and prosecuting Chase for its alleged connivance and participation in preference deals.

12 Years EXPERIENCE

of Mr. Bo C. Roos, Manager of our personal property department, is offered to all our clients.

Beverly Management Corp.
332 California Bank Building
Beverly Hills

JUEL PARK TRADE MARK BEVERLY HILLS
Wilshire Blvd. at Beverly Drive
Lovely Intimate Wear
Lovely Ladies
Love to Wear
Exclusive Lingerie
and Hosiery

'MAN WITH TWO FACES' GOOD; RADIO 'CAVALIERS' GREAT FUN

Plenty of Honors For All Concerned

"THE MAN WITH TWO FACES"
(Warners)

Direction .....Archie Mayo
From play by Alexander Woollcott and George S. Kaufman Screen Play.....Tom Reed and Nevin Busch
Photography .....Tony Gaudio
Cast: Edward G. Robinson, Mary Astor, Ricardo Cortez, Mae Clarke, Louis Calhern, Arthur Byron, David Landau, John Eldredge, Emily Fitzroy, Henry O'Neil, Margaret Dale.

We don't know what changes or treatment the Kaufman-Woollcott play, "Dark Tower," may or may not have undergone in its transference to the screen, but we are fully aware that the play has emerged as more than satisfactory picture entertainment. It's a first-rate mystery yarn WITHOUT a mystery so far as the audience is concerned, for the only ones who are the least bit baffled by the crime which is committed are a couple of detectives. But the yarn holds interest from start to finish nevertheless, partly because the characters are so well drawn and played, and partly because what the film lacks in acute suspense it makes up in charm, for the whole thing has been handled in a comedy vein.

Acting honors are sahred by all who take part in "The Man With Two Faces," the meatiest role, of course, being Edward Robinson's, and he plays expertly. However, a slimier, more obnoxious heavy has never been seen than that which Louis Calhern contributes to this opus—which is paying him a compliment—at least, that's the way we mean it.

Mary Astor does a grand job as the young actress, whose career and life are almost ruined by the hypnotic spell under which she is held by Calhern, her good-for-nothing husband. Robinson, as her actor-brother, assumes another identity in real life, kills the blackguard and gets away with it very cleverly, though his chances for evading the law are almost spoiled at the last minute by a dick who is even cleverer than he. It's a pleasure to see Ricardo Cortez in a sympathetic role for a change, and he makes an attractive love interest for the distracted Miss Astor. Bouquets must be tossed to Mae Clarke, in a comedy role, and to Margaret Dale, a beautiful and capable elderly lady. David Landau cops one of the best scenes in the picture at the finish, and he well deserved it. Emily Fitzroy, Arthur Byron and John Eldridge are O.K. in brief parts.

Archie Mayo's direction and the screen play of Tom Reed and Nevin Busch combine to make "Man With Two Faces" better than average film fare. Robinson fans will get a kick out of his impersonation of a Frenchman, and with the other star names and subject matter, it should please 'em anywhere.

Super-Chiseling

A director worked out a new gag this week for saving the studio $25. He had an extra bend over a fallen man, and, while the extra's back was to the camera, the director said: "I know that man." Then the extra turned around facing the camera. On the screen the extra appears to have done the speaking.

Reisner-Cummings Teamed on Features

MGM has teamed Charles F. Reisner and Jack Cummings as a new feature comedy producing unit to produce four feature comedies on the coming program. The first will go into work as soon as Reisner completes his directing assignment on "Student Tour," which starts next Monday.

Marty Brooks, who was Cummings' assistant, has been promoted to charge of the shorts department under Harry Rapf. Sam Baerwitz, a short subject producer, has resigned and left for New York.

Gordon and Revel Back; Two Assignments Set

Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, Paramount song writers, returned from a three-week vacation in New York yesterday and were handed two assignments.

They will do the numbers for "Here's My Heart," the Bing Crosby-Claudette Colbert picture, and for "College Rhythm," the musical to feature Lanny Ross, Joe Penner and other names.

Col. to Have Elevators In New Studio Buildig

Columbia's new electrical building on Beachwood Drive, first unit in the studio's $350,000 building program, is nearly completed.

Next unit to be started will be writers-wardrobe-makeup-still building, which will introduce elevators to Hollywood as a means of intra-studio communication.

Clifton Short Done

Elmer Clifton has finished the third of a novelty travel series, presenting American rodeo performers in exotic locales. Duncan Renaldo and Harry Myers worked in the latest one, which had India for setting. Clifton works at Prudential studio.

Gladys George Here

Gladys George arrived by train yesterday from New York to start her term deal with MGM. Her most recent stage vehicles were "Milky Way" and "Queer People."

Vidor Rushing 'Bread'

King Vidor has a synchronizing and editing staff of 35 spread over a 24-hour schedule to get "Our Daily Bread" ready for its United Artists release.

Director Scores With Bert and Bob

"COCKEYED CAVALIERS"
(RKO-Radio)

Direction .....Mark Sandrich
Authors: Edward Kaufman and Ben Holmes.
Additional Dialogue: Grant Garratt and Ralph Spence.
Photography: David Abel and Vern Walker.
Art Direction: Van Nest Polglase and Carroll Clark.
Music by Will Jason and Val Burton
Cast: Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Thelma Todd, Dorothy Lee, Noah Beery, Robert Greig, Henry Sedley.

With not much originality, but with a good deal of vim, vigor and spirit, Wheeler and Woolsey go back to the Medieval Ages for the setting for their new comedy, "Cockeyed Cavaliers."

Because of the elbow room allowed by the setting, the piece is featured by more comedy than usual and fewer puns, and one or two individual sequences alone are worth the price of admission.

We first see the comedians riding the rods of a coach and four. Woolsey has been having quite a lot of trouble because Wheeler is a kleptomaniac, and so, when first the four horses disappear and then the coach, Woolsey knows just where to look for them. However, their return helps none at all, and the two friends find themselves in the pillory. They are aided to escape by Dorothy Lee, who, dressed as a boy, is trying to escape the persistent attentions of the fat, old Duke.

By a fluke, they are mistaken for the King's physician and his entourage, and they live in great style at the Duke's castle, until a wild boar hunt and the subsequent discovery of their real identities brings everything to an amusing climax.

Wheeler and Woolsey are exceptionally ridiculous in the costumes of that time. Dorothy Lee and Thelma Todd, unfortunately, have little to do. Noah Beery is grand as Miss Todd's jealous spouse, and Robert Greig and Henry Sedley both add many laughs to the film.

The story, by Edward Kaufmann and Ben Holmes, is highlighted by some really hilarious sequences. The rest is the usual Wheeler and Woolsey stuff. Art direction, by Van Nest Polglase and Carroll Clark, and photography, by David Abel and Vern Walker, are both outstanding. Will Jason and Val Burton wrote the music, and one song is a knockout, "And the Big Bad Wolf Was Dead." The picture owes most, however, to the director, Mark Sandrich, whose sense of the ridiculous is only excelled by his control. There is a Great Dane in this film which is a joy to watch.

If your audiences like the Wheeler-Woolsey brand of comedy, this is one of the best.

Para. Drops 'Ticket'

"One Way Ticket," which was to have been made by B. P. Schulberg for Paramount with Sylvia Sidney in the lead, has been definitely shelved.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

A visiting English stage actor recently voiced a very sage observation on the reason for the various attitudes assumed in public by screen actors and actresses, as against the usually conservative actions of a stage star when out for an evening among the common people. He said that actually a screen star has no public. He may have a million fans, but to the fans he is only a picture and to him the fans are just so many thousands of letters his press agent tells him about. Hence, when he gets out in public, he usually puts on an act. Whereas, a stage player is constantly acting before a public and, with each performance of a play, that public's reaction demands a slightly different brand of acting, so that when the stage player appears in public, it's more or less relaxation for him. He's heard his applause for the evening and can be himself.

•

After all, a screen star is every bit as public-conscious as the public is star-conscious, and unconsciously most of the screen stars try to play the leading role, no matter where they may be. That's why so often, when screen stars marry, whenever they are seen together in public there is much billing and cooing, and external evidence of great domestic bliss as only two screen stars could play it. And usually the break-up is accomplished with the same fine regard for how it registers. Even at the fights out here, it is evident that most of the stars who attend, in some way during the course of the evening, manage to draw attention to themselves. They are out in public—mostly their public whom they have never seen, whom they have never personally played to, and it's hard to resist seeing how effective they can make their presence.

And, of course, practically everything they do is written off to good publicity and showmanship as understood by those people trying to bring screen shadows to life for the benefit of an avid public, that craves personal contact as much as screen stars crave an audience.

•

Good heavens, they're not shooting two versions of the "Merry Widow" —they're practically shooting four of them all at once. They all come under the heading of English and French, but for distribution in England all references to the king or royal family must be eliminated, and for Belgian consumption the same restrictions apply so that it is necessary to make four takes of one scene whenever royalty rears its head. . . . Heh, heh, they're calling the Sten picture, "Resurrection," "Nana Strikes Back."

Mrs. Kalmus Injured

Mrs. Natalie Kalmus, wife of Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, head of Technicolor, is at St. Vincent's Hospital, suffering from cuts and bruises received in an automobile accident at Cole and Willoughby avenues.

Reviewing the FAN MAGS

MODERN SCREEN
132 pages and cover
COVER DISPLAY.....Norma Shearer (MGM)

Publicity Space (Approximate)

MGM	1304 sq. inches
Paramount	860 sq. inches
Fox	516 sq. inches
Warners	383 sq. inches
Universal	182 sq. inches
Columbia	110 sq. inches
United Artists	90 sq. inches
Radio	60 sq. inches
Twentieth Century	35 sq. inches

Walter Ramsey begins, in the June Modern Screen, the best life story ever written on Spencer Tracy, and one of the cleverest and most revealing life stories ever written about anybody.

S. R. Mook has a lot of fun in "Bing Means to Quit"; Gladys Hall has "Risking All," a story of how movie-struck girls and boys go about attracting attention; Dena Reed has an extraordinary, but rather thin story, "Spies Infest Hollywood"; Gertrude Hill writes the 'steenth yarn on Baby LeRoy, "Public Enemy No. 1"; Ramon Romero reviews the status of those who have "No Mothers to Guide Them"; John Lodge breaks down and offers "Let Me Tell You About Marlene Dietrich"; Maude Lathem writes well in "Will Gloria (Swanson) Come Back Again?" and Katherine Albert does right by "Will Rogers—Father and Husband."

Regina Cannon drags up the old question of Miss Brian's marital hesitation in "What's the Matter with Mary?"; Cyril Vandour writes with apparent authority on the old topic, "The Man Garbo Loves"; Jack Jamison tells about Jean Muir in "She Knew What She Wanted"; Dorothy Manners interviews Miss Francis in "Kay Has Fooled Us All"; and also Jean Harlow in "Stop Gossiping About Me"; Carter Bruce quotes Helen Mack in "I Want to Be Bad"; Gladys Hall goes sentimental in "With a Song in His Heart" (Otto Kruger); and Walter Ramsey talks with Lee Tracy about Mexico and fans in "Thank You, My Friends."

The mag has lots of meat in it, served well.

MOVIE CLASSIC
90 pages and cover
COVER DISPLAY.....Dolores Del Rio (Warners)

Publicity Space (Approximate)

Paramount	849 sq. inches
Warners	464 sq. inches
MGM	425 sq. inches
Fox	335 sq. inches
Universal	182 sq. inches
United Artists	180 sq. inches
Radio	120 sq. inches
Chaplin	70 sq. inches
Columbia	55 sq. inches

Movie Classic does something interesting this month. It features short, one-page stories, extremely well written and carrying a miximum of either news or interest.

They are "Chaplin's Secret Out—Wed at Sea Last June," by Boris Nicholai; Dortothea Wieck Denies Rumors of Nazi Ties, But Faces Boycott," by Elisabeth Goldbeck; "Sally Eilers Helps Husband in Balm Suit, But He Loses," by Joan Standish; and "Coopers, Weissmullers and Cabots Form Hollywood's Strangest Sextet," by Esther Mead.

Another interesting departure from the usual fan mag routine is the Jack Grant yarn, "His Roles Changed Her Life," a true Hollywood short, short story. It is exceptionally well handled.

Winifred Aydelotte reviews the royalty situation in "Hollywood Makes Over the Queens of History"; Dorothy Donnell has a grand story, "Bing Crosby Talks About Songs"; Franc Dillon has "The Brents' Break-up Gives George a Break"; Sonia Lee offers "George Raft's Own Story of His Marriage"; and Dorothy Manners tells about Fay Wray in "The Girl Who Got Ahead By Not 'Going Hollywood'."

Richard English has an interesting angle in "Why Foreign Stars Leave Their Husbands at Home"; Mark Larkin is fascinating in "Why Von Sternberg Makes Films That Are Different"; Elza Schallert has a good, rounded story in "Will Ronald Colman Marry Again?"; Mark Dowling writes "Esther Ralston Stages a Comeback," and Dorothy Calhoun brings up the perennial question, "Is Garbo Losing Her Popularity?"

SILVER SCREEN
82 pages and cover
COVER DISPLAY.....Jean Harlow (MGM)

Publicity Space (Approximate)

Paramount	528 sq. inches
Warners	515 sq. inches
MGM	427 sq. inches
Fox	278 sq. inches
Universal	244 sq. inches
Columbia	229 sq. inches
Radio	153 sq. inches
Goldwyn	102 sq. inches
Twentieth Century	90 sq. inches
Lloyd	86 sq. inches

Two stories bring a lot of laughs to the June Silver Screen. They are "Burning Their Emotions at Both Ends," by Elizabeth Wilson, and "Can She Repeat?" (Margaret Sullavan), by Patricia Keats.

Harriet Parsons writes dramatically in "Magic!" all about Dolores Del Rio's success formula; Lenore Samuels writes about Walter Huston in "A Giant on Broadway"; Muriel Babcock contributes another Anna Sten yarn, "The Victory for Beauty"; Maude Cheatham has a nice, human story called, simply, "Raft"; Margaret Ettinger tells of Ann Sothern's struggles in "It's Worth It"; Helen Louise Walker describes some newcomers in "New Girls to Satisfy Hollywood's Insatiable Demand"; and James M. Fidler must feel kinda funny about his Jean Harlow yarn, "Whispering Tongues."

Appel on MGM Dances

Arthur Appel has been signed by MGM to stage the dance numbers in "100% Pure," which Jack Conway is directing. Upon its completion, Appel will co-diect the dance sequences on "Student Tour," with Chester Hale.

Meeting Planned to Ratify Basic Pact

From sources close to the situation it was revealed yesterday that the two-year extension of the Basic Agreement between the major studios and several International unions has not been ratified by the studios, and will be taken up early next month at a special meeting between producers and union heads in New York.

The extension, according to the information, was a deal handled solely by Pat Casey. The unions involved were the IBEW, the Musicians, Carpenters and Joiners, and Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers. The extension was granted last March after conferences in Hollywood between Casey and union heads.

Labor Board Spiked

(Continued from Page 1)

over the complaints, Rosenblatt appointed a new labor committee, but only named Pat Casey and Ed Smith. For weeks that committee has been of no use, for it could not function with only two men appointed.

"And now just as Rosenblatt completes the committee by the appointment of W. Jefferson Davis as the impartial member, what happens? Pat Casey, the chairman, ducks to New York for an indefinite stay, and goes before Davis gets back to Los Angeles for even an organization meeting. With Casey, representing the studios, away there can be no action, for it would be lopsided."

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Herbert Vigran for "Happy Landings," Monogram.

Ruth Clifford for Paramount's "Ladies First."

O. P. Heggie to Sol Lesser's "Peck's Bad Boy."

Dewey Robinson for two at MGM, "Student Tour" and "Merry Widow."

William Von Brinken to MGM's "Stamboul Quest."

C. Aubrey Smith for "Resurrection" at Goldwyn's by Small-Landau.

Mischa Auer to "Stamboul Quest," MGM, by Beyer-MacArthur.

Addison Richards for "British Agent," Warners, through Al Kingston.

John Eldridge and Phillip Reed by Warners for "Lost Lady."

Roland Young, Mary Astor and Mary Kornman by Radio for "By Your Leave."

Moeller on 'Fountain'

(Continued from Page 1)

Ginger Rogers, Fred Astaire and Edward Everett Horton in leading parts.

Con Conrad has written three song numbers for this.

Ahead of these two pictures on the official Radio schedule are listed "Wednesday's Child" and "Romance in Manhattan," but no directors or cast assignments have been made on either. Arthur Caesar is adapting "Romance."

EXPERIENCE

Satin Smooth

● YEARS of experience are back of Satin Smooth Make-Up . . . the experience responsible for success after success; the experience responsible for practically every great contribution to make-up art.

● THE result of this experience has made Satin Smooth a smoother, faster make-up, easier to apply and easier to remove . . . a make-up of delicate tones that blend easily, giving perfect photographic control.

MAX FACTOR'S MAKE-UP STUDIOS

Warners Postpone Jolson Pic to Fall

Warners, with one musical nearing completion and "Flirtation Walk" and "Sweet Adeline" in Summer spots on the schedule, is putting Al Jolson's "Go Into Your Dance" over to a probable October start.

Jolson goes to New York next week to look over the shows. His broken finger is not recovering satisfactorily and has to go back in splints. Earl Baldwin is doing the screen play for the next Jolson piece, which is based on Bradford Ropes' novel.

Rogers and Astaire For 'Radio City Revels'

Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire are in mind for "Radio City Revels," original story for which is being written by Dorothy Yost for H. N. Swanson's Radio production.

The story of boy and girl romance, with the Rockefeller Foundation development for background, is aimed towards a mid-July starting date.

Griffith-Jackson Team

Horace Jackson and Edward Griffith are collaborating on the screen play of "An Imperfect Gentleman," their own original, at MGM. Griffith will direct and Irving Thalberg produces.

Marion on 'Riffraff'

Irving Thalberg has assigned Frances Marion to adapt her own original, "Riffraff," at MGM. The studio has no definite production plans on it as yet.

Correction

Owing to misinformation received from the Washington correspondent, this publication on Tuesday printed an incorrect version of the outcome of the RCA-DeForest patent suit in the U. S. Supreme Court. The decision of the court was in favor of RCA.

Lucile Watson May Do 'No More Ladies'

MGM yesterday took up its option on the New York stage play by A. E. Thomas, "No More Ladies," and will probably use it as a vehicle for Lucile Watson, recently signed to a term deal because of her work in it opposite Melvyn Douglas. The play is now in its fifth month at the Morosco in New York.

Monte Blue Goes to MGM For First Time in 6 Years

MGM yesterday signed Monte Blue for the one serious role that runs throughout "Student Tour," the part of Jeff, the college coach. Deal was negotiated by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall and is the player's first on the lot since "White Shadows of the South Seas" in 1928.

Hawks and Volck Ill

Both partners in the Hawks-Volck office gave in to illness yesterday, William Hawks weathering the day out before going home last night to fight off a heavy cold. Volck dropped out the night before with an attack of nervous indigestion.

Marshall Again For Shearer Lead

If he can work out his schedule, Herbert Marshall will play the lead opposite Norma Shearer in "Marie Antoinette" at MGM.

He is now in "The Green Hat," next goes into "The Painted Veil," opposite Greta Garbo, then to "Enter Madame" at Paramount. He must be in New York September 10 to start rehearsals on a play which Gilbert Miller is producing.

Radio Completes Its Current Shorts Today

Lloyd Corrigan expects to turn in the final Technicolor today on "La Cucarocha," the Spanish musical short made by Whitney Productions for Radio.

The second of the Edgar Kennedy series was turned in Tuesday night by Alf Goulding, and absence of further starting dates on Lee Marcus' schedule leaves the Radio lot short-less as well as feature-less for a few days.

'Letter' Started

Robert Vignola puts "The Scarlet Letter" into production at Darmour studio Wednesday. Colleen Moore, Hardie Albright and Henry B. Walthall in the principal parts.

Halperins East

Edward and Victor Halperin are planning another production venture and leave shortly for New York where they will complete their plans.

OPEN FORUM

The Hollywood Reporter:

It is ungratful quibbling after your grand review of "Du Barry"—but apropos of the historical authenticity: even the recognized authorities differ widely as to the behind-the-scenes incidents of the period, but the political aspects, as presented, are concurred in by all of them. Further, while it is hard to believe that the tone of the court was as flip and trivial as shown—that very tone is the unanimously stressed viewpoint of biographers. The sleigh-riding episode was frankly transplanted from the antics of a previous incumbent—and I'll SHENK you the nightgown business.

But while we are being exact, may I point out that you erred slightly in designating our Richelieu "the great Cardinal"? The great Cardinal had been dead over a hundred years and would have hung his dissolute grandnephew—had he known him.

The only other possible point of dispute is Marie Antoinette's foreknowledge of Du Barry. Zweig says no—but there are ten who say yes—and it always struck this old scholar as dubious that the most talked-of scandal of Europe never reached the gossip-loving ears of Marie.

All in all, we felt your "historical" slur rather keenly over here, as it is well known that to the last man we would lay down our lives for the authenticity of our epics.

EDWARD CHODOROV.

WILLIS GOLDBECK

Dialogue, Adaptation, Continuity—

"Murder On The Blackboard"

Hollywood Reporter . . .
"Good Exciting Mystery"

Variety . . .
"Sure Fire For All Classes in All Houses"

In preparation: "WEDNESDAY'S CHILD"

For

RKO-RADIO

WE'RE NOT BRAGGING

WE'RE JUST HAPPY

why?

5 Song Hits

in

Paramount's "WE'RE NOT DRESSING"

Starring Bing Crosby

DIRECTED BY NORMAN TAUROG

1—Love Thy Neighbor

2—May I?

(She Walks Like You—She Talks Like You)

3—She Reminds Me Of You

4—Goodnight, Lovely Little Lady

5—Once In A Blue Moon

WE WRITE FOR

Paramount Pictures

THANKFULLY

MACK GORDON

AND

HARRY REVEL

% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 15. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Friday, May 25, 1934

WARNERS BATTLE LOEW'S

TRADEVIEWS
by FRANK POPE

•EVERY day the mail brings us a lot of letters from exhibitors all over the country and most of the letters contain squawks about something or other. The majority of them are on the quality of the pictures the exhibs are forced to play. Recently the squawks have been getting longer and louder, seemingly because the end-of-the-season product has contained an unusual number of cats and dogs.

The principal worry of our correspondents seems to be that this below-average screen fare will continue through the Summer when it is hard enough to drag customers in, even with good pictures.

•

"The trouble is," writes one house owner, "that the majority of the production executives don't know their business. They seem to have no minds of their own, no conception of what is needed to make a box-office draw. Added to that, most of them believe they are infallible and know what the public wants better than that public does. So we get the same bunk, month after month.

"There apparently isn't an ounce of originality in the production ranks. About all they seem to be able to do is to copy one another, and so we get those terrible cycles of films on the same subject, each one being a little worse than its predecessors. The only difference is in titles and casts.

"The public is too wise to be fooled by this sort of stuff nowadays and shows it by cheerfully staying away from the theatres. When we do get a picture that is different, that has something out of the ordinary to recommend it, we have no trouble.

"But when we get picture after picture which not only have little or no entertainment value, but also are liable to spring stuff on us that offends our best patrons—and we have been and are getting plenty of that smut—the receipts drop off to the vanishing point and we house managers get bawled out besides.

"We have kicked individually and in groups, but it does no good. We still get the same old tripe, no matter what promises are made. The Reporter has the right idea. There is just one thing that can remedy present conditions in the theatres and that is—BETTER PICTURES.

Broadway Holds Over 'Marker' and 'McKee'

New York.—"Little Miss Marker" is doing such good business at the Paramount that it is being held over for a second week, setting back the engagement of "Many Happy Returns." The same is true of "Sadie McKee" at the Capitol, which holds "Viva Villa" back a week.

Meighan Returns For 'Peck's Bad Boy'

Thomas Meighan, at a phone in Great Neck, L. I., and Sol Lesser, in Los Angeles, consummated a long distance contract yesterday that brings Meighan to the coast to play Bill Peck in "Peck's Bad Boy." It is Meighan's first picture work since he worked in "Cheaters at Play" for Fox, a February, 1932, release. Production will start about June 9 at the Pathe studio.

"Dude Ranger," Zane Grey story, will be George O'Brien's first of the six Lesser-Zanft productions at Fox.

Wallace to Scotland On Fox Location Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallace leave here Monday for New York and then take the boat to Scotland.

Wallace will shoot a lot of background shots for the Fox production of "Marigold," which will be placed in work on his return here in late July.

Harold Young Director

London.—Harold Young, supervising editor for Alexander Korda, has been assigned to direct "February 29th" for Warners.

Court Rejects Bid For Fox Met. Chain Which Would Make Them Tops In N. Y. Theatres

New York.—In spite of the fact that Warner Brothers' bid of $3,500,000 for the Fox Metropolitan Playhouses chain was refused, Warners are still keeping up their battle with Loew's for control of the New York theatre situation.

The refusal of their bid for the chain came from the courts, which figured it entirely too low, as it would give the Fox Met. bondholders only 25 cents on the dollar. Warners have now engaged Samuel Untermyer to handle further negotiations for the chain and he will make another attempt to induce the bondholders to accep the Warner bid.

The Warners believe they will have no trouble with Washington and the anti-trust regulations if they can acquire the chain because of the influen-

(Continued on Page 2)

Warner Baxter Signed For Capra Film at Col.

Warner Baxter was signed yesterday through the Schulberg, Feldman and Gurney office, for the leading role in "Broadway Bill," which Frank Capra will produce for Columbia. There was some difficulty in getting the consent of Fox to the loan, but the deal finally went through.

It is probable that Lynn Overman will also be a member of the cast.

Cohn-Schenck Flying

New York.—Harry Cohn and Joseph M. Schenck left for Hollywood last night by plane.

Hays Office Steps On Seven Pictures

New York.—Rigid orders for drastic cuts in at least seven pictures have been sent out by the advertising and censorship committee of the Hays office. Among the pictures said to be affected are Paramount's "It Ain't No Sin," starring Mae West; Warner Brothers' "Du Barry" and "Dr. Monica," and MGM's "The Postman Always Rings Twice."

It is understood that the required cuts have been or are being made, but a warning has gone to Paramount, according to the report, that, if there is a single offensive line or situation in the West picture, it will be banned in its entirety.

MGM Gives New Terms To Rivkin and Wolfson

Tearing up the old ticket before its expiration, MGM yesterday handed Allen Rivkin and P. J. Wolfson a new 52-week contract.

They are currently working on "Dolly," which Gregory La Cava will direct. This puts the damper on the team's deals in Russia and England.

Austin Keough East

Austin Keough, legal counsel for both the production and distribution branches of Paramount, left last night by train on the return trip to New York. He spent two weeks here going over a large number of company matters involving production and policy.

Vallee to Warners

New York.—Warners are today closing a term deal with Rudy Vallee for one picture a year. It is understood the first will be made in August, with no definite story set as yet.

Murphy For MGM

MGM yesterday signed Dudley Murphy to a term ticket to direct. Deal was negotiated by Hawks-Volck.

PRODUCERS WILL TRY TO CHECK CENSOR DANGER

A meeting of the heads of the major producing companies was held yesterday to discuss ways and means to check the campaign in favor of censorship which is growing rapidly in all parts of the country. This movement has attained a size and an impetus which make it alarming to the industry.

Professional reformers and petty politicians see a chance for publciity or cash in it and are swinging into line with the churches, the women's or-

(Continued on Page 3)

Gollomb to MGM For 'Casino Murder Case'

Joseph Gollomb was signed by MGM yesterday to write the screen play for "The Casino Murder Case," the Van Dine story which will have William Powell doing his Philo Vance again.

New Term For Steiner

Max Steiner, Radio music department chief, was signed yesterday to a new straight two-year contract by the company.

AL HALL Directed "LITTLE MISS MARKER" Paramount Theatre NOW

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher
FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

Don't be surprised if a "love match" that was so sentimental as to be positively sloppy all during the engagement and knot-tying stage, goes on the rocks any minute. If there is any devotion, it's all on the wife's side—and the husband never deserved any particle of it anyway. She now seems to realize what a heel he is and the fact that he only gets through doors because of her, with the result that she is sipping cocktails that she never sipped before, and it looks like curtains.

•

In discussing the Chinese episode in which he and some of his staff were supposedly arrested for photographing a Chinese funeral, George Hill, just back from China, denies all! He explains that, so far as the picture company was concerned, all was peace and good will. BUT when the Chinese government found out how much the undertaker was charging the movie lads to photograph the funeral—why, they arrested the undertaker!

•

The printed statement in one of the dailies yesterday that "Gertrude Lawrence is only three years older than Doug Fairbanks, Jr." threw us (and a lot of other people) into a gale of hysterics. Miss L., y'know, has a daughter in the young lady stage, and young Fairbanks really is young—in case you've forgotten—just twenty-four! Maybe the "statement" was anent Gertie's daughter—or maybe they meant Gertie is only three years older than Bert Taylor. Anyway—we give up!

•

Carole Lombard's chic little bar was jammed to the rafters yesterday at cocktail time. Russ Columbo, Rosie Dolly and Irving Netcher, T. Netcher (devastating in yellow boutonniere), Mme. Frances, guest of honor, Lloyd Pantages, Whitney de Rham, Alan Tomblin, Gloria Foy, Walter Lang and, of course, "Fieldsie"—made merry. A whole gang of Billy Haines' friends will be at the Pasadena station this afternoon to meet him—and most of them will be in Grecian, Venetian and Egyptian costumes.

New York REVIEWS

"STINGAREE"
RKO-Radio prod.; director, William A. Wellman; writers, E. W. Hornung, Lynn Riggs, Leonard Spigelgass.
Music Hall

Mirror: It is a thin picture, but a charming one, handsomely staged and delightfully played by an interesting company. Miss Dunne uses her fine voice, brilliantly singing some ambitious numbers in the plausible role of an opera star.

Post: It is a preposterous tale, with Mr. Dix doing his best to prevent it from being even faintly credible. Miss Dunne's share in the story is more believable, since her activities are confined largely to pleasant vocalizing.

Sun: "Stingaree," although presented as a drama, is really an operetta with only occasional songs. The plot at least is straight operetta stuff of the old-fashioned kind. Irene Dunne and her voice save the day. She has several songs to render and does them with real charm. "Stingaree" falls flat because of its poor handling.

Times: The picture is a pleasant narration of a highly improbable fable. Miss Dunne gives a charming performance and she sings several songs very agreeably. Mr. Dix does quite well as Stingaree.

News: E. W. Hornung's picaresque tale about an Australian bandit has been used as the basis for the movie "Stingaree." Under the able direction of William Wellman, a romantic and glamorous moving picture has been made of one of the outlaw's most gallant gestures.

Herald-Tribune: It is an elegant horse opera, punctuated with episodes in a concert diva's career. Its mood of improbable romance is its chief charm. Rich in backgrounds, pleasantly acted, and graced with some delightful songs, it proves a moderately diverting entertainment.

Journal: It's an amiably romantic melodrama of another era. Miss Dunne sings pleasingly, and the old-fashioned costumes are becoming to her. Mary Boland gives one of her characteristic comedy performances.

World-Telegram: A fair-to-middling blend of romance and music which may be attended without much harm, since the chief casualty that results is a trifling loss of time. Taken all in all, the best that can be said of "Stingaree" is that it is just fair screen entertainment.

American: Without Irene Dunne, we fear that this successful enterprise would have emerged a rather witless, disjointed piece of business, seldom transcending mediocrity. Both the dialogue and action of the piece are repetitions and not too inspired.

Marian Marsh and Her Brother Return Monday

With his name changed to Anthony Marsh to match his sister's, Eddie Morgan and Marian Marsh will return to Hollywood Monday after playing brother and sister in "Prodigal," Universal production just completed in Germany under Paul Kohner's supervision. Romantic lead for Miss Marsh was Louis Trenker.

On the strength of his German work, a spot at Universal City is being negotiated for the new Marsh by Ivan Kahn.

7 Pounds, 11 Ounces Added to the Baldwins

Earl Baldwin, Warner writer, spent yesterday telling friends about the new member of his family, Miss Phyllis Ella Baldwin, who weighed in at seven pounds, eleven ounces, the night before at St. Vincent's Hospital. Her mother is the former Mildred Lamb, dancer.

Clean-up Week at 'U'

Directors' Row at Universal was roped off at each end yesterday, and furniture was piled in the street for a general housecleaning. Redecorations in William Wyler's bungalow showed up the rest of the row, and other directors demanded a brighten-up campaign.

Neville at MGM

Jack Neville is shaping up a crime mystery original for Ned Marin at MGM.

Suit Brought Over Merriwell Yarns

New York.—Gilbert Patten, who, under the pen name of Burt L. Standish, wrote the Frank Merriwell stories, yesterday filed suit in the Federal court against Superior Talking Pictures for $250,000 damages.

Superior recently advertised the distribution of a series of twelve "Frank Merriwell" pictures, featuring Flash, the "talking horse," and Captain, the "King of Dogs."

Violet Kemble Cooper Signed For 'Fountain'

Violet Kemble Cooper was signed, through Edington and Vincent, in New York yesterday by Radio for an important role in the Ann Harding picture, "The Fountain." The player closes a Summer stock season at Ann Arbor, Mich., July 4, for the trip to Hollywood.

Warners Battle Loew's

(Continued from Page 1)

tial connections that they have in the Capital.

Fox Metropolitan bonds dropped two and one-half points yesterday, and there is a suspicion among the bondholders that the Warners are trying to break the price, which is now around $33.

Meanwhile Loew's, which is still tops in the New York territory, is saying nothing, but insiders are sure that company has something up its sleeve which it will pull if Warners get the Fox Met. chain.

London's Smartest Address—
GROSVENOR HOUSE
PARK LANE . . .

is also London's most modern hotel. An apartment at Grosvenor House provides an actual "home from home," replete with every modern aid to greater comfort.

The location of Grosvenor House is a happy blend of convenience and charm; in and around the hotel London's social life moves; near by are the best shops and the theatres; just across the way is London's great garden, Hyde Park.

Life is amusing, easy and pleasant at

Grosvenor House, London

Cable Address for Reservations: GROVHOWS, AUDLEY, LONDON

"KISS AND MAKE UP" AMUSING BURLESQUE ON BEAUTY GAME

Fine Acting, Writing, In Clever Comedy

"KISS AND MAKE UP"
(Paramount)

Direction.....Harlan Thompson, Jean Negulesco
Original .....Stephen Bekeffi
Adaptation .....Jane Hinton
Screen Play.....Harlan Thompson, George Marion Jr.
Music and Lyrics.....Ralph Rainger, Leo Robin
Photography .....Leon Shamroy
Cast: Cary Grant, Genevieve Tobin, Helen Mack, Edward Everett Horton, Lucien Littlefield, Mona Maris, Rafael Storm, Madame Bonita, Doris Lloyd, Milton Wallace, Toby Wing, Rita Gould, Katherine Williams, Lucile Lund, Judith Allen, Jean Gale, Hazel Hayes, Lu Ann Meredith, Dorothy Drake, Helene Cohan, Jean Carmen, Gi Gi Parrish, Ann Hovey, Betty Bryson, Jacqueline Wells, Dorothy Christy, Sam Ashe, Helena Phillips, Henry Armetta, Chick Collins, John Sinclair, George Andre Beranger.

"Kiss and Make Up" will be a slick picture after some drastic cutting has been done. The first half is incredibly slow, but it is over-length and can easily be shortened and speeded up.

The second half, however, makes up for everything, being a riot of love and comedy which will send any audience into spasms.

The story burlesques woman's eternal search for beauty. Cary Grant gives an exceptionally fine performance as a health and beauty doctor who makes all women beautiful. His masterpiece is Genevieve Tobin and it has taken him a year to do the job. In that time he has succeeded in arousing the jealousy of her husband, Edward Everett Horton. He divorces Tobin, much to her delight, and she promptly ensnares Grant into marriage. They go to the Riviera for their wedding trip, but their honeymoon is ruined by Tobin's abundance of both cold nature and cold cream.

Accompanying them on the trip is Helen Mack, Grant's secretary who, of course, is in love with him. She meets Horton, who makes love to her synthetically. His curly hair catches her fancy and she encourages him. Then the Grant-Tobin marriage suddenly goes on the rocks, Grant realizes that he loves Mack, so he gives up the beauty parlor, gets an old college pal to be his partner in medical research and starts to find Mack. Meanwhile Tobin, deserted, besmears her face with more cold cream and starts her campaign for a third husband.

At this point the riot starts. Horton and Mack are in a taxi, with Grant and his friend, Dr. Roberts, chasing them in another cab. Grant has acquired a lot of guinea pigs for his research work and in the cab they suddenly begin to multiply by the hundreds. Finally Horton's taxi is wrecked and in the crash it develops that his curly hair is a toupee. So Mack leaves him for Grant whose hair is his own.

Everyone in the cast does extremely fine work, and there is one flash of Mona Maris which is worth the price of admission. The new directing team of Harlan Thompson and Jean Negulesco did exceptionally well, and the art director deserves a special medal.

The adaptation and screen play by Jane Hinton, Harlan Thompson and George Marion Jr. are cleverly handled, the dialogue being bright and witty. The music and lyrics are by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin. Leon Shamroy's photography is in keeping with the rest of the production.

When this is cut into proper shape, no exhib need be afraid of it. It will please any audience.

Poland Bars 'Three' Film Cos. For Slurs

Dispatches from Warsaw yesterday stated that Poland had barred from showing in that country the product of three American motion picture companies. The three are Warner Brothers, First National and Vitaphone. The cause is alleged slurs in three Warner pictures on the names of three of Polands national heroes.

Halperins Form Co. To Produce Eight

Edward and Victor Halperin announced yesterday the formation of a production unit under their own name for release through a major channel. The brothers pull out tonight, accompanied by Richard Carroll, for their trip to New York, where final details on their plans will be set.

They have decided to make eight pictures and already have stories by Rex Beach, Vicki Baum, Garnett Weston, George Manker Watters, Nina Wilcox Putnam and Albert Payson Terhune. Negotiations are on with Elissa Landi, Bebe Daniels, Edmund Lowe, John Boles and Gregory Ratoff. Production headquarters will be established at RKO-Pathe.

Joan Crawford Will Star in 'Indo-China'

Joan Crawford will star in "Indo-China," which was previously slated for Constance Bennett at MGM.

Arthur Richmond will write the screen play when he finishes on the Garbo picture. Bernie Hyman produces.

Roberts on Lederer Pic

"Romance of Manhattan," starring Francis Lederer, will probably be Stephen Roberts' first directorial assignment at Radio. Roberts was signed by Radio last month for four pictures.

May Robson's New Deal

May Robson's MGM contract was torn up and a brand new one issued to her yesterday. She is 51 years old, professionally.

Bradley King Signs

Bradley King has signed a managerial ticket with Edington and Vincent office.

Settlement Near Warner-Erpi Suit

New York.—Once more the injunction and royalties suit of Vitaphone against Electrical Research Products Inc., which has been stringing along since October, 1932, is reported to be near settlement. It has been twice before the Federal court in Wilmington and was submitted to arbitration until Warners felt they could get no settlement that way and threw it back into the courts.

Three weeks ago it was said that the case had been settled, with Warners getting $3,500,000 cash and other considerations which were believed to be the right to handle Erpi's sound equipment, but the Government stepped in and stopped that settlement.

Under a second agreement, after Erpi had violated the first one made when Warners were pioneering sound, Erpi—or, rather, Western Electric—was to pay Warners eight percent royalties. It was for this money, variously estimated at from $5,000,000 to $50,000,000, that Warners sued.

New Vina Delmar Yarn Purchased by MGM

New York.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has bought the screen rights to "Bright Girl," a new Vina Delmar novel which starts as a serial in Liberty next week.

The company is also understood to be backing Lawrence Schwab's new play, "Snatch As Snatch Can."

Cobb Starts As Actor

Irvin Cobb started his acting career yesterday in "Angle Worms" at the Roach studio. Frank Darien, Katherine Ward, Benny Baker and Frank Brownlee are the humorist's fellow actors. Hal Yates directs.

Harold Lloyd East

Harold Lloyd leaves for New York tomorrow, by train to attend the Fox sales convention, at which he will show a print of "The Cat's Paw." He will be accompanied by Bernie Burdon, his film editor.

Censorship Discussed

(Continued from Page 1)

ganizations and others which are campaigning for drastic restrictions on pictures.

The situation, with the Patman bill for a Federal Motion Picture Commission now before Congress, has grown serious. The crusade being conducted by the Catholic church is having its effect, and the one being run by Mrs. August Belmont and her Motion Picture Research Council, is growing in strength daily. There is not the slightest doubt that members of Congress are being bombarded by supporters of this censorship campaign to aid the Patman bill and the producers feel that they must do something, by propaganda or otherwise, to offset it.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

The old wholesale method of giving tests is still going on despite so many statements and reports to the contrary. Only the other day a young boy was scheduled to make a test over on one of the major lots. Now the test had been ordered by one of the executives, so the lad's agent didn't think it necessary to appear with him, but just sent him over at the appointed time.

The boy walked into the studio and finally made it clear that he was to have a test. He was then told to go to a certain stage. He finally found the stage and also found a picture in production. After looking around for a bit, he spied a camera and a couple of fellows 'way off in a corner and walked over to them. Whereupon a small, dark fellow came up to him and asked him what he wanted. He explained that he was to have a test. The small, dark fellow then wanted to know what kind. Nobody seemed to know, so they decided to call up the front office.

•

At last it was all straightened out—it was to be a silent test, and as soon as the word came through, the small, dark fellow turned to the aspiring actor and told him everything was set. The boy then cautiously inquired about make-up and was told that if he wanted to, he could go and have some make-up put on.

Arriving back with the make-up on, he was given three or four orders while the cameras were grinding and then the test was over. He never did find out the name of the small, dark fellow, nor does he know or exactly want to know what that "test" looked like.

Tests like that only try a person's patience and are a pretty poor example of the intelligence used in this never-ending hunt for talent. There's screaming and carrying on every day to the effect that it is almost impossible to find any talent, but just how they expect to discover it, using those methods of looking for it, is a bit difficult to understand. Tests of that kind are a waste of time and money to the company and simple suicide for the would-be actor.

•

Helen Morgan is our idea of an all right person. With all the opportunity in the world to scream her story for the front pages and hand out plenty statements to the public, Miss Morgan deliberately said nothing in all this controversy over "Memory" and will tell her story to the proper people at the proper time. It must have taken a lot of self-control, in view of all the one-sided stories that did see print, but in the end that dignified silence should be all to Morgan's benefit. The real story is a honey, anyway.

Pearson on 'Ruggles'

Humphrey Pearson was signed by Paramount yesterday to write the screen play for "Ruggles of Red Gap."

'INVITATION TO A MURDER' WILD AND LURID MELODRAMA

Okay For Pictures If You Like Murder

"INVITATION TO A MURDER"

Presented by Ben Stein at the Masque Theatre; written by Rufus King; staged by A. H. Van Buren; settings by Robert Barnhart. Cast: Wm. Valentine, Warren Wilson Humphrey Bogart, James Shelburne, Juan Varro, Sherling Oliver, Gale Sondergaard, Walter Abel, Jane Seymour, Edgar Charles and Walter Plinge.

New York.—This is lurid melodrama at its best. A skilfully and expertly written murder mystery with all the trimmings—trap doors, poisonings, suspended animation and feigned death — a fiendish she-murderer, grasping voracious relatives and moments of thrilling stark horror. Yes, even the inevitable pistol shot—but a devilishly conceived and executed pistol shot. All this taking place in the sombre, massive, walled library of the wealthy and eccentric Channings on the wild West Coast shore of California.

What differentiates this mystery play from its predecessors is the genius of Rufus King's technique, in which he leaves no gaps or loopholes and keeps his audience guessing up to the very last moment how the story will turn out. He has done a vastly superior job than that seen in "Murder at the Vanities."

Walter Abel's realistic work as the doctor, whose one slip almost leads to the destruction of his sanity and life, is the highlight of the performance, and he shares top honors with the author and producer for a very interesting evening in the theatre.

Lorinda Channing, head of the disintegrating house of Channing, descendants of pirates and early gold-discovering settlers of California, whose motto was "to the victor and the strong belong the spoils," suspects a plot on the part of one of her relatives to kill her—two attempts having been made, once with poisoned perfume which her maid was indiscreet enough to use, and again when she receives poisoned grapes and tests out her theory on her pet parrot. The huge Channing fortune is at stake.

She conceives the idea of feigning death in order to trap the guilty one. She invites in a strange doctor and persuades him to administer a drug that will put her in a cataleptic state, later to be revived in her coffin by an antidote. After her supposed funeral, when all have retired for the night, she leaves her coffin with the aid of her butler and sets about trapping one of her cousins who made the poison attempts. She kills him with a Maxim silencer on the gun, then traps the doctor into firing the same gun at her, this time with a blank bullet. She then vanishes and the doctor is held for the murder of Walter Channing.

She reappears on the scene the next day and does her utmost to convince everyone that the doctor is the guilty one. However, as all murderers are supposed to do, she has left a clue to the guilty one, via fingerprints on a cigarette case, and her own relatives turn on her. She cheats the law by suicide.

Film producers whose clientele must have their murder a day dished up in hair-raising style should do well with this one.

Old English City Gets First Cinema

Rochester, one of the oldest cities in England, is just building its first motion picture theatre. Heretofore when residents of Rochester wanted to see a picture they journeyed to neighboring Strood or Chatham.

Walton Gets Juvenile Lead in 'Monte Cristo'

Romantic leads for "The Count of Monte Cristo" were completed yesterday when Edward Small engaged Douglas Walton to play opposite Irene Hervey. Walton is a young freelance who appeared in "Lost Patrol," "Murder in Trinidad" and "Madame Spy."

Laurel and Hardy Will Finish One Tomorrow

Laurel and Hardy will finish "Public Enemies," tomorrow, and next week will work out an idea for their fifth in the interrupted series.

James Morton was an addition to the "Public Enemies" cast yesterday.

Picture Execs Handle Frolic For Charity

Harry Rapf, Sam Briskin, Jacob Milstein and Henry Ginsberg are managing a frolic to be held at the Colony Club, June 7, as a benefit for the Consumptives' Home of Denver, one of the most important American-Jewish welfare institutions.

Allen Arraignment Set For Next Tuesday

Dave Allen, Central Casting head, will be arraigned next Tuesday on the morals charge brought against him. Postponement until that date was granted yesterday by Judge Bowron on motion of Attorney Jerry Geisler.

Natteford Story Head

Jack Natteford has been made story editor of Supreme Pictures, the Sam Katzman-A. W Hackle company. While also writing for the independent company, he is on the original and screen play for the second Bob Steele picture, "Brand of Hate," which goes into work July 18.

'U' Wants Torres

Universal is negotiating with Bren, Orsatti and Marx for Raquel Torres for the lead in "'Neath Southern Skies." No director or writer has been assigned as yet.

Aron Mathieu Here

Aaron Mathieu, editor of the Writers' Digest, published in Cincinnati, is in Hollywood on business and is at the Hotel Christie.

Lindsey Report Up to Washington

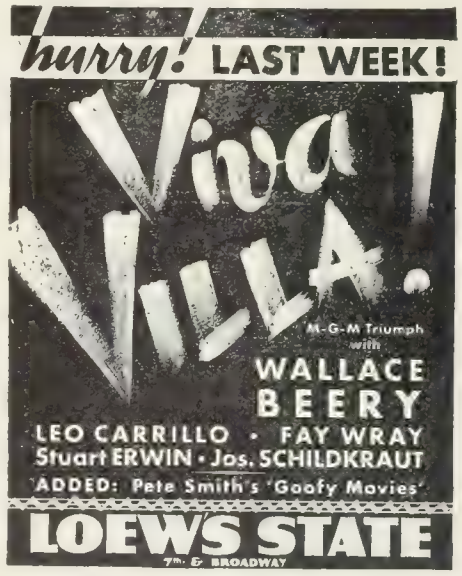
George Creel, State head of the NRA, yesterday dumped into the lap of official Washington the question of whether Judge Ben Lindsey or the Studio Labor Committee has jurisdiction over the labor complaints filed some time ago with Lindsey, and which the Judge refuses to turn over to the labor committee.

Creel passed the problem on when he forwarded to NRA officials in Washington the 24-page report made to him last Wednesday by Judge Lindsey, who asked that a Federal investigation be made of the attitude of Sol Rosenblatt in the handling of studio labor complaints. Creel asked for an official ruling on the jurisdiction.

Tristram Tupper to Para. For 'Outrage'

Monogram yesterday granted Tristram Tupper a leave of absence to go to Paramount and write the screen play of "Outrage," an original by Beulah Marie Dix and Bertram Milhauser.

James Flood will direct and Benjamin Glazer produces. Tupper leaves Monogram as soon as he completes "The Healer," which he is scripting.



Para. Directors Get Army Of Lawyers

New York.—A veritable army of legal talent has been engaged to defend the Paramount directors who are being sued by the trustees for something more than $12,000,000 that was expended in the repurchase of Paramount stock.

Adolph Zukor, Ralph Kohn, Austin Keough, Sir William Wiseman, Felix and Gilbert Kahn and the Stralem estate will entrust their case to Cravath, DeGersdorf, Swaine and Wood. Sam Katz has engaged Sam Spring. Sidney Kent, Jesse Lasky, Daniel Frohman and Elek John Ludvigh will probably have Hughes, Schurman and Dwight. J. E. Brulatour will be represented by Konta, Kirchwey and Engel, while H. W. Fried will act for the estate of Emil Shauer.

New Publicity Firm

Shane Ryan and Hal Wiener, two well known publicity purveyors, have joined forces and have opened offices at 1509 North Vine Street. Miss Ryan was associated with many big theatrical producers in New York. Wiener was formerly assistant dramatic editor on the Los Angeles Herald-Express.

Casting Troubles Delay 'Four Walls'

Despite its having the largest and most important list of star players, MGM has run up against the same sort of casting snag that has bothered Radio and Columbia. Studio's problem is on "Four Walls."

The decision to splurge on the production and give it a top-name cast had the studio dickering with Paul Muni, who originated the leading part on the stage, and also Edward G. Robinson, Ricardo Cortez and Chester Morris. With Clark Gable favored above all, the plan now being considered is to shelve the picture for three months until he is available. The screen play, by Bernard Schubert, is nearly finished. Edward Marin is to direct, but will likely be moved over to "All Good Americans" first.

Langdon West Engaged As Technical Advisor

New York.—Langdon West, who aided in the production of such stage spectacles as "The Wanderer," "Chu Chin Chow" and "Aphrodite," has been engaged by Warner Brothers as technical advisor for their coming production of "The Miracle." He will leave for Hollywood soon.

Sidney With S-F-G

Sylvia Sidney yesterday signed an exclusive five-year managerial contract with Charles Feldman, of the Schulberg, Feldman and Gurney agency.

Search For Kid Delays 'Fleurette' at Para.

Al Werker won't get "52 Weeks for Fleurette" going at Paramount until next week.

The delay is due to the difficulty of casting Helen Mack's eight-year-old boy in the picture. Must be a typical American kid who talks and acts as if raised in show business. The studio says the part is good enough to make the reputation of the kid getting it.

Clarence Brown Starts New Crawford Picture

Clarence Brown put "Sacred and Profane Love" into production at MGM yesterday with Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Otto Kruger and Stuart Erwin in the cast.

The story is an Edgar Selwyn original, adapted for the screen by John Lee Mahin, with the Arnold Bennett title now owned by MGM tacked on.

Burnet on Delmar Yarn

Dana Burnett's first writing assignment on his Paramount contract is the screen play for "The End of the World," Vina Delmar's original on which Renaud Hoffman, George Manker Watters and Marguerite Roberts have done the preliminary writing.

Seff on 'Golddiggers'

Warners has assigned Manny Seff to work on the screen play for "Golddiggers of 1935," which the company plans as a yearly musical with a list of top-name contract players.

TO THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY:

For years Milton Krims has been gathering accurate data and material on the life of writer of those immortal melodies, "Old Black Joe," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Oh, Susanna . . ," "Old Folks at Home" and many others.

STEPHEN COLLINS FOSTER

The intensely dramatic circumstances in the life of this most important figure in the musical development of our country have now been crystallized into a motion picture scenario by Mr. Krims, entitled

"HARMONY LANE"

Announcement books to the trade and considerable other expense incidental to active preparation and early production of the picture have already been incurred.

Because of this and also because of the definite value already established in this motion picture property, I hereby ask the motion picture industry to kindly respect my priority rights.

MASCOT PICTURES
NAT LEVINE, President

"TERROR" THRILLY MYSTERY

Marked by good writing, direction.

There's an icy thrill in every reel of "The Return of the Terror" . . . Eugene Solow and Peter Milne didn't skip a chill in their adaptation of the Edgar Wallace yarn.

—Hollywood Reporter, May 21, 1934

"FOG OVER FRISCO"

. . . The adaptation by Robert N. Lee and Eugene Solow is workmanlike, leaving no loose ends in their solution. Your only difficulty with "Fog Over Frisco" will be in turnover, for many of your audiences will want to sit through it a second time. It's that kind of a picture. Play it up as a really intelligent mystery thriller.

—Hollywood Reporter, May 19, 1934

EUGENE SOLOW

"THE RETURN OF THE TERROR"

Picture has all the elements for the detective thriller patrons but devoid of those generally inexplicable holes in such films, due largely to good script work by Eugene Solow and Peter Milne. "Return of the Terror" is one of those chilling wholesale murder mystery yarns that spells sure box-office.

—Variety, May 21, 1934

Management
NAT GOLDSTONE

FOR UNIVERSAL

(Completing)
"LOST AMERICAN"
(Original Screen Play)

Starring vehicle for Henry Hull

RIAN JAMES — PRODUCING

The Vendome

Will Cater Your

Cocktail Party
Bridge Tea
Buffet Dinner

at a cost so small it will astound you, giving you a selection of the finest foods, rarest delicacies and the rarest vintages of Wines and Spirits.

Phone HOllywood 1666

and ask for Mr. Hoffman in our catering department; he will be happy to suggest menus to suit your price.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER STUDIOS,
% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 16. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Saturday, May 26, 1934

WOMEN SLAM 2 MAJORS

Kahn and Wiseman Sons Back Wanger; Para. Hook-up Seen

New York.—The belief that, when the Paramount re-organization has been completed, Walter Wanger will again be found as one of the top executives is being strengthened here through the knowledge of the close association of Wanger with Roger Wolfe Kahn and young Wiseman, son of Sir William Wiseman, of Kuhn, Loeb and Company.

Wall Street hears that these two young men will be Wanger's backers in his coming production venture and see in this a sign that Kuhn, Loeb and Company have Wanger tabbed for a Paramount berth a little later.

Wanger, who says he is not going back to Paramount, is not sailing for Europe tomorrow, as he had announced, saying that he has personal business to settle here and may sail next week.

Added weight is given the Paramount rumor by the fact that Sir William Wiseman recently took over the framing of the Paramount re-organization plan, which will be handled by his firm.

Canadian Actress Signed by Warners

New York.—Helen Trenholme, 22-year-old Canadian girl, whose dramatic broadcasting in Montreal brought her to Broadway where she has been appearing in "The Strange Orchestra," yesterday was signed for a term with Warner Brothers.

Goldwyn Wants New Tag

Sam Goldwyn is discarding the title "Resurrection" for the next Anna Sten picture and has sent word throughout his organization for suggestions which will give an impression of lightness, instead of the heavy gloom of the present tag.

Lead For Mary Astor

Mary Astor was assigned the lead opposite Warren William in "The Case of the Howling Dog" yesterday by Warners. Story is by Earl Stanley Gardner. Production is about five weeks ahead.

Toeplitz in N.Y. on Deal

New York.—L. Toeplitz, formerly associated with Alexander Korda in London Films, is in New York on a production deal which he will not discuss.

Receivership For Warner Bros. Asked

New York.—A suit to throw Warner Brothers into receivership was filed in the New York Supreme Court yesterday by M. B. Levine, who charges mismanagement and demands the return to the stockholders of the 100,000 shares of stock which the directors voted to the three Warners.

'Rothschild' Sets Record For 1 Show

London.—"The House of Rothschild" set a new record for one performance at its opening showing at the Tivoli Theatre, grossing $46,000. The performance was for charity and tickets sold as high as $50 each. The beneficiaries are the Personal Service League and the Fund for German-Jewish Women and Children.

The great audience was most enthusiastic about the picture and the enthusiasm was echoed in all the press reviews.

Federation Claims Warners And MGM Will Not Play Ball; Others Trying; Body Split Over Picture Department

Hot Springs, Ark.—The Federation of Womens Clubs, in convention here, heard the report of its motion picture department yesterday and the body, representing over 2,000,000 women, was divided in opinion regarding the activity of that department and felt there was little value in the report.

The report, as read by Mrs. Richard R. McClure, chairman, indicated that MGM and Warners have shown little or no inclination to cleanse their stories for the screen, "still believing that the type of pictures they turn

(Continued on Page 2)

MGM Execs Sailing

London.—David Selznick, Howard Estabrook and George Cukor leave here June 6 on the Ile de France on their return to Hollywood.

Radio May Lend Lederer to Para. To Get Barrie Yarn

A deal is on between Radio and Paramount which, if it is consummated, will send Francis Lederer to the Paramount studio on a loan to play the lead in "Pursuit of Happiness" in exchange for the screen rights to J. M. Barrie's "The Little Minister," which Radio wants for Katharine Hepburn.

Both Hepburn and Radio are hot on the idea of the Barrie novel and Arthur Hornblow, who will produce "Pursuit of Happiness," is just as strong for the idea of getting Lederer. Radio has heretofore refused to lend him, figuring it should get all the benefit of his pictures.

Al Green Starting 'The Lost Lady' Monday

"The Lost Lady" goes into production Monday at Warners, with Al Green directing Barbara Stanwyck.

The cast as signed yesterday had Henry Kolker, Rafaelo Ottiano, Frank Morgan, Walter Walker, Henry O'Neill, Samuel E. Hinds and Virginia Hammond. Green's assignment puts "Firebird" over to later this Summer.

Foy Signs Robles Kid

Bryan Foy yesterday signed June Robles for personal appearances and will possibly use the girl in a feature. Youngster gained world wide publicity when she was kidnapped in Tucson, Arizona, several weeks ago.

Radio Sets Moeller

Radio yesterday set "Age of Innocence" as Philip Moeller's first picture assignment. He will co-direct with George Nicholls Jr.

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

MR. MOTION PICTURE!
STAND UP AND DEFEND YOURSELF.
You have to now.
You should have long ago.
But you didn't.
And look what they are doing to you.
They are trying to destroy you AND WILL DESTROY YOU, if you don't stand up and defend yourself.

There are no "ifs, ands or buts" about it this time. THEY have labeled you with every crime, they are accusing you of everything, they are using as campaign slogans SAVE THE AMERICAN HOME—PROTECT OUR CHILDREN, etc., etc. They have you in a corner and you have to fight. You can't sit back and take it this time, as you have done for the past 25 years when professional reformers and cheap politicians have seen fit to attack you. You can't pass the buck to Will Hays, because he will do nothing, AS USUAL, and as a matter of fact, many believe that he started the whole thing, that he gave the Catholic Church its first ammunition. You have to pass Hays up in this defense of your industry. You have to do it yourself and do it quick.

•

This "Clean the Screen of its Filth" program has reached astounding proportions. It has filtrated to sources that are more than dangerous. It is now reaching the press with the most damaging propaganda that has ever been directed at this or any other legitimate industry.

As an example, Mr. Motion Picture, did you see the McCutcheon cartoon that was published by the New York Herald-Tribune on Sunday, May 16? Did

(Continued on Page 4)

PHILIP DUNNE *WROTE THE SCREEN PLAY AND DIALOGUE *in collaboration "Count of Monte Cristo"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher
FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

FOY'S 'HIGH SCHOOL GIRL' JUST A MORAL PREACHMENT

Production, Story, In Very Good Taste

"HIGH SCHOOL GIRL"
(Bryan Foy)

Direction .....Crane Wilbur
Original.....Crane Wilbur
Adaptation .....Crane Wilbur and Wallace Thurman
Photography.....William Thompson
Cast: Cecelia Parker, Helen MacKellar, Crane Wilbur, Carlyle Moore Jr., Noel Warwick, Mahlon Hamilton.

Obviously a preachment, "High School Girl" has received a better production than its theme generally warrants. Ordinarily, a moralizing picture of the sort is designed to play the ten cent houses on our cities' "Main Streets," coupled with flamboyant "Men Only" and "Women Only" advertising. "High School Girl" can be sold legitimately, for there isn't an offensive second in the entire hour of its running time.

The story does not attempt to disguise its moralizing. It tells of an unsophisticated school girl, neglected by her clubwoman mother. Involved in a puppy-love affair, she asks for instruction, only to be told that she is too young to know about such things. The inevitable occurs and the girl is taken away by her understanding older brother to have her baby secretly. Her constant worry causes complications and her parents have to be told. With the telling, comes acknowledgment of their error in raising the girl in ignorance.

Throughout the plot wanders the character of a biology professor who preaches the doctrine of frankness. The part is played effectively by Crane Wilbur, also credited with direction, the original story and co-adaptation. It must be that Mr. Wilbur has neglected to join the cameraman's union.

Although the complete unsophistication of the girl dates the piece slightly, she is beautifully played by Cecelia Parker, who looks of high-school age. Nice performances too by Carlyle Moore Jr., as the brother, and Noel Warwick as the youthful swain. An unprogrammed colored girl playing the maid runs away with the comedy honors.

Helen MacKellar does the mother a bit too heavily-handed, and Mahlon Hamilton is the father. The writing is entirely in good taste and the direction, unwavering to the theme, is noteworthy for development of characterizations. Production and William Thompsons photography are above standard.

You are the best judge as to whether a story of this sort will appeal to your audiences. You should encounter no censorship difficulties, for the picture is innocuous enough to pass any restrictions. If there must be screen preachments of the kind, this could hardly be improved.

Paris Film Workers Protest U.S. Films

Paris.—The French Association of Film Workers staged a demonstration last night against the competition of foreign pictures, especially American. In busses and on foot, carrying banners, they paraded up the Champs Elysees. The idea was to call the attention of the government to their difficult situation.

Ostrow Hangs Out His Shingle at 'U'

Lou Ostrow's shingle was hung out at Universal yesterday, although he is not officially through as Monogram's executive producer until Thursday.

The gun is also being jumped at the General Service lot Monday, when Robert Welsh moves into Ostrow's office, and Herman Schlom goes from the Universal leasing office into Welsh's office as Monogram's production manager, assisting Welsh. All the changes take place as of June 1.

Alfred Stern next week takes over the Universal leasing department, with Clara A. Toney continuing as secretary.

Henry B. Walthall Set For Two at Fox

When he finished his work in "The Scarlet Letter' for Majestic the end of next week, Henry B. Walthall moves over to Fox for two pictures, having been set yesterday by Hoffman-Schlager for the second, "Wanted," which Lou King will direct.

He will 'work in "Judge Priest" first.

John Arnold a Father

John Arnold, president of the ASC and head of the MGM camera department, became the father of a daughter last night. The baby was born at the Hollywood hospital where she and her mother are getting on nicely.

Rosy Coming Out to Settle Labor Rows

According to information received yesterday by the local unions of the IATSE, Deputy Administrator Sol A. Resnblatt will leave for Hollywood June 15 for the purpose of attempting to settle the labor troubles of the IATSE.

This information was sent by telegram by Louis Krause, assistant president of the IATSE. Krause stated that Rosenblatt had said that he would be agreeable to doing this, and to having a representative of the Alliance accompany him on the trip.

George Stout Back to Finish 'Young Eagles'

George W. Stout returned from New York yesterday after a flying trip to deliver the first five episodes of the Romance serial,"Young Eagles." States righting all set, with First Division taking 60 per cent of the territory.

Stout is supervising the editing of the remaining seven episodes at Sennett studio and will then plan for his next Romance serial, to be started in 60 days.

'Chain Gang' Suits Off

Atlanta.—Two suits for $100,000 each, brought against Warner Brothers because of the filming of "I'm a Fugitive from a Chain Gang," were dismissed yesterday at the request of the plaintiffs, E. L. Rainey and G. A. Johns, of the State Prison Commission.

Moore Due June 5

Victor Moore is due to arrive June 5 from New York for Universal's "Romance in the Rain," which Stuart Walker directs.

Bellamy Buys Farm

Ralph Bellamy has purchased 150 acres of land in Salem County, Connecticut. He plans eventually to build a home there.

Women Slam Two Majors

(Continued from Page 1)

out are satisfactory from every point of view and no new policy is necessary." Mrs. McClure's board indorsed Radio Pictures, Fox, Columbia and Universal for the progress they have made in dispensing clean pictures. Paramount was placed on the fence, but it was felt "its attitude will change to the extent that it can be included with the above group."

The report further states that, of almost 350 pictures reviewed by the board, 55 were banned entirely in the opinion of the reviewers. Of this number, Warners had 15, Paramount 13, MGM 7, and the remainder split in small lots between the rest of the major companies.

It was easy to be seen that many of those present were neither satisfied with the report or the activities of the motion picture department and, although nothing was brought out in the open meeting, it is felt that those not favoring those activities will be heard from before the convention closes. One member stated: "Most of that committee are entirely too close to those in charge of production and exhibition. They permit themselves to be dined and entertained in Hollywood and elsewhere, and that may or may not have clouded much of their work."

Another member stated: "The screen has to be cleansed and we have a mighty weapon in our hands. Imagine what would happen if every member of our Federation should stay away from the movies for a week, or even a day! That means 2,000,000 paid admissions would be denied the theatres on those days. And this will happen if those picture-makers don't adjust their attitude. I know we will be joined by at least a million Catholics, the entire body of the Federal Council of Churches and organizations headed by the Jews."

RAMBLING REPORTER

Al Hall and Lola Lane were supposed to elope to Yuma last night. . . Angela Joyce, the wench who is suing Lord Revelstoke for breach of a few promises, left via boat yesterday for England to testify. . . . Arthur Johnson, w.k. song-maker and fiance of Loretta Sayers, sails for Honolulu today . . . Loretta can't go because she has to be bridesmaid at her sister's wedding in New York. . . . The Countess di Frasso arrives in Hollywood for a ten-day stay. . . . Bill Powell, Ronnie Colman, Warner Baxter and Reginald Berkeley are over at Catalina on that 110-foot yacht they hired, just waiting for Dick Barthelmess to jern them for a fishing and hunting trip way down the coast—none of the crowd has ever hunted before! . . . Claudette Colbert sick abed at home these past coupla days. . . . Sign on a Beverly Hills theatre reads, "Little Women"—"Bottoms Up"(!) . . . . Walter Winchell will be in our midst next week. . . . The Baron Rothschild is the "handiest" man in town.

•

Virginia Pine moving from the hospital into Doug Jr's. old house in Beverly. . . . The Chick Chandlers very together again after a "trial separation" that almost lasted a whole week! . . . The Stanley Bergermans and Junior Laemmle are throwing a big masquerade party for the Mervyn LeRoys Saturday night next week. . . The Alan Dineharts are actually getting to look alike. . . Sari LeMaire is in training to carry around a particular new top-piece. . . . Michael Pearman and Frances Drake haven't seen anyone but each other for days!

•

Mrs. Wally Beery doing very nicely in her own menage. . . . And Frank Joyce taking daily walks around the block in New York! . . . The cheapest streak in Hollywood belongs to a male actor on the Universal lot. . . Travis Banton is giving another of the famous Banton teas on Monday. . . . Dolores Del Rio, lunching the brides, Martha Sleeper, Carmelita Geraghty and Raquel Torres. . . . Miriam Hopkins and Jean Dary are on fire! . . . Is it true that Louis B. Mayer and Pat Casey have a mad on? . . . Warner production costs have been cut twenty-five to fifty thousand, but the cuts never seem to hurt their pictures any! . . . They practically carried Harry Cohn off the plane here last night—for the first time 'arry was air sick!

'SWEENEY' FALLS VERY FLAT; 'PRECIOUS THING' ALSO FLOPS

Badly Written and Not at All Funny

"FRIENDS OF MR. SWEENEY"
(Warners)

Direction .....Edward Ludwig
Original Story.....Elmer Davis
Screen Play.....Warren Duff and Sidney Sutherland
Photography.....Ira Morgan
Cast: Charles Ruggles, Ann Dvorak, Eugene Pallette, Dorothy Tree, Harry Beresford, Berton Churchill, William Davidson, Herbert Bunson, Harry Tyler, Dorothy Burgess.

This picture is labeled a comedy. In order to prove it, they've dug up an old story about the worm turns and planted every gag with a steam shovel, and if you have the intelligence of a two-year-old you have your choice of taking the broad hint or leaving it unsmiled at.

The only thing that saves it, so far as Warners is concerned, is the fact that it looks as though it had been budgeted in at even less cost than usual, because evidently nobody thought it worth while to spend enough money to stop up the holes in the picture or to waste film by explaining the appearance of several characters or the significance of anything in the plot.

Mr. Elmer Davis will certainly not be able to recognize anything in this picture as his original story except the title and the names of the characters. The whole "plot" revolves around one, Asaph Holliday, who was a wow in his college days, but who has become a browbeaten wage slave and forced to write an article supporting a crook as candidate for Governor. An old college pal comes into town and they get drunk together, and the college pal gives back Holliday his old fightin' spirit, and Holliday goes back to the office and rewrites the article and, as final proof of his emancipation, we are allowed to see him sling the equivalent of a custard pie into the face of a fresh soda fountain clerk.

There are more, if not better examples of flat comedy writing and direction than have been seen in many a day. Two whole sequences, supposedly funny, fall to the ground with a sickening thud with no effort made to revive them.

Charlie Ruggles should insist on staying on his home lot. At least, they know what to do with his comedy talents. In fact, everybody should have known much better and the best thing to do with the picture is to double feature it where it won't hurt.

Glennan in Ridge Spot

T. Keith Glennan takes over the management of General Service Studios next week, succeeding J. M. Ridge, who returns to Erpi after six months in charge of the Hollywood studios. Glennan has been on the coast two months.

Graham Out of Warners

Carroll Graham completed the adaptation of his book, "Border Town," for Warner Brothers, and left the lot The story is for Paul Muni

Charlie Ray Staging A Comeback at Para.

Charlie Ray is planning a comeback. He will play a part in Paramount's "Ladies Should Listen," his first screen appearance since 1928 when he played opposite Corinne Griffith in "The Garden of Eden."

Black Ink Again On Warners' Books

New York.—Warner Brothers and subsidiaries report a profit of $38,855 for the 26 weeks ended February 24, 1934, as compared with a net loss of $3,422,326 for the corresponding period last year. This is after all deductions for amortization of film costs, depreciation, interest and Federal taxes. A total of $905,015 was credited to the deficit account representing profit on redemption of funded indebtedness, adjustment of income tax and profits on sales of capital assets.

Binnie Barnes Makes 'U' Debut in Trailer

Binnie Barnes made her first camera appearance under her Universal contract in the three-reel convention trailer, directed by Charles Gould under the supervision of John LeRoy Johnston.

Twenty Universal players made bows and speeches to the sales convention in the film, Russ Brown leading off.

'Gang' Goes Musical In Its Next Picture

"Our Gang" plays an early return date this year at the Hal Roach studio, starting a picture next Thursday under direction of Gus Meins.

It will be the Gang's first "musical," calling for instrumental and vocal performances by Spanky, Scotty and Stymie.

Montgomery Returns

Robert Montgomery checks in today at MGM, returning from his ten weeks vacation on his farm in Massachusetts. He goes into "Hideout" as his first assignment and is slated also for the bracket spot with Loretta Young in "Forsaking All Others."

Lasky Sets Berkeley

Jesse L. Lasky yesterday signed Reginald Berkeley to write a new screen play for "Marie Gallante," which will star Spencer Tracy. The Hawks-Volck office signed the writer to a managerial deal and set the Fox ticket.

Para. Term For Overman

Lynn Overman was placed under long-term contract to Paramount yesterday and will get a featured role in "52 Weeks for Fleurette" as his next assignment. The Broadway stage star made his picture debut in "Little Miss Marker."

Jean Arthur The Only Saving Grace

"MOST PRECIOUS THING IN LIFE"
(Columbia)

Directed by.....Lambert Hillyer
Story .....Travis Ingham
Screen Play.....Dore Schary and Ethel Hill
Photography.....John Stumar
Cast: Jean Arthur, Richard Cromwell, Donald Cook, Anita Louise, Mary Forbes.

There is absolutely nothing in this one to recommend it except the elegant and completely wasted performance of Jean Arthur, who proves long before the finish that she should have been saved for better things.

How in the name of anything, this script or story could have passed an official O.K. in this day and age is beyond us. And seemingly beyond the preview audience, too, for it tittered and all but hooted during a great part of the film.

"Most Precious Thing in Life" is Version No. 18967543000 of the Madame X theme. This time, though, the mother in the mother-love yarn is not a Madame—just a scrublady. She starts out as just a small time gal in a college town—just a nice, sweet nobody who marries the rich boy as he graduates, and they go to live with his family—the mean old snobs! They manage to separate her and her husband and convince her that the baby will be better off with them. (Where have we heard that one before????)

Well, so, years later (for no reason —because the gal is comely and shapely—) she is a scrublady at the same college where she had her romance and, of course, her son comes under her wing as she cleans up his dormitory. He participates in a romance identical with that of her youth, and just when Poppa is about to break it up, dear ole scrublady saves the day and never, never lets on that she is the boy's mommy!

Well, it's pretty awful. Obvious every foot of the way and containing some godawful passages of elementary psychology. Richard Cromwell tries hard with the dull and slow stuff at hand. So do the others, including Don Cook, Anita Louise, Mary Forbes.

Jean Arthur (in character make-up most of the footage) really comes through, and looks very pretty in earlier scenes.

Best thing to do with this is tear it up and forget it. Only the most provincial audiences could possibly sit through it.

Joe Brown to Hawaii

Joe E. Brown sails June 1 from San Francisco for a Honolulu vacation. His next assignment at Warners is "The Six-day Bike Race," which Earl Baldwin wrote and adapted.

Virginia Pine Better

Virginia Pine's condition was reported much better yesterday. It is believed the Warner contract girl will not have to undergo an operation.

Flop of 'Vanities' Features Grosses

New York.—The big feature of the week's grosses at the Broadway houses was the flop of "Murder at the Vanities," which did only $11,000 at the Rivoli.

"Stingaree" got $73,000 at the Music Hall, "Sadie McKee" took $46,000 at the Capitol, and "Little Miss Marker" chalked up $37,000 at the Paramount. "The Black Cat" at the Roxy grossed $18,500, "Beyond Bengal" at the Gaiety took $7200, and "Murder in Trinidad" got $5500 for five days of its second week at the Mayfair. "Rothschild" grabbed $15,800 for its eleventh week at the Astor, and "Upper World," for the week ending next Tuesday, will give the Strand about $15,000.

'Flying Down to Rio' Held Over in London

London.—In addition to "The House of Rothschild" at the Tivoli, the new pictures in London this week are "Let's Fall in Love" at the New Gallery, "All Men Are Enemies" at the Capitol, "Manhattan Melodrama" at the Empire, and "Lost Patrol" at the Plaza.

"Scarlet Empress" and "Roman Scandals" are still doing big business, and "Flying Down to Rio" is also one of the holdovers.

Texas Rain Holds Up 'Song of the Shepherd'

San Antonio.—Seven days of rain and cloudy weather at the location wanted by A. H. Phillips and W. J. Kerr for their three-reel Cinecolor, "The Song of the Shepherd," are delaying production.

Babe Stafford will be summoned from Hollywood to finish the picture as soon as the weather improves.

N.Y. Agent Hooks in Here

Johnny DeSilva, formerly of the firm of Grady and DeSilva, New York theatrical agents, has become associated with Lichtig and Englander. He was connected with the Shuberts and Flo Ziegfeld for a number of years, handling the personal business of their stars.

Holmes Starting One

Ben Holmes puts the second of the 1934-35 Clark and McCullough series of shorts into work at Radio the middle of next week. In addition to the leads, the cast includes Eddie Gribbon, Bud Jamieson, Marty Collins, Constance Bergen, and Claire Myers.

'Hat, Coat, Glove' Starts

With Ricardo Cortez filling the John Barrymore role, Radio yesterday put "Hat, Coat and Glove" back on the stages. Worthington Minor directs and Barbara Robbins and John Beal are in the cast.

Morris Gets Vacation

Chester Morris will get no further Universal assignments for a couple of months, although he is still subject to call for two pictures. He gets the vacation because he appears in pictures for release in June and July.

Extras Lose Dough By Not Complaining

Scores of extra players in Hollywood are depriving themselves of hundreds of dollars by refusing to file complaints of alleged code violations by the studios with the Code Committee for Extras, according to one member of the committee.

"The impression seems to be that those who file complaints with us will be barred from further work in the studios," said this member. "In this belief the extras are wrong. Our grievance sub-committee has handled a lot of complaints and has collected a lot of money from the studios for the extras, and we have watched carefully and have yet to find one instance where the complaining extra has been barred by the studios."

Acad. Research Com. Finds New Economy

The Academy Research Council yesterday accepted and approved a confidential report covering sound and camera motor starting and stopping systems, and scene cueing and slating methods, which it is expected will result in tremendous savings for the major studios that are maintaining the Council.

The Council also accepted the final report of the sub-committee on revision of the standard release print, and decided to continue the committee as a permanent one.

'Ah, Wilderness' Will Play Holiday Matinee

Will Rogers will give a special Decoration Day matinee of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness" at El Capitan Theatre.

This extra holiday matinee will be in addition to the regular Saturday matinee and will mark Rogers' only Wednesday afternoon performance during his engagement.

Newman Scoring 'Bread'

Alfred Newman, musical director for United Artists companies, is starting on what he considers a unique scoring assignment, the music for King Vidor's "Our Daily Bread." Much of the action and sound effects were timed to a metronome for rhythmic effects.

Agency Moves Offices

The Berg, Stebbins, Allenberg and Blum office yesterday moved into its own building at 9484 Wilshire boulevard. The Business Management Corporation, the office's subsidiary, was moved from the California Bank Building at the same time.

Voight Gets Divorce

Hubert Voight, Columbia publicity head, yesterday was granted an interlocutory decree from his wife, Olive Hatch Voight, in Judge Carlos Westover's court. Attorney Hiram G. Kellog represented Voight.

Roberts Band in Short

Lee Marcus yesterday signed up Hal Roberts and his Trojan band for a short to be called "Songs of the Colleges." Fourteen college songs will be featured.

Roxy Theatre Shows Much Smaller Loss

New York.—Howard Cullman, receiver for the Roxy Theatre, yesterday reported to the court that, for the 25 weeks ended May 3 the net loss of the house was $27,079, as compared with $143,187 for the corresponding period a year before.

Lindsey Quits NRA To Run For Judge

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, for weeks a storm center in studio labor disputes because of his defiance of Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt's orders to turn over labor complaints to the Studio Labor Committee, resigned last night as Labor Committee Compliance Officer for the NRA.

He will become a candidate for the Superior Court Bench vacancy created by the retirement of Judge Edwin F. Hahn and made it plain that he is not quitting because of his difficulties with Rosenblatt.

From East to West

New York.—Jack Benny, Mary Livingston, Don Wilson and Frank Parker are all leaving for Hollywood today.

Smith to Make Pic With Cast of Aztecs

Wallace Smith, novelist and screen writer, who today completes the adaptation for Columbia of his own novel, "The Captain Hates the Sea," leaves next Tuesday for Mexico where he will produce a picture in the jungles some four hundred miles from Mexico City.

The picture will be written and directed by Smith, will be financed by Mexican capital and made with the cooperation of the Mexican Department of Education. It will be a story of an Aztec Indian tribe that has been one of the most mysterious of all the tribes in Mexico. Through the co-operation of the Mexican government the picture will be made in the village of the tribe, the members of which are said to have never been photographed before, even with still cameras. Smith will be accompanied by Bolton Mallory.

Goldwyn Girl Hunt On

Still not satisfied with the selection of "Goldwyn Girls" for the current Eddie Cantor picture, Sam Goldwyn will hold auditions again next Tuesday and Thursday. Company has optioned around 150 beauties in the past three weeks.

TRADEVIEWS

(Continued from Page 1)

you see cartooned the big man sitting in the center of a lot of yes men and his chair labeled SALACIOUS PRODUCER, and did you read the remarks that were made to that producer by those yes men?

One of them said: "Why you're one o' th' great educational influences o' th' country, Chief! Look what America was when you started educatin' 'em and look what it is today." With another squawking: "Yes, an' look what the children knew before you started educating them! NOW THEY KNOW EVERYTHING." And still another chirped: "You're giving the people what they want, Chief. Is it your fault that they've learned to like it rare?" (And that fellow just speaking was seated in the star's chair and he had three service stripes on his arm labeled "divorce service stripes." And Mr. Salacious Film Producer was reading a newspaper headline, "NATION WIDE WAR AGAINST FILTHY FILMS," and he looked worried.

•

That, Mr. Motion Picture, is just one of the things that they are hurling at you, and there are thousands of others equally as damaging. What are you going to do about it? Are you going to sit back and pass the buck along to someone else, who in turn passes it right back to you? Or are you going to try to protect your industry from this unjust attack and go about educating the public, moviegoers and otherwise, to the TRUE CONDITIONS of the motion picture industry AS AN INDUSTRY? You have to think fast, old boy. There is no time for tarrying. You must bestir yourself.

You know and we all know that there is less filth in pictures today than at any time in the industry. Certainly there are occasional slips by producers who have no place in this business, who should have been chased out long ago, but who have been permitted to carry on and cause others to carry their burden. But they are few and far between. Occasional bits of vulgarity HAVE CAUSED ALL THIS TROUBLE, but only a slip-up that would happen in any business, from time to time.

•

For those slip-ups, Mr. Motion Picture, you are being crucified, WITHOUT A TRIAL, WITHOUT A HEARING. Accordingly, you must make your own trial, you must conduct your own hearing, and it must be in the newspapers of the country and the better magazines; NOT FAN MAGAZINES, but recognized publications that reach the people who do and do not frequent the picture theatres.

You have been threatened before by a disorganized, money-seeking, political-minded gang of cheap reformers. But, old boy, don't fail in your recognition of the people who are doing the attacking now. They may be reformers, they may have political tendencies, but they are not cheap and they are not looking for publicity or notoriety.

THEY BELIEVE the screen is ruining the American home. THEY BELIEVE the screen is debauching our youth. THEY BELIEVE the screen incites crime, and THEY BELIEVE the screen must be curbed, and unless you can have your side of the story heard, IT WILL BE CURBED to such an extent that your very life will be threatened.

THINK IT OVER, OLD BOY, AND WE WILL BE WITH YOU IN THE NEXT ISSUE WITH SOME THOUGHTS AND SUGGESTIONS.

'The Love Captive'

Directed and Written

by

Max Marcin

DAILY VARIETY Says:

Screen version of Max Marcin's "The Humbug" neatly accomplishes what it sets out to do, presenting a suspenseful tale about a hypnotist whose uncanny works turn back upon him, and offering an hour's absorbing entertainment in dramatic novelty. It is throughout an excellent piece of craftsmanship, with Marcin as author, co-adaptor and director, chiefly responsible.

The technology of hypnosis is authentically shown without the hocus-pocus usually ascribed to the power of suggestion, in the plot which Nils Asther weaves about his patients and victims and eventually himself in the guise of the professional hypnotic practitioner. Gloria Stuart becomes his office nurse and his beloved after cutting off her engagement to Paul Kelly. Kelly, believing Asther has befuddled her with his powers, threatens to kill him, but is dissuaded by Alan Dinehart, his brother-in-law, who in turn goes gunning for Asther when he suspects he has transferred his spell to his own wife, played by Renee Gadd.

Climax comes when Asther, seeking to save his reputation, puts on a sort of clinic called by an investigating committee of doctors. Committee presents Dinehart, who is in a jealous rage, as his hypnosis subject. Test of the so-called charlatan's powers is the presumed inability of his subject to pull the hair-trigger of a loaded pistol. But under the goad of seeing his wife with the hypnotist, as she is about to defend the latter, he shoots and kills Asther.

Picture ends with question, propounded to the audience over the head of one of the characters: Was the man who killed the hypnotist in a state of mental and moral irresponsibility, or did he take knowing advantage of a perfect alibi provided by the victim himself?

Principals give excellent performances, and rest of the cast is good in lesser parts. Photography is okay. Picture will hold any audience.

MAX MARCIN

Management

Schulberg-Feldman-Gurney

% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 17. Price 5c — TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY — Monday, May 28, 1934

PARA'S INDIE PRODUCT

Derr-Sullivan In With Para. Release

E. B. Derr and Charles Sullivan will soon get under way with the production of a group of pictures with the Pathe studios to be used as their production base.

The schedule calls for twelve pictures during the year and it is understood that from four to six of the twelve will be released by Paramount, with a probable Fox release for the rest.

The D-S duo that functioned so well in getting out the Pathe product three years ago have been ready to go since last November, having had their full financing at that time and also all the stories they intended to do for the first year, but the release held them up until Zukor gave them the nod for a starter.

'Mutiny on the Bounty' To Have Big 'Name' Cast

Irving Thalberg is crowding "Mutiny on the Bounty" with a name cast. He has slated Robert Montgomery, Wallace Beery, Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, with Douglas Dumbrille getting a featured spot.

This is the Frank Lloyd picture which the director takes up for MGM when he finishes the Janet Gaynor production, "Servants' Entrance," at Fox.

Irv Cobb's First on Current Roach Program

While Irvin Cobb is signed for eight Hal Roach comedies, his first one, "Angle Worms," now in the making, will be issued this year as the concluding number on Roach's all-star series.

Exhibitors thus get a break with the humorist's first comedy at no extra cost. On the other hand, the release is expected to act as an audience appetizer for the seven to come next season.

Musical For Freund

The first picture to be directed by Karl Freund under his new contract with Universal, which the Nat Goldstone office negotiated, will be a musical with original story and score.

Eddie Robinson East

Edward G. Robinson and his wife left by train Saturday for New York. While the length of the vacation is indefinite, they will be away at least two weeks.

Columbia Goes High For Warner Baxter

In order to get the services of Warner Baxter for the Frank Capra picture, Columbia had to fork over $82,000 to Fox and Baxter. A record price for Columbia.

Rothacker To Head Erpi Studio Here

Watterson Rothacker will take over the desk vacated by J. M. Ridge as the boss of the General Service studios here, controlled by Electrical Research Products Inc.

The former First National boss will not only tend to the leasing space at that plant, but will have the first O.K. on all Erpi financing of production units in this sector.

'20th Century' Goes Big

Aided and abetted by a high-powered exploitation campaign engineered by Mike Newman, of the Columbia Exchange here, "Twentieth Century" at the RKO-Hillstreet drew in $4800 for the first three days' showing. This is nearly double normal business.

Zukor Organization Will Release At Least 24 Outside Pictures During Coming Year

New York.—Paramount will release at least 24 outside pictures during the coming year, a distinct departure from the policy the company has been working under almost since its inception. This change of the Paramount production front was made possible after months of hectic debate on the part of the top men in the Paramount organization, who were divided in their opinions about the plan.

The new setup will give Electrical Research from eight to twelve pictures

(Continued on Page 4)

Gable Definitely Set For 'Four Walls' Lead

Deciding to star Clark Gable in "Four Walls," MGM Saturday pushed the production up the schedule for a three months period until the player is available.

Edwin L. Marin moves over to direct "All Good Americans," but will return to the former assignment when it comes up at a later date. Wells Root is writing the screen play.

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

There is little doubt in the minds of any student of motion pictures, or of any branch of the entertainment business, that the Catholic Church, or any Church or all the Churches, can NOT keep people out of the picture houses or away from entertainment they want to see. As a matter of fact, it has always proved just the reverse; that just as soon as a priest or a minister calls attention to a picture, advising his flock not to see it, the theatre is generally packed with those congregations eager to see what all the shooting is about.

As a consequence, the war now being conducted against the screen by the Catholic and other churches, by the Parent-Teachers Association, the Federation of Women's Clubs and other organizations, holds but one GREAT DANGER and that is unfair legislation directed against this industry in the States and by the Federal Government. That's the trouble, that's the war to be fought. And this industry MUST give combat or lock up its doors and go out of business, because the effects of such legislation will put 90 per cent of the industry out of business anyhow.

The only way to fight that legislation is with the same weapons that are being used against this industry—PROPAGANDA.

(Continued on Page 4)

French Exhibs Want More American Pix

Paris.—Members of the French Cinema Owners Association have risen to the defence of American pictures and have voted a protest against the government's proposal to restrict American films.

The Cinema Owners, in a resolution presented to the government, declared that imports of American films should be increased, if anything, and added that of the 174 French films made in 1933, only 20 were good, while 65 were average, and the others thoroughly unworthy.

Halperins Set Two For Early Production

"Celebrities," a Hollywood story by George Manker Watters, and "The Man Who Couldn't Die," a Wandering Jew fantasy by Garnett Weston, are held by the Halperin Brothers for production in their new indie plans. Authors of the yarns will probably do the screen treatments.

Al Lichtman Appoints Lazarus His Assistant

New York.—Al Lichtman, general sales manager for United Artists, has appointed Paul Lazarus his assistant.

Steve McGrath steps into the Lazarus job as head of the contract department.

Laughton As Pirate

Paramount will star Charles Laughton in "Buccaneer," based on the life of the pirate, Sir Henry Morgan. Lawrence Stallings is writing the original.

French Para. Pictures

Paris.—For the third time, and they say it is serious now, Paramount has officially announced it will go into the production of French films. No starting date has been given.

NACIO BROWN and ARTHUR FREED WORDS and MUSIC "STUDENT TOUR"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher
FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

When Gene Fowler was at MGM he, of course, figured in a lot of story conferences. He was diligent about it too, and took notes all through the doings. Allen Rivkin and P. J. Wolfson, who happened to be working with Fowler on a particular story, were plenty impressed by Gene's seemingly rapt attention and his continual jottings. Rivkin figured that perhaps taking notes at conferences was the secret of the novelist's great success and, after one of the sessions, asked to see Fowler's notes. "Sure!" said Gene, handing over the papers. The sheets were full of notes for Fowler's new book on Pets! (!)

•

Oliver Marsh, y'know, has been Joan Crawford's bright, particular cameraman for many a moon now, having cameraed all her latest pictures. But Joan couldn't have Marsh for "Sacred and Profane Love" (just started) because he is busy on "The Merry Widow." Well, so, the other day Joan visited the "Widow" set and took Oliver a gardenia. After she left the set, Jeanette MacDonald sent out for a whole corsage of gardenias and, when they arrived, presented them to Marsh and made him wear them all day. All for a gag.

•

The Joe Mays gave a party Saturday night, because May starts at Fox today, directing "Music in the Air," with Erich Pommer producing. There was lots of bowling, billiards and music, and among those who participated were the Dick Wallaces (who get off to Scotland this week positively), Eddie Lowe, the Phil Bergs (Leila Hyams), the Sam Jaffes, the Eddie Knopfs, Annabelle (remember her in "July 14th"?) and her good-looking actor husband.

•

So Saturday night May Sunday locked her front door and went up stairs to sleep. But she forgot to lock her car. In fact she forgot to put her car in the garage at all. So when she woke up the car was gone! Stolen, of all things! And if there's anything la Sunday hates, it's walking!

New York REVIEWS

"LITTLE MISS MARKER"

Paramount prod.; director, Al Hall; writers, Damon Runyon, William R. Lipman, Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman.

Paramount Theatre

Mirror: Remarkable Shirley Temple, the most bewitching and talented child ever in the movies, plays the title role in this pleasant, sentimental little film. Little Miss Temple is so completely captivating, she stirs your interest in all the peculiar situations she develops.

Post: It may be a formula, but at least it isn't an overworked one, and its most enviable quality is the unexpected intrusion of comedy into situations which lie perilously close to sentimentality. It is this skilful mixture of moods which furnishes the chief delight of "Little Miss Marker"—this and the incredible acting of that incredible child, Shirley Temple. "Little Miss Marker" is Miss Temple's picture. Remarkably enough it is not classifiable as a sob picture. It has the saving grace of humor, and it has Shirley Temple.

Times: This picture is a delight in many respects, for it has been produced so pleasingly and with such efficient portrayals that only a dyed-in-the-wool cynic could fail to be affected by its sterling humor and pathos. Little Shirley Temple, the lovely tiny lass of "Stand Up and Cheer," is virtually the stellar performer and no more engaging child has been beheld on the screen.

News: One of the most amusing and touching films of the season. It is my advice that you beg, borrow or lift the price of admission to see it. The picture has, besides its lively plot, a bit of child acting that has not been seen since Jackie Coogan was a babe in Charlie Chaplin's arms.

Herald-Tribune: The picture is not without its affecting moments, but it would have had more of them had the direction been swifter. Shirley Temple most of all brings a lump to the throat by her naturalness. The cast enters into the spirit of the piece with vim, and there are really many amusing moments in it.

American: A load of laughter, salted with a tear or two, characterizes the excellent entertainment of "Little Miss Marker," for nothing less than your enthusiastic approval. Little Miss Temple is distinctly the star of the proceedings, and the promise given in her previous appearance is generously fulfilled by her exquisite achievement here.

World-Telegram: A good and pleasant little film. The really witty, often truly human and touching things make this sentimental little tale a grand piece of entertainment. It actually manages to be immensely moving and charming.

Sun: The picture has the same skilful blending of hard-boiled comedy and wholesale sentiment as "Lady For A Day"—the same background of tough mugs and dolls, the same kind of lively dialogue, and a whole new set of slangy lovable characters. "Little Miss Marker" is thoroughly delightful, and as funny a picture as you're likely to see for a good many months.

Journal: A heart-warming yarn that alternates comedy and sobs and emerges as utterly delightful entertainment. It's tenderly sentimental without being maudlin, and charming without being affected. You'll have a lot of laughs, an elegant cry and enjoy yourself immensely.

European Dance Gag 'Dancing Lady' Plug

Amsterdam.—"Dancing Lady" will have its first European showing here, at The Hague and at Rotterdam on June 1. Tied up with this showing will be one of the biggest exploitation stunts ever pulled in Europe.

A dance contest, embracing the countries of Holland, Belgium, Denmark, France, Hungary, Norway, Poland, Rumania, Spain and Switzerland, is being held, with MGM offering a free trip to Hollywood to the winners of the contest. The finals will be held here in conjunction with the opening of the picture.

Heming For Duffy Play

Henry Duffy will bring Violet Heming to the Coast June 18. Player opens in "Always Juliet" at San Francisco, following it with an appearance here in the same play.

Virgil Apger Promoted

Virgil Apger, assistant to Clarence Bull in MGM's portrait studio, has been promoted to publicity stills.

George Barbier Loaned For 'Resurrection' Role

Paramount is loaning George Barbier to Samuel Goldwyn for a part with Anna Sten in "Resurrection," which will probably go into production three weeks from today.

The assignment means Brian Foy will not be able to get Barbier to repeat his stage part in "That's Gratitude," which Frank Craven starts June 15. Foy is dickering with Columbia to borrow Walter Connolly.

Caesar Out of Radio

Arthur Caesar turned in his completed screen play on "Romance in Manhattan" at Radio Saturday and checked off the studio's payroll. Script is one of two up as Francis Lederer's next, which must be delivered to the theatres by August 31.

Al Santell Married

Alfred Santell was married Saturday at Yuma, Arizona, to Jane N. Kiethley, of Michigan City, Ind. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Earl A. Freeman.

Code to Yank 215 Theatres Into Line

New York.—The Code Authority on Saturday made public the names of 215 theatres in seventeen key cities which did not sign the Motion Picture Code, but which have taken advantage of privileges under it.

The Code Authority, therefore, is issuing a ruling that they are subject to assessments for expenses. The ruling also states that the payment of these assessments will not give these theatres the right to file protests and complaints, that right being reserved for theatres which signed the code assents.

Warners Set Brent

Although he has still some time to go in "Stamboul Quest" for MGM, George Brent was yesterday scheduled by Warners to go into the bracket spot with Jean Muir in "A Lady Surrenders" when he reports back to his home lot. The story is an original by Mary McCarthy Jr.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Open Forum:

One of my secretaries was able to get in and see me yesterday — I must fire my doorman — and showed me your item anent my Rolls.

I resent it. Keep your dirty editorial hands off my nice, new 1928 car. Or it'll fall to pieces.

I am decrying all of Hollywood's attitude to Rolls-Royces. In the first place it isn't putting on the dog at all because I counted the Rollses in town yesterday and there are sixty-four more than Fords.

Secondly, it's necessary for a bachelor. Anyway, this bachelor. So far I've had out two featured players, a supervisor, and a substitute Goldwyn girl. Tie that, if you can. What I'm trying to do is tie the Goldwyn girl.

If Joe Mankiewicz can get married I can get a Rolls. You mentioned "upkeep." Let me see Joe end up the year having spent only four hundred bucks on Elizabeth Young, counting insurance and a new seat cover.

And if Joe thinks he can rent Young out to studios, well, I can rent out my car. I don't know what he's asking for Young, but I get a hundred dollars a day.

Business managers may get in touch with Bren, Orsatti and Marx, who'll probably rent them their own cars, the crooks.

Sincerely,
NORMAN KRASNA

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

'NIGHT OF LOVE' CHARMING: 'THE PERSONALITY KID' GOOD

Star, Director and Talbot High Spots

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"
(Columbia)

Direction .....Victor Schertzinger
Original Story.....Charles Beahan, Dorothy Speare
Screen Play: S. K. Lauren, Edmund North and James Gow.
Music.....Victor Schertzinger and Gus Kahn
Photography .....Joseph Walker
Cast: Grace Moore, Tullio Carminati, Lyle Talbot, Luis Alberni, Andreas de Segurola, Mona Barrie, Henry Armetta, Jessie Ralph.

The making of an opera star, told with a great deal of good humor, a great deal of good taste and a great deal of good music, that will provide an altogether charming evening's entertainment in the theatre for practically the entire family.

Grace Moore comes back to pictures a really radiant singer—pounds lighter in both weight and temperament—her voice a complete pleasure to hear (and brilliantly recorded) and so beautifully photographed that you don't mind the fact that, through fifty percent of the picture, the gal's mouth is wide open, trilling out thrilling notes. Her singing of the exquisite aria from "Madame Butterfly" is not only the perfect triumphal climax of the picture story, but is actually the most beautiful rendition of song in the production, and you leave the theatre doubly convinced that you have really seen and heard the crowning success of a singer's career.

The heroine of the picture starts out by losing a radio contest, but decides to go to Italy to study anyway. While in Italy she is forced to take a job in a night club and is there discovered by the Maestro. The Maestro is through with mixing love and business and his training of our heroine is all business—he thinks, until our heroine walks out on him and goes to America. There she is about to make zee grand flop when just in the nick of time the Maestro shows up to lead her to success and the altar.

It's nothing new in the way of such stories, but it is told very delightfully and humanly by both writers and director. Victor Schertzinger besides contributing the directorial touches, also helped write the one original song, "One Night of Love," which will be heard around. Carminati is the great Maestro and weary lover, and his performance is nicely balanced between comedy and a Maestro's fiery temperament.

Lyle Talbot is a grand surprise package in the role of the discarded suitor. He plays a light comedy role and does so well by it that you're sorry he's not around more often. Luis Alberni is simply grand as the accompanist, walking off with two swell scenes. Jessie Ralph is very good as the duenna of the heroine. Mona Barrie as the menace does all right in a routine part but it isn't very exciting.

Joseph Walker's photography is on a par with the rest of the production.

Without seeming to quibble with a good picture, it is hereby suggested that, for the benefit of the production as a whole, most of the cutting be done on the "Carmen" scenes, which are not only too long but not for Miss Moore's operatic talents—just not her type, and slightly jarring in a musical performance so thrilling.

Jewish Wife Barred, German Actor Quits

Berlin.—Albert Bassermann, famous theatre and film artist, had the courage to quit the profession because the government wouldn't allow his wife to appear on the Leipzig stage. She was barred because her grandmother was not Aryan.

Barthelmess-Erpi Talking About Deal

"Watty" Rothacker and Richard Barthelmess will go into a huddle today that may tend to place Dick in a production immediately, with Erpi financing the show and with Paramount to do the releasing

In the event that negotiations flop, Barthelmess will leave tomorrow for New York and probably Europe on an extended vacation.

Ernst Frank to Direct 'What Women Dream'

Universal has assigned Ernst L. Frank to direct "What Women Dream," which William Hurlbut is scripting.

Picture will be an English version of a German picture, the second one recently handled in this manner by the studio. "The Secret of the Blue Room" was the American remake of a German talkie.

Frank Borzage Taking Troupe to West Point

Frank Borzage leaves for West Point next Friday with five members of the cast of "Flirtation Walk" to get them in scenes with the commencement exercises as background for the Warner picture.

Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Pat O'Brien and two players to be cast this week will make the trip.

Robinson Out of Warners

Casey Robinson turned in his closing notice at Warners Saturday. He finished work on "Earthworm Tractor" for Joe E. Brown, under Sam Bischoff's supervision.

3 For Hawks-Volck

Hans Kraly, Courtenay Terrett and Noel Francis have signed managerial tickets with the Hawks-Volck office.

Crosland, O'Brien And Farrell Score

"THE PERSONALITY KID"
(Warners)

Direction .....Alan Crosland
Authors .....Gene Towne, C. Graham Baker
Screen Play.....F. Hugh Herbert, Erwin Gelsey
Adaptation .....David Boehm
Photography .....William Reese
Cast: Pat O'Brien, Glenda Farrell, Claire Dodd, Henry O'Neill, Robert Gleckler, Thomas Jackson, Arthur Vinton, Clarence Muse, Clay Clement, George Cooper, George Pat Collins, Al Hill.

At first glance, the Warner picture, "The Personality Kid," looks like just another one of those yarns about the pork and beaner who makes a big splash in the prize ring through a series of framed fights.

But on second glance, the film is an expertly directed, wholly satisfactory piece of entertainment which, if not bristling with originality, is distinguished by swell, balanced production.

The story is almost too familiar to repeat, but there are just enough clever touches, and the whole thing is enlivened by such deft, honest direction, that the picture takes on a brand new aspect.

Pat O'Brien is the egotistical fighter, who climbs up near the championship, never dreaming that his sensational rise is due entirely to the ability of his opponents to lie down in the fifth round to the tune of a hundred bucks. Glenda Farrell is his wife and his manager, and she, with one eye on retirement to a little farm, doesn't care how the fights are won. When he finally realizes the frame-up, he quits and begins standing in bread lines. However, when he hears that his wife is going to have a baby, he accepts an offer to throw a fight. At the last moment, though, he crashes through and wins.

The story, by Gene Towne and C. Graham Baker, and adapted by David Boehm, could never have stood on its own merits without the strong direction of Alan Crosland, and the performances of Pat O'Brien and Glenda Farrell.

Clarence Muse is amusing as Shamrock; Claire Dodd has a grand role and makes the most of it; Thomas Jackson is well cast as a sports writer; and Henry O'Neill is seen to advantage.

William Reese's photography is worthy of Crosland's direction. F. Hugh Herbert and Erwin Gelsey wrote the screen play.

This one is a very reliable programmer, with a sustained good humor and honesty.

New Script For Roberts

Marguerite Roberts turned in her adaptation of "Intimate" at Paramount Friday and was assigned to work with Dana Burnet on "The End of the World" screen play. She previously worked on the treatment.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

We understand Mark Hellinger is seriously considering giving up his newspaper work. Not that we want to hasten his decision one way or the other, but we hereby submit a sample copy of a true story of a song writer in Hollywood. Of course, the names of the people are necessarily fictitious, as are the names of the city and the studio.

The Boy had just been called in by the head of a music publishing house in New York and had been given a six months contract to go to Hollywood and write music for the films.

His Mother: "He was ALWAYS a good boy."

His Father: "He WAS always a good boy."

His Sweetheart: "He was always a GOOD boy."

The Other Woman: "Why, the big poop."

As for the Boy, it was the dream of four years spent in the eighth grade of public school come true.

And so the Boy journeyed out to Hollywood and reported at the Big Studio and soon he was called in to the Front Office and given as his first assignment a Two Weeks Vacation.

Fresh from his Vacation, the Boy came back to Hollywood and in due time he was called in to the Front Office and given his second assignment. He was to write a song for a Big Picture even then in Production. Just a little number because in the Big Picture this particular song was to be hooted off the screen.

So the Boy, Thinking It Over, decided to brush up a Little Number that he had dashed off and tried to sell in New York and it was put into the Big Picture and a lot of Time and Money were spent in Putting It Over, to be Hooted Off the Screen.

But when the songs in the Big Picture were submitted to the Music Publishers in New York, Lo! the Boy's Little Number which was hooted off the screen was found to be the "Pop" (for popular) Number of them all. And the Boy found himself a Success and returned to New York and married his Sweetheart, and his hometown New York newspapers interviewed the Boy's family and it was interesting to see how it affected each one of them.

His Mother: "He was ALWAYS a good boy."

His Father: "He WAS always a good boy."

His Wife: "He was always a GOOD boy."

The Other Woman: "Why, the BIG poop."

Well, the part about the vacation and the song are true, anyways, and that's Hollywood for you, my lads.—(Ed.'s Note.)

Valentine at MGM

Joe Valentine has been set to do the photography on MGM's "Student Tour," which gets under way today. The deal was set by the ASC agency.

Brandt and Physioc To Do Six in Orient

Neale Brandt and Lewis Physioc are planning to make a series of six short subjects of highly dramatic nature, laid in the jungles of the Federated Malay States and China.

Both Physioc and Brandt have spent much time in the Malay country and, through their contacts there, they figure on making their pictures at much less cost than would ordinarily be entailed. They are dickering with two major companies now for a release, and expect to leave for the Far East as soon as this is set.

The pictures slated are: "The Faithful Pet," "Monkeys, Malays and Cocoanuts," "The Python Feast," "Tamil Coolies and the Man-Eating Tiger," "Hok-Kein Chinese Ceremonies" and "Just Elephants."

Baptists Praise Films, Denounce Radio Bills

Rochester.—Delegates to the annual Northern Baptists convention Saturday were told that the motion picture is one of the greatest means of public education, and urged that radio programs be cleaned up. These statements were contained in a report of the committee on the American home.

The report urged that an effort be made to eliminate the exciting broadcasts, featuring crime, murder and other horrors.

Cagney and O'Brien to Be Team in 'Air Devils'

Warners has definitely decided to wean James Cagney away from the tough, gangster type of character he has been enacting and will team him with Pat O'Brien again in "Air Devils," an original John Monk Saunders story which the studio has just purchased.

Cagney and O'Brien were teamed in "Hey, Sailor."

John Boles Gets Lead In Fox 'Music in the Air'

Eric Pommer will get John Boles for the leading role in "Music in the Air," which he is producing for Fox. The player has yet to take the bracket spot with Irene Dunne in "Age of Innocence" for Radio, reporting back to Fox after he has gone through with that commitment. Joe May directs the Pommer picture.

Foster Set For Two

Preston Foster's first work on his new MGM contract will be in "Sacred and Profane Love." He also has a spot in Garbo's "Painted Veil," which goes into production next week.

Morosco Turns Agent

Walter Morosco drops the production mantle to venture into the agency field, today joining the Small-Landau office as an associate. He recently held a supervisory spot at Fox.

Crane Wilbur at Col.

Crane Wilbur was signed by Columbia Saturday for a featured role in "The Criminal Within." Ivan Kahn set the ticket.

TRADEVIEWS

(Continued from Page 1)

Seated in this chair, we are of the firm belief that there is nothing wrong with the subjects used for the production of our pictures or the finished pictures, save an occasional bit of vulgarity that is brought about by the stupidity of some of our producers. That can and will be eliminated. But as for the rest, we are making the same type pictures (only better entertainment) now that have been made during the many years since the inception of the business. The same type subjects are being used, must be used in order to attract the public to our halls to see our shows. Our producers must reflect life and, to do that, they must produce stories that have as their background love, passion and crime. What kind of a story are you going to tell without these three ingredients? Yes, certainly, an occassional travel picture whose very educational value makes it interesting, but otherwise we must stick to the same fundamentals of drama that were used at the time of Christ and his Apostles; must use the same mirror that reflected the writing of the Bible.

•

The first picture we ever saw was "The Great Train Robbery," and most of our stories since the day of the production of that picture concerned themselves with some kind of robbery. We are using the same type story today that was used last year, the year before and every year before that. We are telling the same tale that was told during the time of Christ, during the period in which the Bible was written. Consequently, why this damaging propaganda against our industry right at this time? Why not ban the spoken word of Christ? Why not deny the teachings of the Bible? Why not bar that Bible from public reading?

There's nothing wrong with this business now that was not wrong before. There is no reason for the Catholic and other churches jumping on us right at this time other than our own timidity in permitting them to do it without offering some form of defense, without offering a fight for OUR RIGHTS. We don't mean that our leaders should fight the Church, for that's a losing fight, but we should fight this propaganda that is smothering us with propaganda that will defend us.

•

How far do you think the Churches, reform organizations and even the Government itself would get with a fight directed against the newspapers and what they printed? There will be no such fight for the simple reason that the Church and the Government KNOW the press will fight back and will win that fight.

Suppose the producers of motion pictures should attempt to screen some of the things that the newspapers of this nation foist on their reading public every day, what do you think would happen? We know a very successful editor of one of the country's big tabloids who recently directed that a picture of an attractive girl in some degree of nudity, should be run EVERY DAY in a given position in that sheet, explaining, "That's for our masturbating readers." Suppose our pictures were built on such a foundation.

The press fights its battles, when there is one to fight. Why must the motion picture industry sit with its hands folded and permit its very vitals to be torn out with hardly a move to protect itself?

Our more intelligent leaders should get together and map out an answer to this WAR ON PICTURES. Map it out and tell it to the world. FIGHT PROPAGANDA WITH PROPAGANDA and let all the professional reformers and money-starved politicians know that we are going to have a hand in any battle directed against this business by SHOWING THEM THE POWER OF THE SCREEN ,which can have greater effect than the press ever thought of having.

'All Good Americans' First For Marin at MGM

First directorial assignment at MGM for Edwin L. Marin will be "All Good Americans," a comedy of American expatriates in Paris, written for the stage by Laura and S. J. Perelman. Screen adaptation is by Wells Root.

The picture will be cast this week, for production starting next week. Lucien Hubbard is the supervisor.

David Landau to Fox

David Landau was signed by Fox Saturday for a top spot in the Will Rogers supporting cast in "Old Judge Priest," Harry Spingler, of the Small-Landau office, setting the deal.

Walker Casting at 'U'

Stuart Walker starts casting today for "Romance in the Rain," which is scheduled to start at Universal June 4. Principals are Heather Angel, Victor Moore and June Knight.

Miriam Jordan East

Miriam Jordan has gone to New York by plane to arrange a deal which will take her to the stage this Fall.

Schary Sells Play

Sidney Harmon purchased "Violence," a play by Dore Schary, Saturday. The producer will offer it to Paul Muni and plans to put it on Broadway in the Fall. Warners is negotiating a supervisory berth for Harmon.

Technical Troupe Back

MGM's auxiliary "Rear Car" troupe is due back at the studio today or tomorrow from a week's stand at Truckee for railroad tunnel and snow shots and sound. John Watters heads the unit, which is entirely technical.

New French Censors

Paris.—According to a new decree of the government, all films will be censored by the "Direction Generale des Beaux Arts" instead of by the Chambre Syndicale as in the past.

Elsa Buchanan Set

With her status as an English actress ironed out with Equity, Elsa Buchanan opens tonight in support of Lilian Bond in "Bitter Harvest" at the Playhouse.

Raymond Upset by Levine's Foster Ad

New York.—Gene Raymond is all hot and bothered over Nat Levine's ad in the Reporter, announcing a picture called "Harmony Lane," based on the life of Stephen Collins Foster.

The reason is that, for ten years, Raymond has been collecting data and material about Foster, with the idea of eventually making a picture. He has acquired screen rights to fictionized episodes from Foster's life and has bought the John Tasker Howard biography, and a Foster play, by Innes Osborne. Other material has been acquired from the National Broadcasting Company, and now Gene sees all his time and work gone to waste. At present he is trying to see what action, if any, he can take to protect himself.

More Stench Bombs in Operators' Union War

New York.—Two ex-convicts were held without bail here yesterday on charges of dropping stench bombs in a motion picture theatre.

The bombs are another move in the war between the rival operators' unions. These bombers were out of luck because police, who have been watching the theatres, were in the house when the bombs were broken.

Verne Yarn Starts Soon

Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," which Phil Goldstone will produce, is slated to get under way about June 10.

Para's Indie Product

(Continued from Page 1)

for Paramount release, B. P. Schulberg six to twelve, the Derr-Sullivan group four to six and a possibility of the same number from Charles R. Rogers, with a space left on the program for about six other pictures of outstanding quality that may bob up during the year.

In each instance Paramount reserves the right of okay on everything. It must approve of the story, the cast and the direction and, in instances where it can help without hurting its own production set-up, will loan players, writers and directors to the independent producers.

From all that can be gathered, George Schaefer was the power that fought it through, but not getting it through until he had sold Adolph Zukor firmly on the idea that Paramount could not produce from 50 to 60 pictures a year and come out with the right quality. Emanuel Cohen, Paramount's production head, was dead set against the outside production and weathered the storm until Zukor gave his approval.

It is understood that only in the instance of the B. P. Schulberg productions does Paramount participate in any of the financing and in that instance with but 50 per cent of the costs. With the others, the production must be financed 100 per cent by the producers, with Paramount to okay all production budgets and the profits to be split 50-50 after the producer is returned his full 100 per cent out of the first money, with a 30 per cent deduction for releasing expense.

ONCE MORE

MY GRATEFUL THANKS TO ALL WHO MADE POSSIBLE

"GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE"

"ANOTHER LANGUAGE"

"GOING HOLLYWOOD"

"QUEEN CHRISTINA"

WALTER WANGER

PICTURES NOW SHOOTING

PRODUCTION DOWN SLIGHTLY WITH 35 IN WORK

BAROMETER

This Week	35 Features
Last Week	37 Features
Year Ago	25 Features
Two Years Ago	30 Features
Three Years Ago	36 Features

Columbia

"THE DEFENSE RESTS"

Cast: Jack Holt, Jean Arthur, Nat Pendleton, Donald Meek, Ward Bond, Sarah Padden, John Wray, Raymond Hatton, Raymond Walburn, Arthur Hohl, Shirley Grey, Samuel Hinds, Robert Gleckler.
Director .....Lambert Hillyer
Original Screen Play .....Jo Swerling
Photography .....Joseph August
Associate Producer.....Robert North

"BLIND DATE"

Cast Ann Sothern, Paul Kelly, Mickey Rooney, Spencer Charters, Jane Darwell, Joan Gale, Geneva Mitchell, Neil Hamilton, Theodore Newton, Tyler Brooke.
Director.....Roy William Neill
Original Screen Play.....Ethel Hill
Photography .....Al Siegler
Associate Producer .....Robert North

"THE CRIMINAL WITHIN"

Cast: Richard Cromwell, Arline Judge, Rita La Roy, Henry Kolker, Bradley Page, Purnell Pratt, Wallis Clark, Thomas Jack, Bill Davidson, George Humbert.
Director .....Al Rogell
Original Screen Play: Herbert Asbury and Fred Niblo Jr.
Photography .....John Stumar
Producer .....Sid Rogell

Fox

"CARAVAN"

Cast: Charles Boyer, Loretta Young, Jean Parker, Phillips Holmes, Louise Fazenda, Eugene Pallette, C. Aubrey Smith, Dudley Digges, Richard Carle, Charles Grapewin, Billy Bevan, Armand Kaliz, Harry Bradley.
Director .....Erik Charell
Original Story.....Melchoir Lengyel
Screen Play and Dialogue—
Samson Raphaelson
Continuity.....Robert Liebmann
Music.....Werner Richard Heymann
Lyrics .....Gus Kahn
Photography.....Ernest G. Palmer
Sound .....A. L. Von Kirbach
Producer .....Robert Kane

"SHE WAS A LADY"

Cast: Helen Twelvetrees, Donald Woods, Ralph Morgan, Paul Harvey, Jackie Searl, Carol Kay, Doris Lloyd, Ann Howard.
Director .....Hamilton MacFadden
Novel .....Elisabeth Cobb
Screen Play.....Gertrude Purcell
Photography .....Bert Glennon
Sound .....Don Flick
Producer .....Al Rockett

MGM

"BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET"

Cast: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Sullivan, Ferdinand Munier, Katharine Alexander, Marion Clayton, Ian Woolf, Una O'Connor, Vernon Downing, Neville Clark, Matthew Smith, Robert Carlton, Allan Conrad, Peter Hobbes, Ralph Forbes, Lowden Adams, Leo G. Carroll.
Director .....Sidney Franklin
From play by.....Rudolf Besier
Screen Play.....Claudine West
and Ernest Vajda
Add. Dialogue..Donald Ogden Stewart
Photography .....William Daniels
Producer .....Irving Thalberg

"TREASURE ISLAND"

Cast: Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper, Lionel Barrymore, Otto Kruger, Lewis Stone, Cora Sue Collins, Dorothy Peterson, William V. Mong, Douglas Dumbrille, Nigel Bruce, Chic Sale.
Director .....Victor Fleming
Novel.....Robert Louis Stevenson
Screen Play.....John Lee Mahin
Photography .....Hal Rosson
Producer .....Hunt Stromberg

"100% PURE"

Cast: Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, Patsy Kelly, Lewis Stone, Franchot Tone, Hale Hamilton, Clara Blandick, Alan Mowbray, Henry Kolker, Russell Hopton, Gary Owen, Ben Bard.
Director .....Jack Conway
Original Screen Play.....Anita Loos
and John Emerson
Photography .....Ray June
Producer .....Bernard Hyman

"THE MERRY WIDOW"

Cast: Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Minna Gombell, Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, Barbara Leonard, Sterling Holloway, George Barbier, Joan Gale, Sheila Manora, Leona Walters, Edna Walde, Barbara Barondess, Shirley Ross, Dorothy Granger, Jean Hart, Elinor Hunt, Dorothy Wilson, Jill Dennett, Maria Troubetylcoy, Tyler Brooke, Cosmo Kyrle Bellew, George Lewis, John Merkyl, Charles Requa, Fifi D'Orsay.
Director .....Ernst Lubitsch
Original Operetta.....Franz Lehar
Screen Play.....Ernest Vajda
and Samson Raphaelson
Dance Director .....Albertina Rasch
Photography .....Oliver Marsh
Producer .....Irving Thalberg

"THE GREEN HAT"

Cast: Constance Bennett, Herbert Marshall, Henry Stephenson, Mrs. Pat Campbell, Leo Carroll, Hugh Williams, Alec B. Francis, Elizabeth Allan, Robert Lorraine.
Director .....Robert Z. Leonard
Novel .....Michael Arlen
Photography .....Charles Rosher
Producer .....Irving Thalberg

"REAR CAR"

Cast: Charlie Ruggles, Una Merkel, Mary Carlisle, Russell Hardie, Porter Hall, Cliff Thompson, Willard Robertson, Sterling Holloway, "Snowflake," Berton Churchill, Wilfred Lukas, Akim Tamiroff, John David Horsley.
Director .....Harry Beaumont
Play .....Edward E. Rose
Adaptation .....Harvey Thew
Screen Play: Ralph Spence, Edgar Allan Woolf and Al Boasberg.
Photography .....James Van Trees
Producer .....Lucien Hubbard

"STAMBOUL QUEST"

Cast: Myrna Loy, George Brent, Lionel Atwill, C Henry Gordon, Douglas Dumbrille, Christian Rub, Rudolph Amendt, Robert Gleckler, Reginald Barlow, Leo Carroll, Judith Vosselli.
Director .....Sam Wood
Original ..... Leo Birinski
Photography .....James Wong Howe
Producer .....Bernard Hyman

"SACRED AND PROFANE LOVE"

Cast: Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Otto Kruger, Stuart Erwin.
Director .....Clarence Brown
Original .....Edgar Selwyn
Screen Play.....John Lee Mahin
Photography .....George Folsey
Producer .....Hunt Stromberg

"THE STUDENT TOUR"

Chast: Charles Butterworth, Jimmy Durante, Phil Regan, Maxine Doyle.
Director .....Charles F. Reisner
Original Screen Play: Arthur Bloch and George Seaton.
Photography .....Joseph Valentine
Producer .....Monta Bell

Paramount

"IT AIN'T NO SIN"

Cast: Mae West, Roger Pryor, John Miljan, Katharine DeMille, James Donlan, Frederick Burton, Augusta Anderson, Duke Ellington and orchestra, Johnny Mack Brown, Stuart Holmes, Harry Woods, Benny Baker, Morrie Cohen, Warren Hymer, Wade Boteler, George Walsh, Eddie Borden, Fuzzy Knight, Tyler Brooke.
Director .....Leo McCarey
Original Screen Play.....Mae West
Music and Lyrics: Arthur Johnston and Sam Coslow.
Photography .....Karl Struss
Sound .....Harry Mills
Producer .....William LeBaron

"THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY"

Cast: W. C. Fields, Baby LeRoy, Judith Allen, Joe Morrison, Samuel Ethridge, Ruth Marion, William Blatchford, Jan Duggan, Tammany Young, Jack Mulhall, Oscar Apfel, Joe Mills, Emma Ray, Otis Harlan, Nora Cecil, Richard Carle, Lew Kelly, Oscar Smith, Edward J. Le Saint, Davison Clark, Dorothy Bay, Maxine Elliott Hicks, Larry Grenier, Ruth Marion, Jeffrey Williams, Dell Henderson.
Director .....William Beaudine
Original .....W. C. Fields
Adaptation: Walter DeLeon and Garnett Weston.
Screen Play: J. P. McEvoy and Jack Cunningham.
Music .....Harry Revel
Lyrics .....Mack Gordon
Photography .....Ben Reynolds
Sound .....P. J. Wisdom
Producer .....William LeBaron

"THE NOTORIOUS SOPHIE LANG"

Cast: Gertrude Michael, Paul Cavanagh, Arthur Byron, Alison Skipworth, Ben Taggart, Leon Errol, Charles Judels, Franklin Pangborn.
Director .....Ralph Murphy
Original....Frederick Irving Anderson
Screen Play.....Anthony Veiller
and Frederick Irving Anderson
Photography.....Al Gilks
Sound .....Henry Lindgren
Producer .....Bayard Veiller

"NOW AND FOREVER"

Cast: Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard, Shirley Temple, Sir Guy Standing, Charlotte Granville, Tetsu Komai, Jameson Thomas, Gilbert Emery, Henry Kolker, Harry Stubbs.
Director .....Henry Hathaway
Original: Jack Kirkland and Melville Baker.
Adaptation .....Austin Parker
Screen Play: Vincent Lawrence and Sylvia Thalberg.
Photography .....Harry Fischbeck
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

PICTURES Now SHOOTING

THIS WEEK AS COMPARED WITH 37 LAST WEEK

"LADIES SHOULD LISTEN"

Cast: Cary Grant, Frances Drake, Edward Everett Horton, Charles E. Arnt, Nydia Westman, George Barbier, Rafael Corio, Rosita Moreno, Charlie Ray.
Director .....Frank Tuttle
Original: Alfred Savoir and Guy Bolton
Adaptation .....Guy Bolton
Screen Play: Frank Butler and Claude Binyon.
Photography .....Henry Sharp
Producer .....Douglas MacLean

"LADIES FIRST"

Cast: George Bancroft, Frances Fuller, Roscoe Karns, George Barbier, Nella Walker, Charles Sellon, Helena Phillips Evans, Ruth Clifford, Albert Conti, Vera Stedman, Helene Lynch, Marie Wells, Eddie Baker, Duke York, William Robins, Alf P. James.
Director .....Gilbert Pratt
Original: George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly.
Screen Play.....Humphrey Pearson
Photography .....William Mellor
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

RKO-Radio

"HAT, COAT AND GLOVE"

Cast: Ricardo Cortez, Barbara Robbins, John Beal, Sara Hayden, Samuel Hinds, Murray Kinnell, Margaret Hamilton.
Director .....Worthington Minor
Play .....Wilhelm Speyer
Screen Play.....Francis Faragoh
Photography .....Roy Hunt
Sound .....George Ellis
Producer .....Kenneth Macgowan

United Artists

Reliance Pictures, Inc.

(RKO-Pathe)

"COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO"

Cast: Robert Donat, Elissa Landi, Louis Calhern, Sidney Blackmer, O. P. Heggie, Raymond Walburn, Lawrence Grant, Luis Alberni, Georgia Caine, Irene Hervey, Douglas Walton, Ferdinand Munier, Lionel Belmore, William Farnum, Wilfred Lucas, Clarence Wilson, Tom Ricketts, Clarence Muse.
Director.....Rowland V. Lee
Original .....Alexandre Dumas
Adaptation .....Harvey Thew and Harry Hervey
Screen Play and Dialogue ..... Philip Dunne and Dan Totheroh
Photography .....Peverell Marley
Producer .....Edward Small

Universal

"ONE MORE RIVER"

Cast: Diana Wynyard, Frank Lawton, Colin Clive, Henry Stephenson, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Jane Wyatt, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny, Kathleen Howard, Lionel Atwill, Alan Mowbray, Gilbert Emery, E. E. Clive, Robert Greig, Gunnis Davis, Tempe Pigott.
Director .....James Whale
Story .....John Galsworthy
Screen Play.....R. C. Sherriff
Photography .....John Mescal

"THERE'S ALWAYS TOMORROW"

Cast: Frank Morgan, Binnie Barnes, Lois Wilson, Louise Latimer, Elizabeth Young, Robert Taylor, Helen Parrish, Dick Winslow, Alan Hale, Maurice Murphy, Margaret Hamilton, Anne Darling, Dean Benton.
Director .....Edward Sloman
Original Screen Play....Edward Sloman
Continuity.....Christine Ames and William Hurlbut
Photography .....Norbert Brodine
Producer .....Henry Henigson

"THE RED RIDER"

(Serial)

Cast: Buck Jones, Grant Withers, Janet Chandler, Walter Miller, Richard Cramer, Margaret La Marr, Charles French, Edmund Cobb, J. P. McGowan, William Desmond, Mert LaVare, Frank Rice, Monte Montague, Jim Thorpe, Jim Corey, Bud Osborne, Al Ferguson, Silver, Lee Beggs, Dennie Meadows, Cliff Lyons.
Director .....Louis Friedlander
Original .....W. C. Tuttle
Screen Play: George Plympton, Bin Moore, Ella O'Neill, Basil Dickey.
Photography .....Richard Fryer
Sound .....Charles Carroll
Associate Producer.....Henry MacRae

Warners-First National

"DAMES"

Cast: Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Virginia Pine, Ronny Cosby, Zasu Pitts, Bess Flowers, Pat O'Malley, Mary McLaren, Johnny Arthur, Arthur Vinton, Hobart Cavanaugh, Arthur Aylesworth, Leila Bennett, Phil Regan.
Directors.....Ray Enright and Busby Berkeley
Original .....Robert Lord
Screen Play.....Delmer Daves
Music and Lyrics: Harry Warren, Al Dubin, Sammy Fain, Irving Kahal, Mort Dixon, Allie Rubel.
Photography .....George Barnes
Supervisor .....Robert Lord

"BRITISH AGENT"

Cast: Leslie Howard, Kay Francis, Phillip Reed, Tenen Holtz, J. Carrol Naish, Gregory Gaye, Halliwell Hobbes, Doris Lloyd, Alphonse Ethier, Irving Pichel, Walter Byron, William Gargan, Ivan Simpson, Paul Porcasi, George Pearce, Walter Armitage, Cesar Romero, Arthur Aylesworth, Mariana Schubert.
Director .....Michael Curtiz
Novel.....H. Bruce Lockhart
Screen Play.....Laird Doyle
Dialogue.....Roland Pertwee
Photography .....Ernest Haller
Supervisor.....Henry Blanke

"THE DRAGON MURDER CASE"

Cast: Warren William, Margaret Lindsay, Lyle Talbot, Robert Barrat, Arthur Aylesworth, Robert McWade, Eugene Pallette, George Meeker, Etienne Girardot, Dorothy Tree, George S. Stone, Helen Lowell, William Davidson, Robert Warwick.
Director .....H Bruce Humberstone
Story.....S. S. Van Dine
Screen Play.....F. Hugh Herbert and Robert N. Lee
Adaptation .....Rian James
Photography .....Tony Gaudio
Supervisor.....Henry Blanke

"KANSAS CITY PRINCESS"

Cast: Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell, Hugh Herbert, Robert Armstrong, Gordon Westcott, T. Roy Barnes, Osgood Perkins, Ivan Lebedeff, Vince Barnett, Hobart Cavanaugh.
Director .....William Keighley
Original Screen Play.....Manuel Seff and Sy Bartlett
Photography .....George Barnes
Supervisor.....Lou Edelman

Independent Productions

Invincible

(Universal Studio)

"HOUSE OF STRANGERS"

Cast: Erich Von Stroheim, Wera Engels, Leslie Fenton, George Humbert, William von Brincken, Anna de Metrio, Hans Ferberg, Michael Visaroff, Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, Hank Mann, Harry Holman.
Director .....Frank Strayer
Original .....Charles S. Belden
Continuity and Dialogue: Charles S. Belden and Robert Ellis.
Photography .....Andy Anderson
Producer .....Maury Cohen

Majestic

(Darmour Studio)

"THE SCARLET LETTER"

Cast: Colleen Moore, Hardie Albright, Henry B. Walthall, William Farnum, Alan Hale, William Kent, Betty Blythe, Cora Sue Collins, Virginia Howell, Jules Cowles, Alma Chester, Flora Finch.
Director .....Robert Vignola
Novel .....Nathaniel Hawthorne
Screen Play: Leonard Fields and David Silverstein.
Photography.....James S. Brown Jr.
Producer .....Larry Darmour

Mascot

(Mack Sennett Studio)

"BURN 'EM UP BARNES"

(Serial)

Cast: Jack Mulhall, Frankie Darro, Lola Lane, Julian Rivero, Edwin Maxwell, James Bush, Jason Robards, Francis McDonald, John Davidson, Eddie Hearn, Stanley Blystone, Alan Bridge.
Directors: Bert Clark and Armand Schaeffer.
Original Screen Play: Al Martin, Sherman Lowe and Wyndham Gittens.
Photography ..... Ernie Miller
Supervisor .....Victor Zobel

Monogram

(General Service Studios)

(Lone Star Production)

"JANE EYRE"

Cast: Virginia Bruce, Colin Clive, Beryl Mercer, Aileen Pringle, Jameson Thomas, Lionel Belmore, Joan Standing, Ethel Griffies, Edith Kingdon, Edith Fellowes, William Wagner, Claire DuBrey, Jean Darling, Richard Quine, Anne Howard, Clarice Selwyn, Hylda Tyson, John Rogers, David Torrence, Greta Gould, Gail Kay, Olaf Hytten, William Burress, Desmond Roberts.
Director .....Christy Cabanne
Novel .....Charlotte Bronte
Screen Play.....Adele Commandini
Photography .....Robert Planck
Supervisor .....Ben Verschleiser

"HAPPY LANDINGS"

Cast: Ray Walker, Jacqueline Wells, Noah Beery, William Farnum, Morgan Conway, Hiram Hoover, Warner Richmond, Eddie Featherstone, Ruth Romaine, Tom Brower, Billie Erwin, Leon Holmes, Herbert Vigran, Donald Reed.
Director .....R. N. Bradbury
Original Screen Play....Stuart Anthony
Photography .....Archie Stout
Producer .....Paul Malvern

Willis Kent

(International Studio)

"GUNS FOR HIRE"

Cast: Lane Chandler, Sally Darling, John Ince, Ben Corbett, Steve Clemente, Frank Morris, Yakima Canutt, Charles Whitaker, Bill Patton, Jack Rothwell, Nelson McDowell, John McGuire.
Director .....Lew Collins
Story .....C. D. Mann
Adaptation: Willis Kent and Oliver Drake.
Photography .....James Diamond
Producer .....Willis Kent

WHAT'S WHAT

BRULATOUR BULLETIN

WHO'S WHO

Published Every Monday — J. E. BRULATOUR, Inc., Distributors — Eastman Motion Picture Films

the REFLECTOR

New pictures continue to bring new photographic thrills along with better stories and perfect casting . . . "Twentieth Century," produced by Columbia, pins a new medal on the manly chest of Joe August . . . There's one shot of Barrymore with his BACK to the camera that equals anything that any photographer has ever done of the famous face—and boys and girls—you'll agree with us when you see this picture . . . And while we're tossing the orchids, this fellow Seid is keeping pace with his own studio in progress . . . meaning that he's in the front row of labchiefs along with the others of the beeg majors.

•

And while we're chatting about labchiefs, we just bumped into Frank Garbutt in the corridor on the maternity floor at Good Samaritan Hospital and this time it's a girl. . . . We positively know of several 'expectations' in top camera ranks skedded for this summer . . . fine bunch of YOUNGSTERS, these cameramen.

•

Independent production is looking up . . . Eddie Small is now producing "Monte Cristo" and readying another for a quick start . . . Joe Schnitzer is getting set to resume as an independent producer . . . Charlie Rogers' plans are crystalizing . . . Two new outfits here from New York will be shooting within ten days . . . Trem Carr has a schedule of serious size and generally has two or more clicking at the same time . . . Larry Darmour and Harold Hopper are in production with two at the same time at Darmour Studio and a dozen features are set to go before August first under the banner of independents not named here . . . so it looks like Independence Day this year will mean fireworks.

•

Fox Studios are in the midst of a slight lull this week, with O'Connell, Mohr, Schneiderman, waiting for new assignments . . . Artie Miller at the same studio is still home, but doing very nicely . . . Charlie Lang getting another week's vacation due to his production being stopped; possibly will go back to work tomorrow . . . Bill Mellor, whose elevation to first cameraman we reported last week, doing very nicely after his second week on his first Paramount picture . . . Roy Hunt, RKO, is also enjoying a week's vacation, due to changes in the cast of his picture . . . Winnie Wenstrom washed up "Afterwards" with Jim Cruze, and will have a few weeks to himself—too bad it's not duck season, as Winnie's a strenuous hunter—of ducks . . . Ray Rennahan and Bill Skall have been knocking out an average of one Technicolor short a week, and have made two in a row at RKO, and seem to love it.

Glennon Locationing

Bert Glennon, who drew the assignment on photography for Hamilton McFadden's Fox production, "She Was A Lady," left last week with the entire company for the mountain district north of Bishop—(right in the very heart of the trout country)—where they will remain for a week or ten days shooting exteriors.

"Wasn't The Depression Awful?"

During two days of last week approximately one hundred—this is NOT a typographical error: we repeat, 100—operative cameramen and assistants were on the MGM payroll—and active. This is undoubtedly a new all-time record for one studio, and is an excellent barometer of production activity for the present summer in Hollywood.

Among the busiest of the cinematographers on the MGM staff, Hal Rosson set out for Catalina on week-end location with Victor Fleming; Jimmy Howe starts a new one with Sam Wood; Ollie Marsh continues with Lubitsch photographing "The Wedding March"; Bob Leonard is giving the starting cue to Charlie Rosher; Jimmy Van Trees taking care of the cameras on the Harry Beaumont unit; Len Smith is locationing in Arizona on special work, also for the Beaumont unit; Clyde De Vinna again jumped to Catalina for additional shots on the Clarence Brown picture; Jackson Rose, Irving Lipstein and Harold Marzoratti are all on special effects for a number of current MGM productions, and this trio is keeping constantly busy with this work.

At Columbia

Rushing to cast three or four important features scheduled for early production, the Columbia Gower street plant is hitting its peak of the year.

"The Criminal Within," under the direction of Al Rogell, is being photographed by Johnny Stumar, with results highly pleasing to everybody concerned.

Al Siegler is assigned to the Roy Neal picture, "Blind Date"; while Joe August is photographing the Jack Holt vehicle, "The Defense Rests."

Benny Kline is taking a quick vacation, and Henry Freulich, recently elevated to the ranks of first cameramen, has completed his fourth assignment as the Number One boy.

Entire Columbia camera staff will be occupied within another week and production will continue here at top speed until mid-August or first of September.

Musuraca's Vacation

Nick Musuraca hops into his new car and off on a well-earned vacation. Nick is one of those quiet fellows who does not say a great deal, and consequently is not so well known off his home lot (RKO), but his fine, consistent, artistic photographic results on the screen have earned for him an enviable record with every director and star he has ever been associated with. His last three features made in quick succession were, "Arabella," "Murder on the Blackboard" and "Sing and Like It."

Arnold Proud

That long-awaited event at the Arnold household became an actuality Friday evening when a six pound baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold. Mrs. Arnold and the new heir are doing splendidly and will receive their friends for several weeks at the Hollywood Hospital. John was busy over the week-end receiving congratulations from his myriad friends and associates. He's already had them from us so we won't repeat them here.

De Vinna Off Again

Bored to tears with a couple of quick jumps to Mexico and to Catalina, Clyde De Vinna is polishing up his well-worn seven league boots for a jump to Indo-China, where he will be locationing for the next couple of months on an assignment for backgrounds on the forthcoming Garbo picture, "The Painted Veil."

Accompanying De Vinna will be Harry Parkins, who is making his first long location jump with the globe-trotting photographer. Also in the party will be H. D. Watson, sound engineer, who was with De Vinna on the Alaska trip during the filming of "Eskimo." Jimmy MacKay, associate supervisor, will be in charge of the troupe, all scheduled to leave within a few days.

Valentine Moves West

Joe Valentine has been rapidly forging to the very front ranks of photography since his return to Fox earlier this year. Result of his fine achievement is reflected in his engagement by John Arnold of M. G. M., where he has started work on his initial production, "Hide-out," being directed by Chuck Reisner. Valentine has been doing some really remarkable work and is highly deserving of this latest good break.

At Universal

Dick Fryer is in charge of the cameras on the current Buck Jones serial, "The Redhead From Sundog," which Lou Friedlander directs.

John Mescall continues with James Whale on "One More River."

Norbert Brodine will soon be finishing "There's Always Tomorrow" with Sloman.

Snyder With Mayfair

Mayfair Productions, who have been plugging right along and making pictures for the past two years, and doing right well, thank you, have put "Alice Takes A Hand" into production, with Eddie Snyder at the camera and Spencer Bennet directing.

Edeson-Milestone Reunion

After repeated attempts by themselves, as well as by producers, Arthur Edeson and Lewis Milestone are reunited through a deal made this week by George Seid, in charge of Division of Photography, Columbia Pictures Studios.

Milestone has been working for many weeks on preparation of the story, "The Captain Hates the Sea," and was delighted when advised by General Manager Sam Briskin of Columbia that Seid had made the deal with Edeson.

the BUZZER

(NOTE: Each week, sales and service representatives of J. E. Brulatour, Inc. will ask a number of cameramen the same question. The question will be given and then the answers verbatim.)

WHAT ARE YOUR OPINOINS CONCERNING DOLLY SHOTS?

ERNIE HALLER (First National): There must be some very good reason for making a dolly shot; otherwise it is a waste of time, footage and effort.

BILL MELLOR (Paramount): In my opinion the use of dolly shots can be greatly overdone, and should be carefully thought out, and should have some definite place at which the camera stops so that actors can be allowed time to exit.

JOE VALENTINE (MGM): Personally I am not in favor of making dolly shots unless the people are actually in motion. Swinging the camera from one subject to another is only disconcerting and confusing.

MILTON KRASNER (Paramount): Aside from musical numbers where motion is many times helpful to the scene, dollying from long shot to close-up and from person to person seems to me to be a waste of footage, and, except in special cases, can be achieved more smoothly and logically by direct cuts.

CHARLES LANG (Paramount) Intelligently conceived and well executed dolly shot can be, in my opinion, a great aid to any sequence, but moving from one subject to another just to cover lines of dialogue seems a waste of time and footage, as direct cuts are more practical.

TONY GAUDIO (Warners): Perambulating shots, like everything else, are definitely effective in their place, but it seems to me that many of our pictures have moving shots that do nothing except show the audience the camera can move.

NORBERT BRODINE (Universal): Dolly shots are of great importance to many sequences, but I think most cameramen will agree that moving the camera just to be moving can be overdone.

Van Trees to Radio

Although still in production on "The Rear Car" at MGM, where he was placed in charge of photography through a deal made with Twentieth Century, his contract producers, Jimmy Van Trees over the week-end negotiated deal with Arkayo, whereby he will take charge of the cameras on the Irene Dunne production scheduled to start shooting on June 15. This is Van Trees second production as a member of Radio's camera staff, he having photographed "Stingaree" with Dunne and Dix at the Gower Street plant earlier this season.

Darmour Resumes

Larry Darmour, during the past week, started his first picture under his new corporate set-up and one of his most ambitious efforts to date. "The Scarlet Letter," originally done years ago by Lillian Gish for MGM, was put into production, and the photography is in charge of Jim Brown, Darmour's favorite cameraman

METRO GOLDWYN MAYER STUDIOS,
% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 18, Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Tuesday, May 29, 1934

ZUKOR DENIES INDIES

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•WE say that the HAYS POLICY of protecting this business is all wrong. We say that MR. HAYS IS ALL WRONG. We say that, unless something is done to offset the damaging propaganda that is smothering motion pictures, there will be little left of motion pictures.

We feel that Mr. Hays and his organization, since the inception of that organization, have played right in the hands of the enemies of the picture business and only a miracle can save that business at this point. There have been miracles and one will have to strike us now, but this will not happen under the WILL HAYS LEADERSHIP.

•

This is not written to pan Mr. Hays, but in an attempt to arouse the leaders of this industry to come out of their hiding in an effort to DEFEND this GREAT INDUSTRY, to stop passing the buck to Hays, who seemingly has always done the wrong thing in his attempted defense.

Since Hays has been in office, this business has been continually slapped, first on one cheek and then the other. Now those professional reformers, cheap politicians and publicity-seeking churchmen have socked us right in the nose, and a good healthy sock at that, and nothing is done about it. What kind of leaders have we that will permit this industry to be smothered by such unjust attacks?

•

This industry has always attempted to compromise with its enemies. What have we to compromise about? Either we are everything they say we are, or we are right. Where is there a compromise?

Talking to most production heads here in Hollywood they admit the business is in a spot, but other than Irving Thalberg there is nothing being done about it, and goodness knows Thalberg can not and will not carry the fight for the whole business.

Why not get someone to fight our battles? Why not appoint a man with a little guts to stand up and tell our side of the story? Why not ask our accusers: "What is a salacious picture and who are you to judge it?"

Reporter Will Not Be Published Tomorrow

Tomorrow being Decoration Day and a legal holiday, there will be no issue of the Hollywood Reporter.

Church Convention Again Slams Films

Saratoga Springs, N. Y.—Motion pictures yesterday came in for another unwarranted denunciation at the convention of the Roman Catholic societies of New York state, in session here.

Two or three speakers reiterated the criticism of allegedly indecent pictures, decried the prevalence of "smut" in screen entertainment and also took shots at the gangster and crime films. A resolution to join in a boycott of such pictures as could not be approved was offered, but action on it was postponed.

Dunne and Lederer To Co-star in 'Roberta'

Radio has purchased "Roberta," getting it away from Paramount, which had previously been reported buying it. Pandro Berman will produce it and is scheduling it as a co-starring picture for Irene Dunne and Francis Lederer.

E. A. Schiller Arrives

E. A. Schiller, in charge of all the Loew theatres except those in Metropolitan New York, arrived last night on the Santa Lucia for a visit to the MGM studios. Mrs. Schiller accompanies him.

Para. Head Asserts Policy Unchanged; Hecht-M'Arthur, Schulberg, Only Outsiders

"Paramount is not planning to rely upon independent producers for twenty-four of its 1934-35 pictures," and "other than the series of four Hecht-MacArthur productions and the series to be made by B. P. Schulberg, Paramount has not entered into any contracts for feature pictures from outside producers."

The above statement, from Adolph Zukor, is a frank denial of the story printed by the Reporter yesterday that Paramount would release at least twenty-four outside pictures on its next year's program.

Zukor stated: "Paramount is fully capable of making the necessary number of pictures called for by the distribution department and the theatres, and your story is without the slightest foundation."

Zanft May Join Schulberg-Feldman

It is understood that the papers are all drawn for the combination of the offices of Schulberg-Feldman-Gurney with that of John Zanft.

This deal has been on and off on several occasions, but looks now to be a certainty.

Edwin Knopf at MGM

Edwin Knopf has a writer's desk at MGM, doing a screen play of the Edgar Selwyn-Sam Marx original, "Paris to New York."

Fox Trying To Buy 'Ah, Wilderness'

In recognition of the great stage success Will Rogers is having in "Ah, Wilderness," the Fox organization is now trying to buy the picture rights to the O'Neill play from MGM, and plans to star Rogers.

MGM purchased the play for a reputed price of $100,000, with the thought of having George M. Cohen enact his stage role in the film, but Geo. M. is sort of burned at pictures and asked a cool $150,000 for the work. MGM turned this down and, finding it pretty tough to cast that part, there is more than a possibility that a deal will be made with Fox, provided that company is willing to part with $100,000.

'Three Musketeers' For Lederer At Radio

Radio has decided to make the famous Alexandre Dumas classic, "Three Musketeers," as a starring vehicle for Francis Lederer, with John Ford to direct it when he takes up his contract with the company.

Kenneth Macgowan is handling the production, which is scheduled for work in September.

Hugh Williams Signed For 'David Copperfield'

Hugh Williams has been signed by MGM for a featured spot in its production of "David Copperfield." The company is endeavoring to gather an all-English cast for the picture.

Boleslavsky's New Term

Richard Boleslavsky was set for another term at MGM yesterday. His first assignment under it is the direction of Greta Garbo in "The Painted Veil," to start late in June.

Astaire Due Friday

Fred Astaire arrives on the Chief Friday to report to Radio on his picture deal.

FRENCH PRODUCERS NOW PLANNING TO INVADE U. S.

New York.—Cable dispatches from Paris state that the French picture producers are planning to carry their war against American product to the point of invading this country with English versions of French films. They expect a Government subsidy to help defray the costs.

The idea is to translate 25 French pictures into English and to raise a fund of 5,000,000 francs for exploitation and sales expense. It is estimated that it will cost about $15,000 for the translation and marketing of each picture.

The government subsidy is asked on the ground that these pictures will

(Continued on Page 7)

Paramount Financing Two Broadway Plays

New York.—Paramount is supplying the finances for two plays which Thomas Mitchell will produce on Broadway this Fall.

One is a play by Sophie Treadwell and the other a new work by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur.

Pathe V. P. Arriving

A. B. Pool, vice-president of Pathe, is slated to arrive today from New York. It is believed he is coming to Hollywood to settle the details on the plans of several independent production companies financed by Pathe.

SAM WOOD directing "STAMBOUL QUEST" MGM

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

The Freddie Marches have adopted their second baby—a little boy, four months old, named Anthony. . . . Bob Montgomery back in town from an eastern farm. . . . The reason why a certain writer-director stays on in England would astound you! . . . May Sunday's car (absolutely denuded) was found yesterday by the gendarmes —'way down near the beach! . . . Ernst Lubitsch's new Bel Air mansion is almost finished and the ole maestro will move in end of the week—but when is the house-warming????? . . . The Leslie Howards hope to leap to England next week. . . . Joe Bryan, the third, is doing a Profile of Katharine Hepburn for the New Yorker. . . . Ketti Gallian is Winnie Sheehan's latest.

•

Bee Stewart went to the doctors about her bad knee and discovered that she had a broken nose too! Don says he didn't do it—"why, he wouldn't hit the dearest, sweetest girl in the world!" . . . The Clara Bow-Rex Bell blessed event is expected in time for Christmas—and there are rumors of the Phil Bergs storking. . . . Ross and Sargent (at the Kings Club) are singing a song called "Doris," all about agents, that is a pip! . . . The Clark Gables, the Dick Barthelmesses, Whitney de Rham, down at the airport to meet Countess di Frasso, here for a few days whoopee before taking half of Hollywood back to Europe.

•

George Cukor bought himself fourteen suits of clothes, twelve pairs of shoes and a few other knick knacks his first day in London—he's gone MAD! . . . Walter Armitage (who really caused a stir in the Theda Bara show) will play the Oliver role in the local production of "Green Bay Tree." . . . The newlywed Joe Mankiewiczes beaming at about two hundred guests at their reception at brother Herman's house Sunday—everybody frolicked in the garden. . . . The Johnny Monk Saunders (Fay Wray), Charles Brackett, the Bob Presnells, the Paul Sloanes, Max Steiner, Wally Beery, Hedda Hopper, Al Lewis, Irene Jones, Elliott Gibbons, Judith Allen among the diners at the Vendome Sunday night. . . . A word to the wise is often sufficient. Especially in the case of Jimmy Durante. Sunday's program was a really amusing broadcast with the Superman rated as having a smart routine.

ROXY BONDHOLDERS ASK FOR RIGHT TO FORECLOSE

New York.—Application for permission to foreclose on the Roxy Theatre was made to Federal Judge Caffey yesterday by the Continental Bank and Trust Company, trustees for the first mortgage bondholders. The claim for unpaid bonds and interest amounts to $4,084,574. Attorneys for the Chase bank, as trustees for the second mortgage bondholders, also appeared with a claim of about $2,000,000.

Judge Caffey withheld his decision because of the possibility of a reorganization plan being perfected before foreclosure, and also because of anticipated help through President Roosevelt's new law to aid bankrupt companies.

If the reorganization goes through, the Bondholders Protective Committee, which holds 65 per cent of the bonds, probably will bid for control and plans to convert Howard Cullman, the present receiver, into a trustee.

Judge Caffey will hold a meeting of creditors on June 8 and at that time will decide whether or not to continue the receivership another six months in case the reorganization plan is not ready.

Mrs. Lasky's Paintings Shown at Stendahl's

An exhibition of oil paintings by Mrs. Bessie Lasky opened yesterday at the Stendahl Galleries, and will continue until June 16. The exhibit comprises 60 canvases ,especially designed for white rooms.

Mrs. Lasky has an international reputation as an artist. Her works have been exhibited in the Paris Salon, in the Cooling Galleries, London, in the Brooklyn Museum of Art, in the Anderson Galleries, New York City, and in other cities throughout the world. Besides her painting, Mrs. Lasky is famed for her music and poetry.

Paul Gerard Smith East; Universal Deal Is Off

Unable to close a deal with Universal for his play, "Mad Marriage," Paul Gerard Smith has called off all negotiations and leaves tonight by train for New York with the piece, which Jed Harris is planning to produce this Fall. Smith wound up his term deal at Warners last week.

Keep It In The Family

Joan Crawford's stand-in for "Sacred and Profane Love" is her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles LeSeuer. The job is permanent from now on, according to the MGM star.

Believe It or Not

Mrs. Dave Epstein is throwing a party tonight to celebrate the fact that she has been married to Dave for ten years.

Charley Chase Able To Report For Work

Charley Chase showed up at the Roach studios yesterday for the first time in a month. He became ill after eating lobster in Chicago ten days ago, and flew to the coast to recuperate under his home physician.

Chase is preparing the story for his first comedy of the '34-35 season, supposed to start in a couple of weeks.

Dickie Moore's Dog Lost

Dickie Moore, convalescing at home following his recent operation, lost his dog Saturday. It is a Scottie, the gift of John Considine who presented it to the boy when he was working on "Disorderly Conduct" for Fox.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

Talk About Annuities With An Expert

I HAVE spent years in specializing on annuities for members of the motion picture profession. I can tell you the exact type of annuity to meet your income, your plans for the future, your immediate needs.

BEFORE you decide on an annuity, it will be to your advantage to consult me.

Telephone
HE 3682 or HO 1161

Benjamin Leven
ANNUITY COUNSELLOR
310 Guaranty Building
6331 Hollywood Blvd.
Hollywood

SERVICE
Satin Smooth

● SATIN SMOOTH make-up is the achievement of an organization whose lifetime has been devoted to a sympathetic study of the problems of the Industry.

● THIS devotion to service has produced in Satin Smooth a make-up of unchallenged perfection—a smoother, faster, make-up that photographs beautifully and sets a pace for all times for performance.

MAX FACTOR'S MAKE-UP STUDIOS
HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA

WORLD PREMIERE JUNE 1
RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL, NEW YORK
(The World's Largest Playhouse)

CARL LAEMMLE
presents

MARGARET SULLAVAN
DOUGLASS MONTGOMERY
in a
FRANK BORZAGE PRODUCTION

„Little Man, What Now?"

Directed by FRANK BORZAGE
Screenplay by William Anthony McGuire
Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Novel by Hans Fallada

Elizabeth Wilson in SILVER SCREEN MAGAZINE:
"An unusually fine picture. Margaret Sullavan fully justifies the promise of 'Only Yesterday' and delivers a remarkable peformance. Borzage at his best."

Jimmy Fidler in
SCREENLAND MAGAZINE:
"The 'Seventh Heaven' of the talkies with the same type of underlying spiritual romance that made 'Seventh Heaven' the greatest silent picture."

Jack Jungmeyer in DAILY VARIETY:

"A smash hit. Done with taste, feeling and honesty—an important picture both from the money and artistic standpoints and will add to the prestige of all concerned. Frank Borzage at his best. Every sequence has excellent build-up and cracking climax. Another Margaret Sullavan triumph. Douglass Montgomery ably supplements the main dramatic tale as 'the little man.' William Anthony McGuire's rich and selective adaptation provides fine balance of comedy, pathos, human detail and dramatic punch."

A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

WINS CRI

"A Smash Hit!"

"Should Win Academy Award!"

CARL LAEMMLE

presents

MARGARET SULLAVAN

DOUGLASS MONTGOMERY

in a

FRANK BORZAGE PRODUCTION

„Little Man, What Now?"

Directed by FRANK BORZAGE

Screenplay by William Anthony McGuire

Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

Novel by Hans Fallada

Victor Shapiro in

MOTION PICTURE DAILY:

"Rises to heights of magnificent entertainment. It's today's story of youth in any land. . . . Miss Sullavan again demonstrates her outstanding artistry and charm; Montgomery gives a sterling performance; Alan Hale, DeWitt Jennings, Christian Rub and Muriel Kirkland contribute gems. Frank Borzage industry's great heart director. Production is flawless and refreshing; rich in qualities that stir the masses."

Phil Scheuer,

LOS ANGELES SUNDAY TIMES:

"Laemmle performs social service . . beautifully transcribed . . . makes you glow a little."

Warren Stokes in

BOX OFFICE,

ASSOCIATED PUBLICATIONS:

"Another triumph for Margaret Sullavan, Frank Borzage and Universal. Universal can feel proud of this offering. A real down-to-earth story that should register with both mass and class."

Eugene Chrisman in

HOLLYWOOD SCREENPLAY AND SCREEN BOOK:

"Four stars. Highest rating."

UNIVERSAL

ES' RAVES

"Everything Showman Needs!"

"Highest Plane of Art!"

CARL LAEMMLE
presents

MARGARET SULLAVAN
DOUGLASS MONTGOMERY

in a

FRANK BORZAGE PRODUCTION

"Little Man, What Now?"

Directed by FRANK BORZAGE
Screenplay by William Anthony McGuire
Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Novel by Hans Fallada

Kathryn Daugherty in PHOTOPLAY MAGAZINE:

"From any standpoint a tremendously important film achievement. . . . Approaches the highest plane of art on the screen. . . . Free from any veneer of superficiality or dramatic subterfuge. . . . Borzage achieves his masterpiece . . . wholesome triumph for Margaret Sullavan . . . more than seconds her sensational debut. . . . Douglass Montgomery, Alan Hale, DeWitt Jennings and Christian Rub are grand."

Edwin Schallert in LOS ANGELES TIMES:

"Borzage comes near the 'Seventh Heaven' summit if he does not actually attain it. . . . Certainly his greatest since. A beautiful achievement and heart moving if there ever was one. . . . Blends talents of Sullavan and Montgomery. Sheer enchantment distinguishes Miss Sullavan. As radiant a depiction of motherhood as has been shown in any picture. Alan Hale justifies stardom. DeWitt Jennings excellent. Christian Rub superb. . . . Excellent ensemble."

Jerry Hoffman,
LOS ANGELES SUNDAY EXAMINER:

"Sullavan definitely registers as a fine actress. . . . Not one of those one performance stars. . . . Montgomery stands out vividly . . . Adds to Borzage's laurels."

ORES AGAIN

WESTERN PREMIERE
MARCO'S ORPHEUM THEATRE
(San Francisco)

CARL LAEMMLE
presents

MARGARET SULLAVAN
DOUGLASS MONTGOMERY

in a

FRANK BORZAGE PRODUCTION

„Little Man, What Now?"

Directed by FRANK BORZAGE
Screenplay by William Anthony McGuire
Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Novel by Hans Fallada

Jimmy Starr in
LOS ANGELES HERALD-EXPRESS,
NEW YORK DAILY MIRROR:

"Not since the cinema history-making 'Seventh Heaven' has the screen offered such a love story . . . not since the same 'Seventh Heaven' has Frank Borzage been able to find two characters for such delicate molding by his directorial hands . . . and, not since 'All Quiet on the Western Front' has Universal produced such a stirring film, a production of quality and of such rare entertainment . . . McGuire's treatment superb . . . Borzage should win another Academy award . . . Margaret Sullavan will bring forth even greater adjectives to sing her praises . . . Douglass Montgomery undoubtedly the new 'rave' of film fans."

Gus McCarthy in MOTION PICTURE HERALD:

"One of the most valuable pieces of screen merchandise from standpoint of prestige building, entertainment and showmanship in months; full of appeal; impressive but not ponderous; sincere entertainment for young and old of both sexes. . . . There is in this picture nearly everything a showman needs to kindle interest. . . . Sullavan makes good every promise. . . . Montgomery fully keeps pace. . . . Sell it with dignified realism.

Dan Thomas in
N.E.A. NEWSPAPERS:

"Frank Borzage's direction has made this real entertainment. . . . Definitely established Margaret Sullavan as one of the screen's outstanding stars."

A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

SHIRLEY TEMPLE A SENSATION: 'LITTLE MISS MARKER' CASHES

New York Holds Pic For the Third Week

New York.—Shirley Temple is the sensation of the East. Yes, the West and the North and the South, and the Paramount production of "Little Miss Marker" is cashing in heavy everywhere as a result.

This Temple child is the type attraction that causes a ticket buyer to go home and tell the family about her and then entertain the neighbors for days about her antics, with the result that "Miss Marker" builds during its run, day for day.

The chief topic of conversation at home, at the office, at the club and wherever you go is Shirley Temple, and unless Hollywood producers rush her, that tiny tot will develop into one of the greatest attractions in this business and an attraction that will serve as an answer to many of the attacks that are being hurled at pictures.

Hollywood. — Shirley Temple is more of a sensation here in the studios than she is in the theatres. Producers and directors who have come in contact with her are pushing each other aside to tell their version of this child genius.

Her selection by W. R. Sheehan for "Stand Up and Cheer" was the talk of the studio. Standing in Sheehan's office with thirty or forty other children, she grew impatient at the tests that Sheehan was making and, walking out of line, she approached Sheehan's desk with, "Do I get the part or not? I'm tired of standing." And she got the part.

On the set, the director gives her mother the lines that Shirley is to read. The mother takes her to one side and, in a few minutes, she comes back with her part letter perfect. Also she knows the dialogue of every other character and should someone blow up in his or her lines, she is heard (in a whisper) correcting them. Her memory astonishes everyone.

Jackie Cooper Starts in 'Bad Boy' June 12

Dorothy Peterson was engaged yesterday by Sol Lesser to play the only feminine role in "Peck's Bad Boy" outside that of a colored cook. She will be Aunt Lily, Jackie Searl's mother in the picture.

Jackie Cooper finished his part in "Treasure Island" at MGM yesterday. Lesser immediately set June 12 as the starting date for "Peck's Bad Boy," which has been marking time for five months.

Diana Wynyard Abroad

On the completion of "One More River," in which she is now appearing, around June 15, Diana Wynyard will leave for London for a vacation. She plans to remain there six months.

Ray McCarey to MGM

Ray McCarey, who has just completed a short at Columbia, goes to MGM to direct a Rugby short for Pete Smith.

Hugh Walpole Set For 'Copperfield' Script

London.—David Selznick has signed Hugh Walpole, noted English writer, to collaborate on the adaptation of "David Copperfield." He will sail for America with the Selznick party on June 6.

New Pictures on B'way This Week

New York.—Six new pictures are announced for the big Broadway houses this week.

The newcomers are "Sorrell and Son" at the Mayfair yesterday; "The Key" at the Strand, and "You Made Me Love You" and the McLarnin-Ross fight pictures at the Criterion today; "Born to Be Bad" at the Rivoli tomorrow; "Little Man, What Now?" at the Music Hall Thursday; "Viva Villa" at the Capitol Friday.

Charles Logue Gets 'Wagon Wheels' Job

Charles Logue was handed the "Wagon Wheels" assignment at Paramount yesterday, and will write the screen play for the first of the three outdoor adventure yarns, starring Randoph Scott.

Frank R. Adams, Harry Ruskin and David Boehm had previously worked on the story.

No Stage or Screen For Robles Youngster

The parents of June Robles, whose kidnapping in Arizona was a nation-wide sensation, have decided that they will not accept any of the offers for her stage or screen appearances.

A deal was about set with Bryan Foy, but the family finally decided to call it off.

Spence On 'Diamond'

MGM has assigned Ralph Spence to write the dialogue on "Death on the Diamond," the Courtland Fitzsimmons original which Edward Sedgwick puts into work next week. Fitzsimmons and Joe Sherman have written the screen play and Lucien Hubbard produces.

Cobb Finishes First

Irvin Cobb's first comedy goes in the bag tonight, with a final title change from "Angle Worms" to "Speaking of Relations." Cobb and the Roach writers are working on the next idea.

Lawrence Assigned

Vincent Lawrence yesterday received the F. Scott Fitzgerald play, "A Man I Knew," to make into a screen play for Paramount. Cary Grant probably gets the star spot.

Mason-Heerman Back

Sarah Y. Mason and Victor Heer-Heerman reported back to Radio after their loan-out deal to Universal, and have gone to work on the screen play of "Little Minister."

15 P.C. of Broadway Plays Sold For Pix

New York.—Of the 118 plays and seven musical shows produced on Broadway this season, only 18 plays and one musical were bought for pictures. The top prices were around $75,000, with "Ah, Wilderness" reported bringing $100,000.

Several plays were sold on a percentage plan, whereby the longer the play runs, the more the picture producer pays for it. These included "Sailor Beware" and "Pursuit of Happiness," bought by Paramount, and "Men in White," which MGM has already produced.

Some of the important ones not yet sold are "Roberta," "Milky Way," "Dodsworth," "Tobacco Road" and "Mary of Scotland."

Segall Play Rights Bought Back from MGM

New York.—Howard Stebbins has repurchased from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer the rights to the Harry Segall play, "Lost Horizons."

Stebbins will have to pay royalties to MGM instead of to Segall, and the screen rights will be offered again next Fall on the open market.

'Three Stand Alone' Taken Off Radio Shelf

Planned for production months ago and shelved after MGM turned down a loan-out deal on Johnny Weissmuller, "Three Stand Alone" was again placed on the slate yesterday by Radio, after MGM okayed a loan at this time on the player.

Two For Sarah Haden

Sarah Haden was handed a two-picture contract by Radio yesterday. She goes into "Hat, Coat and Glove" and "The Fountain."

Julian Johnson East

Julian Johnson, head of the Fox story department, left Sunday by train for New York. He will be away three weeks.

French Film Invasion

(Continued from Page 1)

help cement "good will" between France and America. The interests behind the new plan are the same which are trying to ban American pictures in France. They are still trying to get a three months ban on American product and the "good will" cry doesn't seem to fit in with that action.

The French film industry itself is badly split over the plan. The French producers are the ones who are backing it, while the exhibitors are violently opposed to any ban. They know that they can do business only with American pictures and they demand that the importation of them be increased rather than lessened.

That the exhibitors are in earnest is shown by the fact that they have declared an advertising boycott on the trade papers that support the demand for the ban.

Not that it MATTERS

by Helen Gwynn

Mebbe you've noticed lately that somewhere in most every picture that's been made recently there's been a part for or a glimpse of some actor or actress who was sitting on top of the world just a few years ago. This is being deliberately done not only out of kindness, (and that has plenty to do with it too,) but because it has been discovered to be good business. The first few times it was done, it was because there was a part that they liked to fill with someone looking for a comeback or needing the job badly. But the audience response was so terrific on the "old timers" that any number of directors and producers make sure that somewhere in their pictures a once well-known and well-liked face appears. It evidently makes the fans happy to greet an old friend again and probably gives the old-timers in the audience a chance to reminisce on "remember when Soandso was a star and the pictures she used to make?"

•

We like the idea too. Not only because it gives work where it's needed, but because we resent the fact that so many stars who were great in their time and not only brought pleasure to so many people but made money for so many people, should be so quickly put into oblivion. It seems to us that some tribute of gratitude should be forever due them and, if they need jobs or if they're willing to appear in small roles, it's okay by us.

•

Ernst Lubitsch has been greatly annoyed for the last week by rumors linking his name with that of a widow recently arrived in Hollywood from New York. After the third newspaper man had gotten in to see him in order to question him about her, Lubitsch got pretty mad and demanded to know where the rumor had started but naturally nobody could tell him. Finally he mentioned the whole business on the set and Jeanette MacDonald reminded him that he had started the rumor himself. It seems that someone had asked him what he'd been doing with his time and Lubitsch had said, laughingly, he'd been spending all his time with the "Widow," who was the love of his life at the moment. Of course, he meant the "Merry Widow," and the suspicion is that some bright publicity lad overheard the remark and tipped off a couple of people thinking it would be a good publicity break. . . Seems the p.a. wasn't exactly wrong.

Rian James Writing Three, Casting Fourth

Rian James is writing the screen plays of three pictures at the same time at Universal and is attempting to cast a fourth. He is scripting "Transient Lady" by Octavus Roy Cohen; "Gift of Gab," a Jerry Wald original, and "The Human Side," a play by Christine Ames.

At the same time he is trying to cast "It Happened in New York," the new title for the Ward Morehouse original, "Walking on Air."

'Bitter Harvest' Sensitive Play and Beautifully Done

"BITTER HARVEST"

Presented by Melville W. Brown at the Hollywood Playhouse; play by Catherine Turney; staged and directed by Dickson Margan. Cast: Leslie Fenton, Lilian Bond, Elsa Buchanan, May Beatty, Lindsay MacHarrie, Nola Luxford, Catherine Manners, Darwin Rudd, Alfred Cross, Benjamin Brindley, Finis Barton.

A rare opportunity awaits Hollywood playgoers—if they have the intelligence to grasp it. A new play, a beautiful play, a sensitive play is being offered by Mel Brown at the Hollywood Playhouse. It does not bear New York's stamp of approval because New York has not yet seen it. Now we can determine whether Hollywood deserves a theatre. The answer will be "No" if Hollywood lacks the intelligence to seize upon "Bitter Harvest" and give it the run it should have here.

Based upon an episode in the life of Lord Byron, the piece is a first play by Catherine Turney. The plot is delicately conceived and exquisitely executed. It concerns the love of Byron for his half-sister, Augusta Leigh, and his struggle against the inevitable fate of this love. To protect her name, he marries another, only to find his problem still unsolved. With his marriage ended, he plans to leave England, offering to take Augusta with him. But she cries, "I am afraid."

Leslie Fenton, although slightly uneven last evening, is a magnificent Byron. He lends the role of this half-mad genius a genuine color and reads superbly the actual speeches of the poet, so lovingly collected by the playwright.

As Augusta, Lilian Bond gives a hauntingly beautiful performance. She displays a warmth and a depth in her playing that the screen never realized she possessed. The colorful Lady Melbourne is portrayed by May Beatty and she does it justice, as does Alfred Cross as Walter Scott and Nola Luxford as Lady Oxford. Elsa Buchanan plays the unloved wife, a thankless assignment but one not fully realized.

The direction by Dickson Morgan is in perfect harmony. Both have a quality of dignity and sincerity.

Markson Finishes 'Dog' Script; Starts New One

Ben Markson completed the screen play of "The Case of the Howling Dog" at Warners yesterday, and was handed Frank Howard Clark's original, "Traveling Saleslady," to script.

"Howling Dog" is on the Warner schedule for June 15 starting, with Alan Crosland directing Warren William and Mary Astor.

Redmond Services

Funeral services for William J. Redmond, who died after being struck by a car driven by Thelma Allen, will be held at the Wee Kirk of the Heather, Forest Lawn, at 11 o'clock Thursday. Redmond was the son of Harry Redmond, of the special effects department at Radio.

New High Attained By Columbia Stock

New York.—The stock of Columbia Pictures continues to advance and yesterday it reached a new high mark, closing at 34⅜.

Radio Closes Deal For 'Forsyte Saga'

A screen treatment by Larry Bachman has resulted in Radio's getting "Forsyte Saga," the John Galsworthy work, as a possible Katharine Hepburn production.

The treatment received the approval of the late author's widow, Bachmann stepping out of his spot as assistant to Pan Berman to write it after bringing the idea in and getting Berman interested. The studio is looking for another writer to complete the screen play and there is a possibility that it will be the star's first picture, since she has given it her okay.

Fineman Supervising 'Radio City Revels'

Bernie Fineman has taken over the supervision of the Radio-NBC picture, "Radio City Revels," which was formerly handled by H. N. Swanson.

Two other assignments handed the new Radio associate producer are "Murietta," for Francis Lederer, and the first of the William Powell starring pictures.

Lloyd Nolan Gets Lead in 'Outrage' at Para.

New York.—Lloyd Nolan landed a Paramount contract yesterday for his Broadway work in "One Sunday Afternoon."

His first assignment is the lead opposite Evelyn Venable in "Outrage," set for production in Hollywood the first week in August.

Blochman and 'U' Split

Universal yesterday granted L. G. Blochman a release from his long term writing contract so he might complete an untitled novel which Little, Brown and Co. will publish this Summer. Writer was at the studio for ten months, during which he wrote the screen plays for "Bombay Mail" and "The Golden Fleece."

Nick Grinde To Roach

Nick Grinde signed on with Frank Butler's writing squad at the Roach studio yesterday. After preliminary work with the idea staff, he will probably be handed a megaphone.

STATE RIGHTS FOR SALE

Produced in Germany by CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, Jr.
Dialogue and Commentation by EDWIN C. HILL
Foremost Radio Journalist
Samuel Cummins
Jewel Productions, Inc.
723 Seventh Avenue, N. Y. C.

Saving Nature Wins Judgment For Prinz

Because he had not thrown away a managerial agreement signed in January, 1933, Leroy Prinz won a judgment Saturday in the commission suit brought by William S. Gill.

Yesterday, however, a new suit was filed against him in behalf of Max Hart, Ltd., claiming $1220 commission on Prinz' Paramount contract. This agency corporation is said to be sole property of Bill Gill.

At the trial last week Prinz was placed on the stand by his attorneys to identify his copy of the contract. It bore the Max Hart, Ltd., imprint, whereas the contract presented by the plaintiffs had the name crossed out and Gill's written in. Result was the judgment against the agent.

All Territory Sold For 'Young Eagles'

Ben Cohen, general sales manager for Romance Productions, announces that he has sold all the territory for "Young Eagles," the serial that has the official endorsement of the Boy Scouts of America. The clean-up deal was for territory supplied through exchanges in Seattle, Portland, Salt Lake and Denver.

The official release date is June 10.

Solow Out of Universal

Eugene Solow has completed his one picture deal at Universal with his original screen play, "Lost American," and has checked off the payroll. Picture, which Rian James is producing, will be Henry Hull's first for the studio.

TERRACE ROOM
MIRAMAR
SANTA MONICA
OPENS JUNE 7th

Kay Kyser
"The Old Man from the South"

California's finest supper club is opening for the summer season. Come and dance to the romantic melodies of Kay Kyser and his famous orchestra. The cool Pacific breezes, the delightful cuisine, the unique entertainment . . . all have made the Miramar the long-established rendezvous of the smart set.

Opening
DINNER INCLUDING COUVERT $3
Thereafter Couvert
Week Nights $1—Sunday $1.50
Dancing nightly except Monday
Telephone Santa Monica 23257 for Reservations

IT'S A MOP-UP

IT'S A BOX-OFFICE SMASH——IT'S THE FIRST REAL NATURAL FOR SHOWMEN IN YEARS——

IT'S GOT EXPLOITATION THAT SKINS THE HIDE OFF ANYTHING RELEASED IN A DECADE . .

"YOUNG EAGLES"

Produced by ROMANCE PRODUCTIONS, Inc. and officially endorsed by the entire organization of the Boy Scouts of America

12-Smashing Chapters-12

CRAMMED WITH THRILLS — ADVENTURE

WILD ANIMALS

EXCITEMENT AND ACTION—FOR ADULTS AS WELL AS AMERICA'S 30,000,000 CHILDREN

Write, wire or long distance phone
ROMANCE PRODUCTIONS, Inc.
Mack Sennett Studios, Hollywood, California

...ARO-GOLDWYN-MAYER STUDIOS,
% MR.SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 19. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Thursday, May 31, 1934

CATHOLICS ON WARPATH

Important Indies Of Country Form Protective Group

New York.—The first really important film-buying combine in the East was organized at the Hotel Astor Tuesday by representatives of 75 per cent of the independent theatre groups east of the Mississippi. It is to be known as the Independent Film Buyers Protective Group.

A committee, consisting of Lou Blumenthal, chairman, Dr. J. B. Fishman, John Bemas, Eddie Ansin and David Barrist, was named to explore all possible sources of new product, either British or American, that can be purchased on "fair play" terms. It will also seek tie-ups with certain producers whereby additional product will be made available to the indie theatres, and will formulate protective measures against unfair percentages and preferred playing time. Harry Brandt and Sidney Samuelson are ex-officio members of the committee.

Laemmle Sr. Leaves For Vacation Abroad

Carl Laemmle Sr. entrained for the East yesterday to sail June 16 on the Ile de France for his annual six weeks in London, Paris and Carlsbad. Business and relaxation.

Universal's president is accompanied by his executive assistant, Joe Weil, and his secretary, Jack Ross.

Colbert and Grant For 'The Gilded Lily'

Paramount closed Tuesday for the Jack Kirkland-Melville Baker story, "The Gilded Lily," and will co-star Claudette Colbert and Cary Grant in it. Marguerite Roberts is writing the screen play.

Adolph Zukor East

Adolph Zukor left Tuesday night for conferences with the Paramount home office staff in New York. The Paramount chief returns for the company convention here June 18.

Fox Convention Starts

New York.—The Fox Film convention, which is in session at the Waldorf, will hear announcements of 58 features for the coming season.

Maurice Schwartz Here

Maurice Schwartz arrived Tuesday in Hollywood to take up his MGM contract.

Television Test at 90 Miles a Success

New York.—The RCA-Victor Company has succeeded in sending television ninety miles, from New York to Camden, with satisfactory results. An ordinary movie camera lens was used, the light being taken by the Zworykin inconoscope and transformed inside a cathode ray tube by means of an electron beam playing on a photo-electric screen. Sound and picture were carried simultaneously.

Cromwell Signs at Radio For 5 More

With four pictures yet to go on his old deal, John Cromwell has been handed another ticket for five more for Radio.

The director had a three-picture ticket when the studio bought the Twentieth Century contract for one. Adding the extra five will keep him with the company for two years.

Mae Clarke to Col.

Mae Clarke goes into the Lewis Milestone production of "The Captain Hates the Sea" at Columbia.

Every Bishop In The Country Sending Letters To Exhibs Demanding Rigid Ban On Filth

New ork.—The Catholic Church is carrying its campaign for what it terms "the elimination of filth in motion pictures" right to the offices of the exhibitors of the nation in a letter demanding that the showmen carry the message to the producers in Hollywood. Every Catholic Bishop in America has been instructed by the hierarchy of the Church to write a letter to every theatre in his diocese.

Every Catholic diocese has been instructed to print in its Catholic organ a list of the indecent films named by the Church weekly.

This list of indecent films is sent to every member of the diocese, in addition to every theatre in that zone. Should the exhibitor advertise for

(Continued on Page 3)

Tone Lead in 'Diamond'

Franchot Tone gets the role of the baseball pitcher in "Death on the Diamond." This is the leading role in the story which Edward Sedgwick directs, under Lucien Hubbard's supervisions at MGM.

Indie Exhibs Vote 9 to 1 For Singles

Indications today are that the motion picture theatres, at least in the greater Los Angeles district, will go to single feature bills within the very near future.

More than 75 per cent of the cards sent out by the Independent Theatre Owners, Inc., of Southern California, have been returned and the balance are coming in rapidly. To date, according to Ben Berinstein, president of the organization, slightly more than 90 per cent of the theatre owners who have voted have signified their desire to eliminate the double bills.

Fox West Coast officials have assured the Independents that, if the indies will go single feature, they will do the same.

'School For Scandal' To Be Modernized at 'U'

Universal has ordered a modern treatment of Sheridan's "School For Scandal" from Eugene and Ralph Burton and Carron DeWolf. The company is thinking about Lowell Sherman for direction. Production would go in this Fall.

$65,000 For 'Roberta'

New York.—Radio is paying $65,000 for the rights to "Roberta," one of the season's musical successes. The contract wtih Max Gordon will be signed today. It is slated for Irene Dunne.

'Milky Way' For Oakie

New York.—Paramount has bought the screen rights to "The Milky Way," one of the Broadway hits, and will star Jack Oakie in it. The play is by Lynn Root and Harry Clork.

British Execs Arrive

New York.—Hubert Marsh and Herbert Wilcox, of British and Dominions, arrive today on the Europa, bringing a print of "Nell Gwynn," which company recently completed.

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

DEAR MR. PRODUCER:

This war against "filthy pictures" is being fought on every front AND YOU MUST GET INTO ACTION.

If you are guilty of the charges, (and we believe you are NOT) then clean your house IMMEDIATELY. If you deny the guilt, then YOU MUST start a campaign of your own and start it right now. You can't wait a minute; you have no time to pass the buck; there is hardly a moment for discussion. You must ACT QUICKLY or you will find yourselves in the toughest spot you have ever been in in the history of the business.

The Catholic Church and MANY OTHER CHURCHES are in action. They have accused you of debauching the youth of the nation, of contaminating the homes of America, of almost every crime that is known in history. The accusation was passed with not a word in defense uttered by you. They waited for your reply, they waited for a denial of the accusations, but none was presented, so they are now telling the world of your guilt, they have the people believing their charges because of your silence.

Yes, Mr. Producer, they have even gone further. They are publishing weekly blacklists of pictures THEY DEEM unfit for the public eye, be that eye of man, woman or child; and, with

(Continued on Page 4)

NORMAN McLEOD DIRECTED "MANY HAPPY RETURNS"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher
FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Al Kaufman and Dorothy Dell are soggy. . . . The Alan Mowbrays are blessed-eventing and expect the stork in the Fall. . . . Katharine Hepburn has taken a two-year lease on a house in Bel Air. . . . Someone who really knows tells us that a visiting titled person has actually CLEARED rooms in Europe with that gal he brought with him to Hollywood—yet he's doing all right with her here at local dinner parties. . . . Georgie Raft will be back here in about ten days—he's still doing the personals in Chicago and Detroit.

•

Bet that the hair-dressers at Columbia aren't a bit sorry that the Grace Moore picture is finished! . . . Ah—ze temperament was tareefic—especially with so many curling irons lying around! . . . Leo Birinski has a cook who cooks him so much every night that he has to eat dinner in one hour shifts! . . . Rosie Dolly says that the Vendome has the best food in America! . . . Mrs. Sidney Lanfield, with baby, back from London—but Sid is still there. . . . Dimitri Tiomkin got over-athletic, fell on his hands and has practically ruined his wrists! Has to have 'em massaged every day—and he loves it!

•

Countess di Frasso, with Capt. Mason, Vivian Gaye with Randy Scott, Marlene Dietrich, among the Kings Clubbers Tuesday night . . . and Lee Tracy and Isabel Jewell, together at the Colony the other night . . . and thousands of people turned out to Travis Banton's to say good-bye to Mme. Frances—among them Claudette Colbert, Carole Lombard, Vivian Tobin, Walter Lang, the Alan Edwardses, Jobyna Howland, Raquel Torres and Stephen Ames, Hedda Hopper, Jetta Goudal. . . . Arthur Sheekman and Richard Dix went to the St. Paul high school together, at which time Dix flunked in dramatics! . . . The dramatic study, incidentally, which Betty Furness indulged in while in New York, did that little gal plenty of good. . . . Sign on a theatre on Western Ave. reads: "Bottoms Up" "I Like It That Way"—Honest!

New York REVIEWS

"MURDER AT THE VANITIES"

Paramount prod.; directors, Mitchell Leisen, Earl Carroll; writers, Earl Carroll, Rufus King, Carey Wilson, Joseph Gollomb; dialogue, Sam Hellman; Music and lyrics, Sam Coslow, Arthur Johnson.

Rivoli Theatre

American: The Carroll strength and the Carroll weakness are both apparent in the production. The former lies in exquisite artistry, the latter in a dearth of humor, and the badly conceived, ill-written roles thrust upon Messrs. Oakie and McLaglen. The show is remarkable in its presentation of new talent. "Murder at the Vanities" is a killing for Paramount.

Herald-Tribune: While lacking the exciting color and verve of the stage offering, nevertheless it is absorbing for its rapid pace in story-telling, its plot, which includes not one but two murders, and the characteristic Carroll alertness. Mr. Leisen has directed his picture ably and the adapters have made a smooth script of it.

World-Telegram: At least it may be said of the screen version of "Murder at the Vanities" that it is much better entertainment than the stage production from which it stems and that its dance numbers have been staged with commendable restraint.

Times: Earl Carroll's stage offering, "Murder at the Vanities," appeals rather to the eye than to the ear. It can boast of its lavish staging, certain tuneful melodies, and its host of attractive girls. But the mystery concerning its two murders is never particularly disturbing. Occasionally there is a flash of good comedy.

Sun: "Murder at the Vanities" turns out to be a humorless, elaborate girl show, with bits of confusing plot interpolated between song and dance numbers. The picture gives the effect of having been done in two parts by entirely disassociated directors, one concentrating on the chorus girl numbers, the other on the murder mystery story. The result is a choppy continuity. The effect is disconcerting.

Post: Not only is the picture excellent from the point of view of dancing ensembles, costumes and girls, but Mitchell Leisen, the director, has achieved some stunning effects with his cameras. Unfortunately these scenes are constantly being interrupted by the intrusion of the murder mystery. The story does not build to a climax because its separate phases run parallel to each other.

Mitchell and Durant East For Baer Fight

Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant hop East June 8 to catch the Carnera-Baer fight and return at once to be on call for Fox, where they are set for two more pictures this year.

The heavy-slugging comedians have turned down two weeks offered them at the Capitol, New York, for a June 7 opening, fearing it might keep them too long from Westwood Hills.

Halperins Tie Up With Railroads For Picture

The Halperins, now in the East, have completed negotiations with various railroads for the use of equipment, railroad yards and workshops in connection with "Juggernaut," which they have had in preparation for the past eight months. Victor Halperin, who will direct, is now shooting material to be used in transparencies and trick shots.

Fred Keating Arrives

Fred Keating arrived by automobile Tuesday, after a five and a half day trip from New York, to start his Columbia deal in "The Captain Hates the Sea." His last work on Broadway was opposite Tallulah Bankhead in "Forsaking All Others."

European Arrivals

New York.—Arriving on the Champlain are J. S. Hummel, Warners' European sales manager; the "Folies Bergere" company of 75 for the Chicago fair, and the London "She Loves Me Not" company, headed by William Harrigan and Elizabeth Love.

Dramatists Pass Up Legit Theatre Code

New York.—The Dramatists Guild has withdrawn from the jurisdiction of the Code Authority of the legitimate theatre and the resignation has been accepted.

The Guild takes the position that its members are not employers of labor, nor do they receive wages, and therefore they get no benefits from the code. The revised legit code comes up for a hearing on June 13.

Catholic Film Company Wants 'Great Apostle'

Reversal of the Hollywood process of importing film material from Europe occurs in a request received by H. O. Stechan for the Austrian translation rights of his unproduced play, "The Great Apostle," based on the life of St. Paul.

The play is under consideration as one of the first productions of the Catholic Film Company, being organized in Austria to produce religious pictures. The translation rights are sought by the Countess Hedvig Schaffgotsch, of Salzburg, Parsch.

Klein and Ruric Out

Marjorie Klein and Peter Ruric have completed their one picture deal with Paramount on the script of "A Son Comes Home" and have checked off the payroll. The story is an original by Julian Josephson, which will probably be for Richard Arlen and Ida Lupino.

CHURCH WAR AGAINST SMUT HURTING THEATERS ALL OVER

Campaign Carried Direct To Exhibs

(Continued from Page1)

showing any one of the pictures on the blacklist, this fact is made known to every Catholic in each and every parish adjacent to the theatre, with a request to keep away from the theatre on the days the picture is being shown.

That this campaign is having its effect is shown by the number of wires being received daily by distribution offices, salesmen and sales managers out in the territory, in addition to the fact that exhibitors are reporting a drop in business of from 25 percent to 35 percent as a result of running any of the pictures that the Church has banned since the start of this campaign.

Exhibitors report that, not only has their business dropped as a result of showing pictures on the Catholic blacklist, but they are being bombarded with letters and telephone calls, reminding them that they are showing pictures that have been adjudged indecent, and on each and every occasion of such showing they (the writers or the persons doing the phoning) will remain away from the theatre.

The letter that is being sent out by every Bishop in America, on his official letter head, reads as follows:

Dear Sir:

This letter is to inform you that the Catholic Bishops of the United States have inaugurated a campaign against indecent shows, which are corrupting the youth of our country.

As you know, the Catholic Church has continually been on the liberal side of the amusement question. We have not opposed, for example, baseball or theatrical amusements on Sundays. We are not supporters of the so-called blue laws. We encourage clean, wholesome recreation for our people at all times, and we shall continue to do so.

In waging this campaign against indecent shows we want you, as manager of a local theatre, to know that the campaign is not against you. We know that many managers of our theatres are just as anxious as any of us to eliminate indecent or demoralizing shows, but these shows are more or less thrust upon them.

To show you that we shall gladly support you in this busibusiness we draw your attention to the fact that we give weekly in our official paper, "The Register," which goes into every Catholic home in the diocese, a list of decent plays. We believe as much in supporting clean shows as in condemning bad ones. Obviously, though, the whole performance must be clean, not merely a part of it.

We know that some of the most outstanding film successes this year have been above reproach, which proves that entertainment value and box office receipts do not depend upon filth.

We would very much appreciate your bringing this campaign to the attention of film producers, and assure them that it is not our wish to injure their business. But we do insist on decent shows, are urging our people to sign the enclosed pledge, and intend to work with other organizations, and to do everything in our power to compel the elimination of filth, and thus safeguard the youth of the country from corruption.

The pledge card that is attached to the letter is titled "Pledge of the Legion of Decency" and is herewith printed in full, having been referred to on several occasions in The Reporter during the past several weeks.

Pledge of the Legion of Decency

(Sign and give to your Pastor)

I wish to join the Legion of Decency, which condemns vile and unwholesome moving pictures. I unite with all who protest against them as a grave menace to youth, to home life, to country and to religion.

I condemn absolutely those salacious motion pictures which, with other degrading agencies, are corrupting public morals and promoting a sex mania in our land.

I shall do all that I can to arouse public opinion against the portrayal of vice as a normal condition of affairs, and against depicting criminals of any class as heroes and heroines, presenting their filthy philosophy of life as something acceptable to decent men and women.

I unite with all who condemn the display of suggestive advertisements on bill boards, at theatre entrances and in newspapers, and the favorable reviews often given to immoral motion pictures in the daily press.

Considering these evils, I hereby promise to remain away from all motion pictures except those which do not offend decency and Christian morality. I promise further to secure as many members as possible for the Legion of Decency.

I make this protest in a spirit of self-respect, and with the conviction that the American public does not demand filthy pictures, but clean entertainment and educational features.

Name.....

No dues whatever for the Legion of Decency.

No meetings.

Millions of Americans, pledging themselves individually, can rid the country of its greatest menace—the salacious motion picture.

Exhibitors, particularly those with small town and neighborhood houses, are feeling the weight of the Catholic drive and are approaching the exchanges for advice. Some have taken the bull by the horns and have cancelled all pictures that are on the Catholic blacklist, particularly those exhibitors who have houses in sections known to be heavily Catholic.

It is understood that the producers are working night and day on a propaganda campaign that is to be placed in the advertising columns of the big newspapers of the nation. This campaign will not refer to the Church propaganda in any way, but will concern itself with what the motion picture industry means to the nation, what it has done for the nation, and its plans for the future.

There is no doubt that such a campaign is in the works, but none of the producers in the West or their distribution offices in New York will confirm this fact or give out any inkling of the type ads they are contemplating in presenting their side of the subject to the public.

'Rothschild' Sets New London Record

London.—"The House of Rothschild," the Twentieth Century production starring George Arliss, has broken all records of the Tivoli theatre for the past year in spite of very hot weather.

Jacobson-Barton Now Full Directors

Arthur Jacobson and Charles Barton, veteran Paramount assistant directors, were promoted to full-fledged directors Tuesday and will pilot the series of outdoor specials which Harold Hurley is superivsing.

They will co-direct "Wagon Wheels," with Randolph Scott and Gail Patrick, and split on the next two productions, handling them alone. The outdoor pictures have been the stepping stones for other one-time assistant directors at the studio, namely Otto Brower and Henry Hathaway.

Paramount Closes For 'Enter Madame' Rights

New York.—Paramount has closed its deal for the talking picture rights to "Enter Madame" and probably will make it a starring vehicle for Elissa Landi. Jacques Deval and Gladys Lehman are doing the adaptation.

New Novel by Gordon

Leon Gordon, Reliance scenarist-supervisor, will have his third novel, "All Men Are Married," published by Four Seas Company of Boston this Fall.

3 Writers Out of 'U'

Forrest Halsey, Jacques Deval, and David Hertz finished their writing assignments at Universal and went off the payroll this week.

U. A. Theatre Dark

The closing of "Murder at the Vanities" at the United Artists Theatre yesterday leaves the house dark for an indefinite period.

Not that it MATTERS

by Helen Gwynn

There's one thing we'd like very much to know. If the censors and bluenoses are going to take it upon themselves to educate the screen, who is going to educate the people into liking it? We'll grant you that most of the pictures made especially for the kiddies have held far more entertainment and amusement for the elders, but that's because children are so much more exacting. However, even the grown-ups tire of playing with children's toys and, after that first pleasure of trying to be kids again has exhausted itself, the whole idea becomes a bore, and if their mentality has kept pace with their growth, it's a relief to get back to grown-up problems and games.

•

And still another question: If the censors and bluenoses succeed in selling all their points to the industry, who's going to sell the pictures to the public? Granted the fact that for years the industry has been able to sell practically ANYTHING to everybody at the same time, that industry has had practically EVERYTHING to sell to anybody. But if the industry is to be reduced to making pictures dictated by the smallest, meanest minority in the world, who's going to convince the majority that they will enjoy spending their money to see them? If all this censorship bugaboo really comes to pass, the censors will have only themselves to thank for throwing the country right back to the burlesque houses.

•

We think we have discovered a sign of progress in Hollywood. The other day the head of a major studio called in a well-known agent. He told the agent that he would gladly pay a large salary, plus all traveling expenses, to a man the agent could recommend as being good at discovering talent. And what do you think the agent said? He said he thought the whole idea was ridiculous. That there is more talent in Hollywood than pictures could ever make use of and that it was about time that Hollywood began to take advantage of its own natural resources.

And that statement is so true that it's just pitiful. So far this week we have heard that same statement made by agents, publicity men and directors. The only people who seem to be unconvinced of the fact are the producers, but the idea is gradually working its way up and any day now they may make use of it. The best illustration of the truth of the idea is that the top-notch box-office stars are all Hollywood products (not Broadway), including Clark Gable, but Gable had to take himself out of the extra ranks and do a show on Broadway before the producers could see him.

MGM 'Melodrama' Gets London Raves

London.—The press here went into a panic over MGM's "Manhattan Melodrama," which opened at the Empire Theatre Tuesday. Excerpts:

Sunday Pictorial—"Manhattan Melodrama" has three stars in the picture. I give it four.

Daily Mail—The perfect illustration of the drama of reality which Hollywood has completely mastered.

Observer—Sensationally written and produced.

Buck Planning Series Of Wild Animal Shorts

A deal whereby Frank Buck, producer of "Bring 'Em Back Alive," will go to Africa to make a series of short subjects with dramatic exposition, is reported under way. A. J. Van Beuren is mentioned as working on the distribution and financial end of the deal with Buck.

Short stories involving wild animals would be purchased for the series.

MGM Puts 'Duchess of Delmonico's' on Shelf

MGM Tuesday shelved "The Duchess of Delmonico's", which was planned for Jeanette MacDonald and Clark Gable, and Tiffany Thayer, who was scripting, has checked off the payroll.

Gregory LaCava, who was to direct as his second assignment for MGM, will be given another picture to handle. Harry Rapf was scheduled to produce.

'Master's Voice' Delay

B. P. Schulberg has shelved work on "Her Master's Voice," the second picture postponement this week. Action was due to the difficulty in getting the proper cast, the producer deciding he will wait until he can get the players he wants.

Marion on 'Gay Divorce'

George Marion Jr. has dropped work on "Radio City Revels" in order to polish off the screen play on "Gay Divorce" for Radio. Ed Kaufman is handling the comedy in the script.

Gene Raymond Back

Gene Raymond checked in Tuesday after a month's vacation in New York. He has been offered a spot in the Eddie Small production of "Showboat."

Howard For Reliance

Sydney Howard will get a featured role in Edward Small's "Transatlantic Showboat" on an exchange deal by United Artists with British and Dominions.

'U' Tests Eddie Foy

Universal is testing Eddie Foy for a featured role in "The Great Ziegfeld," which William Anthony McGuire is producing.

Deal For Aylesworth

Warners notified Arthur Aylesworth that his option was exercised. Player will round out a year with the company's stock group.

TRADE VIEWS

(Continued from Page 1)

the publication, are asking their flocks to keep away from the theatre on the days those pictures are being shown.

And now they have gone further, Mr. Producer. They are in touch with every theatre in the nation in an effort to persuade the exhibitor that you are wrong and that he dare not show those pictures. The theatre man is in a spot. If he shows the pictures, IT HAS BEEN PROVEN, in many instances, that his business reaches the flop stage, and the theatre owner is worried because he is getting letters and phone calls from his patrons demanding that he eliminate those pictures from his program.

•

You may think this war is being fought with blank cartridges, that it is only a flash in the pan. And you may be right. But that does not absolve you of guilt unless you prove yourself innocent. That does not prevent them from starting another war on a different front—Federal censorship and other legal restrictions. You SIMPLY MUST STATE YOUR CASE, you must give your side of the story. You can't sit and hold your thumbs and pass it off with "they are a lot of cheap reformers looking for publicity and maybe a handout."

Mr. Producer, you have never been confronted with such opposition since you have been making pictures. You have facing you a Church that never lost a battle, a Church that is known for its liberal views, a Church that is convinced the screen is demoralizing this nation. It may be wrong (and we believe it is) but it must be convinced, NOT by an attack against the beliefs, but by good sound reasoning, by convincing propaganda, by FACTS.

SO, WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

•

Letters have reached this desk from exhibitors, beseeching us to appeal to you for help. Your New York offices have been flooded with mail, telegrams and phone calls from members of your own organizations out in the field, pleading for an answer. What have you done? NOTHING. What are you going to do? As of this hour, NOTHING. And what do you think will be the result?

If the Church substantiates its charges, AS IT IS DOING because of a lack of defense on your part, it has only reached the first stage of its campaign "to purge the screen of its filth." If there is no filth to purge, they will purge something and that something will purge the income of this business by many millions of dollars of cash admissions and inflict a censorship that will make it almost impossible for you to photograph ENTERTAINING pictures.

•

You can prove your case before the nation's jury if you go before that jury, represented by good counsel, and TELL THE FACTS. You can prove that the Bible is your scenario; that your drama is an expurgated leaf of every day life; that your pictures are treatments of saintly subjects when compared to the front page of any newspaper, or the contents of many magazines. You are not the scoundrels that you are represented to be; you are not trying to demoralize your clientele; you are simply trying to furnish ENTERTAINMENT to people who seek it and are willing to pay for it.

The Church or any of the other organizations who have seen fit to attack you have not given you credit for anything and they are blaming you for everything. They have not told their listeners the education that has been given this and other nations via the screen. They have not told them how the people of the world have been brought to the front doors of others, with their work, their play and their customs. They have not given you credit for teaching the history of the world through screen entertainment. They have not done it. BUT YOU CAN AND YOU MUST. You have a case, a good case. Go out and prove it.

Smith-Mallory Leave On Mexico Expedition

Wallace Smith and Bolton Mallory hopped off yesterday on their picture location into Mexico.

They go by train to Acapulco, charter a boat to shoot alligators, and then swing into the interior.

Baxter-Gallian Team

Warner Baxter and Ketti Gallian will be co-starred by Fox in "Hell in the Heavens." Original play was called "The Ace," and served Gallian on the French stage .

Co-operative Plan For Tony Pastor's

The cast of "The Ticket of Leave Man" has taken over Tony Pastor's, which closed May 20, and will reopen the theatre next Saturday night with everyone working on a co-operative basis, and with business affairs in the hands of a special committee.

All members of the cast are selling tickets now for the first three nights. The receipts of these nights will not be divided, but will be set aside as a sinking fund to take care of supplying the house with groceries and refreshments. Starting Tuesday the receipts will be divided.

Ted Lorch, Ole Ness and Joe Topkin comprise the committee handling the business affairs.

Meehan To Do Script Of Own Original at 'U'

John Meehan Jr. was commissioned Tuesday by Universal to prepare continuity and dialogue for his original, "Castles in the Air," which Kirk Neumann will direct under the eye of B. F. Zeidman.

Henry Armetta is added to the cast, for which Russ Columbo, June Knight and Russ Brown were previously set.

Arnold Option Lifted

B. P. Schulberg Tuesday clipped the third option off Edward Arnold's long term ticket. He was in "Thirty Day Princess" for Paramount and is now on loan to Universal.

SERVICE

Satin Smooth

● SATIN SMOOTH make-up is the achievement of an organization whose lifetime has been devoted to a sympathetic study of the problems of the Industry.

● THIS devotion to service has produced in Satin Smooth a make-up of unchallenged perfection—a smoother, faster, make-up that photographs beautifully and sets a pace for all times for performance.

MAX FACTOR'S MAKE-UP STUDIOS

HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA

REMEMBER THE DATE!!

YOUR FRIENDS WILL BE THERE

. . . THE GREATEST OF THE GREAT

WILL PROVIDE ENTERTAINMENT

A CHANCE TO HELP OTHERS WHO NEED IT

. . . WHILE YOU DINE AND DANCE

. . . at the COLONY CLUB

DINNER – $5.00 THE PLATE

All receipts for the evening will be turned over by the Club to the JEWISH CONSUMPTIVE HOME AT DENVER, COLO.

THURSDAY NIGHT, JUNE 7th

(This ad furnished through the courtesy of The Hollywood Reporter

Cohen-Batcheller Plan Bigger Pix

Declaring that the Invincible and Chesterfield programs for next season would include an undetermined number of specials and a more elaborate production policy, Maury M. Cohn took the plane for New York yesterday to join his partner, George Batcheller, who went East two weeks ago.

Cohen and Batcheller contemplate a trip to Europe to extend their foreign outlets. Their product is now handled for England by British Gaumont, and has some continental releases. Invincible's "House of Strangers," just completed, and the last Chesterfield, "Green Eyes," will be presented to the continent as samples of product offered.

The partnership will continue with each member heading his own corporation and handling his own productions.

Oswald the Rabbit To Be a History Teacher

Oswald, Walter Lantz' cartoon rabbit, will hop through an "Outline of History" for Universal's 34-35 program.

The series starts on the June 30 release with "Christopher Columbus Jr." followed by "Happy Pilgrims," "Civil War Days," "Daniel Boone," "The First Steam Boat," etc. Authentic dates will be used so the kids may learn something.

J. P. Kennedy May Be New Paramount Head

New York—It is reported here that Joseph P. Kennedy may be chosen to head the reorganized Paramount, some credence being given to the rumor by the desire of the bankers to have not only a man who knows something about the picture business, but also one who knows banking and the stock market.

Stahl Starts June 18

Louise Beavers and Freddie Washington look set for the two principal colored parts in "Imitation of Life," the Claudette Colbert picture to be made by John M. Stahl for Universal. Production is scheduled to start on June 18.

Ruth Etting to Radio

Ruth Etting arrives tomorrow from Omaha, where she has been making personal appearances. She goes to Radio for four shorts which Lee Marcus will produce for the new program.

Original For Holt

Columbia has assigned M. Coats-Webster to write an untitled original screen play which will probably be used for a Jack Holt vehicle. Everett Riskin is producing.

John Cecil Graham Sails

London.—John Cecil Graham, Paramount British head, sails Saturday to attend the company's convention in Los Angeles. Sol Newman, of Radio, sails on the same ship.

Complaint Board Meets

The Complaint and Grievance subcommittee of the Code Committee for Extras will meet today to clean up all complaints of extras that are on hand.

'The Racket' Again With Eddie Robinson

New York.—Howard Hawks, who has left here for the coast, is understood to be set to direct the talking version of "The Racket" for Paramount, with E. G. Robinson starred. Gene Fowler is doing the adaptation.

$2,000,000 Budget For Epic of Alaska

New York.—Floyd Crosby, one of the producers of "Tabu," is heading a new expedition to make a picture in Alaska and Northern Canada. The backer is Charles Bedaux, who is said to have put up a bankroll of $2,000,000.

Crosby starts on June 25 and is taking with him a complete developing and printing equipment.

'House of Strangers' Done Under Schedule

For the first time in motion picture history a production involving Erich von Stroheim finished, not merely on schedule, but half a day under, when Frank Strayer turned in the last take of Invincible's "House of Strangers" at Universal Monday.

Invincible's final production on the current program will be "A Girl Must Live," an original which Carl Brown is now adapting. Strayer will direct.

Jones Aide to LeBaron

Paramount promoted John Paul Jones, gagman, writer and assistant director, to the spot as assistant to William LeBaron Tuesday.

OPEN FORUM

AVALON THEATRE
Montgomery, W. Va.

Hollywood Reporter:

For some time you and thousands of people have been condemning indecent photoplays. Just what is considered indecent? Some people say they didn't send their child to see "I'm No Angel" because of Mae West's "smut." But "Angel" drew them in at the box-office the country over. As Groucho Marx said: "I like smut if it is told by the right smutter." In my opinion 95 per cent of the show-going public likes a little dirt here and there.

The children are not keeping the theatres out of the red, but the parents are, and they must like dirt. What about the grosses on "So This Is Africa," the most suggestive picture I have ever seen? And they liked it.

Let's have more angles for smutty pictures in the right way.

RAMON COLLINS.

The Hollywood Reporter:

You printed something in your paper to the effect that Chester Morris was negotiating with the Halperin brothers on a picture engagement.

Both Mr. Morris and this office would appreciate your denial of this, as no negotiations have been made for any production with the Halperins.

REBECCA & SILTON.

Distribs Named In Conspiracy Suit

Philadelphia.—Harry Perelman, independent theatre owner, has filed a suit under the anti-trust laws againts several major distributors, alleging conspiracy to drive the independent exhibitors out of business. The suit also asks nullification of a contract which he has with the distributors which prohibits him from showing double features.

The exhibitors are getting behind Perelman in this suit and have formed the Independent Exhibitors Protective Association.

Jolson and Wife Sail For New York Tomorrow

Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler sail from Los Angeles on the Santa Elena tomorrow for New York, where they are due June 17. Jolson puts in the summer broadcasting, returning for "Go Into Your Dance," on which Warners start preparations in September.

Ruby Keeler will appear in the West Point commencement background for "Flirtation Walk."

'Little Women' Has Grossed $2,000,000

New York.—The Radio Pictures production of "Little Women," which cost around $450,000 to produce, has already grossed approximately $2,000,000 in the United States alone.

Harman-Ising Will Make Fourteen MGM Shorts

New York.—Hugh Harman and Rudolf Ising have closed a deal with MGM to make thirteen one-reel and one featured two-reel animated cartoons in color.

The first one-reeler will be "The Discontented Canary" and the two-reeler will be Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite."

Long Term For Krims

Al Levoy, business manager for Mascot, yesterday converted Milton Krims' one-picture deal into a long term contract. He has completed the screen play of "Harmony Lane" and is now polishing up the script of "Crimson Romance."

Lovely Ladies
Love to Wear
Lovely Intimate Wear
Exclusive Lingerie
and Hosiery

JUEL PARK
TRADE MARK
BEVERLY HILLS
Wilshire Blvd. at Beverly Drive

London's Smartest Address—
GROSVENOR HOUSE
PARK LANE . . .

is also London's most modern hotel. An apartment at Grosvenor House provides an actual "home from home," replete with every modern aid to greater comfort.

The location of Grosvenor House is a happy blend of convenience and charm; in and around the hotel London's social life moves; near by are the best shops and the theatres; just across the way is London's great garden, Hyde Park.

Life is amusing, easy and pleasant at

Grosvenor House, London

Cable Address for Reservations: GROVHOWS, AUDLEY, LONDON

Congratulations Directors

We are very happy to have been of assistance to the Wardrobe
Departments in the production of so many fine costume pictures, during the season 1933 - 1934

Western Costume Corporation

Beautiful Romance plus Hazardous Adventure Assures Positive Box Office Draw!

Pete Harrison's Report!

"I have seen almost every animal picture that has been released in the United States, but never have I seen one that is as fascinating and thrilling as 'Beyond Bengal.' . . . The thrills are caused by the fact that human lives are placed in danger repeatedly and members of the party risk their lives on every occasion to save the lives of their comrades. There is a sort of comraderie that is frequently absent even in regular dramatic productions. The effect of this spirit is felt most pronouncedly when a young native, member of the party, is rescued from the jaws of a crocodile (no fake either), and his sweetheart . . . while leaning over his body grief-stricken, bursts out praying, tears rolling down her cheeks. . . . The scene where Mr. Schenck and his outfit are shown attempting to cross the river is the most exciting ever seen in pictures . . . Crocodiles are seen attacking the caravan and the elephants themselves. Another exciting situation is where the cameramen . . . make an effort to photograph a herd of elephants . . . All goes well until the elephants get angry; they then upset the canoes, throwing cameramen and natives into the river, who have to scamper for their lives . . . Another situation shows a leopard charging and wounding seriously a cameraman. These are no made-up affairs; one can see plainly that it is a matter of life or death . . . 'Beyond Bengal' should be shown everywhere."

Showmens Round Table Raves!

"Exploitation should bring in great returns for you on this offering. It moves rapidly, isn't too long, and the photography, considering the handicaps under which cameramen were forced to work, is fine."

HARRY SCHENCK'S

Beyond Bengal

Authentic! Real!

SHOWMENS PICTURES, IN

D. J. MOUNTAN, President

723 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK, N. Y

THE Hollywood REPORTER

(XI, No. 19. Price 10c TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Thursday, May 31, 1

10c

"VANESSA"

with

HELEN HAYES

A

WILLIAM K. HOWARD

Production

For

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

SPECIAL DIRECTORS' NUMBER

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•THE boys were batting the ball around the other evening and talking about the picture business in general and good pictures in particular. The conclusion was that two or three really GREAT PICTURES would do wonders for this business and some sort of propaganda should be started in this town in an effort to stir up production imagination and actual production tending to the making of a great picture or two.

That's a pretty tough assignment.

It is our opinion that there has not been a really great picture since "All Quiet" and there's hardly a chance that there will be one for some time, as producers, the men heading the studios, give little encouragement to the men and women working under them that would inspire such efforts.

•

In the first place (with the possible exception of MGM) there is not a plant in the business which would take a chance on the making of a GREAT PICTURE, they would not care to risk that money, they would not give the time for the writing or the adaptation or sufficient time to shoot such a picture. And because of this writers are not writing in that direction, they are attempting to deliver what the producers want and it does not seem to be GREAT PICTURES.

•

But getting back to the first paragraph a GREAT PICTURE would do this business more good right at this time than anything that could happen —a picture that would send audiences out screaming their delight, a picture that would be discussed in the home, in the office, from the church pulpit; one that would be commented on by the press, editorially and otherwise. This business needs such a lift, but who's to do it? Who is going after that big picture? Who has the brains and the desire to make it?

Picture audiences, past and present, should be aroused by something important, something really big. The stay-at-homes should be brought back to the theatres and the only way to do it would be through an outstanding production, a GREAT PICTURE.

How about it?

Feb. 21, 1934

BILLY WILKERSON:

Here's Your Answer !

"OUR DAILY BREAD"

A PICTURE INSPIRED BY HEADLINES OF TODAY

King Vidor.

UNITED ARTISTS RELEASE

ROY DEL RUTH

◆

DIRECTOR

UNDER CONTRACT TO TWENTIETH CENTURY

◆

JUST COMPLETED

"Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back"

◆

IN PREPARATION
A SAMUEL GOLDWYN — UNITED ARTISTS PRODUCTION
STARRING EDDIE CANTOR

TABLE OF CONTENTS

The Future of the Director - - - - - 9
By IRVING THALBERG

The Menace of the "Big Four" - - - - 11
By RICHARD WALLACE

What Is Smut Worth? - - - - - - 13
By FRANK CAPRA

Be Yourself - - - - - - - - 15
By GREGORY LA CAVA

Comically Speaking - - - - - - 17
By ROY DEL RUTH

"Just One of Those Things" - - - - - 19
By HENRY HATHAWAY

Just a Joiner - - - - - - - - 21
By W. S. VAN DYKE

Looking Backwards on Direction - - - - 23
By ROBERT Z. LEONARD

No Rest For the Wicked - - - - - - 25
By NORMAN TAUROG

What About Good Music in Pictures? - - - 27
By VICTOR SCHERTZINGER

The World Is Round - - - - - - 29
By MERVYN LeROY

Cameraman or Director of Photography? - - - 31
By KARL FREUND

Let's Make a Different Musical - - - - 33
By MARK SANDRICH

Published and copyrighted by THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd. Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood (Los Angeles), Calif. Telephone HOllywood 3957. Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE BEST TEN BOX-OFFICE DIRECTORS FOR 1933-34

As Selected by Exhibitor Subscribers of the Hollywood Reporter

FRANK CAPRA

GEORGE CUKOR

WESLEY RUGGLES

MERVYN LEROY

RAOUL WALSH

ALEXANDER HALL

RICHARD BOLESLAVSKY

W. S. VANDYKE

ARCHIE MAYO

LOWELL SHERMAN

From the questionnaires that were sent out to exhibitors this year asking their selections of the Best Ten Box Office Directors of the past year, and the number of replies sent in, it is most evident that the showmen had little interest in the Director and his work during the past twelve months. There were fewer replies this year than either of the other two years that this publication solicited this information.

Capra copped first place with his "Lady For a Day" and "It Happened One Night," both from the exchanges of Columbia. George Cukor gave him a run with "Little Women" from Radio and "Dinner at Eight" from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Wesley Ruggles had little competition for third place with "College Humor," "Bolero" and "I'm No Angel," released by Paramount. Mervyn LeRoy stepped through nicely to grab the fourth position with "Tugboat Annie" from MGM, "Golddiggers of 1933," "Hi Nellie," "The World Changes" and "Heat Lightning" from Warner-First National, and Raoul Walsh brought up the rear in the first bracket of directors due to his "The Bowery" for Twentieth Century and "Going Hollywood" for MGM.

In the second group a dark horse raced through to cop the top honors in the person of Alexander Hall, whose "The Torch Singer, "Mrs. Fane's Baby Is Stolen," "Girl in 419" (co-directed with George Somnes) and "The Midnight Club" caught the exhibitors' fancy. All of them for Paramount. Richard Boleslavsky trailed Hall by just a few votes due to his "Storm at Daybreak," "Beauty For Sale," "Fugitive Lovers" and "Men in White," all for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Another MGM director, W. S. Van Dyke, copped the next position for the direction of "Penthouse," "Eskimo," "The Prizefighter and the Lady" and "Manhattan Melodrama." "Convention City" pushed Archie Mayo into the charmed circle, helped by "Mayor of Hell," "Ever in My Heart" and "Gambling Lady." Those who favored Lowell Sherman as a big money director insisted on listing "She Done Him Wrong" on last year's pictures, when in fact it was on the Paramount program of the year before, but inasmuch as a large percentage of the houses played this great attraction for several repeats that ran over into the past year, he must be given recognition for that along with "Morning Glory" for Radio and "Broadway Thru a Keyhole" for Twentieth Century.

ROBERT Z. LEONARD

✦

"DANCING LADY"

IN PRODUCTION

"THE GREEN HAT"

(Temporary Title)

✦

METRO - GOLDWYN - MAYER

"SO THIS IS HARRIS"
Academy Award Short Subject

"MELODY CRUISE"

"AGGIE APPLEBY"

"HIPS, HIPS, HOORAY"
Wheeler and Woolsey

Just Completed
"COCKEYED CAVALIERS"
Wheeler and Woolsey

In Preparation
"GAY DIVORCE"
featuring
Fred Astaire — Ginger Rogers

mark sandrich
DIRECTOR

RKO-Radio Pictures

RAOUL WALSH

Directed

"THE BOWERY"

"GOING HOLLYWOOD"

The Future of The Director

By
IRVING THALBERG

ABOUT five years ago, when sound was first introduced, I was asked what the future of the motion picture director would be. With dialogue directors being requested right and left, and with the entire form of motion pictures seeming to the future of the motion picture director undergo radical changes, and—not the least—with our tremendous financial commitment in directors' contracts, it seemed a serious question at the time. My reply was then just as now—that the future of the director seemed brighter than ever.

More and more it is increasingly evident that the opportunity to get completely original stories is diminishing and the demand for style and treatment falls heavier upon the producer of pictures. To the director who can stylize his direction there is an ever-increasing opportunity substantially to improve the box-office value of the material and the cast with which he is working.

It would be unnecessary to name the director outstanding for his human quality, as a vast majority of the people in the industry would agree on the name of the man whose work is so characterized.

The same may be said of another who has specialized in a humorous American, whimsical style.

Another directors' ability to turn every situation into sly humor has caused that type of direction to be named after him —so that when others employ the same method it is called the "So-And-So" touch.

I could name countless examples of men who have stylized their work so that their pictures represent freshness and novelty even when the stories they portray are, at times, a little well-known.

Personally, I am of the belief that this represents the most favorable factor in the future of motion pictures.

The director's ability to help actors has been greatly diminished by talking pictures. There is no question about that. The day when an actor could be made out of a rank amateur is over. There will, of course, come up out of nowhere many new and great actors—but they will be people of extraordinary talent.

The day is over, also, when the actor can appear on the set hardly knowing the story he may be in. Today every small-part actor is a serious-thinking man or woman, capable of giving an interesting interpretation; and the great and important stars and featured players are, practically without exception, deep-thinking men and women of extraordinary talent and genius in their line of endeavor. The director to them is no longer an instructor in their own work—but by his stylizing of his story, the successful director presents the actor to the public constantly in a new light and adds tremendously to the actor's prestige and popularity.

PADDY, THE NEXT BEST THING

GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS

I LIKE IT THAT WAY

HARRY LACHMAN

Just Completed

BABY TAKES A BOW

with

SHIRLEY TEMPLE

and

JIMMY DUNN

The Menace of the "Big Four"

By
RICHARD WALLACE

THE motion picture industry today is faced by four tremendously big problems within itself. These must be solved or we all will have something to worry about. I don't refer to poor stories, poor acting and other perennial problems, but to more serious factors.

The most important of the four is the tendency to forget the children. The industry has done a perfect swing-back. There is nothing to bemoan about this, for it happens again and again among us poor mortals. People drink too much and they suddenly become prohibitionists — they hear too much radio music and they dash to the silence of desert islands. Our lives are a matter of constant contrast, the swinging of giant pendulums.

For years, the industry was accused by millions of being childish. It was said that those who created and directed motion pictures were morons appealing to twelve-year-old minds. The direct result of this was that producers, bitten to the quick by the charges, suddenly became sophisticated. They became super-smart.

They began making pictures which were very subtle—so subtle in fact that after the censors got through with them, Gopher Prairie didn't know what they were all about. This is still going on, with good old Gopher Prairie still struggling to catch on and the producers being terribly sophisticated.

I speak of normal adult minds who do not know what pictures are aiming at. Think of the children! They used to have their Petes and Toms and Bucks and Kens, and loved them. Today, one of the most pitiful sights in the world, with these players in action pictures gone, is to see a bunch of kids congregating for a "children's matinee" at a neighborhood playhouse to see "Sex Is Merry" and "Three Peculiar People."

I stopped a nine-year-old girl on the street in front of a theatre not long ago and asked her what she thought of the picture playing there. She replied:

"I didn't know exactly what was going on, but when the man came into the lady's room, with another man there, and shot her, I thought that was swell!"

This is just bad news for the motion picture industry. At the rate we are going now, so help me, no respectable parents are going to let youngsters inside of the theatres. The children of today are the cash customers of tomorrow and, looking at the matter selfishly, aside from the moral aspects, we must educate them to like motion pictures. I can't see capturing the childish imagination with bedroom farces and bedroom dramas, both from a moral and a box office standpoint.

Problem number two is that motion pictures are going stale. With approximately 600 feature pictures being made yearly, backgrounds are being exhausted. Plots are unvarying. The novelty lies in the new background or "idea". We are running short on ideas, with producers playing the mimic more than ever before.

The depression seems to be over. Hollywood now has a chance to make good with new and fresh ideas. The people who have stayed away from theatres because they have had little or no money are coming back.

We should show them good samples, but we are not doing it. Every director in pictures today knows that we are dropping the atmosphere of motion pictures —eliminating crowds and settings—and making two-shots and three-shots. This is not the time to economize. We want to show these returning customers pictures which will bring them again to the box office. We are not doing it.

We are "cheating" with an excess of dialog instead of showing our customers the action for which motion pictures are noted and on which they got their start. The fact that motion pictures have broad latitude in the matter of action, as compared to the stage, is forgotten completely.

Problem number three has to do with the development of talent. Something has to be done. We used to get all the material we wanted from stock companies, road shows, Broadway productions and vaudeville acts. Today, all of these sources, with the exception of Broadway, are exhausted. Broadway may not be exhausted, but it is plenty tired. As ar infant industry, subservient to the so-called legitimate theatre we "borrowed" players who had had their schooling, and often forgot to return them. Today, motion pictures outrank any other form of theatrical and radio entertainment.

We are not reaching up for talent and pulling it down to us, but we are reaching down and pulling it UP to us. We are not getting the type of material we need. The Valentinos, the Reids, are of a past generation and we are developing no new romantic characters except a few flashes in the pan. Our stars of today rank in age from forty to sixty years! I refer to Marie Dressler, Wally Beery, W.C. Fields, Alison Skipworth, Lewis Stone and May Robson, just to mention a few. Our comedian is Chaplin with gray hair. Our dramatist is the Beery of "Viva Villa," and our heart throb is May Robson of "Lady for a Day."

Somehow, somewhere, we must get hold of new talent with a punch--thrilling people in thrilling stories who will not be the rage of today and the outrage of tomorrow. Some of the moderns have failed to last as long as miniature golf and the bicycle craze.

Problem number four goes into psychology. It is unfair to blame producers or directors, because we are just reflecting the times. However, the screen is losing a wholesomeness. It is developing characters on the screen that the man from Jallopi, Ohio, would not welcome into his own home. In fact, he would kick them down the front steps.

I firmly believe that the character of an actor or actress shows in his or her face. Therefore, players should leave the flesh-pots alone and lead clean and exemplary lives. This is a tremendous order. However, I do feel that the reason the present crop of players has such a short life with the public is that it isn't wholesome. And wholesome players should be followed up with wholesome stories.

There are still things which are fine, beautiful and even holy in American life today. I would like to see these situations, these motivations and these characters developed on the screen. Producers and directors may believe that in becoming raw, rancid, suggestive, pandering and dirty, they are appealing to today's American "civilization".

I do not agree. I think we are clean people working in a clean industry. I do not believe that we should follow public taste—I think we should educate it. I think that every man and woman working in the motion picture industry has a sacred charge—and that is to show the coming generation that the things which seem to appeal to them today—the things which are fundamentally, socially and morally wrong—are just that. This may be done quite easily.

The actors who play in this type of production will be the idols of tomorrow.

marion gering

"Ladies of the Big House"

"Madame Butterfly"

"Pick Up"

"Jennie Gerhardt"

"Good Dame"

"Thirty Day Princess"

Now in Preparation

"Her Master's Voice"

(For Paramount)

Management

Schulberg-Feldman and Gurney

What Is Smut Worth ?

By
FRANK CAPRA

I HAVE been asked whether the box-office value of smut is waning.

This raises the question: "Does smut have ANY box-office value?"

Personally I do not think it has—except to a very limited clientele and for a very limited time.

Smutty pictures have done more harm than good to the exhibitors' business. While they temporarily attract a certain class, they definitely repel others to whom this type of production is repulsive. The harm is not confined to that picture alone; those who dislike smut stay away from all moving picture theatres for some time after they, or their children, witness such a picture.

The New York stage passed through a cycle of smutty plays and spectacles featuring the nude. It was an expedient adopted when box-offices began to suffer severely from the general depression. Clean-minded persons who were always steady patrons stayed away, and the producers only aggravated the box-office situation by further limiting patronage.

Smut, like profanity, is the expedient of the man too lazy to express himself without its use. It is easy to be profane or smutty of speech; difficult to be clever.

The temporary box-office value of smut is offset by the lasting injury it inflicts on subsequent box-office figures. Its value lay in its "shock" effect, and even this temporary value has been destroyed, just as the shock and effect of a cold shower is lost after the first burst of the icy water. Further attempts to surpass such spectacles only further disgust a very large percentage of the theatre-going public.

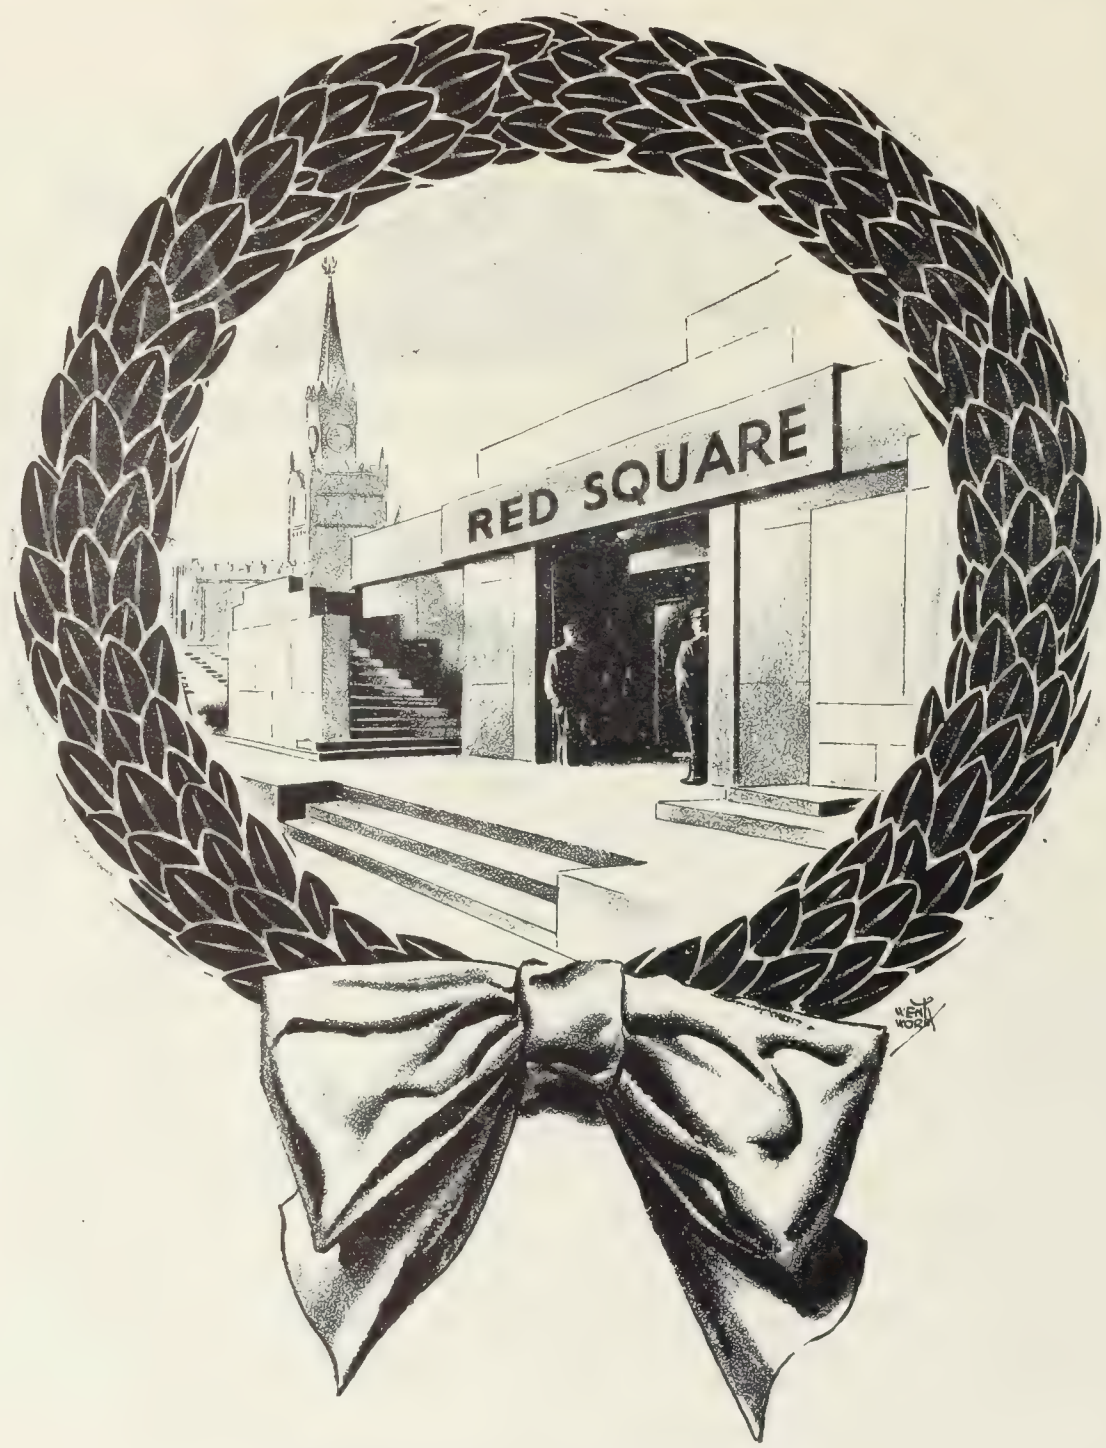
An instance of the effect of the recent cycle of "smut" pictures was related by a San Francisco attorney. With his family, he wished to attend a motion picture theatre. The advertisements of their favorite showhouse featured a picture with a lascivious title. The attorney and his family stayed home.

Some time later he was in a small California city on business. As there was no other place to go during the evening, he sought out the local motion picture house and entered without glancing at the name of the attraction. The picture was the one he had kept his family from seeing in San Francisco.

Much to his amazement the production was innocuous and harmless in spite of its patently "box-office" title, and was really good entertainment.

In this instance, a mistaken effort to inject questionable box-office had kept the lawyer and his family from attending the theatre, and an innocent picture suffered from the sins of others.

The situation has been reversed too often to point out any one instance where a family has attended a motion picture theatre, knowing nothing of the kind of an attraction outside of a seemingly harmless title, and became disgusted by a smutty, suggestive picture, followed by a resolve on the part of the parents to keep their children from motion pictures, except when they could be absolutely certain that the kind of entertainment was such as they would wish their children to see.



That patronage will come to pictures that are entirely clean of smut is attested by the success of "The House of Rothschild," "Lost Patrol," "Little Women," and Frank Borzage's early "Seventh Heaven" or his recent, "No Greater Glory" and of "Cimarron."

Widespread censorship, rigidly enforced, is another item which must be taken into consideration when the question of whether or not smut pays is discussed. The continued appearance of pictures in which smut predominates will certainly lead to more and more censorship, and in states where the screen is now free from this bureaucratic cutting and slashing of all productions.

The large radio chains took a lesson from the experience of the motion picture business and immediately instituted a self-censorship that has kept the air clean of smut. The big advertisers and the big radio chains know that, even though any individual advertiser could enlist a huge air-audience through the use of smutty programs, it would lead immediately to a much greater portion of the radio listeners shutting out from their homes, not only the offending program, but others which were innocent and free from anything offensive.

I do not argue against sex in pictures, provided it is handled cleverly. But there is more sex in a flash of a pair of pretty ankles than there is in a scene of a thousand bare legs; more allurement in what is not shown than in that which is blatantly and crudely smeared on the screen to the point of nausea in an attempt to outdo some other production which had made a questionable success through its use.

IN MEMORIAM

1933 - 1934

Be Yourself

By
GREGORY LA CAVA

IF I were running a school for motion picture actors, the first request I would make is: "Please don't act." Many years ago when theatres had GALLERIES, there were many systems of imitation called "schools of acting." The first thing required of the pupil was to submerge his or her own PERSONALITY.

If she were an ingenue, for instance, she was told that by the simple mechanical expedient of crossing her arms over her bosom, holding her head back in a gargling position and gazing heavenward, she would be able to convey a spirit of untrammeled virtue to the far reaches of the gallery.

By assuming position "B," which consisted of dropping her arms to a parallel position across her abdomen, lowering her head from the gargling position and gazing cow-eyed, straight ahead, she had performed the miracle of becoming the mother type.

But the miracle had not ceased. By dropping her hands still further, placing the palms on either side of her caboose, elbows akimbo, assuming a rolling motion with hips, head thrown back in flaunting manner, she had now metamorphosed into a wicked, Carmen type of female. This she sometimes varied by holding a rose between her shining teeth.

All of this, my children, may have been necessary in the dark ages when the man in the gallery had to know precisely what was going on. It is not necessary in the motion picture theatre. The close-up has moved the gallery down to that well-known front row where hirsute adornment is considered a luxury.

An audience today will accept the premise that you are either virtuous, wicked or motherly if you state the fact quietly and naturally. In the days of theatrical ranting, people went to the theatre to be frightened. They now go to be entertained. The theatre was once a world apart. Today each member of the audience is a shareholder.

Today's audience (hereinafter referred to as John Doe) enters the theatre, slumps in a seat, lowers his guard, relaxes completely, and enters his world of make-believe which is being enacted before him on the screen. He is the hero bound and gagged. Due to his complete state of relaxation, there before him his baser, villainous self is threatening his softer side in the form of the ingenue—he struggles to free himself to squelch his baser nature—to no avail—BUT—it is not too late—here comes the cavalry—and WHO do you think is riding at its head? Correct. John Doe himself. He severs the bonds which hold his heroic aide captive, squelches his baser self in a hand to hand struggle, places his arm around the waist of his softer counterpart and, reunited, they wander into the rising run toward the beginning of a fresh start in life.

Having had this emotional catharsis, John Doe goes home and writes himself a fan letter. He addresses it to some actor at some studio, telling him what a fine performance he gave when, as a matter of fact, he has only given John Doe an opportunity to perform HIMSELF.

John Doe doesn't want an actor to ACT. He simply demands that he REACT normally to the situation at hand. He resents your imitation of someone else. Having moved from the gallery to the front row, he is in a position to sense anything false in a performance. He resents this because it makes him self-conscious. When an actor with a perfectly healthy, normal, Connecticut background dons the garb of a Tennessee mountaineer, slouches into a cabin built for the purpose and says: "Maw, I cain't see you suffer no longer nohow—I jest shot Paw down the road a piece," he senses the fake immediately, and returns to his home with the feeling that he has seen a bad picture. The actor was not himself, therefore John Doe couldn't be himself and his evening was spoiled.

The screen is no place for acting as we have known it in the past. An actor's problem is to break down the barriers of falsehood between his own personality and the reflexes of John Doe. After a young actor has reached say, the age of thirty, it stands to reason that his own personality must be richer in every way than any imitation he may possibly give of someone else. He should not read lines that are unnatural to him nor make motions that he does not feel, just because it says so in a script.

Movie-goers do not write fan letters to an actor's performance. On the contrary, they write letters to an actor's personality. Because that personality is real and John Doe likes real things. If you are yourself, John Doe can be himself and there is a liquid camaraderie and understanding between the two of you.

It is my belief that costume features are usually not successful because John Doe has difficulty in imagining himself in strange garments, saying strange things. He resents the veneer that keeps the personality of his favorite from shining through. A notable exception is "Little Women," wherein, while it was a period picture, nevertheless the problems of the people were the same as John Doe's problems.

If every actor on the screen would occasionally re-acquaint himself with his OWN personality, he would soon discover how rich he is and consequently would have little time or inclination for the imitation of someone else.

If "can't" is your natural form of expressing "no can do," leave the "cawn't" to the fellow who expresses it naturally. This is your best chance for establishing a communion with your friend, Mr. Doe. If you are square pegs, don't try to fit into round holes, my little ones.

Be yourselves.

"EVER IN MY HEART"

"GAMBLING LADY"

ARCHIE MAYO

Directed

"CONVENTION CITY"

"MAYOR OF HELL"

"MAN WITH TWO FACES"

Comically Speaking

By
ROY DEL RUTH

IF you must go into motion pictures, disregard the blushing heroines, the stalwart heroes and the gripping character actors. Head instead for the comedy field. If you are a good comedian or comedienne, it is here that you will make a fortune. You'll make it quickly and easily. You'll be respected in your community, which is something no good Rotarian will ignore.

But never, as long as you live, try to be a comedy director! I've been through the mill, I've had the works, I know the answers and I'm wise to the racket.

Before we discuss directing comedies, let's consider the actors and actresses. Who, of the various players, has the most gold in the old sock? Harold Lloyd, who is such a success that he has a golf course on his estate. Charles Chaplin, who has so much money that he eats his cream of wheat out of a tin plate. Marie Dressler, who stands quite high in our industry.

Why?

Because people feel a little sorry for the gal who has to race across the ice to get away from the Big Bad Wolf. They feel just as sorry for the young clerk whose wife is about to have a baby, but who can't get a raise. That's something.

BUT—they love a comedian or comedienne because he or she makes them laugh, and laughing at the moment is at a premium.

All this is very nice.

But did you ever see the directors who direct the comedians and comediennes who send you into stitches?

No, indeed!

Nobody ever sees a comedy director. He's usually under a rug somewhere. I should know. In a moment of misguided youth, I became one. I have a face so long that if anyone wanted to make a picture of me—as if anyone wanted to—they'd have to print it on the floor of a hallway in a medieval castle. And I'm no exception. Whenever you see a man in the corner in Hollywood, away back from the rest of the world, studying the possibilities of the infinite, you know you've seen a comedy director.

What a job!

The comedy directors of Hollywood are a race apart. They are usually thin, have long, sad faces which make undertakers look like the spirit of springtime, and they sulk. And they have a reason.

A successful drama is easily produced. You collect a couple of tears, about three weak moments, a hero, heroine and villain, and everything is in the bag. You just follow the script and that's that.

With a comedy, all is different. Especially since talking pictures have come in, you never know where your laughs are. And that's something! Imagine—you know where your home is, where beer can be bought and where practically everything is, except the laughs. So you shove them in.

You wrestle through a script with a comedian and a comedienne. You know what drama is. That's tangible. Over and above all, you can put your finger on a dramatic moment. But did you ever try to put your finger on a gag? It's like trying to stick a cannon through a one-inch hole with a blindfold on.

You work and work and work.

You figure that you are a very funny fellow.

You get into a lather and you direct your picture. You build funny situation after situation. Then figure the audience is going to roll in the aisles. You cut the picture. You rush it down to the most comical audience you know, and they all sit on their hands when the big moments come along!

This is tough. But, tougher than even this is the fact that the customers laugh at things you didn't think were funny at all. In fact, you probably put them in for dramatic emphasis. Now, maybe you understand why directors run around with chins that don't need to be shaved because they're always being scraped off on the ground.

Comedy direction has other incoherent moments. For instance, the director has a very screwy sense of humor and thinks that he has picked funny people for his cast. After working for six weeks he previews the picture and discovers that what he thought were snickers from the audience were sobs! What a swell break these guys who direct epics get.

Maybe you think this is bad news, but let's go back even farther, to the writers. Millions of serious things are published every day — newspapers, magazines, books and what have you. But the funny books come out very seldom. Why? Because writers are funny only seldom. Here I am, a director, with a seldom funny writer, working on a comedy. That's when the trouble starts, after you have a funny idea. It drives the writer into hysterics and, before you get through, he has written his own idea, after forgetting yours.

From the beginning, things go from bad to worse. The late lamented depression was a piker. People were supposed to be low. They weren't half as low as a comedy director with a writer re-writing his script and telling him what was wrong with it.

All right. You get it done. You have your actors. You make the picture. You cut it. And you preview it. Possibly, by hook or crook, you have two laughs. Do you know what happens? The laughs come so close together that they sound like one! You try to figure out how to get the two laughs apart, and you end up by cutting paper dolls out of anything handy.

The saddest moment of all is when you show it to the producer, the man who has sunk his money into it. He sits and looks and you are leaning back waiting for a chuckle. The man can't chuckle, because he has sunk about $250,000 into it. Thats not funny, even in the Scandinavian.

"Fairly good," he says, after giving the once over to your funny idea, the funny story, and those funny people whom you helped buy a new Rolls Royce. You hold your breath. The picture is released, and millions of people who have read the advertisements think that they are going to roar their heads off.

They go to see it, and you are in a much larger Dog House than you were with the producer. The critics even go so far as to suggest that you were trying to be funny.

The whole answer is that no matter what happens, don't direct comedy in any form. Steer clear of it, just as if it was quarantined for fifty years. Let the comedian and the comedienne build their Italian villas. Don't go in for it.

And, in conclusion, just let me get my hands on an epic.

I'll retire!

JOHN CROMWELL

R-K-O
RADIO

"Just One of Those Things"

By
HENRY HATHAWAY

So, you'd like to be a director, would you? You'd like to have somebody write the stories, hire the actors, build the sets, construct the dialogue, light the scene and turn the camera. All you have to do is sit in your easy chair, say "Action!" and "Cut!" at proper intervals, and every once in a while remark condescendingly, "Print that one!" That's what you think.

You arrive at the studio bright and early, eager for the day's labors. It is spring. Little birds chirp cheerily. The sun beams lovingly. You are even with schedule, and the producer is smiling. It's a lovely world, after all.

Then your star walks on the set.

"Wait a minute," you remark. "You're supposed to wear that brown suit in this scene."

"I definitely was told the blue."

"Well, get back to the dressing room and change—if the brown isn't at the cleaners."

Up comes your assistant director.

"Say, we gotta shoot around that kid for a few days. She's got the measles or mumps or sumpin. We can shoot the interior of that chateau—"

A man from casting horns in.

"No, yuh can't. Joe Blitz won't be available for three days, and he's in that scene. But you could do that night club stuff."

"But," wails your leading lady, "my costume for that scene isn't done! I don't want to wear that old rag you tried to palm off on me that Olga Olgawitz wore in that thing she did. I won't wear anything but my new outfit."

"Well," you suggest, "maybe we could do the transparencies on the boat."

"Notta chance," says the assistant. "Jones' company is in there for another week."

By this time your star is back with his brown suit. Maybe you can't get the kid, but you can worry about that later. Let's get this scene now. First a rehearsal. You explain the action. They walk through it, perfectly.

"Let's make one." And things start

In the midst of everything you hear a loud buzzing noise. You look at the sound man. He frowns and shakes his head. "Cut!"

"Fix that damn sun-arc!"

While it is being fixed you sit. Your dialogue writer comes up.

"We otta change this scene," he says. "In the script the guy says, 'It is imperative that this transaction be consummated.' Now you know nine-tenths of the clucks that go to see this opera won't know what the hell he's talkin' about. I don't think the guy can say it anyway. He's got a one-syllable mind."

"Suit yourself," you say, thinking wearily how bright it seemed that morning. The sun-arc is fixed, and you start again.

In the middle of the scene, with everything going smoothly the second cameraman says "Cut!"

"Somethin' wrong with this box," he explains brightly. He pries around inside, muttering darkly to himself. All the cameramen take a look inside.

"What's the matter?" you remark. "Somebody lose his lunch?"

"That's an idea," says the cameraman. "It's lunchtime now."

So you knock off while the camera is being repaired. An hour later, fortified with a thin slice of ancient beef, lumpy potatoes and a cup of something vaguely reminiscent of coffee, you return to the wars.

"I feel terribly," your leading lady greets you. "I guess I shouldn't have had those cucumbers. Do you think we can knock off early today?"

"It's fixed," the cameraman cheers you up. "Film got off the track, and got chewed up, but we cleaned her out, and she's oke now."

"Think we can make one?"

"Why not?"

Your principals are placed, the extras lined up. The cameraman decides one light isn't hitting just right. He floods it, tips it up, and is satisfied. You shoot. "Cut!" It's a perfect take.

"Say," says the wardrobe girl, timidly, "is she wearing the right shoes?"

"Oh, my gosh," wails your leading lady. "I took those things off before lunch because they hurt my feet. And those cucumbers made me forget to put 'em back on."

"Let's do it over," you suggest. While you're lining up, a troupe of visitors parades in. They're breathless. They're actually seeing pictures made. You shoot again. It gets halfway through, when—

"Say," demands a visitor, "do you really—

"Cut! Who in hell let those people in? Get everybody off the stage who isn't working!"

"Look," says a publicity man, horning in, "I wanta get a statement from you about what you attribute your success to."

"Nuts! I ain't got time. Can't you see I'm busy? Tell 'em I'm born lucky; tell 'em it's a gift—and I'm figuring on giving it back. Tell 'em anything! Don't bother me!"

"Let's try it again," you remark wearily. Eventually you get a shot, and "one for protection." You change setups, and the whole rigamarole starts in again. Lamps burn out, cameras reload, people forget dialogue and bits of business, extras blunder in front of principals, a carpenter starts hammering in the middle of a take. But, by God, you've got three shots.

"Look," says the assistant, "I told you we can't get the kid for those shots tomorrow, whaddaya want to do?"

"See if we can get Bill Glutz for the fight scenes. And then we'll hope to God that Bill don't hit our star hard enough to scar him up for the rest of the picture."

"I beg your pardon," says a voice, "but this is Miss Tucker from one of the fan magazines, and she'd like to do an interview with you."

"Oh, Mr. Director," trills Miss Tucker, "I have a marvelous idea for a story. I want to tell my readers all about pictures. Tell me, just what does a director do?"

RADIO PICTURES

"Professional Sweethearts"

"Rafter Romance"

"Chance at Heaven"

"Sons of the Desert"
with Laurel and Hardy

"Love Birds"
with Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville

"Sing and Like It"
All Star Cast

"We're Rich Again"
All Star Cast

IN PREPARATION

"By Your Leave"

WILLIAM A. SEITER

Just A Joiner

By
W. S. VAN DYKE

YOU'VE got me, boys.

You've caught me with the goods and I'd like to get my fingers on the stool-pigeon that tipped you off to my record. Sure, I've got a record. How could I deny it? You've found enough evidence on the cards in my pocket, so I might as well break down and confess.

But first take the handcuffs off, will you, boys? I can talk better then.

I admit I am a joiner. I'll even go further than that. I admit I am the World's Champion joiner—but through no fault of my own, understand.

I remember the day when I didn't have a card to my name, not even an ace or a deuce. But today, I have scores of them—maybe millions of them—and they keep multiplying like guinea pigs. But you can't blame me for that because I have been a victim of circumstances.

I recall vividly how it all began. As long as I stayed on the home lot and directed pictures I was let alone. Nobody invited me to speak at banquets or hung ribbons around my neck, for there wasn't any reason to do it.

Then somebody got an idea that a South Sea picture had not been filmed for a week or two and I was pushed aboard a boat with a camera crew. I was commanded to go to the South Seas and go for the natives or go native or something like that, and not to come back until I had a South Sea picture. I went, and that's where it all began.

The natives probably are to be blamed for the predicament I am in today. They hung a lei of tribal blood around my neck and took me into their lodge. It was the first offense. Then, when I came back with "White Shadows in the South Seas," my troubles began.

These cards you have spread out before you began to rain down upon me. Apparently I was mistaken for a world traveler, an intrepid adventurer.

True, I belong to the Los Angeles Athletic Club, the Hollywood Athletic Club, the Beverly Hills Athletic Club, the Bel-Air Club, and a flock of others—but, upon my word as a Kentucky Colonel, I have never set my foot across the threshold of any of them, not once.

I have memberships in the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the Masquers, the 233 Club, the Los Angeles Turf Club and the Army and Navy Club—yet, I must confess, I have never broken bread at their tables.

You will find me a member in good standing in the Los Angeles Advertising Club, yet I have never made a speech there. I am a Knight of Labor, yet the Lord only knows why. I am an angel of mercy in the Japanese Red Cross, though with bowed head I confess I have not even bandaged the finger of a Japanese schoolboy.

When the storm of life memberships subsided, I was content to toast my feet before my fireplace and stay home for the rest of my existence. But do -? No.

It seems that a garrulous old chap down around the tip of South Africa had a habit of spinning yarns to a woman writer for an occasional cup of tea. The writer took him seriously and wrote a book about Mr. Aloysius Horn.

So I was sent to Africa to film "Trader Horn." Seven long months I perspired down there and not even the blacks would give me a moment's rest. They made me king. They made me several kings. And today I probably wear more mythical crowns than all of the kings together. Please don't ask me the names of the tribes I'm supposed to rule. I couldn't pronounce them even if I knew. But it's true, s'help me.

Upon my return from Africa, it started all over again. I began joining again. Not that I asked for it. I was requested to join. These various societies would urge—almost demand—me to join their organizations. And I did.

So I became a member in the International Adventurers, the National Sojourners, the Beloved Vagabonds, the Explorers Club, and many more.

Application blanks poured in from the American Geographical Society, the National Geographic Society, the Pacific Geographical Society. Yes, gentlemen, I signed them all, although I admit geography was way beyond me in my kid days.

Again, I dug myself out of the avalanche of memberships that had fallen upon me and crawled back to my own fireside. I had hoped that never again would I be pushed to a remote corner of the globe on a motion picture expedition.

But my hopes were promptly blasted, and I awoke in the Arctic Circle, filming "Eskimo." Even in that faraway region I was unable to escape the curse of "joining." I joined the Arctic Brotherhood.

And when I once more staggered back to civilization my back was bowed heavily by more memberships.

The Women's International Association of Aeronautics, Junior Division. This has always been a mystery to me. I do not believe there is any doubt about my sex and no longer am I a junior.

But as long as we are at it, let the cards fall where they may. I am enrolled in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Association, the Army and Navy Club, the U. S. Marine Corps and the Kentucky National Guard.

I am proud of these memberships, even as I am equally proud of every other organization to which I belong, though I do not attend any of their meetings.

Yet I am proudest of those associations which I honestly inherited through my family—the Society of Colonial Wars, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Society of the Sons of the Revolution, the Founders and Patriots of America.

These were handed down to me by my grandfathers and their grandfathers . . .

Jan Thomasse Van Dyke, who came to America in 1652, and was one of the founders of Utrecht, Long Island;

Captain Jan Janse Van Dyke, magistrate of New Utrecht, a captain in the Colonial Army and who died in 1736;

Jan Van Dyke, Alderman of the First Board of New Brunswick in 1730;

Jan Van Dyke, one of the oldest soldiers in the Revolution, killed at the Battle of Monmouth in 1778;

John Honeyman, Washington's favorite spy, who supplied the information that led Washington to cross the Delaware and win the Battle of Trenton.

I am a Mason and an Elk. These, I think, comprise most of my "joinings"—unless you want to include my chieftainships, for which I blame the "Laughing Boy" expedition.

As long as I am telling all unashamed, I confess that I am a full-fledged chief in the Nez Perc and Navajo tribes.

That is all, gentlemen. May I have a glass of water? I feel fatigued. What? I've just been accepted into the California Peace Officers Association? Change that water for a slug of gin!

†

When I finish directing "Stamboul Quest", it will mark the completion of nine consecutive and appreciative years with Metro-Goldwyn Mayer; also the fulfillment of a perennial promise when I board the "Ile de France" on June 16th for a three months vacation.

SAM WOOD

Exclusive Management
BERG, STEBBINS, ALLENBERG AND BLUM

Looking Backwards on Direction

By
ROBERT Z. LEONARD

THERE probably isn't a tougher job than trying to write a story of this sort.

You are caught on the horns of a dilemma. If you express any personal theories, you immediately involve yourself in controversy with others who have conflicting ideas. That is apt to have its unpleasant phases. And, in any case, contemporary discussions of this nature smack too much of conceit.

However, there is a safe ground on which a director may verbally tread. That is the past. The other day I realized that it is just twenty-four years since I first reported to Director Francis Boggs as an actor.

Looking backwards, I am impressed by the changes which have taken place in the attitudes assumed towards the director, both within and without the industry.

The director has gone through a variety of stages. In the first, he had the aspect of a sort of adventurer-magician. Literary aptitude wasn't an outstanding essential. Above all things, he had to be quick on the trigger, instantaneous on the up-take. It was quite the usual thing for him to leave the studio in the morning with no physical accoutrements except a camera and a little film; nothing on his mind except a vague idea. The story would be written en route to location and shot in toto that day. Bystanders were roped in as "extras," sans pay if possible. Elaborate assistance was out of the question, and direction took on the aspects of day labor when things had to be moved. And a good director became pretty clever at using houses, bits of garden, etc., where the absence of the owner made the rental nothing—or perhaps a couple of dollars paid to a complaisant servant. Quick-thinking, quick movement, were more necessary than creative effort.

Then the public began to tire of stories shot largely in the sunlight, minus any great degree of photographic quality. Studio work became more important. "Open" stages were covered over and electric illumination developed, requiring of the director a greater, more intense understanding of technical photographic essentials. Also, becoming more intimate, the scenes of pictures gained a greater amount of compilation. The director had to concentrate on exits, entrances, crosses etc.

In other words, the game had evolved from a rather adventurous, care-free "racket" into a definite profession, one with rules which continued to grow tighter with each passing year.

The next phase was that of the "star director." In this period directors who had given the public consistently good pictures were "starred," billed exactly as are and were the principal players. Consoling as this was to directors, this was not entirely a sincere move on the part of the producers of the time. Then they were all a bit jittery. The public adulation of stars was just getting under way. Salaries were shooting up. Company executives were in a corresponding dither. They thought the upward shoot of stellar salaries could be offset by boosting the director in the public prints.

I have no wish to get into an argument with anybody, but I have always felt that this artificial period was harmful to the director.

Directors should have reasonable publicity, of course. Certainly I want my share. But we must remember that the great interest for the public lies in what they SEE on the screen. It is an old psychological principle that that which is hidden from view can't make its presence click in comparison to things which are in plain sight. And the director must always be hidden from view by the bulk of the camera.

The efforts to pull the director out from behind the camera, put him into the same publicity class as a star, only led to a series of misconceptions which were not too good for the industry. For example, the public was given the impression of the director as an unsmiling, sarcastic, domineering despot, a veritable Czar. It was not to be wondered that many theatre-goers couldn't understand how light, delicate comedy, lovely, subtle humor could be developed by such a man, pictured as sort of a combination of Satan, Mussolini and Simon Legree.

The latter part of the silent picture era saw the director growing into the niche which he likes best, which proved best for the industry. More and more he became a part of the actual creation of the story. (It should be explained here, to any unfamiliar with their past cinematic history, that after the first period where the director wrote his own yarns, "on the cuff"—there came a time when specialization reared its ugly head—when the director was handed a script and told, "here, direct this." In that era it was considered treason if the man with the megaphone even mildly suggested an interest in the creative building of the story). More and more physical details were lifted from his shoulders so that he might give more attention to subtleties, to new twists, etc. This followed in natural course the increasing critical attitude of the public. Errors of omission and commission to which they paid no attention in the days when films were a novelty, now bulked as serious obstacles in the way of the director who persisted in them.

Sound, of course, brought the greatest change to directors. The first phase in the sound period was that of super-caution. We had grown used to a silent medium that had become, through long usage, very supple. Its pictorial possibilities had been rather thoroughly explored.

Then, suddenly, came talk. Because it was new, talk assumed a terrific importance. Directors were afraid to do the new, striking, pictorial twists for fear they would interrupt the dialogue. The first talkies were made merely as photographed stage plays. Of course, at first, this caution was due in large part to the very heavy, unwieldy sound apparatus; the cameras in their huge ice boxes, etc.

As we grew used to sound, however, as invention lightened the sound apparatus, fear and caution diminished. Directors began to think once again in terms of MOVING pictures. We began to see that talk in no way interfered with the striking pictorial images which made photoplays originally great. Our wings spread out again—and today we are undoubtedly at the threshold of the most interesting age direction has ever had.

It has been for me a great, a most interesting twenty-four years—but I honestly and sincerely believe that the next twenty-four will be far more worthwhile and vital than those which have passed.

JACK CONWAY

✦

"HELL BELOW"

"THE NUISANCE"

"VIVA VILLA"

✦

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

No Rest for The Wicked

By
NORMAN TAUROG

THIS little playlet takes place in the Paramount Studio commissary at a round table where, when the lunch whistle blows, congregate directors, writers and producers who have never heard of Helping Hand Societies and who think that Sympathy is the female of the species Simp.

What's worse, the following act has been playing for so long that it makes the New York run of "Abie's Irish Rose" look like a one-night stand.

The cast of characters changes slightly from time to time, but in this sad instance we have Barney Glazer, Louis D. Lighton, Waldemar Young, Walter De Leon, Bartlett Cormack and myself, Norman Taurog—two producers, three writers and—Heaven help me—a director.

Waldemar Young, after dragging himself wearily across the floor, plumps into a chair next to the other five.

YOUNG: So help me, I'll never write another picture.

GLAZER (pleading): Please, boys, we promised not to talk shop.

CHORUS (sotto voce): That's right. No shop.

(They are all stricken dumb).

CORMACK: Talking about writing, did I ever tell you the story about the time I was back on the paper in Chicago?

CHORUS: Yes!

TAUROG (to Young): If you think you're tired, you should have seen the time I had with that bear on "We're Not Dressing."

LIGHTON: Animals are grand pals. You ought to see my horse ranch.

YOUNG: Methods of transportation have changed. What I need is another trip around the world. You have no idea what this "Cleopatra" script did to me.

DE LEON: Scripts aren't what they used to be in the good old days. Now when I wrote "The Campus" . . .

CORMACK: That was ten years ago when I was back on the paper in Chicago.

DE LEON: What of it? As I was saying . . .

GLAZER: If this doesn't stop, so help me, I'm going to eat at the Ambassador tomorrow.

LIGHTON: We've heard that for a year. The trouble is tomorrow never comes.

CORMACK: That's a swell idea.

GLAZER: It certainly is. I'm going to eat at the Ambassador tomorrow.

CORMACK: No, not the Ambassador. "Tomorrow Never Comes." Has anyone used that title yet?

TAUROG: Who cares? Think up something original like "We're Not Dressing."

YOUNG: Vincent Lawrence and I are through with the DeMille script, so we're not yessing.

CHORUS: Jack Cunningham's losing a lot of weight.

(Jack Cunningham never gained nor lost an ounce in his life. But that's neithre here nor there. It's the stock answer to all puns).

LIGHTON: There is a time and place for puns. By the way, did you hear the swell line that I'm going to have in my next picture?

CHORUS: Yes!

LIGHTON (to himself): That's funny. I only just thought of it myself.

TAUROG: Lines alone don't mean anything. I've got a grand situation in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Maybe you fellows could help me with a little suggestion.

YOUNG: Here I'm dying with Cleopatra and he asks me riddles about cabbages.

GLAZER (blue in the face and muttering something which sounds like): I'm surely going to eat at the Ambassador tomorrow.

LIGHTON: Oh for a quiet afternoon on my horse ranch.

YOUNG: Horses? Listen, DeMille wanted a scene in which the Egyptian and the Roman cavalry . . .

CORMACK: Who the hell cares? You think you're a martyr. I did two pictures with DeMille, but that's nothing compared to when I was back on the paper in Chicago.

TAUROG (who had apparently been talking throughout the foregoing): . . . so when Europena runs out to the cabbage patch to tell Mrs. Wiggs . . .

DE LEON: Lighton, will you please turn your horses loose in Norman's cabbage patch.

TAUROG: No. No. There are no horses in it. Didn't you ever read "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch"?

CHORUS (fearing that Taurog would read it to them): Yes!

TAUROG: I wouldn't have a horse in it. Not after that bear.

LIGHTON: A bear ran after one of the horses on my ranch, and when the horse fell . . .

DE LEON: . . . It was a horse on the bear.

CHORUS: Jack Cunningham's losing a lot of weight.

GLAZER (moaning): I should have gone to eat at the Ambassador today.

TAUROG: Now, take that scene from "Mrs. Wiggs" . . .

DE LEON: You're the director. You take it.

TAUROG: Have a heart, boys. I'm in a spot on this scene. It's worse than the time I had with that bear.

YOUNG: I'll give you some of the lines left over from Cleopatra. They're terrific. I wrote them.

LIGHTON: I'll lend you some horses from my ranch.

CORMACK: I'll let you read a story I wrote when I was back on the paper in Chicago. You might get something from that.

DE LEON: There's a swell situation in "The Campus" which you could copy.

GLAZER (his face flushed and his eyes rolling wildly): Tomorrow I'm going to get on my horse and take Cleopatra to eat bear steak and cabbage at the Ambassador back in Chicago.

(As he faints onto the table, his head would have fallen into his soup plate had not Taurog, who swooned a moment prior, preceded him.

(The remaining four cases of acute indigestion rise wearily, lift Barney Glazer, and lay him to rest on top of the table. Then they rifle Taurog's pants pockets for enough money to pay their checks and leave him as he is with his head in Glazer's soup plate, for, after all, he is only a director.

(Before they can exit, divine retribution (it's really indigestion) overtakes these four weary figures and they fall in sprawling positions on the floor.

(As we fade out, the music swells to magnificent proportions and we hear the stirring strains of "Love Thy Neighbor," sung by Bing Crosby in "We're Not Dressing," which was directed by Norman Taurog.)

EPILOGUE

"We're Not Dressing" was directed by Norman Taurog.

THE END.

Norman Taurog

DIRECTOR

"WE'RE NOT DRESSING"

This musical offers things that entertain . . . "We're Not Dressing" will prove popular.—Mae Tinee, Chicago Tribune.

All in all a cinch audience picture . . . any audience.—Variety.

Orchids to Gordon and Revel's "We're Not Dressing" score, and the picture.—Walter Winchell.

Gay and rowdy musical comedy . . . lively and nonsensical . . . catchy songs . . . his fans will delight in "We're Not Dressing," which is funny as well as tuneful.—N. Y. Mirror.

It is good popular entertainment, bound to please a large public.—N. Y. American.

It is first rate entertainment for the ear and funny-bone . . . a gay ,melodious bit of musical comedy fluff.—N. Y. World Telegram.

A show shop hit.—Edwin Schallert, L. A. Times.

The whole picture is a lot of nonsense, but it is entertaining nonsense that will delight the Bing Crosby fans and tickle the followers of Burns and Allen.—N. Y. News.

Bing Crosby sings gaily . . . romantically . . . delightfully . . . grand voice . . . engaging personality . . . sense of humor . . . lightly diverting entertainment . . . you'll enjoy "We're Not Dressing."—N. Y. American.

Norman Taurog has captured much of Bing's boyishness in directing him.—Eleanor Barnes. —L. A. Daily News.

In it Bing is at his best—vocally and histrionically. . . . It was produced by Paramount and directed with skill by Norman Taurog. You will enjoy it.—Seattle Times.

Never has Bing Crosby had a role that gave him richer opportunities for acting as well as singing . . . a highly diverting film.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

In Preparation

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"

Paramount Pictures

Management

Schulberg-Feldman and Gurney

What About Good Music in Pictures ?

By
VICTOR SCHERTZINGER

IS THERE a place for classical music in pictures?

It is difficult to refrain from giving an impertinent answer to this ridiculous question.

Is there a place for a fine, sensitive, dramatic actor in pictures?

Of course there is, but a producer would not think of casting Katharine Hepburn in a part suited to Marie Dressler, would he? Nor would the composer of "Pagliacci" think of interpolating a few bars of "Hi, Boy, How Ya' Doin'."

Music is just as much a character in motion picture production as the names that appear on the screen. It must be cast just as carefully and, when it is, the results are tremendously effective, for there was no drama ever written that can compare with the drama of music.

In the average studio the scenario department is usually located about two blocks from the music department and they never seem to get much closer, even on the screen. The result of this situation is obvious. Music is poorly cast.

To ask whether there is a place for good music in pictures is the same as asking if there is a place for electricity in the development of light. If electricity is not handled and controlled in the highest scientific manner, the result is disastrous. So it is with music.

Like every other innovation, we attacked the subject of music in pictures at the point of least resistance. In this case it was popular music. Stories were written and gauged with the distinct purpose of bringing in some popular song. "Broadway Melody" was a tremendous financial success. Since that time probably a hundred musical productions were made after the same pattern and according to the same formula.

When the subject of classical music was mentioned, most executives threw up their hands and looked at the man who had the temerity to make the suggestion as if he were two degrees this side of a raving maniac. The public is not educated to it, they said. And I say that the public is not only educated TO it, but BEYOND it! One does not have to look further than his living room radio for proof of this assertion.

There are few who will attempt to deny that the most popular programs on the air are those that deal with good music. When one of the greatest commercial organizations in the world, run by hard-headed business men whose every move is guided by the reaction of the cash register, sees fit to spend thousands of dollars to broadcast two-and-one-half hours of classical music from the Metropolitan Opera House every week, it is proof enough for me that the public is educated to good music. We must take our hats off to radio, but even if there were no radios to help expand the appreciation of good music, the classics still would have their place in motion pictures. Motion pictures are drama. Music is drama. It is the proper blending of the two that is the only question.

As for the appeal of music, it is too ridiculous even to discuss. Why do you suppose, for instance, that during all the depression period the only branch of the theatre that flourished was the concert stage? Lily Pons, Tibbett, Rosa Ponselle —they all packed them in. And why? Because, while other theatres were grinding out hot-cha syncopations, they were singing the fine old music, the beautiful selections from "La Boheme," "Manon," "Cavalleria Rusticana," the music that has thrilled the world for centuries. Certainly, they have a place in motion pictures.

Understand, I do not think it practicable to put upon the screen the standard operas of Wagner and other composers, as operas. There are too many obstacles to the proper presentation of these works. The librettos of most operas are too narrow for the camera. By this, I mean that in most operas much of the story is told in terms of music. I dare say that in Wagner's works one-third of the story is told in words and two-thirds by the orchestra. Naturally, such a condition offers difficulties to an entertainment medium that, first of all, appeals to the eye.

There are a few exceptions to this, such as "Carmen," but in the case of most operas, for pictures to tell the complete story it would be necessary for them to supply visually much of the story that is conveyed in music. That, we must admit, might bring the righteous wrath of an indignant music-loving public down upon the already battered head of our industry. We would be lustily accused of taking liberties with sacred things.

This, however, does not lessen the importance of fine music in motion pictures. Its dramatic value cannot be overlooked, and again I say, Music, the Actor, must be properly cast. There are many ways in which it can be used. If I may be pardoned for referring to one of my own pictures, I believe that we have struck a new note in the use of the classics in "One Night of Love," which we have just completed at Columbia with Miss Grace Moore in the leading role.

The story is that of a girl, ambitious to become an opera singer, and tells of her struggles to reach the top. At one part of the story she makes her debut in a Viennese Opera House. We might have selected any opera for this sequence but we chose "Carmen" with a purpose. The girl at that time of the story is thrilled with the thought of success. Spirited, alive, ambitious, she is throwing herself into life. Now, although the story of "Carmen" had nothing to do with the situation in our story, the music of "Habanero," which Miss Moore sang, was in the spirit of the situation. As a musical background to that particular part of our story, it became an actor in the play. Its effect was tremendously important. The audience did not necessarily have to know the story of "Carmen"—although in this particular case it probably did—to get the reaction we were after.

(Continued on Page 63)

BEST DIRECTOR 1934

WESLEY RUGGLES

"BOLERO"

"I'M NO ANGEL"

"COLLEGE HUMOR"

"THANK YOUR STARS"

ALL FOR PARAMOUNT

The World Is Round

By
MERVYN LEROY

WELL, here we are back in Hollywood, the land of the free and the home of the slaves of motion pictures. And by slaves, I mean slaves, because on our travels around the world we never once found anyone who slaved as hard as they do here in the land of celluloid.

People from practically every part of the globe who have drifted, for one reason or another, to Hollywood for the purpose of giving their best to the American picture industry, seem to forget the outside world when once they have passed the Rockies. We become all absorbed in our work; we talk, live and breathe motion pictures. There is a certain desire among some of us to give of what is essentially the basis of this business, and that is nothing but—showmanship. A feeling for what will appeal to the populace, the magnet that will draw people into the theatres.

In this country alone, few people realize that there are some 12,000 theatres open. In the space between the Atlantic and the Pacific, sailing around the world, there are about the same number. On practically every piece of inhabited land that looms up out of the various oceans, when circling the earth, are theatres, and American pictures are playing. It is quite difficult to try to express the hugeness of this business.

My wife and I sailed from New York with the earnest wish to see the world and to realize that there was something else in the world besides motion pictures. Our first stop was the island of Madeira. Walking down the gang-plank, we were really thrilled at the gorgeous surroundings that greeted our eyes, and also the odd type of people confronting us. I said, "Look, Honey, isn't this marvelous? People in costume and not actors, waiting to hear me say, 'come on the set and go to work'." As we left the pier on a bullock-cart, with Hollywood far from our thoughts, we said to the driver, "Where can we go in this place?" To which the driver responded with a cute Portuguese smile and accent, "You can go to the top of Tierra da Luca, have lunch and make sled ride down the mountain." Not being satisfied with that, I said, "What's doing here tonight?" And like a bolt out of the blue, he pointed to a twenty-four sheet poster of Warner Brothers' "42nd Street" playing at some theatre there. So Doris and myself just closed our eyes and said, "Drive on."

Well, we soon found out on our voyage, that seeing Warner pictures playing was such a common occurence everywhere from Madeira to Bangkok and from Zamboanga to Hollywood, that it was just like seeing another Mosque.

If any of you think that you will forget Hollywood by going around the world take a tip from the LeRoys that you will learn more about it than you did in all your years in town. In Italy "I'm A Fugitive" had just broken the record at the big theatre in Rome, and there were twenty-four sheets all over town, "Paul Muni in 'Io Sono un vaso,' registra Mervyn LeRoy." Believe it or not, but in all these foreign countries the director, if he is a good one, is as well-known as the star.

The salesmen for the various companies told us that there were certain directors that they couldn't sell, and some that the theatre owners took everything they made without knowing a thing about the picture. (We found that this wasn't all flattery.) It would open your eyes, as it did mine to see big buildings with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner Bros.-First National and other of the majors' names across them. There are thousands of men selling and building American personalities abroad. We were met by reporters in almost every one of the various countries, who asked us, "What do you think of Mae West?" Can you imagine trying to answer that to a Hindu?

One reporter in Japan remembered my playing a song and dance man in the old Warner picture, "Broadway After Dark," and that's knowing your movies!

The Japanese picture industry is colossal. There are about five major companies making, each, 400 pictures a year. They make two different kinds of pictures, the classical and the modern. One program at a theatre consists of an American feature, a costume and a modern Japanese picture and all the shorts This theatre opened with the bill, "Gold-features! We visited one theatre in Tokio called the Neon Gegejo, which is almost as big as the Radio City Music Hall and just as attractive in just as modern a way. This thetre opened with the bill "Gold-diggers of 1934" and "Cavalcade."

One of the leading directors of Japan took us through a studio. They have all Western Electric equipment and all the new devices we use. Japan is by far the most progressive of all the countries. In Egypt they are starting to make pictures for the Arabic market, but as yet, the American picture is the thing. We saw "I'm A Fugitive" there also with the English dialogue, French titles on the bottom, Arabic titles to the left of the screen and Greek titles on the right of the screen. Even on the supposedly most primitive island left, Bali, there are two picture houses.

And although the women wear nothing above the waist, as is their custom, the censorship is stricter than Pennsylvania ever thought of being.

Censorship is a tremendous problem all over the Far East, but take a tip from us and by no means overlook the foreign market, as the theatres are just as good, just as well run and take in money the same as we do. I could go on indefinitely talking and explaining about the thirty-three countries we visited but, in conclusion, all I have to say is, that the world is round and so is our dollar, so if you want to get dollars into your coffers, remember THE WORLD IS ROUND.

HARRY BEAUMONT

DIRECTED

"When Ladies Meet"

"Should Ladies Behave"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Cameraman or Director of Photography ?

By
KARL FREUND, A.S.C.

THE story is told (and it is supposed to be true) of a certain director at one of our major studios, who awoke one morning, after having spent most of the night finishing a picture, to find the studio frantically calling him to hurry down and take over a half-completed production for another director who was ill. He hurried to the studio, walked onto the set, and the assistant director handed him a script, saying, "There's the lead, this fellow's the heavy, and Miss X over there is the heroine. Are you ready?" And he was supposed, with that preparation, to carry on and turn out a good picture!

An unusually bad break, you say? Unfair to start a man cold on a story he isn't familiar with? An unusual incident?

Ask any cameraman; he'll tell you it happens every day. He does it himself—finishes a picture tonight, and tomorrow morning he starts photographing a new production, without so much as a glance at the script, a word with the director, or even a glimmer of an idea of what the story is about. If he's lucky, the director (or maybe the assistant director) will find time to whisper, "Psst! Joe—this one's a drama." That night, he may be able to borrow somebody else's script, glance it over hastily between dinner and bedtime, and carry on with at least a hazy idea of the story he is putting on the screen.

Now, I'm no crusader; there are too many people already who are ready to tell the world what's wrong with the movies. But—does it strike you that such a system is efficient?

Here we have a director—a man trusted with the job of turning several hundred thousand dollars into a successful motion picture. To do that, he must get pictures of the action onto a strip of celluloid, which represents the tangible, salable product of all the effort and expenditure of the production. He has a man whose duty it is to direct the photographing of the story and action, so that every scene reaches the screen as the author and director have visualized it. This director of photography has the intricate task of bringing the production to the screen so that the visual mood of the picture matches the emotional or dramatic mood of action and dialog. He must present the characters to their best physical advantage, often using a world of photographic skill to enhance their appearance, or to build up a definite visual personality.

This work requires the highest type of technical and artistic skill. Moreover, if the best results are to be had, it demands that the Director of Photography must be familiar with the script; he must know how to build his photographic values to co-ordinate with the dramatic values of the story, in order to give each the most suitable photographic treatment. He should, in a word, be as familiar with every phase of the production—before starting to shoot—as is the director.

That the average cameraman is so uniformly successful in this work is due largely to a combination of inherent artistic and dramatic instinct, technical skill, and experience. It certainly isn't because the rest of us give him a break! And he does it under conditions that any director would call "impossible"—no preparation, no understanding of the story until he is actually shooting, and a constant grind of being rushed from one picture into another.

Perhaps this is an efficient, economical system—but I doubt it. In nearly thirty years in the motion picture business, I have been both cameraman and director. I have photographed and directed pictures both here and in Europe. I have worked where the cameraman is really a part of the production—and where he is simply a technician, rushed in at the last moment. My own experience has proven that when the cameraman is considered in his true position—that of a Director of Photography—everyone gains.

In Europe the cameraman is really a co-director: the Director of Photography. He joins the unit early in the preparatory stages; he participates in the story conferences, collaborates with the art director in designing the sets, directs the photography of the film, and then collaborates with the director and the editor in cutting the film. Then, if he wishes, he can enjoy a comfortable vacation before starting his next film.

What is the result? Instead of getting the benefit of the cameraman's brains and experience (which is what we are actually buying) only during the relatively short period of the actual shooting, we get it throughout the whole production. When we start to prepare the story, the cameraman is there to give us advice on how we can best tell our story in pictures—and he is rested—fresh; not stale and tired. At the same time, he gains a thorough understanding of all the ideas underlying and motivating the scenes he is to photograph.

He knows what we are driving at; he knows when conventional treatment will be best, and when he can employ novel angles and other photo-dramatic tricks He helps in the design of the sets; there can be nothing to alter once the sets are ready — no repainting, nor rebuilding. Thus, when we start shooting, he is as well prepared as the director; he knows exactly what we are trying to convey in each scene, and how it fits into the picture as a whole. He has planned every phase of his photographic treatment beforehand, so that each scene may best carry out its motivating thought. His plans for each shot are as well matured beforehand as those of a good director.

As a result, the picture is produced faster, and tells its story more graphically than could be possible otherwise. It is not only photographed better, but it is also a more finished example of visual drama. And the director can concentrate his attention on the actors and their work; he knows that the cameraman knows as well as he does what is wanted. No explanations or discussions are necessary; all of this has been done before the shooting commenced. Each understands the other's ideas, and each is free to do his work perfectly.

Making a motion picture is no place for rugged individualism. It can never be a one-man job; it is an intensely co-operative, collectivized enterprise. No one concerned can be safely allowed to work blindly or selfishly. We cannot have directors directing for their own glorification. We cannot—or perhaps I should say should not—have actors acting for their own applause. And we cannot have cinematographers who view their work as being limited only to photography.

The cinema demands good photography—often beautiful photography, but at the same time, even the most beautiful shot can be harmful if used in the wrong

(Continued on Page 66)

BUSBY BERKELEY

BUSBY BERKELEY

Let's Make A Different Musical

By
MARK SANDRICH

(Cast of Characters: Associate Producer, Director and a Writer. Scene: Any studio, any time. The associate producer has called the director and writer into a very important meeting.)

———

Associate Producer: Boys, I've got a great idea. Let's make a different musical!

Director: Swell! That's what I have been trying to tell you for months. The public is getting tired of these big spectacles, crooners, dance routines, top shots and back stage stories. What they want is something more intimate, more sophisticated, more . . .

Writer: But—

Associate Producer: You got my idea right away. And, I don't want any hit songs. The public is sick of them too. Disregard the commercial song numbers, boys. What I want back of this picture is a fine symphonic score. Something that will . . .

Writer: But—

Associate Producer: I got it . . . a marvelous idea.

Director: I know just what you mean. Our story takes place . . .

Associate Producer: I'm way ahead of you. My wife saw the Mozart music festival in Salzburg, Austria, last year. She says it will make the kind of different musical that will revolutionize the industry.

Writer: But, Mr.—

Director: The public would never understand German. Now get my idea. You take a boy and a girl in any big city. I want a simple love story. Look at Antony and Cleopatra, Napoleon and Josephine. Simple, human, elemental love stories. That's what put them over.

Writer: But, Mr.—

Associate Producer: I knew you would like my idea.

Director: Now we're getting somewhere. The boy is a clerk in a department store.

Associate Producer: But how can he sing then?

Director: Ah, that's where my novelty comes in. He can't sing!

Associate Producer: Great. He is in love with the little girl that works at the ribbon counter. That's great. We won't have to spend a lot of dough for big names. I know a little girl I want to make . . .

Director: Yeah, I know. But I got a better idea. The girl sells washing machines in the basement. Can you imagine a rhythmic number back of those washing machine shots? I tell you, it's down to earth, it's popular appeal, it's box office. Every housewife . . .

Writer: But—

Associate Producer: That sounds okay.

Director: Sure it's okay. The head buyer is the heavy. Goes on the make for the boy . . .

Associate Producer: Wait a minute. The Hays organization would never stand for that.

Director: Nuts. It's a woman buyer.

Associate Producer: Oh, that's okay.

Director: Wait a minute. I got another great idea. The buyer breaks her leg coming down the escalator, and the girl takes her place.

Associate Producer: Escalator?

Director: Yeah, escalator. Visualize it, boys. That escalator going up and down with a big chorus of sales girls. The boy and girl can do a hot tap dance on the escalator.

Associate Producer: Boy, that's marvelous. Get Jack Warner and Sam Goldwyn on the phone and see if we can borrow Buzz Berkeley.

Writer: But—

Director: Wait. I've got a title for a hit song for the escalator number. I Got to Pass Your Floor to Get to My Floor.

Associate Producer: How about Coming Down the Stairs to You?

Director: The song writers are going to be nuts about I Got to Pass Your Floor to Get to My Floor. Say, do you suppose we could get Gordon and Revel, or Warren and Dubin?

Associate Producer: Hell, we'll get both teams. What an idea. Think of what those four boys could do together!

Director: Now you're showing me some co-operation. The boy can sing the number . . .

Associate Producer: I thought you said the boy couldn't sing.

Director: Well, we can dub his voice.

Associate Producer: Listen, boys, let's do this right. To hell with the expense. I have a great idea for you. How would you like to see Bing Crosby play the part of the boy?

Director: And we can borrow Ruby Keeler for the girl. Get a load of Bing and Ruby doing that escalator number. And we give that guy Berkeley something to shoot at with some new angles. I'll get some great shots of that chorus from the fifth floor, coming up the escalator.

Associate Producer: Boys, this picture will be the most terrific hit of the year.

Director: Sensational!

Associate Producer (to the writer): There's the idea. All you have to do now is to go ahead and write it.

Director: And be sure you keep it simple and elemental.

Writer (rising and taking script out of his pocket): Pardon me, gentlemen, but here it is. I've already written it. Of course, it's a back stage story, but we can easily change it.

(Associate Producer and Director leap to their feet, shouting simultaneously:)
Marvelous. That's just what we've been looking for.

WHEN THE CRI

(EXCERPTS FROM THE HOLL

LUCIEN ANDRIOT

"The Right to Romance"—R.K.O.
"Miss Harding is photographed beautifully in this film. Lucien Andriot wielded a clever camera."

"The Crime Doctor"—R.K.O.
"Lucien Andriot photographed it with distinction."

M. A. ANDERSON

"The Quitter"—Chesterfield
"Photography of M. A. Anderson and production throughout is top-notch."

WILLIAM DANIELS

"Dinner at Eight"—M-G-M
"William Daniels, who has many extremely fine photographic accomplishments to his credit, comes through with another bit of creative photography."

"Christopher Bean"—M-G-M
"Photography is excellent."

"Queen Christina"—M-G-M
"Bill Daniels' camera work is a photographic masterpiece."

FAXON DEAN

"One Year Later"—Allied
"The photography is stunning. Faxon Dean and Tom Galligan cover themselves with glory for the photography."

HARRY FISCHBECK

"The Trumpet Blows"—Paramount
"Harry Fischbeck's photography is stunning."

"Double Door"—Paramount
"Harry Fischbeck's photography is utterly and beautifully in the mood of this extraordinary story."

AL GILKS

"Little Miss Marker"—Paramount
"Camera work by Alfred Gilks excellent."

GEORGE FOLSEY

"Stage Mother"—M-G-M
"The camera work throughout."

"Going Hollywood"—M-G-M
"George Folsey's wor of art."

"Men in White"—M-G-M
"The photography b rave about."

RAY JUNE

"Rip Tide"—M-G-M
"Photography by Ray

PEVERELL MARLEY

"This Day and Age"—Par
"Photography by Pev

ERNEST MILLER

"Laughing at Life"—Mas
"Photography throug

BEN REYNOLDS

"Thundering Herd"—Par
"Ben Reynolds photo

"Come on, Marines"—Pa
"Ben Reynolds photo

"The Witching Hour"—I
"Ben Reynolds' phot

THERE'S A

PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTI

NEGA

SMITH & ALLER, Ltd.

DU

TICS COMMENT

L' WOOD REPORTER REVIEWS)

M
k by George Folsey is excellent

-GM
ortion 'Going Hollywood' is a work

-M
by George Folsey is something to ay ine is expert throughout."

aramount
eve ell Marley is swell."

ast
ugh out is excellent."

aramount
oto aphed it beautifully."

Paramount
oto aphed it in good style."

-Paramount
oto raphy is a work of art, no less."

LEON SHAMROY

"Thirty Day Princess"—Paramount
"Leon Shamroy's photography is artistically outstanding."

"Jennie Gerhardt"—Paramount
"Leon Shamroy bent an intelligent camera upon the film."

ARCHIE STOUT

"The Last Roundup"—Paramount
"Archie Stout's photography is memorable."

"Mystery Liner"—Monogram
"Archie Stout's photography is remarkably fine."

KARL STRUSS

"Four Frightened People"—Paramount
"The picture was expertly photographed by Karl Struss."

"Story of Temple Drake"—Paramount
"Fine photography by Karl Struss."

GREGG TOLAND

"Tugboat Annie"—M-G-M
"Gregg Toland's photography was excellent."

"Roman Scandals"—Samuel Goldwyn
"The photography of Gregg Toland, Ray June and John Boyle was in keeping with the class of the rest of the production."

"Nana"—Samuel Goldwyn
"Gregg Toland's photography and the settings combine to give 'Nana' an atmosphere that not only is exquisite but so foreign as to create a perfect illusion."

LEO TOVER

"Bolero"—Paramount
"Leo Tover's photography is in harmony."

"Murder at the Vanities"—Paramount
"The photography of Leo Tover is the very bright and shining star of the picture."

A REASON!

ISTRY COMBINED WITH ATIVE
by

FONT

Pacific Coast Distributors

LOWELL SHERMAN

SHE DONE HIM WRONG

MORNING GLORY

B'WAY THRU A KEYHOLE

•

PREPARING–

NIGHT LIFE OF THE GODS

FRANK and DUNLAP, Ltd.

GEORGE STEVENS

◆

R-K-O RADIO

STEPHEN
R.
ROBERTS

NOW
UNDER CONTRACT
TO

R-K-O

RECENT RELEASES
For Paramount

"Lady and Gent"
"One Sunday Afternoon"
"Story of Temple Drake"
"Night of June 13th"
"The Trumpet Blows"

●

Exclusive Management
Schulberg-Feldman and Gurney

ALFRED E. GREEN

1933—1934 RELEASES

"I Loved A Woman"
Edward G. Robinson and Kay Francis

"As The Earth Turns"
All Star Cast

"Dark Hazard"
Edward G. Robinson

"Side Streets"
Aline MacMahon and Paul Kelly

"The Merry Frinks"
Aline MacMahon, Hugh Herbert
Guy Kibbee and Allen Jenkins

"Housewife"
Ann Dvorak, Bette Davis and George Brent

DIRECTING

WARNER BROS.
FIRST NATIONAL PRODUCTIONS

SIDNEY A. FRANKLIN

DIRECTOR

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

LOUIS KING

DIRECTED

"MURDER IN TRINIDAD"

NOW PREPARING

"WANTED"

(Tentative Title)

✦

BOTH

PICTURES FOR

F O X

✦

MANAGEMENT

HARRY WURTZEL. Inc.

MICHAEL CURTIZ

"The Kennel Murder Case"

"Female" "Mandalay"

"Jimmy The Gent"

"The Key"

Now in Production

"British Agent"

✦

WARNER BROS. — FIRST NATIONAL

PICTURES

EDWARD LUDWIG

DIRECTED

"Let's Be Ritzy"

"A Woman's Man"

"Friends of Mr. Sweeney"

NOW DIRECTING

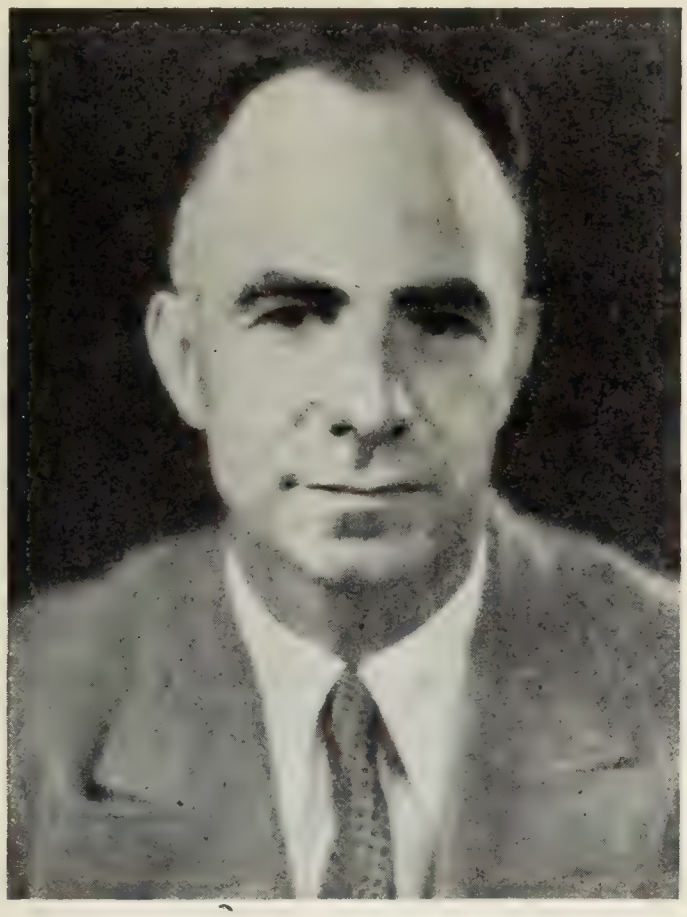
"The Man Who Reclaimed His Head"

FOR

UNIVERSAL

BEN HOLMES

DIRECTING



CLARK and McCULLOUGH
CHICK CHANDLER

in

RKO – RADIO COMEDIES

Produced by

LEE MARCUS

GREGORY LACAVA

"BED OF ROSES"–Radio

"GALLANT LADY"–20th Century

"THE AFFAIRS OF CELLINI"–20th Century

("THE FIREBRAND")

UNDER CONTRACT TO

METRO - GOLDWYN - MAYER

TAY GARNETT

NOW PREPARING

"CHINA SEAS"

CLARK GABLE – JEAN HARLOW

IRVING THALBERG PRODUCTION

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

"ONE MAN'S JOURNEY"
WITH LIONEL BARRYMORE

"CRIME DOCTOR"
WITH OTTO KRUGER

"FAMILY MAN"
(Temporary Title)
WITH RICHARD DIX

IN PREPARATION
"WEDNESDAY'S CHILD"

JOHN ROBERTSON

RADIO PICTURES

TAY GARNETT

NOW PREPARING

"CHINA SEAS"

CLARK GABLE — JEAN HARLOW

IRVING THALBERG PRODUCTION

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

"ONE MAN'S JOURNEY"
WITH LIONEL BARRYMORE

"CRIME DOCTOR"
WITH OTTO KRUGER

"FAMILY MAN"
(Temporary Title)
WITH RICHARD DIX

IN PREPARATION
"WEDNESDAY'S CHILD"

JOHN ROBERTSON

Radio PICTURES

ELLIOTT NUGENT

DIRECTOR

In Production

"SHE LOVES ME NOT"

With BING CROSBY - MIRIAM HOPKINS

PARAMOUNT

1934

"STRICTLY DYNAMITE"

With JIMMY DURANTE - LUPE VELEZ - NORMAN FOSTER
MARION NIXON - WM. GARGAN - MILLS BROS.

R.K.O.

- - - -

"TWO ALONE"

With JEAN PARKER - TOM BROWN - ARTHUR BYRON

R.K.O.

- - - -

1933

"IF I WERE FREE"

Starring IRENE DUNNE - CLIVE BROOK

R.K.O.

- - - -

"Three Cornered Moon"

With CLAUDETTE COLBERT - MARY BOLAND
RICHARD ARLEN

PARAMOUNT

Chosen as one of 10 best pictures by National Board of Review

- - - -

"Whistling In The Dark"

M.G.M.

- - - -

1932

"THE MOUTHPIECE"

WARNERS-1st NATIONAL

- - - -

"LIFE BEGINS"

WARNERS-1st NATIONAL

ALEXANDER HALL

directed

"Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen"

ALEXANDER HALL

directed

"Little Miss Marker"

ALEXANDER HALL

is under contract to

PARAMOUNT

RIAN
JAMES

WILHELM DIETERLE

✦

"ADORABLE"
(Fox)

"THE DEVIL'S IN LOVE"
(Fox)

"FROM HEADQUARTERS"
(Warners)

"FASHIONS OF 1934"
(Warners)

"FOG OVER FRISCO"
(Warners)

"DU BARRY"
(Warners)

✦

UNDER CONTRACT TO WARNER BROS. - FIRST NATIONAL

WILLIAM WYLER

LATEST RELEASES

"COUNSELOR-AT-LAW"

"GLAMOUR"

†

IN PREPARATION

MARCEL PAGNOL'S

"FANNY"

Adapted by PRESTON STURGES

FRANK CAPRA

DIRECTOR

"LADY FOR A DAY"

"IT HAPPENED ONE NIGHT"

THE LOWDOWN

mervyn leroy

DIRECTORS and THEIR WORK
IN THE PAST YEAR

AMY, GEORGE
"She Had To Say Yes".....Warners

ARCHAINBAUD, GEORGE
"The Big Brain".....Radio
"The Woman Spy"
"Keep 'Em Rolling".....Radio
"Murder on the Blackboard"..Radio
"After Tonight".....Radio

ARZNER, DOROTHY
"Nana" .....Goldwyn-U.A.

AUSTIN, HAROLD
"Eat 'Em Alive".....Real Life

BACON, LLOYD
"A Very Honorable Guy"..Warners
"Wonder Bar".....Warners
"Mary Stevens, M.D."..... Warners
"Footlight Parade".....Warners
"Son of a Sailor".....Warners
"Hey, Sailor".....Warners
"He Was Her Man".....Warners

BEAUDINE, WILLIAM
"Her Bodyguard".....Paramount

BEAUMONT, HARRY
"When Ladies Meet".....MGM
"Should Ladies Behave".....MGM

BEEBE, FORD
"Laughing at Life".....Nat Levine

BELL, MONTA
"Worst Woman in Paris".....Fox

BENNET, SPENCER
"Ferocious Pal" .....Principal

BERKELEY BUSBY
"She Had to Say Yes".....Warners
Dance Director on:
"Roman Scandals"....Goldwyn-U.A.
"Golddiggers of 1933.....Warners
"Footlight Parade".....Warners
"Wonder Bar".....Warners
"Fashions of 1934".....Warners

BERNE, JOSEF
"Black Dawn"
Cameron O'Day-Pearson

BIRDWELL, RUSSELL
"Flying Devils".....Radio

BLYSTONE, JOHN
"Shanghai Madness".....Fox
"Coming Out Party".....Fox
"Change of Heart".....Fox

BOASBERG, AL
"Myrt and Marge".....Universal

BORZAGE, FRANK
"Man's Castle" .....Columbia
"Little Man, What Now?".....Univ.
"No Greater Glory'.....Columbia

BOLESLAVSKY, RICHARD
"Storm at Daybreak".....MGM
"Beauty For Sale".....MGM
"Fugitive Lovers" .....MGM
"Men in White".....MGM
"Operator 13".....MGM
Co-director on:
"Hollywood Party".....MGM

BRABIN, CHARLES
"Stage Mother".....MGM
"Day of Reckoning".....MGM

BRETHERTON, HOWARD
"Return of the Terror".....Warners

BRENON, HERBERT
"Wine, Women and Song"
Chadwick

BRICE, MONTE
Dialogue Director on:
"Moonlight and Pretzels".....Univ.
Co-director on:
"Take a Chance".....Paramount

BROWER, OTTO
"Speed Wings".....Columbia
"I Can't Escape".....Universal
"Headline Shooter".....Radio

BROWN, CLARENCE
"Night Flight".....MGM
"Sadie McKee".....MGM

BROWN, HARRY JOE
"Sitting Pretty".....Paramount

BROWN, ROWLAND
"Blood Money".....20th Cent.

BURKE, EDWIN
"Now I'll Tell".....Fox

BURR, C. C.
"Torchy's Loud Speaker".....Educ.

BURTON, DAVID
"Sisters Under the Skin"..Columbia
"Brief Moment".....Columbia
"Let's Fall in Love".....Columbia

BUTLER, DAVID
"Bottoms Up" .....Fox
"Happy Andrew".....Fox
"My Weakness" .....Fox

BUZZELL, EDDIE
"Love, Honor and Oh Baby"..Univ.
"Cross Country Cruise"....Universal

CABANNE, WM. CHRISTY
"World Gone Mad".....Majestic
"Midshipman Jack" .....Radio
"When Strangers Meet".....Liberty
"Money Means Nothing"
Monogram

CAHN, EDWARD
"Emergency Call".....Radio

CAPRA, FRANK
"Lady for a Day".....Columbia
"It Happened One Night".....Col.

CHRISTY, HOWARD
"Sing, Sinner, Sing".....Majestic

COHEN, MAURY M.
"Rainbow Over Broadway"
Chesterfield

CONWAY, JACK
"Viva Villa".....MGM
"Solitaire Man".....MGM
"The Nuisance".....MGM

COWAN, WILLIAM J.
"Woman Unafraid".....Goldsmith

CROMWELL, JOHN
"Double Harness".....Radio
"Ann Vickers" .....Radio
"Spitfire" .....Radio
"This Man Is Mine".....Radio
"Of Human Bondage".....Radio

CROSLAND, ALAN
"Massacre" .....Warners
"Midnight Alibi".....Warners
"The Personality Kid" .....Warners

CRUZE, JAMES
"Mr. Skitch" .....Fox
"David Harum".....Fox
"Afterwards" .....Radio

CUKOR, GEORGE
"Dinner at Eight".....MGM
"Little Women".....Radio

CURTIZ, MICHAEL
"Goodbye Again".....Warners
"Kennel Murder Case".....Warners
"Female" .....Warners
"Mandalay" .....Warners
"Jimmy the Gent".....Warners
"The Key" .....Warners

CUMMINGS, IRVING
"The Mad Game".....Fox
"I Believed in You".....Fox

CZINNER, DR. PAUL
"Catherine the Great"....Lon. Films

DENIS, ARMAND
"Wild Cargo".....Radio

DEL RUTH, ROY
"Upperworld" .....Warners
"Captured" .....Warners
"Bureau of Missing Persons" .....Warners
"Lady Killer" .....Warners
"Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" .....20th Cent.

DE MILLE, CECIL
"This Day and Age".....Paramount
"Four Frightened People".....Para.

DIETERLE, WILHELM
"Adorable" .....Fox
"The Devil's in Love".....Fox
"From Headquarters".....Warners
"Fashions of 1934".....Warners
"Fog Over Frisco".....Warners
"Du Barry".....Warners

DILLON, JOHN FRANCIS
"The Shakedown".....Warners

DWAN, ALAN
"Hollywood Party" .....MGM
"The Morning After".....Brit.-Gau.

DUPONT, E. A.
"Ladies Must Love".....Universal

ENRIGHT, RAY
"Tomorrow at Seven"
Radio-Jefferson
"Silk Express".....Warners
"20 Million Sweethearts"..Warners
"Havana Widows".....Warners
"I've Got Your Number.....Warners
"The Circus Clown".....Warners

EISENSTEIN, SERGEI
"Thunder Over Mexico".....Lesser

FIELDS, LEONARD
"Manhattan Love Song"..Monogram

FEIST, JR., FELIX
"Deluge" .....KBS

FITZMAURICE, GEORGE
"All Men Are Enemies".....Fox

FLEMING, VICTOR
"Blonde Bombshell".....MGM

FLOOD, JAMES
"Such Women Are Dangerous"..Fox
"All of Me".....Paramount

FORD, JOHN
"The Lost Patrol".....Radio
"The World Moves On".....Fox

FORD, WESLEY
"Her Forgotten Past".....Mayfair

FORDE, EUGENE
"Smoky" .....Fox

FORDE, WALTER
"Orders Is Orders"....Brit.-Gaumont

FLOREY, ROBERT
"House on 56th Street"....Warners
"Registered Nurse".....Warners
"Smarty" .....Warners
"Bedside" .....Warners

FREELAND, THORNTON
"George White's Scandals".....Fox
"Flying Down to Rio".....Radio

FRENKE, DR. EUGENE
"The Girl in the Case"..Screen Arts

FREUND, KARL
"Moonlight and Pretzels".....Univ.
"Madame Spy".....Universal
"Countess of Monte Cristo"....Univ.
"I Give My Love".....Universal
"Uncertain Lady".....Universal

FRIEDLANDER, LOUIS
"The Vanishing Shadow"..Universal

GARNETT, TAY
"S.O.S. Iceberg".....Universal

GARSON, HARRY
"Tambur"

GASNIER, LOUIS
"Gambling Ship".....Paramount

GERING, MARION
"Jennie Gerhardt".....Paramount
"Good Dame".....Paramount
"Thirty Day Princess"....Paramount

GIBBONS, CEDRIC
"Tarzan and His Mate".....MGM

GREEN, ALFRED E.
"The Narrow Corner".....Warners
"Woman in Her Thirties"..Warners
"I Loved a Woman".....Warners
"Dark Hazard".....Warners
"As the Earth Turns".....Warners
"The Merry Frinks".....Warners
"Housewife" .....Warners

GRIFFITH, EDWARD H.
"Another Language".....MGM

GOTTLER, ARCHIE
Columbia Shorts:
"Um-Pah"
"Roamin' Thru the Roses"
"School for Romance"
"Love Detectives"
"Woman Haters"
"Susie's Affairs"

GOULDING, ALF.
"Music in Her Hair".....Radio

GOULDING, EDMUND
"Rip Tide".....MGM

HALL, ALEXANDER
"The Midnight Club"....Paramount
"The Torch Singer".....Paramount
"Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen" .....Paramount
"Girl in 419".....Paramount
"Little Miss Marker".....Paramount

HARKWAY, W. VICTOR
"No Funny Business".....B.I.P.

BEN STOLOFF

DIRECTED

"PALOOKA"

NOW DIRECTING

"TRANSATLANTIC SHOWBOAT"

FOR

UNITED ARTISTS

HATHAWAY, HENRY
"Sunset Pass".....Paramount
"The Witching Hour"....Paramount
"Man of the Forest".....Paramount
"To the Last Man".....Paramount
"Thundering Herd".....Paramount
"The Last Round-up"....Paramount
"Come On, Marines".....Paramount

HAWKS, HOWARD
"Twentieth Century" .....Columbia

HENLEY, HOBART
"Unknown Blonde".....Majestic

HILLYER, LAMBERT
"Dangerous Crossroads"....Columbia
"Master of Men.."....Columbia
"One Was Guilty".....Columbia
"Once To Every Woman"..Columbia

HOLMES, BEN
Clark and McCullough Comedies
Chick Chandler Comedies

HOPKINS, ARTHUR
"His Double Life".....Paramount

HOPPER, F. MASON
"One Year Later".....Allied

HOWARD, WILLIAM K.
"The Power and the Glory".....Fox
"This Side of Heaven".....MGM
"The Cat and the Fiddle"....MGM

HUMBERSTONE, H. BRUCE
"Goodbye, Love".....Radio
"Merry Wives of Reno"....Warners

JAMES, ALAN
"King of the Arena"
Maynard-Universal
"Wheels of Destiny"....May'd-Univ.
"Doomed to Die".....Mayn'd-Univ.
"The Trail Drive".....Mayn'd-Univ.
"Strawberry Roan"....Mayn'd-Univ.
"Riders of Justice"....Mayn'd-Univ.
"Honor of the West" Mayn'd-Univ.

JAMES, RIAN
"The Best of Enemies".....Fox

JONES, GROVER
Co-directed:
"Hell and High Water"..Paramount

KEIGHLEY, WILLIAM
"Easy to Love".....Warners
"Journal of Crime".....Warners
"Dr. Monica".....Warners

KENTON, ERLE C.
"You're Telling Me".....Paramount
"Disgraced" .....Paramount
"Big Executive" .....Paramount
"Search for Beauty".....Paramount

KING, HENRY
"I Loved You Wednesday".....Fox

KNOPF, EDWIN
"The Rebel".....Universal

KORDA, ALEXANDER
"Henry VIII".....U.A.-London

LA CAVA, GREGORY
"Affairs of Cellini".....20th Cent.
"Bed of Roses".....Radio
"Gallant Lady".....20th Cent.

LACHMAN, HARRY
"I Like It That Way".....Universal
"George White's Scandals".....Fox

LAEMMLE, EDWARD
"Embarrassing Moments".....Univ.

LANFIELD, SIDNEY
"Moulin Rouge".....20th Cent.
"The Last Gentleman"..20th Cent.

LANG, WALTER
"The Party's Over".....Columbia
"Meet the Baron".....MGM

LAMONT, CHARLES
"The Big Squeal".....Educational

LEE, ROWLAND V.
"I Am Suzanne".....Fox

LEISEN, MITCHELL
"Cradle Song".....Paramount
"Death Takes Holiday"..Paramount
"Murder at the Vanities".....Para.

LEONARD, ROBERT Z.
"Dancing Lady".....MGM

LE ROY, MERVYN
"Golddiggers of 1933".....Warners
"Tugboat Annie".....MGM
"The World Changes".....Warners
"Hi, Nellie".....Warners
"Heat Lightning".....Warners

LLOYD, FRANK
"Berkeley Square".....Lasky-Fox
"Hoopla" .....Fox

LUBITSCH, ERNST
"Design For Living".....Paramount

LUDWIG, EDWARD
"Let's Be Ritzy".....Universal
"A Woman's Man".....Monogram
"Friends of Mr. Sweeney"..Warners

MACK, WILLARD
"Broadway to Hollywood"....MGM

MACK, RUSSELL
"Meanest Gal in Town".....Radio

MAMOULIAN, ROUBEN
"Song of Songs".....Paramount
"Queen Christina" .....MGM

MANSFIELD, DUNCAN
"Strings".....Duncan Mansfield

MARCIN, MAX
"Gambling Ship".....Paramount
"Love Captive".....Universal

MARIN, EDWIN L.
"Sweetheart of Sigma Chi"
Monogram
"Special Investigator".....Universal
"Bombay Mail" .....Universal
"Affairs of a Gentleman".....Univ.

MARSHALL, GEORGE
"Ever Since Eve".....Fox
"Wild Gold".....Fox

MARTIN, FRANCIS
"Tillie and Gus".....Paramount

MARTIN, PAUL
"Orient Express".....Fox

MAYNARD, KEN
"The Fiddling Buckaroos"
Maynard-Universal

MAYO, ARCHIE
"Mayor of Hell".....Warners
"Ever in My Heart".....Warners
"Convention City".....Warners
"Gambling Lady".....Warners
"Man with Two Faces".....Warners

McCAREY, LEO
"Duck Soup" .....Paramount
"Six of a Kind".....Paramount

MacDONALD, FRANK
Dialogue Director on:
"Smarty" .....Warners
"The Key" .....Warners

McFADDEN, HAMILTON
"Stand Up and Cheer".....Fox
"The Man Who Dared".....Fox
"Charlie Chan's Greatest Case"..Fox
"As Husbands Go".....Fox

MacKENNA, KENNETH
"Walls of Gold".....Fox
"Sleepers East".....Fox

McLEOD, NORMAN
"Melody in Spring".....Paramount
"Mama Loves Papa".....Paramount
"Alice in Wonderland"..Paramount
"Many Happy Returns"..Paramount

McNUTT, WM. SLAVENS
Co-director on:
"Hell and High Water"..Paramount

MEINS, GUS
Roach Shorts:
"Beauty and the Bus"
"Backs to Nature"
"Air Fright"
"Babes in the Goods"
"Soup and Fish"
"Maid in Hollywood"
"I'll Be Suing You"
"Three Chumps Ahead"
"Hi, Neighbor"
"For Pete's Sake"
"The First Roundup"
"Honky-Donkey"

MENZIES, WM. CAMERON
"I Loved You Wednesday".....Fox
"Wharf Angel".....Paramount

MERRICK, GEORGE M.
"Secrets of Hollywood"
Lester Scott Prod.

MOISE, NINA
Co-director on:
"Cradle Song".....Paramount
Associate Director on:
"Come On, Marines".....Paramount

MURPHY, RALPH
"Great Flirtation".....Rogers-Para.
"She Made Her Bed"..Rogers-Para.
"Private Scandal".....Rogers-Para.
"Golden Harvest".....Rogers-Para.
"The Girl Without a Room" .....Rogers-Para.

MURPHY, DUDLEY
"Emperor Jones" .....U.A.

NEGULESCO, JEAN
"Kiss and Make Up"....Paramount

NEILL, ROY WILLIAM
"Whirlpool" .....Columbia
"Circus Queen Murder"....Columbia

NEILSON, LESTER
"My Side of the Story".....Foy

NICHOLLS, JR., GEORGE
"Finishing School".....Radio

NIGH, WILLIAM
"Monte Carlo Nights"....Monogram
"He Couldn't Take It"..Monogram
"Mystery Liner".....Monogram
"Once to Every Bachelor"....Liberty
"House of Mystery".....Monogram
"City Limits" .....Monogram

NUGENT, ELLIOTT
"If I Were Free".....Radio
"Three Cornered Moon".....Para.
"Two Alone".....Radio
"Strictly Dynamite".....Radio
"She Loves Me Not".....Paramount

NEUMANN, KURT
"Half a Sinner".....Universal
"King for a Night".....Universal
"Let's Talk It Over".....Universal

NEWMEYER, FRED
"No Ransom" .....Liberty

RAYMOND, JACK
"Sorrell and Son' British & Domin.

REED, DANIEL
Dialogue Director on:
"Jimmy the Gent".....Warners
"Merry Wives of Reno"....Warners
"Fog Over Frisco".....Warners
"Du Barry".....Warners

REISNER, CHARLES F.
"You Can't Buy Everything"..MGM
"The Chief".....MGM
"The Showoff".....MGM

RIPLEY, ARTHUR
"The Barber Shop"....Sennett-Para.

ROBERTS, STEPHEN
"Story of Temple Drake".....Para.
"The Trumpet Blows"....Paramount
"One Sunday Afternoon".....Para.

ROBERTSON, JOHN
"The Crime Doctor".....Radio
"One Man's Journey".....Radio
"Family Man".....Radio

ROGELL, AL
"Hell Cat" .....Columbia
"Fog" .....Columbia
"No More Women"....Rogers-Para.
"East of Fifth Ave."....Columbia

ROGERS, CHARLES
"Me and My Pal".....Roach
Co-director on:
"Fra Diavolo" .....Roach

ROSEN, PHIL
"The Sphinx"
"Devil's Mate".....Monogram
"Picture Brides".....Allied
"Beggars in Ermine".....Monogram
"Cheaters" .....Liberty

ROTH, MURRAY
"Harold Teen".....Warners
"Don't Bet on Love".....Universal

RUGGLES, WESLEY
"College Humor" .....Paramount
"Bolero" .....Paramount
"I'm No Angel".....Paramount

RUBEN, J. WALTER
"Where Sinners Meet'.....Radio
"No Marriage Ties".....Radio
"Ace of Aces".....Radio
"Man of Two Worlds".....Radio
"Success at Any Price".....Radio

SANDRICH, MARK
"Melody Cruise".....Radio
"Aggie Appleby" .....Radio
"Hips, Hips Hooray".....Radio
"Cockeyed Cavaliers".....Radio

SANTLEY, JOSEPH
"The Loudspeaker".....Monogram

SANTELL, ALFRED
"The Right to Rance".....Radio
"Bondage" .....Fox
"Virgie Winters" .....Radio

SCHERTZINGER, VICTOR
"My Woman" .....Columbia
"Beloved" .....Universal
"One Night of Love".....Columbia

SCHWAB, LAWRENCE
"Take a Chance".....Paramount

SCHOEDSACK, ERNEST
"Blind Adventure".....Radio
"Long Lost Father".....Radio
"Son of Kong".....Radio

SCOTTO, AUBREY
"I Hate Women".....Goldsmith

SEDGWICK, EDWARD
"I'll Tell the World".....Universal
"Saturday's Millions".....Universal
"Horseplay" .....Universal
"The Poor Rich".....Universal
"Here Comes the Groom".....Para.

SEILER, LEW
"The Frontier Marshal".....Fox

ALBERT ROGELL

ALWAYS UNDER CONTRACT

1925 — 1926
To UNIVERSAL

●

1927 — 1928 — 1929
To FIRST NATIONAL and CHARLES R. ROGERS

●

1930
ALBERT ROGELL PRODUCTIONS

●

1931 — 1932
To R. K. O. — PATHE

●

1933 — 1934
To COLUMBIA STUDIOS

THERE'S A REASON

LEO McCAREY

Now Directing

MAE WEST

in

"IT AINT NO SIN"

Recent Release

"SIX OF A KIND"

SEITER, WILLIAM
"Love Birds".....Universal
"Professional Sweetheart".....Radio
"Rafter Romance".....Fox
"Sons of the Desert"..Roach-MGM
"Sing and Like It".....Radio

SEITZ, GEORGE B.
"The Women in His Life"....MGM
"Lazy River".....MGM

SELWYN, EDGAR
"Turn Back the Clock".....MGM
"Mystery of Mr. X".....MGM

SEVILLE, VICTOR
"The Good Companions" Fox-Gaumont
"I Was a Spy.....Fox-Gaumont

SHERMAN, LOWELL
"Morning Glory".....Radio
"Broadway Through a Keyhole".....20th Cent.
"Born to Be Bad".....U.A.

SLOANE, PAUL
"Lone Cowboy".....Paramount

SOMNES, GEORGE
"The Midnight Club"....Paramount
"The Torch Singer".....Paramount
"The Girl in 419".....Paramount

STAFFORD, JOHN
"No Funny Business".....B.I.P.

STAHL, JOHN
"Only Yesterday".....Universal

STEVENS, GEORGE
"Bachelor Bait".....Radio

STOLOFF, BEN
"Called on Account of Darkness".....Foy-Col.
"Palooka".....Small-Reliance

STRAYER, FRANK
"Dance, Girl, Dance".....Invincible
"Twin Husbands".....Invincible

ST. CLAIR, MAL
"Olsens Big Moment".....Fox

SUTHERLAND, EDWARD
"International House"....Paramount
"Too Much Harmony"....Paramount

TAUROG, NORMAN
"The Way to Love".....Paramount
"We're Not Dressing"....Paramount

THOMPSON, HARLAN
"Kiss and Make Up".....Paramount

THORPE, RICHARD
"The Quitter".....Chesterfield

TINLING, JAMES
"Three on a Honeymoon".....Fox
"Arizona to Broadway".....Fox
"The Last Trail".....Fox
"Jimmy and Sally".....Fox
"Call It Luck".....Fox

TUCHOCK, WANDA
"Finishing School".....Radio

TUTTLE, FRANK
"Roman Scandals"....Goldwyn-U.A.
"Springtime for Henry".....Fox

ULMER, EDGAR
"The Black Cat".....Universal
"Damaged Lives".....Beacon

UTTERSTROM, JOHN
"Itchy Scratchy".....Futter Prod.

VAN DYKE, W. S.
"Manhattan Melodrama".....MGM
"Penthouse".....MGM
"Eskimo".....MGM
"Prizefighter and the Lady"..MGM
"The Thin Man".....MGM
"Laughing Boy".....MGM

VIDOR, CHARLES
"Double Door".....Paramount

VIDOR, KING
"The Stranger's Return".....MGM
"Our Daily Bread".....Viking-U.A.

VIGNOLA, ROBERT
"Broken Dreams".....Monogram

VON STERNBERG, JOSEF
"Scarlet Empress".....Paramount

WALLACE, RICHARD
"Eight Girls in a Boat".....Para.

WALKER, STUART
"White Woman".....Paramount

WALSH, RAOUL
"The Bowery".....20th Cent.
"Going Hollywood".....MGM

WEBB, MILLARD
"The Woman Who Dares" Wm. Berke Prod.

WELLMAN, WILLIAM
"Heroes For Sale".....Warners
"Midnight Mary".....MGM
"Wild Boys of the Road"....Warners
"College Coach".....Warners
"Looking for Trouble"....20th Cent.
"Stingaree".....Radio

WERKER, ALFRED
"It's Great to Be Alive".....Fox
"Advice to the Lovelorn" 20th Cent.
"House of Rothschild"....20th Cent.

WHALE, JAMES
"Invisible Man".....Universal
"By Candlelight".....Universal

WHITE, JULES
"King of the Jungle".....Paramount
Eight Pete Smith Shorts.....MGM
First Goofy Movie
"Ten Baby Fingers".....Col. Short
"Elmer Steps Out".....Columbia
"Stable Mates".....Columbia

WILBUR, CRANE
"Tomorrow's Children".....Foy
"High School Girl".....Foy

WOOD, SAM
"Hold Your Man".....MGM
"Christopher Bean".....MGM

WYLER, WILLIAM
"Glamour".....Universal
"Her First Mate".....Universal
"Counsellor at Law".....Universal

ROUBEN MAMOULIAN

In Production:
"RESURRECTION"
For
SAMUEL GOLDWYN

JOHN G. BLYSTONE

FOX FILMS

RICHARD BOLESLAVSKY

M - G - M

"RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS"

"STORM AT DAYBREAK"

"BEAUTY FOR SALE"

"FUGITIVE LOVERS"

"MEN IN WHITE"

"OPERATOR 13"

ERNST LUBITSCH

NOW DIRECTING

"The Merry Widow"

for

Irving Thalberg

Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer

E. A. DU PONT

NOW WITH

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

"VARIETY"
UFA — BERLIN

"PICCADILLY"
B. I. P. — LONDON

"MOULIN ROUGE"
B. I. P. — LONDON

"ATLANTIC"
B. I. P. — LONDON

"SALTO MORTALE"
CHRONOS FILMS — BERLIN

"TWO WORLDS"
B. I. P. — LONDON

DAVID BUTLER

DIRECTED

"MY WEAKNESS"
Lilian Harvey

"BOTTOMS UP"
Spencer Tracy

"HAPPY ANDY"
Will Rogers

FOR FOX FILMS

•

IN PREPARATION

"HAVE A HEART"

FOR METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

UNDER CONTRACT TO
FOX

MITCHELL LEISEN

. . . DIRECTOR . . .

"MURDER AT THE VANITIES"

"DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY"

"CRADLE SONG"

"THE EAGLE AND THE HAWK"

"TONIGHT IS OURS"

ALL
PARAMOUNT PRODUCTIONS
1933 - 1934

What About Good Music in Pictures ?

By

VICTOR SCHERTZINGER

(Continued from Page 27)

At the end of the picture we employed the music of one of the classics even more effectively. In this case we selected the music of "Madame Butterfly." The situation in the story was that Miss Moore was to make her debut in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. She was about to achieve what she had believed was her greatest goal in life. But, in the meantime, she had fallen in love with her teacher, who, through a lovers' misunderstanding, was not present. The girl finds her achievement empty. She is broken in spirit. She is ready to throw everything over, when the teacher appears in the prompter's box and pantomimes to her that he loves her.

Miss Moore sings that beautiful song, "One Fine Day," which tells of a girl separated from her lover and her hope that he will return. The story of "Madame Butterfly" does not parallel our story, but the music of that song told very definitely of two hearts torn apart. The audience did not have to know the story of the opera to get the effect of that music. It was carefully selected to fit the situation. Music, the Actor, I believe, was properly cast. When Miss Moore sings "One Fine Day," apparently to an audience, but in reality to her lover who is there unseen by others, the effect means much to the story.

Yes, there is a place for the finest music, providing it is cast properly. Everyone unconsciously is swayed by music. They do not necessarily have to know the history behind it as long as it fits the situation definitely.

If I might digress a minute to illustrate the importance of music, an incident comes to me that occurred during the making of "The Redskin," with Richard Dix, on the desert. We were using several hundred Navajo Indians in the picture and they were getting pretty hard to handle. We could not keep them on location. Finally I hit upon the idea of having an organist and violinist whom we had with the company—the picture was a silent one—give an impromptu concert. After that we couldn't get rid of the Navajos. They stuck around and stuck around, even after we were through shooting, until finally we had to announce that there would be no more music after six o'clock. And, believe it or not, the music that was played was from the CLASSICS! Certainly, if half-civilized Indians can appreciate good music to that extent, it is not over the heads of our American audiences.

One of the finest illustrations of the proper use of good music in pictures that comes to my mind was in "Be Mine Tonight." In that case, music was a real dramatic factor in the story. It was part of the plot. Music was actually a character. It was used as a means of identifying the hero. Another and more recent case was in Clarence Brown's picture, "Sadie McKee." The song number in that production was used with tremendous effect and was actually a part of the story.

So, let's forget all this nonsense about good music being over the heads of the public. It is not. Radio has proved that definitely. The real problem is the proper selection of music. Just because a scene happens to be laid in Italy is no reason that we must have a background of Italian music. The same thing that is happening to the lovers in the story probably could happen to two lovers in any other country. We must dig deeper in the choice of music and give scenes a background that is in complete harmony with the DRAMA. In order to do this properly, I think that the music departments ought to move closer to the scenario departments in the various studios. Maybe that would help.

WORTHINGTON MINER

Just Completed

"SOUR GRAPES"

for

R. K. O.— Radio

KARL FREUND

DIRECTED

VICKI BAUM'S

"I GIVE MY LOVE"

ALSO

"The Mummy" "Madam Spy"

"Moonlight and Pretzels" "Countess of Monte Cristo"

"Uncertain Lady"

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

EDWARD SEDGWICK

1934

"I'LL TELL THE WORLD"

with

LEE TRACY

for

UNIVERSAL

"HERE COMES THE GROOM"

with

JACK HALEY

for

CHAS. R. ROGERS

PARAMOUNT

NOW WITH M. G. M.

RICHARD WALLACE

DIRECTOR

"THE MASQUERADER"
(SAMUEL GOLDWYN — UNITED ARTISTS)

"EIGHT GIRLS IN A BOAT"
(CHARLES R. ROGERS — PARAMOUNT)

In Preparation

"Marigold"
(Starring Janet Gaynor)

"The Face of An Angel"
(All Star Cast)

FOX PRODUCTIONS

•

Note: I own the film rights to "La Chienne" ("The Poor Sap") French play and novel.

DAVE A. EPSTEIN
GRanite 2159-50

ROWLAND V. LEE

NOW DIRECTING

"THE COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO"
EDWARD SMALL — UNITED ARTISTS

• • •

LAST YEAR

"ZOO IN BUDAPEST"
"I AM SUZANNE"
JESSE LASKY — FOX

Cameraman or Director of Photography ?

By
KARL FREUND, A.S.C.

(Continued from Page 31)

place. It is the instinct of every cinematographer worthy of the name to make each shot as pictorial as is possible. He will always do so, unless he knows of a sound dramatic reason for doing otherwise.

Working blindly, with no knowledge of the script, or of the underlying dramatic motivation of a story, the cinematographer cannot do otherwise than strive to make each shot a perfect example of photography. But were he treated as a co-director, in charge of photography, participating in the preparation of the story, knowing exactly what is being striven for in each scene—each line of dialogue—he would be better able to turn out a really perfectly photographed production—one which showed, not merely good camerawork, but good dramatic cinematography, which is often something quite different. He would know when to be daring, and when to be conservative. He would be able to really utilize his knowledge, experience and skill, and thereby double his value to the director and to the production.

In my own work as a cameraman, I know that the films which I feel showed my best work—like "Tartuffe," "Variety," "The Last Laugh" and "Metropolis"--were made in this manner. As a director, I cannot too strongly advocate such a system, for I know that having a cameraman who was really a co-director in charge of photography, who was as close to the production from start to finish as I, would make me a better, more efficient director.

CRANE WILBUR

DIRECTED

"Tomorrow's Children"

AND

"High School Girl"

"Expertly presented, 'Tomorrow's Children' presents a striking arraignment against sterilization, which presently is compulsory in 27 states . . . There's plenty of the unusual in it, and Crane Wilbur's expert direction points a strong finger of indictment against many of the subject's phases, while at the same time proving undoubtedly that prevention of procreation is of inestimable value to the race."
—VARIETY, May 11, 1934

Management
IVAN KAHN AGENCY

EDWIN L. MARIN

Under Contract
to
METRO - GOLDWYN - MAYER

in preparation
"FOUR WALLS"

✦

management
William Stephens

WALTER LANG

D I R E C T O R

AT COLUMBIA

Management
SELZNICK — JOYCE

DIRECTION

Is Most Important

IN ANY BUSINESS

WITH A WINE SHOP

Direction is required to acquire the right Wine and Spirits at the right price, but above all THE RIGHT QUALITY and the right service to its patrons.

WITH A RESTAURANT

Direction is most important in the preparation of the best food served under the best conditions.

HAS DIRECTION

Eventually you will designate us as your wine merchants, you will gather around our table for your best food, you will appoint us to cater your cocktail party, bridge luncheon or buffet supper. Why not now?

HOllywood 1666

INSIDE INFORMATION

JUST FINISHED

"SPRINGTIME FOR HENRY"

at Fox

FOR JESSE LASKY

NOW SHOOTING

"LADIES SHOULD LISTEN"

AT PARAMOUNT

FOR DOUGLAS MACLEAN

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER STUDIOS,
% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 20. Price 5c — TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY — Friday, June 1, 1934

EXHIBS ARM AGAINST FOX

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•WE talked to a theatre operator who has big holdings in small towns throughout Southern California, and he gave us an angle about kids and their pictures that should be passed along to you, it's that funny.

Said the exhibitor: "The Parent-Teachers Association has been on my back for months to arrange my programs over the week-ends so they would be particularly entertaining to children. As a consequence, I booked the several pictures that were available that met with the approval of the teachers. Then we were faced with the problem of being able to secure no more pictures that would be given their O.K. Accordingly, I went back and booked in some silents.

"On each and every occasion, whether my program was sound or silent, I found that my receipts were cut in two, for both the parents and the kids were going to my opposition house, as he was running pictures of current release."

•

"The blow-off, so far as I'm concerned," continued the showman, "came when I put on a big show for the kids in one of my houses last week, with a special program of Disney shorts and a kid show on the stage, and gave it FOR NOTHING, only to find that my opposition has brought charges against me with the Code Authority for running a free show.

"After this the ladies who are guarding the 'morals' of the children will have to go to some other house for support. I did all I could, lost money and am facing an NRA penalty as a result of it."

•

We have wondered many times if the kids, the real kids, have any idea of what is going on in a screen play that is termed objectionable by the teachers and the churches, and if those kids who have attained an age that permits their getting full value out of such entertainment are not "demoralized" more through reading the newspapers, magazines and published books?

There has been discussion in the past about running some theatre strictly for adult trade. We can't see why this is necessary. The kids old enough to read have free access to newspapers and magazines, and these,

(Continued on Page 2)

Bill Powell Gets Lead In 'Great Ziegfeld'

Universal yesterday signed William Powell for the lead in "The Great Ziegfeld, which William Anthony McGuire is scripting and will produce. No director or additional cast has been set for the picture which is scheduled to get under way some time in July.

Exhib Appeals To Court Against Code

Buffalo—The first court case growing out of the ruling of the Code Authority started here yesterday when Edwin Wick, exhibitor, secured an injunction to restrain exchanges from refusing to furnish him with pictures.

Complaint was filed with the local grievance board against Wick for cutting admission prices, and the board ordered all film exchanges to cease delivering film to him. Wick went to the Supreme Court and got an order directed against Universal, Vitagraph, RKO-Radio, MGM, First Division and all members of the Buffalo local board. The hearing will be held today.

Manners to Monogram

David Manners was signed yesterday by Monogram to play the lead in "The Moonstone,' mystery novel by Wilkie Collins. The picture goes into production next Wednesday under the direction of Reginald Barker.

N.Y. Theatre Owners Threaten Boycott Of Product If Kent Insists On Percentage Deals

New York.—Addressing the Fox sales convention yesterday, Sidney R. Kent advised the salesmen that he expected them to sell at least eight of the new season's pictures on a percentage basis, which immediately caused an uproar in the exhibitor ranks locally, with the leaders claiming a boycott would be instituted against the Fox product, similar to the one that has been in force against Radio pictures.

Although Kent did not list the pictures that were to be dealt out to the theatres on a percentage basis, it is assumed that "The Inferno," "The Fox Follies" and five or six of the eleven musicals the organization will make, would be the ones selected.

This change in the Fox selling policy is aimed at higher revenue for the Fox product for the coming year, and

(Continued on Page 4)

Stallings and Thomas With Fox Movietone

New York.—Laurence Stallings has been appointed editor of the Fox Movietone newsreel, and Lowell Thomas has been made the chief commentator.

Hopkins For Radio

Radio has borrowed Miriam Hopkins for one picture from Paramount and is on a story hunt for the assignment.

Lew Cody Dies in Sleep at His Home

Lew Cody, prominent in pictures for twenty years, was found dead in his bed yesterday about 3 p.m. He had been dead several hours, but his house staff thought he was still sleeping after his return from a party at his Malibu Beach house early in the morning.

Cody died in his 47th year, of a heart attack. He suffered a breakdown four years ago, but apparently

(Continued on Page 3)

Berres Alternate For Casey on Labor Board

New York.—The Code Authority yesterday appointed A. J. Berres as temporary alternate for Pat Casey on the Studio Labor Committee during Casey's absence in New York.

This means that the board will now have its full membership and can function.

Jason-Burton Sign For Musical Short Series

Will Jason and Val Burton have been signed for a series of six musical shorts at Radio. Walter Woolf will star in the first one, which will be directed by Leigh Jason. Lee Marcus produces

Hume on 'Limehouse'

Cyril Hume is doing the screen play on "Limehouse Nights," the Arthur Phillips original with Sylvia Sidney and George Raft co-starring, to start at Paramount late this month.

Woods Held For Second

Fox has extended its loan on Donald Woods from Warners to include a second picture. He is in "She Was a Lady," an Al Rockett picture.

HOWARD SHEEHAN SUES SKOURAS FOR $750,000

Charging Charles Skouras and Fox West Coast with deliberately operating the Hollywood and Iris theatres to their disadvantage, Earl Sinks and Howard Sheehan have filed a Superior Court action, asking $750,000 damages.

Also named in the complaint are William H. Moore and Charles C. Irwin, trustees for FWC with Skouras.

Sinks and Sheehan allege that, in view of the impending sale of the Fox West Coast chain, Skouras sought to run down the two houses. As he is claimed to be one of the prospective purchasers of the bankrupt chain, he was in a position to profit by the losses of the theatres.

The circuit made a deal with Sinks in 1929 to get the exclusive first-run

(Continued on Page 3)

Fleming Will Direct 'High School' at MGM

MGM yesterday assigned Victor Fleming to direct "High School," which will have Mary Carlisle and Jean Parker in the leads.

He will put it into production as soon as he finishes "Treasure Island," which he is now directing. John Lee Mahin has written the screen play and Hunt Stromberg will produce.

Bradley King at 'U'

Bradley King was signed by Universal yesterday to work with Leopold Atlas on the screen play of "Mystery of Edwin Drood." Edmund Grainger is supervising, and the production will have Heather Angel and Frank Lawton in the leading roles.

MICHAEL CURTIZ directing "BRITISH AGENT" Warners

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

The reason why a certain young writer-director remains in London, in spite of the fact that he's been offered a couple of good jobs to return here, is strange indeed, but reliably vouched for. It seems that, some months ago, before leaving these shores, this fellow went to a fortune teller in Hollywood. The soothsayer told him that he was going to England, because, while he was abroad his mother and father would die and he would be close to them. The writer-director sailed and had been in London but a short time when both of his parents passed away. But the reason he stays on is this: The fortune teller also told him that he should remain in Europe, because that if he got on a boat to come back to America, he would die on the voyage. And he's that scairt.

•

We predicted in this column several months ago, "Evelyn Brent will return to Hollywood—but not to her husband—" and that is just what has happened. The Brent left here a while ago, discouraged and bitter. But a successful stage tour has given her what it takes to "start all over again." Besides which, her pals feel sure that Betty will hit the high movie spots again just as she did before—before she was bound to a lot of bad advice. There's almost a "role a day" that cries out for Evelyn Brent—and we hope she gets 'em all.

•

The Fox lot these days, even with a casual examination (for who would go further?) looks like the American U. F. A. Company. Just look at the list of former German U.F.A. workers, now toiling for Sheehan: Erich Pommer, Eric Charell, Paul Martin, Hans Swatz and Joe May among the directors. Then there's Werner Haymann, music; Professor Stern, said to be one of the world's best scenic artists; Bernard Zimmer and Wm. Wilder among the writers, and Charles Boyer and Lillian Harvey on the star list.

New York REVIEWS

"THE BLACK CAT"

Univ. prod.; director, Edgar Ulmer; writers, Edgar Allen Poe, Peter Ruric.
Roxy Theatre

Mirror: With a title borrowed from Poe, Universal has fashioned a very modern horror thriller, with a post-war period and bizarre modernistic settings. It is a fairly entertaining thriller. The extreme settings preserve the gruesome spirit of the story. The photography is admirably foggy and sinister.

Post: Though "The Black Cat" is carefully charged with elements calculated to freeze your blood, the picture somehow leaves you with the feeling that its bark is worse than its bite. As a horror story, "The Black Cat" falls short of the requirements because its denouement is discernible from the beginning. The tale lacks suspense and never quite achieves the atmosphere of a truly stirring mystery thriller.

Herald-Tribune: The film serves chiefly to bring together the screen's two most baleful figures, Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi, in a technical exercise of malignancy. The work frequently verges on the borderline between genuine melodrama and burlesque. It has, however, a moderate amount of suspense.

American: It's a long, long hoot from the American de Maupassant's sleep-stealing story of the black cat to the implausible shocker masquerading under Poe's title at the Roxy Theatre. The action is never convincing, and more frequently dull than thrilling.

Sun: It is a wild and hair-raising thriller of the scream in the dark variety. The less closely you look at its plot the more chance you have of enjoying it. It won't stand much inspection.

Times: A clammy and excessively ghoulish tale of hi-jinks with appropriate hysteria. The staging is good and the camera devotes a proper amount of attention to shadows and hypnotic eyes. But "The Black Cat" is more foolish than horrible.

News: The new story that was written to fit the title is so fantastically unreal that it is more apt to make one laugh at its absurdities than quake from its effects of horror.

World-Telegram: In spite of its macabre and diabolical mood, its characters are so commonplace, its movement so halted and confused and its speech so wooden that it emerges a less than satisfactory exercise in blood and thunder. The result is a second rate shocker.

Yale Grad Arrives To Learn To Be Director

John Flory, 24-year-old Yale graduate, arrived at Paramount yesterday to learn the directing business under Frank Tuttle in the "Ladies Should Listen" production.

Flory appealed to Emanuel Cohen as a megaphonic bet after Cohen saw 600 feet of 16mm., entitled "Mr. Motorboat's Last Stand," made by the young man on his own in New York.

Ullman With Kingston

George Ullman has given up his own agency and joined forces with Al Kingston in the latter's agency. He is adding his own clients to the new connection.

Stephani Book Hits

Frederick Stephani, of Paramount's writing staff, has just received word from the Macaulay Company that his new book, "My Candle Burns," has gone into its second edition.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

Borzage Company Off to West Point

Headed by Frank Borzage, who directs, a production staff of 24 and four baggage cars of equipment leave tonight for West Point to film scenes for Warners' "Flirtation Walk." Sol Polito, who will photograph, gets away tomorrow or Sunday by plane to join the crew there, after finishing shooting the Busby Berkeley numbers in "Dames."

The cast, headed by Dick Powell, Pot O'Brien and Henry O'Neill, leave Monday or Tuesday. Ruby Keeler, who is en route to New York, will go to West Point from there around June 14. The company will be away a little more than two weeks.

Delmar Daves has written the screen play and Robert Lord supervises.

Jennings on 'Bounty'

MGM has assigned Talbot Jennings to write the screen play of "Mutiny on the Bounty," which Frank Lloyd will direct and Irving Thalberg will produce. Carey Wilson and John Farrow, who were on the script, have been given another assignment.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

with their daily hodge-podge of crime and sex, are infinitely more undesirable than even the worst of pictures. And those who are not old enough to read certainly wouldn't be able to understand any picture that the reformers consider objectionable.

IMPORTANT!!

Present conditions demand that you reorganize your financial program at once. The Federal, State and City Governments are changing their programs. The position of "Big Business" requires more than ever that you "Play Safe."

My Up-To-Date, Cashable Annuity Plan gives you the vitally important protection needed:

1. SAFETY: The same safety is obtained that has made Life Insurance outstanding.
2. CASHABLE ON SHORT NOTICE: At any time, after the first year, the entire investment is available. Guaranteed "Cash Values" protect against depreciation.
3. LIFE INCOME FOR RETIREMENT: Special Annuity Options enable you to choose a guaranteed monthly income for life at a selected age.
4. INCOME: The yield is conservative, with a 4% minimum guarantee, and customary dividends. A bonus system provides for increased returns should there be "INFLATION." Under my program the annuities yield an average of about 16% on the original investment, varying according to age and the length of time that the investment is allowed to compound.
5. STABILITY: The contract is issued by THE WORLD'S LARGEST ANNUITY COMPANY, the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA. Not one bank closed during the entire "Depression,' and never has an old line Life Insurance Company failed in Canada. Irrevocable trust funds protect United States Investors.
6. MAXIMUM EXEMPTION FROM ATTACHMENT.
7. PRE-ADMINISTRATION: In event of death, the funds are distributed as you may direct, in the same manner as Life Insurance, eliminating delays, executors fees, law suits, etc.
8. TAX EXEMPTION: Both Income and Inheritance Tax features.
9. ANY AMOUNT: $500 to $1,000,000 can be invested, or a monthly accumulation plan can be arranged to fit any budget.

Telephone for an appointment. I will call personally and give you the details.

ALBERT ESCHNER
HEmpstead 4139

SERVICE COMPANIES STOP CREDIT FOR FLY-BY-NIGHTS

Officers Must Be Personally Liable

The reason for the bearish condition of the independent field as regards active production became known yesterday when it was learned that the Hollywood servicing companies, which extend production credit to the indies, have placed a ban on service for corporations whose individual officers refuse personally to endorse their company's paper. This is claimed to be the most drastic credit action yet taken.

Prior to this ban, it was customary for the independents to form corporations to produce pictures, and receive credit and service in the name of their company. The high rate of financial fatalities among the small producers, however, has compelled the servicing companies to insist on individual endorsements, according to the service men.

"There will be fewer independent producers this year than in other years," one service man said yesterday, "but those who continue to make pictures will be absolutely certified. We have had, and are still getting, a great many howls from the independents who refuse to stake their personal credit on their production ventures. In spite of it, the rule will continue.

"The structure of corporate law permits an individual to escape his responsibility in a production company by hiding behind the skirts of a corporate title. For the larger independent producers, it may be said that we have virtually no trouble as regards getting our money. In their cases, their officers never have questioned adding their personal endorsements to their company trading paper.

"The conniver who is out to make a profit at the least possible risk is the one who is howling. He is generally causing us no end of trouble. His operations are never backed by his own money. He prefers to gamble with the funds of others and it is impossible to nail him down to assume the responsibilities of a business man in good standing.

"This sort of producer would be better out of the business than in it, and at a saving to us in the long run. His money is usually obtained from private sources off the beaten path, and when he flops he slips out of the situation and lets some innocent party bear the brunt of the losses. It is against this type of producer that the ban is aimed."

Paramore With Mascot

E. E. Paramore has joined the Mascot writing staff to replace Mike Simmons on "Young and Beautiful." Writer collaborates with Earle Snell. Joseph Santley directs under Louis Baum's supervision.

Ben Turpin in Serial

Ben Turpin returns to active picture work in Mascot's "The Law of the Wild," a serial which Al Martin, John Rathmell, Wyndham Gittens, Sherman Lowe and Breezy Eason are preparing for the latter's direction.

Well, Anyway, They Know What They Like

A commercial attache, stationed at Bogota, Colombia, reports to the Motion Picture Division, U. S. Department of Commerce, that "comedy, comedy-drama, westerns, melodrama, tragedy and sex pictures seem to be most favored" in that country.

Exhibs Object To MGM Trailer Plan

New York.—The announcement of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer that it will produce its own trailers has drawn a violent protest from the Allied States Association.

Warner Brothers are already doing this, and the exhibs say that, judging from the effect on their operation costs by the Warner action, the entrance of MGM into the trailer field will mean an even heavier expense on them.

Judith Kandel Signed As Writer by Columbia

New York.—Judith Kandel, wife of Aben Kandel, has been signed as a member of the Columbia writing staff and left for Hollywood yesterday.

She is a playwright, having written "First Love," "Prodigy" and "Wedding," the last-named two having been sold for Fall production on Broadway.

Lilly Messenger Made Radio European Scout

New York—Lilly Messenger, of the RKO-Radio home office scenario department, has been promoted to scout for talent and material for Radio Pictures in Europe. She sails for London on July 1.

Lew Cody Dies

(Continued from Page 1)

pulled himself out of it and has been freelancing actively, last working in "Shoot the Works," with Ben Bernie and Jack Oakie at Paramount a few weeks ago.

He was born in New England and had begun the study of medicine before he entered theatrical work. His first stage appearance was in New York in "Pierre of the Plains." At one time he owned five stock companies. He came to the coast in a Shubert show, "Whirl of the World," in 1914 and went to Inceville for his first film work, with Bessie Barriscale in "Mating." When Robertson-Cole was active in the early 20's, Cody had his own producing unit and starred. Then, for about seven years, he was a contract player for MGM.

Lew Cody's first wife was Dorothy Dalton. They were divorced in 1916. In 1926 he married Mabel Normand, who died four years ago. Cody was well liked among picture people, and had a generous heart and pocketbook. Arrangements for his funeral are to be completed this morning. His body is at the Pierce Brothers establishment.

Warners Accused of Over-working Girls

Warner Brothers-First National is facing possible state action in connection with the alleged working hours of a group of dancers employed at the studio.

Following many complaints over the holiday, the Screen Actors' Guild yesterday sent out investigators, who reported that the studio worked the dancing girls from 7 a.m. Tuesday, May 29, until 6 a.m. Wednesday, May 30.

Guild officials immediately reported the case to Mrs. Mabel Kinney, in charge of the State Welfare Department for Women, and asked that some action be taken in her department. According to Guild officials, the State law forbids the working of women, drawing $65 a week or less, for more than 16 hours.

William Cowen East

William Cowen, director, left yesterday by train for New York to set the dramatization of his novel, "Man With Four Lives." The book was published by Farrar and Reinhardt last month.

Two Arrive For Radio

Violet Kemble Cooper and Fred Astaire arrive today on The Chief. Both go to Radio.

Sheehan Sues Skouras

(Continued from Page 1)

Hollywood rights to all major pictures with the exception of Warners. Sinks had the first-run franchise at that time for the Pantages and Egyptian theatres, and took it away from these houses in order to give it to the Hollywood and Iris. West Coast Hollywood was organized with FWC, Sinks and J. Leslie Swope, J. M. Young and Frank A. Grant, operators of the Hollywood and Iris, taking a third interest in the new firm. Howard Sheehan then bought out the third interest held by Swope, Young and Grant.

For the year 1932, according to the complaint, the two theatres earned a net profit of $43,000.

FWC then took over the Egyptian theatre, operating in competition to the Hollywood and Iris. In order to supply the Egyptian with first-run Hollywood pictures, the chain made an agreement with Sinks and Sheehan to include the house in the first-run deal. The Egyptian, however, went double-bill in December, 1933, the plaintiffs claiming that this violated their agreement.

With the Egyptian on a dual picture basis, it received the best pictures, leaving no first-class features for its competitors, according to the complaint. "Skouras deliberately advised the policy of appropriating all choice films, increasing the Egyptian's profits to the detriment of the Hollywood and Iris." it says.

Actual damages asked amount to $500,000, while another $250,000 is asked for exemplary damages.

Not that it MATTERS

by Helen Gwynn

It looks as though "Archie the Cockroach" is about to come into his own again. At any rate, a man by the name of Phillips, who is a writer in what must be his spare time for Paramount, breeds and trains cockroaches for racing purposes. No fooling, he's acquired quite a stable of them over at Paramount and we'll thank you all to keep a civil tongue in your heads when you mention it to any one else. It seems that cockroach racing is quite a sport, for which special racing tracks have been built, the tough part being to keep the cockroaches going in the right direction. They call it the sport of Kitchen Kings and rumor has it that Joe Schenck is interested in it to the extent of considering it for a feature at Caliente. Well, we've been invited to come up and see etchings, books and tropical fish, but cockroaches as a come-on is something new to us.

•

Every once in a while, a fellah trying to take advantage of all the stories he's heard about the fabulous sums paid by Hollywood producers for anything and everything, outsmarts himself. For instance, the other day over at Warners, a song had been written and a whole sequence conceived for it to be interpolated into a current production. The only thing holding it up was that the title they needed for song belonged to somebody else and that title just fitted the song and sequence.

So Warners made a perfectly reasonable offer of two hundred and fifty dollars for the use of the title. But the feller who owned it thought he saw a chance to get rich quick so he turned down the offer and advised them they could buy it for TEN THOUSAND dollars. When they found out he wasn't kidding, all they did was to strike out the sequence from the picture, thereby saving themselves thousands anyway and the feller still is the proud owner of one good song title

•

On the other hand, Bart Cormack, while on his vacation, visited his old managing editor boss and kiddingly asked him if he could have his old job back when "comes de ravolution." The editor took it straight and said he thought so, but of course he couldn't pay him as much as pictures, but could start him at one hundred dollars a week, which was what Bart had been making when he quit the newspaper "game."

So Cormack told him he couldn't take the job just yet, he was still under contract. The editor asked Cormack how much he was making and when Cormack mentioned his four figure salary, right then and there the editor thought he was kidding and threw him right out of the office for being a blankety blank liar. Star salaries have become believable, but you can't convince a man on the outside of how much a writer is worth.

CODE COMPLAINTS FILED AGAINST FWC AND U. A.

Four complaints were filed yesterday with the Los Angeles Grievance Board, charging two picture distributing organizations and three amusement corporations with violations of the film code.

Heading the list is the complaint of the Cirstrand Theatres, Ltd., of Alhambra, charging that Fox West Coast, Principal Theatres and the Alhambra Amusement Company violated the code last Saturday, May 26, by giving a free children's matinee at the El Rey theatre, "thus killing all competing theatres' matinees." The complaint states that at the free show the bill consisted of two Mickey Mouse comedies, a Terrytoon, a Charley Chase comedy, a feature picture and a kid stage show.

Cirstrand also filed another complaint against the same three organizations, charging that they are violating the code by taking part in a "coupon" admission scheme. The charge is that persons buying specially advertised merchandise get coupons which they may exchange for free tickets at the Alhambra and El Rey theatres. They cite on example: a taxi ride and a coupon, all for ten cents.

H. W. Chotiner filed a complaint against the United Artists Corporation, alleging that he tried to cancel "Sorrell and Son" under the 10 per cent cancellation provision of the code, and his cancellation was not accepted.

C. A. Ferry, of Alhambra, filed against Vitagraph, Inc., alleging that they have been licensing pictures in Alhambra contrary to fair trade practice. He asked that W. H. Slater, Warners' booker, and J. N. Howland and Harry Lustig, salesman, be subpoenaed.

Waggner to Monogram On 'Girl of My Dreams'

George Waggner, who has just completed work on a story at Columbia, has gone over to Monogram to do the adaptation of his own original, titled "Girl of My Dreams."

Faragoh Assigned

Francis Faragoh has been assigned by Pan Berman at Radio to write a new screen play for "Hide in the Dark." Picture was formerly under the supervision of David Lewis.

Cabot Set For Lead

Radio has set Bruce Cabot for the top spot in a production tentatively titled "Hudson River." H. W. Hanemann and John Twist have been set to write the screen play under Glen Allvine's supervision.

Exhibs Arm Against Fox

(Continued from Page 1)

this suggestion caused one of the leaders of the Independent Theatre Owners organization to remark:

"That's the funniest thing I ever heard of. If it had come from any outfit other than Fox, there would be little surprise, but from the organization that delivered us more bad pictures last year than all the other companies combined, it sounds like a gag.

"Certainly we will refuse to book Fox product under such an arrangement," continued this spokesman, "and we can do without the output very easily, as there is little indication that Fox pictures will be any better than last year. I can't forget that I had to shelve more Fox pictures last year, due to their inferiority, than the combination of all my other bookings.

"Last year Fox had no definite plan on percentage bookings. Some theatres booked in that manner and others paid their straight rentals. Where there is some guarantee of the quality of the product from an organization, the percentage angle has some value to both distributor and theatre owner, but where a company continually delivers flop attractions, under the percentage plan the picture must be played, and there's where the rub comes in. If it were a straight rental proposition, the showman could pay for the picture and shelve it, taking his loss in an effort to play fair with his audience."

It was this proposed percentage deal of Fox that was the incentive for the organization in New York Tuesday of the Independent Film Buyers Protective Group. The first squawk came from Philadelphia exhibitors to whom the plan had been presented.

1ST TIME AT POPULAR PRICES!

The screen's most glamorous star... in a glorious romance!

Garbo Queen CHRISTINA THE WOMAN

JOHN GILBERT LEWIS STONE IAN KEITH

M-G-M PICTURE

Added: Pete Smith Oddity — TED HEALY and his STOOGES in "THE BIG IDEA"

LOEW'S STATE 7th & BROADWAY

PARAMOUNT 6TH & HILL VA-2041

IT'S A MUSICAL SCREAM!

"MANY HAPPY RETURNS"

with GUY LOMBARDO and his ROYAL CANADIANS

George BURNS Gracie ALLEN

JOAN MARSH

• STAGE •

FANCHON & MARCO present A J. J. SHUBERT Production

The STUDENT PRINCE

NEW YORK COMPANY OF 62

Thrilling Male and Female Choruses

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Sam Hines and David Durand to Radio for "Hat, Coat and Glove."

Madge Evans, Una Merkel, Mary Carlisle, Otto Kruger, Robert Young and Ralph Bushman for "All Good Americans" at MGM.

Baby LeRoy and Sir Guy Standing for "Ruggles of Red Gap" at Paramount.

Willard Robertson, Chief Standing Bear and Alice Lake to "Rear Car," MGM.

Holmes Herbert, Helen Freeman and Alphonse Martell for Edward Small's "The Count of Monte Cristo."

Florine McKinney, Betty Grable and Douglas Fowley for MGM's "Student Tour."

Margaret Hamilton for Radio's "Hat, Coat and Glove."

Noel Madison by Al Kingston to "100% Pure," MGM.

New Feature From Eisenstein Film

Walter Anthony was last night commissioned by Sol Lesser to prepare another five-reel feature out of the Sergei Eisenstein footage shot in Mexico.

Anthony edited "Thunder Over Mexico," and used up only a small part of the 180,000 feet of Eisenstein film acquired by Lesser from Upton Sinclair. Much rich material is said to remain, and Anthony developed a further treatment that appealed to Lesser as having box office force.

Whit Williams To Wed

Whitney Williams, for ten years reviewer on the Times and more recently a free lance magazine writer and reviewer, will marry Elinore Donat next Friday. Jack Grant will be host at a stag party for the couple at his home tomorrow night.

HOME AGAIN!

TO THE

"COCOANUT GROVE"

GUS ARNHEIM

Master of incomparable dance rhythm, with the internationally famous dance artists

FLORENCE and ALVAREZ

Direct from Central Park Casino

PREVIEW NIGHT Monday, June 4th

Gala WELCOME HOME PARTY

Tuesday, June 5th

No increase in couvert charge for this tremendous double attraction and battery of ARNHEIM entertainers; including the DOWNEY SISTERS, MAXINE TAPPAN, JIMMY NEWELL.

Dickie Moore To Do 'Prince and Pauper'

Sol Lesser yesterday morning registered his intention to produce Mark Twain's "Prince and the Pauper," and yesterday afternoon signed Dickie Moore to play the principal part.

Dickie is convalescing from mastoiditis, but will be out of the hospital in another week. Lesser contemplates putting "Prince and the Pauper" into production following the first George O'Brien, "The Dude Ranger," which will be made the latter part of July.

Eddie Cline, who directed all the Jackie Coogan pictures and is currently with Lesser for "Peck's Bad Boy," is expected to direct.

Doris Kenyon Set For Lead in 'Human Side'

Doris Kenyon was set by the Schulberg-Feldman-Gurney office yesterday for the leading role in "Human Side," getting the role which has kept Universal postponing the picture owing to casting difficulities.

Adolphe Menjou will have the spot opposite her. Edward Buzzell directs under Eph Asher's supervision.

Archie Mayo To Direct 'The Lady Surrenders'

Warners yesterday assigned Archie Mayo to direct "The Lady Surrenders," an original by Mary McCall, Jr. Jean Muir, George Brent and Veree Teasdale head the cast.

Mayo returned Monday from a month vacation in New York.

Polimer Playing Host

Dick Polimer, who today opens his new offices under the name of Richard K. Polimer, Inc., at 6606 Sunset boulevard, is celebrating the event by throwing a cocktail party at his new quarters. Polimer's associates are Vivian Gaye and Henry Willson.

'Monte Cristo' Split

While Rowland V. Lee worked on key scenes at the Pathe lot yesterday, "The Count of Monte Cristo" had two location units, both handled by Nate C. Watt, assistant director.

New Paramount Title

"You Belong to Me" is the new title set on "Fifty-two Weeks for Fleurette" at Paramount. Al Werker hopes now to start Monday.

Lisbon Picture Fans Must Buy in Advance

Lisbon.—Theatre business has picked up here so much that at many picture houses it is necessary for the theatre-goer to purchase his seats several days in advance. American pictures are leading the country in number and footage.

Porto Rico Kicks On Film Monopoly

San Juan, P. R.—Porto Rico has applied to District Judge Lauger for an injunction against the United Theatre Enterprises, and the court has issued an order that all distributors shall exercise strict impartiality in releasing pictures.

The Government charges that American film producers exercise a monopoly in the control of the picture business here.

Rivkin and Wilson on 'Dolly' Screen Play

Allen Rivkin and Carey Wilson are doing the screen play and dialogue for "Dolly," the Wilson Collison novel slated for Gladys George's first MGM production. Bernard Hyman will supervise. It's Gregory La Cava's first MGM direction. Production is about three weeks away.

Rubinoff and Staff Move Into Radio Lot

David Rubinoff has moved into an office at Radio studio, with an extensive staff including a concert master, arranger, secretary and others, to direct the Chase and Sanborn hour.

Cobb Finishes First

Cloudy weather in Sunland held the Irving Cobb comedy, "Speaking of Relations," over the holiday to a finish on location yesterday.

Pauline Lord Tested

Pauline Lord started make-up tests for "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at Paramount yestreday. Shooting is now set to start next Monday.

New One For Halperins

New York.—The Halperins have purchased "The Star Maker," by Irene D'Annelle.

EDDIE SCHMIDT

takes pleasure in announcing that the recent labor disturbances have subsided and that he is now in a position to accept and execute orders without delay.

EDDIE SCHMIDT, Inc.
TRinity 5931

Dick Polimer

announces

the opening of his new offices

Richard K. Polimer
Inc.
Agency

6606 Sunset Boulevard

GLadstone 3134

•

Associates
VIVIAN GAYE
HENRY WILLSON

CATERED By

The VENDOME

is the stamp of assurance of the best food and the best service that your money can buy.

YOUR COCKTAIL PARTY
YOUR BRIDGE LUNCHEON
YOUR BUFFET DINNER

in all their details can be handled by The VENDOME, taking from your shoulders all the worry about food, its preparation and service. And the price is just as cheap (probably more so) as if you undertake the preparation yourself.

CALL HOllywood 1666

ask for Mr. Hoffman in charge of the catering department. He will make you quotations and give you all the details, giving you the

BEST FOOD and BEST LIQUOR

at a price that will surprise you.

"I'LL GO TO MAIN-VATER STUDIOS,
X MR. SAMUEL VATS
CULVER CITY, CALIF."

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 21. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Saturday, June 2, 1934

CANTOR BURNS AT CODE

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•ERNST LUBITSCH remarked to us the other day: "Why must these producers chase all over the world looking for new stars, when they have more prospective starring material right under their noses in Hollywood than all the world combined can offer?"

And that's about right.

A person in Hollywood has little chance of securing recognition that will give him or her any kind of a chance. He or she must go to New York, to London or Paris, get a little ballyhoo, and Hollywood breaks all speed records to get them on a contract.

•

That goes for artists, writers and directors. Accordingly it's a "strange as it may seem" item to note that in the last few months Paramount has developed an unusually strong directorial staff out of individuals who had been working on the lot as cutters, writers, assistant directors and at other occupations that hardly ever serve to give opportunities.

Al Hall, from Paramount's cutting rooms, was selected as one of the best ten directors of the year by exhibitors. His "Little Miss Marker" is a sensation, as was "Mrs. Fane's Baby Is Stolen." Henry Hathaway can take big bows for his direction of "The Witching Hour" and "Come on Marines." He was an assistant director on the lot before the elevation. Mitchell Leisen did "Death Takes A Holiday," "Cradle Song" and "Murder at the Vanities," and did them all excellently. Gil Pratt, Charles Barton and Arthur Jacobson have been rewarded for their years of service to that organization as assistant directors, by being given directorial assignments.

•

It would not be a bad idea for other studios to look over their own employment lists for their new crop of directors. And also to lend an ear to the entreaties of their casting departments for opportunities for boys and girls the casters believe have what it takes for starring material.

Every studio in Hollywood is yelling for new acting talent, but MGM, with its cast of youngsters in "Student Tour," seems to be the only one which is giving untried players a real chance.

No Dirt in Future Fox Pix, Says Kent

New York.—Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox Film, told the sales convention at the Waldorf yesterday that Fox will release no objectionable pictures during the coming season. "We need no pictures which have dirt dragged into them," he said.

'Rothschild' Tops Business in London

London. — Twentieth Century's "The House of Rothschild" is still the stand-out picture being shown here and is rolling up flattering grosses. Excellent business is also being done by "The Scarlet Empress," "Lost Patrol," "Flying Down to Rio" and "Manhattan Melodrama.' "All Men Are Enemies' is a flop.

The newcomers for the week are "Stage Mother' and "The Show-Off" at the Empire, and "Double Door" at the Plaza. The Cantor picture, "Roman Scandals," and "Let's Fall in Love" are also among the hold-overs, but business is nothing to brag about.

Paramount Foreign Heads to Convention

New York.—Seven of Paramount's foreign executives will trek to Los Angeles for the convention, which starts June 18.

They are John Cecil Graham and Montague Goldman, of the British offices; Earl St. John, of the Paramount British theatres; Carl York, managing director for Scandinavia; Moe Messeri, from Spain; J. E. Perkins, from China, and John Day, from Brazil.

Resignation From Authority Expected Unless Actors Are Given Different Treatment

Eddie Cantor is burned up over the attitude of the Motion Picture Code Authority towards the actors, and his resignation from that body is expected unless conditions are changed and changed in a hurry. Cantor's intimates say that, if he does quit, his letter of resignation will contain plenty of facts and dynamite.

A few weeks ago Cantor, at a meeting of actors at El Capitan Theatre, told his hearers what an honest outfit the Code Authority was and what a square deal they would get. Now, his friends say, he has completely reversed his opinion and feels that there isn't a chance of the actor getting a fair break under the present set-up.

He is especially incensed by the action of the Code Authority in dismis-

(Continued on Page 2)

MGM After 'Millie' For Russian Picture

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has made Lewis Milestone an offer to park on that lot and do the Russian picture that Frank Capra was to have directed last year.

"Millie" is currently at Columbia finishing the screen treatment on "The Captain Hates the Sea," which will have an immediate production.

William Seiter East

William Seiter plans to hop off for New York Monday for a quick trip before returning to Radio to direct "By Your Leave."

Paramount Hit By Health Department

Following complaints from extra players that an extra suffering from a contagious skin disease was being used by Paramount on a set for "Cleopatra," Aubrey Blair, secretary of the Junior Screen Actors' Guild, reported the matter to the City Health Department, which, Blair says, stepped in yesterday and ordered the studio to remove the man from the set.

Blair also stated that extras on the same set complained that they were being given dirty costumes that had been worn by other extras. Blair said that the health officer ordered this practice stopped and that all costimes be cleaned before being passed on to other players.

Fritz Lang Signed to Contract by MGM

London.—Fritz Lang, one of Europe's premier directors, was signed yesterday by David Selznick to an MGM contract. The contract is for a single picture with an option for more. Lang will sail June 6 with Selznick and George Cukor.

The deal was handled by Jack Votion, of the Selznick-Joyce office here.

Shirley Temple To Be Starred in Fox Picture

Definitely deciding to star little Shirley Temple in a special production on its new program, Fox yesterday purchased an original by Gene Towne and Graham Baker. The story is "Million Dollar Baby' and Al Rockett will supervise it.

Nugent Stays at Para.

Radio yesterday released Elliott Nugent from his term directing contract so that he might remain at Paramount. He is now directing "She Loves Me Not."

SENNETT TO HAVE NOTED STARS IN HIS LIFE STORY

Mack Sennett has Clark Gable in mind as ideal to play Sennett as a young man at Biograph in the autobiographical production he is preparing. A romance, based on Sennett's career, but with fictional touches, runs through the story as plotted by Sennett with Ralph Graves. The pair are on their seventh script revision.

Sennett has made no cast negotiations yet, but will invite notables figuring in the romance of his career to "be themselves" in the picture.

(Continued on Page 2)

'U' Buys Two Stories For Margaret Sullavan

Universal yesterday purchased two novels by well known authors and will probably use them both as Margaret Sullavan vehicles. They are "The Good Fairy," by Ferenc Molnar, and "Within This Present," by Margaret Ayer Barnes.

Preston Sturges has been assigned to write the screen play of the Molnar story and William Wyler will direct. The studio has not made any assignments on the other story as yet.

EDWARD LAEMMLE directed "Embarrassing Moments"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE .. .. Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15 Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Freddy Astaire and Violet Kemble Cooper arrived in town yesterday for toil at Radio. . . . Freddy goes right into "Gay Divorce". . . . . Virginia Pine has been at her home for a week and still there—not "rushed back to the hospital' as reported elsewhere. . . Preston Sturges is launching his new sixty-two foot sailboat tomorrow. . . Al Hall has given the little bride a new Pontiac—and very nice, too! . . . The pounds just kept melting off Liz Dupont. . . . Andy Lawlor may play his stage role he played in "Forsaking All Others" with Tallulah Bankhead, in the movie version of same. . . . . Tallulah, incidentally, is about to do "Serena Blandish" in London.

•

Lupe Velez, expected back here next week—and the Johnny Weissmullers made the eastern front pages again with another beeg "fight.." . . . Leo Carrillo will be strictly on the loose for the summer, Mrs. C. and his daughter having gone East for the hot weather. . . . Part of the "Flirtation Walk" company goes East to West Point today—including Frank Borzage. . . . Myrna Loy and Arthur Hornblow are around together again. . . . The Dick Barthelmesses hope to get off to join their trunks (which have been in New York for two weeks) any minute.

•

The Jack Kirklands (he's in Hollywood now) are not considering a divorce at the moment. . . . Phil Regan played his first game of golf the other day and did nine holes in fifty-two! . . . The Kendall Glaezner-Lewis Milestone wedding won't come off—not that we ever thought it would. . . Robert Young will do a benefit performance at and for his Alma Mater, U.S.C., Monday night. . . . . Dick Powell, with Margaret Lindsay, Mary Pickford, the Billy Gaxtons, Charlie Chaplin, Larry Ceballos, Mrs. Pat Campbell, Nigel Bruce, the Will Rogers, Leon Errol, Corinne Griffith, Walter Morosco, Kay Francis, Walter Armitage, the Al Newmans, Nancy Carroll among the Vendome lunchers and diners.

FAVORITISM TO MAJORS SEEN IN CODE RULINGS

The feeling that the Code Authority is controlled by the majors in one way or another was strengthened yesterday when the decision handed down on the appeal of Fox West Coast from the ruling of the Los Angeles Grievance Board in the case of the overbuying complaint made by the Garfield Theatre, in Alhambra, against the Alhambra and El Rey was made known here.

Cirstrand Theatres Ltd., owners of the Garfield, complained that FWC and Principal Theatres had overbought in an attempt to stifle competition, and the board ordered the defendants to turn over 20 pictures from what they had bought.

The Code Authority upheld the ruling of the local board, but practically nullified it by allocating 13 pictures instead of 20, and naming them. The list to be turned over includes MGM's "Hollywood Party" and "Rear Car"; Paramount's "Great Flirtation," "Old-Fashioned Way," "Ladies First" and "Private Scandal"; Fox's "Springtime for Henry" and "Wild Gold"; Warners' "Heat Lightning," "He Was Her Man," "Midnight Alibi" and "Merry Frinks"; United Artists' "Born to Be Bad."

S. M. Lazarus, head of Cirstrand Theatres, said:

"Please say for me that victory is very, very sweet, but the Code Authority can take the pictures and put them anywhere they please except into the Garfield Theatre.

"I can get better pictures than that list from any independent in town. The Code Authority's action doesn't mean a thing and apparently was only a gesture to try to make people believe it does mean something."

This allocated list is hardly imposing, and there is little doubt that Fox West Coast was glad to get rid of some of them. The allocation of 13 instead of 20 is because of the time that has elapsed since the complaint, the Code Authority figuring that the Garfield would not have time to run the 20 now.

In the case of the complaint of John T. Rennie & Son against Feldstein & Dietrich for negotiating for a theatre already under lease, the Code Authority found for the respondents, ruling that there was no unfair practice.

The complaint of H. M. Popkin, of the Crystal Theatre, Los Angeles, against Abe Levy, of the Muse Theatre, for price-cutting, was dismissed, the Code Authority ruling that it has no jurisdiction in such cases, admission prices being a subject to be settled by the exhibitor and distributor.

Wanderlust Again Smites Wally Young

Waldemar Young is serving Paramount with notice of termination of his contract, according to the terms of his deal, in order to take another sea-going trip.

The writer has made up his mind to take a four-month trip each year. He sails June 28 on the City of Los Angeles for a circuit of the South Seas, transferring at Honolulu for a boat to Japan and Crina.

'Burn 'Em Up Barnes' Setting Speed Record

The production efficiency under which Mascot is making the serial, "Burn 'Em Up Barnes," has the Valley picture men slightly ga-ga.

The picture is working in two units, headed by Bert Clark and Armand Schaeffer, and hourly reports of the number of takes completed are phoned to the Hollywood offices. Production is on a dawn-to-dusk schedule, and the serial has gained two full days on its timetable.

'Young Eagles' Will Finish Up Tomorrow

Clean-up shots and retakes will be made Sunday at the Sennett lot for the Boy Scout-wild animal serial, "Young Eagles," and Romance Productions will move Tuesday to offices at 8476 Sunset Boulevard.

Ashton Dearholt is production manager and directed much of the picture for George Stout's company.

St. Clair With Darmour

Larry Darmour yesterday signed Mal St. Clair to direct his second Majestic production, "Gaily I Sin," an original by Mann Paige and Izola Forrester. The screen play has been written by Houston Branch.

Mayo Starts Wednesday

"The Lady Surrenders" was marked up yesterday to start next Wednesday at Warners. Archie Mayo, just back from a vacation, directs. The screen play is by Mary McCall Jr., author of the original.

Boehm Out of Para.

David Boehm has turned in his closing notice at Paramount and checked off the studio writing staff. He wrote an original story which the studio purchased for Mae West.

New Titles at MGM

MGM officially set "Clear the Track" as the release title on "Rear Car" yesterday, also switching "100% Pure" to "Born To Be Kissed."

Sennett To Have Stars

(Continued from Page 1)

Doubles will be sought for any who are unable to appear in person.

The only one approached so far is Charlie Chaplin, and he is said to have reacted favorably. Characters in the story include Mary Pickford, D. W. Griffith, Gloria Swanson, the Sennett bathing girls who later gained indidivual fame, Ford Sterling, the Keystone Kops, and many stars and executives of silent days.

Release has not been arranged, but Sennett thinks he will have a major outlet set by the time he is ready to start production at the end of July.

Gene Fowler contemplates the title "Father Goose" for the book he is preparing from the Sennett material, based on his allegorical treatment, with Roscoe Arbuckle as the Humpty Dumpty, etc.

U.A. Convention In Chicago Today

Chicago.—The sales convention of United Artists opens at the Drake Hotel today, with Al Lichtman in charge. His speech will review the accomplishments of the company during the past year, and he will also talk about double features, possible advance in admission prices and conditions generally.

Joseph M. Schenck, who leaves Los Angeles by plane today, will attend the convention tomorrow and will announce the new product. Several of the pictures on the coming season's program are already finished, and among the others will be "Clive of India," with Ronald Colman, and another Arliss picture, probably "Richelieu."

Walter Winchell Here For Summer Vacation

Walter Winchell got in on the Chief yesterday for the Summer stay here in Hollywood.

Before Winchell left New York, the editor of the Journal sent him over the coin that Hepburn messaged to him, with the editor noting: "Here's a reward for that Hepburn scoop. Dig us some more out in Hollywood."

Academy Prods. Starting

Planning to produce six features for the state rights market, Academy Productions, with Bernie Goodman as its president, will get the first picture into work at the Talisman studio in three weeks. Abe Heller is the general sales manager and Pat Clemens is in charge of production.

Brock Going Chinese

A Chinese musical, "Ho, for Shanghai," will be Lou Brock's next for Radio, and will go into production immediately on his return from Europe in about three months. He sails on July 20.

Cantor Burned at Code

(Continued from Page 1)

sing the local Code Committee for Extras from active duty and in placing the extras labor problems under the State Welfare Act, in addition to extending its provisions to men when heretofore it has been confined to women and children.

For this action he blames Pat Casey who, he feels, has fought to get this State act into the code ever since the Extras' Committee was appointed. Cantor has complained to friends that Casey has been dictating most of the actions of the Code Authority, as they affect production.

He feels, also, that he was given a rotten deal by the Code Authority when it took the action on the State Welfare Act while he was in the West and could not fight it. Cantor and Marie Dressler are the two actor members of the Code Authority and are supposed to be consulted on all matters pertaining to the actor.

His attitude with respect to the entire situation has been included in a letter which he wrote to Sol Rosenblatt and which may be made public when Cantor returns from San Francisco.

MENJOU AND LANDI TRIUMPH IN 'THE GREAT FLIRTATION'

Picture Certain To Please All Tastes

"THE GREAT FLIRTATION"
(Paramount-Rogers)

Direction .....Ralph Murphy
Original Story.....Gregory Ratoff
Screen Play.....Humphrey Pearson
Photography.....Milton Krasner
Cast: Adolphe Menjou, Elissa Landi, David Manners, Lynne Overman, Raymond Walburn, Adrian Rosley, Paul Porcasi, George Baxter, Judith Vosselli, Akim Tamiroff, Vernon Steele.

A trifle slow in getting started, but once under way the picture gives out with a whirl of comedy, balanced by a swell dramatic situation that makes it good entertainment all the way.

Landi and Menjou as the two main protagonists of the story come through with performances that will sell them to audiences as permanent starring attractions. Both these actors have given themselves a push in pictures that will be released before this one and, with this picture to their credit, they are a cinch as the best exploitation value that a film can have. Landi is SOMETHING, and Menjou is SOMETHING, PLUS.

It is the story of the greatest actor in Budapest and the girl he married in desperation in order to hold her, while the girl married him in desperation because he promised her a magnificent stage career in New York. When they get to New York, the actor, after a year of starving, lands himself a small part in a play. The leading actress walks out on the show and the actor sells his wife to play the part. The actor in turn becomes his wife's leading man, but no one is aware that they are married.

After the opening night, when the actor has triumphed over his wife and tries to convince her that she should give up the stage, she tells him that she is in love with the author of the play and the reason for her failure was because she wanted the author to make love to her, not him. The actor bows himself out and, at the end, takes himself off permanently by giving a convincing performance when his wife fails to make him believe him that she wants to go back to him.

The acting and the writing are the highlights of the picture, with the direction not inspired but good, and the photography no more than okay. Raymond Walburn, as Morgan, the producer, is someone you can close your eyes at and swear you were listening to Guy Kibbee and then, when you open them, you think you're looking at Kibbee's son. Lynne Overman as the director is a whiff of old Broadway. David Manners, as the author, gives a nice, sensitive performance, and any day now should be given bigger parts. Paul Porcasi as the faithful servant, Mikos, is good for a laugh any time, and George Baxter in a tiny role 'way at the beginning of the picture is simply elegant.

Mr. Exhibitor, this picture will establish for a certainty that Menjou and Landi are what audiences will yell for, so give them the works and bank on them heavily.

Funeral Services For Lew Cody Today

Simple funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon for Lew Cody, who died Thursday. The services will be in Pierce Brothers' mortuary. There will be no pallbearers and none of the usual ceremony, because his friends feel he would not want it. Place of burial was not decided last night.

Para. Planning 13 Foreign Features

New York.—Paramount is planning to make 13 foreign language features for distribution this coming season. All will be under the supervision of John W. Hicks.

Eight French pictures will be made at Joinville, one by the Caesar Film Company in Paris, and another by John Maxwell, in London. Two Spanish pictures are being made at Astoria, and an Italian feature in Rome.

Mack Signed to Direct 'Girl Friend' For Col.

Columbia yesterday signed Russell Mack, through Bren, Orsatti and Marx, to direct "The Girl Friend," William Rowland's first production for the studio.

Herbert Fields, who wrote the original musical comedy, returned from New York yesterday with some new songs.

Wood Rushes 'Stamboul' So He Can Go to Fight

Sam Wood hopes to wind up "Stamboul Quest" and his MGM contract by the end of next week so he can get to New York in time for the Baer-Carnera fight. He is now three days ahead of schedule.

Eldredge to West Point

John Eldredge was assigned a part in "Flirtation Walk" yesterday by Warners, and leaves for West Point Monday with other principals. The assignment takes him out of his part opposite Barbara Stanwyck in "The Lost Lady," leaving two important spots in that picture to be filled.

Buzzell Switched

Due to casting difficulties on "Transient Lady" and the fact that it figures on next season's release list, Universal yesterday changed Eddie Buzzell's directing assignment to "The Human Side," which is due on the current program.

Rosemary Ames Held

Fox yesterday exercised its option on the contract held by Rosemary Ames for another year.

Leslie Fenton to Fox

Leslie Fenton has been signed by Fox for a featured role in "Marie Gallante."

Grosses Run Along In Same Old Rut

New York.—There is little change for the better in the grosses of the big Broadway houses, and the coming of hot weather is expected to knock them even lower.

"Where Sinners Meet" got $74,000 at the Radio City Music Hall, and "Little Miss Marker" took $30,000 for its second week at the Paramount. "Now I'll Tell" gave the Roxy about $26,500, and "Sadie McKee" ran to $27,500 at the Capitol. "Hollywood Party" could get only $18,500 at the Rialto, "Born To Be Bad" grossed $17,000 at the Rivoli, and the twelfth week of "Rothschild" at the Astor was worth $14,750. "The Key" took $16,000 at the Strand, and "Sorrell and Son" at the Mayfair pulled in only $9500.

Independent Company To Film 'Stevedore'

New York.—An independent group is negotiating for the screen rights to "Stevedore," one of the season's New York successes, produced by the Theatre Union at the Civic Repertoire Theatre.

Both the Shuberts and the management of the Apollo Theatre have made bids to move the play uptown, but it will stay where it is and probably run all Summer.

Paul Lukas Borrowed For Radio's 'Fountain'

Radio yesterday borrowed Paul Lukas from Universal and signed Sarah Hayden for spots in "The Fountain," which John Cromwell directs when it starts June 10.

Ann Harding, Brian Aherne and Violet Kemble-Cooper have already been cast.

Heather Thatcher in Fairbanks Sr. Picture

London.—Heather Thatcher, the be-monocled English actress, has been signed for one of the chief roles in "The Return of Don Juan," which is starring Douglas Fairbanks Sr., and which London Films is producing.

Col. Starting Dick Yarn

With Ralph Bellamy and Shirley Grey in the leads, D. Ross Lederman puts the fifth of the police-detective series, "By Persons Unknown," into work at Columbia Monday. Ward Bond and J. Carrol Naish were signed through Al Kingston for the picture.

Play No Good For Pix

New York.—"Furnished Rooms," the only play which opened on Broadway this week, is not suitable for pictures. "Only Girl" and "Come What May" are closing.

Scott Darling Back

Scott Darling, who has been on the writing staff of Warners in England for the past two years, is back on a trip and will stick around a couple of months.

Not That It Matters
by Helen Gwynn

With its production of "Student Tour," MGM is definitely on the lookout for talent to develop. And they're not being niggardly about the cost of discovery either. This picture hasn't a star in the cast. The drawing power in it is being carried by Jimmy Durante, Charlie Butterworth and Stu Erwin. Maxine Doyle, the ex-mistress of ceremonies from Washington, D.C., gets the big chance in this one by playing the lead. The rest of the cast is composed entirely of unknowns, with the exception of a well-known old-timer, Monte Blue. There are youngsters in it from MGM's stock company, college youngsters and just plain youngsters. Chuck Reisner is having the time of his life with these kids, who know little enough about the screen to be just themselves in front of a camera, and Reisner is confident that MGM will get more than its money's worth from the experiment. The experiment, by the way, is going to be one of the big musical opuses of the year and they're not counting pennies on the cost of production.

•

Considering the seriousness of the casting situation in Hollywood, the money spent in giving these youngsters a chance to show couldn't possibly be wasted. Not so long ago, when a story was shelved, the common excuse for it was not being able to get a good script. Today, studios find themselves with a number of good scripts on the shelf because they have not been able to cast them. Directors are crying for good stories, but what they mean by good today is a story that will fit the talents of the few stars on the lot or one that can be borrowed from some other company. And that considerably narrows down a writer's scope and the chances for something new and different in the way of entertainment. MGM, the company that was the greatest builderupper of female stars, evidently must have realized the acuteness of the casting problem and, for the sake of their good intentions, we hope this cast of unknowns crashes through with something fresh and new in the way of future screen personalities.

•

Cute little trick played on Ric Cortez t'other day on the Radio lot. Ric had just gone to a lot of trouble to memorize a very long speech for his big scene of the day and had gotten to the point where not even a comma escaped him. So he went through a rehearsal of the speech without an error and, when he got all through, Tony Minor, the director, said: "That was great, Ric. Absolutely perfect. Now forget it. We've just written a brand new speech for this scene and that one is out. . . . " And so was Cortez, as they shoved the day's re-write job under his nose.

Mae West's Father Here

Mae West's father arrived from New York last night to visit his daughter for a short time.

ZIRN WINS POINT IN SUIT AGAINST PARA. DIRECTORS

New York—Samuel Zirn, representing Robert Levy, a stockholder, won a point yesterday in his suit against the Paramount directors who were responsible for the pledging of Paramount negatives to twelve banks some time ago, which action was construed as providing for preferential payments.

The Appelate Division of New York state denied him the right to sue, holding that such action could be brought only by the trustees. The New York State Court of Appeals yesterday reversed this decision.

Zirn will now file a new action and believes that the courts will get around to hearing it so that he can have a decision by July 10, when the court vacation starts, or by early in the Fall at the latest.

Zirn has been a thorn in the side of Paramount ever since the receivership and bankruptcy proceedings. He has fought for the removal of the trustees ever since they were appointed and, every time a court ruling goes against him, he finds a new spot to attack.

Paramount Settles Suit Filed Over 'M'

New York—The suit brought by Saul Rogers as attorney for the Foremco Company, Joe Plunkett, Walter Reade, Myron Robison and Larry Green against Paramount for damages resulting from the failure to distribute the German picture "M", has been settled by a cash payment out of court.

The second plagiarism suit filed by the same people against Paramount and C. B. DeMille probably will be dropped.

Ten Days Vacation For Johnston in Four Years

John LeRoy Johnston's flight East for the Universal convention, fan mag contacts and a look at the fair is his first trip away from Universal City for longer than a week-end in his four years as publicity director. He expects to be back in ten days.

Ed Churchill, fan mag contact, sits in at Johnston's desk next week.

Levinson on Mono. Yarn

Lew Levinson was yesterday assigned the script for "The Mysterious Mr. Wong," Harry Stephen Keeler novel set by Monogram for July production. George Yohalem will be the supervisor.

From East to West

New York.—Ethel Merman and Harold Lloyd leave for Hollywood tomorrow, and Sid Silvers also goes to take a role in "Transatlantic Showboat" for Reliance. Stepin Fetchit left yesterday by plane.

Junior Writing Staff

Sol Wurtzel is establishing a junior writing staff for his unit at the Fox Western studio and has placed Robert Yost in charge. Sally Sandlin, Harry Fried and Robert Cummings are the nucleus.

'Resurrection' Title Now 'We Live Again'

"We Live Again" is the new title for the Samuel Goldwyn picture which will present Anna Sten and Fredric March. It is based on Tolstoy's "Resurrection," but will have nothing in common with the earlier versions of the famous novel.

Production is expected to start under Rouben Mamoulian's direction in about three weeks.

Stage Play Purchased For Educational Short

New York.—For the first time a stage play has been bought for a short picture, "Love and Babies," in which Ernest Truex starred, having been purchased by Educational for a two-reeler.

Truex will star and Al Christie will direct when production starts at the Astoria studio on June 11.

Ralston and Knight Rivals For Role at 'U'

Esther Ralston is competing with June Knight for the second lead in "Romance in the Rain," Stanley Bergerman production for Universal, set to start next Thursday.

The studio wanted Wynne Gibson for the part, next in importance to that of Heather Angel, but Miss Gibson is tied up elsewhere. Stuart Walker will direct the picture.

Noel Coward's Latest Hits Broadway in Feb.

New York.—"Point Balaine," Noel Coward's latest play, is to be presented on Broadway in February by John C. Wilson. Coward will stage it, and Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt will be starred.

Another Coward play, "Conversation Piece," will be presented by H. B. Franklin and Arch Selwyn during the season.

Para. Trustees Oppose Infringement Claims

New York.—The Paramount trustees have filed briefs with Federal Judge Patterson, opposing the claims made by General Talking Pictures and DeForest. Each claims $1,000,000 and eventually will seek damages for alleged infringements of patents.

Carmel Myers Airing

Carmel Myers goes on the air Sunday night as a guest artist on "The Merrymakers" broadcast over KHJ. This is her fifth broadcast as a guest star.

New Col. Comptroller

H. A. MacDonell, formerly with General Service, was engaged by Columbia yesterday as comptroller. N. M. Stephenson, who held the post, resigned.

New Paramount Writer

George S. Brooks arrived in Hollywood to take up a term writing deal with Paramount. He gets his first assignment today.

'Little Man' Does $8300 on First Day

New York.—The Universal picture, "Little Man, What Now?", grossed $8300 for its first day at the Radio City Music Hall, which is considered very fair and may mean an $85,000 week.

Sound Men to War On Strike Breakers

Reports were current yesterday in Hollywood labor union circles to the effect that there is a rift among leaders of the IBEW, brought on because one leader is understood to be advocating the dropping by the union of some of the sound technicians who stepped in and helped break strike last summer.

According to reports among the sound men, this one leader is said to have expressed his opinion at a union meeting, and declared that many of the strike breakers are not as well qualified to handle sound work as a lot of the men who are sitting around waiting for jobs Further, it is said that this leader expressed the opinion that the strike breakers have been adequately taken care of by being kept busy since last August.

Agency Board Meeting Tuesday For Reports

The Hollywood Agency Committee of the film code meets Tuesday at Radio studios to receive the reports of two important subcommittees. One reports on the advisability of the licensing of agents, the other on a code of fair practice between agents, producers and talent.

MGM Will Send Cast From Here to Brazil

Changing its mind about using a native cast in "Jungle Red Man," MGM starts today to look the field over for Hollywood players to send to Brazil, where the picture is under way.

George Seitz, directing it, reaches the studio by plane from location this morning to help in the work of assembling the cast.

Berke Signs Writer

William Berke has signed C. E. Roberts to write the screen play for his first feature, "The Unforbidden Sin," a novel by Ray Vickers. Berke has moved from the Pathe lot to Talisman studios, where he will produce the picture.

No Europe For Robinson

Casey Robinson has turned down the deal with British International Pictures to write the screen play of "Blow Your Horn" and will accept a deal at either Radio or MGM. Both studios are negotiating for his services.

Gorney-Hartman Finish

Jay Gorney and Don Hartman have just finished the musical score for "Romance in the Rain," which Universal will produce under the supervision of Stanley Bergerman. The original story is by Gorney and Sig Herzig.

25-Reel Serial To Be Made In Asia

Ashton Dearholt will sail for Singapore next month with a cast and technical staff of 14 to make a 25-reel adventure film in Asia, from an original being prepared by Edgar Rice Burroughs. After the introductory three reels, the story will develop in two-reel chapters. It will be released in straight story episodes, and also with suspense tag scenes for the use of transient patronage houses that demand serial treatment.

Dearholt's financial set-up and release are in negotiation, but it will not be the Van Beuren-RKO auspices under which Dearholt supervised the yet unreleased Joan Lowell expedition to the Caribbean and Central America last Fall.

Burroughs' story covers the adventures of a scientist and his daughter. Dearholt intends to incorporate four instructional oddities into each chapter.

Para. Signs New Boy For 'You Belong to Me'

The search for a boy to play a featured role in "You Belong to Me," previously called "52 Weeks for Fleurette," was ended yesterday with the signing of seven-year-old David Holt, through Max Shagrin. More than 100 boys were tested.

The boy recently appeared in Harold Lloyd's "Cat's Paw" and Paramount has taken an option for a seven-year ticket.

Feature Planned From 'Crime Club' Stories

New York.—William G. Smith has secured the screen rights to the "Eno Crime Club" material, the Spencer Dean and Dan Cassidy man hunt yarns that are broadcast over NBC, and will make a feature from them, in association with Charles C. Burr.

Production will be in Hollywood, but no release is set.

'Million Dollar Ransom' Advanced on 'U' List

"Million Dollar Ransom" was pushed up on the Universal schedule yesterday to start the week of June 11.

Joan Bennett and Joel McCrea go into it with Edward Arnold. The story is by Damon Runyon, and Murray Roth directs.

MacRae on 'Tailspin'

Henry MacRae is preparing the script for "Tailspin Tommy," second of the Milton Gatzert serials for Universal. MacRae retains his billing as associate producer of serials on "The Red Rider," which is still in production.

Loew's State Bookings

Loew's State Theatre in Los Angeles has booked "Sadie McKee" for the week of June 13 and will follow it with "Manhattan Melodrama," June 21.

Alberta Vaughn Set

Alberta Vaughn comes back to the picture scene in a Paramount assignment, taking a featured role in "Ladies Should Listen."

M-G-M STUDIOS,
% READING DEPT.
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol XXI. No. 22. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Monday, June 4, 1934

U. A. TOPS FOR 1933-34

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•ON April 15 of last year, this column called the attention of the production industry to the fact that the greatest piece of production property was available that morning in the person of Darryl Francis Zanuck, who had resigned at Warners the day before. We invited bids for Mr. Zanuck and suggested that those who might desire his services start the bidding at ONE MILLION DOLLARS, which caused a laugh in some quarters and "The Million Dollar Producer" tag was hung on Zanuck as a result of the suggestion.

Joe Schenck made the bid that won Zanuck and we have from Schenck's own lips: "It was the best buy I have ever made in any business," for Darryl Zanuck, guiding Twentieth Century production, will turn in a profit in excess of FOUR MILLION DOLLARS for the first twelve months of its operation. With that profit it is easy to estimate what the profits have been to the exhibitors who were fortunate in buying Zanuck's product.

•

Now along comes Pete Harrison, making his yearly survey as a result of a canvass among more than 5000 theatre owners, resulting in United Artists being placed at the top of the list of the best money-makers of the year among the major distributors. This bears out a prediction made in this column, just a year ago, that it would be a United Artists year, because of Twentieth Century and that "Million Dollar Producer."

There is no great trick about Zanuck's successful production methods. He has no copyright on that activity. There are no secrets in his efforts to knock out hit pictures at a REASONABLE COST. He just happens to be a "down-to-earth" individual, whose purpose in life is to make good entertainment, whose days and nights (when he is not playing polo or going on long jaunts in the jungles on shooting and fishing trips) are spent in devising that entertainment, surrounded by a collection of men and women who respect his judgment, and are anxious to join with him in making that entertainment.

Zanuck's success is the result of sincere effort. Instead of trying to make the production of pictures a tough task, he fights to make it easy,

(Continued on Page 4)

Presbyterians Join War on Dirty Films

Cleveland.—Criticism of American motion pictures for their harmful influence on missionary work was made at the Presbyterian General Assembly by Rev. D. C. Buchanan, missionary to Japan, who said: "I am ashamed of the films shown in Korea and Japan. People in these lands seeing these pictures get the idea that every American woman is impure and that every American man carries a gun. Boys and girls attempt to copy lives they see portrayed."

N.Y.Censors Slash MGM'Laughing Boy'

New York.—Local censors, normally very mild, took a big chunk out of "Laughing Boy," the MGM picture. No less than sixteen cuts were made.

Pictures passed without eliminations of any kind include "Private Scandal," "Scarlet Empress," "Thirty Day Princess," "We're Not Dressing," "The Witching Hour," "Black Cat," "I'll Tell the World," "Uncertain Lady," "The Merry Frinks," "Smarty" and "Twenty Million Sweethearts."

New Story For Dietrich

Eleanor McGeary and Josef von Sternberg are working on an original story for the next Marlene Dietrich picture for Paramount.

Finston Quits Again

Nat Finston again tendered his resignation as head of Paramount's music department Saturday and the issue will be settled this morning.

Exhibs Tell Pete Harrison Of Their Moneymakers. Radio Second On List, Warners Third

New York.—Pete Harrison, publisher of Harrison's Reports, has issued the results of his survey conducted in an effort to ascertain what studios produced the best money-makers during 1933-34, and the comment on the product from more than 5000 exhibitors.

The result of the survey, as printed in Harrison's Reports, classifies the major producers as follows:

United Artists
Radio Pictures
Warner-First National
Paramount
Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer
Universal
Fox
Columbia.

After setting forth the standing as selected by the exhibitors, Harrison analyses the various products as a result of the comment sent in by the

(Continued on Page 3)

McLaglen and Lowe to Star in Fox 'Oriental'

Fox has assigned the writing team of Gene Towne and Graham Baker to fashion an original screen play for Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe. The title scheduled for it is "Oriental" and Raoul Walsh directs under the supervision of Robert Kane.

Jones-McNutt Re-join

Grover Jones has gone back to his old assignment as team-mate of William Slavens McNutt on "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Jane Storm is working with them.

Rosy Cancels Order Limiting Extra Com.

Sol Rosenblatt yesterday put the Standing Committee for Extras right back where it was by sending a wire which stated that the Code Authority had no power to deprive the committee of its right to make interpretations of the film code and no right to put the extras under the provisions of the State Labor Law, known as Order No. 16-A.

The only person who had the right to issue such orders, he said, was Rosenblatt himself, and he had not done so. He said further that any findings made by the Extras Committee should be submitted to him and not to the Code Authority.

'Merriwell' Author Gets His Injunction

New York.—Gilbert Patten, author of the "Frank Merriwell" stories, Saturday, obtained a temporary injunction restraining Superior Pictures from advertising or producing pictures based on the famous character.

The hearing in Federal Court on the application for a permanent injunction will be held tomorrow.

Col. Wants May Robson

Columbia is negotiating a deal with MGM for the loan of May Robson for the Carole Lombard picture, "Orchids and Onions," which David Burton is scheduled to direct. Milton Herbert Gropper is on the screen play.

Russell on 'Half Caste'

MGM has assigned John Russell to write the screen play of "The Half Caste," an original story. The picture will be the first for Ramon Novarro when he returns in July from his South American concert tour.

Hurley on Vacation

Harold Hurley left Paramount Saturday for a three weeks vacation.

22 FEATURES ANNOUNCED ON UNITED ARTISTS' LIST

Chicago.—The United Artists' program for the coming season will have at least 22 features and, if Mary Pickford and Charles Chaplin each delivers one, the list will be 24.

General Sales Manager Al Lichtman told the convention yesterday that the sales policy will be "look before you buy' and that the exhibitor is the final judge of the quality of the product.

The season's program comprises, in addition to the features, eighteen shorts from Walt Disney; nine with Mickey Mouse and nine "Silly Sym-

(Continued on Page 4)

'Madame' For Nugent

With Elliott Nugent getting his release from Radio Saturday, Paramount today signs the director to a new long-term deal. He will direct "Enter Madame" as his next assignment. The Small-Landau office represents him.

Terrett to Goldwyn

Courtenay Terrett joins the Sam Goldwyn writing staff today to work on the screen play for"Barbary Coast," which William Wellman directs. He was set by the Hawks-Volck office.

HARRY LACHMAN DIRECTED "BABY TAKE A BOW"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON. . Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

CANAVAN FIGHT IATSE CONVENTION FEATURE

Louisville, Ky.—What delegates declare will probably be the most important convention in the history of the IATSE opens here today, with delegates from all sections of the country primed for several battles which may decide the future importance of the union in the motion picture industry.

The outstanding feature of the convention will be the election of a president. For weeks a committee of 100 has been carrying on an intensive drive to bring William F. Canavan back to the presidency. He held the position for many years and, under his leadership, the IATSE reached its peak. The members also declare that, with his leaving, the organization started to lose strength in the motion picture production field, winding up last Summer with the unsuccessful strike in the studios which has taken thousands of members from the organization and left it in a precarious spot.

A strong contingent from the Middle West is driving for the re-leection of William C. Elliot, but Canavan supporters claim they have a majority of the delegates pledged.

Another matter of importance expected to be brought to the convention floor is the proposal by the American Society of Cinematographers to take over Local 659 in Hollywood. This idea has been frowned down by the members of the Hollywood cameramen's union, but some say it is slated to come to the floor, inasmuch as the ASC broke strike when 659 went out.

It is also expected that details of the studio strike may be aired, with an effort being made to place the blame on some "goat's" shoulders. And a program is to be proposed to rebuild the IATSE in the studios and get it back to former strength.

Leo Carrillo East For 'Viva Villa' Personals

Leo Carrillo takes the plane for New York Tuesday to make a personal appearance at the Capitol Friday with the showing of "Viva Villa." Two weeks of personals, and he returns to his Santa Monica hacienda.

Carrillo is enthusiastic about his assignment with Louise Fazenda in the sweepstakes comedy being shaped up at MGM, seeing it as another "Abie's Irish Rose."

Pete Smith Over-worked

This is Pete Smith's busy week at MGM. "Strikes and Spares," his exposition of bowling, gets shooting Wednesday. His history of Rugby football, tracing the game back down the ages, also starts this week, Ray McCarey directing.

Siamese Offer For Foy Nudist Picture

Brian Foy Saturday received an offer for the Siamese rights on "Elysia," from the Associated Trading Co., of Bangkok. Foy figures the interest is probably on account of the fat nudists in the picture.

Salient Pictures Calls Off Production

Salient Pictures, which produced "Mating Time" six months ago, has shelved production plans.

Buck Macgowan has returned his story, "Harbor Patrol," to the open market. The independent company had prepared to produce the picture, with Clarence Badger directing. "Mating Time," which Leo Birinski made, will be released on the independent market instead of through a major release.

Baltimore Deb Gets 'Monte Cristo' Role

Eleanor Phelps, Baltimore society girl, who has appeared in five Broadway productions, gets her first picture break with the part of Princess Haidee in Edward Small's production of "The Count of Monte Cristo." Her only previous film work was a bit in "Cleopatra."

Miss Phelps is the daughter of John Phelps, Belgian consul at Baltimore.

Irene Dunne to Present Biltmore Bowl Prize

Irene Dunne will present the prize to the winner of the RKO Theatre-Biltmore Bowl singing contest at the Bowl tonight. The prize is a week's contract to sing in the Bowl floor show.

Giraffes For Local Zoo

Frank Buck, now superintending his exhibit at the Chicago Fair in connection with "Wild Cargo," has notified the California Zoological Gardens that he is having a pair of giraffes forwarded to the zoo from Africa for parking. There are said to be no giraffes on the Pacific Coast at present.

Dan Ratony Sails

New York.—Dan Ratony, recently with Radio, sailed Saturday aboard the Bremen for the return trip to London. He goes back to Alexander Korda, of London Films, but figures on coming to Hollywood again in two months.

Bushman Jr. Now Ralph

Discarding the Francis X. Jr. he has used professionally for several years, Ralph Bushman comes back to MGM on a term contract, which starts with his assignment to "All Good Americans."

'Slaughter' For Foy

Bryan Foy will make "Slaughter," an original story by William Jacobs, as his next feature.

Women Extras Kick At Chiseling Gag

Extras reported a new gag on the part of some of the studios last week to cut down on size of pay checks. The code calls for $15 a day for extra women who wear their own evening dress.

A couple of studios, according to complaints to the Junior Screen Actors Guild, are hiring women and giving them such awful dresses to wear that the women are bringing in their own clothes for the sake of their appearance on the screen. The studio executives tell them if they don't like the clothes given them to bring their own. Thus the studios save $7.50 a day.

Willis Kent Finishes Lane Chandler Film

Lew Collins wound up direction of "Guns for Hire," Lane Chandler starring, at International studio Saturday.

This is Willis Kent's third production on his current series. Another one is due to start in three weeks.

Binyon on 'Charm School'

Claude Binyon was assigned Saturday to write the screen play for "Charm School" at Paramount. William LeBaron is supervising.

OPEN FORUM

Hollywood Reporter:

Your estimable paper has me collaborating with Carey Wilson on a little epic called "Dolly."

There seems to be some confusion.

Maybe you mean I'm working with Carey Wolfson or P. J. Wilson; or maybe Carey Wilson is working with Briskin, Riskin, Ruskin or Ryskind.

ALLEN RIVKIN.

P.S.: P. J. Wolfson went home last night and Carmelita Geraghty threw him out. He was very hurt. So was Carmelita.

Hollywood Reporter:

In your review of "The Great Flirtation," I notice you credit the performance of Mikos in which you say: "Paul Porcasi as the faithful servant, Mikos, is good for a laugh anytime."

I would appreciate a note of correction in view of the fact that it was I who played and was paid for playing Mikos.

ADRIAN ROSLEY.

My excellent graduate Swiss nurse leaving June or July for Europe. Available to care for babies or children on trip.

MRS. BUCKLEY

CR 4092

NOTICE TO INDEPENDENT PRODUCERS:

Reliable renting contract man in London wishes to represent American companies interested in British release. Would take trip or discuss by mail. Care of London Office, Hollywood Reporter.

THE LOW DOWN

Probably the most original and colorful private party ever staged here was given Saturday night by the Stanley Bergermans and Junior Laemmle at the Laemmle estate for the Mervyn LeRoys. Harkrider, famous Ziegfeld artist, outdid himself with the decorations, which transformed the house and grounds into a copy of the Chicago World's Fair. Not a bet was missed from the Old Fashioned Picture Gallery to the Bar. The living room was turned into a Night Club—and there were "exhibits" and entertainment galore. Musicians, performers and some two hundred guests mingled for fun until exhaustion set in. The animal act "stole the show"—but there were costumes and cracks that were marvelous. Jack Oakie came made up as a gentleman; Pan Berman's evening was ruined because every time he looked at Jerry Horwin (who was in a French Legion outfit) it reminded him of "Beau Ideal," a seven hundred thousand dollar flop; Mervyn LeRoy was completely unrecognizable as a sheik; Karl Freund came as Little Lord Fauntleroy; Irene Dunne, Claudette Colbert, looking very beautiful, Nancy Carroll, Florine McKinney as Peter Pan, Jesse Lasky, Carl Brisson, Irma Warner, Lewis Milestone, Liz Dupont, John Stahl, the Al Rogells, the Wesley Ruggles, Heather Angel, Toby Wing, Mary Carlisle, the Harry Lachmans, Ad Schulberg, Binnie Barnes (first time out in Hollywood), Stuart Walker, the Harry Rapfs, the Abe Lehrs, and Anna Sten with Dr. Frencke (who wandered off), among the many guests. Gene Raymond arrived in Tuxedo and LeRoy took one look at him and said: "There's a guy made up as Gene Raymond and he looks swell!"

•

The lately-publicized romance between Buster Collier and the extra-pretty Marie Stevens of Noo York, is a purely manufactured amour — although now it looks as though something may come of it after all. Here's the lowdown on the "match." When young Bill Hearst arrived here a coupla months ago he told Buster to keep away from the Hollywood gals—and that he had "just the right girl for him in New York." He told him all about Marie (having told Marie about Buster) and the two started a big "correspondence." When Collier left for Yurrup last week with the Hearst party, he met the gal and it was love or something at first sight. They're still writing letters and cables, and, if Marie doesn't marry someone else in the meantime, she'll marry Buster when he gets back!

FOX'S 'BABY TAKE A BOW' CORKING GOOD PICTURE

Temple Child Again Steals The Honors

"BABY TAKE A BOW"

(Fox)

Direction .....Harry Lachman
Screen Play.....Philip Klein and E. E. Paramore
Photography.....L. W. O'Connell
Cast: Shirley Temple, James Dunn, Claire Trevor, Alan Dinehart, Ray Walker, Dorothy Libaire.

"Baby Take a Bow" will serve to make the public even more Shirley Temple-minded than it is now. The little girl romps happily and easily through an enormous part in this picture, lending an incredible amount of suspense to a yarn that had plenty to begin with.

The result is a piece of entertainment that makes you howl with very lusty glee all the while your hands are clammy with excitement. The combination is unbeatable.

James Dunn and Ray Walker, who have spent several years in Sing Sing because of very doubtful convictions, are hounded to distraction and from one job to another by one of the most disagreeable dicks ever seen on a screen, Alan Dinehart. Although both boys are going absolutely straight, they accidentally come into possession of a $50,000 pearl necklace stolen from their employer, and most of the picture concerns the earnest attempts of Dunn and Walker to hide the necklace from Dinehart until they can return it to its rightful owner, and the equally earnest attempts of little Shirley Temple to discover the whereabouts of the necklace and hide it all over again. She thinks everyone is playing hide and go seek with her.

The picture is a highly effective blending of drama and comedy. Directed by Harry Lachman, who can handle comedy as expertly as he can build up suspense, the film is completely successful as above-average entertainment. Philip Klein and E. E. Paramore wrote the screen play, and L. W. O'Connell's photography is unusually fine.

The Temple child is utterly engaging, only occasionally showing signs of acting. Dunn plays with her beautifully, and Walker does the best work of his career. Claire Trevor exhibits a fine sense of dramatic and human values and Dinehart is distressingly good as the horrid detective. Dorothy Libaire has very little to do, but does it well.

The picture has a certain gaiety about it, emphasized by good, solid comedy, that only serves to make the excitement more acute. It can be shown in any house, anywhere, with safety and profit.

Wald-Erickson Team

Jerry Wald and Carl Erickson have been assigned to do the screen play on "Apple Sauce," a play by Barry Connors, in which Dick Powell will be starred. Writers just completed screen play on "Say It With Music," an original by Wald.

Pete Smith Joins Trade and Mark

Pete Smith's face has been immortalized in lithography, and goes out in one-sheets to all exhibitors playing the MGM shorts that star Smith on the sound track. The posters are in response to a demand to see the face behind the wisecracks.

Para. Is Hopped Up Over 'Lancer' Again

Hollywood's prize off-again, on-again production, "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," is definitely set to go before the Paramount cameras early in July, with Sam Goldwyn having the power to upset this plan by declining to okay Gary Cooper's appearance in it. A deal is on with Goldwyn to give his approval, since he will not need Cooper until "Barbary Coast" is ready for work, following the completion of "Resurrection."

The "Lancer" picture was once budgeted at $1,350,000, but will now be made for $600,000. More than $400,000 in accumulated costs has been written off on Paramount's old books. Waldemar Young's script will be used, and Louis Lighton produces it after handling it for four and a half years.

Betty Mack Is Again Charley Chase Lead

Betty Mack will be Charley Chase's girl for the seventh consecutive comedy when Chase starts off his new Hal Roach season the latter part of the week. The story is by Chase, Carl Harbaugh and Walter Weems.

Others in the cast are Lew Kelly, Del Henderson, Harry Bowen and Arthur Housman.

Three For Col. Picture

Columbia Saturday assigned Charles Sabin and Arthur Hohl, and signed Vincent Sherman for "By Persons Unknown," which D. Ross Lederman puts into work today. Ralph Bellamy and Shirley Grey head the cast, which also includes J. Carrol Naish and Ward Bond.

Lupino For 'Happiness'

Paramount is testing Ida Lupino for a leading role in "Pursuit of Happiness." Mitchell Leisen is slated to direct the production when he returns this week from Honolulu. It will be the first on his next ticket.

Tandler on Score

Adolph Tandler is preparing the musical score for "Dusturan," seven-reel wild animal special made by Tom White in Ceylon. When the sound background is complete, White will start release negotiations.

Stuart Erwin Cast

Stuart Erwin takes a featured part opposite Jean Parker in "Have a Heart," the Dave Butler production under John Considine Jr.'s wing at MGM.

Sennett Lab Opens For Work This Week

The laboratory equipped by Mack Sennett at a cost of $85,000 and idle for the last two years, is reopened this week for commercial operation by Leonard Poole and Bill Faris. They will operate as United Film Laboratory.

Some financing of independent productions is contemplated, but not for 30 or 60 days yet. The plant has a daily capacity of 150,000 feet print and 50,000 feet negative, as it was constructed to handle release printing on a major scale. It will do black and white exclusively, the color machinery having been converted.

Operation is under the direction of Henry Fischer, who was Mack Sennett's lab superintendent for nineteen years.

Poole was the founder of the Associated, now the Western Film Labs. Faris is associated with the Far East Company, and previously with Walter Futter.

White-Fowser Start Jungle Picture Here

Tom White and Hugh Fowser start this week at the California Zoological Gardens on preliminary animal stunts for the picture they will complete next Fall with a wild animal expedition to Siam and Indo-China.

Fowser expects to leave in August to spot game and start captures.

Boles For 'Flirtation'

Glen Boles, whom Warners placed under a long-term contract Saturday, gets a featured role in "Flirtation Walk" as his first assignment under the deal. He left last night to overtake the Frank Borzage unit in the East.

U.A. Best Money-Maker

(Continued from Page 1)

exhibitors with the survey, setting forth that the big disappointment of the year among exhibitors was the Fox product. This was due to the great confidence exhibitors had in Sidney R. Kent as a "doer" and organizer, which caused them not only to book the Fox product, but to pay heavily for the play of the pictures, most of which resulted in heavy losses, due to the poor quality of the product as turned out under Sheehan's direction.

Regarding Warners, the report shows that their '33-34 showing would not have been so good had it not been for the fact that they yanked "Golddiggers of 1934" out of their '32-33 program and sold it for the past season. Even with that, their showing was poorer than the previous year. Comment was made on the "indecent" First National product and that "Harry Warner talks clean pictures but actually produces them unclean."

Radio Pictures was given the palm for making the best showing toward the production of quality pictures, with United Artists given the top spot as turning out the best money-makers.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

Evidently, once you get a good working combination together, no matter what happens, somehow or other that combination will find itself again. Take the case of Erich Pommer. He earned for himself and his crew a world-wide reputation for picture excellence. Several years ago Paramount brought Pommer over here, but never managed to let him really get started, and so Pommer went back to UFA. Then came the Hitler regime and the gradual breakup of UFA. Some of the gang went to Paris, some went to England, and one or two came over here. When they first got here, they were distributed all over the place, but now with Pommer back, gradually they are all joining the old fold again and the Fox lot is just the best part of UFA gone Hollywood.

•

Pommer's first picture under his new contract will be 'Music in the Air," and Joe May, who used to work with Pommer, then went to Paris, then London, then Columbia, is scheduled to direct. Pommer has also brought over with him the man who is to Europe what Jerome Kern is to the United States, Mr. Heyman, first known over here by the picture fans for his "Congress Dances" score. Still another musician well known in Eur- one came over, too, Franz Waxman. And while on the subject of Waxman, it might be just as well to deny here something that saw print elsewhere. Mr. Waxman is NOT here to improve on the Jerome Kern score for "Music in the Air." He is merely arranging the songs for picture purposes and directing the music, and if any additional music is needed, Mr. Kern will be the first to supply it.

•

Mr. Pommer also has with him the man who used to do the French versions of his pictures. And the man who used to make the English versions for him is now an associate producer at Paramount, Carl Winston. Thus once more proving that Hollywood is a small world, after all, that sooner or later manages to collect the best talents of other worlds. Sometimes by accident, sometimes deliberately and sometimes through catastrophe, but always, Hollywood collects.

Still another interesting note about "Music in the Air" is the fact that, at the present moment, it looks as though a fair unknown may be lifted to stardom in the leading feminine role. John Boles is penciled in for the hero, but if the right girl can be found (and why not?) and found right here in Hollywood, (and again, why not?) the Fox lot will find itself in possession of not only a good production unit, but one that can do the great service of building new stars for public consumption.

Wanda Tuchock to Para.

Wanda Tuchock joins the Paramount writing staff today to work on the script of "Shoe the Wild Mare," under the supervision of Benjamin Glazer. Edington-Vincent set the ticket.

'FURNISHED ROOMS' SORDID AND CHEAP; NO GOOD FOR PIX

Old-Style 'Meller' Blocks Good Cast

"FURNISHED ROOMS"

Presented by Edgar Allen at the Ritz Theatre; play by Ragnhilde Bruland; directed by Russell Morrison; staged by Edgar Allen; settings by A. M. Street. Cast: John F. Morrisey, Ronnie Madison, Billy M. Greene, Violet Barney, Huntly Weston, Spencer Bentley, Vicki Cummings, Valerie Raemier, Liana Grey, Jay Young, Clarence Rock, Frank Reyman and Jack Willis.

New York.—"Furnished Rooms," sad to relate at the tail end of the season, is a very sordid, dull, poorly written play that smacks of the old ten-twenty-thirty days.

Frank Foster, a widower of about fifty, runs a rooming house in a poorer section of New York. Foster is a lecherous old man who has an eye for a pretty face and figure. For fifteen years Mrs. Willis has been his housekeeper and secret mistress, but this does not prevent him from taking advantage of his female roomers who can't pay their rent, by seducing them.

The boarding house has the usual conglomeration of boarders: Rose, who works in the basement of a department store and still broods secretly over the fact that Foster had once seduced her; Marie, who is a professional Southerner and uses her accent on every man she sees; Billy, unsexed, and with a high-pitched voice, who is always on the verge of getting a job, and a few others.

Into this setting comes Ann Bailey, a beautiful young girl from New England, looking for a job. Foster immediately spots her as new and desirable prey. He is continually in her room, telling her how beautiful she is and assuring her that a girl as lovely as she is shouldn't worry about a job. What she needs is a man to give her everything she needs. But Ann, the orphan of a professor and a girl of honor, tells him in no uncertain terms that all she is interested in is a job. But jobs are hard to find and, when Ann can no longer pay her rent, Foster takes advantage of her by chasing her from one end of the room to another. Ann faints from fright and lack of food and Foster seduces her.

At first Ann thinks of moving immediately, or committing suicide, but it is Rose who convinces her to stay and fight it out. She does, with Rose's financial help, and very soon Ann finds a job. Just at this time Robert, Foster's young son, returns from college a full-fledged graduate Civil Engineer. Robert falls madly in love with Ann, and, when he receives an offer to do an engineering job in Russia, he begs her to marry him and go along. Ann fights off the temptation to marry this boy she loves and tells him she isn't good enough for him, she isn't worthy. She is about to tell him why, when they are confronted by a furious father who warns his son he must stay away from this girl. She is no good and will ruin his life. Robert tells his father Ann is the cleanest, sweetest thing he has ever known and he won't give her up. The fight between father and son is at high pitch when Rose settles the score for herself by shooting the treacherous old man and leaving the young lovers free to live their lives together.

Vicki Cummings looks pretty and does a capable job in a role that does everything to stifle any talent. The rest of the cast is adequate for the drab roles they must fill. The old man was properly hissed by the audience at the right moments. With the present reform wave hitting pictures, this vehicle would hardly be a good chance.

Up-to-the-Minute Casting News

Paul Harvey and Sam Hinds for "A Hat, a Coat, a Glove" at Radio.

Marjorie Gateson to "Sacred and Profane Love," MGM.

Helen Chan, Chinese actress, to "Student Tour," MGM.

Carol Tevis and Grady Sutton for "Two Girls in a Boat," Radio short.

Catherine Doucet and Paul Parry for "Servants' Entrance" at Fox.

Zeffie Tilbury for "Blondes and Redheads" short, Radio, by Hallam Cooley.

Ben Hendricks for "Blind Date," Columbia, by Hallam Cooley.

Guinn Williams for "Flirtation Walk," Warners, by Hallam Cooley.

Spanky McFarland to "Kentucky Kernels," Radio.

Harold Minjir, by Menifee I. Johnstone, to "Servants' Entrance," Fox.

Virginia Reid to a term contract at Radio.

Marjorie Boothe, Irma Richardson, Monte Collins and Bob McKenzie to the Ted Fio Rito short, Radio.

Huntley and Connolly In 'Servants' Entrance'

G. P. Huntley's first assignment on his new long-termer at Universal is a loan to Fox, where he goes into "Servants' Entrance." The Gaynor-Ayres picture starts today under Frank Lloyd's direction. Walter Connolly was borrowed from Columbia for the picture.

Maebelle Now Diana

Maebelle Lewis, signed from "The Shim Sham Revue," started her term contract at Paramount Saturday and the studio immediately changed her name to Diana Lewis. She has no assignment as yet.

Ray Harris to Radio

Ray Harris today rejoins the Radio writing staff. He will handle the screen play for "Let's Get Married," under the supervision of Glen Allvine.

Runyon Yarn For LeBaron

William LeBaron has taken over the supervision of the Damon Runyon story, "Lemon Drop Kid." Howard Green is writing the screen play.

Rowland Brown Set For Two in London

London.—On completion of his "Scarlet Pimpernel" picture for Alexander Korda, which will star Leslie Howard, Rowland Brown will move over to the Basil Dean Ealing studios to write the screen play of "Twelve Chairs," from the Russian play. The story depicts an exciting treasure hunt. Brown will also direct.

Lamont on First Feature Assignment at Mono.

Ten years ago Ben Verschleiser gave Charles Lamont his first chance at directing shorts, and Saturday he handed him his first feature directorial assignment at Monogram.

The picture is "Tomorrow's Youth," from a story by Harry Sauber, and it goes into work June 11.

Rogers Has 3 Roles On 3 Lots in One Week

Desmond Rogers went into his third picture on as many lots in one week when he was made up for the part of General Blackes in Reliance's "Count of Monte Cristo" at Pathe Saturday.

Leon Lance, of Max Shagrin's office spotted him. Previously Rogers was in "The Grand Canary" at Fox and "Jane Eyre" at Metropolitan.

Para. Unshelves One

Paramount has again taken "Lovers in Quarantine" off the shelf and has handed it to Virginia Van Upp for a new treatment. E. Lloyd Sheldon will supervise.

Radio Wants Ruggles

Radio is working on a deal with Paramount for the loan of Charlie Ruggles for a top spot in "By Your Leave."

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

AND IT IS EASY for those who know what it is all about and who are not bound by studio policies and political situations that make the task almost impossible.

•

Zanuck's success will be greater next year for the reason that Joe Schenck and himself now have a well defined production policy. They KNOW what they are going to do. Last year their ideas were changed almost daily for the first few months, resulting in two or three pictures that did not measure up to the Zanuck standard. But even with that, Twentieth Century will make more money this year than any company in the business for the amount invested and, after all, that's the purpose of this or any other business.

So we salute "the Million Dollar Producer" and congratulate all those who combined their efforts to keep him in that spot during the past year.

Code Power Hearing Put Over To Friday

Buffalo.—The first court test of the power of the Code Authority to prevent an exhibitor from getting pictures for his house comes Friday when a hearing will be held in the case of Edwin Wick, Buffalo exhibitor.

The local Grievance Board, finding Wick guilty of violating the code, ordered distributors not to let him have any pictures. He appealed to the courts and got a temporary injunction, restraining the distributors from cutting off the service. He is getting pictures up to the time of the hearing, at least.

Baby Deer Grow Up Too Fast For Producers

Carey Wilson is working on the "Sequoia" story, MGM's wild animal romance being due for another production instalment when the new crop of baby deer arrives.

The picture is periodically in casting difficulty, the young animals growing up faster than the production schedule allows. Story is from Vance Hoyt's "Malibu."

Grid Star For Para.

New York.—Paramount has taken an option on Nick Lukats, the football star, for a long-term contract, and will test him before closing the deal. The William Morris office is handling him.

Three For Sparks

Fox is stretching Ned Sparks' two-picture ticket into a tripleheader, signing the player Saturday through the Beyer-MacArthur office for a featured role in "Lottery Lover." Al Rockett is producing.

22 Features Listed

(Continued from Page 1)

phonies," all in Technicolor. The features are:

From Twentieth Century: "The Red Cat," in association with A. H. Woods, starring Fredric March and Constance Bennett; "The Affairs of Cellini," "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," "The Last Gentleman," "Cardinal Richelieu," starring George Arliss; "The Mighty Barnum," starring Wallace Beery and Fredric March; "Clive of India," with Ronald Colman; "It Had To Happen," with Clark Gable and Constance Bennett; "Forward March" and "Call of the Wild."

From Samuel Goldwyn: "We Live Again," starring Anna Sten and Fredric March, with Rouben Mamoulian directing; "Treasure Hunt," with Eddie Cantor; "Barbary Coast," starring Anna Sten and Gary Cooper.

From Reliance: "The Count of Monte Cristo"; "Trans-Atlantic Showboat," with Jack Benny, directed by Ben Stoloff, and "Catalina."

From London Films: "The Return of Don Juan," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Sr.; "One Hundred Years To Come," the H. G. Wells story directed by Lewis Milestone, and "The Scarlet Pimpernel,' with Leslie Howard, directed by Alexander Korda.

From Viking Productions: "Our Daily Bread," directed by King Vidor.

My Sincere Appreciation
and Thanks to

HARRY COHN

GRACE MOORE

and to

The entire Cast and Staff of

COLUMBIA'S

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

VICTOR
SCHERTZINGER

DIRECTOR

EVERETT
RISKIN

Associate Producer

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

was adapted from the stage play by

Charles Beahan and Dorothy Speare

S. K. LAUREN

SCREEN PLAY

in collaboration

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

"It is told very delightfully and humanly by both writers and director." . . . Hollywood Reporter, May 28, 1934.

LUIS ALBERNI

wishes to express his thanks to
VICTOR SCHERTZINGER
A Fine Artist
and
A Great Director for a
Most Happy Engagement
in

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

JOHN HOFFMAN

Transitional Effect Sequences:

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

Also:
"SECRETS"
(With Mary Pickford)

"BOMBSHELL"
M-G-M

"LET'S FALL IN LOVE"
Columbia

JOSEPH WALKER

PHOTOGRAPHED

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

STARRING GRACE MOORE

A COLUMBIA PICTURE

So beautifully photographed that you don't mind the fact, through fifty per cent of the picture, the gal's mouth is wide open, trilling out thrilling notes.

—Hollywood Reporter,
May 28, 1934.

ASSOCIATION OF MOTION PICTURE PRODUCERS, INC.

5504 Hollywood Boulevard
HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA
GLadstone 6111

LOUIS B. MAYER, PRESIDENT
J. L. WARNER, 1ST VICE-PRESIDENT
WINFIELD R. SHEEHAN, 2ND VICE-PRESIDENT
FRED W. BEETSON, EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT

JAMES WINGATE, DIRECTOR
STUDIO RELATIONS

May 28, 1934

Mr. Charles R. Rogers,
Paramount Productions, Inc.,
5451 Marathon Street,
Hollywood, Calif.

Dear Mr. Rogers:

I cannot resist the temptation to tell you how very much we enjoyed your production "THE GREAT FLIRTATION," which we had the pleasure of previewing on Saturday afternoon. It is a swell piece of entertainment, and we liked it immensely.

The manner in which you handled the dangerous spots in this story is most commendable and, at the same time, highly diverting.

Who said one had to be dirty to be funny? - your production is a first-rate example of what can be done by intelligent production.

Cordially yours,

Joseph I. Breen

PICTURES NOW SHOOTING

PRODUCTION SLUMPS WITH 31 IN WORK

BAROMETER

This Week	31 Features
Last Week	35 Features
Year Ago	30 Features
Two Years Ago	28 Features
Three Years Ago	34 Features

Columbia

"BLIND DATE"

Cast Ann Sothern, Paul Kelly, Mickey Rooney, Spencer Charters, Jane Darwell, Joan Gale, Geneva Mitchell, Neil Hamilton, Theodore Newton, Tyler Brooke.
Director.....Roy William Neill
Original Screen Play.....Ethel Hill
Photography .....Al Siegler
Associate Producer .....Robert North

"BY PERSONS UNKNOWN"

Cast: Ralph Bellamy, Shirley Grey, Charles Sabin, Arthur Hohl, J. Carroll Naish, Ward Bond, Vincent Sherman.
Director .....D. Ross Lederman
Original Screen Play....Harold Shumate
Photography .....Benjamin Kline
Sound .....George Cooper
Associate Producer.....Irving Briskin

Fox

"CARAVAN"

Cast: Charles Boyer, Loretta Young, Jean Parker, Phillips Holmes, Louise Fazenda, Eugene Pallette, C. Aubrey Smith, Dudley Digges, Richard Carle, Charles Grapewin, Billy Bevan, Armand Kaliz, Harry Bradley.
Director .....Erik Charell
Original Story.....Melchoir Lengyel
Screen Play and Dialogue—
Samson Raphaelson
Continuity.....Robert Liebmann
Music.....Werner Richard Heymann
Lyrics .....Gus Kahn
Photography.....Ernest G. Palmer
Sound .....A. L. Von Kirbach
Producer .....Robert Kane

"SHE WAS A LADY"

Cast: Helen Twelvetrees, Donald Woods, Ralph Morgan, Paul Harvey, Jackie Searl, Carol Kay, Doris Lloyd, Ann Howard.
Director .....Hamilton MacFadden
Novel .....Elisabeth Cobb
Screen Play.....Gertrude Purcell
Photography .....Bert Glennon
Sound .....Don Flick
Producer .....Al Rockett

"SERVANTS' EXTRANCE"

Cast: Janet Gaynor, Lew Ayres, Walter Connolly, Louise Dresser, G. P. Huntley Jr., Sigfried Rumann.
Director .....Frank Lloyd
Original .....Sigrid Boo
Screen Play.....Samson Raphaelson
Photography .....Hal Mohr
Producer .....Winfield Sheehan

MGM

"BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET"

Cast: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Sullivan, Ferdinand Munier, Katharine Alexander, Marion Clayton, Ian Woolf, Una O'Connor, Vernon Downing, Neville Clark, Matthew Smith, Robert Carlton, Allan Conrad, Peter Hobbes, Ralph Forbes, Lowden Adams, Leo G. Carroll.
Director .....Sidney Franklin
From play by.....Rudolf Besier
Screen Play.....Claudine West
and Ernest Vajda
Add. Dialogue..Donald Ogden Stewart
Photography .....William Daniels
Producer .....Irving Thalberg

"TREASURE ISLAND"

Cast: Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper, Lionel Barrymore, Otto Kruger, Lewis Stone, Cora Sue Collins, Dorothy Peterson, William V. Mong, Douglas Dumbrille, Nigel Bruce, Chic Sale, Charles McNaughton, Edmund Breese, Olin Howland, Edward Pawley, Charles Irwin, Richard Powell, James Burke, John Anderson.
Director .....Victor Fleming
Novel.....Robert Louis Stevenson
Screen Play.....John Lee Mahin
Photography .....Hal Rosson
Producer .....Hunt Stromberg

"BORN TO BE KISSED"

Cast: Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, Patsy Kelly, Lewis Stone, Franchot Tone, Hale Hamilton, Clara Blandick, Alan Mowbray, Henry Kolker, Russell Hopton, Gary Owen, Ben Bard.
Director .....Jack Conway
Original Screen Play.....Anita Loos
and John Emerson
Photography .....Ray June
Dance Numbers .....Arthur Appel
Producer .....Bernard Hyman

"THE MERRY WIDOW"

Cast: Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Minna Gombell, Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, Barbara Leonard, Sterling Holloway, George Barbier, Joan Gale, Sheila Manora, Leona Walters, Edna Walde, Barbara Barondess, Shirley Ross, Dorothy Granger, Jean Hart, Elinor Hunt, Dorothy Wilson, Jill Dennett, Maria Troubetylcoy, Tyler Brooke, Cosmo Kyrle Bellew, George Lewis, John Merkyl, Charles Requa, Fifi D'Orsay, Dewey Robinson.
Director .....Ernst Lubitsch
Original Operetta.....Franz Lehar
Screen Play.....Ernest Vajda
and Samson Raphaelson
Dance Director .....Albertina Rasch
Photography .....Oliver Marsh
Producer .....Irving Thalberg

"THE GREEN HAT"

Cast: Constance Bennett, Herbert Marshall, Henry Stephenson, Mrs. Pat Campbell, Leo Carroll, Hugh Williams, Alec B. Francis, Elizabeth Allan, Robert Lorraine.
Director .....Robert Z. Leonard
Novel .....Michael Arlen
Photography .....Charles Rosher
Producer .....Irving Thalberg

"CLEAR THE TRACK"

Cast: Charlie Ruggles, Una Merkel, Mary Carlisle, Russell Hardie, Porter Hall, Cliff Thompson, Willard Robertson, Sterling Holloway, "Snowflake," Berton Churchill, Wilfred Lukas, Akim Tamiroff, John David Horsley.
Director .....Harry Beaumont
Play .....Edward E. Rose
Adaptation .....Harvey Thew
Screen Play: Ralph Spence, Edgar Allan Woolf and Al Boasberg.
Photography .....James Van Trees
Producer .....Lucien Hubbard

"STAMBOUL QUEST"

Cast: Myrna Loy, George Brent, Lionel Atwill, C Henry Gordon, Douglas Dumbrille, Christian Rub, Rudolph Amendt, Robert Gleckler, Reginald Barlow, Leo Carroll, Judith Vosselli.
Director .....Sam Wood
Original ..... Leo Birinski
Photography .....James Wong Howe
Producer .....Bernard Hyman

"SACRED AND PROFANE LOVE"

Cast: Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Otto Kruger, Stuart Erwin, Una O'Connor, Marjorie Gateson.
Director .....Clarence Brown
Original .....Edgar Selwyn
Screen Play.....John Lee Mahin
Photography .....George Folsey
Producer .....Hunt Stromberg

"THE STUDENT TOUR"

Chast: Charles Butterworth, Jimmy Durante, Phil Regan, Maxine Doyle, Florinne McKinney, Monte Blue, Dewey Robinson.
Director .....Charles F. Reisner
Original Screen Play: Arthur Bloch and George Seaton.
Photography .....Joseph Valentine
Producer .....Monta Bell

"ALL GOOD AMERICANS"

Cast: Robert Young, Una Merkel, Madge Evans, Otto Kruger, Ralph Bushman.
Director .....Edwin Marin
Original Play..S. J. and Laura Perelman
Screen Play.....Wells Root
Photography .....Milton Krasner
Producer .....Lucien Hubbard

Paramount

"THE NOTORIOUS SOPHIE LANG"

Cast: Gertrude Michael, Paul Cavanagh, Arthur Byron, Alison Skipworth, Ben Taggart, Leon Errol, Norman Ainsley, Arthur Hoyt, Edward McWade, Del Henderson.
Director .....Ralph Murphy
Original....Frederick Irving Anderson
Screen Play.....Anthony Veiller
and Frederick Irving Anderson
Photography.....Al Gilks
Sound .....Henry Lindgren
Producer .....Bayard Veiller

"NOW AND FOREVER"

Cast: Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard, Shirley Temple, Sir Guy Standing, Charlotte Granville, Tetsu Komai, Jameson Thomas, Gilbert Emery, Henry Kolker, Harry Stubbs, Egon Brecher.
Director .....Henry Hathaway
Original: Jack Kirkland and Melville Baker.
Adaptation .....Austin Parker
Screen Play: Vincent Lawrence and Sylvia Thalberg.
Photography .....Harry Fischbeck
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

PICTURES Now SHOOTING

THIS WEEK AS COMPARED WITH 35 LAST WEEK

"LADIES SHOULD LISTEN"

Cast: Cary Grant, Frances Drake, Edward Everett Horton, Charles E. Arnt, Nydia Westman, George Barbier, Rafael Corio, Rosita Moreno, Charlie Ray.
Director .....Frank Tuttle
Original: Alfred Savoir and Guy Bolton
Adaptation .....Guy Bolton
Screen Play: Frank Butler and Claude Binyon.
Photography .....Henry Sharp
Producer .....Douglas MacLean

"LADIES FIRST"

Cast: George Bancroft, Frances Fuller, Roscoe Karns, George Barbier, Nella Walker, Charles Sellon, Helena Phillips Evans, Ruth Clifford, Albert Conti, Vera Stedman, Helene Lynch, Marie Wells, Eddie Baker, Duke York, William Robins, Alf P. James.
Director .....Gilbert Pratt
Original: George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly.
Screen Play.....Humphrey Pearson
Photography .....William Mellor
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

"YOU BELONG TO ME"

Cast: Lee Tracy, Helen Mack, Arthur Pierson, David Jack Holt.
Driector .....Alfred Werker
Original .....Elizabeth Alexander
Adaptation: Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt.
Screen Play: Lynn Starling and Harry Ruskin.
Photography .....Leo Tover
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

RKO-Radio

"HAT, COAT AND GLOVE"

Cast: Ricardo Cortez, Barbara Robbins, John Beal, Sara Hayden, Samuel Hinds, Murray Kinnell, Margaret Hamilton, Dorothy Burgess.
Director .....Worthington Minor
Play .....Wilhelm Speyer
Screen Play.....Francis Faragoh
Photography .....Roy Hunt
Sound .....George Ellis
Producer .....Kenneth Macgowan

United Artists

Reliance Pictures, Inc.

(RKO-Pathe)

"COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO"

Cast: Robert Donat, Elissa Landi, Louis Calhern, Sidney Blackmer, O. P. Heggie, Raymond Walburn, Lawrence Grant, Luis Alberni, Georgia Caine, Irene Hervey, Douglas Walton, Ferdinand Munier, Lionel Belmore, William Farnum, Wilfred Lucas, Clarence Wilson, Tom Rickerrs, Clarence Muse, Helen Freeman, Holmes Herbert, Eleanor Phelps, Alphonse Martell, Russell Powell.
Director.....Rowland V. Lee
Original .....Alexandre Dumas
Adaptation .....Harvey Thew and Harry Hervey
Screen Play and Dialogue .....Philip Dunne and Dan Totheroh
Photography .....Peverell Marley
Producer .....Edward Small

Universal

"ONE MORE RIVER"

Cast: Diana Wynyard, Frank Lawton, Colin Clive, Henry Stephenson, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Jane Wyatt, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny, Kathleen Howard, Lionel Atwill, Alan Mowbray, Gilbert Emery, E. E. Clive, Robert Greig, Gunnis Davis, Tempe Pigott.
Director .....James Whale
Story .....John Galsworthy
Screen Play.....R. C. Sherriff
Photography .....John Mescal

"THERE'S ALWAYS TOMORROW"

Cast: Frank Morgan, Binnie Barnes, Lois Wilson, Louise Latimer, Elizabeth Young, Robert Taylor, Helen Parrish, Dick Winslow, Alan Hale, Maurice Murphy, Margaret Hamilton, Anne Darling, Dean Benton, Guy Brooks.
Director .....Edward Sloman
Original Screen Play....Edward Sloman
Continuity.....Christine Ames and William Hurlbut
Photography .....Norbert Brodine
Producer .....Henry Henigson

"THE RED RIDER"

(Serial)

Cast: Buck Jones, Grant Withers, Janet Chandler, Walter Miller, Richard Cramer, Margaret La Marr, Charles French, Edmund Cobb, J. P McGowan, William Desmond, Mert LaVare, Frank Rice, Monte Montague, Jim Thorpe, Jim Corey, Bud Osborne, Al Ferguson, Silver, Lee Beggs, Dennie Meadows, Cliff Lyons.
Director .....Louis Friedlander
Original .....W. C. Tuttle
Screen Play: George Plympton, Bin Moore, Ella O'Neill, Basil Dickey.
Photography .....Richard Fryer
Sound .....Charles Carroll
Associate Producer.....Henry MacRae

Warners-First National

"DAMES"

Cast: Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Virginia Pine, Ronny Cosby, Zasu Pitts, Bess Flowers, Pat O'Malley, Mary McLaren, Johnny Arthur, Arthur Vinton, Hobart Cavanaugh, Arthur Aylesworth, Leila Bennett, Phil Regan.
Directors.....Ray Enright and Busby Berkeley
Original .....Robert Lord
Screen Play.....Delmer Daves
Music and Lyrics: Harry Warren, Al Dubin, Sammy Fain, Irving Kahal, Mort Dixon, Allie Rubel.
Photography .....George Barnes
Supervisor .....Robert Lord

"BRITISH AGENT"

Cast: Leslie Howard, Kay Francis, Phillip Reed, Tenen Holtz, J. Carrol Naish, Gregory Gaye, Halliwell Hobbes, Doris Lloyd, Alphonse Ethier, Irving Pichel, Walter Byron, William Gargan, Ivan Simpson, Paul Porcasi, George Pearce, Walter Armitage, Cesar Romero, Arthur Aylesworth, Mariana Schubert, Addison Richards.
Director .....Michael Curtiz
Novel.....H. Bruce Lockhart
Screen Play.....Laird Doyle
Dialogue.....Roland Pertwee
Photography .....Ernest Haller
Supervisor.....Henry Blanke

"THE DRAGON MURDER CASE"

Cast: Warren William, Margaret Lindsay, Lyle Talbot, Robert Barrat, Arthur Aylesworth, Robert McWade, Eugene Pallette, George Meeker, Etienne Girardot, Dorothy Tree, George S. Stone, Helen Lowell, William Davidson, Robert Warwick, Charles Wilson.
Director .....H Bruce Humberstone
Story.....S. S. Van Dine
Screen Play.....F. Hugh Herbert and Robert N. Lee
Adaptation .....Rian James
Photography .....Tony Gaudio
Supervisor.....Henry Blanke

"KANSAS CITY PRINCESS"

Cast: Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell, Hugh Herbert, Robert Armstrong, Gordon Westcott, T. Roy Barnes, Osgood Perkins, Ivan Lebedeff, Vince Barnett, Hobart Cavanaugh.
Director .....William Keighley
Original Screen Play.....Manuel Seff and Sy Bartlett
Photography .....George Barnes
Supervisor.....Lou Edelman

Independent Productions

Majestic

(Darmour Studio)

"THE SCARLET LETTER"

Cast: Colleen Moore, Hardie Albright, Henry B. Walthall, William Farnum, Alan Hale, William Kent, Betty Blythe, Cora Sue Collins, Virginia Howell, Jules Cowles, Alma Chester, Flora Finch.
Director .....Robert Vignola
Novel .....Nathaniel Hawthorne
Screen Play: Leonard Fields and David Silverstein.
Photography.....James S. Brown Jr.
Producer .....Larry Darmour

Mascot

(Mack Sennett Studio)

"BURN 'EM UP BARNES"

(Serial)

Cast: Jack Mulhall, Frankie Darro, Lola Lane, Julian Rivero, Edwin Maxwell, James Bush, Jason Robards, Francis McDonald, John Davidson, Eddie Hearn, Stanley Blystone, Alan Bridge.
Directors: Bert Clark and Armand Schaeffer.
Original Screen Play: Al Martin, Sherman Lowe and Wyndham Gittens.
Photography ..... Ernie Miller
Supervisor .....Victor Zobel

WHAT'S WHAT

BRULATOUR BULLETIN

WHO'S WHO

Published Every Monday — J. E. BRULATOUR, Inc., Distributors — Eastman Motion Picture Films

the REFLECTOR

Early last week in New York the championship of Jimmy McLarnin was attached by Barney Ross and the result was much gasping in Hollywood. . . . Now another championship of local note gets a kick in the pants with Len (Big Moose) Smith sneaking up on Clyde De Vinna (both boys members of the MGM Club) and threatening to knock Clyde's mileage crown into a film can. . . . Smith returned to Culver City from Dunsmuir last Saturday morning after completing his location work on "Rear Car" unit. . . . A rush to the transportation department and last night Len was off for New York where he'll photograph the background plates for for Clarence Brown's MGM picture, "Sacred and Profane Love." . . . During the past twelve months Len has spent long weeks on location in the northernmost points of Alaska . . then jumped to Florida . . . back to his home lot . . . to Kansas and Iowa . . . to Chicago . . . then south and finally home again to be gone again justlikethat!

•

Business (OUR business) is great, thank you . . . but transportation business can also take a bow . . . most of the trade news these lazy days states that so-and-so is off to such-and-such a place . . . which reminds us that on the travel list of the past week-end was Harry Ensign who's off for a look-see at Chicago, Boston, New York and a coupla days going through Kodak Park at Rochester . . . after which he'll start west-by-north and cut through the Canadian Rockies on his way home where he's scheduled to arrive 'long about firecracker time.

•

Jimmy Van Trees is off for the High Sierras to coax a few trout into the family pan before starting his new deal at Arkayo, which brings him into the Gower Street plant for another stanza with Irene Dunne. . . . Out at MGM (where they're not exactly easy to please) . . . Joe Valentine is holding his new spot on the camera staff without a challenge and his smile is winning many new friends on the lot. . . Jack Mackenzie finished "Shock" for Monogram and at this minute is doing his shooting with favorite mashie at Riviera. . . . Ken Peach is whooping along at his work with Irvin Cobb who, if he can act as good as he writes, is sure to lay the customters flat in the aisles. . . . Bert Glennon is back from location and turning 'em at Movietone City and in the meantime Columbia and Arkayo and two or three other major lots are doing a swell imitation of Sunday afternoon on Main Street . . . they're that quiet . . . But that lull before . . . you know . . . stand by.

Teague in Europe

We are in receipt of a letter from George Teague, for many years with Fox Studios in Hollywood, and more recently identified with General Service Studios here, where he installed projection background equipment.

Called to London a few weeks ago, Teague is there installing complete projection equipment for Doug Fairbanks. His address in London is:

Harewood Court, Hanover Square,
Mayfair, London W. 1.

Clarke Gives Lowdown On China

Writing from Nanking, China, where he is in charge of the MGM photographic unit on backgrounds for special scenes on "Good Earth," Charles Z. Clarke writes a long and interesting letter. Here are a few excerpts of general interest to cinematographers:

"We have now been filming for the past month, and what experiences we have had! The Chinese are either very curious and climb into a camera, or else they are extremely superstitious and run to cover when a camera is turned on them.

"Then there's another group, who are very super-sensitive about having the general every day sort of people and their methods of living photographed. They seem to want things shown only in their 'Sunday best'; so it of course has been a problem to obtain scenes always with natural backgrounds.

"The light, I find here, is quite brilliant; this country being about the general latitude of the northern part of Mexico, the same light conditions prevail. Cloudy, lazy days are very frequent, and it always seems that our biggest scenes are scheduled for these days. However, when a good day does come, we lose no time in recording all the scenes we need."

Clarke continues to discuss general living conditions, and incidentally speaks highly of Robert O'Bolger, general manager of Eastman Kodak Company, whose headquarters are 24 Yuen Ming Yuen Road, Shanghai.

Mr. Clarke further says: "Mr. O'Bolger has been unusually kind, not only to us but to all cameramen who come into this port, which have been many during the past several years. . . . . "

Youngsters Together

Digging into the juvenile files of cameramen and directors, we pull out the names of Milton Krasner and Eddie Marin and tie them up for a joint engagement at the MGM studios for "All Good Americans."

Eddie Marin is a slick youngster pulled out of the silk hat by Sam Bischoff last year, and since that time Marin has directed several hits.

Krasner is chief of camera staff for Charles Rogers Productions (Paramount), and this is his first important assignment away from his home lot.

Rosson Location

Hal Rosson has finished production on the MGM picture, "Treasure Island" with Victor Fleming, and drew immediate assignment to "The Hide-Out" directed by Van Dyke.

Company goes to Santa Cruz, California—(not the islands)—for two weeks of strenuous location work.

Dunn Returns

Lynn Dunn of the Arkayo trick photographic department has returned from his honeymoon trip to San Francisco.

Story is buzzing around the Radio plant that Lynn actually carried a 16 mm cine-Kodak and a Graflex when he middle-aisled it with Eleanor Roach, formerly of the Max Factor organization.

Auld Lang Syne

Long before sound interrupted the peaceful procedure of pictures, Henry Sharp photographed some of Charlie Ray's biggest successes.

They are teamed up again at Paramount, with Douglas MacLean, another grand old timer of the silent days, for the production, "Ladies Should Listen."

Hickox With Stanwyck

Late in the week Sid Hickox started testing for the Barbara Stanwyck picture, "The Lost Lady," which Al Green will direct for Warner Bros.

Edouart Vacation

Putting the finishing touches to the most strenuous season in his strenuous career, Farciot Edouart of the trick and effects department at Paramount takes off on a vacation, destination of which he positively refuses to reveal to anyone.

Todd Starting

Arthur Todd of Warner Bros.-First National is under way on initial shots for the Alan Crosland production, "The Case of the Howling Dog," with Warren William and Mary Astor in the top spots.

Polito and Aid East

Sol Polito, chief cameraman, and Hans Koenekamp, one of the top boys of Fred Jackman's department, are en route to West Point with Director Frank Borzage, where they will shoot special material and atmosphere background shots for the Warner Bros. production, "Flirtation Walk," to be directed by Borzage.

Columbia Location Trip

Roy Davidson and Andre Barlatier getting a swell break with a nice location assignment, which takes them by boat to Mazatlan, where they will shoot atmospheric background material intended for use in the forthcoming Columbia-Milestone production, "The Captain Hates the Sea." Enzo Martinelli, assistant cameraman, accompanies them.

More Heavy Mail

Another communication from a Hollywood cameraman in foreign lands reaches us from Ray Fernstrom, and is written from Zurich, Switzerland, under date of May eighteenth.

Fernstrom is shooting the Fitzpatrick travel talks in the new three-color Technicolor process for M. G. M. release.

His assignments include Holland, Switzerland, England and Ireland on the present tour.

the BUZZER

(NOTE: Each week, sales and service representatives of J. E. Brulatour, Inc. will ask a number of cameramen the same question. The question will be given and then the answers verbatim.)

QUESTION: WHAT DO YOU CONSIDER SHOULD BE THE NEXT IMPORTANT STEP FORWARD IN PHOTOGRAPHIC EQUIPMENT?

HAL MOHR (Fox): The most important step forward at this time is unquestionably a completely silent camera, which will do away with the cumbersome equipment now in use.

JOHN ARNOLD (MGM): A compiete revamping of the older types of incandescent lighting equipment, and new ideas in lamp construction seem to me to be very necessary. Due to the sudden and necessarily total change from arc to incandescent some years ago, many of our light units, like Topsy, just grew. The knowledge gained during the past seven years should now be embodied in perfected and entirely new lighting units.

KEN PEACH (Roach): To me a very progressive step forward would be an optical system with greater depth of focus than we now have at wide apertures. This would aid immeasurably in making the complicated traveling and dolly shots, which now call for many and fast focus changes.

JOHN STUMAR (Columbia): A silent camera . . . . Oh! How we need it.

VIRGIL MILLER (Paramount): A silent camera that sacrifices none of the best attributes of the current standard equipment is the most desired advancement. This silent camera must either be blimpless or weigh a maximum of approximately 100 lbs. A second improvement that is not far distant is a Zoom lens that will substitute for the several lenses now necessary. This means present F2 or F2.5 speeds plus perfect focus at all points. A perfected Zoom lens would largely eliminate the unwieldy pernambulator and similar devices for moving the camera all over the set.

NICK MUSURACA (RKO): Some device should be developed to help the cameraman, who is continually fighting mike shadows, and who many times must sacrifice pictorial quality because of placement of the mike boom and microphone.

GEORGE SEID (Columbia): A new type of lamp that would produce the minimum amount of leak light and still have sufficient intensity would materially aid in reproducing the photographic values of all sets.

Andriot Resumes

Lucien Andriot swings into another production at RKO Studios, where during the past year he has accounted for some of the most important pictures on the Radio program.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER STUDIOS,
% MR. SAMUEL MAR...
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 23. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Tuesday, June 5, 1934

PAR. TRUSTEES KEEP JOB

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•HOLLYWOOD is turning out some excellent pictures at the tag end of this season—a time which, under ordinary conditions, would see the production of a lot of inferior product. There are many reasons for this, the main one being the fact that studio heads, in their desperation to finish their programs, are making it much easier for their producers and permitting them to place stories in production that they would have (and did) frowned on earlier in the season.

Take the case of Charlie Rogers with his "Great Flirtation," originally titled "I Loved an Actress," an idea developed by Gregory Ratoff from incidents in his life. The story was turned down by almost every studio in the business. Finally Radio bought it and later decided it was not worthy of production. Rogers put in a bid for it after Paramount had turned it down on two occasions, and Radio let him have it. The rest is history.

•

We have never seen or heard a preview audience go into such ecstacies as was the case with "The Great Flirtation." It is bound to click and Rogers should be given the full credit, as he was the only man in Hollywood (aside from the author) who saw any possibilities in the yarn.

And while on the subject of Rogers, we are reminded that he pulled two other yarns out of the fire in past years, each of which coined a big bundle of dough. One was "Millie," which was a sensation. BUT, before it hit the screen, Rogers was laughed at for attempting the production. The same went for "70,000 Witnesses." Every studio in town had an opportunity to grab it, and all of them turned it down.

•

Rogers, because of his work as an exhibitor, salesman, sales manager, etc., packs a lot of showmanship that many producers here lack. Charlie has the knack of seeing more in a story than a lot of others, but he has been handicapped by individuals and organizations who did not share his views. Probably this new deal he is cooking up will permit him a greater use of his showmanship.

NRA Exec Coming to Straighten Out Code

Washington.—Donald Renshaw, liaison officer between the Department of Commerce and the NRA, is on his way to Hollywood to see what is the trouble with the working of the motion picture code and to try to straighten things out. He is due there Thursday.

Baring Bros. Kick About 'Rothschild'

London.—Baring Brothers, international bankers, have complained to the British Board of Censors about alleged historical inaccuracies in "The House of Rothschild." Members of the Baring family are offended by the way their ancestors and their company have been portrayed on the screen.

The Barings claim that, at the time of the Napoleonic wars, Barings was a greater firm than the Rothschilds, although the film indicates that the opposite is true. They also claim that the great French Reparation loan was floated by the Barings and Amsterdam bankers, and that the Rothschilds were not in the deal.

Nat Finston Signs New Contract at Paramount

Nat Finston's trouble at Paramount was settled yesterday with the signing of a new contract for one year, through the Schulberg, Feldman and Gurney office.

Finston's ticket gives him full charge of the Paramount music department, questions of authority having repeatedly prompted him to tender his resignation.

Attempts Of Bondholders To Force Removal Finally Upset By U.S. Supreme Court

New York.—The battle of a group of Paramount-Publix bondholders to force the removal of the Paramount trustees in bankruptcy was finally lost yesterday when the U. S. Supreme Court refused consideration of their case.

The three trustees, Charles D. Hilles, Eugene W. Leake and Charles E. Richardson, were appointed by Federal Judge William Bondy. The contention of the unsecured bondholders was that the trustees were not properly qualified and that their choice was null and void.

Hilles was opposed on the ground that he was a director in the Bankers Trust Company, which is involved in

(Continued on Page 2)

Francis Lederer to Para. For 'Happiness'

Paramount and Radio concluded a deal yesterday which takes Francis Lederer to the former studio for the lead in "Pursuit of Happiness," which Arthur Hornblow will produce with Ralph Murphy directing.

No announcement was made as to the other part of the deal which would give Radio the rights to Barrie's "Little Minister" for Katharine Hepburn.

Selznick Back June 18

David O. Selznick is expected to arrive at MGM June 18, bringing Fritz Lang and Hugh Walpole here from Europe.

State Welfare Com. Hops On Warners

Busby Berkeley and Tenney Wright, a Warner Brothers' production executive, will be on the carpet this morning before the California State Welfare Commission as a result of charges that they have been working dancing girls longer than the law permits.

A lot of complaints had been made by the girls who said they had been worked more than 17 hours a day. Last Tuesday morning a representative of the Welfare Commission called Wright on the telephone and told him this would have to stop. Wright is understood to have said he would stop it at once, but 100 girls the next day charged that on Tuesday, instead of stopping the overwork, the hours had been jumped from 17 to 23. A summons was then sent Berkeley and Wright.

Frank Mastroly Gets New Contract at 'U'

Carl Laemmle Jr. yesterday tore up Frank Mastroly's contract, which still had a year and a half to go, and handed him a new two-year ticket at an increase in salary.

He was assistant to Carl Laemmle Sr. for a number of years before being made executive studio manager about six months ago.

'Mank' Signed Up Again

MGM yesterday handed Herman Mankiewicz a new one-year writing ticket, outbidding the Radio offer of a writing and producing contract. He has just completed his work on the screen play of "Stamboul Quest."

Lichtman Flying Out

Chicago.—Al Lichtman, general sales manager for United Artists, who is winding up the convention details here, will fly to the coast tomorrow for conferences with Sam Goldwyn.

WILLIAM FOX WINS POINT IN TRI-ERGON-PARA. SUIT

New York.—William Fox won a victory yesterday in his American Tri-Ergon suit against Paramount for an injunction and accounting on his flywheel patent. The suit, which involves millions, has been dragging along for months and, last Fall, Judge Campbell, in the Federal Court in Brooklyn, ruled against Tri-Ergon.

The opinion ordering the reversal came from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and was written by Justices Manton and Chase, with Justice Swan dissenting.

(Continued on Page 3)

U.A. to Handle B.&D. Pictures All Over World

Chicago.—Al Lichtman told the United Artists convention here that the company will hereafter distribute productions of British and Dominions all over the world.

Dave Bader Due in N.Y.

New York.—Dave Bader, Universal's British exploitation man, is due in New York today from London to attend the sales convention. It is his first trip home in three years.

BEN HOLMES DIRECTED "Everything's Ducky" RKO-Radio Comedy

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher
FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193, Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15 Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

So once again, Jacob Epstein, famous sculptor, is supposed to be coming to Hollywood "next month"—and once again, it's supposed to be for the purpose of sculpting Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg. . . . Virginia Dabney (Warner contract player) is going to marry a radio announcer any minute. . . . The Alan Dineharts are getting to look alike. . . . Mrs. Don Stewart goes to the hospital tomorrow for operations on both knee and nose—and Don has himself an infected foot. . . . Muriel Evans hasn't been collecting any orchids since Bill Powell went away on that fishing trip. . . . Bette Davis, avec husband, back from the High Sierras.

•

The Elliott Nugents threw themselves a big house-warming Saturday . . . and the Nunnally Johnsons cocktailed for Herbert Asbury, who should be one of your favorite scribes. . . . Virginia Bruce, finished with "Jane Eyre," has reported back at MGM for more career. . . . Edward Everett Horton is living in his big mansion with a lot of mothballs and furniture covers—the rest of his family having gone East and "closed up" everything but his bed-chamber. . . . Do you know what well-known actor (supposedly on his honor with a major stujo) is off on another bender and costing the studio plenty again? . . . The Barney Glazers partied the Gary Coopers, the Cary Grants, Ernst Lubitsch, Frances Drake, Jack Kirkland, Jean Negulesco, and others at the Ambassador Saturday night.

•

Gregory LaCava and Ketti Gallian are recovering from some yanked teeth. . . . Joe Schenck and the Dick Barthelmesses flew East over the week-end—Joe goes on to Europe for some quick business. . . . Lyle Talbot and Gail Patrick hither and yon together. . . . Clark Gable is working with a siege of neuritis. . . . For the first time in years, a certain producer's wife is battling with him about a current indiscretion. . . . Maybe she's more humiliated because his latest is such a terrible mess! . . . Aside to Baron Rothschild: The hand isn't ALWAYS quicker than the eye!

New York REVIEWS

"LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW"
Universal prod.; director, Frank Borzage; writers, Hans Fallada, William Anthony McGuire.
Radio City Music Hall

Herald-Tribune: Simply and effectively the story of two young persons, struggling for their marriage and their very lives against a hostile world, has been captured in the motion picture. Under Frank Borzage's astute direction the full flavor of their hopes, their disillusionments and their dogged courage comes through, creating that rare Hollywood product, a credible and unembellished romance. It is in the hands of Mr. Montgomery and Miss Sullavan that "Little Man, What Now?" achieves its finest quality of artistic integrity. Their supporting cast is extremely good. For the most part, William Anthony McGuire has transposed the Fallada novel to screen terms with considerable fidelity, Mirror: Universal has made Hans Fallada's splendid novel a film of matchless beauty and integrity. Frank Borzage, who excels in telling delicate and simple love stories, directed Margaret Sullavan and Douglass Montgomery, both young actors of exceptional charm and skill, who played lead roles. The screen play was prepared by the sure craftsman, William Anthony McGuire. The film is touching and inspiring. Borzage has made no finer film in many seasons.

American: The drab, despondent realism of this German best-seller has been most effectively camera-captured by that master of pathos, Director Frank Borzage, and his cast of capable histrionic craftsmen who portray the characters It is quite a tiny tale, but its strength lies in its utter, unequivocal simplicity Our hat's off to Director Borzage. He has done a noble job

Post: The picture is rich in a variety of incidents and character studies. There is humor and pathos and a sustaining courage woven into the pattern. Frank Borzage, the director, is sure of himself when he wants to bring tears to the eyes or provoke laughter, but whether or not it is his fault, the picture is overburdened with a beginning which is far too long.

Sun: They have made of "Little Man, What Now?" a fine and moving study of of two young people facing a cold, uninterested world. Frank Borzage, with his understanding of the importance of simple things, directed this film with tenderness and compassion. Mr. Borzage, who has a way of picking just the right people to play the poignant ingenuous roles which interest him, has assembled an excellent acting cast, headed by Douglass Montgomery and Margaret Sullavan.

News: "Little Man, What Now?" is a very depressing movie. The atmosphere if different from the average picture, the backgrounds are well done and the acting of the cast is excellent. Douglass Montgomery as Hans holds the center of the screen most of the time. Alan Hale gives a superb performance. Catherine Doucet is excellent.

World-Telegram: Much of the bitterness and futility of Hans Fallada's "Little Man, What Now?" has been lost in the novel's transference to the talking pictures. Even so, the screen version, is a well acted, sincere and deeply touching little film that provides good entertainment. The direction by Frank Borzage is generally good and honorably intending. The film is well acted and produced.

Journal: It's a sombre narrative, enlivened occasionally by Borzage's deft directorial touches. The cast is large and satisfactory, with Alan Hale outstanding in the role of the gross but kind-hearted Jachman.

Edmund Goulding Better

Edmund Goulding, who has been very ill in New York for the past three weeks, is on the road to recovery. Hollywood friends heard yesterday that his temperature is down to normal for the first time since he became ill.

Para. Trustees Keep Job

(Continued from Page 1)

litigation growing out of Paramount's affairs. Opposition was also voiced because he was on the J. P. Morgan preferred list, with other bankers who handled Paramount financing.

Leake was opposed because he represents the Chase Bank and is interested indirectly in Loew's Inc., a Paramount competitor. The objection to Richardson was that he is Chase's representative in Fox Film to look after the Chase investment in that company.

The fight has been carried on for a long time by Attorney Samuel Zirn, but yesterday's court ruling puts a quietus on the whole matter.

'U' Convention Tomorrow: Will Last Three Days

New York.—Universal's sales convention starts tomorrow at Essex House and will run through Friday Carl Laemmle Sr., who is on his way from the coast, will arrive in time for the closing sessions.

The sales force will have a beefsteak party at the N. Y. Athletic Club Thursday night.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

Seitz Picks Site For Amazon Troupe

George B. Seitz made his report yesterday to Harry Rapf and Ned Marin about the laughing Indians and the skin-burrowing mouquins encountered in the upper Amazon where MGM proposes to produce "Jungle Red Man." Seitz got back Saturday, after flying 7400 miles in five days.

Harold H. Noice, author of the book, and Joe Cooke, business manager, are still at Manaos, making preparations for transporting, housing and feeding the studio troupe expected to be sent later this year.

A site 500 miles from Manaos, itself 1000 miles up the Amazon, has been selected as ideal because the burrowing bugs are fewest there and the temperature is only 90 degrees, technically. The spot is on the Colombia-Brazil border

Charles Grayson on Round-the-World Trip

Charles Grayson sailed yesterday on the Japanese liner Asama Maru for a trip around the world, having finished his deal at MGM. The "China Seas" camera crew, bound for the Orient, sailed on the same ship.

Grayson has been commissioned to write a series of travel articles for Esquire, following the series by Ernest Hemingway.

Milton Brens Arriving

Milton Bren and the missus are expected home from Honolulu tomorrow The end of a few weeks vacation from agenting

Talk About Annuities With An Expert

I HAVE spent years in specializing on annuities for members of the motion picture profession. I can tell you the exact type of annuity to meet your income, your plans for the future, your immediate needs.

BEFORE you decide on an annuity, it will be to your advantage to consult me.

Telephone
HE 3682 or HO 1161

Benjamin Leven
ANNUITY COUNSELLOR
310 Guaranty Building
6331 Hollywood Blvd
Hollywood

RADIO'S 'BACHELOR BAIT' AMUSING ENTERTAINMENT

Erwin, Gallagher, Hudson, High Spots

"BACHELOR BAIT"
(Radio)

Direction .....George Stevens
Original Story: Victor and Edward Halperin.
Screen Play.....Glenn Tryon
Photography .....Dave Abel
Cast: Stuart Erwin, Rochelle Hudson, Skeets Gallagher, Berton Churchill, Grady Sutton.

A nice, pleasant little comedy that takes time out every once in a while to bowl you over completely with several hilarious wisecracks, thrown in amongst the mild humor which is its general tone. It's homely stuff that can be generally sold, and is definitely on the credit side of a program.

Starting off with the meek one formula, the meek one succeeds in inheriting the earth almost immediately by opening up a matrimonial agency. The meek one has managed to pick up a wise-cracking lawyer to help him along and also a sweet little gal who becomes his receptionist. The town politician tries to buy him out, but he won't sell because he loves his work. The politician promises to get even, but the district attorney steps in first by sending a detective in the guise of an oil millionaire to get the goods on what he thinks is a racket. The detective is aided by the fact that the lawyer's ex-wife wants to marry him herself, whereas the agency head wants the receptionist to marry him and the receptionist plays along because she wants to marry the agency head.

Well, anyway, circumstantial evidence makes it look like the badger game and the district attorney raids the place. BUT the agency head, because his girl turned him down, sells the business to the politician first and, at the end, the head of the agency is in twenty-five thousand dollars, gets his girl and the lawyer goes back to his wife.

Stu Erwin is, of course, the meek, mild-mannered agency head and, as usual, comes through with a good legitimate performance. Skeets Gallagher as the wise-cracking lawyer, has a role right up his alley and a personality that makes you want him around much oftener in pictures and with more to do. Rochelle Hudson is charmingly lovely as the sweet little gal, and Grady Sutton as the detective-millionaire is a honey. But something has got to be done about Pert Kelton. With a voice like that the gal should be doing pantomime instead of giving imitations of a tough baby. She's pretty and could be cute, but not working that hard to keep her voice at the level of a run-down siren.

The direction is okay in a tough job of putting action into a picture that occasionally talks itself right off the screen. The writing is plenty good, but there's an awful lot of it and a few gags instead of sentences would have helped a lot to make the picture better.

Jane Loring Made Radio Co-director

Jane Loring, film editor for Paramount, moves over to Radio for a chance to become a director. She replaces George Nicholls as co-director with Philip Moeller on "Age of Innocence."

U.A. Going After Smaller Exhibs

Chicago.—United Artists is not going to let any prospective customer escape this year, and will go after big and little exhibitors alike at the same time. Heretofore, the company has not sold the neighborhoods and small towns until all the big runs had been sold, and it figures it lost a lot of money. So, this year, these contracts will be picked up at once.

In addition to this announcement at the convention here, the salesmen were also told that Darryl Zanuck is going to make a big musical on his program. No definite plans are set for it as yet.

Dickie Moore Set For Universal and Monogram

Dickie Moore was dated up for two productions yesterday by the Collier-Wallis office.

The boy goes into "Tomorrow's Youth," Charles Lamont's first feature direction for Monogram, with the stipulation he's through in time to start June 16 with Adolphe Menjou in "Human Side" at Universal. Eddie Buzzell directs the Menjou picture.

Lesser Closes Deal For Swiss Story, 'Haide'

Sol Lesser's deal for the picture rights to "Haide," Swiss juvenile story by Johanna Styri, was completed yesterday by his attorney, M. B. Silberberg.

Lesser has plenty of time to pick out the little girl for the name part, as he doesn't contemplate production before Fall.

New Ticket For Yates

Hal Yates' direction of the first Irvin Cobb comedy at Roach registered on the contract list yesterday. Henry Ginsberg handed Yates a two-year ticket with the studio.

Lasky Jr. to Monogram

Robert Welsh yesterday signed Jesse Lasky Jr. to do added dialogue on the Vera Brown novel, "The Red Head," for Monogram. Betty Burbridge is writing the screen play.

Col. Holds Ann Sothern

Columbia took up Ann Sothern's option yesterday for another year. Player is on loan to Goldwyn for the Cantor picture.

MGM Sales Meetings

New York.—MGM will hold two regional sales meetings. The first will be at Cleveland, June 18-19, and the other at Chicago, June 21-22.

Canavan Probable New IATSE Head

Louisville, Ky.—The outstanding feature of the opening yesterday of the annual IATSE convention here was the announcement by President William C. Elliott that he will not be a candidate for re-election. This leaves the field clear for George Browne, of Chicago, and William F. Canavan, former president. Canavan's supporters claim a majority of the delegates, and it seems a sure thing that he will be elected.

The delegates from the Hollywood Locals filed a protest with the convention Code Committee requesting a definite ruling by Sol A. Rosenblatt on the over-riding provisions of the code, and a request for a limitation of hours provision. There are 790 delegates in attendance with a total of 829 votes.

Gloria Stuart Lead In 'The Gift of Gab'

Universal yesterday set Gloria Stuart to appear opposite Edmund Lowe in "The Gift of Gab," which Richard Thorpe puts into work soon.

She became available for the role when Eddie Buzzell was assigned to direct "The Human Side" before handling "Transient Lady," in which she will have the title role.

'All Good Americans' Goes Into Work at MGM

Edwin L. Marin started direction of "All Good Americans" at MGM yesterday. Ted Healy and Edward Brophy were late cast additions.

A replica of Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," constructed for the picture, was used in the starting scenes.

Lipman to Schulberg

Turning in his script on "Ransom, One Million Dollars" at Universal, William R. Lipman today rejoins the B. P. Schulberg-Paramount writing staff to handle the screen play for an as yet untitled picture, starring Sylvia Sidney.

'Zest' For Montgomery

Douglass Montgomery's first picture on his new long term Universal deal will be "Zest," the Charles Norris story which William Wyler will direct. Doris Anderson is writing the screen play and B. F. Zeidman will produce.

Fox Wins Point
(Continued from Page 1)

Counsel for Paramount are now preparing a petition for a rehearing, to be presented to the United States Supreme Court. Leading lawyers here believe that the Court of Appeals ruling will be again reversed, pointing out that court history shows that at least eight out of ten decisions made by Judge Campbell are upheld in the long run by the highest court.

Not That It Matters
by Helen Gwynn

Joan Crawford is plenty burned over the stories that have seen print on her private theatre. Most of the stories have given La Crawford a terrific ribbing, which isn't the part that bothers her, but the fact that she has been accused of being snooty, high-hat, etc., because she didn't invite everybody, is the part that hurts. It's not that Crawford wants to be exclusive that she hasn't invited people, but because the gal is just larnin'. Seems as how the theatre was built purely for Miss Crawford's own amazement to learn to act on the stage. And when Miss Crawford feels that her acting is good enough to be seen, she'll be perfectly willing to have everyone come on over to see for himself.

Not a bad idea, at that. Critics take particular delight in tearing a movie actress to pieces when she decides to do a stage play. Naturally, the two techniques are different, and movie training is of very little help. So, if Crawford thinks she'd ever like to do a stage play, the gal is smart to give herself some stage training first. And positively altriustic in not forcing anybody to come to the theatre to watch her practice.

•

At the time a certain writer took a forced trip to Europe, he was in the midst of work at one studio and under contract at another. While he was away, there were telegrams and telephone calls galore between the production heads of the two studios, each one "giving" the writer to the other, and there was plenty of fun tossing him around, the writer's imminent return was that little appreciated. Finally, one day, the production head of the studio at which he had been working received the following telegram from the rival exec: "It's too late. He reported here today and we HAD to take up his contract. Congratulations, to you."

•

Our Paris representative, M. Kincler, has been elected an associate member of the Federation Internationale de la Presse Cinematographique (Film Press Association, to you), which is having a time for itself at the moment fighting possible censorship of newsreels abroad and, at the same time, trying to suppress any and all films that might create antagonism among nations. Which is practically working at cross purposes, because the news of the world today shows no tendency toward brotherly love among nations.

Latest definition of God's Country: 'Hollywood is the place where nothing succeeds like EXCESS!"

Dorothea Wieck Abroad

Dorothea Wieck left Hollywood yesterday, England bound, probably to take British Gaumont up on its starring offer. She did "Cradle Song" and "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen" on her term with Paramount.

WARNER BROS. ANNOUNCE 60 FEATURES FOR SEASON

New York. — Warners-First National will make sixty features for the coming season, the same number as last year, according to the announcement made yesterday by Major Albert Warner, vice-president of the company, at the regional convention held at Atlantic City.

In these pictures will be seen 19 stars and 38 featured players, and they will enlist the services of 18 directors and 73 writers. The high spots of the pictures listed are:

"Babbitt," "Anthony Adverse," "The Magnificent Ambersons," "A Lost Lady," "Captain Blood," "Oil for the Lamps of China," "Men Against Dust," "Firebug," "I'm Back on the Chain Gang," "Golddiggers of 1935," "Sweet Music," "Casino de Paree," "Big-Hearted Herbert," "Air Devils," "The Lafayette Escadrille," "Border Town," "Black Hell," "The Story of a Country Boy," "Road-House," "War Lord," "The Cinch," "Sweet Adeline," "A Present from Margate," "The Case of the Howling Dog," "The Case of the Serious Bribe" and "Just Out of College."

The star list comprises Paul Muni, Joe E. Brown, Barbara Stanwyck, Ruby Keeler, Warren William, Rudy Vallee, Kay Francis, Al Jolson, Edward G. Robinson, Ricardo Cortez, Joan Blondell, Franchot Tone, Bette Davis, Leslie Howard, James Cagney, Dick Powell, Dolores Del Rio, Jean Muir and Claudette Colbert.

John David Horsley Picked As New Adonis

Having sent a questionnaire to 4000 women, asking the requisites of the New Deal Adonis, Radio looked over the Hollywood stock and finally has selected John David Horsley as the epitome of the replies.

He is now in "Down to Their Last Yacht," but what permanent effect the Adonis thing will have is hard to say.

'Kelly' Starts June 21

With Guy Robertson scheduled to arrive here June 19 to start his Monogram contract, Leonard Fields will get "King Kelly of the U.S.A." before the cameras two days later to complete the studio's current program of 28 pictures. Robertson is now appearing in a stage play in Chicago.

Beebe on Screen Play

Ford Beebe has gone in to complete Adele Buffington's screen play for "Along Came A Woman," which will be Mascot's first feature on its program.

New Title For Short

Radio yesterday set "Flying Down to Zero" as the release title on the second of the Clark and McCullough series of shorts which Lee Marcus is producing.

Kahn on 'Caravan'

Gus Kahn has been signed by Fox to collaborate with Werner Richard Heymann on the music for "Caravan," the Erik Charell production.

Hammons Seeking 'Names' For Shorts

New York.—Educational will enlist the biggest "names" it can get for its program of shorts this coming season, according to Earle Hammons, who told the Fox convention that the past year had shown the wisdom of such a course.

Production on the new program will start before July 1, the first picture being made in the East with Al Christie directing. The start of Western production is not decided as yet.

Cycle of Munitions Stories Coming Along

Hollywood is in for a cycle of stories exposing the munitions racket, mainly inspired by the recent Fortune Magazine article which drew attention to that type of story.

Warners has announced a Robert Lord original, "War Lord." Pandro Berman will announce in a day or two the purchase of an original by Larry Bachmann, also entitled "War Lord," and Paramount is dickering for an untitled story dealing with the same subject.

Nicholson Will Adapt 'Twenty Hours by Air'

New York.—Paramount has signed Kenyon Nicholson, co-author of the play, "Sailor Beware," to write the adaptation of "Twenty Hours by Air."

Incidentally, Paramount is releasing this week a short called "Sailor Beware," which features Walter Catlett and Eugene Pallette.

Ruth Donnelly Loaned For 'Romance in Rain'

Universal yesterday borrowed Ruth Donnelly from Warners for a spot in "Romance in the Rain," which Stuart Walker puts into work Thursday from a script by Barry Trivers.

Victor Moore arrived by train from New York Sunday to start in the picture.

'Melodies' in Color

Leon Schlesinger yesterday closed a deal with Dr. Herbert Kalmus, of Technicolor, to produce the complete series of 13 Merry Melodies cartoons on the 1934-35 Warner schedule in color. The producer will continue to deliver the Looney Tunes in black and white.

Carr Signs Miljan

Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production for Monogram, yesterday signed John Miljan for a top spot in "Tomorrow's Youth," which will be Charles Lamont's first feature directing assignment.

Tiffany Thayer East

Tiffany Thayer leaves tomorrow by automobile for a month's vacation in New York. While there, he will set the publication of his newest novel, as yet untitled. He recently completed a one-picture deal at MGM.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Georges Renavent to "The Green Hat," MGM, through Lewis J. Deuser.

Rafael Ottiano to "The Lost Lady," Warners, by Collier and Wallis

Ferdinand Gottschalk to "The Notorious Sophie Lang," Paramount, by Collier and Wallis.

Claude King to "Moonstone," Monogram.

Carmencita Johnson to Paramount for "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

Lynne Overman to "You Belong to Me," Paramount.

George Meeker to MGM for "All Good Americans," by Beyer-MacArthur.

'Flirtation Walk' Company Goes East

Warners yesterday took Ross Alexander's contract, which still had three weeks to go, from MGM and immediately assigned him to "Flirtation Walk."

He left for West Point last night by train with the balance of the cast including Pat O'Brien, Henry O'Neill, John Eldridge, John Arledge and Glen Boles.

Anne Renova With Joy

Anne Renova, who has been conducting her own agency in Beverly Hills, has become an associate of the Billy Joy office and will handle stories, writers and directors.

'Tiptoes' First For Novarro and Laye

Oscar Hammerstein's first writing assignment for MGM, the co-starring musical for Ramon Novarro and Evelyn Laye, will be "Tiptoes," with a German ballet company for background.

Dudley Murphy will handle direction, with Harry Rapf supervising. The original by Vicki Baum has been turned over to Hammerstein to prepare screen story and libretto.

"Her Excellency's Tobacco Shop," the other musical preparing for Novarro, and possibly for Evelyn Laye, goes back indefinitely.

Terrace Room Opens At Miramar Thursday

The Terrace Room of the Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica will have its gala Summer opening next Thursday evening when screen and social celebrities will gather to honor the arrival of Kay Kyser and his orchestra. Kyser will be assisted at the opening by Eadie Adams, songstress, and Dorothy Cochran, dancer.

Several screen stars will also appear, notably Russ Columbo, June Knight and Lois January.

Buffington to 'U'

Adele Buffington moved in at Universal yesterday to do the script on her story, "They Didn't Want Love," Lou Ostrow's first production for Universal. Both the writing job and the original story were sold by Lewis J. Deuser agency.

NOTICE

TO EXHIBITORS THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES

ROMANCE PRODUCTIONS Inc. ANNOUNCES

That Bookings on the Chapter-Play

"YOUNG EAGLES"

May Now Be Made Through the Following Distributors

Throughout the East

FIRST DIVISION EXCHANGES, Inc.
1270 6th Ave., NEW YORK CITY

Security Pictures Corporation
1304 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Majestic Pictures Corporation
Film Exchange Bldg., Dallas, Texas

Premier Pictures Corporation
3214 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

Consolidated Film Distributors, Inc.
130 W 18th St, Kansas City, Mo.

Majestic Pictures Corporation
706 W.Grand Av., Oklahoma City, Okla.

Principal Pictures Exchanges
1906 S. Vermont, Los Angeles, Calif.

Far West Exchanges
221 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Calif.

The Sheffield Exchange System, Inc.
2417 2nd Ave., Seattle, Wash.
925 N. W. 19th St., Portland, Ore.
252 East 1st St., Salt Lake City, Utah
2075 Broadway, Denver, Colo.

BERT

WHEELER

ROBERT

WOOLSEY

Egad! Egad!
'Tis a tayle of olden dayes
Gay musick—comic happenings merrie maidens—comely queens wenches faire to see!

Radio PICTURES

"COCKEYED CAVALIERS"

LOU BROCK

ASSOCIATE PRODUCER

RADIO PICTURES

"COCKEYED CAVALIERS"

MARK
SANDRICH

DIRECTOR

RADIO PICTURES

"COCKEYED
CAVALIERS"

EDWARD

KAUFMAN

BEN

HOLMES

ORIGINAL STORY

and

SCREEN PLAY

"COCKEYED

CAVALIERS"

RKO PICTURES

RALPH SPENCE

GRANT GARRETT*

ADDITIONAL

DIALOGUE

"COCKEYED

CAVALIERS"

* Management Beyer & MacArthur

"COCKEYED CAVALIERS"

PHOTOGRAPHED BY

DAVID ABEL

ASC

PROCESS AND EFFECTS

VERNON L. WALKER

ASC

"COCKEYED CAVALIERS"

MUSIC and LYRICS by

WILL JASON

and

VAL BURTON

Hollywood Reporter:
"One song is a knockout. 'The Big Bad Wolf is Dead'."

Variety:
"'I'd Like To Dilly Dally With You' is a second song hit."

'INDECENT FILMS' FIGHT HITS INDIAN'S THEATRES

The campaign against "indecency" in motion pictures has reached as far as the theatres in India. One of the leading Catholic publications of the United States has this to say about conditions in that Far Eastern country:

"While we here in the United States are considering ways and means of dealing with the menace of the movies, evidence is coming to us continually of an aroused spirit abroad against the films Hollywood is sending throughout the world. For instance, from Calcutta, India, we get the news that the co-operation of the Catholic press in eradicating vicious films from Indian cinema houses has been welcomed by Baijnath Bajoria, prominent non-Christian leader of the Marwari Association in Calcutta. He has suggested closer relations between non-Christians and Catholic associations to remedy moral evils which are repugnant to all communities.

" 'There can be no question that Indians take not only their impressions of western civilization from the cinema,' said Mr. Bajoria, 'but many also take their impression of Christian morality from the cinema. Western films discredit Christianity in the eyes of the people of India, and it is a definite duty for Catholics to ally themselves with other public bodies which are working to cleanse cinema houses of this great evil.'

"A similar condemnation has come from another non-Christian, President Rai Bahadur Ramdev Chokhani, of Marwari Association, who denounced many films as revolting to Indian ideas of decency and morality. He declared that 'the morals of a people are of greater value than an industry, and the film industry must not be allowed to prosper at the expense of our boys and girls.' Both men attacked the indecent posters exposed in prominent places to advertise films.

"More than two years ago, Lord Irwin, former Viceroy of India, in an address delivered in London, said that the white man had lost great prestige in the East, and especially in India, because of indecent films from Europe and America.

"More recently, a prominent Indian, after viewing a foreign film, remarked: 'I am an Indian, I suppose what you white people would call a nigger. I am unacquainted with other sides of western civilization, but what I have seen tonight and on numerous other occasions in places such as these, convinces me that the ordinary middle classes of England and America are the most debased and immoral creatures any race or nation has ever pro-

'Hide-out' Starting

W. S. Van Dyke, Robert Montgomery and company entrain for Santa Cruz Thursday to start shooting on "Hide-out." They're doing the location shots first.

Sam Marx' Father Here

Max Marx, father of Sam and Bert, arrived yesterday for a visit with his sons. He is at the home of the MGM scenario chief.

Harry Rapf's Son Wins College Honor

Harry Rapf heard from Dartmouth yesterday that his son, Maurice Rapf, had won the award for writing and directing the best play of the year at the college. Title of the prize playlet is "Delinquency."

Young Rapf sails for England next week with Buddy Schulberg, son of the Paramount producer, for some dramatic activities. Later this Summer they go with other students for a dramatic course at the Moscow Institute.

Horton, Pitts and Grier On Hall of Fame Hour

Edward Everett Horton, Zasu Pitts, and Jimmy Grier and his orchestra get the top billing on the next Hall of Fame broadcast Sunday over the NBC network.

Grier and his band also broadcast with Jack Benny Friday over the General Tire program via the same network.

Carl Buss With Para.

Carl A. Buss, for several years a radio scribe in Chicago for the NBC programs, was given a film script assignment yesterday by Paramount. He goes on "Wagon Wheels," the first of the Westerns to feature Randolph Scott, and teams with Charles Logue and Jack Cunningham.

Whitford Kane to MGM

Whitford Kane, New York character actor, reached Hollywood yesterday and reports to MGM for a role in "Hideout." The Small-Landau office brought him to the coast in conjunction with Jane Broder.

Rivkin on Guild Board

Allen Rivkin has been elected to the executive committee of the Screen Writers' Guild to replace Oliver H. P. Garrett. The latter is now on his way to Europe.

Fox After Wylie Novel

Fox is negotiating with Philip Wylie for the purchase of his novel, "Dead Men Tell." The studio plans to use it as an Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen vehicle.

Craven to Universal

Frank Craven was signed by Universal yesterday to work on the screen play of "Human Side", under Eph Asher's supervision. The William Morris office set the deal.

Werker Starts at Para.

"You Belong to Me" was started into production for Paramount by Al Werker yesterday with a location visit backstage in the Mason Theatre, downtown.

Herman With Rowland

Al Herman steps out of independent production to become production manager for the William Rowland unit at Columbia.

Dorfman Will Try Out New Play This Summer

New York.—"Errant Lady," a new play by Nat Dorfman, will be produced this Summer by S. M. Chartock, who recently staged the Gilbert and Sullivan revivals here.

The play will be put on first by the Elverhoj Players, with Spring Byington in the lead and Sidney Salkow directing, and will come to Broadway in the Fall.

Iwerks at Production Peak With Five in Work

With five animated cartoons in work, Animated Pictures studio is at production peak. Two of these, featuring "Willie Whopper," are "The Cave Man" and "Jungle Jitters."

The other three are "ComiColor" subjects and include "The Queen of Hearts," "Aladdin and His Lamp" and "The Headless Horseman."

Noll Gurney to London

Noll Gurney leaves today on a trip to London. The Schulberg-Feldman partner will stop off for a visit at the Tom Cravens' home at Great Neck, Long Island, before sailing on the Lafayette, June 14.

Hal Roach Returns

Hal Roach flew in from his Alaskan vacation yesterday afternoon, reporting he shot two grizzlies and four black bears. Mrs. Roach continues with the yachting party down the coast and gets in Friday morning.

Mrs. Kinney Can't Be Forced to Quit

Friends of Mrs. Mabel Kinney, chairman of the Code Committee for Extras, believe there is a definite move on foot to force her to resign, but also say she will not do so.

They declare that the effort is being made through the Code Authority, and allege that for weeks that body has been curbing Mrs. Kinney by various and sundry methods until most of her authority has been taken away. The most drastic move, they say, was an order recently instructing her that from now on she must not communicate directly with Sol Rosenblatt, but must send her squawks, if she has any, through the Code Authority so it may get first information regarding them.

Wilcox Arriving Today

New York.—Herbert Wilcox, of British and Dominions, arrives here today from London, but Herbert Marsh, of the same company, who was to have accompanied him, postponed his sailing.

Bloch-Seaton Teamed

Arthur Bloch and George Seaton were assigned yesterday to work on the screen play of "Broadway Melody of 1934" at MGM.

Mae Murray to Stage

New York.—Mae Murray steps into the cast of "The Milky Way" at the Cort Theatre next Monday, taking over the role of Anne.

INTEGRITY

Satin Smooth

● BEHIND Satin Smooth Make-Up is a reputation of proven integrity—a reputation that has been built through years of unselfish service to the Motion Picture Industry.

● NOW — backed by integrity—comes Satin Smooth Make-Up; a smoother, faster make-up, easier to apply and easier to remove — a make-up that offers a challenge to progress.

MAX FACTOR'S MAKE-UP STUDIOS
HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA

Beau Brummell · · "13 stone 10 pounds"

. . . . no disputing the ancient "weighing beam" at BERRY'S where the greatest dandy of all time would periodically ascertain his weight and have it entered in the records along with that of William IV, the Dukes of Kent and York, His Grace of Cumberland, Louis Philippe, Louis Napoleon, and thousands of other patrons of this old established House.

Berry Bros., "At the Sign of the Coffee Mill" in old St. James's Street, is something more than a Company purveying choice wines and liquors to succeeding generations of the world. It is an Institution, a part of English history. Its proprietors, a succession of Berrys ever since the founder, realize their responsibility to gentle folk as accepted authorities and arbiters on all things drinkable. Their cellars contain the most patrician wines and liquors that the grape and grain of the world have produced.

The period of Prohibition was, to this Company, but an interval in a 300-year history. Now past, Berry Bros. has returned to the American scene. The House of Berry welcomes its many old friends, greets the new ones it has made, and wishes all great, but temperate, pleasure in the enjoyment of wines and spirits of true distinction

Berry Bros. products include the choicest WINES of France, Spain, Italy, Portugal and Hungary . . . three superb Scotch WHISKIES:

ST. JAMES'S
CUTTY SARK
BLACK BARREL

a LONDON GIN, especially distilled, and BRANDIES and LIQUEURS of excellence

Write Birmingham Corporation, Dept. S, for Price List and Wine Notes

BERRY BROS & CO.

WINE MERCHANTS

Established in the XVII Century

By Appointment

H.M. THE KING

H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES

LONDON

Distributors for the Pacific Coast

GEO. HERRMANN COMPANY

816 West 5th Street, Los Angeles
Telephone MUtual 8053

300 Front Street, San Francisco
Telephone GArfield 1930

he REPORTER IS GROWING

From Jan. 1 to June 1, 1933
The Reporter Published 394 Pages of Advertising

From Jan. 1 to June 1, 1934
The Reporter Published 551 Pages of Advertising

An Increase of

40 Percent

and More Proof that it is the Fastest Growing Publication in the Motion Picture Industry.

METRO GOLDWYN-MAYER STUDIOS,
% MR. SAMUEL MAR
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 24. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Wednesday, June 6, 1934

WARNERS-ERPI SETTLE

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•THE picture industry in the United States is not having a monopoly of the troubles over double bills, indecent pictures, censorship, etc., by any means. Yesterday Rafael Calderon, who operates a chain of 21 theatres in the State of Chihuahua, Mexico, dropped in at this office. He is in Los Angeles buying equipment for a new production venture in Mexico in which he is interested. It is his opinion that the exhibitor in this country is to be congratulated. He doesn't have nearly as many worries as his Mexican brother.

"The double feature problem doesn't trouble me," he said, "because I never have run duals in any of my theatres. But conditions in the city of Mexico are terrible. Practically every theatre runs double bills. It is all the fault of the American distributor. He forces so many pictures on the exhibitor that they must be played. But they don't get away with that outside the city.

•

"There is a very determined fight on in Mexico against indecent films. Of course, there is a Federal censorship. After a film is passed for the theatres in Mexico City, that version is set for the entire country. But a lot of people think the censorship is not severe enough, that too much leeway is given immorality. The Catholic Church, and especially the women of that church, are taking the matter into their own hands. This organization of women within the church publishes a weekly bulletin, in which it tells parents what pictures are good for their children to see and what are not. The effect has been amazing."

Senor Calderon was extremely complimentary to the Reporter for its attitude on both the double bill question and the subject of indecency.

•

"Every exhibitor in Mexico knows the Reporter's views," he said, "because I have every editorial on either of those topics translated into Spanish and send them out as circulars to every exhibitor. The Reporter is doing more to help the fight against double features than any other force.

"We are going to launch a fight against the unfairness of the distributors at the big convention in July and I will be there with my scrap book full of Reporter editorials."

Para. New Deal Ready But Still a Secret

New York.—The plan for the reorganization of Paramount-Publix has been completed, but no announcement about it has been made public as yet. Adolph Zukor, who has been sitting in on the final conferences, leaves for Hollywood next Wednesday for the rest of the Summer.

Cardinal Enlists in War on Film Smut

Chicago.—Cardinal Mundelein yesterday took a hand in the war that the Catholic Church is waging against indecent motion pictures and which has now become nation-wide.

The Cardinal issued a long statement, charging that the picture producers have broken faith with the public with regard to the moral tone of films. He pointed out that the Catholic Church has spent millions to "mold solid character in children," and that it cannot stand idly by and see them subjected to immoral pictures.

Selznick and Cukor Leave England Today

London.—David Selznick, George Cukor, Howard Estabrook, Hugh Walpole and Fritz Lang sail for New York on the Ile de France today, arriving there next Tuesday.

Hayward Flying Back

New York.—Leland Hayward, who has been in New York for several days, is flying back to the coast today.

Cash Payment Of $5,000,000 Washes Up Royalty Suit That Has Been Dragging For Years

New York.—The legal battle between Warner Brothers and Erpi, which has been in and out of the courts for a long time, has finally been definitely settled by the cash payment to Warners of $5,000,000.

The battle started with the arrival of sound in pictures. Warners pioneered in sound and, as a result, several agreements were made between that firm and Western Electric whereby Warners would get a share of the profits. All these agreements were broken and, finally, it was agreed that Warners should have seven per cent of the gross of every sound picture.

Later Erpi contended that it could not pay this amount because the other

(Continued on Page 7)

Sam Goldwyn Faces Heavy Loss on 'Nana'

New York.—Sam Goldwyn is probably going to be forced to take a heavy loss on the Anna Sten picture, "Nana."

The audiences in spots where it has been shown have not been enthusiastic about it, and the church people and reformers have fought it tooth and nail.

Leisen Back at Para.

Mitchell Leisen returned yesterday to Paramount after four weeks in Honolulu. He directs "Ready For Love," with Richard Arlen and Ida Lupino.

Raw Stock Makers May Hog Lab Field

Washington.—A serious battle is brewing over the plan of the raw stock giants to dominate the motion picture laboratory field. It is reported here that one of the big companies has gone to the extent of offering free developing and printing service and, if this bid is successful in attracting the business of the majors and independents, the small laboratory men will either be put out of business or forced to align themselves with the raw stock manufacturers.

The idea of the new plan is to strike now, while the laboratories are unable to get together on the code of fair competition and are in a generally upset state.

Fox-Gaumont Releasing Deal Thought To Be Off

New York.—It is believed in film circles here that the distributing arrangements between Fox and British Gaumont have been broken off, as Sidney Kent, in announcing the season's product at the Fox convention, made no mention of any Gaumont releases.

'The Good Fairy' Next For Margaret Sullavan

New York.—Ferenc Molnar's "The Good Fairy" will be the next starring picture for Margaret Sullavan at Universal.

Her second picture for the new season's program will be announced at the Universal convention Friday.

'Scarlet Letter' Done

Robert Vignola yesterday brought in "The Scarlet Letter," with Colleen Moore, Hardie Albright and Henry B. Walthall in the leads, on schedule. It is the first Larry Darmour picture for Majestic.

NEW AGENCY COM. DEFIES CODE AUTHORITY ORDER

The Hollywood Film Code Agency Committee took a direct slap at the Code Authority yesterday when it refused to accept as its permanent secretary, Major Joseph O. Donovan, who had been appointed to that position by the Code Authority.

The members of the committee took the stand that they have the right to select their own secretary, and that they are responsible to the Deputy Administrator and not to the Code Authority. So, last night, the committee sent a telegram to Sol A. Rosenblatt, asking him for a ruling on

(Continued on Page 6)

John Paddy Carstairs To Join MGM Writers

John Paddy Carstairs was announced yesterday by MGM as having signed a long term contract in London as a member of the studio writing staff. Carstairs arrives here shortly to take up the deal.

New Term For Nicholls

Radio yesterday exercised its option on George Nicholls' contract. The director, who went off the co-direction of "Age of Innocence," will get a solo assignment.

EDWARD CHODOROV Original Screen Play "Madame Du Barry"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W R WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

Latest from the Goldwyn front: On the golf course the other day a couple of pals were discussing with Sam the effects of a recent lawsuit upon the head of a big studio. It seems the producer in question was taken for a big legal ride and got the worst of it.

"It just goes to show you—" said Goldwyn. "If you do wrong, you're bound to come out in the end!" (!?)

•

We're hysterical over what happened to a young director at a major studio a few weeks ago, after he had completed a musical-mystery for them, and decided that he was entitled to a raise. He'd been getting three hundred a week and thought he was entitled to five, so he took himself into the head man's office to demand it. He had hardly entered the door, when the giant-brain of the organization exclaimed: "Now—I know what you're here for! Don't say a word! We're tearing up your old deal and giving you a new contract for a thousand a week!" P.S.—The director is very satisfied and happy!

•

Someone should really tell a visiting nobleman that he can use his hands for talking or something besides making himself thoroughly obnoxious everywhere he goes. We really wouldn't mention this again, except that we've had so many "complaints." This fellow, influential and wealthy though he is, is not exactly good news to any of the femmes he has met while in Hollywood. He follows every introduction (and there have been plenty of them) to a female star, with a lot of plain and fancy pawing—and, so far as we gather, not one of the pawed ones has enjoyed it! The only time he has met any local females that he hasn't "reached for" was at a dinner party at a famous comedian's home—and that night the royal party had his own lady of the evening with him!

New York REVIEWS

"BORN TO BE BAD"

Twentieth Century prod.: director, Lowell Sherman; writers, Ralph Graves, Harrison Jacobs.

Rivoli Theatre

Mirror: It is well directed, ably played, dressy and moderately diverting. The star's supporting cast is an able one.

American: This one simply doesn't make the grade. The beauty of Loretta Young, the appeal of Cary Grant, the ability of young Jackie Kelk, the comedy of Harry Green, the directorial capacity of Lowell Sherman, all are wasted on a hodge-podge story that makes a higgledy-piggledy picture which never even achieves mediocrity.

Post: Not in a long while has so muddled and absurd a picture come to one of the better Broadway houses as this "Born To Be Bad."

Sun: The picture starts out well enough, with the promise of originality and even a serious character study. That promise dies early. It is, although expertly told and photographed up to a certain point, twaddle, and rather unpleasant twaddle at that.

Times: Ralph Graves, who has given several fairly interesting performances in motion pictures, is responsible for the narrative of "Born To Be Bad." If this opus is any criterion of Mr. Graves' literary skill, he is scarcely to be congratulated on having temporarily abandoned his acting. It is a hopelessly unintelligent hodgepodge.

News: Even without Loretta's great beauty, "Born To Be Bad" is a picture to be seen, for the tale it unfolds and for the amazing talents therein displayed of young Jackie Kelk, child actor extraordinary. Lowell Sherman has kept it from going maudlin by handling his materials lightly and injecting a judicious amount of comedy.

World-Telegram: A quite calamitous melodrama entitled "Born To Be Bad" contains some of the saddest and sometimes most unbearable characters, as well as the most feeble and unreal dialogue imaginable.

Journal: Eight-year-old Jackie Kelk, tough little imp, is a tremendously amusing child, a refreshing change from sweet little boy actors. A convincing trouper, he shares honors with Miss Young.

Herald-Tribune: "Born To Be Bad" is a lively and colorful melodrama about mother love. While Ralph Graves (the actor turned author) cannot lay too great a claim to originality in his little epic, he at least has given us one screen mother's love unaccompanied by the usual stickiness and cloying artifice. Miss Young gives really a very good performance as a bad heroine.

Jean Muir's Wardrobe Holds Up Mayo's Picture

Because Jean Muir has to have twenty gowns designed for her for the picture, and because George Brent is still working on "Stamboul Quest" at Metro, Warners yesterday set back the starting date of "The Lady Surrenders" to June 15, Archie Mayo directs.

It will be Miss Muir's first dress-up opportunity, she having been on the farm for two pictures, and a nurse and an aviatrix in two others. Her "Lady Surrenders" wardrobe is being designed by Orry-Kelly,

'Broadway Bill' Start

Columbia yesterday signed Osgood Perkins, Margaret Hamilton and Clarence Muse for the cast of "Broadway Bill," which is headed by Warner Baxter. Frank Capra, who directs, puts the picture into work on location at Tanforan racetrack next Monday.

'Fun on the Air' Starts

The Joe Cook picture, "Fun on the Air," went into production at the Fox lot yesterday, with Eddie Sutherland directing. Jack Pine, brother of Virginia, is his assistant.

Gable Gets New Agent

Clark Gable yesterday signed a managerial contract with Berg, Stebbins, Allenberg and Blum.

Crosby Donates Cups

Bing Crosby donated two cups yesterday to Occidental College for the annual golf match. The player made the presentation in appreciation of the co-operation the school gave the "She Loves Me Not" company during the making of the picture.

BODYGUARD
EXPERIENCED
Unencumbered man, 29 years, college educated and capable secretary. Complete wardrobe.
Box 275, care Reporter, or
Phone HOllywood 3957

Baby Stars Going to Big Shrine Meet

The 13 Wampas Baby Stars and 13 other name players, including Harold Lloyd, who will be grand marshal, leave June 16 for Minneapolis to attend the sixtieth Shrine convention there, June 19-21. The Wampas will present the Baby Stars in their first public appearance June 20 at the Electrical Pageant and Wampas Frolic in the Civic Auditroium. Leroy Prinz, Paramount dance director, is in charge of staging the presentation and entertainment.

Phil Gersdorf and Wilson Heller leave here tomorrow to confer with Shrine and civic officials who will meet the Hollywood delegation on arrival in Minneapolis, June 19. Lew Marin and Mark Larkin will be the official Wampas escorts for the party.

The organization is negotiating with World Fair officials for a week's appearance of the Baby Stars there immediately following the convention.

Ostrow Signs Grapewin And Gets His Writings

Lou Ostrow yesterday signed Charles Grapewin to a long term personal contract as both a player and writer and, at the same time, acquired the rights to his literary works. He is now writing "Top Sail," which Ostrow will produce in the Fall as a picture and later, probably, as a play.

Solow With Warners

Warners yesterday signed Eugene Solow to write the screen play and dialogue on "Just Out of College," an original by Robert Lee Johnson. He recently completed his original, "The Lost American," for Universal. The Warner deal was negotiated by Jules Schermer, of the Nat Goldstone agency.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

OUTING ACHIEVEMENT SUPREME

60 Selective Camp Activities
7 Day Pack Trip to Yosemite Valley
Horseback Riding
A Horse to Each Boy
Swimming, Diving, Hunting, Fishing, Gold Panning, Exploring, Rodeos, Steer Roping, Boxing, Fencing.

Season 1934, July 6th to Sept. 6th
Three thousand acres of Mountain Paradise. 35 miles West of Yosemite. Four miles of river all our own. Every condition ideal. Every detail perfect. Select patronage only. Limit 50.
Six Enrollments Available to June 11th
YOSEMITE-BOWER-CAVE BOYS' SUMMER CAMP
Our representative will call.
Southern Hdqrts., 12851 San Vicente Blvd., Brentwood Heights, California
Phone: Santa Monica 25044

Ideal Safety
Supervised Freedom
Scientific Building of Strong Bodies
ONE PRICE
NO EXTRAS

'HERE COMES THE GROOM' PROVIDES LOT OF LAUGHS

Jack Haley Best In Fast-Moving Farce

"HERE COMES THE GROOM"
(Paramount)

Direction .....Edward Sedgwick
Original Story.....Richard Flournoy
Screen Play: Leonard Praskins and Casey Robinson.
Music .....Gordon and Revel
Photography .....Henry Sharp
Cast: Jack Haley, Neil Hamilton, Mary Boland, Isabel Jewell, Patricia Ellis, Lawrence Gray, Sidney Toler, E. H. Calvert.

It's an all right comedy, made better in its brighter moments by the presence of Jack Haley and Mary Boland. The main advantage of a picture like this is that it is decidedly a good starting point from which to build Jack Haley to stardom for the fans, and there is no reason to doubt the fact that the fans will appreciate the build-up.

The plot has been fashioned with perforated paper, which doesn't really matter in a comedy that is mostly farce. Jack Haley, as Mike Scanlon, gets himself wanted by the police to please his girl-friend, and finds himself captured by an heiress, who has been jilted by her crooner-husband whom she married to spite the man she really loved. When Haley and his "wife-in-name-only" reach home, who should be a servant in the house but the girl friend. The girl friend is there to steal a rope of pearls, which she does. The real husband shows up and is promptly mistaken for the fugitive Mike Scanlon. There is a chase finish in which Scanlon and the girl-friend have to find the pearls in order to give them back so's Mike can go straight and be a piccolo player in a symphony orchestra. The crooner is forgotten but nobody cares.

When Edward Sedgwick gets into directing the almost-slapstick gags, the going is great and the laughs sustained. In the merely comedy sequences where the lines should provide the laughs, Mr. Sedgwick doesn't fare so well. And the lines, capitally written by Leonard Praskins and Casey Robinson, certainly deserved better direction.

Jack Haley and Mary Boland do a swell job of keeping up the interest right through the picture. Boland is a tried and true trouper, and Haley ought to be rewarded any minute now with material that will lift part of the burden off his shoulders. He's a grand picture bet. Isabel Jewell, Neil Hamilton and Sidney Toler are more than competent in the supporting cast, but why Miss Ellis should be the center of interest in a picture is something else again.

The photography is okay, but we wish someone would remember that simplicity and elegance go pretty much together, and it isn't necessary to show a wealthy home with a small budget by cluttering up the rooms with junk, even if a vase is necessary for breakage.

French Exhibs Kick At Tax on U.S. Films

Paris.—The motion picture exhibitors of Lyons yesterday sent a protest to the government against the proposed tariff which would impose a tax of $16,470 on a 10,000-foot foreign film. The tax, they say, will close all provincial theatres and throw 40,000 persons out of work. The tariff is aimed mainly at American pictures.

New Pictures on B'way This Week

New York.—Broadway gets its usual quota of new pictures this week, seven being announced for the big theatres. The list comprises:

"Are We Civilized?" at the Rivoli today; "Sisters Under the Skin" at the Music Hall, and "Fog Over Frisco" at the Strand tomorrow; "Many Happy Returns" at the Paramount, "Men in White" at the Capitol, "Such Women Are Dangerous" at the Roxy, and "World in Revolt" at the Rialto Friday.

Gary Cooper Will Star In Para. Dog Picture

Paramount will make a dog epic and yesterday closed for the purchase of "If You Hunt With Old Don," by Thomas F. West.

Gary Cooper is slated to star in it and a plan is being drawn up to get the country's leading dog fanciers and the field and hunting clubs to lend their aid to the production. Earl J. Haley is writing the screen play under Louis Lighton's supervision.

Fox Will Star Dunn in 'Song and Dance Man'

New York.—Fox Film has bought the screen rights to George M. Cohan's famous play, "The Song and Dance Man," and intends to star Jimmy Dunn in it. Dunn left here by plane yesterday for the coast.

Overman to Columbia

Columbia has put through a deal with Paramount for the loan of Lynne Overman for one of the top spots in "Broadway Bill," the Frank Capra picture, which will have Warner Baxter in the leading assignment.

'Moonstone' Starts

Reginald Barker put "Moonstone" into production for Monogram yesterday. David Manners has the lead. Adele Buffington scripted the mystery novel by Wilkie Collins.

Robinson To Rogers

Casey Robinson has gone over to Charles R. Rogers to work on the script of "McFadden's Flats," after completing an original at Warners. The farce will be one of the first for Rogers on his new deal.

Vallee Won't Come West to Make Pic

Rudy Vallee has balked on his Warner contract, refusing to come to California to star in "Sweet Music," because California is the home of Mrs. Vallee and a lot of laws giving an aggrieved wife half her husband's income.

Unless Warners arranges to make Jerry Wald's musical original in the East, some one else must be found for the top spot if it is to beat "Sweet Adeline" into production, as seems likely. Carl Erickson and Jerry Wald are scripting the picture, previously referred to as "Say It With Music."

Bess Meredyth to Write Arliss' British Script

Bess Meredyth, having finished work on "The Red Cat" for Twentieth Century, the picture that will star Connie Bennett and Fredric March, leaves for London Thursday.

Miss Meredyth will write the screen play for the George Arliss British picture which will be released by United Artists in this country, by arrangement just completed by Joe Schenck.

'Moon Mullins' May Be Star at Universal

Carl Laemmle Jr. is a Moon Mullins fan, and if Frank Willard, who draws the banjo-eyed comedian, approves some modifications suggested in the Universal contract for picturization of the syndicate character, it will be a picture under Edmund Grainger's supervision.

The contract is on the way to Chicago for Willard's okay.

New Story For Ostrow

One of the stories contemplated for production by Lou Ostrow on his independent deal with Universal is "Lawless Lady," from L. G. Blochman's original, "Mlle. d'Armentieres." Blochman completed the story several months ago. It has French locale, but is not a war story.

'Howling Dog' Delayed

"The Case of the Howling Dog" is another Warner June number that goes over to July, Warren William is busy with "The Dragon Murder Case," and Mary Astor is on loan to Radio for "By Your Leave,"

Mack on 'China Seas'

Willard Mack was engaged by Irving Thalberg at MGM yesterday to write the dialogue for "China Seas," the Clark Gable-Jean Harlow production which Tay Garnett directs.

Baby LeRoy's Air Debut

Baby LeRoy makes his first radio broadcast Sunday over the CBS network on the "Hollywood on the Air" program.

'Sure Fire' For Raymond

New York.—A story titled "Sure Fire" is set as the next picture for Gene Raymond at Columbia.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

There are times when we think it would be a boon to Hollywood to have a special type of agent to keep "picture stealers" in their place as picture stealers, and refuse to allow them to do anything else. Not that we don't think they deserve to make as much money as the next fellow, but it strikes us that they are worth even more to the industry as picture stealers than they are as stars.

Besides which, there has to date been very little proof that because a comic is capable of walking off with the honors of a picture, just by carrying a few scenes, the same comic is capable of carrying the load of an entire picture without having the heaviness overburden him in too many spots. It's easier on the writers, too, just to pencil in part of the story that will suit the comic right down to the ground and wow the customers, than to have to keep up a comedy tempo for seven reels, built around one talent. Star comedians are few and far apart, but a featured comic holding up a star has saved many a picture from going into the average money class and put it right up among the box-office successes of the year.

•

Another thing that must be remembered in connection with comedians, is that they attract attention by virtue of their individual style of comedy. It may be the voice, the hands or the facial expression, or a combination of any and all that makes the delivery so amusing. But by virtue of the same fact, it is easy to become fed up with them and their sameness when taken in large doses.

It just goes to show you that you can build the public up to nothing for just so long and then, when you've really got something to sell besides a name, the public just won't bite again. "Murder at the Vanities," just about best real musical since "Forty-sceond Street," is doing nothing like the business that everyone connected with the picture had a perfect right to expect. And not because critical judgment was wrong, but because it was immediately preceded in release by three musicals that just didn't have it in them, and by the time "Vanities" came along, the public had gone shy.

•

The name "Vanities" alone would have sold the picture to the millions of people who had heard about the Broadway show and had never been able to see it. But "Scandals" had the same advantage and came out first and got the full benefit of a Broadway reputation, whereas "Vanities" had to follow and got the audiences that thought they wouldn't mind being twice bitten. Maybe it would be smarter to re-arrange release dates than to have a good picture go so wrong.

CHAMPAGNES

JEREBOAMS
MAGNUMS
QUARTS
PINTS
SPLITS

The best vintages, the most select brands, many of them special British Cuvees (G.B.)

ALL OF THEM OUR OWN DIRECT IMPORTATIONS

BOLLINGER (1924)
Extra Quality Brut

CLICQUOT VEUVE (1923)
Gold Label
Yellow Label

GEORGE GOULET (1921-1923)
Extra Quality Brut
Gout Americain

LANSON, PERE ET FILS (1926)
Extra Quality Dry
G. B. Extra Dry

KRUG (1926)
G. B. Private Cuvee

G. H. MUMM & CO. (1920-23-26)
Cordon Rouge Tres Sec
G. B. Cordon Rouge Tres Sec

MOET & CHANDON (1921)
G. B. Dry Imperial

PERRIER JOUET (1923-26)
Reserve Cuvee Extra Dry
G. B. Finest Quality Dry

PIPER HEIDSIECK (1921-23)
Extra Quality Brut

POL ROGER (1921-23)
Special Brut
G. B. Extra Cuvee

POMMERY & GRENO (1926)
G. B. Vin Nature

LOUIS ROEDERER (1923-26)
Extra Quality Brut

ST. GERAN
Brut

The Vendome Inc.

6666 SUNSET BOULEVARD
HOllywood 1666

SEND AN ATTRACTIVE GIFT BASKET OF CHAMPAGNE

INDIES TRYING TO FORCE CODE AUTHORITY'S HAND

New York. — Milton Weisman, counsel for the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, yesterday secured a temporary injunction from Federal Judge Coxe in an attempt to force the Code Authority to hear complaints from exhibitors who have not signed the code assents. The order is directed against the Code Authority and the local grievance, clearance and zoning boards. The hearing on a permanent injunction comes up Friday.

Weisman says the present set-up deprives those who haven't signed the assents of their rights under the law, and that the members of the ITOA who refused to sign did so because they wished to protect their rights to court hearings and also because of unsettled labor conditions.

Now these exhibitors are in a spot because some of their opposition, who did sign assents, have filed nuisance complaints against them. The present court action is intended to give them the privilege of being heard and defended before the Code Authority.

New One For Chandler

Discontinuing his production of melodramas for the time being, Willis Kent's fourth Lane Chandler western will be "The Man From Hell," an original by E. E. Repp. The picture goes into work in three weeks.

Fox To Make Special Of Lloyd's 'Cat's Paw'

New York.—"The Cat's Paw," the new Harold Lloyd picture, is said by those who have seen it here to be the best he has made since "Grandma's Boy," and the Fox officials think so well of it that it will be sold as a special.

Lloyd left here yesterday for his trip back to the coast.

Harris Won't Head MGM Stage Production Unit

New York.—In spite of the fact that MGM has made Sam Harris an offer of a staggering sum to head the new stage production unit that it plans to build, Harris has refused.

He prefers to do his own producing and to sell his product to the highest bidder for screen purposes.

Cavanaugh to Majestic

New York.—Raymond Cavanaugh, formerly head of the Universal advertising department, is the new head of Majestic's advertising and publicity.

Deland Novel For MGM

New York.—MGM has purchased the screen rights to "The Awakening of Helena Richie," a novel by Margaret Deland, published some years ago.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Bert Roach and James Donlin for "All Good Americans," MGM.

Fay McKenzie, Bobby Gordon, Pauline Brooks, Herman Brix, Carlyle Moore and Bryant Washburn Jr. for "Student Tour," MGM.

Phyllis Barry for "Moonstone," Monogram, by Harry Singler of the Small-Landau office.

G. Pat Collins by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to "Born To Be Kissed," MGM.

Paul Irving, Juliette Compton and Wallace Albright for Edward Small's "The Count of Monte Cristo."

Gay Seabrook for "Romance in the Rain," Universal, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall.

Henry Kolker, Mary Forbes, Claire du Brey, Ethel Sykes, George O'Dell and Arthur Thalasso to "Blind Date," Columbia.

Charles Irwin, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to "Moonstone," Monogram.

Morgan Hamilton for Radio's "Hat, Coat and Glove."

Albert Conti through Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to "Ladies First," Paramount.

Mary Kornman to Radio for "By Your Leave," through Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall.

Middleton in Agency

Wallace Middleton has joined the Jack Gardner office as an agency associate.

Indie Exhibs Near Single Bill Goal

Lacking but thirty signatures of a membership of 200 to put through a single bill policy for the entire Southern California sector, the Independent Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Southern California yesterday launched a strong drive to put their aim across and believe they will accomplish this within the week.

Once 90 per cent of the theatre men have agreed to eliminate duals, the large circuits and the major studios will co-operate, according to an agreement made with Charles Skouras, of FWC, and Louis B. Mayer, of MGM.

The organization passed a motion to place a minimum 55-cent admission price on previews and to take this up with the circuits and majors later this week. Harry Hicks was elected the new president of the association, but Ben Berinstein continues for sixty days until Hicks is free to accept the office. Arnold Schack as treasurer and R. D. Whitson as secretary were re-elected. The new board comprises Whitson, Berinstein, Schack, George Hanes, Robert Gumbiner, Hicks, H. J. Siler, George Bronley and Irving Carlin.

Gillham Coming Out

New York.—Robert Gillham, head of advertising and publicity for Paramount, leaves for Hollywood Saturday to attend the sales convention.

"MURDER ON THE BLACKBOARD"
RKO
" . . . Miss Oliver and Gleason work so well together, and their business is so funny, that the picture is a good bet the way it stands. . . Gleason is clever and amusing as the inspector. . . . "
—Hollywood Reporter, May 23, 1934

"ORDERS IS ORDERS"
British-Gaumont
" . . . Gleason and Charlotte Greenwood . . . make an unbeatable team. Their timing and co-operation are flawless. . . . "
—Hollywood Reporter, May 16, 1934

JAMES GLEASON
DIALOGUE DIRECTOR
"CHANGE OF HEART"
(Janet Gaynor-Chas. Farrell)
Fox Picture
"James Gleason . . . swell, strong job at dialogue direction . . . "
"Change of Heart" review, Hollywood Reporter, May 3, 1934

NOW
DIRECTING DIALOGUE
"SERVANTS' ENTRANCE"
(Janet Gaynor-Fox Picture)

"THE BOWERY"
20th Century
" . . . a great shooting script by Howard Estabrook and James Gleason . . . "
—Hollywood Reporter, Sept. 25, 1933

DEMMY LAMSON
MANAGER
OX 8019 OX 7261

"SEARCH FOR BEAUTY"
Paramount
" . . . Gleason and Robert Armstrong make a swell comedy team . . . "
—Hollywood Reporter, Jan. 8, 1934

Reviewing the FAN MAGS

PHOTOPLAY

132 pages and cover

COVER DISPLAY.....Carole Lombard

Publicity Space (Approximate)

Paramount	920 sq. inches
Warners	625 sq. inches
MGM	500 sq. inches
Columbia	150 sq. inches
Radio	140 sq. inches
Fox	88 sq. inches
Goldwyn	75 sq. inches
Harold Lloyd	35 sq. inches

Read it and laugh—Sara Hamilton's inspired and silly story, "Cleopatra Comes to Hollywood," in the June Photoplay. The gal has another story in direct contrast, one on Julia Graham, dramatic and sympathetic, "A Broken Heart in Hollywood."

Sylvia Harper has "Would You Girls Marry Dick Powell?" and gives a lot of pros and cons; Winifred Aydelotte has "Napoleon's Ghost Walks Out on Warners"; Norman Taurog reviews the laugh situation in films in "Get a Comedian, Quick"; Jim Tully writes "A Whale of a Man," all about Victor McLaglen; Jane Hampton amusingly tells about the Weissmullers in "Lupe and Johnny Were Lovers"; Kirtley Baskette puts beauty in its place in his yarn on Mary Astor, "Her Face Was Her Misfortune"; Ruth Rankin has a grand story on Henry B. Walthall, "The Little Colonel Marches Back"; Margaret E. Sangster has a touching tribute to Lilyan Tashman, "Cinderella of Broadway," and George Kent concocts a war between Dietrich, West and Sten, in "Blondes Plus Curves Mean War."

The first really authentic story—and an interesting one, too—on Elizabeth Bergner is in this issue of Photoplay. It is by Kathlyn Hayden and is called "Elizabeth Bergner—Puppet or Genius?"

Photoplay also runs the second installment on its fiction story, "I Want a Baby."

MOVIE MIRROR

96 pages and cover

COVER DISPLAY.....Joan Crawford

(MGM)

Publicity Space (Approximate)

MGM	1215 sq. inches
Warners	676 sq. inches
Radio	554 sq. inches
Paramount	485 sq. inches
Fox	250 sq. inches
Universal	130 sq. inches
Twentieth Century	110 sq. inches
Columbia	35 sq. inches

Movie Mirror for June is a nice mixture of good and bad. Taking up the good ones first: "The Burns and Allen Youve Never Heard About," by Jacqueline Moore; "The Five Most Interesting Women in Hollywood According to John Barrymore," by Charles Darnton; "The Lowdown on Joan Blondell," by Gail Rogers; "Looking Daggers at Each Other," by Dorothy Manners, an amusing account of Hollywood feuds; "Why the Chatterton-Brent Love Died," very honestly told by Jack Grant; "Freddy March Is Three Men," by Adele Whitely Fletcher; and Dorothy Emerson's fictionization of "Men in White."

The rest of the stories are not necessarily bad, but they do not belong with the above. "The Hidden Romance of Richard Dix," by Sonia Lee, is, however, an example of perfect bad taste—and not altogether on Miss Lee's part. Jerry Asher has "Joan Crawford Reveals 'The Truth About Myself and Franchot Tone'"; Greta Montebell goes to a good deal of trouble to make "The Real Story of Hepburn's Trip Abroad" interesting; Franc Dillon writes of the Children's Clinic in "Marion Davies: Angel of Mercy"; George Madden tells of "Poor Dorothea Wieck," and Gladys Hall interviews Dick Barthelmess in "First Marriage Is Frenzy, But Second Marriage—"

SCREEN PLAY

82 pages and cover

COVER DISPLAY.....Lilian Harvey

(Fox)

Publicity Space (Approximate)

Warners	522 sq. inches
MGM	455 sq. inches
Paramount	335 sq. inches
Radio	210 sq. inches
Columbia	195 sq. inches
Universal	195 sq. inches
Twentieth Century	180 sq. inches
Fox	154 sq. inches

Screen Play doesn't make any great splash among the other June magazines. J. Eugene Chrisman writes a good story on May Robson, "Fifty Years a Trouper," and Linda Leath hangs an amusing character study on a sensational title, "Hepburn's 'Hated' Rival" (Jean Muir).

Jim Tully is uninspired in "This Man Gable," and doesn't help Norma Shearer in her story, "A Woman's Life Begins at Thirty"; Sidney Skolsky writes "Tintype of Gary Cooper"; Achmed Abdullah has "My Adventures in Hollywood"; Nina Wilcox Putnam asks a few men stars about "This Woman I Could Love," and Jerry Lane describes Loretta Young's home.

Marcella Burke tells about "Irene Bentley—Fledgling"; Gertrude Hill has "Hollywood's First Duel"; Grace Simpson authors the dramatic account of "How Slim Summerville Found His Father," and Muriel Babcock pays tribute to Lilyan Tashman in "Gallant Lilyan."

Warners Starting Only Three Pix This Month

"Big Hearted Herbert" looms as the only other Warner picture likely to start this month, after "Lost Lady" and "Lady Surrenders." John Eldredge goes into it with Guy Kibbee, Aline MacMahon and Patricia Ellis,

Delmar Daves, now adapting it, will also do the script,

New Coogan Shorts

I. A. Allen is negotiating with two majors for release of a series of Jackie Coogan school-life two-reelers. The sample picture was made at Jackie's school at Santa Clara during the last Thanksgiving vacation.

Exhib Asks Code to Kill His Opposition

Monticello, Iowa.—E. T. Landis, who has run the Princess Theatre here for 20 years, complained to the Code Grievance Board that R. C. Lambert is building a new theatre and that the town of 2200 can't support two houses. The board agreed and ordered the distributors not to supply the new house with pictures. Lambert has appealed to the Code Authority.

Johnny Weaver Play at Hollywood Playhouse

"Her Knight Comes Riding," a new play by John V. A. Weaver, will be the next production to go into the Hollywood Playhouse. It is taken from Weaver's novel of the same name.

E. E. Clive is producing the play, by arrangement with Al Rosen. He has selected a cast that contains William Boyd, Eddie Nugent, Dorothy Libaire, Dora Clement, Gertrude Short and James Bush. Clive will direct.

Agency Board Defies Code Authority

(Continued from Page 1)

the matter, and asking whether or not they have to take a secretary not of their own choosing.

At the committee meeting some time ago Campbell McCullough was selected as secretary. His name was sent to the Code Authority for approval. Instead of approving him, the Code Authority informed the committee that Major Donovan, who is the coast executive secretary, would take the position.

Yesterday, when the committee met at the Beverly-Wilshire to hear the reports of two sub-committees, Major Donovan was informed that the committee would not accept him. He explained that he had been appointed by the Code Authority and was told that the Code Authority couldn't do that, as Rosenblatt was the committee's boss. The Major then explained that Rosenblatt had given his official okay to his appointment. But the committee members stated that they have not seen any evidence of such approval. So they wired Rosenblatt.

B. B. Kahane made a motion to the effect that Major Donovan could remain at the meeting only in a strictly unofficial capacity, if he wished to stay. The motion was passed, and the Major elected to remain.

Only casual discussion of the reports of the sub-committees on the advisability of licensing agents, and on details of a code of fair practice between agent, artist and producer was held. Another meeting is slated for tomorrow.

The Agency Committee is composed of B. B. Kahane, Winfield Sheehan, Emanuel Cohen, Trem Carr, J. L. Warner, Adolphe Menjou, Frank Lloyd, Wells Root, George Frank and John Nickolaus.

New Yarn For MGM

MGM yesterday purchased "The Lady Comes To Town,' a Cosmopolitan Magazine story by Clements Ripley.

"LET'S TALK IT OVER"
For Universal

ORIGINAL STORY

DORE SCHARY
LEWIS FOSTER
(Management Hoffman-Schlager, Inc.)

In Preparation
"MISSISSIPPI"
Paramount

In Preparation
"52 WEEKS FOR FLEURETTE"
Paramount

REELING around LONDON

Sidney Lanfield, on the hottest day here for quite a while, zooming down Piccadilly in hat, coat, scarf and a coupla waistcoats. . . . Dave Selznick and George Cukor together at first nights here—and, such is fame, a bunch of prospective artists for "Copperfield" waiting to see George Cukor, thought that the Dickens director was George Cooper, a local meg-wielder! . . . Dodo Watts still quite a favorite with the fans here, although she has not done much screen work recently. . . . Radio is spending five grand to publicize "Say It With Flowers," a local pic that it has purchased. That steady and dependable director, John Baxter, made it. . . . Hugh Gray, lootnant to Hugh Findlay, big Publicity Sahib at Gaumonts, took "Man of Aran" to Ireland to help put the pic over there. . . . Madeleine Carroll back in town and looking even more lovely than before (if that's possible!) for which, many thanks, Fox!

•

Margaret Sullavan is now quite the Pressboys' Darlin'; it appears that perchance Frankie Ditcham told her that the newshounds this side were rather tired of the Garboesque stall that screen stars visiting here have been giving 'em. . . . T. Hayes Hunter seated next to his leading lady at the trade show of his recent pic. . . . Herbert Wilcox sent a rave letter to Buddy Bradley after seeing the dance ensembles in Gaumont's "Ever Green," and the result is that Buddy will stage the dances in the Buchanan pic and not Bus Berkeley. . . . Michael E. Balcon, Gaumont production chief, was guest of honor at the Phil Rosen farewell party here. . . . Cafe de Paris on the river at Bray here looked like Malibu t'other Sunday. .. . Myron Selznick, Beinta Hume, Rowland Brown, Gilbert Miller and Cyril Gardner among the movieites.

•

Charlie Farrell and Monty Banks on the air here in the "In Town Tonight" hour and managing to get in quite a nifty piece of publicity on their forthcoming flicker. . . . Nolbandov, Russian supervisor, has been appointed production manager to Warner-Brit by Irving Asher. . . . Paul Kohner, Dave Bader, Paul Stein, Joe Rock, Jimmie Barker, Owen Moore and Di Napier at the Marcel Varnel party. . . . Norman Lee will meg the next radio-revue B.I. picture here. . . . Ned (Trick Stuff) Mann received eulogistic raves from film scribe Ernest Betts. It made nice copy, Ernest, but can't say we like the idea of telling the public how all that trick stuff is done. . . . It will be remembered that Binnie Barnes, now with you Californians, made half a trip to Hollywood before for "Cavalcade," but got hubbie-sickness in New York and rushed home to him instead! . . . Clarence Winchester's Hollywood novel, "An Innocent in Hollywood," is just out here. . . . Really bright stuff too and plenty of handclaps for a town that is usually blackened by most scribblers. . . . Laura La Plante, Miriam Seegar and Irving Asher at the Equity Charity Concert. . . . Leslie Henson and Bobbie Howes together over movie matters.

'Babbitt' Script Will Be Finished Next Week

Tom Reed expects to be able to call "Babbitt" a script by next week, and is angling for a four weeks vacation before being given his next Warner assignment,

The picture is not definitely spotted on the production schedule, beyond its announcement for next season's release. Reed has been doing the screen play with Niven Busch,

Warner-Erpi Settle

(Continued from Page 1)

producers refused to sign contracts for more than $500 a reel to be paid to Erpi. Erpi therefore figured that, if it received only $500 a reel, it could pay Warners seven per cent on that amount only. The contention of Warners was that it was not their fault if Erpi could not get more, and suit was started for seven per cent of every dollar the industry took in on sound pictures.

Several weeks ago the two sides got together on an understanding that Erpi should pay Warners $3,500,000, but the Federal Government stepped in and refused to permit such a settlement. Now this new agreement has been reached, with the slate washed clean and with Warners having $5,000,000 to play with in buying theatres or for any other purpose. It undoubtedly comes in very handy in the effort that Warners are making to acquire control of the Fox Met chain, thereby making themselves tops in the New York theatre situation.

Chotiner Kick Off, And Is His Face Red?

H. W. Chotiner filed a complaint last week with the Los Angeles Grievance Board, charging that United Artists Corporation would not let him cancel "Sorrell and Son." Yesterday he withdrew his complaint and explained that developments showed he had not contracted for the picture.

Office Union Starts Row At Publisher's

New York.—A large number of noted authors yesterday gave their support to a strike of the editorial workers of the Macaulay Company, who walked out when some of the employees joined an office union.

Among the authors who protested against "medieval conditions" in the publishing business are John Wexley, Grace Lumpkin, Lincoln Steffens, Samuel Ornitz, Rita Van Doren, Nathaniel West, Matthew Josephson and George Sklar.

Praskins Completes 'We Live Again' Script

Leonard Praskins yesterday turned in the completed script on Sam Goldwyn's "We Live Again," based on "Resurrection." Rouben Mamoulian, who directs, hopes to get into rehearsals by the end of this week and before the cameras in another two weeks.

IATSE Locals Vote To Keep Autonomy

Louisville, Ky.—By an overwhelming vote, the delegates to the IATSE convention here yesterday voted to maintain the local autonomy of the various IATSE unions. The Executive Board had taken action to deprive the Locals of their right of self-government, but this was defeated by the delegates.

This means that any Local may call a strike if it wishes and may refuse to go out on strike, even if the national body orders it. Delegates seem imbued with a spirit calling for reorganization throughout the entire IATSE, starting with new national officers and a new order in the Locals.

An attempt by James Shaw of Local 37 to prevent the seating of Lew Blix and Jack McAvoy, was dismissed by the Executive Board.

MGM's 'Indo-China' Troupe Off to Orient

MGM's sound and camera crew that will make background and special shots in French Indo-China for the picture, "Indo-China," left for San Francisco last night. They sail today from Frisco. Clyde DeVinna will be in charge of the cameras. James McKay goes along to supervise the shooting.

Norman McLeod Back

Norman McLeod returned to Hollywood yesterday via boat from New York. He was accompanied by his wife, who rounded out a trip to Europe.

VACATION TIME IS HERE

LET US SOLVE YOUR TRAVEL WORRIES

Sam Revel Travel Service

6724 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.

HOllywood 2241 (Hotel Christie) 24-Hour Service

Complete Travel Information — Positively No Charge

AIR - STEAMSHIP - BUS - HOTEL - RESORT

Reservations Arranged To Any Point

Free Delivery On Tickets With Complete Information

Just Phone HOllywood 2241 — PERSONAL ATTENTION

JOHN MEEHAN, Jr.

"LET'S TALK IT OVER"

SCREEN PLAY

and

DIALOGUE

"CASTLES IN THE AIR"

Original Story

Management
Hoffman-Schlager, Inc.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

A TOAST

To PARAMOUNT

CHARLES R. ROGERS

RALPH MURPHY

ELISSA LANDI

for

"THE GREAT FLIRTATION"

ADOLPHE MENJOU

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 25. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Thursday, June 7, 1934

THALBERG PICTURES HIT

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•EVEN at the risk of being thought repetitious, we would like to refer again to the campaign that is being waged all over the country against so-called salacious pictures and to the enormous and rapid increase in the force of that campaign. Also, we would like to repeat the question we have asked before: "What is the industry going to do about it?"

The matter is beyond the annoyance stage; it is inflicting vital wounds on the box-office. Exhibitors everywhere complain that, when they show pictures which have been denounced by the churches and reformers, not only do their receipts fall off, but they are flooded with letters and telephone calls, asking them how they dare offer such pictures.

•

The cumulative effect of this movement is dangerous. Two days ago, Cardinal Mundelein, of the Chicago diocese, issued a long statement, pledging his influence in the "battle against indecency." His Eminence, William, Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, said the same thing earlier. Every bishop of the Catholic church has written to every exhibitor in his diocese, asking him to join the Legion of Decency and to bar salacious pictures.

Nor is the Catholic church alone in its campaign. The Presbyterian General Assembly, a National convention of Baptists, the National Conference of Social Work, the Federation of Churches in America and other Protestant organizations have joined hands with the Catholic church and are urging a boycott.

Following Cardinal Mundelein's statement, support of his stand was announced by Chicago Methodists, by the Living Church, a periodical which speaks for the Episcopalians, and by a conference of Rabbis. They welcomed the campaign, not only because of its primary purpose, but because "it offers a ground upon which Protestants, Catholic and Jews will be able to unite whole-heartedly for the first time."

The National Federation of Women's Clubs—2,000,000 women—is in the movement. So are the Parent-Teachers Association and Mrs. August Belmont's Motion Picture Research Council, in addition to professional reformers, blue-noses and self-seeking politicians all over the country. These scavengers who tack on to every mass

(Continued on Page 4)

20th Century Gets Arliss For Two More

New York.—Twentieth Century Pictures has signed George Arliss for two more productions in addition to "Richelieu," for which he is set on the present contract. It is understood he gets a big boost in price for the two additional ones.

Three Big Shots Planning New Firm

New York.—Three men whose names mean a lot in the motion picture industry and all of whom are at present in production or distribution, are planning to sever their present connections and join hands in a new producing and distributing company.

Their plans are not yet sufficiently advanced so that they can make any public announcement, but they feel that this is the time to start such an organization, because the field is wide open. The new firm will enliven the Hollywood scene, because all three of them are of the type who will reach out and take what they want.

Columbia Convention To Be at Atlantic City

New York.—The tentative date set for the sales convention of Columbia Pictures is July 1-3. It will be at Atlantic City.

British Comic Arrives

Sydney Howard, British stage and screen comedian, arrived in Hollywood yesterday to play in Edward Small's "Transatlantic Showboat." This is Howard's first visit to America.

Catholics Told To Ask Him To Clean Up Productions—Shearer Roles Criticized

New York.—The Rev. Daniel Lord, S.J., editor of The Queen's Work, a Catholic publication in St. Louis, is given credit for an attack on Irving Thalberg personally in the campaign of the church against salacious pictures. Thalberg is accused of presenting his wife, Norma Shearer, as a divorced woman, a type considered by the church a "harlot," in her last five pictures. The article suggests that the more than 200,000 readers of the pamphlet write to Thalberg in a concerted effort to induce him to clean up his pictures.

Father Lord, who is regarded as the spokesman for the church in motion picture matters, is generally conceded to be the person who has blown the

(Continued on Page 3)

T. Freeland to Direct For Brit.-International

Thornton Freeland has been signed by British International Pictures to direct "Brewster's Millions," which has Jack Buchanan in the lead.

He leaves Friday by train for New York, where he will hop a boat for London. The deal was negotiated by Edington and Vincent.

'O'Hara' For Spigelgass

Leonard Spigelgass will produce "Princess O'Hara" for Universal, stepping into the associate producer class with the assignment. He will also write the screen play, in collaboration with Nat Ferber. It goes into work August 1.

Sam Wood Plans to Be Indie Producer

Sam Wood finishes production tomorrow on MGM's "Stamboul Quest." He also finishes his contract with the studio, and on Sunday leaves for a four-months trip to Europe.

Contrary to reports, he will not accept a directorial job in England. On his return he will stop off in New York and try to arrange with ERPI for finances to make three independent productions a year for a period of three years.

Radio Gets J. M. Barrie Story For Hepburn

It was admitted today that Paramount had sold the rights to J. M. Barrie's "Little Minister" to Radio for Katharine Hepburn in exchange for the services of Francis Lederer for "Pursuit of Happiness."

Now all that Paramount needs is a female lead and it is possible that, now it has Lederer, an unknown may get it. Mary Boland has been assigned to the cast.

'Viennese Nights' Is Shown Again in London

Warners has revived "Viennese Nights," made in 1929, for the fifth time in London, according to word received at the studio yesterday. The Stoll Theatre there has booked it again, having played it on four other occasions.

It was made by Alan Crosland, with Vivienne Segall, Alexander Gray and Jean Hersholt.

Al Lichtman Here

Al Lichtman, general sales manager for United Artists, has arrived in Hollywood, flying out from the company convention in Chicago.

Edward Paramore III

Edward Paramore is confined to the Hollywood Hospital with a severe cold.

'U' BUDGET UP $3,000,000; 42 FEATURES ON PROGRAM

Carl Laemmle Sr. yesterday announced the biggest production schedule in the history of Universal Pictures. With a budget calling for the expenditure of $3,000,000 more than the studio's average, plans have been laid for a huge increase in pictures for the 1934-35 season, and for an increase in employment that will boost the payroll 22 per cent over last year.

On the schedule are 42 feature plays, six Buck Jones out-of-doors features, four serials and more than 100 short subjects. The latter will include

(Continued on Page 4)

McEvoy on Fields Yarn

Paramount has assigned J. P. McEvoy to write an original, "Back Porch," which will be the next for W. C. Fields when he completes "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," in which he is now working. Norman Taurog has been penciled in to direct.

Sturges to Direct

Preston Sturges was made a director yesterday and will pilot his own story, "A Cup of Coffee," for Universal. He is writing his own screen play.

WILHELM DIETERLE directed "FOG OVER FRISCO"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Everybody in town, including Winnie Sheehan, now claims to have "discovered Shirley Temple, but 'smatter of fact, it was Charles Lamont who first "saw" her and gave her her chance in some shorts . . . The Pat de Cicco-Helen Vinson amour never really got started—and for a very funny reason . . . Jane Cowl, in town and rehearsing for the local production of "Shining Hour" . . . The George Barneses (Joan Blondell) have called off the Tahiti trip because the boats leave there only once a month and the cheeild must be born on American serl. . . . Junior Laemmle and Mary Carlisle going places . . . Dorothy Grainger filed intention to wed George Lollier yesterday.

•

May Robson is off to the Redwoods for a week—her girl-friend drives, and May watches for cops! . . . There are rumors around that Frank Orsatti is going to join the Selznick-Joyce outfit. . . . Frank Joyce, by the way, will be here in about ten days—going to Santa Barbara for a rest on arrival. . . . Latest title-change suggested for "Resurrection" is "Sten Up and Cheer!" . . . The Lubitsch mansion will be occupied by the end of the week. . . . Ernst says its the most beautiful house he's ever seen! . . . . Zasu Pitts and Edward Everett Horton will broadcast together Sunday night for Hall of Fame. . . . Mrs. Lionel Barrymore, with Marion Saportas in tow, back in Hollywood. . . . John Barrymore, by the way, is very ill.

•

Lyle Talbot may join a Cleveland stock company for his "vacation" this summer. . . . Virginia Bruce Gilbert is adding a wing to her parents' menage for herself. . . . If L. B. Mayer or Irving Thalberg ever retires, it will be to raise soft-shell crabs . . . such a passion! . . . Bets are that Francis Marion and George Hill will "I do" it all over again. . . . The Joe E. Browns, back from the Oriental jaunt today. . . Carl Brisson is trying hard to chisel himself as a Great Dane around here. . But chiseling! . . . W. C. Fields, with a broken leg, Fay Wray, off for New York, Austin Parker, Frances Goldwyn, the Leigh M. Battsons, Marion Hollins at the Vendome. . . . Skeets Gallagher, Irving Netcher, Ad Schulberg, Wally Beery, the Al Newmans, Evelyn Brent, Nigel Bruce, Paul Sloane, the Stephen Ames, Barbara Barondess, also there.

McCARTY AND BERGMAN TO MAKE PIC IN RUSSIA

Helmer Bergman and Henry McCarty returned to Hollywood yesterday, fired with enthusiasm for the drama they saw in the daily life of the new Russia, and began preparations for their return in two months to produce a feature picture at the Meshrabpom studios in Moscow.

McCarty, whose last Hollywood assignment was on the adaptation of "Right to Romance" for Ann Harding, and Bergman, pioneer picture man formerly in charge of sound at Metropolitan studio, will organize their technical staff here and take American sound equipment with them for the Russian picture.

The Soviet film producing company will co-operate with studio facilities and material, but offers no financial subsidy. Bergman stated yesterday he has American backing assured for the picture.

No conventional script will be prepared, the intention being to tell the story by the documentary method used by Flaherty in "Nanook," no professional players appearing. McCarty will write and direct, and Bergman will manage the technical end of production. The two went to Russia and travelled informally to get first hand information from the people.

Stars to Entertain at Terrace Room Opening

Several film stars, including Russ Columbo, will take a brief respite from their labors in the production of "Castle in the Air" to sing several songs at the opening of the Miramar Terrace Room tonight. Lois January and Dean Benton will also "do a number" in honor of the arrival of Kay Kyser and his orchestra.

Swanson, Cabanne and 'Spanky' Get Agents

Gloria Swanson, Christy Cabanne and "Spanky" MacFarland all signed new agency contracts yesterday. Miss Swanson signed with the Hawks-Volck office, Cabanne with William Stephens, and the kid with Beyer-MacArthur.

June Knight Ill Again

June Knight returned to the California Lutheran Hospital yesterday to undergo treatments for adhesions, after a tonsil operation. She will be there a week and Universal consequently will have to replace her with another player in "Romance in the Rain."

Col. Sets Stooges

Columbia has set the Three Stooges for roles in the Milestone production, "The Captain Hates the Sea." They return from personals in Chicago, June 14.

Snowflake Joins Gang

Hal Roach yesterday signed "Snowflake" to a five-year ticket as a member of the "Our Gang" unit. The MacQuarrie office handled the deal.

Maureen Trip Off Again; Goes Into 'The Hide-out'

For the sixth time in less than that many months, Maureen O'Sullivan yesterday canceled her plans for a return to Ireland and her reservations on the Ile de France and accepted a top spot in "The Hide-out" opposite Robert Montgomery.

W. S. Van Dyke puts the picture before the cameras by the end of the week.

Silent Cameras Bought For Western Service Lot

Pursuing its announced policy of providing the best equipment available, the Western Service studios have just purchased four of the "silent" Mitchell cameras for use by producers working on that lot, believing that camera the best they can find.

More Work on 'Island'

Victor Fleming today puts "Treasure Island" back into work to shoot an added sequence on the picture, hoping to finish the work in time so that Wallace Beery may leave by the end of next week in his own plane for Minneapolis for the Shrine convention.

Jutte on Dialogue Job

William Jutte is doing dialogue revision on Universal's "What Women Dream."

Song-writers In Jam With Goldwyn

Sam Goldwyn yesterday is said to have officially notified Columbia that four songs which the latter purchased from Burton Lane and Harold Adamson for use in the picture, "Orchids and Onions," belong to him.

The song-writing pair say Goldwyn is mistaken, and explain that the disputed songs were merely played for Mr. Goldwyn as samples of their work at the time they were trying to land a job with him on the Eddie Cantor picture, but that Goldwyn never purchased them.

Goldwyn, they claim, subsequently hired them on a weekly basis, but paid no attention to the songs they wrote, with the result that they asked for their release and went to Columbia.

Colony Club Staging Big Benefit Tonight

Tonight, at the Colony Club, stars, writers and executives will join in a big benefit. Reservations have been received by the score for this event.

The program of entertainment will be of all-star caliber. Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante, Eddie Conrad and a host of others will take part.

Joe E. Browns Arriving

Joe E. Brown reaches Hollywood today with his wife from a three months trip to the Orient. They arrive on the President Coolidge. Brown's first assignment will be "Six Day Bike Race," which Earl Baldwin has prepared for him.

EXPERIENCE

Satin Smooth

● EVER since the "101 Ranch" made movies . . . since "Nickelodeons" were popular on blase Broadway . . . Max Factor has worked tirelessly and patiently helping to solve the make-up problems of the Motion Picture Industry.

● TODAY . . . backed by years of experience . . . comes his greatest achievement, SATIN SMOOTH Make-up. It's a smoother, faster make-up, easier to apply and easier to remove . . . a make-up of delicate tones that photographs beautifully.

● TRY it and thrill!

MAX FACTOR'S MAKE-UP STUDIOS
HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA

DONOVAN STATUS SETTLED BY SOL ROSENBLATT WEEKS AGO

'Paid Employe To Conduct an Office'

It developed yesterday that the question of whether or not Major Joseph O. Donovan should act as secretary of the film code Agency Committee was settled before it ever came up.

In a telegram to Eddie Cantor and Ralph Block, sent May 15, Sol Rosenblatt explained that Major Donovan's status was simply that of " a paid employe to run an office," and that Donovan would have nothing to say about anything the Agency Committee might do or say.

Rosenblatt's wire was in reply to a wire sent him by Cantor and Block when it was first indicated that an attempt would be made to inject Donovan into the affairs of the Agency Committee. The Rosenblatt wire said:

"Your wire respecting Donovan received. I communicated with John Flinn who said this appointment not a government one and not within my purview. Simply an appointment by the Code Authority of a paid person to be in charge of the Code Authority office on the coast, so there will be a central place for all Code Authority activities to clear through. So far as I see, he has nothing whatever to do with either employees or employers of the industry, and his only capacity is that of a paid employe to run an office. I suggest the Agency Committee go to work, as neither Donovan nor any other employe of the Code Authority has anything to say about its deliberations or recommendations."

At Tuesday's meeting of the Agency Committee, when it refused to accept Major Donovan as its secretary, he is said to have pointed out that his appointment as secretary to the committee was okayed by Rosenblatt. A wire was sent Rosenblatt, asking him to clarify the situation, but according to his wire of May 15, he had clarified it three weeks before.

Weems Now a Director On 'Something Simple'

Henry Ginsberg, Hal Roach general manager, yesterday promoted Walter Weems of the writing staff to be a director and assigned him to co-direct with Charles Parrott the Charles Chase comedy, "Something Simple," which goes into work today.

Betty Mack, Del Henderson, Harry Bowen, Arthur Housman and Lew Kelly are in the cast.

Martin Back to Para.

Francis Martin returns today by plane from a short vacation in New York to resume his work on the script of "College Rhythm" at Paramount. He collaborates with Walter DeLeon and Jack McDermott on the George Marion original.

'Gaily I Sin' Set

Larry Darmour's next Majestic production, "Gaily I Sin," is scheduled for production in two weeks. The story is an original by Mann Page and Izola Foster, and has been scripted by Houston Branch.

Heat in East Kills Grosses at Theatres

New York.—The excessive heat in the East and Middle West is knocking box-office receipts to new lows. "Little Man, What Now?" at the Music Hall did a nose dive on this account, getting only $68,000, which is very disappointing.

'Blumey' Top Bidder For Fox Met Chain

New York.—A. C. Blumenthal is now in the driver's seat in the negotiations that are going on for the acquisition of the Fox Metropolitan chain of theatres in New York.

He is believed to be working with Warenr Brothers for the control of these 45 houses, which would put Warners in first place in the New York theatre field.

Radio Puts 'Fountain' In Work Next Monday

Radio's next feature production will probably be "The Fountain," starting next Monday with John Cromwell directing Ann Harding. Violet Kemble-Cooper goes into the cast, for which Brian Aherne and Jean Hersholt were previously set.

Sam Hoffenstein worked with Jane Murfin on the dialogue, the balance of the adaptation from Charles Morgan's novel being by Miss Murfin.

'Broadway Bill' Goes On Location Tomorrow

Columbia's "Broadway Bill" troupe gets started for its Tanforan location tomorrow, when a technical contingent goes to make ready.

Frank Capra and his staff go Friday, and the principals and cast leave in final shifts Saturday and Sunday. The picture, starring Warner Baxter, gets shooting Monday.

New Songs For 'Romance'

Universal is spotting three numbers by the Gorney and Hartmann song-writing combination into "Romance in the Rain," which Stanley Bergerman is producing. They are "Road to Romance," "For Instance" and "Love at Last."

Alice Brady to Radio

Alice Brady's first assignment since the termination of her MGM ticket will be a leading role in Radio's "Gay Divorce," the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers picture. The contracts are being drawn up for signatures.

Para. Buys Block Story

Paramount has just bought "One Hour Late" by Libby Block. Al Lewis will produce it, with Carl Winston assisting. No cast or director assigned yet.

Kober on Way West

New York.—Arthur Kober left New York for Hollywood yesterday.

Convention Will Hear New Para. Plan

New York.—Paramount officials admit that the plan for the reorganization of the company is now complete in all its details, but no one will say a word about it, the announcement being held to be sprung at the convention in Los Angeles, opening June 18.

The delegates to the convention this year will include only division and branch managers, and company executives, both domestic and foreign. There will be no salesmen, as in former years.

George Hill to Direct Dressler in 'Tish'

Planning it as the next Marie Dressler picture to go into work by the end of the Summer when she has fully recovered, Irving Thalberg has assigned Frances Marion to write the screen play and George Hill to direct "Tish."

The story is based on Mary Roberts Rinehart's series in the Saturday Evening Post. Hill will handle it as his next assignment when he completes "The Good Earth," on which he is now wrking.

Marks Set For First

Clarence Marks' first production effort as a supervisor for Universal will be "Weather Permitting," the studio yesterday signing H. M. Walker to write the screen play. It is based on an idea by Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, Earle Snell and Kurt Newman.

Thalberg Pictures Hit

(Continued from Page 1)

lid off in the present crisis. He is understood to have heard the promise made by Will Hays that pictures would be cleaned up, and he now contends that the producers have double-crossed both Hays and the church and have made no effort to "purge the films of immorality."

Father Lord also represented the Catholic Church during the shooting of DeMille's "King of Kings." He will broadcast within a few nights over NBC, and it is understood that he will talk about pictures.

There is to be a conference of Catholic bishops in Cincinnati on June 22 and it is believed that the principal discussion will be about motion pictures. It is understood that the Pope will be asked to issue an edict against unclean films. Will Hays is slated to speak to this gathering and has been given instructions by the heads of the major companies to say that the industry is trying to create entertainment and that, unless pictures depict present-day life and its problems, the public will not buy. He will also insist that pictures are not nearly so salacious as plays, newspapers, novels and magazines.

The latest development in the church campaign is to give out cards to every pupil in every Catholic school, each card bearing a list of the pictures that the children must not see.

Not That it Matters by Helen Gwynn

According to something we learned today (and a Gwynn will pick up the darndest things), every script made by a careful producer is broken down into statistics that include a percentage rating of how much talk and how much action there is in it. After due and careful consideration, it has been discovered that the best picture story is one that divides itself up fifty-fifty on action and words. The story is still good if the action goes up to two-thirds, but when words take up more than half the script, it takes great direction, great camera work, great writing and great acting in the hopes that all together they can make a good picture, and possibly a great one.

•

It is always somewhat astonishing to us to hear about statistics like that, because if they go to all the trouble of finding out about such things, it ought to make story-buying a whole lot easier. Instead of which, story-buying remains at the same level and the only thing you can credit the studios with is the fact that they know beforehand just how much of a chance they stand of turning out a good picture from the story they bought.

In some cases, the script can be doctored so that the action and words stand in better picture relation to each other. But in too many cases that can't be done without destroying the quality of the story, and then, unless great care is exerted, the finished picture just talks an audience right out of the theatre.

•

It has been suggested recently that, before a story is bought, it ought to be worked on for a week or two to see if there is a picture in it, and that the author should be willing to lend a helping hand. But in order to do that, the studios would have to sign a pact that they'd all buy stories by that method, otherwise an author would be a fool to sit down and show up the weaknesses in his story when he can go out and sell it at face value to another studio. On the other hand, many a good story is still unsold for lack of a little digging to find the picture in it. So what? So there you are again, a little wiser but not much smarter.

•

Charlie Vidor pulled a fast one on King Vidor the other day before King had a chance. Charles Vidor has, of course, suffered for years on account of his name, so much so that he had a large sign made for his office that reads: "I am no relation to King Vidor." So the other day, Charles ran into King on the Paramount lot and said, "I hear you're going to work here. I advise you to change your name so there won't be any mix-up!"

Jack Cohen East

Jack Cohen, vice-president of Rowland Productions, producing for Columbia, leaves today by plane for New York. He will return in three weeks.

UNIVERSAL ANNOUNCES 42 FEATURES, BIG BUDGET

(Continued from Page 1)

a series of Walter Lantz cartoon novelties in Technicolor, a series of Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit, historical travesties. Studio executives feel that they have lined up a list of the finest screen players and directors the studio has ever had under contract. In addition, several players developed by the organization and a number of stage celebrities will be given screen recognition.

Among the productions announced on the schedule, all of which will be made under the supervision of Carl Laemmle, Jr., are: "The Great Ziegfeld," written by William Anthony McGuire and Billie Burke, and starring William Powell; "Sutter's Gold," an epic of the California gold rush, by Blaise Cendrars; "Magnificent Obsession," by Lloyd C. Douglas; "Showboat," by Edna Ferber; "Night Life of Gods," by Thorne Smith; a modernized version of Sheridan's "School For Scandal"; two Damon Runyon stories, "Princess O'Hara" and "Million Dollar Ransom"; "A Cup of Coffee," by Preston Sturges; "Fanny," by Marcel Pagnol; "Return of Frankenstein," by John L. Balderston, and starring Boris Karloff; "Good Fairy" and "Within This Present," starring Margaret Sullavan; Edgar Allen Poe's "The Raven"; "Strange Wives," by Edith Wharton; Charles Dickens' "Mystery of Edwin Drood" and "Great Expectations," the latter starring Henry Hull; "It Happened in New York," by Ward Morehouse; "Romance in the Rain," starring Roger Pryor; "Gift of Gab," with Edmund Lowe and Gloria Stuart; "My Mother"; "The Human Side," with Adolphe Menjou and Doris Kenyon; Jean Bart's play, "Man Who Reclaimed His Head"; "Zest," by Charles G. Norris; "Transient Lady," by Octavus Roy Cohen, starring Gloria Stuart; "Moon Mullins," an adaptation of the comic strip; "Castles in the Air," a musical with Russ Columbo; "What Women Dream," and others.

Slated for late summer release are: Frank Borzage's production "Little Man, What Now?,' with Margaret Sullavan and Douglass Montgomery; John M. Stahl's "Imitation of Life," with Claudette Colbert; James Whale's production of Galsworthy's "One More River," with Diana Wynyard, Frank Lawton and Jane Wyatt, and "There's Always Tomorrow," with Frank Morgan, Binnie Barnes and Lois Wilson.

Among the Universal directors for the new season will be John M. Stahl, Lowell Sherman, James Whale, Frank Borzage, William Wyler, Stuart Walker, Eddie Buzzell, Kurt Neumann, Edward Ludwig, Karl Freund, Ernst L. Frank, Edward Laemmle, Richard Thorpe, Murray Roth and James W. Horne, and among the contract writers, not including those on individual picture assignments, will be Willliam Anthony McGuire, John L. Balderston, Leopold Atlas, Bradley King, Barry Trivers, Doris Anderson, Gladys Unger, Clarence Marks, Ella O'Neill and others.

Three new sound stages and other studio improvements costing more than $350,000, just completed, will provide added facilities for the new season of production.

Dubin Back to Warners

Al Dubin returned to Warners yesterday from New York and has been assigned to write additional lyrics for "Dames" numbers which he contributed with Harry Warren.

Col. Starts Short

"Tropical Madness," a musical short written and directed by Archie Gottler, has started at Columbia. Jules White is supervising.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

movement in the hope of personal graft or preferment are dangerous, not because of their influence, but because of their voices.

•

It makes no difference right now who is right and who is wrong. The entire industry is being tarred with the same brush. Whether or not your skirts are clean so far as the making of salacious pictures is concerned, you are going to be splashed by some of that tar. There may be no denunciations leveled at you or your productions, but what hurts the industry as a whole will have a harmful effect on you.

Something must be done to offset this injurious flood, and done quickly. Some corrective propaganda must be launched because, if that isn't done, the denunciations are going to grow more harmful and the box-office is going to take more and more raps. The life blood of the business flows from that box-office, and the more that stream is clogged or weakened, the worse off the industry becomes. Some measures must be taken eventually, so why isn't now a good time to start?

Up-to-the-Minute Casting News

Shirley Grey to "Transatlantic Showboat," Reliance, by Bill Woolfenden, of the Small-Landau office.

Robert Gleckler for "Ransom, One Million Dollars," Universal, through Leo Morrison.

Barbara Bedford for "Tomorrow's Youth," Monogram, by the MacQuarries.

Armand Kaliz to "Merry Widow," MGM, through MacQuarrie.

Louise Beavers for "Imitation of Life," Universal, through MacQuarrie.

Walter Brennon to "Rear Car," MGM, by MacQuarrie.

Reginald Owen, Mickey McGuire, Betty Lawford for "Human Side," Universal.

Murray Kinnell to "Hat, Coat and Glove," Radio, through Beyer-MacArthur.

John Sheehan for "Eadie Was a Lady," MGM, by Hallam Cooley.

Niles Welch to "Tomorrow's Youth," Monogram, by Hallam Cooley.

New Mascot Serial To Start in Three Weeks

Victor Zobel, who turned in Mascot's serial, "Burn 'Em Up Barnes," Monday, starts casting next week for the third serial, "Law of the Wild," which will start about June 25 with Rex, the wild horse, Rin-Tin-Tin and Ben Turpin.

Breezy Eason gets the assignment as one-half the directorial corps.

Code Violations by Studios Increasing

The Code Committee for Extras and the Junior Screen Actors' Guild report that film code violations by the studios in connection with the extra players are sharply increasing.

Yesterday a total of 31 complaints were prepared by the Guild. Last week only 50 were registered during the entire week. The Grievance Committee of the Extras Committee is acting on them as rapidly as possible, and reports that the studios are paying without a squawk. But the violations still increase.

Marion Orth to Mono.

Marion Orth was engaged by Monogram yesterday to write the screen play for "Profit Without Honor," which George Yohalem supervises. Harry Spingler, of the Small-Landau office, set the ticket.

Hand-Lettering insists that your ad be read

WENTWORTH

for ART in your Advertising

6719 SUNSET BLVD . . . HO. 3957

BODYGUARD

EXPERIENCED

Unencumbered man, 29 years, college educated and capable secretary. Complete wardrobe.

Box 275, care Reporter, or Phone HOllywood 3957

STUDIO EMPLOYEES

you can borrow on

★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles

$10 to $300

24-HOUR SERVICE

Strictly Confidential

Small Monthly Repayments

Loans Arranged by the

LOCAL LOAN CO.

406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine HEmpstead 1133

London's Smartest Address—

GROSVENOR HOUSE

PARK LANE . . .

is also London's most modern hotel. An apartment at Grosvenor House provides an actual "home from home," replete with every modern aid to greater comfort.

The location of Grosvenor House is a happy blend of convenience and charm; in and around the hotel London's social life moves; near by are the best shops and the theatres; just across the way is London's great garden, Hyde Park.

Life is amusing, easy and pleasant at

Grosvenor House, London

Cable Address for Reservations: GROVHOWS, AUDLEY, LONDON

IATSE Demands Strikers Go Back

Louisville, Ky.—The IATSE convention here yesterday adopted a resolution demanding that immediate action be taken to enforce the decision of the National Labor Board made last August when it settled the studio technicians' strike.

The Labor Board ordered the calling off of the strike and the taking back by the studios of all the strikers, without prejudice. It also decided that the studios should place the returning strikers ahead of all new employees, and that there should be no discrimination against members of any union. It was declared on the convention floor that the studios have not lived up to this decision.

The delegates also adopted a resolution calling for immediate adjustment of the jurisdictional controversies between the IATSE and the IBEW.

Ostrow Wants Pichel As 'Yahgan' Director

Lou Ostrow is negotiating with Irving Pichel for his services as a director in order to secure the rights to "Yahgan," an original story by F. Willis McGrew, planned for Bela Lugosi and Boris Karloff.

Pichel submitted the story to Universal some time ago on the condition that he be signed to direct. Ostrow wants it for his own independent production.

Loew's Inc. Declares Dividend on Common

New York.—The Board of Directors of Loew's Inc. yesterday declared a dividend of twenty-five cents a share on the common stock of the corporation, payable on June 30.

New Tariff May Hit British Relations

Washington.—Retaliatory measures against Great Britain because of its stringent quota restrictions are expected by the motion picture industry when the new tariff bill, now before the Senate, is passed.

The restrictions placed on the importation of American pictures by Britain have been a sore spot for a long time, and the industry hopes that President Roosevelt will do something to even the score.

Para. Signs John O'Hara

New York.—John O'Hara, a New York newspaper man, has been signed to a writing contract by Paramount and leaves for the coast today. He has just completed his first novel, "Appointment in Samara."

'Blind Date' Finished

Roy William Neill turned in "Blind Date" at Columbia Tuesday, right on schedule with 18 days shooting. Ann Sothern and Paul Kelly have the top spots.

Leon Errol Borrowed By Radio For Short

Leon Errol, finishing his part in "The Notorious Sophie Lang" at Paramount, jumps the fence to work in the second of Lee Marcus' Four Star Series at Radio the week of June 18.

The short is called "Fixing a Stew." It is being written and will be directed by Al Boasberg. Errol did a Radio short on last year's program.

Schrock-Lawrence Team

Paramount has assigned Raymond L. Schrock to collaborate with Vincent Lawrence on "A Man I Knew," an original story. Louis D. Lighton is producing.

Robert Allen Assigned

Robert Allen, one of Columbia's Broadway recruits, was assigned yesterday to the "By Persons Unknown" cast.

'Mrs. Wiggs' Starting

With W. C. Fields and Zasu Pitts in the leads, Norman Taurog yesterday put "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" into rehearsal at Paramount.

Gordon Quits Small, Will Write At Para.

A disagreement over the handling of "Transatlantic Showboat" yesterday caused Leon Gordon to ask for his release from the spot as executive producer under Edward Small at Reliance.

Small granted it, and Gordon returns to writing with a term deal as a writer at Paramount, starting Monday. His producer career was short-lived, lasting one month. The Small-Landau office set the Paramount ticket.

Ed Churchill Will Write Buck Jones Yarn

Edward Churchill, assistant to John LeRoy Johnston of the Universal publicity department, was signed yesterday by Buck Jones to write the adaptation and screen play for Jones' first feature for Universal release.

The picture will be "Rocky Rhodes," from the story by W. C. Tuttle. Churchill will continue with the publicity job, doing the picture on the side.

Lovely Ladies
Love to Wear
Lovely Intimate Wear
Exclusive Lingerie
and Hosiery

JUEL PARK
TRADE MARK
BEVERLY HILLS
Wilshire Blvd. at Beverly Drive

"MASSACRE"
Warners

"THE TRUMPET BLOWS"
Paramount

SIDNEY TOLER

"OPERATOR 13"
M-G-M

"HERE COMES THE GROOM"
Chas. R. Rogers - Paramount

"UPPERWORLD"
Warners

Management:
BEYER-MacARTHUR

"REGISTERED NURSE"
Warners

In completing my contract with Paramount, I wish to take this means of thanking the heads of various departments, their associates and employees for the kind consideration and co-operation given me during the making of my pictures at the Paramount Studio . . . . . .

I likewise wish to express again my deep appreciation publicly for the sincere loyalty, teamwork and untiring efforts on the part of my own organization . . .

I sincerely trust they will enjoy every minute of their well deserved vacation until we resume actual production . . . . . .

Charles R. Rogers

June 7, 1934

METRO GOLDWYN-MAYER STUDIOS,
ATTN: MR. SAMUEL MARX
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 26. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Friday, June 8, 1934

RUSH TO REORGANIZE

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•ALTHOUGH the present player-producer agreement upon which the standard form of contract is based, still has almost nine months to run, there is a steadily increasing interest, especially among the players, as to just what is going to happen when it expires in March of next year.

There is nothing in the present agreement which provides for its continuance, no provisions made for its renewal. It is obvious that there must be some sort of agreement, some form of contract, but, aside from the players, there seems to be little interest.

The militant Mr. Eddie Cantor, president of the Screen Actors' Guild, announced some time ago that the actors would formulate the new agreement and would incorporate in it the demands for which they will fight. The Academy, under the auspices of which the present agreement was drawn and adopted, believes that it should draw the new one. That, of course, is the producer point of view.

•

Just what the Academy and the producers are doing to prepare for the conferences which must of necessity preface such agreement, no one seems to know, but the Screen Actors' Guild has already picked its representatives for those conferences and has drawn up a list of the demands that it will make, the features it will insist upon.

Sol Rosenblatt has announced that a committee of five producers and five players will be named to confer. That is no news, because that is provided in the Code. But when that committee meets, there is going to be a different story to tell than when the present agreement was drawn. The actors stand in a different position today, a much stronger position. The majority of them, at least the influential ones, are in the Guild, which gives them a much more advantageous position under the President's collective bargaining mandate than they have ever had before.

•

More than that, the Guild has a leader in Eddie Cantor who really leads. He is extremely dissatisfied with the treatment given the player, especially the freelance actor, and he has said so without reservations. He is incensed over the attitude of the Code Authority and particularly so

Continued on Page 2)

Universal Planning Production in England

New York.—Carl Laemmle Sr. announced yesterday that Universal is planning to start the production of pictures in England within a short time and that he will make all arrangements during his trip abroad.

Wanger Bids For 'Merry-Go-Round'

New York.—Walter Wanger, now in Europe, has cabled an offer to Universal of $50,000 for the talking picture rights to "Merry-Go-Round," which that company made as a silent in 1923. He figures on making it as one of his series of independent productions.

Wanger is also reported to have signed Gigi Diderot, a very popular French star, and as having acquired the picture rights to "Silver Threads," a British best-seller, written by Glane Binson.

Mrs. Jimmy Walker Gets British Picture Lead

London. — Betty Compton—Mrs. Jimmy Walker to you—has been signed by Irving Asher, of Warner British, for the leading role in "The Richest Girl in the World," which goes into production soon.

Disney Working at Fox

Walt Disney is producing a dream sequence at the Fox studio which will be part of "Servants' Entrance," the Janet Gaynor picture.

RKO First To File Petition Under New Bankruptcy Laws—Plea Also Filed For Paramount

New York.—The motion picture industry led the parade of corporations which will seek reorganization under the new bankruptcy laws just signed by President Roosevelt. RKO Corporation yesterday applied to the Federal Court for permission to put a new set-up into effect.

Reorganization plans for the Roxy Theatre Corporation were filed by the Noteholders Protective Committee, and a petition was also entered by individual creditors of the Paramount-Publix Corporation and a committee of bondholders, headed by Frank A. Vanderlip. This last-named petition suggested that Charles D. Hilles, Eugene Leake and Charles Richardson, the present trustees, be re-appointed under the reorganization.

Under the new laws, the consent of two-thirds of each class of creditors

(Continued on Page 3)

Loew's Financial Condition Healthy

New York.—The Dow, Jones report on the financial condition of Loew's Inc. shows cash and market securities of $11,228,204; bonded debt of $28,760,208; working capital of $30,496,980; inventor of $22,171,-287.

Loy For Capra Picture

Myrna Loy has been selected to play opposite Warner Baxter in "Broadway Bill," which Frank Capra will direct for Columbia.

U.A. Forming New Exchange System

New York.—Because of the immense amount of foreign production which United Artists will have to distribute in this country, it is understood that a new exchange system is being organized, to be known as the Mundas Distributing Corporation.

United Artists has distributing arrangements with Alexander Korda's London Films, now producing the Douglas Fairbanks Sr. picture, "The Return of Don Juan," and also with British and Dominions.

Billy LaHiff Passes on After Long Illness

New York.—Billy LaHiff, proprietor of the Tavern in which he fed more hungry actors than any other man in the world, died yesterday. He had been ill for a long time, and recently blood transfusions were resorted to in a vain effort to save his life. He was an uncle of Nancy Carroll.

Cooper To Make 'She' And 'Pompeii' Abroad

New York.—Merian C. Cooper is sailing for England tonight on the Olympic. He will make two productions abroad for Radio—H. Rider Haggard's "She," which Radio bought from Universal, and Bulwer-Lytton's "Last Days of Pompeii."

Warner Brothers To Produce 'School Days'

New York.—Warner Brothers have engaged Gus Edwards to produce the talking version of "School Days," thus forcing Monogram to abandon its plans for that picture.

'Caravan' Work Rushed

Fox is rushing work on "Caravan" because Annabella, who has a leading role, must leave for Paris Sunday.

MPTOA OF WESTERN PA. ASKS FILM CODE PROBE

New York.—A sweeping investigation of the motion picture code may be made by the United States Senate in an effort to straighten out moot points and clear up the confusion which exists about it. The petition for such a probe has been filed with the Senate by Fred Herrington, secretary of the MPTOA in Western Pennsylvania, and a vote on whether or not the Senate will comply is to be taken today.

Herrington contends that the conflicting statements of Gen. Johnson, Sol Rosenblatt and Clarence Darrow

(Continued on Page 4)

Carewe Will Direct For British and Dominions

New York.—Edwin Carewe has been engaged by British and Dominions to direct some of the pictures which United Artists will release and expects to sail for England next week.

Pat McNutt For Para.

Patterson McNutt, brother of William Slavens McNutt, was signed in New York by Paramount yesterday and was instructed to report immediately to the Hollywood studios to work on the screen play of "Sailor Beware."

Edward E. Paramore Jr. SCREEN PLAY and DIALOGUE "in collaboration" SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S "BABY TAKE A BOW"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

With so many transplanted Broadwayites in our midst, a great portion of Hollywood mourns the passing of Billy LaHiff today. Proprietor of New Yorks famous Tavern, LaHiff earned the undying friendship and gratitude of countless celebrities, long before they "got up in the world." At one time or another he has helped financially or otherwise more actors and scribblers than you could name—and his Tavern was a haven of counsel and good cheer.

•

Maybe you know her and maybe you don't—but Paramount's make-up artist, one Dot Pondell, has made quite a niche in the affections of all those who come in contact with her. At the moment, Dot is seeing a big dream come true in the form of a house she has planned for years. Nearly everyone at Paramount who knows her has given her some gift for her almost finished home, but when Marlene Dietrich (who says the only real laffs in town are to be had with Dot!) heard about it, she insisted upon furnishing the entire place herself—which is exactly what's happening! Marlene's generosity, added to Dot's diligent saving, will result in a big housewarming on July 1. P.S.: All the decorations will be in chartreuse, beige and brown.

•

A very pretty young actress recently signed with a major stujo for three pictures. She finished one, and when assigned to the second, decided that she no like the part atall, atall! Now, at this time, she was going around with an attractive agent (imagine an attractive agent!) and he advised her to get out of the part by saying she was ill. She got out of doing the role by saying she was ill—BUT the company also canceled her contract! She blames her misfortune on the advice of the young agent—and "Annie doesn't live here any more!"

AGENCY BOARD GETS FAIR PRACTICE CODE

The Film Code Agency Committee met yesterday, discussed at considerable length a proposed code of fair practice between agent, producer and talent, and decided to defer any attempt to decide on it until two weeks hence. Meanwhile copies of the proposed code will be given each member of the committee for study and discussion.

Outstanding in the proposed code, which was in a rough draft state, was a proposition dealing with the idea of some sort of license for agents. This is expected to be the main point at issue when the final decision on the adoption of a code is made. Representatives of the artist groups are bitterly opposed to any form of licensing of agents, and it is understood they will fight it to the end.

The matter of selection of a permanent secretary has now been put up to Sol Rosenblatt, following the receipt of a wire from the Code Authority executive secretary confirming the contention of the committee that the Administrator, not the Code Authority, has supervision over the committee. This disposes of the question of Major Joseph Donovan's appointment to that spot by the Code Authority, whose action was turned down last Tuesday by the committee. If Rosenblatt does not appoint a secretary, the committee will select one itself.

Sybil Bolitho To Be MGM Scout in London

New York.—Sybil Bolitho has been engaged by MGM to open an office in London and scout for talent and material. She will be assisted by Christine Cooper.

Alvin Weingand to Wed

Alvin G. Weingand, resident manager of the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, and Miss Beverley Hollister, of San Mateo, will be married tomorrow. They will honeymoon in Agua Caliente.

BODYGUARD
EXPERIENCED
Unencumbered man, 29 years, college educated and capable secretary. Complete wardrobe.
Box 275, care Reporter, or
Phone HOllywood 3957

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

Baby Stars May Do Chicago Personals

Contingent upon getting approval from the Shrine convention, the Wampas yesterday accepted an offer from the Chicago Theatre for the Wampas Baby Stars to make a week's personal appearance there, starting June 22. Leroy Prinz will produce the show if he is not required back here prior to that time.

The 13 Baby Stars and one publicity man plan to leave for Chicago immediately after the close of the Shrine convention in Minneapolis June 21. Mascot has scheduled its picture, "Young and Beautiful," for July 5, allowing plenty of time to return here after the week in Chicago.

Catholic Church Asks Block Booking Probe

New York.—The Catholic Church is behind the resolution just introduced in the Massachusetts Legislature, asking for an investigation of block booking and of the practice of "forcing exhibitors to play indecent pictures."

Nigel Bruce To Sail

Nigel Bruce plans to sail for England as soon as he is told that he will not be wanted for any retakes or added scenes in "Treasure Island."

Board Stops Free Shows and Coupons

The Los Angeles Grievance Board yesterday ordered FWC, Principal Theatres and the Alhambra Amusement Company to cease giving free matinees at either the El Rey or the Alhambra theatre. If any such shows are advertised, the Board will notify distributors to refrain from delivering films to the theatres.

The Board told the same organizations to cease all coupon tie-ups with any newspaper. It also ordered that an accounting be given to the exchanges furnishing pictures on a percentage basis, and that they be given payment for each coupon pass used. These orders resulted from a hearing of two complaints filed by Cirstrand Theatres, Ltd., of Alhambra.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

because he feels that something was put over on him in the matter of the adoption by the Authority of the State Welfare Act at a time when he was not in New York and could not fight what he considered an injustice.

There is little doubt, although the list has not been made public, that Cantor will be a player representative at the Player-Producer conference. Also there is little doubt that he will fight and fight hard for what he believes the player should have. It should be an interesting battle.

MAX SCHECK

DANCE ENSEMBLES

Management
LICHTIG & ENGLANDER

'STOLEN SWEETS' RUNS WILD AFTER AN EXCELLENT START

Acting Is Good But Writing Is Muddled

"STOLEN SWEETS"
(Chesterfield)

Direction .....Richard Thorpe
Author .....Karl Brown
Photography .....M. A. Andersen
Cast: Sally Blane, Charles Starrett, Jameson Thomas, Claude King, Ethel Griffies, Phillips Smalley, Maude Turner Gordon, Johnny Herron, Polly Ann Young.

If the Chesterfield picture, "Stolen Sweets," could ever pull itself together and hold the rail toward the finishing line, instead of wandering around for a while and then running backwards, it would be a pretty fair piece of entertainment.

It starts off well, gets into a good stride, and then completely loses its head. The latter half of the picture is as jumbled as a nightmare, with people changing their minds, an inexcusable, brutal beating with a poker, and a general "now we end it—now we don't" see-saw.

The story concerns Charles Starrett's efforts to win Sally Blane away from her wealthy, snobbish, dictatorial family and her stiff, impossible fiance. Starrett is a happy-go-lucky, energetic young insurance agent. He meets her first on a boat returning from Europe; instills some of the joy of life into her, and just about succeeds in making her choose freedom instead of tradition when the picture begins to stray.

Richard Thorpe's direction brings to the film a gay, light humor, and also, unfortunately, some pretty ponderous moments. Karl Brown's story is full of youth and joie de vivre, except when it takes itself too seriously and indulges in a little preaching against riches, etc. M. A. Andersen photographed.

Oddly enough, Charles Starrett has never given a better performance. Sally Blane has nothing much to do except to look sad; Ethel Griffies has a good role; Claude King is the stern father; Johnny Herron, Phillips Smalley and Polly Ann Young are amusing.

If the latter half of the piece were rewritten and brought to the point, it would be a good bet for smaller towns and easily-pleased audiences. But it's in a bad way now.

Sol Lesser Will Have Two in Work Very Soon

Sol Lesser is speeding up his production plans on "Chandu," and will start shooting a few days after "Peck's Bad Boy" gets going. The director is yet to be signed, principal candidates being Ray Taylor and Bob Hill.

Lesser will make "Chandu" a seven-reel feature, followed by eight two-reel episodes.

Radio Buys New Comedy

Radio yesterday announced it had closed for the purchase of a comedy by Howard Buck, "Let's Get Married," and will make it on its new schedule. Ray Harris writes the screen play under Glendon Allvine's supervision.

'Rothschild' London Average $34,000 Week

London.—Twentieth Century's production of "The House of Rothschild," starring George Arliss, is doing an amazing business at the Tivoli, having averaged better than $34,000 weekly in its first two weeks.

Para. Contracts For Three Baby Stars

Seven-year optional contracts were offered by Paramount yesterday to three of the 1934 Wampas baby stars, Hazel Hayes, Lucille Lund, and Dorothy Drake.

The contracts are the promised prizes awarded the most promising of the thirteen, judged by their work in "Kiss and Make-up."

Thelma Todd Signed For New Roach Series

Hal Roach yesterday signed Thelma Todd for a new year, during which she will be teamed with Patsy Kelly in eight more comedies. Miss Todd's contract ran out while Roach was yachting in Alaskan waters, and it was rumored she intended going freelance for feature work.

First of the new Todd-Kelly series is expected to start the last week of June.

McCarey Will Direct Next Laurel and Hardy

Ray McCarey was signed by Hal Roach yesterday to direct features and will pilot the next Laurel and Hardy production, which gets its release through MGM. Schulberg, Feldman and Gurney made the deal.

'Limehouse' Set Back

"Limehouse Nights," which Arthur Hornblow Jr. expected to have under production at Paramount this month, is set back to a July 16 start. Sylvia Sidney and George Raft co-star under Alexander Hall's direction.

Jack Conway Finishes

Jack Conway called it a picture on "Born To Be Kissed" at MGM Wednesday. Some pick-up shooting is to come, but the direct production of the Jean Harlow-Lionel Barrymore film is finished.

'Hide-out' Started

"Hide-out" started yesterday on location at Santa Cruz, W. S. Van Dyke directing for MGM. Robert Montgomery takes the star billing. Production is under the supervision of Hunt Stromberg

Para. Winding Up Three

Three Paramount pictures will probably complete their shooting next week. "Ladies Should Listen" is due to wind up Monday or Tuesday, and "Elmer and Elsie" and "The Notorious Sophie Lang" finish later in the week.

RKO Taking Hand in N. Y. Theatre Scrap

New York.—RKO Theatres, fearing the competition it will have to face if either Loew's or Warners gets control of the Fox Metropolitan chain of 45 theatres, is starting to build up its own holdings in the New York territory.

The company has deals on now with Frisch and Rinzler for the Savoy Theatre, and is also trying to get control of the old Grand Opera House, at Eighth avenue and 23rd street.

'Her Master's Voice' Shelved by Schulberg

Postponement of "Her Master's Voice," made by B. P. Schulberg a week ago when he reached a casting impasse, is now to an indefinite date, with the assignment of Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland to "Pursuit of Happiness" and Elizabeth Patterson's trek over to Culver City.

Schulberg is preparing another story. He has three productions yet to make under his Paramount contract.

New Term For Anna Sten As Rehearsals Start

Samuel Goldwyn yesterday signed Anna Sten to a new long-term contract. Her old one has just expired.

She celebrated the signing of the new contract by starting rehearsals with Fredric March in "We Live Again," renamed from Tolstoy's "Resurrection." Rouben Mamoulian is diresting.

Woolsey Flying East

Robert Woolsey leaves next Sunday by plane to take in the Carnera-Baer fight. He will be met in New York by Bert Wheeler, and, following the fight, they will attend the Shrine convention at Minneapolis.

Rush To Reorganize

(Continued from Page 1)

and security holders is necessary to secure this permission. M. H. Aylesworth stated yesterday for RKO, that, while the plans are not definitely prepared, neither the receivership nor the new proceedings will affect the present operations of the producing, distributing or theatre departments.

The application filed by RKO, which has been in receivership since January 27, 1933, was entitled "a petition of a debtor in proceedings for reorganization of a corporation." The papers described the corporation as a holding company engaged in the operation and management of theatres, the general production and distribution of motion pictures, and in the general theatrical and amusement business.

"The debtor is unable to meet its debts as they mature," the petition said, "and desires to effect a plan of reorganization under and pursuant to section 77B of Chapter 8 of the Acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy."

Not that it MATTERS

by Helen Gwynn

Add: Human interest stories of Hollywood. But this one has its amusing moments. Away back in 1912, on the old Biograph lot, Dell Henderson was a director. He had as his assistant a fellow called Bill Beaudine. Jack Mulhall was playing juvenile leads in Henderson's pictures, Charles West was the romantic lead, and Jack Dillon doubled as a comic and heavy, depending on the needs.

Time flies and covers a lot of territory, and here it is 1934. We are now on the Paramount lot, where they are shooting "The Old-Fashioned Way" and finding it nice work. William (Bill, to you) Beaudine is now a full fledged director and this is his "steenth" production. Dell Henderson, his old boss, and Jack Dillon are playing bits. But Jack Mulhall, after twenty-two years, is still playing the part of a juvenile and still looking like one. Not only that, but to make matters even funnier, in one scene Mulhall's vis-a-vis (girl-friend) gets kinda mad at him for being too conservative and says to him: "Go home and look out for your grandchildren."

•

Countless numbers of boys and girls are still wending their way to Hollywood thinking that since they can't get jobs, they can at least get into the movies, and every once in a while, one of them has an almost legitimate reason for believing so. The other day, Allie Wrubel, song-writer who has just completed work on the score for "Flirtation Walk," was driving to the studio and decided to give a thumb-hiker a lift. Naturally, he started asking questions, and discovered that the boy had been a well-known football player. When Wrubel asked him why he had hitched his way to Hollywood, the young husky told him that all the time he had been in college, because of his football playing, he had had no trouble at all in getting work and had played in lots of movies, but since he had been graduated, he had done nothing, so he figured that, if Hollywood had used him while he was in college, he certainly could give pictures more time now that he was out of college. Which reminds us that it must be almost time for all good football stories to come to the aid of the industry for Fall release.

•

If it has any connection with Garbo, you may rest assured there isn't a paper in the country that would miss printing it. Garbo is good copy, but she won't give. However, she has got that old 1925 Lincoln, and the other day a bright p.a. noticed that it had a 1934 windshield wiper. Just for the hell of it, he wrote a story on it and, to the amazement of the publicity department, every paper to which it was sent printed it, just for the use of Garbo's name. And then they remembered that, two years ago when Garbo bought new tires for it, the papers considered that a feature story too.

Gossip around Paris

Victor Trivas—just listen first and then, if you feel like it, give him a real hand—refuses a well paid director's job on a film with a famous star because of two-weeks' shooting limitation. Atta boy, that's the spirit, Victor. . . . Levitan and Vincent ,East and West to you, in case you read characters) meeting on neutral ground: the English phlegma line, and is that charming? . . . Harry Bauer, always democratiest of democrats, attacking in earliest morning hours the crowded subway with neither hat nor overcoat to hamper his movements. . . . Nathalie Paley just feels fit for Hollywood, so she's using the London-Korda-Fairbanks plank for the jump. When she's through with "Don Juan" you might hear from her, one way or the other. . . . Juan Berrone's latest headache is a secretary to classify mail she doesn't answer—so between calls, conferences, dictations he buys a truck to carry it away—presumably. . . . "Liliom" is not doing badly at all in three theatres. . . . Bertrand looks so very, very satisfied—but it's no blonde, he protests.

•

Mathot looking sensationally himself — even after having directed "Bouboule." . . . Max Friedland bringing along some London pudding to keep the girls fit when Pa Laemmle arrives. . . . You see, this time it's as serious as a Geneva conference; reservations are already made for June 22 at the Georges V. . . . Harold L. Smith in and out in all these ministries. . . . When a fool throws a stone into the water, can a wise man take it out? . . . And take it from me, it isn't Smith who is the fool. . . . Cinedis a bit stingy—on stamps. . . . Pathe's men still packing for U.S.A. . . . Comoedia very, very popular—in Germany. . . . Paul Kohner, where are you hiding? . . . "Little Women" doing marvelous business at Edouard VII. . . . Jean Bastia getting older and funnier —but not wiser. . . . Only if you have a good ear and know French well, shake hands with Jean at the "Perchoir."

•

Damia, French queen of the blues, contradicting popular opinion; that's why she looks much younger on street than on stage. . . . Palestine Workers Theatre "Ohel" (the Tent to you) attracting French elite. . . . Though Hebrew sounds Greek to them, passion of players and strong expressions carry away snobs and gourmands. . . . Meet Tino Rossi with the sweetest voice you ever laid an eye on. . . . It's just made for the screen. And being a relative of the great Napoleon (all Corsicans are cousins!) he should find his opportunity. Don't you think so, Feyder? . . . (MGM) Byre can't break away from EXPENSIVE headaches, not even with aspirin. . . . S. A. Dowling enjoying a big cigar and still bigger chat with Leasim in RKO office—because happy days are here again! . . . And should you not know it, Hollywood has moved to Paris and is enjoying a delightful game of cat and mouse with the newshounds. . . . Charles Farrell, David O. Selznick, George Cukor, you only can see them wherever you don't expect them. . . . Chez Elle (read Lucienne Boyer), Grande Chaumiere or Julian (the Paris models' dens) are some of their hide-outs.

•

And can you keep a secret? Cukor regrets two things right now: to have missed Sophie Tucker (yes, the hot, hot mamma!) and the wine tasting excursion to the Paris Fair organized by the Tribune. . . . Lee Dickson of same daily is all upset after screening "Damaged Lives." "Gracious me," he exclaims, "I am glad I never drink anything stronger than sarsaparilla or have anything to do with blondes!" But, just forgive him, the case isn't as serious as that—his trouble comes always from brunettes. . . . Remember, the contest idea isn't dead; here they stage one for the prettiest love song—why not the prettiest "two o'clock in the morning"? . . . U. S. clubwomen here on warpath against films and press—what a JOB! And mind you, committee will have to approach producers by petition and "they will be given six months in which to provide Europe with films about American HOME life."

Reb Russell to Make Six Westerns For Kent

Willis Kent yesterday signed Reb Russell, former Northwestern All-American football player, for a series of six westerns, the first of which will be "The Man from Hell."

Lane Chandler is no longer under contract to the producer, having completed his six-picture deal with "Guns For Hire," which wound up last week.

'Gallante' Starting

Fox will put "Marie Gallante" into work next Monday. Henry King will direct, and Spencer Tracy and Ketti Gallian head the cast.

Our Gang Finishes One

Our Gang finished "The Little Broadcast" and Charley Chase started "Something Simple" yesterday at the Roach studio.

IATSE Delegates Open Fight on ASC

Louisville, Ky.—The IATSE struck at the ASC yesterday when the delegates unanimously adopted a resolution branding it as a company union and calling for its termination as such.

George Browne, only nominee for president, has pledged himself to wipe out all dual organizations, or company unions, to settle the jurisdictional fight between the IATSE and the IBEW, and to force the American Federation of Labor to clean up the jurisdictional battles between its members.

It was decided that no charter will be issued to the motion picture assistant directors, and that no attempt will be made to organize film exchange workers.

Asks Film Code Probe

(Continued from Page 1)

have caused so much confusion in the industry that nobody knows what is going on.

Under the new Communications bill such action may be undertaken by the Federal Trade Commission or the new Communications Committee, as the bill provides for investigation by either of any subsidiaries of the A. T. & T. concerned with motion pictures.

Christy Cabanne Held For Another at Mono.

After seeing the rough cut of "Jane Eyre" yesterday, Trem Carr made arrangements with Radio to keep Christy Cabanne to direct Gene Stratton Porter's "The Girl of the Limberlost," which W. T. Lackey supervises. It is scheduled to go before the cameras in two weeks.

Cabanne was due back at the major plant to handle a West Point story.

Stan and Babe Start

Laurel and Hardy start work Monday on the fifth of their interrupted series, with Charles Rogers again at the megaphone.

Peggy Fears Starts First at Fox July 9

Hans Schwartz, former UFA director, starts his first American production, "Lottery Lover," July 9 at Fox. Schwartz has just finished working on the script with Schultz and Wilder, German writing team.

Peggy Fears makes her screen debut in the semi-musical, which co-features Pat Patterson and Lew Ayres. Ned Sparks and Sidney Winters also hold assignments.

MGM Plans All-Star Production of 'Repeal'

The word went around yesterday that MGM was figuring on an all-star production of "Repeal," a story with a liquor theme. This is supposed to refer to the Saturday Evening Post story by Charles Francis Coe.

The story does not emphasize liquor, either for or against, but centers around a night club where prohibition gangsters are wondering what next.

Term For Shirley Ross

Shirley Ross was given a new MGM contract in New York, but will not return to Culver City until after the graduating exercises at West Point. Reason, a boy friend who graduates.

Reay Quits Paramount

Neville Reay leaves the Paramount publicity department the end of next week. For the past year he has handled publicity for the Charles R. Rogers productions.

$7500 For Winchell in One Week of Personals

Walter Winchell goes to San Francisco for one week of personal appearances at the Warfield Theatre, starting June 22, for which he will receive a salary of $7500. This seems to be some sort of record.

Keye Luke May Have 'Ho For Shanghai' Lead

Lou Brock, RKO-Radio producer, announced yesterday that he is seriously considering Keye Luke, Chinese artist in the RKO publicity department, for the lead in "Ho, For Shanghai," a musical he is going to make soon.

Luke, a native of China, is an American college graduate, and is known as one of the foremost exponents of modern Chinese art in America.

Karloff and Lugosi to Co-star in 'The Raven'

Universal yesterday set "The Raven" as the next Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi vehicle. It is planned for July production and will combine two of Edgar Allan Poe's works, "The Raven" and "The Gold Bug."

Foster Not With Young

Preston Foster, who was slated to be Loretta Young's leading man in her first picture for MGM, has been set for the Joan Crawford picture, "Sacred and Profane Love," instead.

NRA Officer Here To Look Into Code

Donald Renshaw, liaison officer between the U. S. Department of Commerce and the NRA, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. While information from Washington indicates that he is here primarily to see what is wrong with the working of the film code, he declared yesterday that at present he is going to do nothing about the picture affairs.

"The picture code," he said, "is an intricate and peculiar factor, and I am going to do nothing regarding it until I hear from Washington. However, I am expecting some instructions."

Elsie Ferguson Coming; Perhaps For Pictures

New York.—Elsie Ferguson leaves tomorrow on a trip through the Panaman Canal with Hollywood as her destination.

It is understood that a deal is awaiting her arrival there, although she professes to be going for a vacation.

Helen Westley Signs For 'Age of Innocence'

New York.—Helen Westley was signed by Radio and left immediately by train for the coast to take a role in "Age of Innocence."

Miss Westley is the second of the Theatre Guild company to go to Radio, Philip Moeller preceding her as director of the Irene Dunne picture.

Up-to-the-Minute Casting News

Eddie Chandler, James Blakely, Vincent Sherman, Charles McMurphy, Frank Fanning, C. A. Bockman, Ernie Young and Al Bercovici for "Persons Unknown," Columbia.

Herbert Bunston, Olaf Hytten and Fred Walton to "Moonstone," Monogram.

Charles Wilson, Charles Levison and Ward Bond, through Al Kingston, to Columbia's "Broadway Bill."

Wilfred Lucas for "The Dragon Murder Case," Warners.

George Irving by Menifee I. Johnstone to "The Painted Lady," Fox.

Maidel Turner by Al Kingston for "Servants' Entrance," Fox.

Sam Flint to "Student Tour," MGM.

Charles B. Middleton to "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Paramount.

Ray Mayer to "Youth and Beauty," Mascot, through Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall.

Joseph DeValdez to "Stamboul Quest," MGM, through Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall.

Eddie Kane to a Radio short, through Bernard, Meiklejohn & McCall.

Elizabeth Patterson to "Hideout," MGM.

Ralph Rainger East

Ralph Rainger, who wrote the songs for Paramount's "She Loves Me Not," took off by plane for New York last night on a vacation.

ANNOUNCING A NEW SERIES OF BETTER CLASS WESTERNS
FEATURING

REB RUSSELL

The Oklahoma cowboy who went to Northwestern University and made football history,

and

THE MAGNIFICENT STALLION

REBEL

THE WORLD'S FINEST TRAINED HORSE

A NEW PERSONALITY — NEW IDEAS
A NEW DEAL IN WESTERN PICTURES

FOR INFORMATION ADDRESS

REB and REBEL PICTURES

4376 SUNSET DRIVE HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

PRESENTS

A NEW ROMANTIC COMEDY

WITH MUSIC

A STANLEY BERGERMAN PRODUCTION

"ROMANCE IN THE RAIN"

with

ROGER PRYOR – HEATHER ANGEL – VICTOR MOORE

STARTING PRODUCTION NEXT WEEK

M-G-M STUDIOS,
READING DEPT.
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 27. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Saturday, June 9, 1934

CARDINAL BANS ALL PIX

Philadelphia Prelate Urges All Catholics To Stay Away From All Picture Theatres

New York.—Cardinal Dougherty last night joined the campaign being waged by his church against indecent motion pictures by advising a complete boycott on pictures and urging all Catholics in the Philadelphia diocese to stay away from all motion picture theatres.

In a letter sent to every parish he asserts that "a vicious and insidious attack is being made by the films on the very foundation of our Christian civilization."

The Catholic clergy of the diocese are told that adults as well as children are to be urged to sign pledges in the Legion of Decency.

The letter continues:

"Censorship and appeals to the producers have been fruitless, and the only argument likely to be heard now is that which affects the box-office. Perhaps the greatest menace to faith and morals in America today is the motion picture theatre. Nothing is left for us except the boycott.

"The Catholic people of this diocese are therefore urged to register their united protest against immoral and indecent films by staying away from ALL motion picture theatres."

Farrow Directing Now

Leaving writing for the time being, John Farrow has turned to directing at MGM and will take a production crew to Honolulu the middle of next week to shoot a four-reel Technicolor featurette with a native cast. Harry Rapf is producing.

TRADEVIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•WE have a consuming curiosity to know just how Pete Harrison arrived at the figures which he recently published in his "Reports" regarding the best money-making productions and producers of the year. We would like to have Pete tell us just what questions he asked the exhibitors when he started to compile this finding.

The principal thing that makes us want to know these things is to find out how Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer could possibly be ranked fifth on any such list. That is the one point which we simply cannot understand.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has been the backbone of the industry for years when it came to quality and box-office draw. Moreover, it served in the same capacity during the past year, no matter what Pete Harrison has to say about it.

•

Certainly the company had considerably more than its share of bad pictures during the year, and the worst part of that is that when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer makes a bad picture, it is always an expensive one. That is because that company is the greatest "picture doctor" in the business. Its productions are usually costly in the first place and, if a picture does not turn out well, that company will put a lot more money into it in a determined effort to fix it up the way it should be. If, after the doctoring is over, it is still bad—well ,that's just MGM's bad luck. Anyway, if a picture is not good, it is not for lack of strenuous efforts to make it so.

•

But no matter how many bad pictures the company has had during the past year, its good ones have far overbalanced the flops. And, good or bad, the MGM product drew people into the theatres because the company has more stars and featured players with drawing power than any other company in the business.

We will concede Mr. Harrison his contention that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer made some pictures last year that did not return great amounts to the box-offices of the country, but we would also like to ask him if he has any idea what the theatres garnered from such productions as "Tugboat Annie," "Queen Christina,"

(Continued on Page 4)

Archbishop Says Good Pictures Must Suffer With Bad

St. Louis.—Headed by Fred Wehrenberg, a committee of theatre owners asked Archbishop John J. Glennon yesterday to urge members of the Legion of Decency to attend pictures classed as clean. The Archbishop replied that good pictures must suffer with the bad until the bad are eliminated through the Legion's boycott.

$5,000,000 for MGM Musicals This Year

New York.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is going in heavily for musicals for the coming season and plans to spend at least $5,000,000 in producing this type of entertainment.

Among those already set, either in production or being prepared, are "The Merry Widow," which Ernst Lubitsch is directing; "Student Tour," with "Chuck" Reisner directing; "Have a Heart," which David Butler will handle; "Naughty Marietta," which will team Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy ,and "Tiptoes," which will co-star Ramon Novarro and Evelyn Laye.

'Millie' Starts June 18

Lewis Milestone will get his first Columbia production before the cameras June 18, with Fred Keating and Mae Clarke in the leads. The studio is looking for a new title for the Wallace Smith novel, "The Captain Hates the Sea."

New York Grosses Hit The Toboggan

New York..—With the hot weather largely responsible, the grosses of the big picture houses hit the skids this past week.

In spite of its good notices, "Little Man, What Now?" drew only $68,000 at the big Music Hall. The Capitol got $33,000 with "Viva Villa,"and the third week of "Little Miss Marker" at the Paramount ran to $26,000. "Rothschild" in its thirteenth week at the Astor drew $13,200, the second week of "Now I'll Tell" at the Roxy amounted to $14,600, and "Fog Over Frisco" at the Strand took $15,500. The second week of "Born to Be Bad" gave the Rivoli $12,000, the second week of "Hollywood Party" at the Rialto grossed $9500, and the Mayfair got $9000 with "The Love Captive."

Robinson Returning for 'Shoe the Wild Mare'

New York.—Edward G. and Mrs. Robinson leave for the coast by train today. Robinson reports to Paramount for story conferences with Wanda Tuchock and George S. Brooks on "Shoe the Wild Mare," in which he appears as the off-lot picture permitted by his Warner contract.

Laemmle Sails June 16

New York.—Carl Laemmle Sr., with the Universal sales convention off his mind, will sail for Europe on the Ile de France on June 16.

Roxy Receiver Holds On

New York.—Federal Judge Caffey yesterday extended Howard Cullman's receivership of the Roxy Theatre for another six months.

Koenig Due Tuesday

William Koenig, Warner production manager, is expected to arrive at the studio Tuesday after his six weeks trip abroad.

WARNERS NOW HAVE ERPI MONOPOLY, DUOVAC SAYS

New York.—The monopoly in the sound equipment field which Erpi is accused of having had since sound pictures came in is now being transferred to Warner Brothers, according to the belief of the officials of the Duovac Radio Tube Company.

Warners and Erpi recently settled their long-standing litigation over royalties by the payment of $5,000,000 to the former. Now Robert Robins, secretary of Duovac, charges that the terms of the settlement also give Warners the physical handling of the Erpi motion picture activities, thus transferring the alleged monopoly.

(Continued on Page 3)

Para. Foreign Execs Arrive For Convention

New York.—John Cecil Graham, Earl St. John and Montague Goldman, of the Paramount British forces, arrived here yesterday on the Aquitania, bound for the convention in Los Angeles on June 18.

Carl York gets in from Scandinavia today, and M. J. Messeri, manager for Spain and Portugal, is due Tuesday.

Bill Goetz to Hawaii

William Goetz, 20th Century associate producer, leaves for Honolulu, June 15. He will be gone a month.

GREGORY LA CAVA NOW IN PREPARATION "DOLLY" for MGM

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Yvonne Villon (who used to be Katherine Black), Caliente fan-dancer, is filing the divorce papers on Louis Bernhard any minute. . . . George B. Cock, of the British International Broadcasting Company, is visiting Hollywood. . . . Helen Hayes will arrive here end of the month via boat. . . . Tamara Geva and Rita Field are sharing a house at Malibu—Rita and Julian Field having permanently parted. . . . Which reminds us—the recent reconciliation of a movie actress and her husband brings forth only this comment from the local multitudes: "Well—they deserve each other!" How right! . . . The RKO lot isn't exactly a bee-hive of activity these days—with only two shorts in work! And by the way, yesterday Ted Fio Rito fell sound asleep listening to the play-backs of his own tunes!

•

Sam Goldwyn would like to have Gordon and Revel do the songs for the new Cantor picture. . . . Frank Orsatti and brother Vic may go it alone together soon. . . . The Cedric Gibbons (Dolores Del Rio) partied for Dorothy di Frasso at the Grove Wednesday night—the Countess takes off on the new T.W.A. thirteen-hour jaunt to New York tomorrow afternoon. . . . Sally Eilers, Harry Joe Brown and the Milton Brens back from Honolulu. . . . And Jean Harlow (whose love-life is practically dormant at this writing) will leave for Hawaii in a couple of weeks.

•

Bob Riskin just sent Glenda Farrell two Siamese kittens—and she's toting 'em around. . . . Dave Gould and Mollie O'Day are aflame. . . . Clarence Brown is in the yacht market. . . . King Vidor's good-looking, half-Hawaiian chauffeur, Tony, was tested yesterday for the lead in an MGM picture! . . . You'd be aghast to know how a visiting Eastern "socialite" really got his name! . . . Clara Bow and Rex Bell MUST be planning to adopt that baby!! . . . The Dick Arlens, the Otto Krugers, Bayard Veiller, Roly Leigh, Ralph Morgan, Mrs. Pat Campbell, Hugh Williams, Vivian Gaye, Gregory LaCava, Mrs. Roland Robbins, Eddie Kane, Lady Carlyle, Sam Marx, Pauline Garon glimpsed at the Vendome. . . . Mrs. Don Stewart recouping at the Cedars. . . . The Winchell pillar will appear locally simultaneously with Noo York from now on.

WARNERS PLANNING TO CHANGE SELLING SEASON

With the release during the next eight weeks of twelve pictures, Warner Brothers is starting a move which it is hoped will result in the switching of the motion picture releasing season to a straight calendar year, starting January 1 and ending December 31 each year.

After many conferences, Major Albert Warner and his eastern and western sales managers, A. W. Smith and Gradwell Sears, decided to inaugurate a fifteen-months sales campaign to prove that long term picture selling is practicable. They feel that it can be done, especially by throwing a group of unusual pictures into the summer slump. If they prove its practicability, they hope they will be able to persuade the other companies to start a fifteen-months sales campaign in September, 1935, which would switch the present season around to start on January 1.

Incidentally, they believe that they will break the usual Summer jinx this year with such pictures as "Mme. Du Barry," "Here Comes the Navy" and "Circus Clown." Along with these will be "Fog Over Frisco," "Dr. Monica," "Side Streets," "Personality Kid," "Return of the Terror," "Midnight Alibi," "Friends of Mr. Sweeney," "The Key" and "He Was Her Man."

Warners Refuse Three Bids For Hugh Herbert

Warners yesterday turned down three applications for the loan of Hugh Herbert.

Paramount tried to get him for "Mrs. Wiggs," Columbia asked for him for "The Captain Hates the Sea," and Universal put in a bid for the Murray Roth picture.

Monogram Starts One

Ben Verschleiser saw Charles Lamont get "Tomorrow's Youth" into work yesterday for Monogram. The picture has John Miljan, Dickie Moore, Barbara Bedford, Niles Welch and Martha Sleeper in the cast.

Stage Team For Screen

Their act a part of the stage unit at the Grauman's Chinese Theatre, Cass, Mack and Owen were set in for a cast spot by Paramount yesterday in "You Belong to Me."

'Ransom' Postponed

E. M. Asher has put his "Million Dollar Ransom" for Universal back a week, the start now set for June 18. Murray Roth is director, and Edward Arnold starred.

'Darryl of Zanuck' For 20th Century

New York—Speaking to the United Artists sales force at the Chicago convention, Joseph M. Schenck said: "When we started Twentieth Century Pictures, all we had was a desk, a pen, a pencil and a Darryl of Zanuck."

Wyler May Abandon 'Fanny' For 'Fairy'

Unless William Wyler improves his luck in casting "Fanny" in the next few days, he will probably lay the Marcel Pagnol comedy aside for the time being and direct "The Good Fairy" as his next production.

Margaret Sullavan is visiting in Norfolk, Va., awaiting the call to Universal City to star in the Ferenc Molnar story. Preston Sturges is doing the "Good Fairy" treatment.

Wyler has been unwilling to cast any part in "Fanny" definitely. Frank Morgan took a test for the picture yesterday.

Mary Pickford Wampas Guest Monday Evening

The Wampas Meeting Monday at the Writers Club will have Everett Mattoon and other local Shrine dignitaries as guests, together with Sid Grauman, Mary Pickford and Walter Winchell, if he can be keyholed into it.

Sid Silvers Arrives

Sid Silvers arrived by plane yesterday from New York to start work today in Edward Small's "Transatlantic Showboat," which Ben Stoloff directs. He has been in the East for several months since completing his work in "Bottom's Up" at Fox.

Term For Polly Walters

New York.—Universal has signed Polly Walters, of the "She Loves Me Not" company, to a term contract and she will leave for the coast some time next month.

Weaver Play June 15

John V. A. Weaver's new play, "Keep It a Dream," will have its premiere at the Hollywood Playhouse Friday night, June 15. It goes to San Francisco after its engagement here.

Geo. Browne Chosen President of IATSE

Louisville, Ky.—George Browne, of Chicago, was elected president of the IATSE at the convention yesterday. Other officers chosen were: J. P. Nick, William Covert, Harland Holden, Dick Walsh, F. M. Billingsley, J. Brennen and Roger Kennedy, vice-presidents; Fred J. Dempsey, secretary-treasurer, and Thomas E. Maloy, delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention.

The ill-fated cameramen's strike in Hollywood finally came to the floor of the convention yesterday, and retiring president William C. Elliott told the delegates that the strike was called with his sanction, thus settling a long-argued question.

Negro Symphony Will Be Presented at Bowl

"Harlem Heab'n," a negro symphony composed by David Broekman and with lyrics by Clarence Muse, is to be presented at the Hollywood Bowl on August 11, with Broekman conducting. There will be a chorus of 150 voices.

Broekman played his symphony for the Bowl sponsors recently and they signed the contract ten minutes later. Following its presentation here, which will be its first, it is to be played at the Lewisohn Stadium in New York.

Goldwyn Art Sponsor

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldwyn are sponsoring an exhibit of Sergei Soudeikin's art work at the Stendahl Galleries, starting June 21. He has been out here six weeks under contract to Goldwyn to design the sets for the Anna Sten-Fredric March vehicle, "We Live Again."

Wallises Back July 1

Hal Wallis and Louise Fazenda are expected back July 1 from their tour from Italy to the Scandinavian countries. Wallis is supposed to be on the lookout for new stories and faces for Warner pictures on the trip.

Recruits For Guild

Warner Baxter, Helen Twelvetrees and Doris Lloyd joined the Screen Actors' Guild yesterday.

FOR SALE CHEAP

Series of unusual Animal Comedy Films and Animal Negative photographed in natural habitats. Excellent material to dialogue. Also Holmes Portable 35mm. Projector.

EX-0664

A GREAT BUY

FOR RENT—FURNISHED—Hermosa Beach apartment, six rooms, three bedrooms, living room, dining room, bath and shower outside for use of bathers. Twenty-five minutes to Hollywood and Vine. Located west end Hermosa, quiet, refined surroundings. One hundred feet from ocean. Beautiful beach. Can be had very reasonable if rented from June 15 to Labor Day or longer. Drive down over this week-end to inspect this offer

or

Phone HOllywood 3957 or Redondo 2519.
Address 3234 Hermosa Avenue, Hermosa Beach, California

'WHILE PARENTS SLEEP' TOO BRITISH FOR AMERICAN TASTE

'Bedroom' Farce and Won't Do for Screen

"WHILE PARENTS SLEEP"

Presented by William A. Brady in association with Leon M. Lion; written by Anthony Kimmins; with Winifred Harris, Jane Corcoran, Lionel Pape, May Marshall, Alan Marshall, Ilka Chase, Charles Romano, Jane Bramley. At the Playhouse.

New York.—Bill Brady, noting the success of such rowdy pieces as "Sailor Beware," "She Loves Me Not" and "The Milky Way," decided he would have his fling with a farce and imported "While Parents Sleep," a typical British specimen, which has been "wowing them" in dear ole Lunnon for many moons. To say the least, this importation is very much below the par of the current American successful farces. This play is filled with a great many typical English slang expressions, which are so much Greek to the average Americans, who often laughed in the wrong places, due to the fact that they placed a suggestive meaning on what is ordinary English slang.

The plot of the play concerns two sons of a British Colonel and the two ladies they bring home for the evening. One is the young and misunderstood wife of the eldest son's prospective employer—a Lady, no less, and the other a typical English working girl. The younger brother catches the other in a compromising situation and finally everything is straightened out to the satisfaction of all concerned. The entire action takes place in one scene—a living room with a couch in it instead of the usual bedroom, and the situations are very similar to some of the worst bedroom farces that we have seen for many years.

Possibly this would make a good quota production if produced in England, as the play enjoyed great success over there, but it is valueless for American consumption. The players did as well as could be expected with their parts. Ilka Chase, who plays Lady Cattering and who has been seen in pictures, was not up to her usual standard. Alan Marshall, as the eldest son, seemed quite stiff in his part as the virgin hero who fought off the seductress, but he is a good-looking chap, has had considerable stage experience and might make a successful juvenile under the proper motion picture director.

Stepin Fetchit, Spanky, Sign With Bert and Bob

Stepin Fetchit and "Spanky" MacFarland, the latter of the Hal Roach forces, have been signed for the cast of "Kentucky Colonels," the next Wheeler and Woolsey production, which George Stevens will direct.

Sol Newman in N.Y.

New York.—Sol Newman, foreign representative of RKO-Radio Pictures, arrived here today to attend the company convention.

115 Code Complaints Filed in Past 5 Days

At the close of business last night, Audrey Blair, secretary of the Junior Screen Actors' Guild, reported that a total of 115 complaints of alleged code violations had been filed with him by extras during the past five days. He passes them on to the Code Committee for Extras.

Irving Claim Fought By RKO Creditors

New York.—Counsel representing a group of Radio-Keith-Orpheum creditors appeared before Judge Bondy in Federal Court yesterday to oppose the claim of the Irving Trust Company for $225,000 receivership fees.

The creditors demand that the Trust company show the actual working hours that have been consumed in handing the company's affairs. Judge Bondy deferred decision until such time as all the papers shall have been submitted.

United Artists Set First Four Releases

New York.—United Artists has set its first four pictures for the coming season for early releases.

"Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" is set for July 15, "The Affairs of Cellini" for early August, with "The Last Gentleman" and "Our Daily Bread," the King Vidor feature, to follow quickly.

'U' Wants Thelma Todd For June Knight Role

Universal is dickering with Radio for the use of Thelma Todd in the "Romance in the Rain" part vacated by June Knight's return to the hospital.

If the deal goes through, Stuart Walker will start direction Monday, with only a three-day delay.

Two For Dorothy Lee

Dorothy Lee has been signed by Radio for a short under Lee Marcus' supervision, after which she goes to M. H. Hoffman at Liberty for a top spot in "School for Girls," which William Nigh directs. The Rebecca and Silton office handled the deals.

Kober Back to MGM

Arthur Kober checked in at MGM yesterday to take up his term writing ticket on which he had been given a three-months leave of absence. He goes to work with Arthur Bloch and George Seaton on the screen play of "Broadway Melody of 1934."

Special Dance For 'Tour'

Following the lead of Radio and Paramount in exploiting a production through the medium of a special dance, MGM yesterday announced that "Student Tour" will have a special dance number, "The Carlo."

Services Tomorrow For Dorothy Dell

With Dr. Wilsie Martin, of the Wilshire Methodist Church, officiating, funeral services for Dorothy Dell will be held at two o'clock tomorrow at the Pierce Brothers' Mortuary, 730 W. Washington boulevard. The body will be sent back to the Goff home at Hattiesburg, Mississippi, for interment.

The sudden death of the Paramount player early yesterday morning upset the entire Paramount studio. Everyone, from office boy to top executive, had a warm regard for her. Although her career with the company was brief, she had nevertheless succeeded in making a great many friends.

'U' Meeting Closes in N.Y., Moves to Chicago

New York.—Universal's National Sales Convention wound up its three days session yesterday. John LeRoy Johnson gave what was described as an "inspired" talk, and Carl Laemmle, Sr., closed the meeting with a speech brimming with enthusiasm.

Monday the Universal regional sales convention opens at the Drake Hotel in Chicago. Attending this will be salesmen from Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Oklahoma City, Des Moines, Milwaukee and Minneapolis.

DeMille Works at 'U'

Cecil B. DeMille is a visitor at Universal City. He used the "U" tank Thursday night for miniatures for "Cleopatra,' and is working again today with another set-up.

Sloman Winds Up Today

Edward Sloman expects to complete "There's Always Tomorrow" at Universay today. The picture features Frank Morgan, Binnie Barnes and Lois Wilson.

New Warner-Erpi Deal?

(Continued from Page 1)

Duovac, which had a suit against Erpi the same as Warners and General Talking Pictures had, made no settlement, and the company now intends to petition the Federal Court at Wilmington to make Warner Brothers a co-defendant with Erpi in its suit.

Information in picture circles here is to the effect that Warners double-crossed their own lawyers, who were not aware of the settlement and were prepared to go ahead with the suit when George Quigley, vice-president of Vitaphone, notified them of the settlement and stopped further action.

Warner Brothers, it is believed here, anticipate Government intervention later if they take over the Erpi activities, but intend, before that happens, to boost their stock to the highest possible figure as a result of the advantages that the Erpi settlement gives them.

Not that it MATTERS by Helen Gwynn

Now is the time when all good exhibitors think they have a right to look forward to something big from the studios for their next season's product. And how right they are is evidenced by the fact that every major studio today is readying at least one big special for early Fall release. None has been completed yet, but it is possible to give a studio preview of what the exhibitor can count on to exploit for his early Fall showings and give him an insight on how to handle it.

The first BIG production that comes to mind is "The Merry Widow." And it is important to know its makings because they are like nothing that has been made before under that title. The exhibitor will be selling an entirely new production to his audiences when it is released and need have no fear of that old label, "Re-make", bobbing up to slap down his box-office take.

•

In the first place, Lubitsch, Chevalier and MacDonald, the trio that gave forth the "Love Parade", are reunited.

Ernest Vadja, Claudine West and Donald Ogden Stewart—the continental, the feminine touch, and the mad, zany humor, in the order named—have modernized the script and kept the romance (which is ageless) to give full flavor to please the American palate.

Albertina Rasch has staged the famous "Can-Can" dance and the "Merry Widow" waltz.

Ali Hubert, who worked with Lubitsch on "Passion" and "The Student Prince," journeyed over to do the costuming and atmospheric details. Our own Cedric Gibbons has fashioned the sets, and there is a white bedroom framing the mourning wear of the merry widow that is good for reams of publicity.

•

There is also the replica of the world-famous Maxim's cafe of Paris that will make the hearts of the gay old blades flutter.

As a matter of fact, the list of statistics on the picture covers a volume in itself. Nothing has been spared in the making of it, including the three or four hundred people in the cast whose various nationalities have turned the "Merry Widow" stage into a modern Babel.

Most important of all, however, is Lubitsch's own approach to the film. Von Stroheim's production was marvelous and the picture was great, BUT the story and mood were entirely Stroheim's idea of what the widow should have been like. Lubitsch is sticking close to the Viennese Lehar's own conception. Whereas Stroheim's picture was romantic and dramatic, Lubitsch's will be gay, romantic comedy, with the spirit of a Vienna waltz danced lightly, deliciously on a warm evening under a full moon, to Lehar's beloved music—all of it without charge.

Extras Committee Gets Code Praise

New York — The Code Authority has unanimously approved eleven specific resolutions recently passed by the Standing Committee for Extras in Hollywood and took occasion to praise highly the work of that committee. The Code Authority has requested the committee to get together again on certain resolutions on which there were differences of opinion and try to turn in unanimous reports.

It was also suggested to Gen. Hugh Johnson that the film code be reopened for new exhibitor assents with certain reservations which will be made public within the next ten days.

Assessments received to date from 5996 exhibitors amount to $63,000.

Reliance Starting 'Showboat' Today

Edward Small today places "Transatlantic Showboat" into work for Reliance at RKO-Pathe under Ben Stoloff's direction.

Nancy Carroll, Gene Raymond, Wera Engels, Helen Morgan, Four Mills Brothers, Jack Benny, Jean Sargent, Frank Parker, Mary Livingston, Sydney Howard and Sil Silvers are the cast. Leon Gordon wrote the story, with Sid Silvers and Ben Ryan doing the comedy. The music is by Richard Whiting.

Norman Hall to Write 'Tailspin Tommy' at 'U'

Milton Gatzert yesterday signed Norman S. Hall to write the script of "Tailspin Tommy," based on the syndicated comic strip by Hal Forrest.

It will be the first serial for the producer and his associate, Henry McRea, for Universal release. Mitchell Gertz, of the Al Kingston office, set the deal.

Shumate on Original

Columbia has assigned Harold Shumate to write an original story, "Police Ambulance," to be used as the first of the action features on the 1934-35 list. The studio has not as yet lined up a lead for the series, which last year spotted Tim McCoy in eight.

Premiere Postponed

"The Broadway Lover," new comedy by Desider Pek, with Georgia Hale in the top spot, which will be presented by Joseph B. Polonsky at the Writers' Club, will open June 27 instead of June 20.

Helen Morgan to Para.

Helen Morgan was signed to a one-picture deal by Paramount yesterday. She goes into an important role in "You Belong to Me,' 'which is now shooting.

New Deal For Adams

His treatment of the story approved by Paramount, Frank R. Adams' deal with the studio has been extended so that he can write the screen play for "The Big Broadcast of 1934."

New York Shows Closing

New York.—Three New York shows close tonight. They are the "Follies," "Jigsaw" and "No More Ladies."

England To Get First Sight of 'Don Juan'

London. — Alexander Korda's plans to preview the Douglas Fairbanks Sr. picture, "The Private Life of Don Juan," in mid-Atlantic and have its premiere in New York, have been called off. England will have exclusive first play on the picture.

Europe Is Goal of Many Warner Folk

The conclusion of "British Agent" at Warners will result in a small hegira vacation-ward.

Kay Francis starts East in a few days to sail June 20 for Naples, going on to Rome and France. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Howard start for England about the same time.

Michael Curtiz, the director, will also set off for Europe when the picture is edited. He will accompany his wife, Bess Meredyth, if he finishes in time, otherwise joining her later.

Henry Hull Starting For Universal Soon

New York.—Henry Hull closes his two-year run in "Tobacco Road" tonight and starts for the coast in a few days, motoring out.

He will reach Universal City about July 1 to star in "Great Expectations," Dickens novel which Gladys Unger is preparing for the screen.

Ann Sothern Set For Lead With Jack Haley

William Rowland yesterday set Ann Sothern for the lead opposite Jack Haley in "The Girl Friend,' which Russell Mack directs when it starts June 21 at Columbia. He also signed Roy Turk to write some musical numbers for the picture.

'K.C. Princess' Done

William Keighley turned in "Kansas City Princess" at Warners Thursday night. Joan Blondell and George Barnes will start East by motor in a few days, planning to visit in Detroit, then continue to New York and possibly visit Bermuda.

Para.-Jean Arthur Deal

Paramount is talking a deal with Jean Arthur for the spot opposite Francis Lederer in "Pursuit of Happiness." The player is in New York to appear in a Broadway play and, if the deal jells, it will be outside of her contract with Columbia.

Norman Dawn at Mascot

Mascot yesterday signed Norman Dawn to handle the art direction on its features. He has devised a panoramic background which will be used on "Crimson Romance," the first of the pictures to go into work in the next two weeks.

Garbo Start Set

MGM has decided to start work on Greta Garbo's next picture, "The Painted Veil," in two weeks. Richard Boleslavsky directs. Herbert Marshall gets a top spot and Preston Foster is being considered for another.

Scientists To Film In Canada Rockies

Floyd Crosby, who came into prominence with his photography on "Tabu," left yesterday for Edmonton, Alberta, where he joins a scientific expedition that is going into the wilds of the Canadian Rockies.

The expedition is financed and headed by Charles Bedaux, a wealthy French scientist, and will have 35 people in the party, including chemists, biologists, geologists, ethnologists and mining engineers. The party will travel with 100 horses and five automobiles fitted with caterpillar treads, and will attempt to cross the Rockies through a region as yet unexplored. Crosby will be in charge of the making of a photographic history of the trip, which, it is expected, will take until some time next Autumn.

Athletic Meet Shots For 'Girl of My Dreams'

W. T. Lackey, Monogram producer, took a crew to Berkeley last night to get background stuff of the A. A. U. meet today for use in "Girl of My Dreams." George Waggner, writer, and Bill Ackerman, UCLA assistant coach, went along.

Last year Monogram did a similar stunt at the National Intercollegiate crew race and used it in "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," also a Lackey-Waggner combination.

Weaver and Harkrider On 'Romance in the Rain'

Universal yesterday set new talent to work on "Romance in the Rain," signing John V. A. Weaver, novelist and playwright, to write additional dialogue, and assigning John Harkrider to work on the musical treatment.

Harkrider is the Broadway stage designer brought out by Universal to work on "The Great Ziegfeld," William Anthony McGuire production to be made in August.

Hervey With Brock

Lou Brock yesterday signed Harry Hervey to write the screen play of "Ho, for Shanghai," which will be his next musical production for Radio. The picture will not get before the cameras until Brock returns from his European vacation later in the summer.

MGM Testing Chinese

MGM yesterday arranged to test Tsan Tsing Ying, who arrived Thursday on the President Coolidge, with a view to signing her for a part in "Good Earth." She is the daughter of Chinese Reconstruction Minister Chang.

Cary Grant Laid Up

Cary Grant dropped out of the cast of "Ladies Should Listen" yesterday with a heavy cold. The company shoots around him until he returns to Paramount.

Bacon With Joe Brown

Lloyd Bacon yesterday received the directing assignment on Joe E. Brown's next picture, "Six Day Bike Race," to start on Brown's return to the Warner studio July 2.

Up-to-the-Minute Casting News

Willie Fung to "Lost Lady," Warners.

John Indrisano by MGM for "Student Tour."

Billy Gilbert, Mae Busch and Charles Hall by Hal Roach for Laurel and Hardy short.

Louise Henry into "All Good Americans," MGM.

Carlyle Moore for "Transatlantic Showboat," Reliance.

Herman Cripps and Ned Winchester for "Persons Unknown," Columbia.

Warners Starting Two 'Lady' Films Next Week

Warners start two more of their next season's pictures Monday when both "The Lost Lady" and "The Lady Surrenders" are set for production.

Ricardo Cortez' work in "Hat, Coat and Glove" at Radio has held up "Lost Lady," in which Alfred Green expected to start directing Barbara Stanwyck yesterday.

Barry Barringer On George O'Brien Script

Barry Barringer yesterday received the scripting assignment on "Dude Ranger," the first of the Sol Lesser-John Zanft productions starring George O'Brien.

Eddie Cline will direct, starting the new picture three days after he turns in "Peck's Bad Boy" for Lesser at the Pathe lot.

Ray Taylor to Direct 'Chandu' For Lesser

Sol Lesser yesterday engaged Ray Taylor to direct "Chandu," and set June 26 as the starting date for the feature and serial follow-up, scripted by Barry Barringer.

Taylor directed the Buck Jones serial, "Gordon of Ghost City," for Universal a few months ago.

'Bad Boy' Starts June 19

Sol Lesser gave "Peck's Bad Boy" a definite starting date of June 19 yesterday, upon learning that Jackie Cooper would be through with his "Treasure Island" pick-ups at MGM today.

Song For 'Gaily I Sing'

Lee Zahler, musical director for Larry Darmour, has written the music for the title song of "Gaily I Sin," which Ralph Ceder directs when it goes into work at Majestic next week. Leon M. Leon has composed the lyrics.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

"Dancing Lady," "Penthouse," "Rip Tide," "Manhattan Melodrama," "Viva Villa" and "Men in White."

After all, a company which can turn out a list like that is entitled to make a few poor ones from time to time, Pete Harrison or no Pete Harrison.

DINNER at

is not merely an event, but to those who demand

COMFORT

EXCELLENT FOOD

and

THE BEST IN SERVICE

it is a NECESSITY

CONGRATULATIONS AND THANKS

To PARAMOUNT
CHARLES R. ROGERS
RALPH MURPHY
ADOLPHE MENJOU
for
"THE GREAT FLIRTATION"
and an appreciation to Menjou for mentioning me
in his "TOAST"

ELISSA LANDI

The Hollywood Reporter

Vol. XXI, No. 28. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Monday, June 11, 1934

EXHIBS WANT PERSONALS

TRADEVIEWS
by FRANK POPE

•AT a recent conference of California teachers, held in Pasadena, an educator of high standing remarked that, "taking all available evidence into consideration, we must regretfully admit that motion pictures have proved to be a detrimental social force."

"And that," commented King Vidor the other day, "is a fair sample of the barrage of criticism, not to say condemnation, that is being trained upon the industry."

Vidor has been in the picture game long enough to know what it is all about and, more than that, he possesses a faculty of thinking clearly.

"Gladstone said once," he went on, "that it is impossible to indict a whole people because the indictment takes in too much territory. And that is just as true when anyone tries to indict an entire industry, like the motion picture business. Even admitting that some pictures have exercised a negative, even a harmful influence, it is manifestly unfair to blacken every picture and every producer.

•

"Dozens of pictures that have been inspirational and uplifting can be cited for every one that has had the opposite effect. When a few newspapers give offense by featuring crime or sensational news, no one yells for the censorship of the press. Yet that drastic treatment is what the reformers are trying to inflict on the picture industry, which is fully as great as the press as a disseminator of education and news.

"The unfairness of the whole thing is what gets me. For instance, the people who are attacking pictures say that 77,000,000 persons attend motion pictures every week and that one-third of these are children. The inference is that 25,000,000 children see harmful pictures every week. Anyone who will think about it knows that isn't true because an enormous percentage of those 25,000,000 are repeats. But the reformers still cry about the baneful effect on '25,000,000 children'.

•

"Granting that there is room for improvement in the moral tone of many pictures, it is my view that that is up to the public. If people are offended by a picture and stay away from theatres where it is shown, not

(Continued on Page 4)

Laughton To Star In Magna Charta Film

London.—Miles Malleson, British writer, is writing a story around the signing of the Magna Charta, which Alexander Korda will produce for his London Films, with Charles Laughton starring as King John.

Franklin Will Make Two For Paramount

New York.—Harold B. Franklin is closing negotiations to produce two pictures next season for Paramount release. One will be called "Fourteenth Street," Franklin owning the title.

Arch Selwyn, associated with Franklin in his stage production venture, is at present under contract to Fox, but that agreement expires August 15 and it is possible that he will be hooked in with Franklin's picture deal.

Frank Joyce Expected To Return in Few Days

New York.—Frank Joyce, who has been dangerously ill for some time, has recovered sufficiently to be able to travel and is expected to leave for his home on the coast within the next week.

Para. Holding Bernie

Paramount has worked out a new deal for Ben Bernie and is scheduled to put it into effect following "Shoot the Works," in which the band leader turns actor.

Stars Won't Co-operate, They Complain, To Help Box-office During The Summer Slump

New York.—Loud and bitter complaints are being heard from exhibitors in all sections of the country over the refusal of the picture stars to make personal appearances and thus help the theatres out in the Summer slump, and also over the refusal of the studios to use their influence to get the stars to comply.

The exhibitors see lean times during the next three months. With the exception of Warner Brothers, the pictures in sight do not cause any shouts of joy, and they need something to pull the public into the houses and bolster up the hot-weather grosses.

Heretofore the larger houses could count on stage attractions, but most

(Continued on Page 3)

MGM To Make Picture Based on Lloyd George

New York.—A picture based on the life of David Lloyd George is to be produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, according to dispatches from London.

The production will be in California, and everything in it must have the approval of the former prime minister.

Meighan Coming West

New York. — Thomas Meighan leaves tomorrow for the coast to play in Sol Lesser's new production of "Peck's Bad Boy."

'Rothschild' Still Tops London Hits

London.—"The House of Rothschild" is still the big hit of all the pictures showing here and is doing marvelous business. "Roman Scandals," the Eddie Cantor picture, is still running and doing very well.

The new arrivals of the week are "Murder at the Vanities" at the Carlton, replacing "The Scarlet Empress" which started off well but slumped; "Those Were the Days," a British International, at the Regal; "Such Women Are Dangerous" at the Capitol; "Hollywood Party" at the Empire; "Spitfire" at the Plaza, and "Evergreen," a Gaumont film, at the New Gallery.

Mayo Dissatisfied, Asks Warner Release

Archie Mayo was reported Saturday walking in to J. L. Warner's office and demanding a release from his long-term director's deal which has more than a year to run.

His reason is said to be dissatisfaction with the assignments he has been receiving, claiming that a story now shooting was turned over to another director, although he had been the instrument for its purchase.

Mistinguette For Films

Paris.—Mistinguette, she of the so-called most beautiful legs in the world, has finally hearkened to the call of the films. After refusing for years to desert the stage, she has signed with Director Julien Duvivier to do a picture.

Trem Carr to Hospital

Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production at Monogram, goes to the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Thursday for an abdominal operation. He will be there two weeks under Dr. H. L. Undegraff's care.

NEW PLAN TO LEGISLATE MORALS INTO PICTURES

Washington.—With all the churches and reformers jumping on the picture industry and accusing it of immorality, salaciousness and indecency, now Congress may take a hand and make the films moral by legislation.

Declaring that "the whole atmosphere of Hollywood seeps with immorality," Representative Cannon, of Wisconsin, has introduced a bill to clean up the Hollywood product and personnel. The measure makes it a Federal offense to transport in interstate commerce any film which contains "suggestive and morally objectionable" actions, or one in which any player appears who has ever been

(Continued on Page 2)

Hecht and MacArthur Complete Their First

New York.—"Crime Without Passion," the first of the series of pictures which Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur are making for Paramount release, will be completed at the Astoria studio within ten days.

The production starring Jimmy Savo will be the next to go into work.

Barthelmess to Stage

New York.—Richard Barthelmess has decided to remain here and do a play for Max Gordon instead of going to Europe. He will later star in a screen version of the play.

JOHN BLYSTONE directed "CHANGE OF HEART"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

BROADWAY PLAY SHORTAGE GIVES LOCAL WRITERS BREAK

Stage Promises No Picture Material

New York.—It looks definitely as though the writers of original stories will get a break with the studios in Hollywood during the next two months, judging from the few Broadway plays that are open for consideration during that time. With the play supply virtually non-existent, the Hollywood writers seem due for a cordial reception by the studios.

The scenario men will have to work fast because there is every indication that the next play season, normally getting under way late in August, will get an earlier start this year.

The month of July has no openings, being even devoid of the usually optimistic musical show, a type of production which, existing upon tourist trade, has the only chance of weathering the climate hereabouts.

August and September take on a pugnacious aspect, however. New plays at the two or three per night are anticipated. These include:

The Aben Kandel play, "We Dress For Dinner," for which Sidney Salkow is responsible; "Tight Britches," a mountaineer play, by J. T. Foote and Hubert Hayes, Rowland Stebbins producing this and "Lost Horizons," the Harry Segall play; "Snatch as Snatch Can," a melodramatic farce by Laurence Schwab and Richard MacAuley, the former producing; "Life Begins at 8:30," a Lee Shubert revue; George White's Scandals, of course, with Gregory Ratoff and Bert Lahr.

DeSylva, Brown and Henderson concoct a revue; George M. Cohan puts on his own play, "He Won't Want You"; Selwyn-Franklin-Cochran put on A. E. Thomas' "Cora Potts" and H. M. Harwood's "The Old Folks At Home"; Paul Gerard Smith's revue, "Cocktails At Five," is planned by E. K. Nadel; Paul Green's "Potter's Field," by Margaret Hewes; Roland Bottomley's farce, "Olivia Bows to Mrs. Grundy," by producers Franklin and Stoner, erstwhile Hollywood independent film producers; Lawrence Hazard and Robert Flourney's "Ladies Money," by George Abbott; "One Night, One Day," by Leo Bulgakov; Martha Madison's "Night Remembers," also by Bulgakov; Kubec Glasmon's "Shoestring," by Sidney Salkow.

George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart's "Merrily We Roll Along," will be given by Sam Harris; Charles Divine's "Tourists Accommodated," by the Schlesingers; "The Red Cat," by Rudolph Lothar and Hans Adler, Twentieth Century Pictures producing; Dorrance Davis' musical "Apron Strings," presented by Dwight Wiman; Elmer Rice's "Judgment Day"; a musical by Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse, Vinton Freedley producing.

Dwight Wiman produces a musical by Howard Lindsay, Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz; Reginald Lawrence's "Sweet Bells Jangled," starring Jane Cowl, will be done by producers Bennett and Traube; Walter C. Roberts' "Damn Deborah," will have Krimsky and Cochran producing; David Hertz' "Waltz in Fire," by Sidney Harmon and James R. Ullman.

Dore Schary's "Violence," will be presented by Harmon and Ullman; Noel Pierce's "Gallows Orchard," by Henry Forbes; "Fear," a Russian play by A. Afinogenoff, S. Hurok producing; Ward Morehouse's "Miss Quis," by Paul Streger; Clifford Odets' "Awake and Sing," by Frank Merlin; and the Spewack play, "Spring Song," for which Max Gordon is responsible.

The probability is that seventy-five per cent of these will be spread out over the rest of the season. As it stands now, October is comparatively lean. Slated are:

'Escape Me Never," by Margaret Kennedy, starring Elizabeth Bergner; Noel Coward's "Conversation Place," with Yvonne Printemps; Romney Brent and Cole Porter's "Nymph Errant"; Frances Marion's "The Lady Is Tired," and an untitled play by Edward Knoblock and Frederick Lonsdale—all planned by Arch Selwyn-H. B. Franklin-C. B. Cochran.

Max Gordon figures on a B. G. De Sylva-Sid Silvers musical; "The Rats of Norway," by Keith Winter; Marc Connelly's "Low Bridge," Walter D. Edmonds' "Rome Haul," Moss Hart's "Rome Haul," Claire Kummer's "Love Without a Penny" and a Sidney Howard play.

William A. Brady Jr. has Owen Davis' "Too Many Boats"; Bert Lytell stars himself in "The First Legion," by Emmett Lavery; Jed Harris has "Room in Red and White," a melodrama by Roy Hargrave, Laura Adair and Thomas Scofield; and Herman Shumlin has Lillian Kober's "Children's Hour."

All RKO Theatres Get Fight Pictures

New York.—The pictures of the Primo Carnera-Max Baer fight have been booked into all RKO theatres in New York state and will be shown in the metropolitan district on Friday. The films are being distributed by the Oliver Film Corp.

No England For Alice

Alice White is bemoaning the fact that she has had to turn down an offer to go to England to make a picture, because Universal wouldn't give her permission to go.

Employees' Code In London Theatres

London.—In spite of the fact that the employees of the London theatres are not organized, the London Cinematograph Exhibitors Association has worked out a code of hours and salaries, covering all classes.

The maximum hours for men are 55 a week, and 50 for women. Salaries for projectionists run from five pounds a week in the larger theatres down to 22 shillings in the small ones. This, however, does not apply to the big houses in the West End, where operators get from ten to fifteen pounds a week.

Joe Kane With Mascot

Mascot has signed Joe Kane to supervise "Waterfront Lady." He wound up Saturday with Charles R. Rogers, with whom he had been in a production capacity for the past three and a half years.

Plan New Film Morals

(Continued from Page 1)

"convicted of any charge involving moral turpitude."

In a statement accompanying the bill, Mr. Cannon says that "the actors and actresses become hardened to immorality and suggestive conduct," so much so that "they consider their suggestive and immoral actions on the screen as a matter of course and in harmony with their lives."

He asserts also that "the films are an immoral influence on our children and the young people of today. Such education must be stopped."

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

THE LOW DOWN

Look what happens when far-away "reporters" get gay with this column! A while back we mentioned here that "Kay Francis and Joe Bryan, third, were dining together,—". A few days later one of the Broadway columnists picked it up and printed, "Kay Francis' next will probably be Joseph Bryan III." A coupla days after that, Mr. Bryan himself received an enlarged facsimile of that notice, with a circle drawn around it and a note from his wife in the East saying merely, "How's tricks?" And a week later Bryan received a card from a pal in Chicago saying that he had heard over the air that Joe and Kay Francis were going to the altar! Fancy now! And Joseph perfectly happy with his wife and kiddies!

•

A very attractive lass has completely aired a well-known agent—and after such a long time too! Well, anyway, the feller never treated her with the attention due her very attractive person. So she's switched from the agent (who is having swelled head trouble lately) to a big producer. And even though the gal isn't getting any big picture breaks at the moment, she's doing all right at the bank.

•

A lot of the Frasso's pals (among them the Clark Gables, the Ric Cortezes, Kay Francis, Whitney de Rham, Virginia Bruce, Joshua Cosden, Don Stewart) gathered at the Vendome for "brunch" yesterday noon before hoisting her onto the new Douglas N. Y. flyer. There were thousands of pipple at the airport to watch celebs seeing one another off, and to get a kick out of the new 13-hour thrill plane—and wot a thrill! Also on board for the maiden voyage were Annabella and her hubby, Jean Murat, with Pat Patterson and Charles Boyer to wave good-bye; Leo Morrison, Howard Strickling (he'll return end of the week), Robert Woolsey and Millie Mobley, who'll meet Myron Selznick and party in the East. And, of course—Hymie Fink was all over the place!

A GREAT BUY

FOR RENT—FURNISHED—Hermosa Beach apartment, six rooms, three bedrooms, living room, dining room, bath and shower outside for use of bathers. Twenty-five minutes to Hollywood and Vine. Located west end Hermosa, quiet, refined surroundings. One hundred feet from ocean. Beautiful beach. Can be had very reasonable if rented from June 15 to Labor Day or longer. Drive down to inspect this offer

or

Phone HOllywood 3957 or Redondo 2519.
Address 3234 Hermosa Avenue, Hermosa Beach, California

'SHE LEARNED ABOUT SAILORS' VERY FUNNY AND ALSO CLEAN

Director, Cast and Writers All Score

"SHE LEARNED ABOUT SAILORS"
(Fox)

Direction .....George Marshall
Original Screen Play: William Conselman, Henry Johnson.
Photography .....Harry Jackson
Cast: Lew Ayres, Alice Faye, Frank Mitchell, Jack Durant, Harry Green.

Here is a very funny rowdy comedy, proving again that off-color stuff stuff doesn't have to be dragged in to get the laughs. Gentlemen, take a bow—George Marshall for direction that makes every situation a real belly laugh, William Conselman and Henry Johnson for a corking screen farce, and John Stone for a production that couldn't have cost a lot of money yet can't help but turn in a neat profit.

As for the cast: Lew Ayres steps forward to deliver a performance of the fleet's Don Juan that rings true every moment. There isn't even a suggestion of any of the Ayres mannerisms that have crept into several of his recent portrayals. We have said before and we repeat, all this fellow needs is intelligent casting.

Alice Faye is on her way places. If Fox doesn't crowd her, she will mean plenty to the box-office before the year is out. She sells a song in the picture as a Shanghai cabaret singer. The number, something about a "Key To My Heart," is due for a hit.

The team of Mitchell and Durant have a piece of the plot to carry in conjunction with their standard knockabout comedy routine. They register solidly in every appearance and would steal the show if the story were not so well balanced. Harry Green has the only other programed role and, although his opportunity is limited, it counts. He is Jose Lopez Rubenstein, of Buenos Aires.

A synopsis of the story does not do it justice. It is the familiar tale of the sailor on shore leave who falls in love with the girl he fails to make. His buddies try to help the romance along, but only succeed in complicating it.

The action starts with a bang and there isn't a foot that can be spared from the first two or three reels. The sequences laid in Los Angeles need trimming, for, at 85 minutes, the feature is over-length. Cutting should bring the tempo of the last half up to the furious pace set by the opening. Marshall's training in short comedies makes him an ideal director for this type of rowdy farce. The photography of Harry Jackson is uniformly good.

Don't overlook the lack of obscenity in "She Learned About Sailors" in planning your campaign. It is probably the first time a sailor picture has ever received such treatment.

Sell it as a comedy wow with a liberal dose of slap-stick. It won't disappoint.

'Green Hat' Finished

Robert Z. Leonard hung up "The Green Hat" Friday at MGM. Constance Bennett and Herbert Marshall held the main spots.

Brent Gets Break

George Brent, detained at MGM for publicity stills Friday, raced over to Grand Central for a flying lesson and found the pilot, Robert P. Riddell, had just taken off with another pupil. They never returned, crashing to death in the hills near Universal City.

Columbia Hits Top In Player Roster

George Murphy checking in from New York, Columbia sets an all-time high for itself for the size of its contract list. It has thirty-seven players under term deals, twelve on group picture tickets, the remainder holding long-termers.

The recent New York expedition of Harry Cohn and William Perlberg, casting chief, netted twelve Broadwayites, of whom Murphy is the last. The group-picture contracts, for two or more productions each, are held by Claudette Colbert, Carole Lombard, Nancy Carroll, Edmund Lowe, Gene Raymond, Fay Wray, Jean Arthur, Charlie Murray, George Sidney and Howard, Fine and Howard.

MGM After Jimmy Dunn For 'Have a Heart' Cast

John Considine is dickering with Fox to borrow Jimmy Dunn for "Have a Heart," the Buddy DeSylva-David Butler musical preparing at MGM. Jean Parker and Stuart Erwin are set in it.

Butler, borrowed from Fox for the writing and direction, will probably start production next week.

Hoffman Gets Kelly For 'School For Girls'

M. H. Hoffman has put over a deal with Twentieth Century for the loan of Paul Kelly for his next Liberty production, "School for Girls," which William Nigh pilots.

The producer is dickering for Sylvia Sidney's services for the leading assignment.

Appel and Hale at MGM

Jack Chertok, head of the music department at MGM, has assigned Arthur Appel and Chester Hale to stage the musical numbers in "Hide-out." W. S. Van Dyke is directing the story, in which Robert Montgomery is being starred.

Saunders on Own Yarn

John Monk Saunders is scripting his original, "West Point of the Air," which will be produced by Monta Bell as MGM's next for Wallace Beery. Richard Rosson is set to direct, starting the first week of July.

Marshall With Harvey

Next assignment for George Marshall at Fox looks like "365 Nights in Hollywood," with Lilian Harvey in the top spot. Marshall just finished "She Learned About Sailors," which was previewed Saturday night.

IATSE War Against ASC Starts at Once

Louisville, Ky.—George Browne, president-elect of the IATSE, assured west coast delegates Saturday that he will go to Hollywood as soon as he takes office and start an aggressive campaign to get the ASC out of power and put the cameramen's union back where it was. Also that he will go after the jurisdictional battle between IBEW and IATSE in order to get sound men and electricians back in the Basic Agreement.

Browne also announced that plans are being formulated to put more teeth into the control the IATSE has of location work. As an example of this he pointed out that right now an ASC cameraman at West Point on location for Warner Brothers is standing by doing nothing, while the IATSE cameramen are doing the work.

Universal Wants Boles For 'Imitation of Life'

Universal is trying to work out a deal with Radio so that it can also get a loan from Fox on John Boles, wanting him for the John Stahl production, "Imitation of Life."

Radio has the player for "Age of Innocence," with Universal endeavoring to get the studio to finish with him in time to get the bracket with Claudette Colbert in the Stahl picture.

Capra After Stone

Frank Capra registered a bid Saturday with MGM for the loan of Lewis Stone, who is finishing his role in "Treasure Island." The Columbia director wants him for "Broadway Bill."

Exhibs Want Personals

(Continued from Page 1)

of those which have been available in the past are now tied up with pictures and have been taken or have taken themselves out of the market.

"Pictures," declared one chain operator, "have gobbled up the best stage talent. Once it was possible to combat hot weather business by bolstering the ordinary picture with a stage or vaudeville attraction, but this is out of the question this Summer because so many of the stage draws are under contract to pictures. An added attraction on the stage largely increased our show cost, but it was worth it in the dull months because we could, when out of the red, stay out.

"The smaller houses, which could not afford spreading themselves with high-priced drawing cards, will be in a worse position than we are unless the studios come through at this time when we need them most.

"The studios are not co-operating with us in this situation. For one reason or another it is the general policy to soft-pedal personal appearances for their contract players. This, coupled with the fact that the player is reluctant to leave Hollywood for any length of time, makes it doubly difficult for us."

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

Considering the penchant the picture industry has for snapping up best sellers, it is strange indeed to record the fact that the best selling book of this generation has yet to be sold for picture purposes. The name of the book is "In His Steps," and over a period of twenty or twenty-five years it has sold over five and one-half MILLION copies. When a book runs into sales like that, it means that it has what it takes to make movie audiences. Now it just so happens that the theme of the book is religious, telling the story of a man who led the life of Christ in the midst of the modern world and, on the face of it, that's not exactly movie material unless C. B. DeMille takes a personal interest in it. Still, it seems to us that there should be something in it if five and a half million people have read it that would make those same people go to see a movie fashioned from it. However, even stranger than the fact that a best seller has been passed up by pictures, is the story back of the sale of the book.

•

The name of the author of "In His Steps" is Sheldon, the Reverend Sheldon, still spreading the gospel in Kansas or Missouri, we couldn't find out which. Years ago, Mr. Sheldon discovered that plain ordinary sermons, told in the ordinary way, were not quite enough to hold the interest of his flock and make them enjoy going to church enough for them to show up every Sunday. Thereupon Mr. Sheldon put on his thinking cap and decided to give his sermons in the form of a continued story. He would tell the life and experiences of a Christ on earth, one chapter at a time, so that his flock would have something to look forward to each Sunday.

The plan was a complete success and, in between Sundays, Sheldon had pamphlets made of the sermons he had already delivered which he distributed to his congregation, urging them to attend and find out what happened next. Now Sheldon never had those pamphlets copyrighted, but someone else did. And that person put them into book form and has been collecting royalties ever since.

•

About a year or so ago, the publisher of the book called in Bruce Barton and commissioned him to visit Sheldon and do an interview with him on how it felt to be the author of the best seller of the generation and never to have collected one penny royalty. And Bruce Barton wrote that interview, which really topped the irony of it all, because the man who had been bright enough to copyright those pamphlets was Bruce Barton's father and a good solid basis of the Barton fortune was originally laid by the royalties from "In His Steps."

Some place or other, either in the book or the story of it, it seems to us there is the basis of a picture.

Simple Services For Dorothy Dell

Many of the film colony who had known and liked Dorothy Dell during her brief career in Hollywood gathered at Pierce Brothers funeral parlors yesterday to attend her funeral services.

Rev. Willsie Martin read the simple service and Ruth Etting, long a friend of Dorothy's, sang "The Rosary." Immediately after the services, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Goff, the dead girl's parents, started for their home, in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, with the body.

Harmon East; Starts For Universal in Jan.

Sidney Harmon, New York stage producer, who is scheduled to produce four pictures for Universal, returns to New York this week and will be back in a few months to begin his picture work.

John Twist East

Radio Saturday granted John Twist a month's leave of absence and the writer left by train last night for the East for the tryout of his new play in Locust Valley, Long Island. James Neilson is staging it. Twist just completed his original story, "Hudson River."

Pagano to Goldwyn

Sam Goldwyn has signed Ernest Pagano to collaborate with Arthur Sheekman, Nat Perrin and Nunnally Johnson on the dialogue of Eddie Cantor's "The Son of the Sheik."

Duworld Pictures Inc. Gets Terris Series

New York.—"The Quest of the Perfect Woman," a series of one-reelers featuring Tom Terriss, has been acquired for distribution by Duworld Pictures Inc. Arthur Hammer is producing.

The first two, "Vampire of Marrekesh" and "Veiled Dancer of Eloued," have been completed.

Hamilton on Vacation

Neil Hamilton and his wife are vacationing at Arrowhead Springs.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

only will it die a natural death, but the example will prevent the making of similar ones. The so-called 'objectionable' pictures wouldn't be made if there were no market for them.

"The whole thing resolves itself into a question of good taste, not only in the making of pictures, but in patronizing them. Of course, the industry should keep its house clean, but the picture patrons should do their share by developing a taste for better pictures.

"Personally, I am old-fashioned. I still believe in the ultimate triumph of the good and the beautiful. I am convinced that people are decent, no matter what the front pages of the newspapers tell me, and I am also convinced that the people themselves are the ones who should and will correct picture faults, and not the professional reformers."

New York Premiere For 'Don Juan' Is Off

London.—Changed release plans for "The Private Life of Don Juan" will keep Douglas Fairbanks Sr. here until after its London premiere.

The original plan to preview in mid-ocean and premiere in New York has been abandoned, the release firm having decided to give England exclusive first play on the picture. The American release may not take place until this Fall.

Gloria Shea Gets Lead In Monogram Picture

Trem Carr Saturday signed Gloria Shea for a spot in "Tomorrow's Youth," which Charles Lamont is directing at Monogram. Paul Hurst, Barbara Bedford and Winifred Drew also were cast.

This makes the second picture in which Miss Shea has appeared at the studio, having been in "Money Means Nothing."

'Dragon' Finishes

"Lucky" Humberstone brought "The Dragon Murder Case" across the wire Saturday for Warners. Warren William, Lyle Talbot and Margaret Lindsay have the leading roles.

Murphy to Goldwyn

Sam Goldwyn borrows George Murphy from Columbia for the Eddie Cantor production. It is Murphy's first trick on his long-term ticket with Columbia.

'Gentlemen Are Born' Next For Mervyn LeRoy

Mervyn LeRoy read Harry Sauber's original screen play of "Gentlemen Are Born," and Saturday selected it as his next directing assignment for Warners.

On the basis of his script, Sauber's one-picture deal was extended to a five-year contract. LeRoy will put the picture into work in three weeks.

Margaret Sullavan To Play a Week in Stock

John LeRoy Johnston yesterday wired Universal that Margaret Sullavan will remain another week East, having accepted an offer to appear in the leading role in "Coquette," which the Mount Kisco stock company is putting on at the Summer theatre.

Eddie Cantor Returns

Eddie Cantor returned to Hollywood from San Francisco Saturday, finishing his personal appearances there. A deal is being lined up by the William Morris office for a week at a Los Angeles house before he goes to work on his picture for Sam Goldwyn.

Mirror Critic to Fox

New York.—Charles A. Wagner, book reviewer for the Daily Mirror, has joined the Fox Film publicity department.

Four More For Keaton

New York.—Educational has signed Buster Keaton for four more starring comedies for the coming year.

Grady Sutton

in

"Bachelor Bait"

Hollywood Reporter:
"Grady Sutton as the detective-millionaire is a honey."

Radio Pictures

Management
NAT C. GOLDSTONE

"Bachelor Bait"

SCREEN PLAY

by

Glenn Tryon

Hollywood Reporter:
"The writing is plenty good, but there is an awful lot of it."

Radio Pictures

REELING around LONDON

Ralph Ince has had one lousy break here—was megging one at Sound City and also playing in the pic when, in a fight scene, he slipped and did things to his leg; and the result is four long months recuperation. Tough luck, Ralph, old warhorse. . . . Herbert Brenon in our midst, and "Peter Panning" around the metropolis. . . . Every studio in this town is using "It Happened One Night" as the one way to write, direct and act a screen play, which is pretty flattering for milords Capra, Riskin and Co. . . . Les (Steve) Williams, Universal Publicity Wallah, gave Davie Bader a surprise packet the other dawning as Dave left for America, and that was a bunch of ladies' newspapers and the Woman's Companion!!!

•

Monty Banks leaves the famous Dorchester, where he lives and scrams up the street to a very cheap eatery just 'cos he gets swell cawfee there. . . . Lush! tush! and bother! and after we had seen "Man of Aran" which tells how tough it is to eke out an existence, a certain cigarette maker here has published throw-away cards entitled "Homeland Series" in which there is a delightful one of Aran with wheat and grass and villages and smartly dressed farmers—so what, Bob Flaherty?!! . . . Paul Perez has had his B.I.P. writing ticket stretched for a longer period. . . . Don Pedelty is this town's movie champeen squash player. . . . Florence Desmond's brother has a bunch of movie autographs on the seat of a You-know-what and in that empty space in the middle a picture of the aristocratic features of milord Schnozzle Durante!

•

Hal Wallis inspecting our countryside with Irving Asher as his guide. . . . Migosh, poor Jack Votion, he had to show Dave and Myron Selznick the continent; and they covered Belgium, Holland and France in a coupla days. Jack quit and took a boat home—and you ought to see the trick umbrella-cane combination he's been given by an admiring client! . . . The Gertie Lawrence-Junior Fairbanks stage show took twenty grand in two weeks at its Manchester try-out, 'tis said. . . . And Darryl Zanuck paid seven thousand pounds for "Clive of India," which very nearly went to a quota company here for three hundred and fifty!!! . . . Harold Young threw a chili party to celebrate his directorial debut with Irving Asher. . . . Tim Whelan there, just back from ten weeks in Egypt on location, Russell Metcalfe, Percy Marmont, "Doc" Solomon and the Ben Nedells. . . . Virginia Valli Farrell watching hubbie sweltering in the heat on location the other day. Oh yes, now and then we do get a spot of sunshine, you know, California.

Film Code to Define Term 'Employee'

Washington. — Everything is in readiness here for the hearing tomorrow at the NRA on the proposed amendment to the motion picture code. The amendment, submitted by the Code Authority, re-defines the term "employee", with the intention of making it more inclusive and eliminating the possibility of evasions by employers. It proposes the following definition:

"The term employee as used herein shall be deemed to refer to and include every person employed by any producer, distributor or exhibitor as hereinabove defined, and shall also be deemed to include any and all persons, however or by whomsoever compensated, regularly performing their services in motion picture theatres, which services are of a kind usually and customarily performed by theatre employees directly compensated by exhibitors."

Theatre Guild Will Offer New Shaw Play

New York.—The Theatre Guild will present a new play by George Bernard Shaw during the coming season, and also "The Sleeping Clergyman," by St. John Ervine.

Fabian Deal Flops

New York.—The deal which Si Fabian had for the Manhattan Playhouse and which was supposed to be virtually closed, is understood to have fallen through.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Lois Torres to "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," Edward Small, and "Stamboul Quest," MGM. Jacques Ray for the latter. Both players through Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall.

Herman Bing by Menifee I. Johnstone to "Merry Widow," MGM.

Kathleen Burke and Lona Andre by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall to "School for Girls," Liberty.

Eddie Kane by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall for "Broadway Bill," Columbia.

Fields, Rodgers, Hart To Work on 'Mississippi'

Hollywood is re-uniting the Fields-Rodgers-Hart trio, which was responsible for a number of Broadway musical hits. The team gets going again on Paramount's "Mississippi," which Arthur Hornblow is producing. Rodgers and Hart are due in from New York July 1, Fields having already gone to work on the Dore Schary story.

Lanny Ross and W. C. Fields are set for the top spots.

Rushing 'Strangers'

Roland Reed is rushing the editing of Invincible's "House of Strangers" so as to get a print off to Maury Cohen and George Batcheller by June 19. Latter will not leave for Europe to set foreign sales until the print arrives.

LEON GORDON

NOW WRITING

"OUTRAGED"

(Paramount)

"Transatlantic Showboat"

(Just Completed Screen Play—Reliance - United Artists)

◆

"When Ladies Meet"
(M-G-M)*

"Indo-China"
(Original in preparation - M-G-M)

"Son-Daughter"
(M-G-M)*

"Malibu"
(In production - M-G-M)*

"Tarzan"
(M-G-M)*

IN PREPARATION

"The Empire Builder"

(Life of Cecil Rhodes)

Management

Small-Landau Company

*Collaboration

PICTURES NOW SHOOTING

PRODUCTION UP WITH 34 IN WORK

BAROMETER

This Week	34 Features
Last Week	31 Features
Year Ago	21 Features
Two Years Ago	29 Features
Three Years Ago	33 Features

Columbia

"BY PERSONS UNKNOWN"

Cast: Ralph Bellamy, Shirley Grey, Charles Sabin, Arthur Hohl, J. Carroll Naish, Ward Bond, Vincent Sherman.
Director ..... D. Ross Lederman
Original Screen Play.... Harold Shumate
Photography ..... Benjamin Kline
Sound ..... George Cooper
Associate Producer..... Irving Briskin

"BROADWAY BILL"

Cast: Warner Baxter, Myrna Loy, Lynne Overman, Douglas Dumbrille, Margaret Hamilton, Raymond Walburn, Clarence Muse, George Cooper, Charles Levison, Charles Wilson, Ward Bond.
Director ..... Frank Capra
Original ..... Mark Hellinger
Screen Play..... Robert Riskin
Photography ..... Joseph Walker
Sound..... Edward Bernds
Producer..... Harry Cohn

Fox

"CARAVAN"

Cast: Charles Boyer, Loretta Young, Jean Parker, Phillips Holmes, Louise Fazenda, Eugene Pallette, C. Aubrey Smith, Dudley Digges, Richard Carle, Charles Grapewin, Billy Bevan, Armand Kaliz, Harry Bradley.
Director ..... Erik Charell
Original Story..... Melchoir Lengyel
Screen Play and Dialogue—
Samson Raphaelson
Continuity..... Robert Liebmann
Music..... Werner Richard Heymann
Lyrics ..... Gus Kahn
Photography..... Ernest G. Palmer
Sound ..... A. L. Von Kirbach
Producer ..... Robert Kane

"SHE WAS A LADY"

Cast: Helen Twelvetrees, Donald Woods, Ralph Morgan, Paul Harvey, Jackie Searl, Carol Kay, Doris Lloyd, Ann Howard.
Director ..... Hamilton MacFadden
Novel ..... Elisabeth Cobb
Screen Play..... Gertrude Purcell
Photography ..... Bert Glennon
Sound ..... Don Flick
Producer ..... Al Rockett

"SERVANTS' EXTRANCE"

Cast: Janet Gaynor, Lew Ayres, Walter Connolly, Louise Dresser, G. P. Huntley Jr., Sigfried Rumann, Buster Phelps.
Director ..... Frank Lloyd
Original ..... Sigrid Boo
Screen Play..... Samson Raphaelson
Photography ..... Hal Mohr
Producer ..... Winfield Sheehan

"JUDGE PRIEST"

Cast: Will Rogers, Glenda Fowler, Rochelle Hudson, Roger Imhoff, Tom Brown, Anita Louise, Frank Melton, Stepin Fetchit, Henry B. Walthall, Berton Churchill, Charles Grapewin.
Director ..... John Ford
Short Stories..... Irvin S. Cobb
Screen Play..... Dudley Nicholls and Lamar Trotti
Photography ..... George Schneiderman
Producer ..... Sol Wurtzel

"WANTED"

Cast: Rosemary Ames, Nils Asther, Russell Hardie, Pert Kelton, Victor Jory, George Irving.
Director ..... Louis King
Screen Play ..... Lester Cole and Stuart Anthony
Producer ..... Sol Wurtzel

MGM

"BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET"

Cast: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Sullivan, Ferdinand Munier, Katharine Alexander, Marion Clayton, Ian Woolf, Una O'Connor, Vernon Downing, Neville Clark, Matthew Smith, Robert Carlton, Allan Conrad, Peter Hobbes, Ralph Forbes, Lowden Adams, Leo G. Carroll.
Director ..... Sidney Franklin
From play by..... Rudolf Besier
Screen Play..... Claudine West and Ernest Vajda
Add. Dialogue.. Donald Ogden Stewart
Photography ..... William Daniels
Producer ..... Irving Thalberg

"THE MERRY WIDOW"

Cast: Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Minna Gombell, Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, Barbara Leonard, Sterling Holloway, George Barbier, Joan Gale, Sheila Manora, Leona Walters, Edna Walde, Barbara Barondess, Shirley Ross, Dorothy Granger, Jean Hart, Elinor Hunt, Dorothy Wilson, Jill Dennett, Maria Troubetylcoy, Tyler Brooke, Cosmo Kyrle Bellew, George Lewis, John Merkyl, Charles Requa, Fifi D'Orsay, Dewey Robinson.
Director ..... Ernst Lubitsch
Original Operetta..... Franz Lehar
Screen Play..... Ernest Vajda and Samson Raphaelson
Dance Director ..... Albertina Rasch
Photography ..... Oliver Marsh
Producer ..... Irving Thalberg

"MURDER IN THE PRIVATE CAR"

Cast: Charlie Ruggles, Una Merkel, Mary Carlisle, Russell Hardie, Porter Hall, Cliff Thompson, Willard Robertson, Sterling Holloway, "Snowflake," Berton Churchill, Wilfred Lukas, Akim Tamiroff, John David Horsley.
Director ..... Harry Beaumont
Play ..... Edward E. Rose
Adaptation ..... Harvey Thew
Screen Play: Ralph Spence, Edgar Allan Woolf and Al Boasberg.
Photography ..... James Van Trees
Producer ..... Lucien Hubbard

"STAMBOUL QUEST"

Cast: Myrna Loy, George Brent, Lionel Atwill, C Henry Gordon, Douglas Dumbrille, Christian Rub, Rudolph Amendt, Robert Gleckler, Reginald Barlow, Leo Carroll, Judith Vosselli.
Director ..... Sam Wood
Original ..... Leo Birinski
Photography ..... James Wong Howe
Producer ..... Bernard Hyman

"SACRED AND PROFANE LOVE"

Cast: Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Otto Kruger, Stuart Erwin, Una O'Connor, Marjorie Gateson.
Director ..... Clarence Brown
Original ..... Edgar Selwyn
Screen Play..... John Lee Mahin
Photography ..... George Folsey
Producer ..... Hunt Stromberg

"THE STUDENT TOUR"

Chast: Charles Butterworth, Jimmy Durante, Phil Regan, Maxine Doyle, Florinne McKinney, Monte Blue, Dewey Robinson.
Director ..... Charles F. Reisner
Original Screen Play: Arthur Bloch and George Seaton.
Photography ..... Joseph Valentine
Producer ..... Monta Bell

"ALL GOOD AMERICANS"

Cast: Robert Young, Una Merkel, Madge Evans, Otto Kruger, Ralph Bushman.
Director ..... Edwin Marin
Original Play.. S. J. and Laura Perelman
Screen Play..... Wells Root
Photography ..... Milton Krasner
Producer ..... Lucien Hubbard

"THE HIDE-OUT"

Cast: Robert Montgomery, Muriel Evans, Ed Brophy, Mickey Rooney, Louise Henry.
Director ..... W. S. Van Dyke
Original ..... Mauri Grashin
Dance Numbers..... Arthur Appel and Chester Hale
Photography ..... Hal Rosson
Producer ..... Hunt Stromberg

Paramount

"THE NOTORIOUS SOPHIE LANG"

Cast: Gertrude Michael, Paul Cavanagh, Arthur Byron, Alison Skipworth, Ben Taggart, Leon Errol, Norman Ainsley, Arthur Hoyt, Edward McWade, Del Henderson, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Lucio Villegas, Agostino Borgato.
Director ..... Ralph Murphy
Original.... Frederick Irving Anderson
Screen Play..... Anthony Veiller
Photography..... Al Gilks
Sound ..... Harry Lindgren
Producer ..... Bayard Veiller

"NOW AND FOREVER"

Cast: Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard, Shirley Temple, Sir Guy Standing, Charlotte Granville, Tetsu Komai, Jameson Thomas, Gilbert Emery, Henry Kolker, Harry Stubbs, Egon Brecher, Buster Phelps.
Director ..... Henry Hathaway
Original: Jack Kirkland and Melville Baker.
Adaptation ..... Austin Parker
Screen Play: Vincent Lawrence and Sylvia Thalberg.
Music ..... Harry Revel
Lyrics ..... Mack Gordon
Photography ..... Harry Fischbeck
Sound ..... Harry Lewis
Producer ..... Louis D. Lighton

"LADIES SHOULD LISTEN"

Cast: Cary Grant, Frances Drake, Edward Everett Horton, Charles E. Arnt, Nydia Westman, George Barbier, Rafael Corio, Rosita Moreno, Charlie Ray.
Director ..... Frank Tuttle
Original: Alfred Savoir and Guy Bolton
Adaptation ..... Guy Bolton
Screen Play: Frank Butler and Claude Binyon.
Photography ..... Henry Sharp
Sound ..... Earl Hayman
Producer ..... Douglas MacLean

"ELMER AND ELSIE"

Cast: George Bancroft, Frances Fuller, Roscoe Karns, George Barbier, Nella Walker, Charles Sellon, Helena

PICTURES Now SHOOTING

THIS WEEK AS COMPARED WITH 31 LAST WEEK

Phillips Evans, Ruth Clifford, Albert Conti, Vera Stedman, Helene Lynch, Marie Wells, Eddie Baker, Duke York, William Robins, Alf P. James.
Director .....Gilbert Pratt
Original: George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly.
Screen Play.....Humphrey Pearson
Photography .....William Mellor
Sound .....A. W. Singley
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

"YOU BELONG TO ME"

Cast: Lee Tracy, Helen Mack, Arthur Pierson, David Jack Holt, Lynne Overman.
Driector .....Alfred Werker
Original .....Elizabeth Alexander
Adaptation: Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt.
Screen Play: Lynn Starling and Harry Ruskin.
Photography .....Leo Tover
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"

Cast: Pauline Lord, W. C. Fields, Zasu Pitts, Jimmy Butler, George Breakstone, Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Edyth Fellows, Verginia Weidler, Carmencita Johnson.
Director .....Norman Taurog
Original .....Alice Hegan Rice
Photography .....Charles Lang
Sound ..... Eugene Merritt
Producer .....Douglas MacLean

RKO-Radio

"HAT, COAT AND GLOVE"

Cast: Ricardo Cortez, Barbara Robbins, John Beal, Sara Hayden, Samuel Hinds, Murray Kinnell, Margaret Hamilton, Dorothy Burgess.
Director .....Worthington Minor
Play .....Wilhelm Speyer
Screen Play.....Francis Faragoh
Photography .....Roy Hunt
Sound .....George Ellis
Producer .....Kenneth Macgowan

United Artists

Samuel Goldwyn

"WE LIVE AGAIN"

(Rehearsing)

Cast: Anna Sten, Fredric March, Gwendolin Logan, C. Aubrey Smith, Jessie Ralph, Jane Baxter, Ethel Griffies.
Director ..... Rouben Mamoulan
Based on Novel by.....Leo Tolstoi
Screen Play ..... Leonard Praskins
Photography .....Gregg Toland

Reliance Pictures, Inc.

"COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO"

Cast: Robert Donat, Elissa Landi, Louis Calhern, Sidney Blackmer, O. P. Heggie, Raymond Walburn, Lawrence Grant, Luis Alberni, Georgia Caine, Irene Hervey, Douglas Walton, Ferdinand Munier, Lionel Belmore, William Farnum, Wilfred Lucas, Clarence Wilson, Tom Rickerrs, Clarence Muse, Helen Freeman, Holmes Herbert, Eleanor Phelps, Alphonse Martell, Russell Powell, Juliette Compton, Walter Walker, Paul Irving, Wallace Albright, Edward Keane.
Director.....Rowland V. Lee
Original .....Alexandre Dumas
Adaptation .....Harvey Thew and Harry Hervey
Screen Play and Dialogue ..... Philip Dunne and Dan Totheroh
Photography .....Peverell Marley
Producer .....Edward Small

"TRANS-ATLANTIC MERRY-GO-ROUND"

Cast: Jack Benny, Nancy Carroll, Gene Raymond, Sydney Howard, Sid Silvers, Sidney Blackmer, Mary Livingstone, Frank Parker, Jean Sargent, Robert Elliott.
Director ..... Benjamin Stoloff
Original .....Leon Gordon
Additional Dialogue.....Ben Ryan and Harry W. Conn
Photography .....Teddy Tetzlaff
Producer.....Edward Small

Universal

"ONE MORE RIVER"

Cast: Diana Wynyard, Frank Lawton, Colin Clive, Henry Stephenson, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Jane Wyatt, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny, Kathleen Howard, Lionel Atwill, Alan Mowbray, Gilbert Emery, E. E. Clive, Robert Greig, Gunnis Davis, Tempe Pigott.
Director .....James Whale
Story .....John Galsworthy
Screen Play.....R. C. Sherriff
Photography .....John Mescal
Producer .....Carl Laemmle, Jr.

"THE RED RIDER"

(Serial)

Cast: Buck Jones, Grant Withers, Janet Chandler, Walter Miller, Richard Cramer, Margaret La Marr, Charles French, Edmund Cobb, J. P. McGowan, William Desmond, Mert LaVare, Frank Rice, Monte Montague, Jim Thorpe, Jim Corey, Bud Osborne, Al Ferguson, Silver, Lee Beggs, Dennie Meadows, Cliff Lyons.
Director .....Louis Friedlander
Original .....W. C. Tuttle
Screen Play: George Plympton, Bin Moore, Ella O'Neill, Basil Dickey.
Photography .....Richard Fryer
Sound .....Charles Carroll
Associate Producer.....Henry MacRae

"ROMANCE IN THE RAIN"

Cast: Roger Pryor, Heather Angel, Victor Moore, Phillip Reed, Ruth Donnelly, Marjorie Davidson.
Director .....Stuart Walker
Story .....Jay Gorney and Sig Hergiz
Screen Play.....Barry Trivers
Additional Dialogue.....John Weaver
Music.....Jay Gorney
Photography .....Charles Stumar
Producer .....Stanley Bergerman

Warners-First National

"DAMES"

Cast: Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Virginia Pine, Ronny Cosby, Zasu Pitts, Bess Flowers, Pat O'Malley, Mary McLaren, Johnny Arthur, Arthur Vinton, Hobart Cavanaugh, Arthur Aylesworth, Leila Bennett, Phil Regan.
Directors.....Ray Enright and Busby Berkeley
Original .....Robert Lord
Screen Play.....Delmer Daves
Music and Lyrics: Harry Warren, Al Dubin, Sammy Fain, Irving Kahal, Mort Dixon, Allie Rubel.
Photography .....George Barnes
Supervisor .....Robert Lord

"BRITISH AGENT"

Cast: Leslie Howard, Kay Francis, Phillip Reed, Tenen Holtz, J. Carrol Naish, Gregory Gaye, Halliwell Hobbes, Doris Lloyd, Alphonse Ethier, Irving Pichel, Walter Byron, William Gargan, Ivan Simpson, Paul Porcasi, George Pearce, Walter Armitage, Cesar Romero, Arthur Aylesworth, Mariana Schubert, Addison Richards.
Director .....Michael Curtiz
Novel.....H. Bruce Lockhart
Screen Play.....Laird Doyle
Dialogue.....Roland Pertwee
Photography .....Ernest Haller
Supervisor.....Henry Blanke

"THE DRAGON MURDER CASE"

Cast: Warren William, Margaret Lindsay, Lyle Talbot, Robert Barrat, Arthur Aylesworth, Robert McWade, Eugene Pallette, George Meeker, Etienne Girardot, Dorothy Tree, George E. Stone, Helen Lowell, William Davidson, Robert Warwick, Charles Wilson.
Director .....H Bruce Humberstone
Story.....S. S. Van Dine
Screen Play.....F. Hugh Herbert and Robert N. Lee
Adaptation .....Rian James
Photography .....Tony Gaudio
Supervisor.....Henry Blanke

"FLIRTATION WALK"

Cast: Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Pat O'Brien, John Eldredge, Ross Alexander, Guinn Williams, Henry O'Neill, Glenn Boles, John Arledge.
Director .....Frank Borzage
Story .....Delmar Daves and Lou Edelman
Screen Play.....Delmar Daves
Dance Director.....Bobby Connelly
Musical Numbers.....Mort Dixon and Allie Wrubel
Photography .....Sol Polito
Producer .....Robert Lord

Independent Productions

Monogram

"MOONSTONE"

Cast: David Manners, Phyllis Barry, Jameson Thomas, Evelyn Bostock, John Davidson, Claude King, Charles Irwin, Elspeth Dudgeon, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Olaf Hytten, Herbert Bunston, Fewd Walton.
Director .....Reginald Barker
Story .....Wilkie Collins
Screen Play.....Adele Buffington
Photography.....Robert Planck
Supervisor.....Paul Malvern

"TOMORROAW'S YOUTH"

Cast: Martha Sleeper, John Miljan, Dickie Moore, Gloria Shea, Barbara Bedford, Paul Hurst, Franklin Pangborn, Harry Bradley, Niles Welch, Edward LeSaint.
Director .....Charles Lamont
Original Screen Play.....Harry Sauber
Photography.....Jack McKenzie
Supervisor.....Ben Verschleiser

WHAT'S WHAT

BRULATOUR BULLETIN

WHO'S WHO

Published Every Monday — J. E. BRULATOUR, Inc., Distributors — Eastman Motion Picture Films

the REFLECTOR

An unusual and heavy June rain storm surprised us all last week . . . and Trem Carr, silver-haired producer, astounded his friends AND himself by cracking 90 on the Riviera golf course, after playing golf a litte over a year. . . . The gof bug seems to be loose again after a slight hibernation. . . . The big M. G. M. tournament with 400 entries gets away later on this month . . . with dubs, champs and beginners trying hard for those lovely prizes. . . . The betting is one, two and even that Nickolaus will take his foursome into camp. . . . The Paramount Laboratory match play tournament, which has been in progress for several weeks, has finally been concluded, being won by Bob Wood. . . . Harry Low, Archie Twitchell, Sid Fraser and Charles Freshwater were semi-finalists. . . . Hal Mohr off to Arrowhead for three or four days' location with Frank Lloyd. . . . Sol Polito postcards that West Point is a swell place —for making pictures—nice scenery —nice people. . . . Ernie Haller finishes production on "British Agent" tomorrow or the next day, and goes right on with "Lady Surrenders," starring First National's new find, Jean Muir. . . . It's great to be popular. . . Tony Gaudio finished work on "The Dragon Murder Case" and will have a few days to himself before starting work again.

•

George Barnes, who has been photographing Joan Blondell in "Kansas City Princess," finishes this up and takes over the final number with Bus Berkeley for "Dames." . . . Most of the Warner cameramen have tentative or actual assignments during the next two weeks. . . . Looks like the rumored shut-down is all a mistake. . . . Friend Baker, years and years and years ago top-notch boy at Fox, and who deserted us for several years for ranch life, is back on the camera staff at Columbia Studios, and a very nice addition, too, we think. . . . Guy Newhard, operative cameraman, RKO, prevailed upon a charming young lady to say "I do" at Yuma, and he's now a Benedict. . . . Ray Binger spent several days at Catalina making backgrounds for Eddie Small's "The Count of Monte Cristo."

Lucien Andriot at RKO turning out laff jerkers for Sam White. . . . Dave Abel fishing, and postcards "They Bite"—but not how many. . . . Fox Studios looking up again. . . . George Schneiderman went back to work with John Ford on a new production. . . . Milt Krasner in his second week at M. G. M. with Eddie Marin and doing very well. . . . Irving Glassberg moved up from assistant to operative cameraman for Milt. Maybe you don't think he's happy about it. . . . Jim Brown turned the last scenes on Larry Darmour's feature, "The Scarlet Letter," and immediately starts testing for a new one titled, "Gaily I Sin.' . . . Benny Kline back from that three weeks' vacation that he dreamed of for years, and was pushed right into production by Sam Briskin with Ross Lederman on "By Persons Unknown." . . . Harold Wenstrom in active training and punching the bag every day. He's in great shape.

De Vinna Complains

"Editor, Brulatour Bulletin.

"Sir: I managed to pause long enough between leaps for the train to procure a copy of 'The Bulletin'.

"I've just finished reading your statement that Len Smith is challenging my mileage record, and wish to remark that I have wrung more salt water out of my socks than that Big Moose Smith ever sailed over, and just to make it tougher for him to catch up to me, I'm on a jaunt now to Indo-China that will make that Alaskan trip of his look like a yacht trip to Catalina.

"I wonder if it would be too much trouble to mail a copy of the Bulletin each week to me. I certainly will appreciate it, as that will be about the only means of knowing what is going on.

"Best wishes to you and your leg men. Sincerely,

"CLYDE DE VINNA.

c/o American Consul, Saigon, French Indo-China."

Arnold Host

John Arnold, president of the A. S. C., was host at dinner to the heads of camera departments of all studios and the superintendents of the major studio laboratories.

The purpose of the gathering was to discuss methods of cooperation between cameramen, department heads and laboratory supervisors.

Dinner was held in the private dining room at Levy's Tavern, and an enjoyable and profitable evening was had by those attending. Unofficial meetings such as this add much to the friendliness and cooperative spirit so necessary to every industry.

Lang With Taurog

Charlie Lang is teamed up with Norman Taurog again and they are into production with that famous old story, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." W. C. Fields and Zasu Pitts will carry the acting honors. Associated with Lang, as usual, are Bob Pittack and Cliff Sharpser as operative and assistant cameramen.

Walker to Tanforan

Joe Walker returns to Tanforan race track to shoot actual production scenes with Frank Capra for their next picture, "Broadway Bill.' ' Operative Cameraman Vic Scheurich accompanies Walker as the Number One boy, and George Kelly moves up from assistant to operative cameraman No. 2 on the unit.

Miller Recovered

Much to the delight of his many friends and co-workers, Artie Miller is fully recovered from the effects of his operation, and is back at the studio preparing to start work on Lilian Harvey's newest picture, "Serenade." The picture will feature some of Schubert's finest music, and will be directed by Paul Martin.

Monogram Busy

Trem Carr's Monogram Productions went into the production column this week with two feature stories. Jack Mackenzie is photographing "Tomorrow's Youth," directed by Charles Lamont, who for the past few years has directed the majority of the Educational Pictures productions. The cast includes Dickie Moore, John Miljan, Irene Ware, Franklin Pangborn.

Bob Planck is photographing "Moonstone," which is being directed by Reginald Barker, who for many years was one of our finest directors. Planck's operative cameraman is Reggie Lanning.

Tetzlaff Joins Reliance

Teddy Tetzlaff receives the assignment for Eddie Small's Reliance production, "Transatlantic Showboat," which will be produced at the Pathe Studios. Ben Stoloff will direct. Nancy Carroll and Gene Raymond are the featured players.

Gerrard With Harding

Henry Gerrard, who has so successfully photographed many of our big stars in past years, is assigned to photograph Miss Harding in her new picture, "The Fountain." This will be Gerrard's first opportunity with this charming lady, and he is busy reading the script and visualizing unusual and artistic effects.

What! No Trapeze?

Perched on top of the camera car shooting the final chase scenes for his recent picture at Columbia, Johnny Stumar became so interested in the shot that he overlooked his personal safety, and found himself flying through the air—(but not with the greatest of ease)—and landing among the rocks of Mr. Mulholland's Drive. No bones broken, fortunately, and he's hobbling 'round now, laughing it off.

Background Shots

CHARLIE STUMAR—Cinematographer

Born in Budapesth, Hungary; entered the picture industry there in 1909. With his brother John, started out as independent news men. Charles' first trip to America was in 1911—made a few travelogues—returned to Berlin and joined one of the then important producing companies. 1914—returned to America, and joined the Eastern Film Corp., Providence ,Rhode Island. 1916—to California with Thomas H. Ince. 1921—joined the Universal camera ranks and since that time has been consistently employed by the Universal studios. His latest pictures familiar to the theatre-going public are "Bombay Mail,' "Countess of Monte Cristo," "Uncertain Lady," "Embarrassing Moments."

1909 to 1934 and still on top of the heap—not a bad record.

the BUZZER

(NOTE: In this department this week, representatives of J. E. Brulatour Inc. put a question to directors instead. The question involves cameramen and the answers are of great interest to them.)

QUESTION: WHAT CAN THE CAMERAMAN CONTRIBUTE TO YOUR PICTURE BEYOND HIS PHOTOGRAPHY?

FRANK CAPRA (Columbia): Enthusiasm—and photography that will fit the mood of the scene, which is different from just photography.

MERVYN LE ROY (Warner Bros.): Speed, without sacrifice of quality, is an important contribution. I want my cameramen to carefully read the script before the picture starts, and thoroughly familiarize themselves with the story. I willingly accept suggestions from the cameramen because they are usually good. I believe that a good cameraman can relieve the director of at least twenty-five percent of the burden when picking set-ups, arranging stage composition and grouping people.

HENRY KING (Fox): The most important contribution of an experienced cameraman to a picture is the portrayal of the director's conception of the scene or sequence. He must be thoroughly familiar with the script, not only as written, but must also understand the director's interpretation of it. The extent of the cameraman's contributions is limited only by his intelligence and experience.

AL GREEN (Warner Bros.): A good cameraman should have a sense of story value and with his initiative and by using his camera properly, can assist greatly in properly portraying a scene or sequence. I believe I allow my cameramen as much freedom as any other director. In fact, I generally permit them to select their own set-ups, after explaining the action and dialogue thoroughly. An experienced cameraman can many times point up important action by clever use of his camera and lights.

FRANK LLOYD (Fox): The cameramen's primary contribution to a picture should be the ability to present a scene so that the audience is immediately visually and sympathetically prepared for the action which follows. Of course the suggestions that can be made concerning the mechanical and optical problems are unlimited and generally most welcome.

Perry Skyrides

Harry Perry, a fine cameraman and one of our leading aerialists, has been photographing parachute jumps and rolling airplanes for First National's picture, "Hey, Sailor" during the past week.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 29. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Tuesday, June 12, 1934

'STAMP' TO KILL DUALS

Majors Will Force Exhibs To Single-Feature Policy By The Scheme Employed In Chicago

New York.—Regardless of charges of restraint of trade or any other possible legal obstacles, the major distributing companies are going to put a stop to the double-bill practice.

Those independents who don't like it are simply going to have single bills shoved down their throats. If they won't go to single features, they won't get any pictures. And once they sign for pictures, they will be compelled to stick to the single bills.

The change will be brought about by the "rubber stamp" clause that has been in effect in the Chicago area. It has worked to what the picture companies call near perfection there, so they have decided that they will make it work throughout the country. In every sales contract there will be a place for the stamping of a clause

(Continued on Page 7)

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•HAVE you been watching the steady progress of Monogram Pictures? If you have, you are acquainted with just what has been done with that organization by Ray Johnston and Trem Carr since the company was organized in 1931. If you have missed that accomplishment of making pictures and distributing them at a profit, you may be interested in knowing that:

Monogram was formed by Ray Johnston in February, 1931, through the merging of a series of independently owned exchanges throughout the country into a national organization, with Johnston at the head. At the start it bought its pictures. In June of that year Johnston arranged with Trem Carr to start the production of a program for his organization. During the first twelve months Carr turned out twenty-eight features, sixteen of them Westerns, at a cost of around $1,000,000. The second year found him sending Johnston thirty features, half of which were Westerns, and the production cost was boosted by a few odd thousand.

•

Last year Monogram reached out in its production with a budget that exceeded $1,500,000 for the production of twenty-eight pictures, only eight of which were Westerns. And with the other twenty, this independent crowd broke into houses that they had never been in before, with the result that their gross take ran to $3,470,000, almost $1,500,000 more than they had collected during either of the two preceding years, putting them in the big money class.

•

The rise of Monogram has been on a platform of family pictures for the family trade. Carr and his associates, under the guidance of Johnston, held no illusions regarding the business they were in nor the audience for which they were making pictures. They knew they could not go into competition with the majors and they saw little use of doing it, knowing that their brand of attractions was unique and would find a big market of appreciation. The results have been astounding, so much so, in fact, that the production budget for '33-'34 has been almost doubled. But in doubling the production costs, they will not change their platform. They will

Continued on Page 2)

'Fathers of Families' Object to Our Films

Cairo.—Alleged immorality of American films is bringing down the wrath of the Arabic press and other Egyptian groups. The Society of Fathers of Families filed a protest against both American and European films, saying the films are shocking to strict Moslems.

Chinese Will Open Only on Week-ends

Sid Grauman is going to give Hollywood something new in the line of an entertainment policy by opening the Chinese Theatre for three days a week, over the week-end, giving matinees and evening performances on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

The attraction for the Summer—if the experiment is successful—will be "The House of Rothschild," which has just closed its run at the Chinese.

MGM Sets Griffith For Another Picture

Irving Thalberg yesterday extended Edward H. Griffith's contract to include another picture for MGM, the Hawks-Volck office negotiating the deal.

While awaiting Ann Harding for "Biography," the director will prepare with Horace Jackson the screen play for "No More Ladies."

Gable-MacDonald Team

MGM is planning to team Clark Gable and Jeanette MacDonald in "A Lady Comes To Town," the Cosmopolitan Magazine story which the company snaked away from the other majors.

Florence Ryerson on Mady Christians' First

Florence Ryerson yesterday was given the Ann Austin story, "A Wicked Woman," to script. Lynn Riggs previously worked on the adaptation.

The story will be Mady Christians' first screen work in this country, with Charles Brabin directing.

Hal Roach Flying East

Hal Roach takes the night plane for New York Thursday to confer with MGM officials prior to the convention. Roach returns to Chicago for the June 21 meeting, at which he will announce his plans for 1934-35.

Beahan Quits Col. To Produce for Stage

Charles Beahan has resigned his executive position with Columbia Pictures in order to carry out some extensive plans for play production in New York this Fall.

He will complete his current assignment at Columbia on June 16, and will leave for the East in about four weeks, meantime devoting his time to obtaining several picture personalities for his plays.

Among the plays Beahan has already scheduled for early Broadway showing are "Spring of 1600," Emlyn

(Continued on Page 5)

Esther Ralston Set in Place of June Knight

Universal yesterday signed Esther Ralston for the June Knight role in "Romance in the Rain," which Stuart Walker put into work yesterday from the Barry Trivers script. Roger Pryor, Heather Angel and Victor Moore have the other top spots in the cast. Stanley Bergerman produces.

Lederer As Lafitte

Radio yesterday placed on its production slate a pirate story, which will star Francis Lederer. Sidney Sutherland was signed through M. C. Levee to write the screen play under the title, "Lafitte, the Pirate."

Hurley on Westerns

Harold Hurley, who supervised Paramount's westerns last year, takes this production job again for the three new outdoor pictures with Randolph Scott in the lead. "Wagon Wheels," the starter, goes in early in July.

One MGM Convention

New York.—MGM has finally decided to hold only one sales convention, which will be at the Drake Hotel in Chicago, June 22.

PROJECTIONISTS MAY BE USED AS CLUB BY IATSE

The motion picture industry is in danger of a labor walkout in August that will make last year's strike of studio technical workers look like nothing at all, according to those who are close to the new IATSE administration.

If the walkout comes it will be by the IATSE motion picture projectionists, who are in the majority of motion picture theatres of any size in the country, and it will be a protest against the dropping of the organiza-

(Continued on Page 3)

Helen Mencken To Make 'Good Earth' Test Here

New York.—Helen Mencken will go to the coast after the closing of "Mary of Scotland" June 30 for her tests for "Good Earth." When the run of the play was extended MGM offered to make the tests here, but Miss Mencken decided yesterday she wanted to talk to Irving Thalberg and George Hill about the part first.

Fay Bainter's test for "Good Earth" will be made in the East.

EDWARD E. PARAMORE, Jr. Wrote the Script for (in collaboration) "BABY TAKE A BOW" Starring SHIRLEY TEMPLE

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Laura La Plante and Irving Asher have cabled their folks that they'll be married in Paris, June 19—but we have good reason to think they were wed in London more than a month ago! . . Clark Gable is all bruised from becoming a thirty-second degree Mason Saturday night. . . . Wynne Gibson and Randy Scott are going places. . . . Ray Hallor, who has taken over a local speak, promises something new in decorations when it opens right soon. . . . Karen Morley will commute between Carmel and Hollywood over the Summer. . . . Mercedes d'Acosta has rented a shack next to the Garbo menage.

•

Harry Ruby and Bert Kalmar have been looking at each other for twenty years now! And loving it! . . . Barbara Pepper is a sanzation in the new King Vidor picture, we hear tell—but Sam Goldwyn has her under contract. . . . The Bill Goetzes' trip to Honolulu is off at the moment. . . . Gottfried Reinhardt (son of Max) is recouping from a serious illness, at the Berthold Viertels. . . . Mae Murray is stepping into the lead of "The Milky Way" in N. Y. tonight. . . . Gladys George, who formerly had the part, wanted to come here to be with her current heartthrob—the gal, we hear, has been wed four times already and still planning! . . . . The Bill Gargans are going to Europe with the Leslie Howards when they shove off. . . . It's amazing—the rapidity with which a certain young writer is wise-cracking himself right out of pictures!

•

When Tallulah Bankhead arrived in London, the newspaper headlines said merely, "She's Back!" . . . This IS news! Jimmy Shields TAKING seven people to lunch at the Vendome! . . . Jean Harlow, Mickey Neilan, Sandra Shaw Cooper, Dolores Del Rio, Watty Rothacker, Lee Tracy with Isabel Jewell, the Louis Calherns, Irene Barrymore, Mrs. Freddy Astaire, Virginia Pine, Walter Winchell, Lupe Velez (who has insomnia and thereby just discovered that Johnny Weissmuller snores!), Max Marcin, Marion Thompson, Arthur Landau, Frances Goldwyn, also there. . . . Kitty Kelly, with an elderly escort, the Archie Mayos, Carole Lombard with Russ Columbo, among the Kings Clubbers over the week-end. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Al Green, Ann Darcy, Lee Bailey, Arthur Appel, Gretchen Hartman and Alan Hale enjoying Jimmie Grier's music at the Biltmore Bowl. . . . Mrs. Allen Rivkin and Beulah Spigelgass due tomorrow from a vacation in New York.

New York REVIEWS

"MEN IN WHITE"

MGM prod.; director, Richard Boleslavsky; writers, Sidney Kingsley, Waldemar Young.

Capitol Theatre

Herald-Tribune: As a motion picture, the Sidney Kingsley drama emerges with whatever stature the original may boast. While the screen drama has the same lack of dramatic unity and conviction that mar the play for some of us, it has made a far more arresting and exciting composition of its hospital backgrounds. And by virtue of several splendidly modulated performances it has captured a more compelling and authentic emotional intensity. Under the expert and knowing direction of Richard Boleslavsky the players succeed in distilling the full essence of dramatic quality that inheres in the material.

Mirror: This year's Pulitzer Prize play, under the able direction of Richard Boleslavsky, has reached the screen as an exceptionally powerful and absorbing picture. This dramatic description of a young man gives the popular Gable the acting chance of his career, and he makes the most of it.

American: When the time arrives for the 1934 trophy of the Academy of Arts and Sciences, "Men in White" should be among the leading contenders. For this picture, wrought with intense realism from Sidney Kingley's Pulitzer Prize winner, is a compassionate and trenchant study of the Hippocratic heroes.

Journal: MGM has made a tremendously effective picture of "Men in White." So brilliant and genuinely moving is the production that the Pulitzer Prize play of the year takes its place as one of Hollywood's outstanding dramatic achievements. Superbly directed by Richard Boleslavsky, the film holds one absorbed from the moment it opens until its impressive conclusion. It is vitally human, sympathetic and stirringly real.

World-Telegram: Although it has been staged earnestly and picturesquely and contains some uncommonly good acting, the appeal of "Men in White" is to the eye rather than the heart or brain. However, a film which is so expertly managed and so capitally acted cannot be entirely without merit.

Times: The film, which was directed by Richard Boleslavsky, may abide by the parent work in certain essentials, but as a whole it pales by comparison with the original. It lacks both the realism and the dramatic vigor of the stage production, and the subject-matter is frequently subordinated to the players, particularly to Mr. Gable.

Sun: "Men in White," which might in cinema form have proved even more striking than its Pulitzer prize-winning original, emerged as simply a well-made, adequately acted, fairly typical talkie. It's still a good picture, but far less incisive than the play.

News: Boleslavsky's production achieves something very near perfection in the acting of its splendid cast and in the precision with which everyone and everything moves from beginning to end. The backgrounds and the photography help to make "Men in White" an exceptionally fine film production.

Post: "Men in White" is an interesting and technically competent study in iodoform. Realism is what the current picture strives for—realism and Clark Gable—and these it attains in no small measure. The picture also achieves a splendid directorial pace and flawless performances from Myrna Loy and Jean Hersholt.

Johnston Due Tomorrow

John LeRoy Johnston, Universal's publicity chief, returns tomorrow night from his 10-days vacation, most of which was spent working. He conferred with fan magazine editors and home office officials, and gave a talk at the Universal sales convention in New York.

Fox Juniors Assigned

Sol Wurtzel has assigned his junior writing staff to do a treatment of "The Giant Swing," a novel by W. R. Burnett which has been on the shelf at Fox for about two years. Jesse L. Lasky was slated to do it at that time.

Bank of America's New Branch Nearly Ready

Construction on Bank of America's modern bank building on the southeast corner of Melrose and Bronson avenues is nearing completion and the new banking quarters will be ready for occupancy on July 1, according to Dr. A. H. Giannini, chairman of the bank's general executive committee.

This new branch is located adjacent to the Radio and the Paramount studios.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

continue the same type productions, but with better casts and greater production values.

Johnston, Carr and all the "Monogramers" are to be congratulated. They have succeeded in an end of the business that has hardly ever spelled success before and, even with their continued progress, you will never see them diverging from their original ideas of making family pictures for the family trade.

Shrine Notables Guests of Wampas

Everett W. Mattoon, Potentate of Al Malaikah Temple, and many other high ranking officials of the local Shrine organization, met with the Wampas last night at the Writers Club to tell them about their plans for the Wampas Baby Stars, who will be publicly introduced at the big Shrine convention at Minneapolis, June 19, 20 and 21.

Among the notables present were Harold Lloyd, Eddie Cantor, Sid Grauman, Rev. Neil Dodd and Rev. Francis F. Lynch, of Corning, N. Y. In addition to the speakers, there was a brilliant program of entertainment.

Sten Picture Starts

Rouben Mamoulian today puts "We Live Again" before the cameras at United Artists, cutting short the rehearsing schedule. Anna Sten and Fredric March have the top spots, and Gregg Toland, who photographed Miss Sten's first American picture, "Nana," is again handling the cameras.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

St. James's
SCOTCH WHISKY
A CONNOISSEUR'S WHISKY
Very old and Mellow
A Product of
BERRY BROS & CO.
LONDON
Established in the XVII Century
Distributors for the Pacafic Coast
Geo. Herrmann Company
816 W. 5th St. Los Angeles Tel. MUtual 8053
300 Front St. San Francisco Tel. GArfield 1980

RADIO'S 'WE'RE RICH AGAIN' LIVELY AND AMUSING COMEDY

Credit Earned By Cast and Writers

"WE'RE RICH AGAIN"
(RKO-Radio)

Direction .....William Seiter
Original Story.....Alden Nash
Screen Play.....Ray Harris
Photography .....Nick Musuraca
Cast: Marian Nixon, Edna May Oliver, Billie Burke, Reginald Denny, Buster Crabbe, Gloria Shea, Grant Mitchell, Edgar Kennedy, Lenita Lane, Otto Yamoaka, Dick Elliott, Andreas DeSegurola, Joan Marsh.

A cockeyed little opus, fairly alive with amusing ideas, most of which come off to make a comedy that any exhibitor can be grateful for in these dull days.

What could have been done with the crazy notions incorporated in this picture (which was evidently dashed off before you could say Gustav von Seyffertitz) if a little more time and thought had been given to them, might have resulted in something that would have put "Three-Cornered Moon" to shame. As it is, played in three sets and two backdrops, you can thank the perfect casting and whoever thought up the gags for providing a picture that is mostly amusing and positively hilarious in spots.

Marian Nixon, as the determinedly annoying Arabella, has never been more natural in her life. It is her part to walk in unexpectedly on the Page family which is in the throes of bankruptcy and an impending marriage. Arabella, in her "Be Good, Sweet Girl, and Let Who Will Be Clever" way, manages to fix everything up so's she wears all the trousseaux clothes, marries off the unengaged daughter to a champion swimmer, who turns out to be vulgarly rich, gets Papa Page to invest his insurance money in stock that goes down instead of up. Then Arabella gets the stock to go up instead of down and eventually marries the bridegroom herself, instead of the gal originally supposed to.

Billie Burke is simply marvelous as Mrs. Rimplegar, pardon us, Mrs. Page. She looks so beautiful and acts dumb comedy so beautifully that she can make any picture beautiful. Edna May Oliver, as the polo-playing grandmother, hasn't much to do except wow the customers in a polo outfit, the writers having thought that was sufficient and nobody else having cared. Grant Mitchell is appropriately woeful in an amusing way, Edgar Kennedy as the frustrated process server is dependably funny, as usual. Buster Crabbe, as the swimmer who doesn't open his mouth until the last reel, is a positive inspiration, and Gloria Shea, as his trainer and eventual wife, is plenty attractive and good.

But the honey of them all is Otto Yamoaka as the Japanese butler, cook, etc., whose lines couldn't have been as funny as he managed to make them. He's swell. Lenita Lane appears briefly in the role of an ex-wife, but is effective and good to look at. Joan Marsh and Reginald Denny were not as happily cast as the rest, but the irritation is slight, but then so is Seiter's direction, which is made up for by the really high class photography of Nick Musuraca.

Selznicks and Cukor Arrive in N.Y. Today

New York.—The Ile de France, which arrives today, is bringing a lot of film notables. Among the passengers are David and Myron Selznick, Hugh Walpole, George Cukor, Fritz Lang, J. C. Bernard, a French producer, Karl David, of Pathe Natan, Michel and Vera Fokine, and George White.

New Move Towards Reorganizing Roxy

New York.—Another step towards the reorganization of the Roxy Theatre Corporation was taken yesterday when the Board of Directors decided to file an answer to the petition of the bondholders, which asked that the work of reorganizing be speeded.

The answer will admit the jurisdiction of the court and also the truth of the material allegations in the petition.

17 New Members For Screen Writers Guild

Seventeen new members were added to the Screen Writers' Guild at the meeting last night of the Executive Board.

Those who joined were: Liam O'Flaherty, H. O. Yardley, John Hobble, Basil Woon, John Farrow, Edwin Knopf, L. V. Jefferson, George Seaton, Arthur Bloch, Richard Price, Robert Walker, Robert Pirosh, Helen Doherty, John Lovell Loughborough, Sarah A. Nassour, Gilbert Severn and Jed Kiley.

Agents Opposed To Registration Plan

Many of the players' agents met at the Beverly Wilshire last night to discuss what they want and do not want in the new code which the film code agency committee is drawing.

The concensus of opinion was that the registration, or licensing plan, is decidedly not wanted, and that they will insist, so far as possible, on complete representation for their clients.

Farrow to Honolulu

John Farrow leaves Thursday for Honolulu, with Benny Lewis as assistant director and cutter ,and a technical and camera staff to make a four-reel native romance for Harry Rapf.

Edna May Oliver Set

Edna May Oliver gets the top assignment in "Let's Get Married" and William Seiter is slated to direct.

Eddie Melcher Due

Eddie Melcher, dramatic critic of the Washington Star, arrives in Hollywood today to learn the inside.

MGM Has 4 Ready To Start Next Week

MGM has four productions nearing the shooting line, all of them possible starters next week.

They are "Have a Heart," the John Considine musical production starring Jean Parker; "Death on the Diamond," Lucien Hubbard's entry, with Franchot Tone as a baseball pitcher; "Painted Veil," Greta Garbo starring and Hunt Stromberg overseeing; "Forsaking All Others,' Loretta Young's first star part for MGM, Bernard Hyman producing.

James Flood to Direct 'Outrage' at Paramount

James Flood's next directorial efforts are aimed at "Outrage," preparing at Paramount in Benjamin Glazer's production.

Flood had also been mentioned as possible on "Shoe the Wild Mare," with both penciled in the schedule for the first week of August, but "Outrage" gets him.

'U' and Frenke Deal

Universal has purchased the foreign rights to Dr. Eugene Frenke's independent production, "The Girl in the Case," which featured Jimmy Savo. Frenke is now at the studio, preparing an original picture based on a Russian background.

Sherman May Double

Lowell Sherman will probably play the leading role as well as direct Thorne Smith's 'Night Life of the Gods," which has been scripted by Barry Trivers.

Projectionists As Club

(Continued from Page 1)

tion from the Basic Agreement with the producers.

For months there has been talk among the IATSE membership regarding such a move. In fact, it was first suggested last year during the studio strike, but was frowned down then because some of the leaders figured that, with the film code in process of formulation, it was only fair to give the NRA a chance to straighten things out.

"But it hasn't straightened anything out," said one IATSE man yesterday. "Instead, it has bungled things until now we are out in the cold and apparently nothing much can be done about it under the set-up that exists today.

"However, if the studios won't listen, and if the American Federation of Labor refuses to settle the jurisdictional battle between us and the IBEW at its coming convention, then look out. George Browne, our new president, doesn't know what it means to be licked, and the information I get from Chicago indicates that his final move will be to have the operators refuse to run pictures photographed by cameramen other than IATSE men until the IATSE is recognized again and is given its old standing in the studios."

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

RKO-Radio has stepped right up to the new season demand and seems to have the situation pretty well in hand. The biggest picture they plan to have burst upon an unsuspecting public during the latter part of the Fall or early Winter will be "The Last Days of Pompeii." They will also present a brand new child actor, Master Frankie Thomas, in a picturization of the play that made him famous, "Wednesday's Child." On the musical list will be Fred Astaire in "The Gay Divorce," and the Lou Brock production of "Down to Their Last Yacht," which promises an African version of the Bolero. The last-named should reach the screens of the country late in August or early September.

•

For the early Fall release though, they will give out with a picture that should, from all plans and to all purposes, give the exhibitor something really meaty with which to begin his new season. That picture will be the filming of that famous novel, "The Fountain." Ever since "Holiday" there hasn't been a producer in Hollywood who hasn't been keeping a weather eye out for another story like it that would combine the same elements of human interest. And there hasn't been one producer that didn't want to present Ann Harding in it. Radio believes that in "The Fountain" they have found that vehicle for Ann Harding and, with that in mind, they are giving it the best they've got in the way of production.

•

John Cromwell, who was responsible for Ann Harding's best box-office picture outside of "Holiday" (at the present rate of exchange), will direct. Paul Lukas, Jean Hersholt, Brian Aherne and Violet Kemble Cooper will be in the supporting cast, and our favorite name, to say nothing of being one of our favorite art directors, Van Nest Polglase, is having himself a time with the sets which give plenty of opportunity for the spectacular and include a castle in Holland that is being patterned after the one in which the ex-Kaiser is now enjoying his exile at Doorn.

•

The "different" angles on the story are, one: That, through it all, Harding is 150 percent a Lady. And for the first time in many pictures, she doesn't have a baby, legitimate or otherwise.

Two: The picture will offer a brand new conception of the war. It will enter the story and play an important part in it through the eyes and feelings of neutral people in a neutral land, and a company of soldiers from various nations who have been interned on neutral soil.

Three: Holland offers a brand new idea in picture locales and, for the benefit of the Hays office, though the entire action takes place in Holland, there won't be a dam(n) in it.

"SHE LEARNED ABOUT SAILORS"

GEORGE MARSHALL

DIRECTOR

A comedy wow—the direction of George Marshall is expert in creating a laugh and satisfying it completely. He smacks a situation or a gag and knows when to let it go.
—Variety, 6-11-34.

Here is a very funny rowdy comedy, proving again that off-color stuff doesn't have to be dragged in to get laughs. . . Gentlemen, take a bow . . George Marshall for direction that makes every situation a belly laugh. Marshall's training makes him an ideal director for this kind of rowdy farce.
—Hollywood Reporter, 6-11-34.

FOX FILM CORPORATION

"SHE LEARNED ABOUT SAILORS"

'CAVIAR,' NEW MUSICAL, OFF TO GOOD START, BUT SLUMPS

Nothing For Screen ExceptGeo.Houston

"CAVIAR"

Presented by Patrick A. Leonard at the Forrest Theatre; score by Harden Church; book by Leo Randole; lyrics by Edward Heyman; staged by Clifford Brooke; dances arranged by John E. Lonergan. With Nanette Guilford, George Houston, Violet Carlson, George Gordon, Mitzi Garner, Amalie Ideal, Gene Ashley, Tully Millet, Kai Handsen, Nonie Dale, Mary Mascher, George Hunter, Hugh Cameron, Jack Cole, Alice Dudley.

New York. — Starting off with rhymed cadences, this musical "romance" lapsed almost immediately into nondescript musical comedy plot of the mythical kingdom type and, instead of a "Blossom Time" or "Maytime," we got a pot-pourri of hokum, vaudeville, dancing, ultra-modern and less modern, and operatic arias. None of it too sprightly or engaging.

Whatever chance "Caviar" might have had to linger on as the foremost musical Summer long-run was lost when the prima donna role was given to a vocalist of technical excellence, but hardly anything else—least of all, romance. While Miss Guilford undoubtedly has her place at the Met, we venture to say that the first night audience would have been far more intrigued by a pretty face and figure and a fair voice.

Were it not for George Houston's pleasing appearance and singing (his song hit, "Silver Sails," bringing many encores), the cute mimicry and pantomime of Violet Carlson, the muscle-quivering dance of Alice Dudley, and Jack Cole and a nice line of dancing girls and boys, people would have left earlier than they did.

Harden Church's score was adequate for the proceedings and likewise Heyman's lyrics, but Randole's book might have been more deeply developed. Settings were O.K., but the costuming lacked class.

What story there is concerns itself with an operatic prima donna, risen from Russian peasantry and dissatisfied with her lot. Nothing will make her happy unless she marries a title—just for the sake of her future drawing power. A penniless Russian prince, stranded in Venice, answers her song with one of his own outside her balcony and the romance is on. Prince Dimitri is propositioned and agrees to marry the lady for monetary consideration and to go through the ceremony blindfold. Afterwards, there is to be an immediate divorce.

To complicate the plot, Madame Elena falls in love with her handsome prince and he with her, and when the ceremony is over and he discovers it is his love he has married and must now give up, Dimitri suffers a broken heart and goes away. The lovers are later reunited at a Cafe in Constantinople, and there you are.

Picture scouts might take a look at this Houston person. It might be worth while.

29 of 44 Paris Houses Showing U.S. Films

Paris.—American films continue to lead the parade in this city. Out of 44 leading theatres, 29 of them are showing American pictures. Of the others, 11 are French, one each of English, Austrian, German and French-German.

Wood Finishes At MGM; Starts East

Winding up his MGM contract with "Stamboul Quest" yesterday, Sam Wood immediately left by train for Kansas City, where he will board a plane for New York to witness the Baer-Carnera fight, June 14.

He leaves for a four months vacation in Europe, June 16 on the Ile de France. Jack Conway, who followed him as director on "Born To Be Kissed," will handle the pick-up shots on "Stamboul Quest."

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Wallis Clark, by Al Kingston, to Edward Small's "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round."

Barbara Barondess, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, and Betty Alden, by Hoffman-Schlager, for "The Fountain," Radio.

Edward Earl to "She Was a Lady," Fox, by Hallam Cooley.

Lois Wilson and Charles Ray to M. H. Hoffman for "School for Girls," by James Stanley, of the Hallam Cooley office.

Craufurd Kent, by Hallam Cooley, to Sam Goldwyn's "We Live Again."

Walter Brennan to "There's Always Tomorrow," Universal, by MacQuarrie.

Jessie Arnold, by Hallam Cooley, to Universal's "Romance in the Rain."

Forrester Harvey, by MacQuarrie, for "Broadway Bill," Columbia.

Dorothy Christy, by Hallam Cooley, to "Servants' Entrance," Fox.

Frank McGlynn Jr. to "Hell's Bells," a Warner short, by Hallam Cooley.

Beahan Quits Col.

(Continued from Page 1)

Williams' romantic English comedy which has just completed a successful run at the Shaftsbury Theatre, London; "It Happens Every Day," a play of his own authorship, with his wife, Sidney Fox, featured; "Just One More," a Viennese comedy which requires the services of a glamorous Continental actress.

"SHE LEARNED ABOUT SAILORS"

WILLIAM CONSELMAN and HENRY JOHNSON

SCREEN PLAY

Don't overlook the lack of obscenity in "She Learned About Sailors," in planning your campaign. It is probably the first time a sailor picture has ever received such treatment. Sell it as a comedy wow—it won't disappoint.
Gentlemen take a bow—William Conselman and Henry Johnson for a corking screen farce that couldn't have cost a lot of money, but can't help but turn in a neat profit.
—Hollywood Reporter, June 11, 1934.

P. S.: Sidney Kent says:
" 'Handy Andy,' Will Rogers' next, is the funniest picture ever made." WE WROTE IT.

"SHE LEARNED ABOUT SAILORS"

EASTERN SUMMER THEATRES ATTRACT PICTURE SCOUTS

Many Possibilities For Screen Listed

New York.—The Summer theatrical season is starting and the little theatres scattered up and down the Atlantic seaboard are making plans for their productions of hitherto untried material. These out-of-town playhouses are a fine source of material, not only for the Broadway stage, but for motion pictures. Every big picture company has its scouts who visit these playhouses through the Summer, in search of potential screen plays. The list this year is promising. It includes:

Westchester Theatre, New Rochelle:—"The Good Girl," by Carlo Goldoni, with Queenie Smith starred, June 25; "The Right Hat," by Constance Bridges, July 2; "Pig Iron," by Leslie Eichel and Alexander Herman, July 9; "Comedienne," by Adelaide Herman, July 16; "The Women Who Understood Gregory," by David Lovett, July 30; "Divine Emilie," by Constance Bridges, August 13; "This Woman's Story," by Sara Owen, August 20; "Black Sabbath," by S. Ansky, August 27.

Westchester Playhouse, Mount Kisco:—"Coquette," with Margaret Sullavan starred, for one week, starting July 2.

Elverhoj Players, Milton-on-Hudson:—"Genius in Love," by G. A. Gerber, with Betty Bronson in cast, June 18; "Gram," by Adelyn Bushnell, with Herbert Rawlinson, June 25; "Happily Ever After," by Alvin Kerr and Emmerich Halasz, July 2; "Somebody," by Ferenc Molnar, July 9; "The Infernal Triangle," by Sil Vara, July 16; "We Dress for Dinner," by Aben Kandel, July 23; "Something Gay," by John Etenza, August 6; "Shoestring," by Kubec Glasmon and Sidney Salkow, August 13.

Summer Civic Playhouse, Clayton:—"Temple Virginis," by W. McQuinley, July 11.

Napanoch Playhouse, Napanoch:—"There's No More Love," by Maxwell Nurenberg and Howard Clark, July 5; "There Comes a Time," by Gustav Davidson; "For Love of Geraldine," by Arthur M. Brilant; "Women Land on Their Feet," by Francis King; "Spotlight," by Jerome Ross; "You Promised Me," by E. W. Smith; "Lovers Don't Cry Forever," by John F. Larkin; "Solo for Drum," by Joseph Sharnk. No dates have been set for these.

Reginald Goode Players, Clinton Hollow:—"Kalula," by Reginald Goode; two plays by Clarence and Elfrieda Derwent.

The County Theatre, Suffern:—"Gangway," author not given.

Schroon Manor Players, Schroon Lake:—"Two Lines from the Rubaiyat," by Eugene Szepesi.

Memorial Hall, Woodmere:—"Wild Plumes," by Tom Prideaux, July 16; "Getty," by Isadore Witmark and Thomas Grand Springer, July 23; "Whom the Gods Destroy," by E. Serber Fried, August 6; "The Gold Watch," by Ernest Szep, adapted by R. C. Sherriff, August 13; "Julie," by Frederick Arnold Kummer, with Tullio Carminati, August 20; "Mother Lode," by Dan Totheroh, with Helen Gahagan, Bert Lytell and Melvyn Douglas, August 27.

Cliff Theatre, Seacliff, L. I.:—"Brownstone," by Benson Inge and Barnett Warren; "Glass Houses," by Rosemary Casey; "Mister Mary," by William P. Tell; "Bacon for Breakfast," by Claiborne Foster and Nellie Foster Young.

Red Barn Theatre, Locust Valley:—"True to the Marines," by Benjamin Graham, June 25; "We Die Exquisitely," by John Stuart Twist and Catherine Emery, July 2; "Julie," by Arthur Richman, July 9; "Musical Chairs," by Roland Mackenzie; "The Stitch Is Late," by Noel Taylor; "All Our Yesterdays," by Bernard Schoenfeld; "The Shining Armor," by B. Iden Payne.

Bandbox Theatre, Hempstead:—"Mating Season," by Halsey Raines, June 15; "Ninety-six Point," by Joe Eisinger and Stephen Van Gluck, June 22; "The Eye," by Halsey Raines and Rayness Copeland; "The Infernal Feminine," by Charles J. Leahy.

South Shore Players, East Hampton:—"Sparrow," by Melchoir Langyel, July 11.

Morningside Theatre, Hurleyville, N. Y.:—A play by Herbert Ashton.

Flagler Players, Fallsburgh:—"New York, New Haven and Hartford," a musical comedy, by E. D. Gilbert and Walter DeLong, July 3.

Shore Players, Spring Lake, N. J.:—"Tragedian and Harlot," by Philip Merivale.

Hopatcong Broadway Players, Netcong, N. J.:—"Still Life," by Larry St. Johns, July 23.

Tamiment Players, Tamiment, Pa.:—"The Gull," by Jane Hinton; "Hope Haven," by Philip Dunning and L. G. Lippman; "School Teacher," by Ned Glass and Allen Boretz.

Country Playhouse, Westport, Conn.:—"Chimes of Corneville," an operetta, with Helen Ford and George Meader, June 28; "The Bridge of Torzko," by Otto Indig, with Jean Arthur and Sam Jaffee, July 9; "Birth of a Hero," by Philip Goodman, July 16; "For Love or Money," by Alan Child and Isabelle Loudon; "Bravo, Paskey," by Konrad Bercovici; "Hide and Seek," by Richard Macauley and Laurence Schwab, August 6; "Achilles Had a Heel," by Martin Flavin; "America Dances," by Lawrence Langner; "Dream Child," by J. C. Nugent; "Love on an Island," by Helen Deutsch; "Marriage Is No Joke," by James Bridle.

Griswold Playhouse, New London, Conn.:—"A Portrait of a Lady," July 10; "The Mrs. Thomas," July 17; "Narcissus," July 31.

Bid For Thelma Todd Sent in From Vienna

Vienna.—Thelma Todd is wanted by British Gaumont for the starring role in "The Taming of the Shrew," which it is planning to make here in both English and Austrian versions.

Noted Writers Try Out New Material

The Jitney Players, Madison, Conn.:—"Lucky Dip," by Frank Vosper, July 3; "Come-Uppance," by F. Harrison Dowd, August 21.

Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Mass.:—"Round Trip," by Blair Hill, July 9.

Beach Theatre, West Falmouth, Mass.:—"Forever and Forever," by Courtney Savage, July 25; "Hallowe'en," by Henry Myers, August 15.

Wharf Theatre, Provincetown, Mass.:—"A Lady Detained," by Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer; "My Wife's Husband," by Isabelle Bishop.

Ogunquit Playhouse, Ogunquit, Maine:—"The Closed Room," by Patterson Greene, July 23; "Obsession," by Martin Berkeley, August 20; "Loose Moments," by Courtney Savage and Bertram Hobbs, August 6; "His Favorite Wife," by George James Hopkins, September 3.

Lakewood Players, Skowhegan, Maine:—"Sunshine Ahead," by Carroll and Garrett Graham, June 18.

Our Playhouse, Peterboro, Maine:—"Strangers and Lovers," by Edwin Granberry.

Wally Ford to Stage

Wallace Ford leaves tonight for Cleveland, where he is slated to go into a stage play.

Talk About Annuities With An Expert

I HAVE spent years in specializing on annuities for members of the motion picture profession. I can tell you the exact type of annuity to meet your income, your plans for the future, your immediate needs.

BEFORE you decide on an annuity, it will be to your advantage to consult me.

Telephone
HE 3682 or HO 1161

Benjamin Leven
ANNUITY COUNSELLOR
310 Guaranty Building
6331 Hollywood Blvd.
Hollywood

REPUTATION

Satin Smooth

● BEHIND Satin Smooth Make-Up is a reputation of honesty, integrity, and purity of product . . . a reputation that has been the reward of a lifetime of service.

● BACKED by this reputation comes Satin Smooth . . . a smoother, faster make-up, easier to apply and easier to remove . . . a make-up of unparalleled photographic beauty.

● TRY it and thrill!

MAX FACTOR'S MAKE-UP STUDIOS
HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA

Swanson's Plans Still Up in the Air

"Three Weeks" is being scripted for Gloria Swanson at MGM. An alternate story is also being drafted in the MGM scenario department. Meanwhile loan applications for Miss Swanson are on file from Warners for "Firebird" and from Fox for "Music in the Air."

Decision is due this week by Irving Thalberg whether Gloria goes ahead with her next MGM picture or is given a visiting permit.

Bess Meredyth Off To London To Work For B-D

Bess Meredyth left by train last night for New York where she will board the Berengaria for London and take up a deal that has been arranged by Twentieth Century to write the script of "Wellington" for British and Dominions.

Michael Curtiz, her husband, winds up "British Agent" at Warners tomorrow and hops a plane for New York to join his wife. He will vacation in Europe.

Katherine DeMille Ill

Katherine DeMille has been confined to her home with a high fever for several days.

Miriam Hopkins on Trip

Miriam Hopkins, Paramount player, has left for a vacation in San Francisco.

Maureen O'Sullivan Out, 'Hide-out' Delayed Again

"Hide-out" took another setback at MGM yesterday when Maureen O'Sullivan obtained her release from the cast, saying she had been cabled that her father is seriously ill and she must leave for Ireland at once.

W. S. Van Dyke hopes to recast the part and start Robert Montgomery's picture before the week is out. It was originally scheduled to start a week ago.

Keighley Will Direct 'Big-Hearted Herbert'

Warners yesterday assigned William Keighley to direct "Big-Hearted Herbert," a play by Sophie Kerr and Anna Steese Richardson, which has been scripted by Lillie Heyward and Delmar Daves.

Guy Kibbee and Patricia Ellis will have the leads when it starts June 25. Keighley completed "Kansas City Princess" last week.

'Mrs. Wiggs' Under Way

Norman Taurog got the shooting started yesterday on "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at Paramount. Pauline Lord top-spots, with W. C. Fields, Zasu Pitts, Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor among the others.

'Millie' Cast Complete

The cast for "The Captain Hates the Sea," which Lewis Milestone will direct for Columbia, now includes Fred Keating, Victor McLaglen, Wynne Gibson, William Gaxton, Alison Skipworth and Mae Clarke.

IATSE Ducks Casey By Capital Office

New York.—As a result of the reports made at the IATSE convention by delegates from Hollywood locals, the IATSE has decided to open a special Washington office for the handling direct with Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt of all complaints by members of code violations.

This is a direct slap at Pat Casey, chairman of the much discussed Studio Labor Committee. When the delegates stated that none of the IATSE men in Hollywood would present complaints to Casey's committee because of their fear of Casey, the entire convention backed them up and passed a resolution calling for the Washington office.

Six-day Bicycle Race Will Be Started June 21

The six-day bicycle race, which starts at the Gilmore Stadium on June 21, has a number of entrants who have made themselves famous at the annual event at Madison Square Garden, including Reggie McNamara.

The track is similar to the Garden track, ten laps to the mile. While many of the picture colony have already made reservations, the regular sale of tickets opens today at the Stadium, Beverly and Fairfax.

Mrs. Kinney Returning

Mrs. Mabel Kinney, chairman of the Code Committee for Extras, returns to her office tomorrow after a two-weeks absence.

Baby Star Signs With Para. on 7-year Term

One Wampas baby star definitely got her name on a Paramount dotted line yesterday when Dorothy Drake enrolled for a minimum six months, maximum seven years.

Her appearance with the thirteen in "Kiss and Make Up" won the legal document. Two more are set if they show up in the contract department.

'Stamp' To Kill Duals

(Continued from Page 1)

whereby the exhibitor guarantees to show no double bills. Even in those sections where single bills are the vogue, every exhibitor will have to sign as a precaution against any possible tricksters or backsliders who might try to chisel.

A move such as this was threatened some time ago by Louis B. Mayer, speaking to a gathering of the Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California. He told them that if they do not go to single bills themselves they will be forced to do it. He went further and stated that he was willing to carry the issue right up to the President and the U. S. Supreme Court if anyone wanted to fight the move that he said was being planned by the majors.

Since that meeting the indies in Southern California have tried to get a united single bill front, and say that 90 per cent have agreed to abolish the double-bills.

THE CARNERA-BAER PICTURE

The Greatest Box-office Attraction Since The Dempsey-Firpo Fight Has Been Booked Solid By The R.K.O. Theatres In New York State Opening On Friday At The Following Theatres:

PALACE THEATRE
R.K.O. CENTER THEATRE
81st STREET THEATRE
23rd STREET THEATRE
58th STREET THEATRE
86th STREET THEATRE
REGENT THEATRE
125th STREET THEATRE
HAMILTON THEATRE
COLISEUM THEATRE
FORDHAM THEATRE
FRANKLIN THEATRE
ROYAL THEATRE
CHESTER THEATRE
FLUSHING THEATRE

YONKERS THEATRE
MT. VERNON THEATRE
NEW ROCHELLE THEATRE
WHITE PLAINS THEATRE
COLONIAL THEATRE
JEFFERSON THEATRE
STRAND THEATRE
EMPIRE THEATRE
ACADEMY THEATRE
CROTONA THEATRE
PARK PLAZA THEATRE
AUDOBON THEATRE
VALENTINE THEATRE
BROOKLYN ALBEE THEATRE
KENMORE THEATRE
PROSPECT THEATRE

GREENPOINT THEATRE
BUSHWICK THEATRE
TILYOU THEATRE
MADISON THEATRE
RICHMOND HILL THEATRE
DYKER THEATRE
ORPHEUM THEATRE
FAR ROCKAWAY THEATRE
PARK THEATRE—Rockaway Park
ROCKVILLE CENTRE THEATRE
KINGSWAY THEATRE
PALACE THEATRE—Albany, N.Y
PROCTOR'S—Troy, N. Y.
PROCTOR'S—Schenectady, N. Y.
KEITH'S—Syracuse, N. Y.
KEITH'S—Rochester, N. Y.

Foreign Distribution Throughout The World, Outside Of Canada, Distributed Through R.K.O. Export Corporation

Distributed in Canada by Columbia Pictures of Canada, Ltd.

Produced and Distributed by OLIVER FILM CORPORATION 245 W. 55th St. New York City

CATERED By

The VENDOME

is the stamp of assurance of the best food and the best service that your money can buy.

YOUR COCKTAIL PARTY
YOUR BRIDGE LUNCHEON
YOUR BUFFET DINNER

in all their details can be handled by The VENDOME, taking from your shoulders all the worry about food, its preparation and service. And the price is just as cheap (probably more so) as if you undertake the preparation yourself.

CALL HOllywood 1666

ask for Mr. Hoffman in charge of the catering department. He will make you quotations and give you all the details, giving you the

BEST FOOD and BEST LIQUOR

at a price that will surprise you.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 30. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Wednesday, June 13, 1934

MGM TO START ABROAD

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•WE have had several talks in New York with some of the leaders of the Catholic Church, both priests of that church and influential laymen. We found all of them a bit bewildered by the great momentum their activities with regard to the picture business had developed. They were surprised that the campaign had been given such great importance in the newspapers and were a bit shaken by the fact that it might tend to cause legislation against the industry that would be serious.

These interviews reveal that their attitude on the subject is that they reason that the motion picture producers broke faith with the Church by violating their promises of the past few years to clean up the screen. And, believing that the producers had broken faith, the Church decided to act itself, FOR ITSELF and for no one else. The Church is dead set against any form of censorship other than that which it may exert for the protection of its people.

•

Those behind this campaign are more tolerant than you would gather. They realize that entertainment must have drama; that drama must be built around sex, crime, passion, etc. They are not objecting to that. What they object to most strenuously is the producers dragging in smut, tincturing their scenes with vulgarity, pulling away from stories entirely to get a laugh here and there with dirty bits that have no place in a picture.

They believe that such acts showed that the producers had no intention of being bound by some decent moral code, so they decided to build one themselves for the producers and to cause it to be put into effect through the boycott that they are aiming at objectionable pictures until such time as the producers show some tendency to play ball with them.

The Catholic Church is concentrating all its attention on the complete elimination of DIRT in pictures, even if that should mean the elimination of all pictures.

•

Our own reaction, as a result of our conversations with bishops, priests and high laymen in the Church, is that they are more broad-minded than even the most lenient censor board. They

Continued on Page 2)

Woman Director of 'Maedchen' For MGM

New York.—Leontine Sagan, the famous woman director of "Maedchen in Uniform," was signed up for MGM by David Selznick, who has just returned from abroad, and is expected to report at the studios within a short time.

Fox Gets All Runyon Stories For the Year

New York.—Fox Film has tied up the entire story output of Damon Runyon for the next year, the deal having been put over by Julian Johnson, Fox story editor, who is leaving for the coast tomorrow.

Johnson said that, judging by what he knows of production plans for the coming season, there will be a decided decrease in the number of crime stories or otherwise censorable pictures. That, he says, applies not only to Fox, but to all other companies.

Columbia Will Resume Producing in England

New York.—Columbia is planning to start producing in England again and will make its own quota productions. Final details of the plans are awaiting Jack Cohn's trip to England or Joseph Friedman's visit to New York.

Gollomb Out of MGM

Joseph Gollomb finished his assignment at MGM yesterday, checking off the studio writer list after turning in his script on "The Casino Murder Case."

Plans To Rent Space First And Build Own Studio Later; Will Use U. S. Technicians

New York.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is perfecting plans to embark on production in England on a large scale. It is expected that arrangements will be made so that, according to Sam Eckmann, British representative for the company, four to six pictures can be started in September.

The nucleus of the foreign organization will be formed by a group of executives sent from here or from Hollywood, to be augmented in London. Present plans call for the production of features below the super-special class, but sufficiently important to command release in any country.

David Selznick, who has just returned from England, stated yesterday that he had discussed the plan with Nicholas Schenck and J. Robert Rubin here and by telephone with Louis B.

(Continued on Page 8)

Sam Jaffe Resigns Post At Columbia

Sam Jaffe, Columbia production executive and assistant to Sam Briskin, yesterday resigned that position and is going to Europe for a few months, his first vacation in several years.

He said yesterday that he had no announcement to make regarding future plans, and will have none until he returns. He was nine years with Paramount and a year with Radio before going to Columbia .

Pathe Directors To Vote Tomorrow

New York.—The directors of Pathe Exchange Inc. will meet tomorrow to vote on the reorganization plan, which contemplates the creation of new common and preferred stock to be issued in return for the present stock and back accumulations in dividends.

These dividends now total $50 a share on the preferred and $26 a share on the Class A common. The company also has $2,065,500 in bonds that fall due in 1937.

Ralph Kohn Coming To Confer With Producers

New York.—Ralph Kohn, who recently resigned as vice-president and director of Paramount-Publix, left by plane for Hollywood last night to confer with producers there about his projected independent production venture.

Laurel and Hardy To Do 'Babes in Toyland'

Hal Roach yesterday took "Babes in Toyland" off the shelf and decided to put it into work early next month under Ray McCarey's direction.

It will star Laurel and Hardy, the former as Simple Simon, the latter as the Pieman.

MGM Borrows Dunn

John Considine last night succeeded in borrowing Jimmy Dunn from Fox for the spot opposite Jean Parker in the MGM picture, "Have a Heart." The deal was sewed up with Dunn by wire to New York.

Young For 'Hide-out'

Completing her loan-out to Fox for "Caravan," Loretta Young reported back to MGM yesterday and goes into the spot in "Hide-out" opposite Robert Montgomery. Maureen O'Sullivan vacated the role.

NO MORE FILM SHIPMENTS IN PASSENGER PLANES

Washington.—In view of the many disastrous airplane accidents and the heavy loss of life, the Government is planning to issue an order forbidding the shipment of motion picture film or any other inflammable material in airplanes which carry passengers.

It is believed here that this order may seriously affect the 13-hour transhipment of prints from the coast laboratories to the Eastern exchanges and cause an increase in the necessity for more laboratory work in the East. There is a possibility also that it will lead to an increase in Eastern production.

Phila. Methodists Back Catholic Film Fight

Philadelphia.—A conference of the Methodist clergy of this city yesterday adopted a resolution endorsing the stand taken by Cardinal Dougherty in the battle being waged by the church against indecent pictures.

Sam Hellman To Lasky

Sam Hellman yesterday joined the Jesse L. Lasky unit at Fox to work on the dialogue of the Sonya Levien script of "Captive Bride." The production stars Charles Boyer.

FRANK BORZAGE directed "LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

Looks like one Dorothy Parker and Alan Campbell are headed for Hollywood. Anyway, the Don Stewarts just got this wire, dated yesterday at Julesberg, Colo. It says: "We Are Here In A 1929 Open Ford With Two Bedlington Terriers Please Advise." (!)

•

The temperament "given out" by Grace Moore during her last flicker at Columbia hasn't been equalled for many a day—fortunately. The menials (as always) got the worst of it, we hear, when any available implement went flying through the air during la Moore's various outbursts. The pay-off came when the song-bird flew into an uproar because she couldn't get Carole Lombard's personal hair-dresser at the precise moment that Carole happened to need her. Grace put on a big act about "how could my dear friend, Carole, do this to me?!" . . etc., but the fact is that the two have only met casually once or twice! So, naturally, Lombard did not see any reason for relinquishing her pet curl-twister. Anyway, Carole got even—because a few days later, while Grace was practicing her scales, she and "Fieldsie," her secretary, put on some Bing Crosby records full-blast in an adjoining dressing-room, and, as though that weren't noise enough—they added their own raucous voices to the strains of "Learn to Croon." (!)

•

Maureen O'Sullivan has asked to be let out of her role in "Hideout" and MGM has agreed. Seems that Maureen has received word that her father is ill in Ireland and she wants to rush to his side. Johnny Farrow, by the way, is supposed to sail for Honolulu tomorrow—but what, if any, connection this has with that, we wouldn't be pinned down to saying!

New York REVIEWS

"FOG OVER FRISCO"
Warners prod.; director, Wilhelm Dieterle; writers, George Dyer, Robert N. Lee, Eugene Solow.
Strand Theatre

American: "Fog Over Frisco" is chiefly distinguished for an excellent cast and good screen treatment. The film is a fast-moving mystery which seldom suffers a lessening of tempo. Director Wilhelm Dieterle manages to keep his audience in the dark as to the identity of the chief villain until the final denouement.

Sun: Staccato as the rhythm of a machine gun is the timing of "Fog Over Frisco." One of those First National melodramas, keyed up to a speed so rapid that murders, swindles, romances, kidnapings flash by like so many captions on an old-fashioned newsreel. It is highly effective, this double-quick time with the crescendo finale.

Times: What "Fog Over Frisco" lacks in the matter of credibility, it atones for partly by its breathless pace and its abundance of action. As the story passes on the screen it scarcely gives the spectator time to think who might be the ringleader of the band of desperadoes.

Herald-Tribune: Intriguingly named, "Fog Over Frisco" nevertheless proves disappointing in its story and treatment, which is not a little surprising, since Mr. Dieterle has often shown a flair for originality and imagination. Here the speed of his mystery murder is terrific. Shot follows shot with a hurry and confusion bewildering to the onlooker and unartistic in the story-teller.

Mirror: A cunning murder and a neat kidnaping are the diverting features of this melodrama which features an attractive cast and was made by a skilful director.

News: A good, old-fashioned movie melodrama with plenty of action and a story that seems plausible enough. Wilhelm Dieterle, who directed the picture, handled the materials of the story cleverly, using the technique of the silent movie for most of it.

World-Telegram: "Fog Over Frisco" is a tense and thrilling melodrama. Indeed, I think that, without fear of contradiction or accusation or undue enthusiasm, one can truthfully say that it is quite the smoothest and most irresistible tale of homicide that has appeared on the screen this year. Crisp incident, terse dialogue and convincing color make this "Fog Over Frisco" as holding a film as can be found in the whole year's output of melodrama. The treatment—which includes the writing and Wilhelm Dieterle's direction—is brilliant. The acting is superb.

Journal: There are enough counter-plots and suspects in the piece to outfit half a dozen mystery yarns. As a matter of fact, once in a while the storp trips over itself due to this astonishing abundance of material. But the picture moves so fast and is so neatly played and directed that you'll find it thoroughly entertaining.

Taylor on 'Heldorado'

Rex Taylor registered yesterday as a member of the Jesse L. Lasky unit at Fox and is writing the screen play of "Heldorado," the Frank Mitchell Dazey story which is slated for Spencer Tracy, under Irving Cummings' direction.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

realize that it is impossible to make pictures just for kids, but they believe that pictures made with good taste, judgment and a desire to do away with all smut and vulgarity can be screened without anything in them to hurt the kids, regardless of the subject matter. They reason that, if these pictures are produced in a proper manner, the kids won't know what they are all about.

Don't take it from this that there is going to be any let-up in the activities of the Catholics in the present drive. They are going even further, but will try earnestly to confine the results of their activities to their own people. They are going to use every effort to keep the drive off the front pages of the newspapers, because they feel that publicity will impose upon the motion picture industry legislation that will cause stringent censorship, and they do not want that responsibility.

Picture Stars Signed For Non-Spi Radio Hour

Edmund Lowe, Helen Mack, Adolphe Menjou, Veree Teasdale and Douglass Montgomery have been signed for radio broadcasts on the Non-Spi Hour, via the NBC network, emananating locally from KFI.

Lowe and Miss Mack go on tonight, Menjou and Miss Teasdale June 27, and Douglass Montgomery July 4. The Selznick-Joyce radio department, under Allan Simpson, set the deals.

ATTENTION

5-room apartment in La Fontaine Apartments. Beautifully furnished. Available on long or short lease, $200 a month. Call HEmpstead 7053 for apointment.

Stars Flock to Aid Marion Davies Show

A long list of talent is being lined up for the Marion Davies Foundation benefit, which will be held at the Biltmore Bowl, Monday, June 25.

The event, planned in the interests of one of Hollywood's favorite charities, is expected to be one of the biggest of its kind, with all film leaders co-operating. Eddie Cantor has volunteered to act as master of ceremonies, Mary Pickford and Mae West taking a hand as patronesses.

Wood Puts His Unit Into Golf Tournament

Sam Wood's departing gift to the "Stamboul Quest" company at MGM was the posting of the two dollar entry fee in the studio golf tournament for every member of the unit who had worked with him.

He also put up a twenty dollar prize for the best score among the unit members.

Three For Buster Phelps

Signed by Paramount yesterday for "Now and Forever," Buster Phelps now has committments to three studios for picture role. He next goes to For for "Servant's Entrance" and then to MGM for "Professional Corespondent," which is being rewritten so that it can go into work in about a month.

New Term For DeLeon

Walter DeLeon got a new writing ticket at Paramount yesterday. He is working with Jack McDermott on the George Marion Jr. original, "College Rhythm."

Warners Set Barrat

Robert Barrat was set by Warners yesterday for one of the featured spots in "The Case of the Howling Dog."

Pete Starts Three More

Three more Pete Smith shorts went into work at MGM yesterday. One is a Goofy Movie, two are sport reels.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

OPENING FRIDAY NIGHT, JUNE 15
Johnny Weaver's Newest Comedy-Drama
"KEEP IT A DREAM"
with
Wm. "Stage" Boyd, Gertrude Short, Eddie Nugent, Dorothy Libaire, Sarah Padden, James Bush
Directed by E. E. CLIVE
HOLLYWOOD PLAYHOUSE
Evening Prices $1.50 to 25c plus tax
Saturday Matinee Prices $1.10 to 25c plus tax

LOEW'S STATE Starts TODAY

···SHE GAVE A DIME'S WORTH OF HER HEART to a $17,000,000 PLAYBOY!

8,000,000 Readers thrilled to this daring VINA DELMAR Serial in Liberty Magazine!

Joan CRAWFORD

IN

Sadie McKee

with

FRANCHOT TONE
GENE RAYMOND
EDWARD ARNOLD
ESTHER RALSTON

Joan Crawford, Franchot Tone and Gene Raymond in an exciting scene!

A CLARENCE BROWN Production

"Wish someone would tell me why the wrong men always have money . . . and why the men we really love are always broke."
—from the diary of Sadie McKee

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

Sadie McKee

A

VINA DELMAR

STORY

SCREEN PLAY

by

JOHN MEEHAN

Sadie McKee

EDWARD ARNOLD

plays

"Jack Brennan"

Management:
LICHTIG & ENGLANDER

Under Personal Contract to
B. P. SCHULBERG

Another Overnight Hit!

by

Nacio Herb BROWN and Arthur FREED

"ALL I DO IS DREAM OF YOU"

FROM THE PICTURE

Sadie McKee

Published by
ROBBINS MUSIC CORPORATION

SCIENTISTS TO AID IN MAKING '20,000 LEAGUES UNDER SEA'

Elaborate Plans For the Verne Yarn

With many of its odd engineering and photographic problems solved, and an array of savants in the background awaiting their cue to participate as scientific observers, Phil Goldstone is inaugurating the exploratory period of his preparations to film "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" by dispatching a scouting expedition down the Pacific Coast of Mexico.

Otis Garrett, Goldstone's supervisor, and Jerry Fairbanks, cameraman, will take off for Ensenada, pick up the Mexican censor, then fly to Mazatlan to add a government geographic expert to the party.

They will patrol the ocean and Gulf of California coasts by air to spot suitable locations for the underwater shooting of the Jules Verne scientific fantasy. Specific objects to be charted for use are a number of sunken wrecks and, if possible, the mouth of a subterranean river.

This aerial scouting will take probably two or three weeks, but more extensive explorations will be required, probably including a voyage to the Marquesas Islands for suitable coral rees, and another to the Great Australian Reef.

Although actual production is still three or four months ahead, Goldstone ten days ago purchased the 195 foot twin-screw, all-steel yacht Camina, formerly owned by ex-King Alfonso, which is being converted into a floating picture studio.

The Camina is being equipped with a complete motion picture laboratory, and will have a projection room. It will carry the cast, technical staff, and scientific observers on the actual production voyage, which will be headed by Goldstone personally.

Besides the standard motion picture and scientific apparatus required, much specialized technical material will be carried. This includes:

An undersea train 250 feet long for traveling shots on the ocean floor. Tested successfully off the Isthmus at Catalina recently.

Cameras inclosed in waterproof blimps with complete exterior control. A special Dupont film for undersea photography is being perfected for the picture.

Underwater lights developed by General Electric for the production.

Elevators for cameras, operators and lights for use underwater. Platforms will be guarded against sharks and other dangerous sea life by cyclone fencing. Technical operators themselves will wear regulation diving equipment.

Self-contained oxygen-generating helmets for the actors. These are diving helmets with no entangling pipes or lines. They are built of chromium bronze, with the chemical installation made by United States government technicians.

Most fantastic of all in appearance, and the feature that will impress the public, is the submarine being constructed after the weird, mechanical narwhal imagined by Jules Verne in the novel that foreshadowed the actual submarine. Beyond the fact that its operation is hydraulic and its appearance suggests a sea monster, this important working prop is being guarded with secrecy.

Representatives of the California Institute of Technology will go on the production voyage, furnishing dredging equipment and their store of scientific information. In return they will receive prints of the footage for the Institute's use.

Microscopic equipment is already owned by Jerry Fairbanks, who did such work for the "Strange As It Seems" series.

What Beebe did in the Eastern waters, Goldstone hopes his film expedition will be able to accomplish in the Pacific. He has had this film in his mind for years. Originally he expected to make it for around $450,000. He figures now it will cost $800,000.

"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" is expected to run about 10 reels. The adaptation made by A. P. Younger over three years ago is being modified by Wellyn Totman in line with the newly developed technical facilities.

Korda Gets Muni For Role of 'Nijinsky'

London.—Alexander Korda, of London Films, is reported to have signed Paul Muni to play the title role in the screen version of "Nijinsky," the same role he is to do on the stage. Charles Laughton is set to play Diaghileff.

New Pictures on B'way This Week

New York.—Three pictures are being held over at the Broadway houses this week and seven new ones are arriving. The hold-overs are "Fog Over Frisco" at the Strand, "Men in White" at the Capitol, and "The World in Revolt" at the Rialto.

On the new list are: Today, "Are We Civilized?" at the Rivoli, "Private Scandal" at the Mayfair; tomorrow, "Along Came Sally" at the Criterion, "Life of Vergie Winters" at the Music Hall; Friday, "Here Comes the Groom" at the Paramount, "Let's Talk It Over" at the Roxy, and "White Heat" at the Gaiety.

Lasky Starts Work on 'White Parade' Aug. 13

Jesse Lasky will start production on "White Parade" August 13. The book, by Rian James, will be published next week.

Jesse Lasky Jr. has done the screen play. Irving Cummings will direct. Heather Angel is pencilled in for the lead, with the studio dickering for a couple of players on a loan basis.

Extra Complaints Drop

Extras' complaints of alleged code violations by the studios dropped slightly the first two days of this week, a total of 32 complaints having been registered with the Junior Screen Actors Guild.

World Wide Pix to Remain in Business

New York.—World Wide Pictures Inc. will remain in the distribution business, with R. M. Savini as general sales manager. The company has concluded an agreement with Fox whereby all the World Wide features, now being distributed by Fox, will be turned over to the company for state rights sales. Savini is now busy disposing of this product.

The Educational shorts will continue selling through Fox, as heretofore.

Paramounteers Leaving For Convention Here

New York.—The New York delegation that will attend the Paramount convention in Los Angeles this week is preparing to start, leaving here by New York Central. They will pick up delegates from other cities on the way.

Adolph Zukor said yesterday that the company now has 69 players, 29 directors and 51 writers under contract.

Shirley Temple Set For Personals in New York

New York.—Shirley Temple, the baby star of "Stand Up and Cheer" and "Little Miss Marker," is set for a series of personal appearances, the first to be at the New York Paramount and the salary to be in four figures.

'Aces Down' For Lasky

Jesse L. Lasky yesterday took an option on Thompson Burtis' original story, "Aces Down," an aviation yarn dealing with the border patrol, and is planning to star Spencer Tracy in it for Fox.

Young Starts Musical

Felix Young, Columbia producer, puts another musical into production within the next ten days. It will be "Hello, Big Boy." No cast or director has been assigned as yet.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

That Embassy suit against Pathe for breach of contract in failing to deliver a batch of old Harold Lloyd two-reelers for synchronization and distribution, is bringing out some peculiar situations.

The other day, during court proceedings, Stuart Webb is said to have practically admitted that Pathe resold its rights to thirty-eight of the Lloyd shorts to the Harold Lloyd Corporation in April of this year for the reported price of $13,000. And the only catch to a statement like that is the fact that, prior to this alleged deal, Pathe signed a five-year contract with Embassy Pictures, giving that company distribution rights and permission to synchronize the comedies.

•

Typical Hollywood economy story number ten million: Lowell Sherman was signed by Universal at $3500 per week to direct for that company for one year. About a week and a half after Sherman arrived on the lot, he was handed a story called "The Captain Hates the Sea" to read, and he had scarcely finished it when he was begging the studio to buy it for him. The studio put in a bid of ten thousand dollars for it. Wallace Smith wanted fifteen thousand. The studio refused to part with the extra five and the story was sold to Columbia.

Soooo Lowell Sherman has been on the lot for seven months, drawing his weekly salary of thirty-five hundred and hasn't directed a picture yet. But the studio did save five thousand dollars—or did it?

•

With the unexpected and tragic passing of Broadway's most famous character, Billy LaHiff, almost everyone has been wondering what will become of the equally famous rendezvous that LaHiff founded. Well, it seems that his nephew, Jim Collins, will take it over and run it, and Billy's son, Billy Jr., will be the head waiter.

FOR SALE

20,000 feet Panchromatic negative raw stock in original 1,000 foot rolls left over from recently completed picture. Guaranteed. Price three cents a foot. Address Box 304, Hollywood Reporter.

VACATION TIME IS HERE

LET US SOLVE YOUR TRAVEL WORRIES

Sam Revel Travel Service

6724 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.

HOllywood 2241 (Hotel Christie) 24-Hour Service

Complete Travel Information — Positively No Charge

AIR - STEAMSHIP - BUS - HOTEL - RESORT

Reservations Arranged To Any Point

Free Delivery On Tickets With Complete Information

Just Phone HOllywood 2241 — PERSONAL ATTENTION

'Four Walls' Rushed Into Work At MGM

Following several shifts in production plans, MGM yesterday finally decided to put "Four Walls" into work tomorrow. Paul Sloane will direct it, and the tentative cast last night was headed by Franchot Tone and Mae Clarke.

The studio planned to do "Four Walls" some time ago, and assigned Edwin L. Marin to direct it. Then the picture was shelved and Marin was given "All Good Americans." The decision to start "Four Walls" immediately was made yesterday, presumably because of holes in the releasing schedule.

If Tone is used in this picture it will mean the holding up for a time of "Death on the Diamond," which Edward Sedgwick will direct. "Four Walls" is on an 18-day production schedule. Lucien Hubbard is producing it.

Paramount Players Injured While on Set

Two Paramount players were injured at work yesterday. George Bancroft went temporarily blind under strong arcs on the "Elmer and Elsie" set and is out for at least three days rest, the unit shooting around him.

Henry Wilcoxon, making retakes of a battle scene for "Cleopatra," had a hand lacerated. He was injured in the same scenes when they were first made two weeks ago.

'British Agent' Comes Home Under the Whip

With a spurt of night work, Michael Curtiz brought "British Agent" home soon after midnight yesterday at Warners.

Leslie Howard and the missus leave today or tomorrow to catch the Europa, sailing June 19 for England. Kay Francis goes East the first of the week to sail June 24 for Naples.

Seek 'Limberlost' Girl

Christy Cabanne and W. T. Lackey are in daily huddles over the selection of the girl to play the title part in "Girl of the Limberlost" for Monogram. A dozen names are under consideration, but there is a possibility an unknown will be fitted into the part.

Rivkin Quits Morrison

New York.—Joe Rivkin has resigned from the Leo Morrison office here and Morrison is looking for someone to take over the work handled by him.

New Designer at Fox

Lillian Templeton, former secretary for Ann Harding, has just signed a contract with Fox as a costume designer.

C. M. Nelson Abroad

Leaving the MGM writing staff after more than a year on a week-to-week basis, C. M. Nelson moves off for a trip to London.

New Job For Boyle

Charles Boyle, well-known cameraman, is now in charge of the studio rentals department of the Camera Supply Company.

'Nana' Barred, Zola Heirs Cancel Suit

Paris.—The Anna Sten picture, "Nana," has been withdrawn from the French market and, as a result, the heirs of Emile Zola have dropped their suit against United Artists. The suit claimed the picture did not do justice to the novel.

Bob Ritchie Coming With Foreign Loot

New York.—Robert Ritchie, manager of Jeanette MacDonald, leaves here for the coast Friday with all the properties, tests, etc., that he acquired in Europe.

He bought two pictures, "Marie" and "Sunshine," both starring Annabella and both directed by Paul Fejos. He also signed several foreign players for MGM, and made tests of Louise Ulrich and Victor de Kowa, German players; Georges Rigaud, a French Argentinian, and Louis Rainer.

Russ Columbo Gets Top In 'Wake Up and Dream'

Russ Columbo had his option lifted yesterday for another six months on the Universal payroll.

He top-spots in "Wake Up and Dream," which B. F. Zeidman will ease into production in July as soon as June Knight recovers.

Caruso Life For Films With His Son Featured

Warner Brothers yesterday purchased an original story from Houston Branch. It is called "The Golden Voice," and is a story based on the life of Enrico Caruso. Warners plan to feature Enrico Caruso Jr. in it.

Paramount Will Make 18 Abroad For Quota

New York.—John Cecil Graham, managing director for Paramount in Great Britain, said yesterday that the company will have 18 features made in England to fill its quota requirements. Production will be at British and Dominions.

Van Trees on Dunne Pic

James Van Trees has been assigned to photograph Radio's next Irene Dunne picture, "The Age of Innocence." He handled the photography on "Stingaree," being borrowed from Twentieth Century, where he is under contract.

Crabbe With Darmour

Larry Darmour yesterday borrowed Buster Crabbe from Paramount for the lead opposite Isabel Jewell in "Gaily I Sin," which Ralph Ceder directs when it starts Monday. This is the second Darmour production for Majestic.

Sam Coslow Returns

Sam Coslow, Paramount song writer, returned yesterday from a two-months vacation in Europe. While there he wrote the words and music for "Oh, Daddy," a musical which British Gaumont will produce.

Berke To Make Six For Famous Authors

William Berke yesterday signed a contract with Famous Authors Pictures Corporation to produce a series of six pictures for the independent market, the first of which, "Unforbidden Sin," from a novel by Roy Vickers, will go into production at Talisman studio by the end of the month.

The company has purchased "A Life For Sale," by Sidney Horler; "Jazz Beau," a novel by Beth Brown, and "Burned Evidence," a novel by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow. All will be produced by Berke.

Johnny Mack Brown Signed For Eight at Col.

Columbia yesterday signed Johnny Mack Brown on an eight-picture deal and plans to star him in a series of fast action, romantic pictures.

Brown starts at Columbia July 1. His series will all be produced under the supervision of Irving Briskin. The deal was set by Hallam Cooley. Brown's last picture was with Mae West in "It Ain't No Sin."

Sennett Organizing New Bathing Beauties

The Mack Sennett Bathing Girls of 1935 will be a feature of the Hollywood historical feature Sennett is planning. Sennett also will try to persuade now-famous originals from his noted bathing corps to take bows in the picture.

Butterworth Better

Charles Butterworth checked in at MGM yesterday after his illness and goes to work in "Malibu."

MGM to Produce in Eng.

(Continued from Page 1)

Mayer in Hollywood. Mr. Mayer is expected here next week for settlement of all details, Selznick remaining here to meet him, while George Cukor, Fritz Lang, Hugh Walpole and Howard Estabrook will leave for the coast Friday.

Selznick is in complete accord with the plan to open MGM studios in London. Among his reasons are the British market, the greater available supply of talent in England, and the fact that pictures needing Continental backgrounds can be made better and more cheaply over there. The plan includes the use of a revolving staff of American technicians.

A modest start, with one or two pictures, is the Selznick idea. He advises renting space at first and then, when the output increases to six or eight features, the purchase or building of a studio. Production costs, he figures, would be about the same as in America, but for that money the pictures made in England would be of better quality and the product would gross much more in Great Britain because of being made there.

Regarding Fritz Lang, Mr. Selznick said that his first picture for MGM may be "Two Thieves," the Manuel Komroff story which the company has had for some time, but that is not definitely set.

A BOOST FOR THE BOX OFFICE

RCA VICTOR PHOTOPHONE

HIGH FIDELITY SOUND

★

Offering you complete ownership of a sound box office attraction that pays its own way.

★

RCA VICTOR Company, Inc. Camden, N. J.

READING DEPT.
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 31. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Thursday, June 14, 1934

ACTORS RESENT SLURS

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

WE talked with a Bishop of the Catholic Church the other day. He is a picture fan, and a great man, both in and out of the Church. He was extremely bitter towards our industry and even accused some of the producers of deliberately attempting to corrupt the youth of the nation. When we laughed at such a notion, he became irritated and said:

"You are a fool if you believe otherwise. I can name you twenty pictures made during the last year or two that will prove my contention."

We listened while he told about the scene in "Red Dust" where Jean Harlow makes that crack to the parrot, and the scene in "Trumpet Blows" in which the girl throws Raft his hat and says, "Here's your hat; what's your hurry?"

•

We agreed with the Bishop that neither scene had a place in the story, that they were vulgar, that they might tend to corrupt some kids, but we argued that neither they—nor any other of the twenty which he might name—were written for the purpose he believed. We contended that they were incorporated in the pictures for laughs, and laughs that are causing us a lot of trouble now, and maybe more later.

Our conversation with this Bishop convinced us that someone had fed him such ideas, that they were not really his own. He finally admitted that he might have heard them in discussion and, on being pressed further, conceded that it was impossible to believe that even the most degraded producer of pictures could produce such scenes with any thought in mind of intentional evil to the kids.

•

And, ladies and gentlemen of this industry, that is the mental attitude of almost everyone in the Catholic Church who is fighting us now. They have been fed ideas that are far from the truth, they have been sold on angles that have no basis in fact and, strange as it may seem, all this selling has been done by individuals in our own industry, men and women who have axes to grind and have ground them to a razor edge, even to the extent of causing them great personal

(Continued on Page 4)

25% Cancellations As Price of Singles

Kansas City.—The campaign against double bills has struck a snag here with the independent exhibitors demanding the right to cancel 25 per cent of any product they book as their price for going to single-bill policy.

Stanley Waite, Of Para., Dies Suddenly

New York.—Stanley B. Waite, Eastern divisional sales manager for Paramount, dropped dead in his office yesterday from acute indigestion. He was 44 years old, and leaves a widow and nine-year-old daughter.

Waite was formerly with Pathe, and went to Paramount in 1927 to handle sales of short subjects, being promoted to divisional sales manager later. He was to have left for the Los Angeles convention last night with George Schaefer, Neil Agnew and the rest of the New York delegates.

'Rothschild' Closing After Run of 15 Weeks

New York.—Twentieth Century's "The House of Rothschild" is closing at the Astor Theatre Tuesday night after a successful engagement of 15 weeks.

Bromley Back at Work

Haworth Bromley, assistant to Frank O'Heron at Radio, is back at his desk after a two-weeks absence due to an appendectomy.

Truth-Telling As Much Duty Of The Clergy As Is Protection Of Morals Of Flock, They Assert

Hollywood's actors are deeply incensed by the flood of accusations of immorality and indecency that has been poured upon them and their private lives by the clergy of various churches and by self-appointed reformers in the campaign now being waged against salacious pictures.

Particularly are they burned by the recent statement of Representative Cannon, of Wisconsin, in connection with the resolution which he introduced calling upon Congress to "legislate' morals into the picture industry. Mr. Cannon said: "The whole atmosphere of Hollywood seeps with immorality" and the actors and actresses become so hardened that "they

(Continued on Page 5)

Marc Connelly to Para. On Phil Stong Story

Paramount yesterday purchased Phil Stong's latest novel, "A Village Tale," and signed Marc Connelly to write the script, planning it as a vehicle for Cary Grant and Evelyn Venable. Connelly, who is now in New York, returns here immediately to start his deal.

Two Want King Vidor

Columbia and Universal are dickering with King Vidor. The former is offering him a two-picture deal. He leaves in two weeks for New York and is figuring on working on a story during the trip. He returns by boat.

'No Loans,' Warners Notify All Agents

Warners yesterday slapped all agents with a notification that contract players are the sole property of the studio and are not to be offered to other studios on loan-out deals.

In the interests of their clients, the managers have made a practice of cooking up the loan-outs on the basis that the borrowing studio generally gives the player a better break than the home lot. Warners, however, have played down loaning out their players and are anxious to keep the agents away from operating on these deals.

Max Gordon Trying to Sign Dietrich For Play

New York.—Max Gordon is trying to sign Marlene Dietrich for the starring role in a play which he plans to produce on Broadway this Fall. No mention has been made of the title, nor of his chances for success in getting the screen star.

Warner Bros. Get Tone For 'Shanghai Orchid'

Warners have put through a deal with MGM for the loan of Franchot Tone when he completes "Four Walls" at his home lot early next month. He will probably get the lead opposite Dolores Del Rio in "Shanghai Orchid."

Harry Goetz Arrives

Harry M. Goetz, president of Reliance Pictures, arrived yesterday by plane from New York. He will remain here an indefinite time conferring with Edward Small, his production chief.

Ray Long Quits Fox

New York.—Ray Long, formerly editor of the Hearst chain of magazines and more recently connected with the story department of Fox, has resigned from that corporation.

FOX TO DISTRIBUTE 125 IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

New York.—Fox Film Corporation is announcing that it will distribute approximately 125 foreign language dubbed films in Europe during the coming season. They will be in French, Spanish, German and Italian.

According to present plans ten Spanish originals will be made in France, and 25 pictures, some Spanish and others French, will be dubbed in Paris. In Berlin the company will produce six German originals and six dubbed versions. Thirty will be dubbed in Italy, and there will also be produced fourteen British quota pictures, which will be made in England.

Korda After Griffith

London Films yesterday cabled E. H. Griffith an offer through the Hawks-Volck office to go to England on a director's deal. With two pictures to do for MGM, he is holding off his decision until final plans on the two productions are set.

Harvey and Fox Split

All is over between Lilian Harvey and Fox Films. Yesterday war broke out again between Lilian and the studio, with the result that Winfield Sheehan and Sidney Kent decided to grant her desire to be free. So the contract was torn up.

HARLAN THOMPSON — DIRECTOR and SCREEN PLAY in collaboration
JEAN NEGULESCO — ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR
"Kiss and Make Up"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Years ago Nelson Eddy worked for an advertising firm which fired him—and now he is about to draw more than a year's salary (according to what he was earning there) for just one broadcast from that same organization! . . . Which reminds us that Claudette Colbert is now making FOUR times as much as a free-lancer as she made at Paramount! . . . Paul Muni has wired a pal here that he will not play Nijinsky, either on the stage or in pictures, feeling that he's definitely "not the type". . . . Patricia Ellis has bleached herself blonde—the studio has wanted her to do so for a long time. . . . Fred Keating, at the Breakfast Club yesterday, cussed out loud into a microphone—not knowing it was "alive" (!)

•

John Barrymore (still very ill) is off on his yacht for a month or so under doctor's orders. . . . Mary Loos (cousin of Anita), a good-looking gal, has given up archaeology (no foolin'!) and gone into pictures. . . . The David Selznicks, George Cukor (Gott Sei Dank), Hugh Walpole and Fritz Lang hit Hollywood Monday. . . . The Irving Netchers (Rosie Dolly) have put off Honolulu indefinitely and rented the Marion Davies guest-house. . . . Bob Ritchie rushing to get here for Jeanette MacDonald's birthday, June 18—so they can have a party.

•

Some folks think that Johnny Weissmuller's ribbing of Levinsky had a lot to do with Lasky's winning. Levinsky was paying plenty attention to Johnny—even to the point of thumbing his nose at him! . . . Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, the Stephen Ames (Racquel Torres), Jesse Lasky, Sr. and Jr., Frank Tuttle diinng at the Vendome before the bouts. . . . And everybody in town, including Jack Warner with Ann Alvarado, Kay Francis with Maurice Chevalier, at the Colony Club later. . . The Mae Clarke-Sidney Blackmer nuptials should come off any day now—it's all SO peaceful! . . . Lyle Talbot leaves town today for his home town in Nebraska. . . . Bill Powell off to fish again. . . . Do you know what newly-appointed supervisor at a major studio just made his first faux pas when he thought the casting director was supposed to get him a girl for "after working hours" too!??? . . . The Bob Gillhams are house-guesting at the Lynn Farnols.

New York REVIEWS

"SISTERS UNDER THE SKIN"

Columbia prod.; director, David Burton; writer, Jo Swerling.

Radio City Music Hall

Herald-Tribune: Too many themes and situations and too rich a variety of backgrounds have been crowded into "Sisters Under The Skin" to make it more than a moderately arresting screen drama. It is the assured and sensitive portrayals of Mr. Morgan and Miss Landi that give the work what distinction it has. Although he has staged "Sisters Under The Skin" with a fine sense of pictorial values, David Burton has been no more proficient than the authors in giving a concise frame to the action

Mirror: The banal title doesn't suggest the fine quality of this little film. It is a delightful and touching picture. Imaginatively directed, cleverly written, splendidly acted by Frank Morgan, the picture treats harsh realities with exquisite tenderness. Women should forcibly drag their husbands to see it.

American: Fresh humor and sombre drama are to be found in "Sisters Under the Skin." If the dialogue is a trifle too flowery, if the impassioned speeches register like phrases from a book of poetry, they should be pardoned on the grounds of their dramatic qualities.

World-Telegram: It is just a warmly human, simple little story, told simply. But through it all runs a nice, quiet humor and a fine sense of understanding of the characters and their problems. The acting of it is excellent.

Times: It is for the most part a happy-go-lucky piece of fiction. The film is endowed with original lines of thought! it is handsomely staged and the story moves along briskly, sometimes touching a frivolous note and occasionally a serious one. It is another of those pictures with splendid performances.

Post: Though it is a well-acted and effectively directed picture, the theme is a little too obvious for comfort. In short, "Sisters Under the Skin" is better in the acting than in the story.

Sun: The two principal characters, at whom author and scenarist have hurled all the sympathy possible and some that is rather impossible too, are played by such engaging persons as Frank Morgan and Elissa Landi. The whole business, with its fake aura of tenderness and self-sacrfifice, is a little ridiculous and sophomoric.

News: David Burton has done his best with the production. The story moves smoothly and gently to its foregone conclusion. The backgrounds are rich and colorful and the photography is first class.

Journal: The picture is well acted and directed and provides smoothly turned out entertainment. Elissa Landi, agreeably less aloof than she has been in her previous films, contributes a convincing performance.

Actors Guild Advises Against 'Star' Contests

The Screen Actors Guild today comes out against all contests that are designed to send the winners to Hollywood "to become stars." Voicing the Guild's feeling in an editorial in the June Screen Player, all Hollywood organizations and individuals are called upon to fight such contests and refuse them their support.

It is pointed out that the winners of such contests usually are the worst sufferers, and most of them wind up by joining the thousands of unemployed who wander Hollywood's streets.

Morris Firm Gambling

Alice Rinehart, New York stage player, reached here yesterday. The William Morris office has brought her out on speculation in keeping with a new policy inaugurated by the office to stand the expense of bringing to the coast talent which it believes is worth gambling on.

Seidelman to Europe

New York.—Joseph H. Seidelman, foreign manager for Columbia Pictures, sails for Europe Saturday on the Berengaria.

Sten Signs Agency

Anna Sten took a manager for herself yesterday, signing an agency ticket with the Schulberg, Feldman and Gurney office. This is the first time the player has placed her business in the hands of a manager.

Boost For Miss Cotter

Universal has promoted Tammy Cotter to assistant story head under Jerry Sackheim. Miss Cotter has been connected with the studio's reading department for the past six months.

Pertwee Goes to MGM

MGM has signed Roland Pertwee to a term writing deal to start July 1. He is now in England.

ATTENTION

5-room apartment in La Fontaine Apartments. Beautifully furnished. Available on long or short lease, $200 a month. Call HEmpstead 7053 for apointment.

Farm Girls Targets In Contest At Col.

Columbia yesterday capitulated to the idea of using the contest idea in exploiting a picture and will splurge on such a project for the William Rowland production, "The Girl Friend."

Buxom girls will be sought for a milking number in the musical and it is the intention of the studio to get only farm girls. Contests will be organized in every state, with forty-eight girls, one from each state, being chosen. Carter Ludlow, of the studio publicity department, will be in charge and will have a contest plane, especially chartered for it, at his disposal.

American Legion Will Conduct Dell Services

At the request of the American Legion of New Orleans, plans for Dorothy Dell's burial have been changed, with the services being Sunday in that city rather than in Gulfport, Miss., as originally planned. Her mother and sister arrive there today.

The American Legion asked for the privilege of conducting the funeral since it sponsored her when she rose to fame as Miss Universe.

Writers Win Credit

Receiving protests from Rian James and James Seymour, following the preview of "The Great Flirtation," Charles R. Rogers yesterday decided to give the writers their screen credit on the adaptation of the Gregory Ratoff story.

Praskins on 'Barbary'

Leonard Praskins yesterday was assigned by Sam Goldwyn to work on the screen play of "Barbary Coast," which William Wellman directs.

Do You Want a Boat?

45-ft. cruiser, Seattle Built Dream Boat; 180 H.P.; Scripps motor; 4-cylinder Miller auxiliary motor; sleeps 6. Will sell at great sacrifice. Write Box 305, Hollywood Reporter, or phone HO-3957.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES

you can borrow on

★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles

$10 to $300

24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the

LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

Lovely Ladies
Love to Wear
Lovely Intimate Wear
Exclusive Lingerie
and Hosiery

TRADE JUEL PARK MARK
BEVERLY HILLS
Wilshire Blvd. at Beverly Drive

'GRAND CANARY' SLOW PACED; CAST HAMPERED BY WRITING

Photography Hit Of The Production

"GRAND CANARY"
(Fox)

Direction .....Irving Cummings
Original Story.....A. J. Cronin
Screen Play.....Ernest Pascal
Photography .....Bert Glennon
Cast: Warner Baxter, Madge Evans, Marjorie Rambeau, Zita Johann, Roger Imhof, H. B. Warner, Barry Norton, Juliette Compton, Gilbert Emery, Carrie Daumery.

An unbelievable story, unbelievably slow, which the gorgeous photography of Bert Glennon strives desperately to save by giving it some visual movement at least. For those who read the book it may revive pleasant memories. For those who don't read, it is disjointed and illogical and certainly no booster for putting best sellers in pictures.

It is at best a story of the regeneration of a doctor who has been railroaded out of his profession and branded a murderer. At its worst, it is something about that same doctor falling in love with a married woman on shipboard, inadvertently missing his boat, fighting a yellow fever epidemic and saving the life of the girl who has conveniently contracted the disease. In the end, the doctor returns to London, a famous medico, and receives a cable from the girl telling him she'll be there any day. Just why the girl doesn't love her husband and falls so violently in love with the doctor is never explained.

As a matter of fact, the holes in the script are far larger than the story itself and there is practically no action. Characters are introduced, half-heartedly pushed into the story, and then are "contrived" out of it. There is no dramatic highlight in the picture and, if there were, the pace at which Irving Cummings elected to direct it would have successfully killed it a-borning. The dialogue is so sparse in spots and so long in others for no particular reason, that it doesn't help much to have the actors take at least a full minute to enunciate every word.

Warner Baxter struggles manfully in the part of the doctor, but unfortunately both he and Madge Evans are only required to look sad in full close-up throughout most of the picture. Marjorie Rambeau is a flamboyant keeper of a not-so-nice tavern in Santa Cruz. Zita Johann labors under a deadly load. Juliette Compton is given an amusing line and then more or less forgotten. Barry Norton would have been very good if his part had been more fully characterized. Carrie Daumery as the Marchesa was excellent, though her part too, lapsed into nothingness after having started as a woman supposed to be aristocratically daft. H. B. Warner and Gilbert Emery were okay in small parts.

It is to Bert Glennon that the picture owes whatever virtues it has, for the photography is sooo beautiful and at least the camera moves.

MGM Gives 'Camille' Its Sixth Production

MGM has assigned Mercedes d'Acosta to write the screen play of "Camille," which has been made five times already as silents. Eddie Mannix will produce. First National made the last silent version of the play in 1927.

Hays Crowd Confers on Church Campaign

New York.—The campaign against indecent pictures, led by the Catholic Church, was the main topic of discussion at a meeting at the Hays office yesterday. Joseph I. Breen, who was brought on from Hollywood for the occasion, was inaccessible after the meeting, and no one else would talk about what went on. General Hays and Breen will both attend the conference of Catholic Bishops in Cincinnati next Thursday.

At the business meeting of the MPPDA, Ned Depinet, of RKO, was elected a director.

Brock To Do Sequel of 'Flying Down To Rio'

Lou Brock, as the second of his big Radio musicals for 1935, has a South American idea that will be a follow-up of "Flying Down to Rio," taking a different angle on production and a new cast line-up. First comes "Ho, For Shanghai," on which Brock gets busy as soon as he returns from Europe the first of August.

Sidney R. Kent Gets The Legion of Honor

Paris.—In recognition of his service to the French picture industry, the French government has honored Sidney R. Kent by making him a member of the Legion of Honor. France is particularly grateful to him for the progress of the local Fox branch.

Two New Allied Units Formed in New England

New York.—Two more units have been organized by the Allied States national association. They are the Allied Theatre Owners of New Hampshire and the Allied Theatre Owners of Vermont.

Kober on 'Moon' Script

Universal yesterday borrowed Arthur Kober from MGM to write the script of "Moon Mullins," based on the comic strip by Frank Willard. Edmund Grainger is the producer and no cast or director has been assigned as yet.

New Term For Baum

Sam Goldwyn yesterday wrote out a new ticket for Vicki Baum and keeps the writer with him for another year. She will write an original screen play for Anna Sten. The Schulberg-Feldman and Gurney office negotiated the deal.

'Louisiana' Good Example of a Flop

"LOUISIANA"
(Robert Mintz Production)

Direction .....Arthur Hoerl
Author.....J. Augustus Smith
Cast: Laura Bowman, Edna Barr, Lionel Monagas, J. Augustus Smith, Morris McKenny.

Hesitating deftly between the power of Voodoo and the might of sweetness and light, "Louisiana" fails to make much headway in any direction, and, so far as entertainment goes, is at an almost continuous standstill.

The picture, with an all-negro cast, is transferred to the screen intact from the stage, including the painted scenery, the long speeches and the stage technique. It is just what little theatres all over the country revel in.

With the exception of one scene—the revival meeting where the combined efforts of singing, hysteria, and a swell villain bring about a good, high excitement—the film is pretty dull. Most of the speeches of the old witch woman are in rhymed couplets and the rest of the dialogue is colorless.

J. Augustus Smith wrote the play; Arthur Hoerl directed, and Laura Bowman, Lionel Monagas, Edna Barr, the author and Morris McKenny stand out in the cast.

The picture is not for any house in any community.

'Broadway Bill' Set Back to Next Monday

Harry Cohn pushed "Broadway Bill" back to a start next Monday on the Tanforan racetrack. Technical crew has been on the location the past week.

Clarence Muse and Raymond Walburn, of the cast, have been working in Eddie Small's "Count of Monte Cristo" at Pathe.

Alan Crosland Will Direct 'Howling Dog'

Alan Crosland was assigned the direction of the "Case of the Howling Dog," at Warners yesterday. Gordon Westcott, Russell Hicks and Robert Barrat are slated for the cast.

Ben Markson wrote the screen play from the Erle Stanley Gardner story.

Jason Starts Short

Leigh Jason put the first of Lee Marcus' musical shorts into production yesterday at Radio, Walter Woolf starred as a crooner. Keye Luke, Chinese artist, makes his acting debut as Woolf's valet. Dorothy Lee, Eddie Kane and Hazel Forbes are also in it.

Zanuck Off to Africa

Darryl Zanuck, Mrs. Zanuck and Harry Wardell are all ready to plunge into wildest Safariland on their hunting expedition, William Goetz was informed by cable Tuesday. They will probably return to European civilization in about three weeks.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

This really should come under the heading of "Confession Stories," all things considered, but it happens to work itself in with all the trouble that picture companies have been having recently with libel suits, etc.

A spy story was finished just a few days ago at one of the major studios. Most of the characters in the book from which it is taken are still living. Because of this, the star of the picture was considerably worried over what might happen to the picture abroad, and, before shooting started, he went in to see the head of the studio. The head assured the actor that the author of the book had given him full permission to make as many changes for picture purposes as he might think necessary. And then the studio head went further. He RE-ASSURED the actor by saying, "And you know, I haven't been a butcher all these years for nothing!" He's telling us.

•

The castle that Douglas Fairbanks has leased for himself is quite something, we hear. It's located at North Mymms Park in Hatfield, Herts, and was originally bought by J. P. Morgan for his sister. This little shack consists of EIGHTY-TWO bedrooms and the monocle that Doug is now wearing. It takes a staff of fifty servants to keep the place in order.

Now, bearing in mind the eighty-two bedrooms, it seems that Tom Geraghty is at present occupying the West Wing of the castle. Some time ago, Geraghty almost gave Doug an attack of high blood pressure when he showed Fairbanks a letter he had just received from his son, Gerald, who said he was motoring down to see Tom, and Tom very naively asked Doug: "Do you think you can put Gerald up over night?"

•

After all, maybe it isn't such a bad break to make picture tests at Universal, because it's almost a cinch bet that, while Universal is debating the question of "to sign, or not to sign," some other studio will offer you a contract. In the last couple of weeks, one producer-director over there has made four screen tests of gals in the vain hope of casting a picture he is anxious to get started. One of the gals was promptly signed by MGM and another, Astrid Allyn, was snapped up immediately by Frank Lloyd, who has given her the second lead in "Servants' Entrance." Miss Allyn is expected to be "san-sational," but the director who made all the tests is still without a leading lady for his picture, and is seriously considering becoming an agent.

Borzage Starting Back

Warners yesterday received word that the Frank Borzage company of "Flirtation Walk" is due to wind up work in the East today and leave for the coast in order to get back early next week.

Para. Delegates To Learn of New Deal

New York.—It is understood that many of the details of the Paramount reorganization plan are reposing in the pocket of General Manager George Schaefer, who left here last night for the Los Angeles convention, and that the first announcement of them will be to the delegates.

Russell Holman, of the production department, started West Tuesday and is expected to make the keynote production speech at the meeting. He will announce the season's plans and the acquisition of new material. It is believed that the convention will not last the full week, as originally planned.

Lupe and Jack Benny For 'The Girl Friend'

William Rowland yesterday signed Lupe Velez and Jack Benny for spots in "The Girl Friend," which he is producing independently for Columbia.

Jack Haley and Ann Sothern have the leads and Russell Mack directs. Benny will move to Columbia when he completes his work in "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," which Edward Small now has in production.

Barrymore and Young In 'Death on Diamond'

With Franchot Tone out of "Death on the Diamond" and in "Four Walls," MGM yesterday assigned Lionel Barrymore and Robert Young to the top spots in the former, which Edward Sedgwick will direct.

Edith Van Cleve Set For 'Age of Innocence'

Edith Van Cleve, one of Broadway's top comedy bets, gets her first chance to show what she can do in pictures in Radio's "Age of Innocence."

The studio also engaged Julie Hayden for a leading role under Philip Moeller's direction. The Beyer-MacArthur office closed both deals.

Alice Brady Signed For 'The Gay Divorce'

Alice Brady was signed and sealed for "The Gay Divorce" by Zion Myers yesterday and production is now set to start June 2. Mark Sandrich directs the Radio film, with Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire bracketed at the top.

Dumbrille Back in Cast

Douglas Dumbrille got his assignment in "Broadway Bill" back again yesterday. When he appeared tied up for a time in "Stamboul Quest" at MGM, Louis Calhern was assigned the Columbia part. Calhern, in turn, was unable to get away from "The Count of Monte Cristo."

Edington Services

Funeral services for Talfourd C. Edington, 75, father of Harry Edington, will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at the Hollywood chapel, Hollywood cemetery. Mr. Edington died Tuesday night at his son's home on Glen Feliz boulevard.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Forrester Harvey, Sterling Holloway, Samuel S. Hinds, Harry Todd and Paul Harvey to "Broadway Bill," Columbia.

Huntley Gordon, Wallis Clark, Maidel Turner and Matt McHugh to "Gaily I Sin'," Majestic-Darmour.

Edgar Norton and Marjorie Gateson for "Million Dollar Ransom," Universal.

Tom Hanlon, KFI announcer, David Worth, Russ Brown, Lita Chevret, Betty Francisco, Georgia Caine, Lloyd Whitlock, Guinn Williams and Baxter Gamble to "Romance in the Rain," Universal.

Esther Muir for "Caravan," Fox, through O'Reilly-Mann.

Lane Chandler and Roger Gray for "Merry Widow," MGM, by O'Reilly-Mann.

Ian Wolfe for "The Fountain," Radio, by O'Reilly-Mann.

Richard Tucker for "All Good Americans," by O'Reilly-Mann.

Georgette Rhodes, by Menifee I. Johnstone, to "Caravan," Fox.

Walter Walker, by Freddie Fralick, to "A Lost Lady," Warners.

Mary Loos to "Student Tour," MGM.

James Burke, through Harry Wurtzel, for "Serenade," Fox.

C. Henry Gordon for "We Live Again," Sam Goldwyn.

Mario Ceminici for "The Fountain," Radio.

Harry C. Bradley and Thomas Braidon, by Max Shagrin, for Monogram's "Tomorrow's Youth."

Leonard Carey to Radio for "The Age of Innocence."

Gladys Sale and Sidney Miller to Warners' "A Lady Surrenders," by Max Shagrin.

Ralph Morgan and Bill (stage) Boyd to Edward Small's "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round."

Rogers To Do Picture Based on Hippodrome

Charles R. Rogers is going to make a picture called "Hippodrome," written around the colorful history of the great New York showhouse of that name. The story has been written by Ralph Murphy, who, it is expected, will direct it.

Lederman Ahead of Time

D. Ross Lederman romped across the finish line with "By Persons Unknown" yesterday at Columbia, beating the shooting schedule by three days. Ralph Bellamy and Shirley Grey are leads in the police detective No. 4 picture.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

damage in loss of business and financial profits.

It's hard to believe that anyone connected with our business, disgruntled because of things that have gone against them, would seek such retaliation, but it's true and we can prove it.

But what's the use?

Reg Denny's Daughter Makes Debut With Him

Barbara Denny, sixteen-year-old daughter of Reginald Denny, makes her first picture appearance in Universal's "One More River," her father having a featured spot in the same cast.

Three old favorites were also signed. They are Stuart Holmes, Grace Cunard and Luke Cosgrove.

Dem. Party Still in Debt to Joe Kennedy

New York.—According to a report just issued by the Democratic National Committee, it still owes $33,576 to Joseph P. Kennedy, $17,500 to the Columbia Broadcasting Company, and $107,571 to the National Broadcasting Company.

New Paramount Writer

Paramount has signed Captain E. H. Robinson to write the screen play of "Eyes of the Eagle," an original by Nell Shipman. Cary Grant and Frances Drake have the leads.

Buchman on Musical

Sidney Buchman is writing the screen play for "Hello, Big Boy," the musical Felix Young is preparing for Columbia from an old Frank Capra silent picture.

Cameramen Say Studios Chiseling

At a meeting of the first camera members of the ASC Monday night it was revealed that there are various attempts being made by some of the studios to chisel on the salaries of the cameramen.

The chief squawk at the meeting was against Fox studio, where, it was charged, the cameramen's salaries during travel time have been cut in half, and in one instance the crew was called back to work without giving them the required 8-hour rest period. The men were assured the ASC would go after an adjustment on these matters.

Cohen and Strayer to Sub For Invincible

Herbert Cohen, son of Maury Cohen, and Frank Strayer will head the production affairs of Invincible Pictures during the trip to England of Cohen and George Batcheller of Chesterfield. The associates sail June 22 to arrange their European outlets for next season.

Young Cohen and Strayer will produce the eighth and last of the current Invincibles. The story is being written by Karl Brown.

Kid Player For Para.

Paramount yesterday signed Billy Lee, a youngster of three, and assigned him to "Wagon Wheels" with Randolph Scott as his first. Arthur Jacobson and Charles Barton will direct.

London's Smartest Address—
GROSVENOR HOUSE
PARK LANE . . .

is also London's most modern hotel. An apartment at Grosvenor House provides an actual "home from home," replete with every modern aid to greater comfort.

The location of Grosvenor House is a happy blend of convenience and charm; in and around the hotel London's social life moves; near by are the best shops and the theatres; just across the way is London's great garden, Hyde Park.

Life is amusing, easy and pleasant at

Grosvenor House, London

Cable Address for Reservations: GROVHOWS, AUDLEY, LONDON

Para. Bondholders Petition Up June 18

New York.—A hearing will be given by Federal Judge Knox next Monday on the petition filed by the Frank Vanderlip bondholders' committee with regard to the Paramount reorganization. This petition was filed under the new Federal bankruptcy laws.

The committee represents holders of $12,536,000 of bonds, which is more than half of the total of two bond issues outstanding.

'Ready For Love' Goes To Gering To Direct

Paramount yesterday assigned Marion Gering to direct "Ready for Love," which will have Richard Arlen and Ida Lupino in the top spots. The studio also signed Elisha Cook Jr., who plays the second lead in the New York production of "Ah, Wilderness," to a two-picture deal, and will bring him here for a role in "Ready for Love" as his first.

Rowland's Second Set

William Rowland's second picture on his two-picture deal with Columbia as an independent producer will be "Naughty Nineties." No production plans will be set for it until he has finished "The Girl Friend."

Shumate on Brown Yarn

"Police Ambulance" is the scripting title of the story Harold Shumate is writing to start Johnny Mack Brown on his Columbia action series.

ACTORS BURNED BY SLURS ON THEIR PRIVATE LIVES

(Continued from Page 1)

consider their suggestive and immoral actions on the screen as a matter of course and in harmony with their lives."

The actors set forth their side and their resentment in the June issue of the Screen Player, the magazine of the Screen Actors' Guild, out today. Editorially, the magazine declares that the clergy of the nation has another duty in addition to those of saving souls and protecting morals, and that duty is to tell the truth. The editorial says:

"All Hollywood has been amazed by the tirades recently addressed against the private lives of its actors by several leading church dignitaries.

"Blanket moralistic accusations against a people or a community are almost never well-founded and such sweeping maledictions are bound to defeat themselves by their own excessive vituperation.

"Nevertheless, in justice to their superiors—and certainly also to their parishioners—the priests, ministers and rabbis of the various faiths, who live in Hollywood, should immediately inform these prelates as to the true status of affairs.

"Hollywood is neither a Sodom nor a Gomorrah. It has no more—and probably even less—than the average American proportion of social crime and moral dereliction. And it also has its share of thriving churches and church members who live up to their religious tenets and moral principles as faithfully as the inhabitants of any other average community.

"Ministers of Hollywood—you know the facts. It is your duty to tell the world the truth as well as to spread the gospel."

Still Man, Unassisted, Produces Two-Reeler

Roman Freulich, Universal still man, wrote, directed, produced and financed a two-reeler, "Prisoners," which has received favorable attention by the studio, where a deal for its purchase is on the fire.

The picture has been booked to open at the Filmarte Theatre in three weeks. George Sari and Jack Rockwell are in it.

Marcia Remy To Keep On With Screen Career

Universal has given Marcia Remy, assistant to Casting Chief Dan Kelly, permission to continue her picture career and hold her job with the studio at the same time.

Her next spot will be in "Romance in the Rain," which Stuart Walker directs. She made her debut in "Affairs of a Gentleman."

Crawford in Guild

Joan Crawford joined the Screen Actors Guild yesterday.

Victor Fleming To Direct 'Indo-China'

Shelving "High School" for a time, MGM has assigned Victor Fleming to direct "Indo-China," which will probably be the next Joan Crawford vehicle. Arthur Richman is already assigned to the cast. Fleming just completed "Treasure Island" and was slated to handle "High School."

The studio has a company on location in Indo-China shooting backgrounds for the picture, which Bernard Hyman will produce.

Clements on Screen Play of His Own Story

Universal yesterday signed Colin Clements to do the screen play of "I Murdered a Man," an original story by himself and Florence Ryerson, which the studio purchased early this week.

Edward Arnold will probably have the top spot if a loan can be worked out with B. P. Schulberg. Edward Laemmle will direct. The Clements deal was negotiated by Jerry Adams.

'Fountain' Plays Today

After two days rehearsals, John Cromwell starts the shooting on "The Fountain" with Ann Harding today at Radio. New members of the cast are Ralph Forbes, Richard Abbott, Betty Alden, Barbara Barondess and Sara Haden. Brian Aherne has the male lead.

SO FAR THIS YEAR—

Screenplays By

LEONARD PRASKINS

"LOOKING FOR TROUBLE"+ - - - Twentieth Century
"THE LAST GENTLEMAN" - - - - Twentieth Century
"HERE COMES THE GROOM"+ - - - Chas. R. Rogers
"WE LIVE AGAIN" - - - - Samuel Goldwyn

Now Writing

"BARBARY COAST" - - - - Samuel Goldwyn

+With a Collaborator.

MUSIC and LYRICS

for

"KISS and MAKE UP"

by

RALPH RAINGER

and

LEO ROBIN

Management
Small-Landau Company

M-G-M STUDIOS,
5 READING DEPT.
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 32. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Friday, June 15, 1934

BIG B'WAY HOUSES POOL

TRADE VIEWS by W. R. WILKERSON

•WE believe that most of the troubles that this industry has suffered and will suffer have and will be brought on by parasites and racketeers who have been making their living out of the picture business.

We believe that selfish exhibitors have caused most of the legislation leveled against motion pictures.

We believe that a certain crowd of independent theatre owners, men and women who have never contributed anything to the advancement of this business, are the individuals directly responsible for this great activity on the part of the Catholic Church.

We believe it because we know it, and we know it because men high in that Church have told us and named the men.

How do you like that?

•

It is bad enough for us to be attacked from without, but for individuals who have sustained themselves in some manner or other from the picture business to have inspired such attacks, it's a little too ,too. But, nevertheless, true.

Those racketeering exhibitors, who find it pretty tough to make a living for the simple reason that they are incapable of conducting a business that is as profitable as that of their competitor, feel they are entitled to as much profit as that competitor. So, in an effort to check their neighbors' progress, they go to the reformers and cheap politicians, to the individual who would wreck and ruin anything to get his name in the newspapers, and unload a lot of bunk. Those fellows do not know that that unloading will hurt them just as much as it will their competitors and that it will make it harder for them to attain the progress they believe they should have WITHOUT WORKING FOR IT.

•

What pictures need, and have NEVER had, is a united front on the part of the members of this industry. Disgruntled individuals, whether exhibitors, writers or executives who have been shoved aside to make room for better men, will never better their condition through furnishing ammunition for outsiders to shoot at us.

But it is being done. How are you to stop it?

Hughes Will Make 'Racket' As Talkie

New York. — Howard Hughes intends to produce the Bartlett Cormack play, "The Racket," as a talking picture. The Hughes Industries Co. Ltd., the assignee of the rights to the play, has acquired Paramount's distribution rights for $200.

Catholic Boycott Spreads Rapidly

New York.—The boycott urged by the Catholic Church against offensive motion pictures is spreading rapidly. In Baltimore yesterday the League of Catholic Students formulated plans to assist in the suppression of banned pictures by issuing a weekly blacklist and approved list in the Baltimore Catholic Review. The students will

(Continued on Page 3)

Romberg Coming To Do Score For 'Tiptoes'

Sigmund Romberg, dean of Broadway's tunesters, will be brought to the coast to do the music for "Tiptoes," Vicki Baum's original of ballet life, for which Oscar Hammerstein is now doing a libretto at MGM.

Dudley Murphy is slated to direct Ramon Novarro and Evelyn Laye in it.

Curtiz Flying East on Quick Trip to Europe

Michael Curtiz is flying to New York this morning and will sail for Europe in the first available steamer. He will be gone four weeks.

Capitol To Drop Stage Shows For Straight Picture Policy In Deal With The Paramount

New York.—Contracts will be signed within a day or two for the first of several pooling arrangements by the big Broadway pictures houses. This one is a deal between Paramount and MGM whereby the Capitol will drop stage shows and its orchestra in favor of a straight picture policy, while the Paramount Theatre will continue to feature stage shows.

The Capitol will have its pick of the Paramount product and will inaugurate the new policy on June 29, starting with the new Mae West picture, "It Ain't No Sin."

The deal also permits the Paramount theatre to play some of the MGM product and "Murder in the

(Continued on Page 4)

Radio Work Blocking Fox-Joe Cook Picture

New York.—Fox is in a jam on the Joe Cook deal. The studio, still lacking a story for him, has his production slated for work in early July, but will first have to clear prior contracts for radio broadcasting which would prevent his going to the coast and compel the company to make the picture here.

Pathe Meeting Delayed

New York.—The meeting of the Pathe directors to vote on the reorganization plan, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed until next Tuesday to await the return of A. B. Poole, the treasurer, now in California.

Berman Steps Down To Simple Producer

Pandro Berman yesterday stepped out of his position as executive producer for Radio Pictures and becomes simply a producer on the lot, with a program of thirteen pictures to be made under his supervision. The spot he now holds will not be filled, B. B. Kahane remaining as studio boss. Berman will remain in his present job until the details of the new deal have been worked out.

On the list which Berman will supervise are two for Katharine Hepburn —"Forsyte Saga" and "Little Minister"; "Roberta," starring Irene Dunne; "Radio City Revels," with Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, and pictures starring Francis Lederer and Ann Harding.

Reorganization Plan Ends Roxy Receivership

New York.—Federal Judge Caffey has appointed Howard S. Cullman, who has been acting as receiver for the Roxy Theatre, a trustee under the reorganization plan. This automatically eliminates the receivership.

Connolly and Lewis Washed Up at Radio

Myles Connolly and David Lewis have washed up their deals as associate producers for Radio and are off the studio payroll. Neither had a contract, but each produced a group of pictures for the company.

Spigelgass to Hospital

Leonard Spigelgass, Universal scenario head and associate producer, enters the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital tomorrow to undergo a tonsilectomy. Dr. Sylvan Goldberg will perform the operation.

CHAS. R. ROGERS STAYS AS PARAMOUNT PRODUCER

Abandoning his plans to become an independent producer, Charles R. Rogers yesterday signed up with Paramount to produce ten pictures for the company within the next year.

He will be a "Paramount producer" and not a "producer for Paramount," the difference being less independence and the use of a production staff from the company roster instead of his own staff. Paramount takes over all the properties Rogers has acquired and also all contracts that he may have with players.

"Emanuel Cohen convinced me that this was a wise thing to do," said

(Continued on Page 4)

Jane Murfin To Produce 'Lafitte The Pirate'

Jane Murfin's first assignment as a producer for Radio, although it is still unofficial, will be the Francis Lederer picture, "Lafitte, the Pirate." Sidney Sutherland is writing the screen play from a story by F. A. Kummer.

Probe by M. P. Council

New York.—Arthur Butler Graham, an attorney long identified with motion picture affairs, will conduct a survey of motion picture trade practices for Mrs. Belmont's Motion Picture Research Council.

Edward E. Paramore Jr. SCREEN PLAY and DIALOGUE (in collaboration) SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S "BABY TAKE A BOW"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

A well-known artists' manager, noted for his chiseling proclivities these many years, almost put one over a few weeks ago—but not quite. As he drove onto a major studio lot in his brand new car, he espied a famous writing team, talking with their own manager. The writers admired the shiny new gas buggy with much enthusiasm, and the owner promptly suggested that one of them ride around the lot with him a minute to see what a swell car it really was. One of the writers got in. They hadn't gone ten yards before the artists' manager started to "sell" him on how much he could do for him and his scribbling partner, and just why the team should come under his wing. The writer was so aghast at the brazen tactics that he spilled the works to his partner and their agent the minute he got out of the chiseler's car! And "it's all over town."

•

. No wonder the Board of Health got after a certain major stujo for its negligence in the matter of sterilizing costumes! It's just too bad they had to wait until one of the extras got skin trouble from wearing one of the garments. BUT what they really should go after is the big director on the same lot (with obviously sadistic tendencies) who used a swimming pool for a big scene for several days, the pool-water being absolutely stagnant and unchanged during that time. The director took great delight in making the actors jump in to the dirty water day after day—and the actors KNEW it was dirty!

•

Sam Berman, famous caricaturist, is here on a vacation. But he has eight or nine armfuls of his hilarious pictures along with him. The drawings (most of them in color) hung in the Algonquin for over a year, and Berman may exhibit them for a week or so in Hollywood before he treks East again. He does those marvelous covers for "Esquire" too—and most of his stuff is more humorous than venomous. Anyway, he likes Hollywood—it's so full of MATERIAL.

New York REVIEWS

"SUCH WOMEN ARE DANGEROUS"

Fox prod.; director, James Flood; writers, Vera Caspary, Jane Storm, Oscar M. Sheridan

Roxy Theatre

Herald-Tribune: It may have amounted to more in Miss Vera Caspary's story, "Odd Thursday," upon which it was based, but in its transfer it has lost much in character development, smoothly contrived situations and authenticity. For the drama on the screen is highly fictitious, a little dull, and rather hackneyed in treatment.

American: Aided and abetted by a cast which would do justice to a Noel Coward play, some of the most refreshing dialogue of the year and a story which carries you along on gales of mirth before suddenly dropping you into a murder court, one of the smartest comedies of the season arrived at the Roxy Theatre yesterday.

Sun: The Roxy's new talkie started out as light comedy; half way along it changed its mind and turned first into a drama, then into a murder melodrama. The three moods didn't always fuse as smoothly as must have been hoped. "Such Women Are Dangerous," although mildly amusing, never manages to be very exciting.

Times: The Roxy's new film passes out a few laughs and achieves a grade of fair, minus.

News: On the whole, the photoplay is diverting and more than once lively and gay.

Post: When Henrietta Crosman intimates to Herbert Mundin that he is something less than a half-wit, that still leaves him at the head of the class that participates in the latest Fox product, "Such Women Are Dangerous," now on display at the Roxy. And she is pretty loose with her fractions at that.

World-Telegram: You probably won't remember a thing about "Such Women Are Dangerous" by next Monday, but while you're watching it you'll have a pretty good time in the same way you have with an entertaining detective novel, preferably one in which Reginald Fortune solves the murders. The cast is good—the production tasteful.

Journal: Thanks to an excellent performance by Mr. Baxter the film resolves itself into fair hot-weather entertainment.

Radio Eastern Reps Off To Convention

New York.—The Eastern and foreign representatives of RKO-Radio leave here tonight for the company's sales convention, which is to be held at the Drake Hotel in Chicago, starting Monday.

The New York contingent includes Ned Depinet, Jules Levy, Robert Sisk, Cresson Smith, E. L. McEvoy and several others. Among the foreigners are Sol Newman, B. P. Lion, Robert Trillo and Jacob Glucksman. Another group, headed by Phil Reisman, leaves tomorrow.

Do You Want a Boat?

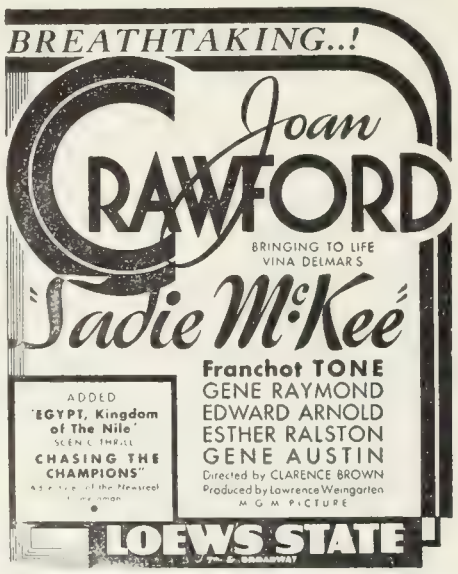
45-ft. cruiser, Seattle Built Dream Boat; 180 H.P.; Scripps motor; 4-cylinder Miller auxiliary motor; sleeps 6. Will sell at great sacrifice. Write Box 305, Hollywood Reporter, or phone HO-3957.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES

you can borrow on

★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles

$10 to $300



24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments

Loans Arranged by the

LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

Col. Borrows 'Skippy'

Columbia yesterday borrowed Alison Skipworth from Paramount for a leading role in "The Captain Hates the Sea," the Lewis Milestone production

Studios Paying Up on Extra Complaints

Mrs. Mabel Kinney, chairman of the Code Committee for Extras, yesterday announced that a total of 367 complaints of code violations have been filed by extras. Action has been taken on 240, and $852.26 has been collected from the studios.

Tonight the grievance sub-committee will act on the balance. Only two objections have been made by studios to the decisions of the committee.

Kahn and Donaldson Doing Last For Cantor

Gus Kahn and Walter Donaldson have started on the last two numbers they will write for Eddie Cantor's "Son of a Sheik." They have already completed three songs which Sam Goldwyn will use in the picture.

George Bertholon Ill

George Bertholon has been away from his post as a Monogram supervisor for the past three days. He has a nervous breakdown and is recovering in a private sanitorium.

ATTENTION

5-room apartment in La Fontaine Apartments. Beautifully furnished. Available on long or short lease, $200 a month. Call HEmpstead 7053 for apointment.

SILENT CAMERA PUZZLE PUT FLATLY UP TO THREE FIRMS

If They Can't Make One, Industry Will

The eight major studios that are supporting the Research Council of the Academy have definitely decided that they are going to have a silent camera that is really silent. In order to get one, they have declared themselves in on one of the most revolutionary moves in the history of technical development in the picture business.

They have notified the Bell & Howell Company, Mitchell Camera Company and the De Brie Camera Company, the three largest camera concerns in the world, that they MUST produce a silent camera, even if it means the pooling of the finances, patents and technical brains of the three organizations, with a camera made up of parts from all three.

Further, the eight studios are prepared to toss in unlimited finances, turn over studio-controlled patents and give of the technical knowledge of all the studio experts who have been massed on a special silent camera committee to help solve the problem.

Samuel Briskin, chairman of the Council, last week called representatives of the camera companies to a conference. He told them emphatically that they must produce results, and indicated that if the companies, either individually or working together, cannot produce a silent camera, the studios will set to work and make their own.

The first step in the new move is under way. Arrangements have been made with ERPI for a comprehensive, scientific noise analysis of the cameras of the three companies named above. Briskin says that the expense of this will be borne equally by the Research Council and the camera companies. When the tests are finished it is expected that the ailments in the cameras will be discovered, and then will come the question of what to do.

Briskin told the camera company representatives that the Council's camera committee would make suggestions and recommendations. He further stated that, if the camera companies thought these suggestions not worth trying, the Council will throw in the funds necesary to try out the ideas of the studio men.

Briskin also told them that if any studio-owned patents stand in the way of development, the Council will immediately start work to secure a perpetual license for the use of them.

In other words, a camera that is silent must be produced. The studios insist. They will throw in patents, brains and money. But the camera companies must be willing to cast aside pride of company name and years of background, toss their own patents, brains and money into the pot and perhaps in the end it may mean just one big camera company.

Astrid Allyn to Fox

Fox has placed Astrid Allyn under a term deal as a member of the studio's stock company. She goes into "Servants' Entrance."

Flash! Buster Keaton Will Laugh in Picture

Paris.—Buster Keaton is due here soon to play in "The King of the Champ Elysees," a picture to be made by Margot Film. The company announces two novelties for the picture: Keaton will laugh, and a chorus of 300 girls will be imported from America.

Joan Bennett Set As Lederer Lead

Joan Bennett was signed by Paramount yesterday for the bracket spot with Francis Lederer in "Pursuit of Happiness." The Schulberg, Feldman and Gurney office negotiated the deal.

It is reported that part of the Radio-Paramount deal for Lederer involves Radio's getting the right to sell the picture to its exhibitors to meet the August 28 release date scheduled for the next Lederer-Radio production.

Geo. Bilson Producing 'Dames' Trailer Short

Encouraged by the success of the 600-foot trailer short on "Twenty Million Sweethearts," released under the title, "Your Sweetheart and Mine," Warners are producing a similar trailer short on "Dames."

George R. Bilson has directed most of it. All members of the cast of "Dames" will be seen in it, but completion is held up until Dick Powell returns from West Point.

Butcher Set For Two

E. W. Butcher's first production assignment since relinquishing the spot as production manager at Fox is scheduled to be "Angel Face," which will have James Dunn, Alice Faye and Shirley Temple. He will also handle George Ade's "The County Chairman," with Will Rogers.

Indies Want Lowe

C. C. Burr and William Smith are negotiating with Edmund Lowe to play the lead in the "Manhunter Mysteries," a series of four features based on a radio program by Stewart Sterling, which the concern will make at the General Service studio.

'Lost Lady' on Location

Warners' "Lost Lady" company, headed by Barbara Stanwyck, Frank Morgan and Phillip Reed, leaves tomorrow for location shooting at Lake Arrowhead. The troupe will be there three days. Alfred Green directs.

'Kelly' Off Till July 6

Because Guy Robertson will not arrive here from the "Hold Your Horses" show in Chicago until July 1, Monogram yesterday postponed the scheduled start of "King Kelly of the U.S.A." until July 6.

Robinsons Returning

New York.—Edward G. Robinson and his wife leave today by train on their return to the coast.

Monogram Moving To Pathe Lot July 1

Monogram Pictures moves to Culver City July 1, making its production base at the Pathe studio. It has leased space at General Service Studios the past year on a month-to-month basis.

Trem Carr closed the new leasing agreement with G. B. Howe, general manager of the lot, a few minutes before checking in yesterday noon at the Cedars of Lebanon hospital. He will be operated upon this morning by Dr. H. L. Updegraff, and hopes to be out in time to superintend the moving.

Increased space requirements and the attraction of the Pathe forty acres with its standing sets, are Monogram's reasons for moving.

Exhib Loses Case on Vitagraph Complaint

The Los Angeles Grievance Board yesterday found in favor of Vitagraph, Inc., in its complaint charging that A. R. Miller had tried to avoid fulfillment of a contract for pictures by telling the film company he had sold his theatre, the Baldwin Park.

Vitagraph produced testimony showing that Miller had not disposed of the theatre, and the Board ordered Miller to fulfill his contracts.

One For Negulesco

Jean Negulesco has been signed by Paramount to direct "A Son Comes Home," which is slated to go into production June 25. Arthur Nolan will play the part of the son, and Arthur Sircon will handle the dialogue.

Markey-Scola at Para.

Gene Markey, returning from his trip to Europe, checks in today with his team-mate, Kathryn Scola, at Paramount to write the screen play for "One Hour Late," which Bayard Veiller is producing.

O'Hara Reports to Para.

John O'Hara, New York novelist and newspaperman, has arrived to start his Paramount contract.

Picture Boycott Spreads

(Continued from Page 1)

also write to producers, warning them of the boycott.

Baltimore exhibitors ducked from under by saying that they are "innocent victims of the block booking system, who must accept without elimination all pictures produced."

In Boston an active boycott has been started. Rev. R. M. Sullivan, of Boston College, stated that 75 per cent of 130 pictures shown in that city up to May 6 violated the morality code.

In Buffalo also the boycott is on. A list of proscribed pictures there includes "Laughing Boy," "He Was Her Man," "Murder at the Vanities," "Dr. Monica" and "Life of Virgie Winters."

Not that it MATTERS

by Helen Gwynn

And still another Mrs. Pat Campbell story. It would seem that in her last picture, Mrs. Pat was required to speak a couple of slightly vulgar lines. Mrs. Pat fought against them, but to no avail, and the scene was finally shot with the lines in it. As Mrs. Campbell was going in to see the rushes, she asked whether the picture would be released in England and was told that most certainly it would be. Then, after seeing and hearing herself in the objectionable scene, she exclaimed: "Well, there goes my chance of ever being buried in Westminster."

Which reminds us that a few years ago. Constance Collier made newspaper headlines in a rather messy suit and, because Constance Collier was seemingly involved, the tabloids had no end of fun printing lurid stories, etc. And the only thing that bothered Miss Collier was that the scandal would break in England and, if that happened, she would receive no more invitations to the dear Queen's Garden Party, an exclusive little affair held once a year to which no less than a thousand people are annually invited.

•

They've been having a lot of fun lately over on the Warner lot with a certain Mr. Ottinger, who seems to be first cousin to "Where's Elmer?" Particularly if there's someone new at the studio does the fun wax fast and furious, with the neophyte receiving constant messages from Ottinger, advising him to arrive at the studio more promptly, do more work, not take so much time out for lunch. They even take to sending telegrams at three o'clock in the morning requesting the newcomer's presence at some far away spot or for some phony conference. Of course, these are dull days on the Warner lot and the boys haven't much to do, but they're beginning to wonder about this Ottinger to the extent that they really believe he might exist, and will their faces be red if he does! Not only that, but with all the phony orders being given around the place and everybody playing wise, the first thing you know they're going to laugh off a bona fide order from a real exec and then the real fun will begin.

We think the British have a far more subtle way of getting producers to clean up pictures than we have. They admit that there is no sure measure of the good or harm a picture can do. BUT, they do appeal to the producer on the pocket-book basis. They argue that child audiences are practically nil because the children themselves are not sufficiently interested in the subject matter of the so-called salacious movies, thereby losing the picture industry a tremendous income. There are thousands of kids and, for every child admitted, at least one grown-up to go with him. And that's an argument a producer can see some sense in and try to do something about.

NRA ORDERS COMPLAINTS GIVEN TO LABOR BOARD

The long battle by Judge Ben Lindsey and George Creel to prevent the turning over to the Studio Labor Committee and the Code Committee for Extras of complaints filed before the judge by extras and studio technicians was lost yesterday, when, acting under orders from Washington, these complaints were turned over by Charles Cunningham, head of the local NRA compliance office.

There was a lot of mystery attached to the turning over of the claims. Neither Donald Renshaw, new head of the NRA in Cailfornia, nor Cunningham would either admit or deny that the complaints had been given to the committees.

But a package containing 65 extras' complaints arrived at the office of the Extras' Committee, with a letter explaining that they were turned over on orders from Washington. The same is said to have been done with those going to the Studio Labor Committee.

Scores of technicians who had signed the complaints wrote Judge Lindsey, demanding that their complaints never be turned over to the Casey committee. He agreed, and was backed by Creel. But both the Judge and Creel have resigned, so they have nothing more to say.

Picture Notables Headed For Europe

New York.—Among the motion picture notables who will sail for Europe on the Ile de France tomorrow are Joseph M. Schenck, Maurice Silverstone and Etienne Pallos, all of United Artists; Director Sam Wood, Carl Laemmle Sr., Joe Weil, Jack Ross, Dave Bader, Lou Brock and Nat Goldstone.

'U' and Clive Closing

Universal is closing a deal with Colin Clive, outside of his Warner contract for three pictures, in order to get the player for the "Return of Frankenstein," which will have Boris Karloff in the leading role.

Faragoh on 'Joan of Arc'

Francis Faragoh was assigned yesterday by Radio to write another screen play for "Joan of Arc," which is to star Katharine Hepburn under Pandro Berman's supervision.

Rogers Stays at Para.

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Rogers last night. "He said the company wanted me to remain, and our deal, which includes a very nice drawing account and a percentage of profits, is entirely satisfactory to me.

"I am sort of following along in the train of other producers who, at times, have wanted to go independent, but have found it wiser to tie in with one of the big companies."

Rogers' first under his new deal will be "McFadden's Flats," production on which will start early in September. He leaves for New York by way of the canal in a few days and will be back in August.

Up-to-the-Minute Casting News

Christian Rub, by Al Kingston, and Margaret Nearing, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to "Romance in the Rain," Universal.

Finis Barton and Leonie Pray, by Sackin, to "Caravan," Fox.

John Larkin, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, for a Ruth Etting short.

Jean Perry and Eugene Borden, by Sackin, for "All Good Americans," MGM.

George Reed to "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Paramount.

Andre Cheron, Richard Lo, Look Chan to "Now and Forever," Paramount.

Beulah Bondi to "Ready for Love," Paramount.

The Rev. Neal Dodd, Lou Cass, Max Mack and Mary Owen to "You Belong to Me," Paramount.

Arthur Housman for the first of the Todd-Kelly shorts at Roach.

Louise Lincoln Found Dead in Mountain Cabin

Louise Lincoln, office manager of the Cameramen's Local 659 ever since the organization was formed, was found dead in a mountain cabin at Suncrest yesterday morning.

Miss Lincoln had been ill for some time and, several weeks ago, was given a six-weeks leave of absence. She went to the cabin, and reported she was feeling better.

Bancroft Back at Work

George Bancroft was back in "Elmer and Elsie" at Paramount yesterday, his eyes still weak from their Tuesday arc-blinding, and wearing dark glasses between takes. Floyce Brown and Albert Conti were new yesterday in the picture.

Clyde For Col. Series

Andy Clyde signed a Columbia contract yesterday to star in a series of six two-reelers, which Jules White will produce. Clyde just finished two years of shorts with Educational. Lucile Christensen set his ticket.

Junior Signs Novices

New York.—Carl Laemmle Jr. has signed Lee Crowe and Philip Dakin, two young men without previous experience. Crowe is due in Hollywood Sunday and Dakin on Monday.

Big B'way Houses Pool

(Continued from Page 1)

Private Car" has been selected as the first.

The next agreement of the kind expected to be signed is one by which all Warner Brothers product will be transferred to the Roxy Theatre, while the Strand, which has played Warner pictures, is being torn down and a new theatre being built on that site.

ERIC LINDEN

Current Release

"I GIVE MY LOVE"

Universal

"Eric Linden is well nigh perfect as the grown-up son, a keenly etched portrayal . . ."

—Hollywood Reporter.

Management

Richard K. Polimer, Inc.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 33. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Saturday, June 16, 1934

SAM KATZ WILL PRODUCE

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•THE changes under way on the RKO-Radio lot are a healthy sign. Here is a company with great producing potentialities that have been stilted by some incompetent supervision. The fact that Radio has come through with an occasional "Little Women," "Morning Glory" or "Flying Down to Rio," simply shows that there is a kind Providence watching over the studios after all!

Much of the product seems to need the hand of a showman. However, it begins to appear as if that day is past. B. B. Kahane is wielding a broom and sweeping out. He seems to have put his finger on his studio's chief weakness.

Now, if he keeps his eyes straight ahead, he can be on his way to doing big things for his company's product. We think that he will not make the same mistakes over again. He has been in Hollywood long enough to realize that the making of good pictures requires highly efficient and specialized men at the helm—men of background, vision and a natural instinct for producing what the crowd wants.

•

While these men are not easy to find, nevertheless there are many of them in Hollywood, although most of them have never been given an opportunity to produce. They can be garnered from the ranks of seasoned writers—and possibly directors—who have a sense of story combined with good theatre judgment. No one should occupy a producing berth who is not schooled in the technicalities and intricacies of story construction, for no screen play can ever be better than its story.

If Mr. Kahane recruits his new associate producers from a list of writers who have executive ability and the proper theatrical background, he can make an outstanding product, stamped with individuality and box-office.

•

He is on the right track unless he makes the mistake of seeking his new cohorts from the roster of available but ineffective associate producers—men who have never shown anything but mediocrity or "flops" in one studio after another. By their past record, how can he expect them to come

(Continued on Page 2)

Warner Brothers Quitting Germany

New York.—Conditions in Germany having become so bad that it is impossible to overcome the restrictions imposed, Warner Brothers are getting out of the country entirely, closing the Berlin office by July 30.

Broadway Grosses Still In Doldrums

New York.—MGM's "Men in White" made about the best showing of any of the picture on Broadway during the past week, grossing $52,000 at the Capitol theatre. The story for the others was not so happy.

At the Music Hall, "Sisters Under the Skin," got $61,000, while "Many Happy Returns" at the Paramount pulled in only $22,500. "Such Wom-

(Continued on Page 2)

Hearst and Gaumont In Newsreel Tie-up

New York.—The Hearst newsreel interests and the Gaumont newsreel have arranged a tie-up for the interchange of newsreel subjects. The deal was put over by Ed Hatrick and Jeffrey Bernard.

Schnitzer's New Idea

Joseph I. Schnitzer is negotiating with the Western Costume Company with a view to buying out the ownership of the Greenberg Brothers.

Kirkland With Fox

Jack Kirkland has been signed by Fox to do the adaptation of a story called "Sand Hogs," which is what its name implies.

He And Max Gordon To Stage Plays And Later Screen Them; Ralph Kohn To Handle Sales

New York.—The question of what Sam Katz intends to do was settled last night by the news that he has formed a combination with Max Gordon and Ralph Kohn to produce stage plays in New York and then produce them as pictures in Hollywood.

Katz will come West to handle the picture-producing end for Screencraft Productions Inc., as the new company will be called, Gordon attends to the stage productions in New York, and Kohn will handle the distribution, also from New York. No announcement has been made as yet about what properties the new company has acquired for its productions, nor has anything been said about players, directors or a releasing arrangement.

It was announced a few days ago that Ralph Kohn was flying to the coast to confer with producers there about an independent production venture in which he was interested. It now appears that the purpose of his trip was to see what could be done in the matter of studio space.

'Black Hole,' a Coal Mining Yarn, For Muni

Warner Brothers have decided that Paul Muni's next starring picture will be "Black Hole," a story laid in the coal mines and dealing with strikes and labor problems among the miners.

Two plays, one by Harry R. Irving and the other by Judge M. A. Musmano, will be the basis for the movie story. Abe Finkel and Isaac Goldberg, assisted by Muni, will do the screen play.

Oliver and Pitts Slated For 'Tish'

Edna May Oliver probably will have the role of "Tish" when MGM puts the screen version of the Mary Roberts Rinehart stories into production. It was originally intended for Marie Dressler, but her illness has changed the plans.

The picture will not be started before Fall and, in addition to Miss Oliver, Zasu Pitts and Elizabeth Patterson will be in the cast.

Two Pictures Starting Production in the East

New York.—Two features go into work in the East Monday. They are "Woman in the Dark," which Burt Kelly and William Saal are making at the Biograph studio, and "Convention Girl," which will be started at Atlantic City where Luther Reed and Walter Sheridan will shoot exteriors.

'U'-Hale Deal Flops

Alan Hale and Universal failed to agree on figures, so his dickering on a term contract resulted only in the "There's Always Tomorrow" spot. Ted Sloman turns the picture in tonight, after a week of night shooting.

T. Freeland Sailing

New York.—Thornton Freeland sails today on the Ile de France for England where he will direct "Brewster's Millions" for British and Dominions. Lily Damita and Jack Buchanan have the leads.

Radio Borrows Hopkins

Radio yesterday borrowed Miriam Hopkins from Paramount for the lead in "The Richest Girl in the World," an original story by Norman Krasna. William Seiter will direct and Pandro Berman will produce.

MUSIC SECTION WILL BE FORMED IN ACADEMY

The Academy is coming back to life. It is throwing off the cloak of lethargy that has surrounded it for many months, and is preparing to get back in the Hollywood swim with a bang that its members feel will restore it to the place it once held.

Its first public step in a campaign that has been secretly under way for some time was made yesterday when a luncheon was staged at the Academy quarters for a group of music and song writers and studio music execu-

(Continued on Page 7)

Beatrice Lillie Coming To Talk Deal With MGM

New York.—Beatrice Lillie will arrive here on the Europa today to discuss a motion picture contract with MGM. Leo Morrison is handling the negotiations.

Al Altman Coming Out

New York.—Al Altman, Eastern production manager for MGM, leaves here for the coast by way of the canal today, arriving there June 30.

BEN MARKSON Just Completed Screen Play "The Case of the Howling Dog" for Warners

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Free suggestion to any and all producers who would rid themselves quickly of future trouble from church dignitaries: Just announce "The Gadfly," by Elsie Vonick, as a coming production! And watch the hissing die down! . . . Love note: Marlene Dietrich with Douglass Montgomery, dining at the Vendome — and Barbara Barondess, with a new beau, in the next booth! . . . We found a man named Kroum Stankoff in the morning paper yesterday! . . . Mrs. Don Stewart out and hopping around again. . . . The Cary Grants and Larry Starbuck driving to the World's Fair, via the Grand Canyon—they left last night. . . . Mitzi Green is soo grown-up now and has a swell figger. . . . Which reminds us that Constance Cummings should never be permitted to pose in a bathing suit!

•

That new cutie on the arm of a certain leading man is an ex-con-girl from New York—but he thinks she's an heiress! . . . The Leslie Howards, avec Mrs. Bill Gargan, leave town tonight for Europe. . . . And a lot of locals are leaping to Santa Barbara for the opening of that new night club there. . . . The fifteen year friendship of Barney Glazer and Carey Wilson has been practically ruined by Sharon Glazer's refusal to let Barney act as best man at the Wilson-Geraghty wedding. . . . Gilda Grey, Junior Laemmle, Rian James, the Johnny Weissmullers, Margaret Lindsay with Phillip Reed, the Jack Haleys, the Larry Weingartens, the Cedric Gibboneses, the Clarence Browns at the Colony Thursday night—and you couldn't find anyone who'd admit having bet on Carnera!

•

Robert Benchley will be here soon —he "thinks he has a contract with RKO." . . . Wonder who will be the "lucky" (?) girl to play "Camille" THIS time! It must be at least six months since they've made it! . . . . Kay Francis takes off for three months abroad first of the week. . . . Busby Berkeley is rehearsing three hundred dames for "Dames" at the moment. . . . Chances are that Paul Martin will follow Lilian Harvey's trail—he's the big moment! . . . Jeanette MacDonald giving a big cocktail party tomorrow.

New York REVIEWS

"MANY HAPPY RETURNS"

Paramount prod.; director, Norman McLeod; writers, J. P. McEvoy, Claude Binyon, Keene Thompson, Ray Harris

Paramount Theatre

Mirror: J. P. McEvoy and the inspired Claude Binyon finally have created the ideal screen play for dizzy Gracie Allen. The incredible Gracie is the heroine of the plot. As goofy as its heroine, the story is packed with nonsense and loaded with laughs. Burns and Allen are great clowns.

American: The usual absurdities of George Burns and Gracie Allen again are incorporated in "Many Happy Returns," their starring vehicle. This time the daffy duo are to be seen in a typical Burns and Allen embroglio.

Times: "Many Happy Returns" depends chiefly on Gracie Allen and George Burns for its mirth. It is one of those impossible features where almost anything is likely to happen.

News: If you are in need of a good hearty laugh you'll find it where "Many Happy Returns," with Burns and Allen in the leading roles, is being featured. This might seem like a pretty stiff dose of their particularly goofy brand of humor, but I give you my word that this large dose won't hurt you.

Herald-Tribune: Burns and Allen, who set the style for a new kind of "stooge" comedy, both on the vaudeville stage and over the radio, have brought their combined talents to Hollywood, where they have been photographed. Miss Allen is, if anything, a trifle more dense than usual, while Mr. Burns is as exasperated as ever by his partner's brainstorms. McLeod's direction was as smooth as could be expected under the circumstances.

Sun: That lovable lunatic, Gracie Allen, and the long-suffering George Burns are back at the Paramount in a suitably mad picture. There is not much sense to "Many Happy Returns" which seems to worry no one at all. It is, quite frankly, simply an excuse for some pleasantly foolish comedy and some equally pleasant music by Guy Lombardo's orchestra.

Post: Thanks to Gracie Allen and George Burns, "Many Happy Returns" belongs in the higher order of screen comedies. To be sure, Miss Allen and her partner are not offered much competition from the other mmbers of the cast; the laughs are almost exclusively theirs, but their presence in the picture at the Paramount is almost continuous, which is as much as you could ask of any picture they are in.

MGM Golf Tournament At Rancho Tomorrow

MGM's annual golf tournament gets off at dawn tomorrow morning at the Rancho Golf Club, four hundred players teeing off in foursomes.

Two hundred prizes have been donated for the event and arrangements have been made so that there will be two prizes for each foursome.

Dorothy Parker Wed

Denver.—The secret marriage of Alan Campbell, actor, and Dorothy Parker, noted poetess and humorist, was revealed here yesterday. The wedding took place last October at Long Island. Campbell is to play in summer stock at the Elitch Gardens.

C. F. Kimball East

C. F. Kimball, general manager of the California studios, is en route to New York to line up a release for a series of independent pictures the studio will make. He will return in about a month.

Swedish Writer Here

Mrs. Pauline Brunius, Swedish journalist, arrives today by plane to write a series of articles on Mae West and Carl Brisson. She is accompanied by Mrs. Carl P. York, wife of the Paramount exchange manager for Sweden.

Brown to Start Race

Joe E. Brown holds the gun to start off the 24-hour bicycle race tinight at the Hollywood Winter Garden, with Lloyd Bacon standing by. It's a tie-up for the next Brown picture, "Six-Day Bike Race," which Sam Bischoff expects to give the gun about July 2 at the Warner studio.

Russell Hicks Arriving

Russell Hicks, new Warner termer from legit, arrives Sunday from Chicago, where he has just checked out of Joe Cook's "Hold Your Horses" show. He starts work in "The Case of the Howling Dog."

Kosloff Agency Head

Paul Edmonds has severed his connection with the Shelton and Edmonds agency. Maurice Kosloff is now in charge.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

through with flying colors for him?

However, this very procedure has been the big mistake in practically every studio shake-up. The new personnel is too often made up from the other studios' mistakes. Is this vicious circle to go on ad infinitum?

If Mr. Kahane will give new blood a chance and seek his producing generals from the type of men who have proved they have imagination and vision in the creative fields, he will be doing a genuine service to himself and his company.

Music Box Stage For MGM Novices

Leasing the Hollywood Music Box, MGM gives its Laboratory Theatre the chance to put on two plays for single performances in order that the studio executive staff may see them in professional surroundings.

The first performance will be June 25. It will be "All Good Americans," the Perelman play which is now shooting at the studio. The cast has Martha Sleeper, Betty Furness, Mary Carlisle, Linda Parker, Pauline Brooks, Les Chalzel, Poppy Wilde, Margo Early, Robert Taylor, Robert Livingston, Ruth Renick, Hal LeSeuer, Claudell Kaye, Belle Donovan and Jay Lloyd.

The Merton Hodges play, "Wind and Rain," is scheduled for July, with George Walcott and Agnes Anderson in the leading roles.

'Elysia' To Be Shown At the Chicago Fair

Chicago.—Foy Productions' nudist picture, "Elysia," has been okayed by the board of directors of the World's Fair.

The Fair village, operating on a government of its own, can show any type of picture it chooses, since it is outside the domain of the Chicago censor board.

Henry Hull Leaves For Universal in Ten Days

Henry Hull closes his season in "Tobacco Road" at the 48th Street Theatre, New York, tonight, and takes a week's vacation with his mother in Connecticut before motoring out for his stellar spot in Universal's "Great Expectations."

Morrison Abroad

New York.—Leo Morrison sails for Europe July 7 on the Ile de France and will meet Buster Keaton in Paris. Keaton is to make "The King of Champs Elysees" in France.

Gordon-Revel on Air

Mack Gordon and Harry Revel have been signed to appear Monday night on the MJB program over the NBC network, emanating locally from KFI.

B'way Grosses Low

(Continued from Page 1)

en Are Dangerous" at the Roxy had to be contented with $16,500, and "Are We Civilized" at the Rivoli, for the week ending next Tuesday night, will get around $15,000. The 14th week of "Rothschild" at the Astor brought $12,450, the Rialto did well with $13,500 for "World of Revolt," "Fog Over Frisco" got $10,500 for its second week at the Strand, and "Private Scandal" at the Mayfair snared $9000.

ATTENTION

5-room apartment in La Fontaine Apartments. Beautifully furnished. Available on long or short lease, $200 a month. Call HEmpstead 7053 for apointment.

"HIS GREATEST GAMBLE" ODD STORY OF MENTAL DOMINANCE

Dix and Kid Actress Win First Honors

"HIS GREATEST GAMBLE"
(Radio)

Direction .....John Robertson
Author .....Salisbury Field
Screen Play.....Sidney Buchman and Harry Hervey
Photography .....Teddy Tetzlaff
Cast: Richard Dix, Dorothy Wilson, Bruce Cabot, Erin O'Brien Moore, Edith Fellows, Shirley Grey, Eily Malyon, Leonard Carey.

Radio took a terrific gamble when it made "His Greatest Gamble." The picture is undoubtedly very much worthwhile for a number of reasons, but it will not have a widespread appeal. Where it does appeal, however—to the Richard Dix fans and to those who are particularly interested in mind over matter—it will appeal like a ton of bricks.

The faults of the film are: Dix is again cast as a reckless, daredevil, handsome charmer, who is supposed to dash quite madly around and have a swell time. As a matter of fact, he is allowed only one minor dash in the beginning of the film, which lands him in jail for fifteen years, during which he ages about six months. The part of his wife, who is supposed to exercise such a destroying power over their daughter that she actually makes the child believe that she cannot walk, is built up not at all, with the result that poor Erin O'Brien Moore is plunked down in the middle of the film and is, for no very apparent reason, a thoroughly disagreeable person. The ending of the picture is so lengthily sentimental and preachy that it kicks the props out from under the rest of the reels.

However, if the audience can jump these hurdles, it will find much that is entertaining, charming and appealing. It is unfortunate that the picture as a whole is unworthy of the plot basis, for it is a distinctly different departure from the average run of screen fare.

The story concerns the fight Dix has to save his daughter from the malevolent influence of his wife. The first part of the film is splendid, with Dix kidnaping the child, teaching her to laugh and be happy and carefree. There is a nice overtone of lyricism and poetry here. Then he goes to jail; the mother reasserts her evil control over the girl, and Dix breaks jail after thirteen years imprisonment to rescue her from the complete and enforced invalidism into which she is sinking.

Dix plays his role whole-heartedly; Erin O'Brien Moore bears up heroically under an impossible and incredible part; Dorothy Wilson is lovely as the girl; Bruce Cabot is the young man in love with her; Eily Malyon is brilliant in a small role, and Leonard Carey has good moments as the butler. But THE performance in the picture is given by a little girl named Edith Fellows, who plays the daughter as a child, and whose acting is the main reason for the beauty of the first part of the film.

John Robertson directed spottily; Sidney Buchman and Harry Hervey made the screen play from Salisbury Field's story, and Teddy Tetzlaff photographed.

The picture cannot be enthusiastically recommended, except for Dix fans.

Censor Pictures at Source, Says Schenck

New York.—Censorship of motion pictures at source or, in other words, within the industry, is Joseph M. Schenck's remedy for offensive pictures. He admits that Joe Breen, of the Hays office, is doing a good job, but fears it is too much for one man to handle.

20 Percent Pay-off On 'Superstitions'

Sidney Brennecke and two dozen other bagholders in Borden Pictures' "Superstition" series will receive 20 per cent pay-offs next week. Checks will be mailed Monday by W. C. Durst, trustee for the company, who placed four of the one-reelers with Paramount through Abe Meyer.

Meyer and Ray Nazarro plan to complete the series on a venture of their own, but first must have the federal court release the receiver from the original production contract.

Frances Fuller Will Join Free-lancers

Frances Fuller completes her two-picture contract with Paramount with the finishing of "Elmer and Elsie," and plans to free lance.

Last year she was signed three days after her arrival here for the lead opposite Gary Cooper in "One Sunday Afternoon." Her last appearance on Broadway was in "Her Master's Voice."

Code To Be Reopened For More Exhib Assents

New York.—The Code Authority yesterday unanimously recommended to Sol Rosenblatt that the code be reopened for further assents by exhibitors who, so far, haven't come across. The new period will be up August 15.

Foy Dickers For Loans

Bryan Foy westerday registered a bid with Columbia for the loan of Walter Connolly and Richard Cromwell for leading roles with Frank Craven in "That's Gratitude," which Craven writes, directs and produces for Foy Productions.

Woods Buys Gordon Play

New York.—A. H. Woods has purchased a new Leon Gordon play, "Trade Winds," and has listed it for presentation on Broadway in September.

Fox Premiere at Roxy

New York.—The New York premiere of Fox's "Baby Takes a Bow," starring little Shirley Temple, will be at the Roxy Theatre on June 29.

Fate of Duals Will Be Discussed Today

Ben Berinstein, representing the independent theatre owners of Southern California, and Charles Skouras, of Fox West Coast Theatres, are slated to hold an important conference this morning at which they will take up single bills, 55 cent admissions and other problems that are now disturbing the theatre situation here.

Some time next week a general meeting of the indie theatre men will be called, at which Berinstein will have a complete report to make. At that meeting, Berinstein says, he feels that the entire matter of double bills and admission prices will be ironed out. Approximately 90 per cent of the indie theatre men have voted for single features, but no definite step could be taken until a final understanding was reached with Fox West Coast. That is expected to come about today.

Columbia Signs Comics For Two-Reeler Series

For the 24 two-reel comedies on the new program, Columbia has signed Leon Errol, Andy Clyde, Harry Langdon, Walter Catlett and the Three Stooges.

Jules White and Hugh MacCullum will produce, with each making from two to six as a series.

Boles Goes Back to Fox For 'Music in the Air'

Following "Age of Innocence" for Radio, John Boles reports back to Fox for "Music in the Air," the musical Joe May will direct. This bars Universal from getting him for "Imitation of Life," the Claudette Colbert picture John Stahl is readying for a June 25 start.

Asther in 'Serenade'

Instead of going into the cast of "Wanted," as originally planned, Nils Asther has been signed for the lead opposite Pat Patterson, who replaced Lilian Harvey in "Serenade" at Fox. James Tinling will direct, replacing Paul Martin.

Hervey on Leave

With Lou Brock off on a vacation, Harry Hervey checked out of Radio yesterday, giving the studio a call on his services for early August, at which time he is to resume work on the screen play of the musical, "Ho, for Shanghai."

Merkel and Erwin Set

Una Merkel and Stuart Erwin were set by MGM yesterday for leading roles in the Buddy DeSylva-David Butler picture, "Have A Heart," which has Jean Parker in the top spot.

Pat McNutt at Para.

Patterson McNutt registered at Paramount yesterday, coming from New York to take up his writing ticket with the studio. He will write the screen play for "Sailor Beware."

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

John Barrymore, for the benefit of a fan magazine, recently picked his idea of the most interesting actresses in Hollywood. The first three, in the order in which they were chosen, were Katharine Hepburn, Karen Morley and Greta Garbo. Hepburn and Garbo are firmly implanted in cinema stardom, but somehow or other, the powers-that-be have neglected to plant Karen Morley up among the stars and, so far as we're concerned, the loss is not only theirs but the movie audiences' as well.

Lately we have heard more people inquiring as to why Morley isn't seen more often and in larger parts. It is surprising those questions haven't reached the producers' ears and that they haven't done something about it. She's a grand actress and one of the most intriguing-looking gals that ever reached the screen. She has yet to appear in a picture that wasn't definitely better for her presence, and she's the only person we know of who played against BOTH the Barrymores and rated as much attention as they did from both critics and public. Men like her on the screen and women wish they looked like her. We fervently wish that the screen had more like her and we wish Karen Morley were on the screen more often, much more often.

•

Serge Soudeikine, the Russian artist who has designed the sets for "We Live Again"—and again and again so far as "Resurrection" is concerned—(there must have been something prophetic in that title), is about to have an exhibition of his paintings either at the Stendhal Galleries or the Simmons Galleries, depending on which one wins the argument. Soudeikine's paintings of the sets, incidentally, have torn the Goldwyn offices apart. Everyone to date has tried to steal one and Lynn Farnol finally had to get Sam Goldwyn to issue strict orders that no one touch the paintings, at least until the picture is finished. Farnol, by the way, is out to make the Fall styles Russia-conscious. He's gotten Omar Kiam (probably your favorite designer) to dash off a couple of dress models and a coat based on Russian peasant clothes and an officer's top-coat. Well, he put it over with "Roman Scandals" last year and it begins to look as if Farnol were out to teach the three "R's" in dress—Roman, Russian and Ravishin'.

•

Charlie Brackett, who's scripting over at Paramount these days and may bring his family out here any minute now, has just gotten the galley proofs on his new book which comes out in the Fall. It's called "Entirely Surrounded" (and you can finish that title if you know your geography definitions), and its pages are sprinkled with references to and stories about people you know, in the more amusing manner.

WILLIAM A. SEITER

DIRECTED

"WE'RE RICH AGAIN"

"Here is a box office honey, smartly directed and played to the hilt by an able cast which should keep any audience highly entertained. William Seiter has done a superb job of directing, keeping up the level of high excellence from beginning to end, handling his people smartly and salting down laughs."

—Variety, 6-12.

MARIAN NIXON

AS

ARABELLA

IN

"WE'RE RICH AGAIN"

Management

Schulberg-Feldman & Gurney

RAY HARRIS

SCREEN PLAY

"WE'RE RICH AGAIN"

"THREE CORNERED MOON"+

And Now

"LET'S GET MARRIED"

ANOTHER HUMAN COMEDY

"Radio's 'We're Rich Again,' lively and amusing comedy. A cockeyed little opus, fairly alive with amusing ideas, most of which come off to make a comedy that any exhibitor can be grateful for in these dull days."
—Hollywood Reporter, June 12, 1934

+In Collaboration

Management

SCHULBERG-FELDMAN
AND GURNEY

"Here is a box office honey. Ray Harris' screen play is a notably good elaboration of Allen Nash's original play, contriving the comedy with freshness, with sparkling dialog, and nice satirical undercurrent advanced in smooth continuity."
—Variety, June 12, 1934

NRA

RKO-RADIO

Radio PICTURES

Radio Pictures

RKO RADIO

GLORIA SHEA

AS

VICTORIA

IN

"WE'RE RICH AGAIN"

"Gloria Shea as Erp's trainer and eventual wife is plenty attractive and good."

—Hollywood Reporter.

LARRY "BUSTER" CRABBE

AS

ERP

IN

"WE'RE RICH AGAIN"

"Buster Crabbe as the swimmer who doesn't open his mouth until the last reel is a positive inspiration."

—Hollywood Reporter.

NICK MUSURACA

A.S.C.

PHOTOGRAPHED

"WE'RE RICH AGAIN"

"Nick Musuraca's photography is really high class."

—Hollywood Reporter

NRA

NEW THIRD DIMENSION TESTS SHOWN TO EXPERTS

Three-dimensional motion picture tests, made by Alvin Wyckoff, Gregg Toland and Milton Moore with their own standard cameras and standard film, were projected yesterday before an invited group of fifty photographic and technical experts at United Artists studio.

Spectators were grouped at the extreme sides of the projection room within three feet of the screen, to demonstrate the absence of any distortion from side views. They also viewed close-ups from five feet distance to judge absence of granulation.

The stereopticon depth given the moving images without the use of any special viewing devices or projection machine attachments is explained by the use of whirling mirrors installed before the camera lens, enabling objects to be photographed full-on and from both sides on one photographic image.

The device used is William Alder's Cinegraph, just patented after experiments that Adler has been making in three-dimensional effects since he was an American Film cameraman at Santa Barbara in 1911. Alder and Ralph Merritt, former associate of Herbert Hoover, own the patents. All representation rights are held by Isadore Bernstein, who arranged yesterday's demonstration.

Wyckoff, Toland and Moore, the cameramen who made the tests, attached the Cinegraph to standard Mitchell cameras they were in the habit of using. Wyckoff also tried Alder's invention on a Bell & Howell. Both interiors and exterior shots were demonstrated, some of the interiors made on United Artists sets.

The vital feature of the instrument is a revolving shaft synchronized with the camera shutter's 24-a-second exposures. Four mirrors are mounted on the shaft, one passing with each exposure. With this device, cameramen say every optical law known is apparently overthrown.

Arch Selwyn Files Plea in Bankruptcy

New York.—Arch Selwyn, theatrical producer, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. He lists his liabilities at $312,910 and his assets at $5689.

Baby and Grown-up Stars Off On Junket

Two carloads of Hollywood pull out at eight tonight for Minneapolis, carrying thirteen Wampas Baby Stars and a group of picture names to the Shrine convention in Minneapolis.

Mark Larkin held reservations last night for Jackie Coogan, Tony Moreno, Wally Ford, Roscoe Karns, Dorothy Burgess and Hedda Hopper. George Raft and Wheeler and Woolsey will join the contingent at Minneapolis.

LeRoy Prinz goes on the special and will spend much of the time en route in the baggage car, chartered as a rehearsal hall for the Baby Star's ensemble work. Jean Chatburn, alternate, was given Helene Cohan's ticket yesterday as the result of the atter's illness.

Leila Hyams' Contract With 'U' Is Cancelled

Leila Hyams and Universal called off the balance of her contract by mutual consent yesterday. It had till August to go. Berg, Stebbins, Allenberg and Blum stated the release was sought because of "unsatisfactory roles."

Last spot for Miss Hyams at Universal was in "Affairs of a Gentleman," with Paul Lukas.

Music Branch For Academy

(Continued from Page 1)

tives, at which plans were discussed for the forming of a special Music Section in the organization. In this will be recruited the music executives of the various studios, music directors, and leading song writers and composers who are working in pictures.

The forming of this section has been under consideration for some time, and considerable preliminary work has been quietly going on. Attending the meeting were Nat Finston of Paramount, Max Steiner and Murray Spivack of RKO-Radio, Lou Silvers of Columbia, Louis de Francesco and Edward Kilenyi of Fox, Jack Chertok of MGM, and James Dietrich of Universal.

The music creators have felt for some time that they have been hanging out on a limb, and have wanted some place in which they may be represented. The proposed section in the Academy is designed to extend appreciation of the value of music in motion pictures, and to develop closer understanding and relationship between the music departments and other creative branches in the studios.

In addition to making quiet plans for enlarging the scope of the Academy, there has been a lot of activity going on in regard to the actors' uniform contract, working conditions of the assistant directors, and questions dealing with the Writer-Producer Code.

The assistant directors passed up having their problems cared for by the NRA film code and have been discussing them with a producers' committee, headed by L. B. Mayer.

A producers' committee, headed by Henry Herzbrun, has been working with an actors' committee, headed by Lionel Atwill, on the uniform contract proposition. They are not yet ready to make any announcement.

Furthermore, there has been a long series of conferences with the producers regarding the Writer-Producer Code. It is understood that some changes are being contemplated and considerable progress is said to have been made to date.

LAST NIGHT'S PLAY

"KEEP IT A DREAM"

By John V. A. Weaver; presented by Daniel Wells and E. E. Clive at the Hollywood Playhouse; staged by E. E. Clive; settings by Rita Glover. Cast: Sarah Padden, William Boyd, Dorothy Libaire, Gertrude Short, Eddie Nugent, James Bush, Donald T. Campbell, Berilla Kerr, Burt Miller, Sara Owen.

Amazingly unimportant is this new comedy by John V. A. Weaver. He has taken as his theme an inspirational message and fails signally to point it. The play, in fact, contains little more than enough material for one act, its last, which by underwriting is somehow stretched to three. Picture possibilities are remote and it needs doctoring for Broadway.

The story concerns the romance of a young girl and a sergeant of the Marines. Visualizing her lover as a knight with shining armor, the girl goes into deep, almost neurotic mourning when he runs out on her, falsely advising her of his death in Central America. She mourns hopelessly for a year, until her mother, fearing for her sanity, reveals the hoax. The shock throws her into a loveless marriage with her faithful suitor.

Six years pass and an ex-Marine returns. He describes his adventurous, romantic life, urging her to run away to share it with him. But she too has a tale of adventure to tell, the adventure of fighting side by side with her husband in these years of economic depression. The last act curtain finds her in her husband's arms.

All of which would be very much duller were it not for the work of a corking cast. Dorothy Libaire lends tremendous sincerity to the girl, even rising above the monotone into which the writing of her role might have thrown her. Eddie Nugent gives a splendid and thoroughly believable performance as the faithful one. William "Stage" Boyd is excellent as the Marine.

Gertrude Short carries all of the comedy the play affords and scores in every appearance. James Bush is likewise excellent but Sarah Padden is hopelessly hampered by a menacing mother, a part that confused even the author.

'Shanghai Orchid' Now 'Farewell to Shanghai'

"Farewell to Shanghai" is Warners' new title for "Shanghai Orchid," the original by Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola for Dolores Del Rio and Franchot Tone.

It has no schedule spot yet, and will follow Miss Del Rio's next, "Caliente."

Darmour Picks Balzac

Continuing a policy to produce stories taken from the classics, Larry Darmour announced yesterday that Majestic has decided to make the Honore Balzac story, "The Bachelor's Apartment," into a picture. It is scheduled for late August.

MGM Seeks Titles

MGM wants a new title for "Sacred and Profane Love," also a better one if possible for "Sequoia," the "Malibu" wild life romance.

Exhibs Win Point In Code Court Case

New York.—The IOTA of New York won the first brush yesterday in the Federal court hearing of the organization's petition for a permanent injunction against the Code Authority. When the case was called, Milton Weisman, counsel for the ITOA, asked an adjournment. Code Authority counsel objected and the court denied the motion.

Weisman then asked permission to withdraw the petition and, after some argument, this was permitted. The ITOA will now submit a petition for an injunction to the New York Supreme Court, preferring to try for success in the state court rather than risk defeat in the Federal.

Kent Signs Ann Dacey As Lead For Reb Russell

Ann Darcy has been signed by Willis Kent for the lead in "The Man From Hell,' 'in which Reb Russell, former All-American fullback of Northwestern University is being starred.

Supporting cast includes Fred Kohler, Yakima Canutt, Jack Rockwell, Charles Whittaker, Lafe McKee and Charles French. Story and screen play are by E. E. Rapp and will be directed by Lew Collins. Picture goes into production Tuesday.

Gladys George Goes In 'Four Walls' Cast

Owing to Mae Clarke's illness, MGM yesterday assigned Gladys George to take her role in "Four Walls," which Paul Sloane is directing.

Henry Wadsworth and C. Henry Gordon were handed featured roles in the same production, the latter doubling up in "Hideout" at the same time.

Baer Victory Boosts Grosses on His Picture

New York.—Felix Feist, general sales manager for MGM, stated yesterday that Baer's victory has already begun to have its effect on the bookings of "The Prizefighter and the Lady."

Exhibitors who could not see its value before, are now asking for it, being anxious to cash in on the Baer glory.

New Radio Short

Jules White yesterday assigned Ewart Adamson to write a musical short, which will be the last on Radio's current program. Archie Gottler, who is now directing "Tropical Madness," will shoot the musical next week, winding up the schedule.

Fox Signs Pichel

Fox yesterday signed Irving Pichel for a spot in "She Was a Lady," which Hamilton MacFadden is directing. Helen Twelvetrees and Ralph Morgan have the top spots in the picture.

Ross and Sargent Stay

Ross and Sargent, entertainers at the Kings Club, are to remain there instead of moving to a new spot as previously announced.

CATERED By

The VENDOME

is the stamp of assurance of the best food and the best service that your money can buy.

YOUR COCKTAIL PARTY
YOUR BRIDGE LUNCHEON
YOUR BUFFET DINNER

in all their details can be handled by The VENDOME, taking from your shoulders all the worry about food, its preparation and service. And the price is just as cheap (probably more so) as if you undertake the preparation yourself.

CALL HOllywood 1666

ask for Mr. Hoffman in charge of the catering department. He will make you quotations and give you all the details, giving you the

BEST FOOD and BEST LIQUOR

at a price that will surprise you.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 34. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Monday, June 18, 1934

PAR. CONVENTION OPENS

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•THE motion picture producers apparently have come to the conclusion that the best way to stop the campaign now being waged against pictures by the Catholic and other churches and by women's and civic organizations is to give the reformers nothing to reform. Which, of course, is the logical and sensible thing to do, whether or not any producer is willing to admit that he has been in the wrong. And, also of course, it is the thing that might have been done three years ago when a warning was first given, and the doing of which would have avoided all this present uproar.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the determination does not come too late, that the propaganda which has been spread has not reached such a point that it cannot be overcome before censorship shows its teeth at the industry.

•

Something more than promises is going to be needed. Promises were made before and, according to the churchmen, they were broken as soon as made. Evidence of good faith in early productions will do much to help matters.

The producing companies seem to be in earnest. Jack Warner told the Warner convention in San Francisco that the company would make pictures for the whole family, that sex and "sophisticated" pictures are out, and that they will be replaced by action pictures, musicals and other clean entertainment.

Col. Jason Joy, formerly of the Hays office, read the riot act to all the Fox writers the other day. He told them that stories must be pure — or else. There must be no suggestiveness, no smut in Fox pictures thereafter, nothing to cause blushes or embarrassment, and it is up to the writers to watch their stuff.

•

Undoubtedly the necessity for clean pictures will be stressed at the Paramount convention which opens today in Los Angeles, at the RKO-Radio convention, opening in Chicago, and at the MGM meeting, opening shortly in the East. The men at the heads of these companies are not fools, and they realize, just as much as Warners

(Continued on Page 2)

Loew's Will Invade Territory of FWC

New York.—Loew's Inc. will invade the territory hitherto controlled by Fox West Coast and is planning to build theatres in the Mission, Fillmore and Richmond districts, and also in Reno, Santa Cruz, Monterey and Petaluma.

All Fox Writers Warned To Be Pure

Adjuration to all Fox writing talent, convoked in a special session for the purpose, that their stories would have to be 100 per cent pure or else, was delivered by Col. Jason Joy last week.

Some 26 writers were summoned to the meeting, which Joy announced he was calling at the request of Sidney Kent and Winfield Sheehan.

Fox has no intention of showing a scene or having a word uttered that

(Continued on Page 2)

Shirley Temple Will Star in 'Meal Ticket'

Next starring picture for Shirley Temple will be "Meal Ticket," an original just bought from Gene Towne and Graham Baker, it is understood. Spencer Tracy is pencilled in the cast. The Fox studio has it scheduled for David Butler's direction in September.

'Mank' Will Lose 'Em

Herman J. Mankiewicz, MGM scenarist, checked in at Cedars of Lebanon Friday to have tonsil trouble corrected.

300 Delegates From All Over World Meet To Hear Program; Reorganization May Be Told

Paramount's annual sales convention gets under way today at the Ambassador Hotel, with 300 delegates present from many parts of the world.

Among those attending are delegates from 45 American key cities, five Canadian Provinces, Great Britain, Scandinavia, Spain, South America and the Far East. Most of them arrived yesterday aboard a special Santa Fe train. They will remain for four days, the convention closing Thursday night.

The convention swings into high gear this morning with addresses by George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager; Neil Agnew, general sales manager; John Hicks, Jr., vice-

(Continued on Page 5)

'U' Testing Gilbert For 'Imitation of Life'

John Gilbert is understood having straightened out his difficulties with MGM. Universal will test him today for the bracket spot with Claudette Colbert in "Imitation of Life," the John Stahl production.

British Gaumont is paging him by cable to appear in the picture for which Gregory Ratoff is already signed.

Lesser-Pathe Deal

With A. B. Poole, of Pathe, leaving for New York over the week-end, it was reported that he had agreed to finance Sol Lesser to produce "Chandu."

Para. Plans To Make Martin Luther Life

New York.—Adolph Zukor is understood to have stopped over in Kansas City on his way to the coast to authorize Rev. Andreas Bard, of St. Marks Lutheran Church, to prepare a life of Martin Luther suitable for screen purposes. The clergyman is to send his story to Mr. Zukor on the coast.

This is said to be one step in a plan to offset the opposition of the churches to pictures by making productions based on famous churchmen.

Mayo and Jack Warner Settle Their Troubles

Archie Mayo has withdrawn his request for a release from his director's contract with Warners after a conference with J. L. Warner, who settled their differences amicably by assuring him he would get several important assignments in the future.

Mayo had balked after Frank Borzage got "Flirtation Walk," a story which he had been instrumental in bringing into the studio.

Mayer Ready to Leave

Louis B. Mayer was reported to have tentative reservations to leave today for the MGM convention, but is not expected to get away until tomorrow night. He wants to talk with David O. Selznick before going to the organization powwow.

Sparks in $450,000 Suit

St. Petersburg, Fla.—John Gilhooey, local exhibitor, has brought suit for $450,000 against the E. J. Sparks Enterprises, charging restraint of trade. The suit is based on evidence given at clearance and zoning board hearing in Atlanta.

GREAT BRITISH THEATRE CHAINS TO CONSOLIDATE

New York—A consolidation of several of the large theatre interests in England is expected to be announced very shortly. Negotiations have been on for some time and are said to be practically completed.

The theatre chains involved are the Paramount, the Astorias and the Hyams theatres. The merger will immeasurably strengthen their booking power and will also offer a wider pre-release field.

It is understood that a stock issue of something more than 3,000,000 pounds is planned for public consump-

(Continued on Page 3)

Madeleine Carroll To Play "Anna Karenina"

London.—Madeleine Carroll, who recently completed her contract with Fox Film and returned to England, will star in "Anna Karenina" as her next picture.

Lew Fields For Screen

Lew Fields, of Weber and Fields, will be given the chance to do a May Robson in William Rowland's second picture for Columbia, "The Naughty Nineties." Fields will be starred in a "gent for a day" characterization.

WELCOME, PARAMOUNT DELEGATES

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

Hmm, mmm—could it be that news-reel men and newspaper fellers fell again for a great big hoax? We mean that bathing beauty contest staged (and we mean staged!) at the Ambassador Saturday afternoon. The event was sponsored by Columbia, with the understanding that the winner would get a week's contract at Columbia, plus a lot of publicity. So about forty girls showed up to be judged by Buster Crabbe, Patricia Ellis, Sally Blane, Florence Rice and others. Among the contestants was Billie Seward—and Billie got the first prize! And Billie, as you know, has been working at Columbia for many a day! Now, the whole thing couldn't have been a "plant"—could it? Anyway, there were two other prizes given, one of which went to Dolly Newmyer. But the little gal who got the biggest hand from the crowd for her face, figger and personality was Doris Castanien—and she got THIRD prize!

•

Our today's chuckle is about a Hollywood editor who is threatening to "expose" Leonard Levinson as a "Winchell informant." Levinson's "information" consists mostly of funny gags which he has been collecting for W. W. for quite some time, in gratitude for a helping hand which the Broadway Bad Boy extended to him a long while ago. The funny angle is that Levinson doesn't care who knows it—since he has "nothing to hide." But the local ed. thinks differently and is holding the fact as a club over his head to make him come through with some advertising. So we are herewith gently, but firmly, removing that club!

•

Friend of ours went to a famous star's home to a small dinner the other night—but didn't last long. After the meal, the hostess suggested a game of bridge.

"I don't play bridge," said the visitor, who is a well-known Broadway playwright.

"Goodness!" exclaimed the star, perfectly serious. "Whatever DID you do in New York?" The writer swooned!

WARNER BROS. PROMISE PICTURES FOR FAMILY

San Francisco—Family pictures will be the keynote of Warner Brothers during the coming year, according to an announcement made yesterday by Jack L. Warner to the members of the company's sales organization, gathered here for their annual sales convention.

With a program of sixty pictures outlined, the most significant feature of the list is the absence of sophisticated and sex problem types of stories. Instead, there are adventure pictures, jammed with action, musicals, dramas, romances, comedy dramas and straight comedies.

"We believe that our forthcoming productions represent the widest range of screen material ever offered the public," said Warner. "We have sought and found material of universal appeal—pictures for the entire family—keeping in mind not merely the diversified interest of American audiences, but those of the entire world, which is now the field of the talking picture.

"We have never been so fully prepared in advance of a new production and selling season as we are this year. Already we have more than sixty stories ready for early production."

The salesmen were told that the company is prepared to spend $10,000,000 on ten of its big special pictures alone, and that the production budget for the year is the largest in the history of Warner Brothers'First National.

Roach Starting New Todd-Kelly Pic Today

"Done in Oil," first of Hal Roach's new series of Todd-Kelly comedies, gets going today under Gus Meins' direction. Thelma Todd plays a hungry artist. Eddie Conrad, Eastern character comedian, is given a break in the short as an art critic. Rolf Sedan, Leo White and Arthur Housman are also cast.

DeRochemont Quits Fox

New York.—Louis DeRochemont, for the editorial department of Fox Movietone, has resigned to join the editorial staff of Time magazine.

Conti on 'Kindling'

Fox signed Albert Conti Saturday to supervise the technical work on "Kindling" and also to play a part in it.

John Farrow to Hawaii

John Farrow left yesterday for Honolulu. Maureen O'Sullivan threw a party for him Saturday night.

Fox Writers Warned

(Continued from Page 1)

could bring a blush, Col. Joy indicated. He remarked on the current agitation about the subject matter of motion pictures on the part of Catholic leaders, and gave the assembled talent to understand that the individual writers who worked on a picture would be held responsible for any moral criticism that might be leveled at any Fox production.

Suit Filed To Stop Major Ban on Duals

Philadelphia—Harry Perlman has brought suit in the Federal Court in a challenge to the right of the majors to ban double bills in the sales contracts for the coming season. Judge Walsh reserved decision.

Fred Gordon Best MGM Golf Player

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer held its annual golf tournament at Rancho yesterday and 404 entries were listed, making it one of the largest ever held in Southern California.

Fred Gordon won the low gross with a 73, and Lester Coleman ran second with a 74. The low net prizes were won by Stanley Lambert, of the sound department, with a 64, and Frank Bobo with a 65.

Many of the MGM stars, directors, writers and executives turned out, but none of the notables got a look-in for a prize.

Strickling Back From Rush Trip to New York

Howard Strickling returned to MGM Saturday night with a record of having been away six days and nights, and having spent five of the days in New York City.

Strickling reported to Louis B. Mayer last night the results of his conferences with Howard Dietz on the publicity and advertising campaigns for the new season.

Casting Fox Musical

Joe May and Erich Pommer start intensive casting at Fox this week for "Music in the Air." Production start is set for July 16. John Boles is the only name set to date, but Pommer has a bid in for Gloria Swanson.

Al Greer Injured

Al Greer, noted trick pistol shot, received a deep cut in his right arm Saturday while on location near Newhall on the Harry Webb picture, "Fighting Hero."

Roy Vickers' Greatest Novel
'The Forbidden Sin'
first feature production
for the 1934-1935 season
FAMOUS AUTHORS PICTURES CORP.
723 Seventh Ave. New York
Cable Address Faumaut, New York

Abe Lehrs Stricken By Loss of Daughter

Hilda Catherine Lehr, eighteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Lehr, died Saturday afternoon at her home, 616 South Kingsley Drive, from spinal meningitis. Funeral services will be held at noon today at Pierce Brothers mortuary, Rabbi Edgar Magnin officiating. Burial will be at the Home of Peace Cemetery.

Miss Lehr is survived by her parents, an older sister, Helen, and a brother, Neil. Mr. Lehr is executive vice-president and general manager for Samuel Goldwyn, and Mrs. Lehr has long been closely identified with the Motion Picture Relief Fund and the Assistance League.

Mae Clarke Not Ill And Will Keep Col. Role

Mae Clarke declared Saturday that, contrary to reports, she is not ill, but was ordered to the hospital by her doctor, Stanley Immerman, for a rest. She will be ready, she said, to take the role in Columbia's "Captain Hates the Sea," for which MGM has loaned her.

Sydney House For MGM

Sydney, Australia.—MGM has taken over the St. James Theatre, a 2000-seat house, on a long term lease. The firm will open with "Rip Tide," and Fox, that some action must come or serious trouble will follow.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

The producers have been taking this adverse propaganda without any reply, but obviously have been doing a lot of thinking. If their thoughts result in pictures which are above criticism and which are still good box-office—and they can be made—the industry will be the better.

ATTENTION

5-room apartment in La Fontaine Apartments. Beautifully furnished. Available on long or short lease, $200 a month. Call HEmpstead 7053 for apointment.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

INTERNATIONAL SIX DAY BICYCLE RACE
GILMORE STADIUM
Commencing June 21, 8 P.M. — Finishing June 27 at Midnight
McNamara, Winters, Schaller, Testa, Horder, O'Brien, Yates, Wagner, La Fenetre, Petri, Echeverria, Schuller, and Other Madison Square Garden Stars
Reservations Now. Call WHitney 1308 or Any of the Ticket Agencies

'MURDER IN THE PRIVATE CAR' SURE-FIRE FOR ANY THEATRE

Direction, Writing And Cast All Grand

"MURDER IN THE PRIVATE CAR" (MGM)

Direction .....Harry Beaumont
Original Story.....Harvey Thew
Screen Play: Ralph Spence, Edgar Allan Woolf and Al Boasberg.
Photography: James Van Trees and Leonard Smith.
Cast: Charles Ruggles, Mary Carlisle, Una Merkel, Porter Hall, Russell Hardie, Willard Robertson, Berton Churchill, Cliff Thompson, Snowflake.

All movie and a yard wide, with the most exciting and amusing runaway train sequence that has reached the screen since the days when the silents used to revel in such tricks. And your audiences will revel in this one. Feed the thrills in this picture to your prospective audiences in a big way and stress the fact that there isn't one member of the family who won't enjoy them. And certainly the whole family will enjoy the delightful antics of Charlie Ruggles.

Ruggles is the perfectly grand, slightly balmy "crime deflector." It is the job of this crime deflector to prevent things from happening and, in this instance, Ruggles elects to protect a switchboard operator who suddenly finds herself the third richest girl in the world and about to meet a father she has never seen. From that point on, the story goes completely haywire, but is so well gagged, written and acted that it makes no difference that one or two murders are never explained atall, atall, and a couple of characters appear and disappear for no apparent reason, because the pace would have killed them anyway.

The main part of the story is the fact that the private car is turned loose, carrying a load of dynamite and six of your favorite people, and that wild ride and the eventual rescue of the people is so magnificently done, that you forget what the picture started out to be anyway. There is a strong suspicion that somebody thought up that runaway sequence first and then they bought a story to fill in the time, because, after all, that had to be the climax.

Lucien Hubbard as the producer deserves the first bow for having recognized what elegant, pure movie material this stuff was made of, and then Harry Beaumont can step forward for his excellently paced direction that covered up the story holes so perfectly. And hats off to Spence, Woolf and Boasberg, who never forgot a laugh to take the place of an explanation.

Charlie Ruggles and Una Merkel carry the picture for all it is worth and their acting and the picture are worth plenty to anyone looking for entertainment in the movies. Mary Carlisle is okay as the heiress, and Russell Hardie looks as though he should be an asset to MGM. Snowflake, the "cullud" porter, is very amusing, and Willard Robertson, Berton Churchill and Porter Hall offer support that can't go wrong.

Van Trees and Smith have done right well by the photography, and if either of them or both did the train sequence, it's something they can be plenty proud of pictorially.

Jimmy Howe May Be Drafted As An Actor

Jimmy Howe, cameraman de luxe, is getting worried. He fears he may have to be an actor. George Hill has tested him as a possibility for "The Good Earth," and Richard Boleslavsky is casting longing eyes on him for the role of a Chinese physician in Garbo's "The Painted Veil."

Cleveland Placing Ban on Dual Bills

Cleveland.—The ban on double bills, to which the exhibitors of this section have agreed, goes into effect on July 8, the announcement having been made Saturday by M. B. Horwitz, of the Cleveland Exhibitors Association.

Horwitz has just returned from New York, where he made arrangements to put the plan into effect at the four Loew houses, four Warner houses and two RKO houses. The plan also has the support of 92 independent exhibitors.

Radio Decides to Stop Work on 'Joan of Arc'

Radio dropped further work on the screen play of "Joan of Arc" Saturday, placing Francis Faragoh, who was handling it, on the screen play for the Francis Lederer picture, "Three Musketeers."

John Ford has been decided upon as the director of the production when he joins the studio to take up his deal next month.

Fox Wants Eddy

Fox is working on a deal with MGM for the loan of Nelson Eddy for a top spot in the Erich Pommer production, "Music in the Air." Pommer is also looking at tests of Phillips Holmes and Douglass Montgomery before making the decision.

Selznick Party Coming

David O. Selznick is due on the Chief tomorrow, delivering his new acquisitions, Hugh Walpole, Fritz Lang and John Paddy Carstairs, to the MGM studio. George Cukor and Howard Estabrook are with him.

Runyon-Fox Deal Set

John Zanft, representative of Damon Runyon, received a confirmation by wire Saturday that the deal giving all Runyon's stories to Fox for the next year has been definitely signed.

Lois January to Col.

Columbia has put through a deal on Lois January from Universal for "Tropical Madness," the Archie Gottler short which Jules White is producing.

Labor Board and Agents Are Friends

The six-month dispute between the agents and the State Labor Commission was disposed of when all agents submitted to the Commission's jurisdiction last week, making their peace with the labor body through a verbal agreement which assured the managers of protection so far as their legal rights are concerned.

The radical group among the agents, the last to concede to the commission's supervision, were finally brought around when Charles Lowy, attorney for the Commission, induced Harry Sokolov, attorney for the objecting agents, to accept the agreement for his clients. Through the agreement, the agents have the right to attach clients in agent-client disputes and can take their cases to court with the consent of the Commission.

Holman Takes Over Jaffe Duties at Col.

William S. Holman, Columbia business manager, on Saturday was assigned to the duties from which Sam Jaffe resigned last week. Holman has been with the studio for two and a half years.

This arrangement, it is understood, practically eliminates the position that Jaffe had, since Holman takes on his duties besides those he has always had.

May Robson a Jewish Mother in 'Four Walls'

May Robson was assigned Saturday to a Jewish mother part in "Four Walls" that is said to compare with the mother part in "Humoresque" for appeal. Christian Rub also got a berth in the picture.

Paul Sloane started direction Friday. Franchot Tone and Gladys George have the leads.

Danish Dancers Win MGM Hollywood Trip

Amsterdam.—A Danish couple won MGM's international dancing contest in the finals here last week, and will be rewarded with a trip to Hollywood. Twenty nations entered finalists.

Theatres Consolidate

(Continued from Page 1)

tion, and that the operations of the new set-up will be carried on jointly by Earl St. John, of Paramount, and the Hyams Brothers. Paramount plans to retain a large interest and its executives will remain as at present. This proposed merger is one of the questions that will be discussed by company executives at the Los Angeles convention.

There is another report, but not so well-founded, that Paramount may consolidate all its British interests into one group with a 4,000,000 pound stock issue to be offered to the public.

Not that it MATTERS

by Helen Gwynn

Well, the Paramount convention gets under way with a bang today, so we might just as well give you a rough idea of what one of the opening guns of the new season product will be like when fired for Fall release. Needless to say, the column will be devoted to Cecil DeMille's "Cleopatra" and we only wish that we had enough space to reprint the reams of statistics a hard-working publicity office has gone to great lengths to collect.

One thing is certain, though, a De Mille production is all movie and always manages to offer exploitation ideas that have always swept the public off its feet and up to the delirious heights of entertainment. There's nothing to bother the mind but plenty to please the eye and ear. It represents the best kind of luxury—to forget the present with its troubles and to recall the good, old lavish days. It's done with all the imaginative scope of a completely bourgeois idea of heaven, plus every material facility and modern appliance that a great studio has to offer.

•

F'instance: More than five thousand people were employed in the picture.

The DeMille bathtub, in this instance, measures 100 by 150 feet.

The feathers of 600 pheasants were used to make fans.

It took the hair of 700 European peasants to make the wigs.

Sixty-five gallons of body make-up were used to get the proper tan.

More than four tons of armor were cast to be worn by the Roman and Egyptian soldiers.

The plaster shop at Paramount hired 120 sculptors and plaster workers to make the Sphinxes, columns and other set pieces.

Cleopatra's palatial barge, one of the most lavish things described in history, is exactly reproduced, both as to exterior and interior.

Among the animal bit players are eight peacocks, four leopards and two asps.

It took 600 ostrich feathers to make up the solid feathered arch before which stood Cleopatrat's couch.

•

The above statistics have been quoted verabtim, but if you really want to know just how "colossal" DeMille can be, listen to this: The term insert in pictures means a small but special effect, put into the picture after the scene has been shot, or a close-up of a letter one of the actors might have been reading, or a full close-up of a hand or something like that. Well, someone was escorting a group of visitors over the Paramount lot the other day, when they came upon a huge set, filled with awe-inspiring columns, a huge facade of an ancient building and everything built on a tremendous scale. One of the visitors asked what this set was and the languid reply was: "That? Oh, that's just a DeMille insert!"

Calhoun Will Take Lindsey NRA Post

While no official announcement has been made, it was learned yesterday that B. P. Calhoun, counsel for the Southern California NRA Compliance Board, has been selected to take the place of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, who resigned from the position of Special Compliance Officer.

Calhoun worked with Judge Lindsey throughout his turbulent term of office, and sat in with him on the hearings of the complaints by studio workers when the studios refused to recognize Judge Lindsey's jurisdiction.

It was also learned yesterday that when Charles Cunningham, head of the local compliance office, turned the disputed complaints over to the Studio Labor Committee last week, he withheld those complaints in which the complainants had stated they wanted their names kept from Pat Casey.

All of the testimony given before Judge Lindsey at the hearings has been retained by the Judge, who has stated that he will never surrender it to anyone but the workers themselves.

MGM To Make Baseball Backgrounds in St. Louis

John Waters, MGM special director, left last night for St. Louis to make baseball diamond and grandstand background shots. He was accompanied by Ray Binger, cameraman, and will meet another MGM cameraman, Len Smith.

Lucien Hubbard ordered the atmosphere-recording expedition for material for use in "Death on the Diamond," or another baseball story. He figures on producing some baseball story on his return frm Europe this Fall.

Warner Executive Quits To Build Theatre Chain

New York.—Moe Rosenberg, a Warner Brothers executive and brother-in-law of Major Albert Warner, has resigned in order to build up his own chain of theatres.

He already owns three houses in New Jersey and is negotiating to take over some others.

Monogram Gives Up Porter Yarns to Radio

Through an arrangement with Monogram, Radio purchased two Gene Stratton Porter stories Saturday.

Monogram has an option on all the Porter stories, but relinquished its rights on "Laddie" and "Freckles."

Gloria Shea Signed

Gloria Shea has been signed for the lead in the first Bob Steele western for Supreme Pictures, "Demon for Trouble," which Bob Hill directs from a script by Jack Natteford. The balance of the cast consists of Don Alvarado, Walter McGrail, Carmen LaRoux and Lafe McKee.

Hackett-Goodrich Set

Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich were assigned the screen play of "Ah, Wilderness," Clarence Brown's next directorial assignment, at MGM Saturday.

RKO-RADIO CONVENTION OPENS IN CHICAGO TODAY

Chicago.—RKO-Radio opens its annual sales convention at the Drake Hotel this morning, with more than 250 executives, branch managers and salesmen attending. The convention winds up Wednesday.

Jules Levy, vice-president, will preside and deliver the address of welcome. He will be followed by Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO-Radio Distributing Corporation, and B. B. Kahane, president of RKO-Radio Studios, who will speak on the wind-up pictures of the current season. As part of the morning session, Levy will name the members of the organization who have won promotion from within the ranks during the past year. This will be followed by a review of the past season.

This afternoon's program will be featured by short talks on short subjects. A. J. Mertz, short subjects sales manager, will discuss two-reel comedies, and Fred McConnell, general manager of the Van Beuren Corporation, will comment on animated cartoons and adventure-travel pictures. Jack Connolly, general manager of Pathe News, will tell of the reel's developments during the year.

Also on today's program will be a discussion by E. Heyl, vice-president of RCA Photophone, of the latest developments in recording and reproduction of sound. Joseph Skelly, manaegr of exchange operations, Edward Horne, manager of the print and negative department, and Louis Gaudreau, purchasing agent and manager of the accessories department, will also speak.

Tonight all the delegates will be the guests of the Palace theatre. Ben Bernie will be master of ceremonies, and on the program will be Bert Wheeler, Frank Buck and Morton Downey.

Florence Rice To Have Lead With McLaglen

Florence Rice's first role in pictures will be an important one, according to Columbia, which announced that she gets the top spot with Victor McLaglen in the Lewis Milestone picture, "The Captain Hates the Sea." Columbia has her under long term contract.

Caldwell For MGM

New York.—Erskine Caldwell, author of "Tobacco Road," left for Los Angeles Saturday to work on the scripting of Ann Austin's "A Wicked Woman" for MGM. The picture is to feature Mady Christians, under direction of Charles Brabin.

Ornitz to Universal

Samuel Ornitz goes to Universal today to write added material for "Imitation of Life," John Stahl's directional work to start next week. Harry Ham, of the Selznick-Joyce office, placed the writer.

Pollock Play Refused

The script of Channing Pollock's play, "Synthetic Gentleman," has been shipped back to New York with thanks by MGM. Larry Weingarten brought it out as train reading but decided against it for his department.

Four Newcomers At London Houses

London.—Four American pictures are making their bows to London audiences this week. They are "This Side of Heaven" at the Empire, "Success at Any Price" and "Thirty Day Princess" at the Plaza, and "Hi, Nellie" at the Regal.

The hold-overs, all of which are doing well, are "The House of Rothschild," "Murder at the Vanities," and "Roman Scandals," which has one more week to run.

Ruth Donnelly Loaned To 'U' For 'Romance'

Universal obtained the loan of Ruth Donnelly from Warners Saturday for a leading role in the Stanley Bergerman picture, "Romance in the Rain."

Warners is negotiating in exchange a deal for the loan of Paul Lukas and wants him for the title spot in "King of the Ritz." Robert Terry Shannon and Albert J. Cohen are preparing the screen play under Sam Bischoff's supervision.

Lucien Hubbard Going Abroad For 2 Months

Lucien Hubbard has booked himself for the Ile de France, sailing July 28, for a couple of months vacation in Europe before getting inovlved in his baseball feature.

Before going he will see his productions, "All Good Americans" and "Four Walls" (just started Friday), turned in, and will do the final polishing on "Murder in the Private Car."

Clive Brook To Do One For British-Gaumont

London.—Clive Brook, here on a vacation, cannot resist working and has accepted a deal from British Gaumont to work in an as yet untitled picture. Noll Gurney, of the Schulberg, Feldman and Gurney office, is handling the deal.

B-G has cabled an offer to Michael Curtiz to make the trip here to direct the Brook picture.

Fox Signs Spanish Star

Fox has placed Rosita Moreno under a five-picture ticket for Spanish productions. She is teamed with Jose Mojica in "No Marriage," a direct shot Spanish picture which John Rinehart is directing under John Stone's supervision.

Ten Newsreels in Paris

Paris.—The tenth newsreel theatre for this city has just been opened by the newspaper, Le Petit Parisien. Most of the daily papers now have newsreel theatres running very successfully.

Two For Select Cast

New York.—Melvyn Douglas and Rosco Ates have been added to the cast of "Woman in the Dark," which Select Pictures is producing at the Biograph studios.

New Alignment For Bren, Orsatti, Marx

It's a new deal this morning for the Bren, Orsatti and Marx agency, with the Milton Bren Company and Orsatti and Company replacing the old organization. Zeppo Marx is no longer connected with the firm.

Both new concerns will remain in the offices of the former firm, at 9000 Sunset. Milton Bren has taken over more than 50 of the Bren, Orsatti and Marx office clients, and Frank Orsatti will handle 27. Marx has taken five personal clients that he brought into the concern and has been paid back his investment.

Tunesters in Writers' Guild Preparing Code

A committee of the song-writers in the Screen Writers' Guild has been appointed to draft a code which will deal with their particular problems when the conferences with the producers start.

Edward Eliscu is chairman and the members are Richard Rodgers, Larry Hart, Bert Kalmar, Harry Ruby and William Kernell.

'Peck's Bad Boy' Off on Santa Ana Location

Eddie Cline takes a troupe of 42 to Santa Ana today for four days' location work on "Peck's Bad Boy," starting tomorrow. The outfit checks in again at the RKO-Pathe lot Friday and is off to work Saturday at Sunland, with interiors to be done next week at the studio.

Jackie Cooper and Thomas Meighan are high cards in Sol Lesser's first deal in his new production program.

Dieterle Passes Up 'Firebird' Direction

"Firebird," supposedly intended for an early spot in Warner production, is again directorless, William Dieterle passing the bet. The Lajos Zilahy play has never had an official meg assignment, but Al Green was mentioned before he took "Lost Lady."

"Firebird" is on Henry Blanke's schedule, and the screen play is by Ralph Block and Doris Malloy.

New RCA Installations

New York.—RCA reports installations of its high fidelity sound equipment in the Palace Theatre, Mexia, Texas; the Ritz, Memphis, Tenn.; the Imperial, South Pittsburg, Tenn.; the Roxy, Weatherly, Pa., and the Dunbar, now being built at Lockland, Ohio.

Newsreel For Rumania

Bucharest.—The Rumanian government has decided to create a national sound newsreel. Minister Mavrodi, chief of the censorship board, has advertised for bids from local and American companies.

Czechs Want Our Pix

Prague.—It is rumored here that the Czechoslovakian government is seriously considering reopening negotiations for the import of American films. The public wants American films, and is bringing pressure.

Paramount Will Have 11 Pictures In Work In July

Getting a start on the 1934-35 program, Paramount will have at least 11 pictures in work during July. Of the six before the cameras today, only one will carry into next month, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which Norman Taurog directs, with W. C. Fields, Zasu Pitts, Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor in the cast.

"Pursuit of Happiness," with Francis Lederer, Joan Bennett, Walter Kinsford, Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland, Ralph Murphy directing; 'Ready For Love," with Marion Gering directing Richard Arlen and Ida Lupino, and "Enter Madame," which Elliott Nugent directs, with Cary Grant, go into production this week.

Other pictures in preparation which will start before the end of July are "Limehouse Nights" with Sylvia Sidney and George Raft; Damon Runyon's "Lemon Drop Kid"; "Wagon Wheels" with Randolph Scott, which will be co-directed by Arthur Jacobson and Charles Barton; "Ruggles of Red Gap," Leo McCarey directing Charles Laughton, Mary Boland, Charles Ruggles and Guy Standing; "Back Porch," Norman McLeod directing W. C. Fields; "Shoe the Wild Mare," Edward G. Robinson, Henry Wilcoxon and William Frawley in the cast, and "College Rhythm," with Joe Penner, Lanny Ross and Richard Arlen.

Four of the six pictures n ow in work will be finished within the next week, with another one, "You Belong To Me," scheduled for finishing before the end of the month.

Lupe Off For Personals; Returns to Columbia

Her MGM contract expiring today makes Lupe Velez her own mistress professionally. She flies East tomorrow for two more weeks' personals, one in Chicago and one in Detroit, booked by Selznick-Joyce.

Then she flies back and starts work the day of her return in William Rowland's first Columbia production, "The Girl Friend," for which her deal was definitely signed Saturday by Jimmy Townsend, of the S-J office.

CONVENTION PROGRAM

Today: Addresses by George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager; Neil Agnew, general sales manager; John Hicks, Jr., vice-president of Paramount International Corp., and the makers of newsreels and short subject.

Tonight: Screening of newly-completed product at the Ambassador Hotel theatre.

Tomorrow: Discussion of production plans for 1934-35.
Wednesday: Discussion of exploitation and theatre problems.
Thursday: Discussion of sales and other exhibition matters.

Mae West Greets the Para.Delegates

Mae West sent her own welcome to the delegates to the Paramount convention. Here it is:

"When they told me 300 new men were coming to Hollywood, especially Paramount men, I took the day off. You're due for several surprises here. Pleasant ones. I'm getting one ready for you now—'It Ain't No Sin.' I'd like to have every one of you come up an' see me, but you have to get a permit here to hold a meeting. Seriously, though, I appreciate the splendid salesmanship and showmanship which every one in Paramount has demonstrated in handling my pictures. You've done right by me, and you have my word that you're the men in my life I'll never do wrong."

Frances Drake Wanted For Joan Bennett Spot

Eph Asher is setting a deal with Paramount for the loan of Frances Drake for the role in "Million Dollar Ransom" which Joan Bennett vacated.

Miss Bennett was given her release from a contract in order to swing over to Paramount for "Pursuit of Happiness," the Francis Lederer picture, Universal converting her ticket into a future commitment.

Ericksen Returns

Clarence E. Ericksen, business manager of the Fairbanks Picture Corporation, returns today from a month in the East, conferring on the United Artists' handling of "The Return of Don Juan."

New Story For Veidt

London. — British Gaumont has bought "The King of the Damned" as the next starring vehicle for Conrad Veidt.

Towne and Baker Out Of Fox, Wanted by Para.

Gene Towne and Graham Baker conclude a 30-week loan-out to Fox next Monday and return to Twentieth Century. They were first loaned for six weeks to work out an original with Raoul Walsh.

Paramount is said to have renewed a bid for the writing team, passed by when the Fox loan deal started, with the possibility that the team will just pass through the home offices at United Artists.

MGM Sets Presnell

Robert Presnell is set at MGM to start working this week on the screen play of "The Casino Murder Case," William Powell's first spot in his new contract. The S. S. Van Dine story was adapted by Joseph Gollomb.

Shauer Entertains Para.Foreign Group

Delegates from foreign countries to the Paramount convention were entertained yesterday at a cocktail party in their honor, given by Melville Shauer, assistant to Albert Kaufman.

Among the guests were: John W. Hicks, Jr., Eugene Zukor, George Weltner, Albert Deane, John Cecil Graham, general manager for Great Britain; Earl St. John, director of theatres in Great Britain; Montague Goldman, director of sales in Great Britain; John L. Day, general director for South America; Carl York, general director for Scandinavia; M. J. Messeri, general director for Spain, and Jim Perkins, sales director in the Orient.

Among the many stars who attended the party were: Marlene Dietrich, Richard Arlen, Jobyna Ralston, Mary Boland, Carl Brisson, Kitty Carlisle, Frances Drake, John Lodge, Ida Lupino, Carole Lombard, Helen Mack, Gail Patrick, Charles Laughton.

Jay Henry East

Completing his work in "The Notorious Sophie Lang" Saturday, Jay Henry, Paramount player, left yesterday by automobile for New York. While there he will negotiate for a play.

Paramount Convention Opens

(Continued from Page 1)

president of Paramount International Corporation, and the makers of newsreels and comedy cartoons.

It was announced from New York some days ago that the new plan for the reorganization of Paramount would be told to the delegates, but last night no one in authority would say whether or not this would be done

Tonight's session will be held in the Ambassador Hotel theatre. It will be devoted to the showing of recently completed Paramount pictures, many of which the company executives believe will play a considerable part in setting the modes for world picture entertainment during the coming year.

Tomorrow's session will be devoted entirely to the discussion of the studio's plans for the 1934-35 production program. The delegates will be given the opportunity to air their views on the styles of picture entertainment they feel will meet with the greatst success in this period of changing modes and fancies. Tomorrow night the picture schedule for the year will be told.

On Wednesday the matter of advertising and theatre problems will come up for discussion. Considerable debate is expected on the advertising problem, because of the big drive that has been made against pictures during the past few weeks.

Thursday, the final day of the convention, will find sales problems and sundry exhibiiton matters holding the floor, with the wind-up coming Thursday night.

CONVENTION PERSONNEL

Following is the list of delegates in attendance at the Paramount convention, opening today at the Ambassador Hotel:

Adolph Zukor, president; George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager; Neil F. Agnew, general sales manager; Emanuel Cohen, vice-president in charge of production; John Hicks, Jr., vice-president of Paramount International Corporation; Frank Freeman, vice-president Famous Theatres Co.; Sam Dembow, Jr., vice-president Famous Theatres Co.; Louis Phillips, legal department; Lou Diamond, News and Shorts; Max Fleischer, Cartoons; Russell Holman, New York Production Dept. representative.

DIVISION NO. 1

Milton S. Kusell, N. Y.; Myron Sattler, N. Y.; Henry Randel, Brooklyn; Edward H. Bell, New Jersey; Clayton G. Eastman, Albany; Kenneth G. Robinson, Buffalo; Irwin Lesser, N. Y.; Bernard P. Brooks, New Jersey; Percy A. Bloch, Philadelphia; Earle W. Sweigert, Philadelphia; Harry Hunter, Washington; James J. Oulahan, Washington; Ulrik Smith, Philadelphia; Harry H. Goldstein, Cleveland; John Himmelein, Cleveland; Dave Kimelman, Pittsburgh; M. R. Clark, Columbus; George A. Smith, Cincinnati; John B. Gardner, Columbus.

DIVISION NO. 2

Wm. H. Erbb, Boston; J. H. Stevens, Boston; John Moore, Boston; Albert M. Kane, New Haven; Edward Ruff, Maine; Lester Hughes, Maine; Oscar Morgan, Atlanta; Dave Prince, Atlanta; Wm. F .Bugie, Memphis; John Kirby, Charlotte; Scott E. Chesnutt, Jacksonville; Harold F. Wilkes, New Orleans; Lonzo A. Lowe, Atlanta; E. M Adams, Charlotte; Jack B. Dugger, Dallas; Harold E. Pickett, Dallas; Cecil E. House, San Antonio; Sidney R. Simpson, Oklahoma City; John J. Curry, Oklahoma City.

DIVISION NO. 3

J. E. (Ed) Fontaine, Chicago; Allen Usher, Chicago; Elmer J. Bernard, Chicago; Otto W. Bolle, Detroit; Charles J. Bell, Detroit; Jim O. Kent, Milwaukee; John T. Howard, Indianapolis; Wm. Esch, Indianapolis; Ralph C. LiBeau, Kansas City; James T. Manfre, Kansas City; Maurice Schweitzer, St. Louis; Arthur H. Cole, Kansas City; R. M. Copeland Des Moines; Albert Mendenhall Omaha; P. W. Robbins, Des Moines; Hugh W. Braly, Denver; Walter P. Wiens Denver; Chas. G. Epperson, Salt Lake; Frank Smith, Salt Lake; Myke H. Lewis, Los Angeles; Carroll N. Peacock, Los Angeles; Jack Bettencourt, San Francisco; Frank C. Clark, Portland; H. Neal East, Seattle; Mozart C. Burles, Los Angeles; Glenn H. Haviland, Seattle; Ben Blotcky, Minneapolis; James J. Donahue, Minneapolis; W. D. Woods, Minneapolis; A. R. Anderson, Sioux Falls; LeRoy M. Palmquist, Minneapolis.

CANADA

Morris A. Milligan, Gen. Mgr., Toronto; W. J. O'Neill, Toronto; Jack Hunter, Toronto; Manuel A. Brown, Montreal; Dave Brickman, Winnipeg; Patrick J. Hogan, St. John; Wm. Hansher, Vancouver; Wm. O. Kelly, Calgary; Tom Dowbiggen, Montreal.

DISTRIBUTION

Joseph J. Unger, Division Manager; R. M. Gillham, Director of Advertising and Publicity; Don Velde, Ad Sales Director; Tom Baily, Studio Publicity Director; William Pine, Studio Advertising Director; Larry Flynn, Transportation; Herman J. Lorber, Asst. to Mr. Agnew; G. Knox Haddow, Arthur J. Dunne, Fred A. Leroy, Jack Roper, G. B. J. Frawley,

FOREIGN

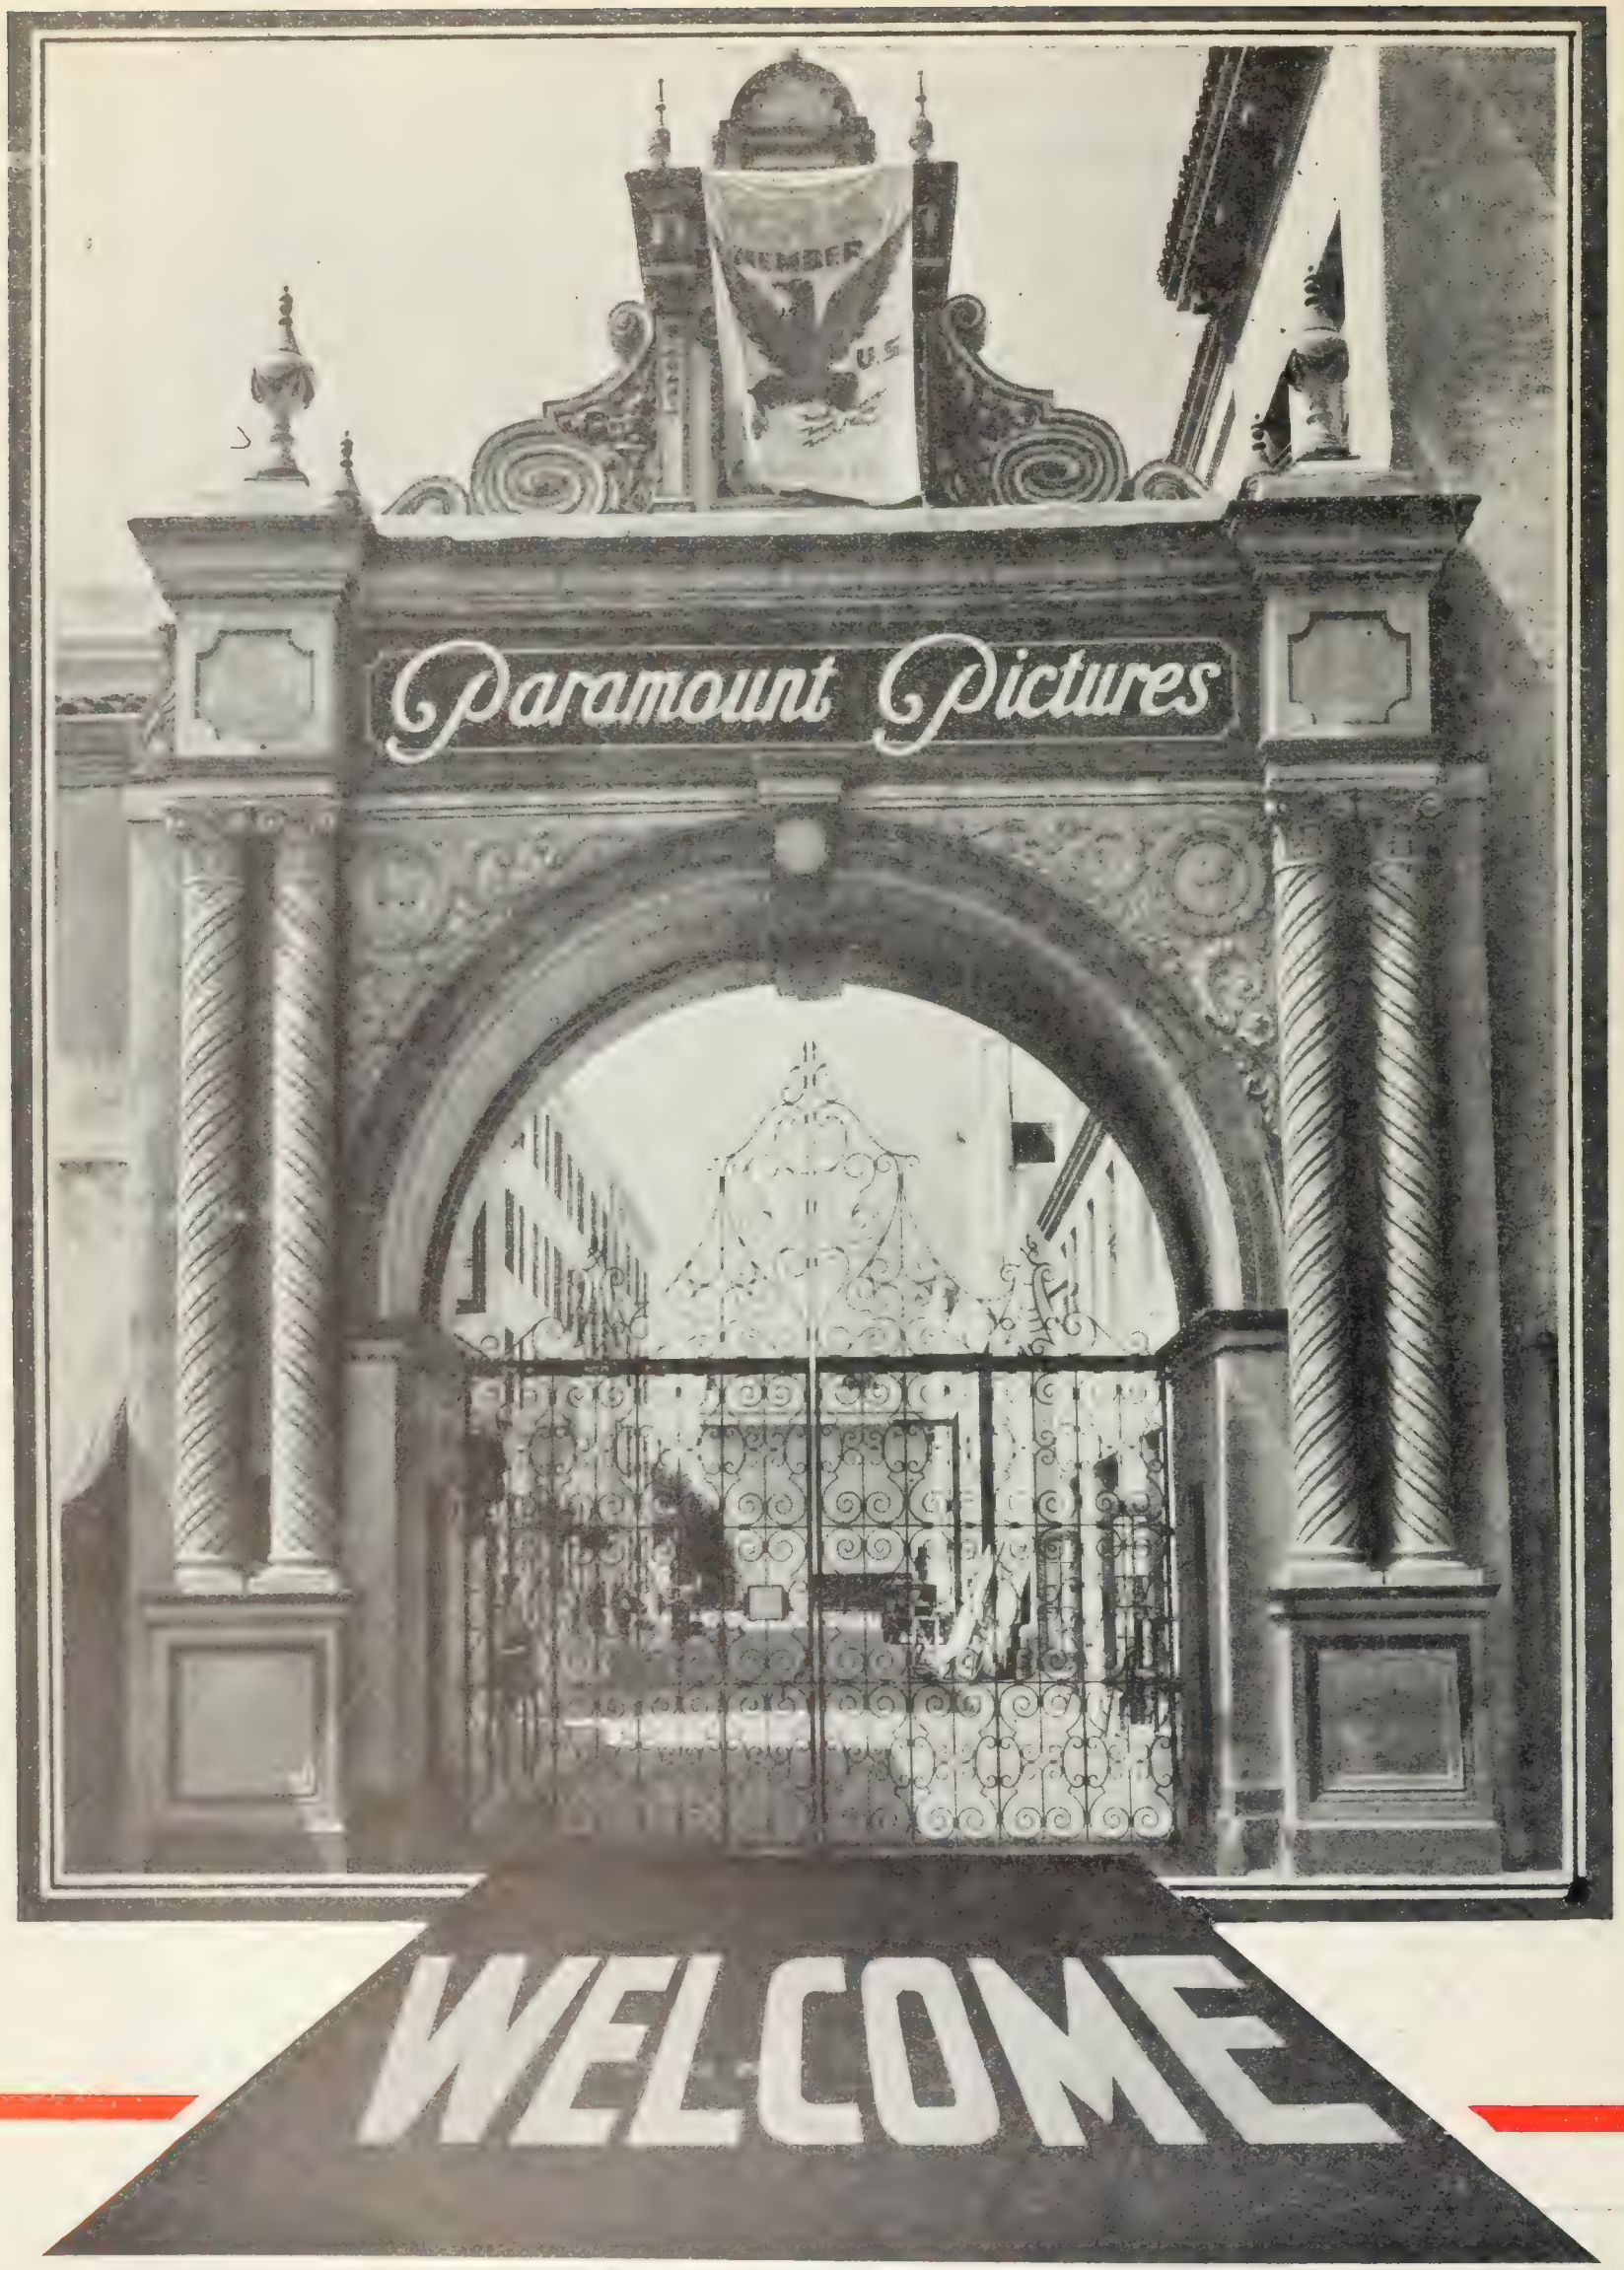
Eugene Zukor, Special Representative Paramount International Corp.; John Cecil Graham, Managing Director Great Britain and Ireland; George Weltner, Montague Goldman, arl St. John, Carl P. York, M. J. Messeri, John Day, Albert Deane, Luigi Luraschi.

GUESTS OF THE CONVENTION
(Paramount Theatre Partners)

Barney Balaban, Chicago; John Balaban, Chicago; Carl Bamford, Asheville; Ed Beatty, Detroit; Abe H. Blank, Des Moines; Ralph Branton, Des Moines; Col. W. S. Butterfield, Detroit, J. Clemmens, Beaumont; M. B. Comerford, Scranton; M. E. Comerford, Scranton; Joseph H. Cooper, N. Y.; John J. Fitzgibbons; J. Ford, Boston; John J. Friendl, Minneapolis; N. Goldstein, Springfield; S. Gordon, Beaumont; Carl Hoblitzelle, Dallas; Jules J. Rubens, Chicago; Edward J. Sparks, Jacksonville; R. B. Wilby, Atlanta; W. K. Jenkins, Atlanta; P. K. Johnston, Dallas; H. L. Kincey, Charlotte; M. A. Lightman, Memphis; C. E. Linz, Dallas; A. Lucas, Atlanta; Vincent E. McFaul, Buffalo; Lou Marcus, Salt Lake City; Martin J. Mullin, Boston; Harry Nace, Phoenix; N. Nathanson, Toronto; Robert J. O'Donnell, Dallas; H. Perry, Charlottesville; Sam Pinanski, Boston; E. V. Richards, New Orleans; Harold Robb, Little Rock; E. Rowley, Little Rock; George Trendle, Detroit; F. C. Walker, Scranton; Geo. Zeppos, Wheeling.

GREETING
...TO PARAMOUNT'S INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION . . . . .

•



EXPLOITATION AND SALES PLACE THE STAMP OF SUCCESS UPON PARAMOUNT PICTURES

•

BENJAMIN GLAZER
ARTHUR HORNBLOW, JR.
HAROLD HURLEY
WILLIAM LeBARON
ALBERT LEWIS
LOUIS D. LIGHTON
DOUGLAS MacLEAN
E. LLOYD SHELDON
BAYARD VEILLER

PARAMOUNT PRODUCERS

Paramount Pictures
WELCOME

THE Paramount Production Personnel joins me in extending cordial greetings and a hearty welcome to the delegates gathered here for the annual Paramount Convention.

We are happy to have you with us and have been awaiting the opportunity to unfold the Paramount production program for the coming year...a program we believe will be worthy of the finest sales organization in the Motion Picture Industry.

EMANUEL COHEN
Vice President in Charge of Production

GREETINGS!

TO OUR PARAMOUNT CONVENTION FRIENDS from the

PARAMOUNT STUDIO STAFF and our

"SURE-FIRE" HIT WRITERS

RALPH RAINGER — LEO ROBIN
ARTHUR JOHNSTON — SAM COSLOW
MACK GORDON — HARRY REVEL

During the past year you have been given:

"WE'RE NOT DRESSING" — "THE WAY TO LOVE"
"I'M NO ANGEL" — "BOLERO"
"SITTING PRETTY" — "THE TRUMPET BLOWS"
"COLLEGE HUMOR" — "MANY HAPPY RETURNS"
"TOO MUCH HARMONY" — "LITTLE MISS MARKER"
"MURDER AT THE VANITIES"

Music in preparation:

"IT AIN'T NO SIN" — "BIG BROADCAST OF 1934"
"SHOOT THE WORKS" — "COLLEGE RHYTHM"
"SHE LOVES ME NOT" — "HERE IS MY HEART"
"OLD FASHIONED WAY" — "GENTLEMEN'S CHOICE"

Musically Yours,

NATHANIEL FINSTON

General Music Director,

Paramount Productions, Inc.

Greetings
and Best Wishes
to
PARAMOUNT
CONVENTION DELEGATES

from
WALTER
De LEON

WILLIAM
SLAVENS
McNUTT

✝

PARAMOUNT

"ALOHA" PARAMOUNTEERS

✝

Happy to be one of you for the 1934-35 Season
PARAMOUNT is still PARAMOUNT

✝

Paramount Pictures

CHARLES R. ROGERS

NORMAN Z. McLEOD

directed

"MAMA LOVES PAPA"

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND"

"MELODY IN SPRING"

"MANY HAPPY RETURNS"

In Preparation:

"BACK PORCH"

with W. C. Fields

—●—

PARAMOUNT

Greetings—

PARAMOUNT CONVENTION

from

HENRY HATHAWAY

Now Directing

"Now and Forever"

A Paramount Picture

WELCOME

Paramount Convention Delegates

NORMAN TAUROG

DIRECTOR

"WE'RE NOT DRESSING"

Featuring Bing Crosby

NOW IN PRODUCTION

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch"

JACK
CUNNINGHAM

†

Writing for
PARAMOUNT

WALDEMAR
YOUNG

Writing for
PARAMOUNT

+

FORTHCOMING RELEASE
"CLEOPATRA"
(In collaboration with Vincent Lawrence)

CONGRATULATIONS
TO JACK HALEY
FOR HIS PERFORMANCE
IN
"HERE COMES
THE GROOM"

"It's an all right comedy, made better in its brighter moments by the presence of Jack Haley and Mary Boland. The main advantage of a picture like this is that it is decidedly a good starting point from which to build Jack Haley to stardom for the fans, and there is no reason to doubt the fact that the fans will appreciate the build-up. He's a grand picture bet."
—Hollywood Reporter, June 6, 1934

"Jack Haley was given a swell chance in story, set-up, direction and support, to top as full-fledged comedian in "Here Comes The Groom," and he comes through with flying colors in an ace of entertainment. Picture is hilarious farce which should take care of itself in any spot.

Haley shows an individual, ingratiating style and smartly handles the fresh gags, the novel situations and the amusing character slants provided by story."—Variety, June 6, 1934.

"Throughout Haley builds up smoothly the character of an earnest fumbler whom the picture fans are going to find very likeable. His performance will entrench him strongly, I think, on Paramount's roster of comedians."
—Hollywood Citizen--News, June 6, 1934.

(Signed) LOUIS SHURR, Mgr.
1482 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

PICTURES Now SHOOTING

PRODUCTION UP WITH 36 IN WORK

BAROMETER

This Week	36 Features
Last Week	34 Features
Year Ago	25 Features
Two Years Ago	31 Features
Three Years Ago	32 Features

Columbia

"BROADWAY BILL"

Cast: Warner Baxter, Myrna Loy, Lynne Overman, Douglas Dumbrille, Margaret Hamilton, Raymond Walburn, Clarence Muse, George Cooper, Charles Levison, Charles Wilson, Ward Bond.
Director ..... Frank Capra
Original .....Mark Hellinger
Screen Play.....Robert Riskin
Photography .....Joseph Walker
Sound..... Edward Bernds
Producer.....Harry Cohn

Fox

"SHE WAS A LADY"

Cast: Helen Twelvetrees, Donald Woods, Ralph Morgan, Paul Harvey, Jackie Searl, Carol Kay, Doris Lloyd, Ann Howard, Monroe Owsley, Harold Goodwin, Barbara Weeks.
Director .....Hamilton MacFadden
Novel .....Elisabeth Cobb
Screen Play.....Gertrude Purcell
Photography .....Bert Glennon
Sound .....Don Flick
Producer .....Al Rockett

"SERVANTS' ENTRANCE"

Cast: Janet Gaynor, Lew Ayres, Walter Connolly, Louise Dresser, G. P. Huntley Jr., Sigfried Rumann, Buster Phelps, Ned Sparks, Katherine Doucet.
Director .....Frank Lloyd
Novel .....Sigrid Boo
Screen Play.....Samson Raphaelson
Photography .....Hal Mohr
Sound .....J. E. Aiken
Producer .....Winfield Sheehan

"JUDGE PRIEST"

Cast: Will Rogers, Brenda Fowler, Rochelle Hudson, Roger Imhoff, Tom Brown, Anita Louise, Frank Melton, Stepin Fetchit, Henry B. Walthall, Berton Churchill, Charles Grapewin, David Landau, Paul McAllister, Matt McHugh, Louis Mason, Hy Meyer, Hattie McDaniels.
Director .....John Ford
Short Stories.....Irvin S. Cobb
Screen Play.....Dudley Nicholls and Lamar Trotti
Photography .....George Schneiderman
Sound .....Al Protzman
Producer ..... Sol Wurtzel

"WANTED"

Cast: Rosemary Ames, Russell Hardie, Pert Kelton, Victor Jory, George Irving.
Director .....Louis King
Screen Play .....Lester Cole and Stuart Anthony
Photography.....L. W. O'Connell
Sound .....S. C. Chapman
Producer .....Sol Wurtzel

"SERENADE"

Cast: Pat Patterson, Nils Asther, James Burke.
Director .....James Tinling
Story .....Richard Carroll
Screen Play.....Richard Miller
Photography.....Ernest Miller
Sound .....George Leverett

MGM

"BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET"

Cast: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Sullivan, Ferdinand Munier, Katharine Alexander, Marion Clayton, Ian Woolf, Una O'Connor, Vernon Downing, Neville Clark, Matthew Smith, Robert Carlton, Allan Conrad, Peter Hobbes, Ralph Forbes, Lowden Adams, Leo G. Carroll.
Director .....Sidney Franklin
From play by.....Rudolf Besier
Screen Play.....Claudine West and Ernest Vajda
Add. Dialogue..Donald Ogden Stewart
Photography .....William Daniels
Producer .....Irving Thalberg

"THE MERRY WIDOW"

Cast: Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Minna Gombell, Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, Barbara Leonard, Sterling Holloway, George Barbier, Joan Gale, Sheila Manora, Leona Walters, Edna Walde, Barbara Barondess, Shirley Ross, Dorothy Granger, Jean Hart, Elinor Hunt, Dorothy Wilson, Jill Dennett, Maria Troubetylcoy, Tyler Brooke, Cosmo Kyrle Bellew, George Lewis, John Merkyl, Charles Requa, Fifi D'Orsay, Dewey Robinson.
Director .....Ernst Lubitsch
Original Operetta.....Franz Lehar
Screen Play.....Ernest Vajda and Samson Raphaelson
Dance Director .....Albertina Rasch
Photography .....Oliver Marsh
Producer .....Irving Thalberg

"SACRED AND PROFANE LOVE"

Cast: Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Otto Kruger, Stuart Erwin, Una O'Connor, Marjorie Gateson, Akim Tamiroff, Paul Porcasi.
Director .....Clarence Brown
Original .....Edgar Selwyn
Screen Play.....John Lee Mahin
Photography .....George Folsey
Producer .....Hunt Stromberg

"THE STUDENT TOUR"

Chast: Charles Butterworth, Jimmy Durante, Phil Regan, Maxine Doyle, Florinne McKinney, Monte Blue, Dewey Robinson, Doug Fowley, Mary Loos.
Director .....Charles F. Reisner
Original Screen Play: Arthur Bloch and George Seaton.
Adaptation .....Philip Dunne
Dialogue .....Ralph Spence
Photography .....Joseph Valentine
Producer .....Monta Bell

"ALL GOOD AMERICANS"

Cast: Robert Young, Una Merkel, Madge Evans, Otto Kruger, Ted Healy, Louise Henry, Edward Brophy, Bert Roach, James Donlan.
Director .....Edwin Marin
Original Play..S. J. and Laura Perelman
Screen Play.....Wells Root
Photography .....Milton Krasner
Producer .....Lucien Hubbard

"THE HIDE-OUT"

Cast: Robert Montgomery, Muriel Evans, Ed Brophy, Mickey Rooney, Louise Henry.
Director .....W. S. Van Dyke
Original ....Mauri Grashin
Screen Play.....Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich
Dance Numbers.....Arthur Appel and Chester Hale
Photography .....Ray June
Producer ..... Hunt Stromberg

"FOUR WALLS"

Cast: Franchot Tone, Karen Morley, Gladys George, Henry Wadsworth, Jack LaRue, C. Henry Gordon, Nat Pendleton.
Director .....Paul Sloane
Play .....Dana Burnet and George Abbott
Photography .....Lucien Andriot
Producer .....Lucien Hubbard

"HAVE A HEART"

Cast: Jean Parker, Una Merkel, Stuart Erwin, James Dunn.
Director .....David Butler
Original .....David Butler and B. G. DeSylva
Dialogue and Continuity: Florence Ryerson and Edgar Allan Woolf.
Photography.....James Wong Howe
Producer .....John Considine

Paramount

"THE NOTORIOUS SOPHIE LANG"

Cast: Gertrude Michael, Paul Cavanagh, Arthur Byron, Alison Skipworth, Ben Taggart, Leon Errol, Norman Ainsley, Arthur Hoyt, Edward McWade, Del Henderson, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Lucio Villegas, Madame Jacoby, Stanhope Wheatcroft, William Jeffries, Jack Mulhall, Perry Ivans, Alphonse Martell, Adrian Rosley.
Director .....Ralph Murphy
Original....Frederick Irving Anderson
Screen Play .....Anthony Veiller and Frederick Irving Anderson
Photography.....Al Gilks
Sound ..... Harry Lindgren
Producer .....Bayard Veiller

"NOW AND FOREVER"

Cast: Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard, Shirley Temple, Sir Guy Standing, Charlotte Granville, Tetsu Komai, Jameson Thomas, Gilbert Emery, Henry Kolker, Harry Stubbs, Egon Brecher, Buster Phelps.
Director .....Henry Hathaway
Original: Jack Kirkland and Melville Baker.
Adaptation .....Austin Parker
Screen Play: Vincent Lawrence and Sylvia Thalberg.
Music ..... Harry Revel
Lyrics .....Mack Gordon
Photography .....Harry Fischbeck
Sound .....Harry Lewis
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

"ELMER AND ELSIE"

Cast: George Bancroft, Frances Fuller, Roscoe Karns, George Barbier, Nella Walker, Charles Sellon, Helena Phillips Evans, Ruth Clifford, Albert Conti, Vera Stedman, Helene Lynch, Marie Wells, Eddie Baker, Duke York, William Robins, Alf P. James.
Director .....Gilbert Pratt
Original: George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly.
Screen Play.....Humphrey Pearson
Photography .....William Mellor
Sound .....A. W. Singley
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

"YOU BELONG TO ME"

Cast: Lee Tracy, Helen Mack, Arthur Pierson, David Jack Holt, Lynne Overman, Helen Morgan.
Driector .....Alfred Werker
Original .....Elizabeth Alexander
Adaptation: Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt.
Screen Play: Lynn Starling and Harry Ruskin.
Photography .....Leo Tover
Producer .....Louis D. Lighton

PICTURES Now SHOOTING

THIS WEEK AS COMPARED WITH 34 LAST WEEK

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"

Cast: Pauline Lord, W. C. Fields, Zasu Pitts, Jimmy Butler, George Breakstone, Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Edyth Fellows, Verginia Weidler, Carmencita Johnson, Donald Meek, Charles Middleton.
Director .....Norman Taurog
Original .....Alice Hegan Rice
Screen Play: William Slavens McNutt and Jane Storm.
Photography .....Charles Lang
Sound ..... Eugene Merritt
Producer .....Douglas MacLean

RKO-Radio

"HAT, COAT AND GLOVE"

Cast: Ricardo Cortez, Barbara Robbins, John Beal, Sara Hayden, Samuel Hinds, Murray Kinnell, Margaret Hamilton, Dorothy Burgess.
Director .....Worthington Minor
Play .....Wilhelm Speyer
Screen Play.....Francis Faragoh
Photography .....Roy Hunt
Sound .....George Ellis
Producer .....Kenneth Macgowan

"THE FOUNTAIN"

Cast: Ann Harding, Brian Aherne, Violet Kemble-Cooper, Paul Lukas, Jean Hersholt, Ralph Forbes, Sara Haden.
Director .....John Cromwell
Story .....Charles Morgan
Screen Play.....Jane Murfin
Photography .....James Van Trees
Sound .....Clem Portman
Producer.....Pandro S. Berman

"AGE OF INNOCENCE"

Cast: Irene Dunne, John Boles, Julie Hayden, Wesley Barry, Laura Hope Crews.
Director .....Philip Moeller
Novel .....Edith Wharton
Play.....Margaret Ayer Barnes
Screen Play.....Sarah Y. Mason and Jane Murfin
Photography .....Henry Gerrard
Sound .....John Cass
Producer.....Pandro S. Berman

United Artists

Samuel Goldwyn

"WE LIVE AGAIN"

Cast: Anna Sten, Fredric March, Gwendolin Logan, C. Aubrey Smith, Jessie Ralph, Jane Baxter, Ethel Griffies.
Director .....Rouben Mamoulian
Based on Novel by.....Leo Tolstoi
Screen Play ..... Leonard Praskins
Photography .....Gregg Toland

Reliance Pictures, Inc.

'COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO"

Cast: Robert Donat, Elissa Landi, Louis Calhern, Sidney Blackmer, O. P. Heggie, Raymond Walburn, Lawrence Grant, Luis Alberni, Georgia Caine, Irene Hervey, Douglas Walton, Ferdinand Munier, Lionel Belmore, William Farnum, Wilfred Lucas, Clarence Wilson, Tom Rickerrs, Clarence Muse, Helen Freeman, Holmes Herbert, Eleanor Phelps, Alphonse Martell, Russell Powell, Juliette Compton, Walter Walker, Paul Irving, Wallace Albright, Edward Keene, Stanley Fields.
Director.....Rowland V. Lee
Original .....Alexandre Dumas
Adaptation .....Harvey Thew and Harry Hervey
Screen Play and Dialogue ..... Philip Dunne and Dan Totheroh
Photography .....Peverell Marley
Producer .....Edward Small

"TRANS-ATLANTIC MERRY-GO-ROUND"

Cast: Jack Benny, Nancy Carroll, Gene Raymond, Sydney Howard, Sid Silvers, Sidney Blackmer, Ralph Morgan, Shirley Grey, Frank Parker, Jean Sargent, Robert Elliott, William (Stage) Boyd, Sam Hardy, Carlyle Moore, Wallis Clark, Esther Howard.
Director ..... Benjamin Stoloff
Original .....Leon Gordon
Additional Dialogue.....Ben Ryan and Harry W. Conn
Photography .....Teddy Tetzlaff
Producer.....Edward Small

Universal

"ONE MORE RIVER"

Cast: Diana Wynyard, Frank Lawton, Colin Clive, Henry Stephenson, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Jane Wyatt, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny, Kathleen Howard, Lionel Atwill, Alan Mowbray, Gilbert Emery, E. E. Clive, Robert Greig, Gunnis Davis, Tempe Pigott.
Director .....James Whale
Story .....John Galsworthy
Screen Play.....R. C. Sherriff
Photography .....John Mescal
Producer .....Carl Laemmle, Jr.

"THE RED RIDER"

(Serial)

Cast: Buck Jones, Grant Withers, Marion Shilling, Walter Miller, Richard Cramer, Margaret La Marr, Charles French, Edmund Cobb, J. P. McGowan, William Desmond, Mert LaVare, Frank Rice, Monte Montague, Jim Thorpe, Jim Corey, Bud Osborne, Al Ferguson, Silver, Lee Beggs, Dennie Meadows, Cliff Lyons.
Director .....Louis Friedlander
Original .....W. C. Tuttle
Screen Play: George Plympton, Bin Moore, Ella O'Neill, Basil Dickey.
Photography .....Richard Fryer
Sound .....Charles Carroll
Associate Producer.....Henry MacRae

"ROMANCE IN THE RAIN"

Cast: Roger Pryor, Heather Angel, Victor Moore, Phillip Reed, Ruth Donnelly, Marjorie Davidson, Esther Ralston.
Director .....Stuart Walker
Story .....Jay Gorney and Sig Hergiz
Screen Play.....Barry Trivers
Additional Dialogue.....John Weaver
Music.....Jay Gorney
Photography .....Charles Stumar
Producer .....Stanley Bergerman

"THE HUMAN SIDE"

Cast: Adolphe Menjou, Doris Kenyon, Dickie Moore, Reginald Owen, Betty Lawford.
Director .....Edward Buzzell
Play .....Christine Ames
Screen Play: Ernest Pascal, Nat Ferber and Rian James.
Photography.....Norbert Brodine
Associate Producer.....Eph Asher

"MILLION DOLLAR RANSOM"

Cast: Edward Arnold, Joel McCrea, Marjorie Gateson, Wini Shaw, Robert Gleckler, Bradley Page, Edgar Norton, Hughie White.
Director .....Murray Roth
Story .....Damon Runyon
Screen Play.....William Lipman
Photography .....George Robinson
Associate Producer.....Eph Asher

Warners-First National

"DAMES"

Cast: Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Virginia Pine, Ronny Cosby, Zasu Pitts, Bess Flowers, Pat O'Malley, Mary McLaren, Johnny Arthur, Arthur Vinton, Hobart Cavanaugh, Arthur Aylesworth, Leila Bennett, Phil Regan.
Directors.....Ray Enright and Busby Berkeley
Original .....Robert Lord
Screen Play.....Delmer Daves
Music and Lyrics: Harry Warren, Al Dubin, Sammy Fain, Irving Kahal, Mort Dixon, Allie Rubel.
Photography .....George Barnes
Supervisor .....Robert Lord

"FLIRTATION WALK"

Cast: Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Pat O'Brien, John Eldredge, Ross Alexander, Guinn Williams, Henry O'Neill, Glenn Boles, John Arledge.
Director .....Frank Borzage
Story .....Delmar Daves and Lou Edelman
Screen Play.....Delmar Daves
Dance Director.....Bobby Connelly
Musical Numbers.....Mort Dixon and Allie Wrubel
Photography .....Sol Polito
Supervisor .....Robert Lord

"A LOST LADY"

Cast: Barbara Stanwyck, Ricardo Cortez, Frank Morgan, Rafaelo Ottiano, Charles Starrett, Phillip Reed, Henry Kolker, Willie Fung.
Director.....Alfred E. Green
Novel .....Willa Cather
Screen Play.....Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola
Photography .....Sid Hickox
Supervisor .....James Seymour

"A LADY SURRENDERS"

Cast: Jean Muir, George Brent, Veree Teasdale, Arthur Aylesworth, Joan Wheeler, Pauline True, Charles Starrett.
Director .....Archie Mayo
Story and Screen Play..Mary McCall Jr.
Photography .....Ernest Haller
Supervisor .....Edward Chodorov

Independent Productions

Reb and Rebel

(International)

"THE MAN FROM HELL"

Cast: Reb Russell, Fred Kohler, Ann Darcy, Yakima Canutt, Jack Rockwell, Charles Whittaker, Lafe Mckee, Charles French.
Director .....Lew Collins
Story and Screen Play.....E. E. Repp
Photography .....William Nobles
Producer ....Willis Kent

Majestic

(Darmour and Talisman)

"GAILY I SING"

Cast: Isabel Jewell, Buster Crabbe, Regis Toomey, Sally Blane, Huntley Gordon, Wallis Clark, Matt McHugh, Fuzzy Knight, Maidel Turner, Kenneth Howell, Jules Cowles, Arthur Stone.
Director .....Ralph Ceder
Story.....Mann Page, Izola Foster
Screen Play.....Houston Branch
Photography.....James Brown Jr.
Producer .....Larry Darmour

Principal

(Pathe)

"PECK'S BAD BOY"

Cast: Jackie Cooper, Jackie Searl, Thomas Meighan, Dorothy Peterson, O. P. Heggie.
Director .....Eddie Cline
Screen Play.....Bernard Schubert and Marguerite Roberts
Photography .....Frank Good
Producer .....Sol Lesser

WHAT'S WHAT

BRULATOUR BULLETIN

WHO'S WHO

Published Every Monday — J. E. BRULATOUR, Inc., Distributors — Eastman Motion Picture Films

the REFLECTOR

For no particular reason except that it just happens, production seems to officially start for the new season when Bill Koenig rolls up his sleeves, spits on his hands and says, "Let's go." It's the sign for renewed action at Warner Bros., and as stated, seems to reflect throughout the industry. Koenig arrived in Hollywood mid-week . . . things are humming at Burbank . . . tremendous program is mapped out for the Valley plant this year,

•

Trem Carr is doing his phoning from a hospital room during personal alterations via the surgical route, while Monogram itself is being readied to move, bag and baggage, from General Service plant to Pathe lot in Culver City. . . . Sid Hickox has actually started production on the Barbara Stanwyck picture, "A Lost Lady," under direction of Al Green, and also at the Warner plant, Arthur Todd gets away on "Big Hearted Herbert."

•

Bill Rees draws the assignment to Alan Crosland's new picture, "Case of the Howling Dog." . . . Jimmy Van Trees and his staff are away on actual production of the RKO feature, "Age of Innocence," starring Irene Dunne. . . . At the same plant Henry Gerrard is doing his stuff with John Cromwell, who is directing Ann Harding in "The Fountain." . . . And Roy Hunt is putting the finishing touches to "A Hat, A Coat, A Glove."

•

"Romance in the Rain" . . . For anybody's box office money that's a swell title. . . . It's a musical at Universal, and swelegant photography's a cinch because Charlie Stumar will turn the trick. . . . Meantime Johnny Mescall draws the projection room raves from the production bosses while they view the rushes of "One More River." . . . Norbert Brodine is turning the final crank on "It's Always Tomorrow," while Dick Fryer goes right ahead with his exciting serial, "The Red Rider." . . . And speaking of Universal we're reminded that Johnny Fulton, who usually finishes in the first pair of any golf tournament he enters, out-performed even himself with the driver in the Universal tournament last week, but . . . the old putter just wouldn't putt . . . Consequently he tied for low with Ray Robinson, and a nine hole play-off turned Ray boss with one up. . . . . Incidentally, George Robinson almost copped the tournament with a new all-time low for his medal.

More Wedding Bells

These West Coast cameramen seem to be doing all right for themselves. When production is slow at the studios, our leg men can always dig up a good story on new arrival via the stork route, or at least another wedding.

Newest convert to the Benedicts is Ken Hunter of Universal camera staff, who thumbed his nose at the mode moderne—(Yuma to you)—and took the vows with Grace Crouse at the home of his father, C. Roy Hunter, long time lab chief of Universal.

Attention! Producers–Cameramen!

Incident occurring late Friday night emphasizes importance of clearly defining scope of service rendered by J. E. Brulatour, Inc., organization and staff.

President of a major producing company telephoned our editor's home late Friday night and explained his reasons for requiring IMMEDIATELY the services of a first cameraman to take over production starting early next morning, and running for an estimated schedule of twenty-two days.

We made several attempts to contact individuals among the first cameramen whom we believed to be available. Our first surprise came when top four names on our list were conspicuous by their absence from the Los Angeles telephone directory. At this point we wish to respectfully suggest to all cameramen of all classes: IF YOUR NAME AND TELEPHONE NUMBER ARE NOT CLEARLY AND PROPERLY LISTED IN THE TELEPHONE DIRECTORY, SEE THAT THEY ARE. This is a service you owe not only to your industry but to yourself.

Second: While we have no desire and no intention to do anything in performance or policy which would conflict with any organization of cameramen or any agency offering the services of cameramen, we think it advisable that all cameramen telephone our office and advise our switchboard operator of their address and telephone number, particularly, when they are available for assignment. We make this further suggestion because every production executive in the business knows that every studio on the West Coast is visited at least once each day by a Brulatour service representative. Therefore, we know what's going on at the studios, chiefly because it's our business to know. When the producer wants something special, something in a hurry, something in an emergency—pertaining to photography or any other department of production utilizing sensitized films, he naturally calls upon us for our service which we have established and which we shall zealously maintain.

The names, addresses and telephone numbers of the principal studio contact members of the Brulatour service staff will be found in all telephone directories, and for the convenience of anyone interested we here republish them:

J. L. COURCIER, 2574 Glendower.....MOrningside 11050
G. H. GIBSON, 316 Willaman Drive.....OXford 6611
E. O. BLACKBURN, 406 N. Cliffwood Avenue, Brentwood Heights
West Los Angeles 31498

Hal Rosson Ill

It is with sincere regret that we report the illness of Hal Rosson, one of the ace cameramen of the M. G. M. staff, who is confined to his home, and according to his physicians will probably be confined for two or three weeks. Rosson's illness came on the eve of his scheduled start of the production with Director Van Dyke. Assignment was switched to Ray June.

Para. Lab Hums

Operating at full capacity, Paramount Laboratories are piloted by Ray Wilkinson, executive director pro tem. during the absence of Harry Ensign, vacationing east of the Mississippi. Wilkinson, by the way, is one of the oldest members of the Paramount Lab staff.

Gerstad With Stahl Again

Merritt Gerstad has been signed by Universal to photograph the next John M. Stahl picture, "Imitation of Life," starring Claudette Colbert. Gerstad is one of the few cameramen in the industry who prefers to be very choosy of his assignments, and will not photograph a picture unless it promises to have exceptional possibilities. This is an admirable trait if one can afford to indulge it.

Andriot to M.G.M.

Lucien Andriot, RKO cameraman, has been loaned to MGM where he started production end of last week with Director Paul Sloane. Cast includes Franchot Tone, Karen Morley, Mae Clarke and Jack LaRue in the top spots, with the story "Four Walls."

Background Shots

Ernie Palmer, Cinematographer

Born in Kansas City, started his career at the camera with the old Imp Company in New York in 1912. A year later Carl Laemmle (Senior, of course), assigned Palmer to England to photograph a picture, at the completion of which Palmer joined London Films and remained in Great Britain until 1918. Upon his return to America he came to the West Coast where he made his first real bid for photographic fame as the photographer of "The Miracle Man," the picture which has perhaps been referred to in the trade more frequently than any other single feature as a criterion or standard of top achievement in production.

Two years later Palmer joined the L. B. Mayer organization at the old Selig Studio, where he photographed some of the outstanding hits of that time, produced by John Stahl, Fred Niblo, Reginald Barker, Hobart Henley and others.

In 1923 Palmer joined the Fox West Coast camera staff, where he has been CONSTANTLY employed ever since. At Fox he has been given honorable recognition time after time, and his most spectacular achievement of the present day is "Cavalcade."

the BUZZER

(NOTE: The opinions of cameramen by directors given here last week aroused so much interest that the department this week is again used for the same purpose.)

QUESTION: WHAT CAN THE CAMERAMAN CONTRIBUTE TO YOUR PICTURE BEYOND HIS PHOTOGRAPHY?

NORMAN TAUROG (Paramount): I rely on my cameraman just as much as on the performers to contribute mood, charm and—where necessary when doing comedy—brilliant photography, which helps the tone of a picture. On the set I consider him my keyman.

ALEXANDER HALL (Paramount): I consider the cameraman my right bower. He is the most important man associated with the director in production. I like to compare him to an artist in that he, the cameraman, sketches his picture with lights as the artist does with brushes.

LEWIS MILESTONE (Columbia): It depends on the cameraman, naturally. They can contribute ideas on angles, set-ups and story. And I even welcome their criticisms and suggestions on direction.

JOHN S. ROBERTSON (RKO): A good cameraman contributes so much to the picture that it is difficult to condense it to a few lines. However, briefly, intelligent and thoughtful lighting assists greatly in getting over the feeling and action of a scene. I believe that a good energetic, conscientious cameraman is of tremendous help to a director.

Fox Starts Pair

Louie William O'Connell is starting production for Sol Wurtzel on "Wanted," which will be directed by Lou King. Harry Jackson, who hit the photographic bull's eye when he photographed "She Learned About Sailors," draws the assignment on "Don't Worry," an original Spanish production.

Gaudio's Gesture

Less than a year ago Tony Gaudio, Jr., graduated from his university with highest honors as a law student. At that time Tony, Sr., expressed his pride and elation with a buffet dinner party to about twenty of his friends.

Last Sunday night the senior Gaudio was again host—(and what a host)—to some seventy-five or eighty friends and associates, and the reason for this outburst of hilarity was that young Tony had again come through with flying colors, having passed the California State Bar examination on the first try, and with top honors for the entire examination class.

Tony, Sr., is presently spending a brief vacation in San Francisco before returning to assignment at Warner Bros., where his next picture is scheduled to start within a week.

LOUISE LINCOLN
"659"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 35. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Tuesday, June 19, 1934

NRA STOPS DOUBLE BILLS

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•THERE is at least one innovation—and a very wise one—in connection with the Paramount convention now in session here. That is the presence at the convention of a group of "guests," composed of the men who are partners of Paramount in the theatre end of the picture business. They are here to see for themselves how pictures are made, to learn at first hand some of the problems with which the production department is faced day after day, to give consideration to those problems, so that, when they return to their home towns and their theatres, they may, perhaps, be a little more tolerant when pictures are not exactly as promised or when unavoidable substitutions are made.

•

Nor is that the only reason for their presence. They have their own problems of which the studio executives know little or nothing. These also are to be discussed while they are here. At a luncheon given this group yesterday at the Ambassador and presided over by Adolph Zukor, he told them that there would be a meeting with the studio executives tomorrow at which time they could toss all their troubles on the table and an honest and earnest effort would be made to straighten out everything.

That is as it should be. After all, these men are Paramount's partners. Paramount's interests are theirs. They want good pictures in their theatres and they, being closer to the ultimate consumer, the public, should know even better than the producers just what that public wants in the line of screen entertainment. If they and the production heads can meet on common ground, can dismiss all thoughts other than the welfare of Paramount, their findings should be of infinite benefit to the company.

•

Criticism is often levelled at studio producers on the ground that they are not "showmen." Whether they are or not, there can be no doubt that these theatre partners of Paramount are. They know the exhibition end of the business, they know how to feel the pulse of the theatre-going public, even if they can not—and who can?—predict in what channels the public taste will run.

Certainly the production end of the

(Continued on Page 2)

Protestant Clergy Back Catholic War

New York.—The Rev. Dr. Peale, of the Marble Collegiate Church, in New York, and the pastor of the Union M. E. Church both urged American Protestants to unite with Catholics in their campaign to raise the moral standards of pictures, each advocating a 30-day boycott.

Erpi Defendant In $22,500,000 Suits

New York.—Suits totalling $22,500,000 and charging unfair competition and restraint of trade were filed in the Federal District Court here yesterday against Electrical Research Products Inc., Western Electric and A. T. & T.

Seven plaintiffs are named in the complaints, which were filed by Attorneys David Garrison Berger and Ralph Vatner. The restraint allegations cover sound recording and repro-

(Continued on Page 4)

Harry Decker Made Associate Producer

Harry Decker, who has served Columbia as chief film editor, has been lifted to a spot on the staff of associate producers for the studio.

He will supervise eight pictures, taking four of the eight action stories starring John Mack Brown, and will produce four westerns also. Bob Carlisle was moved up to fill the film editor's berth.

Wanger to Russia

London.—Walter Wanger is en route to Russia, extending his vacation to take in that country.

Clearance And Zoning Board Announces Heavy Penalties; Preview Tangle Also Solved

The death knell of double bills in the Los Angeles district was sounded last night by the Los Angeles NRA Clearance and Zoning Board, which took the matter right out of the hands of the exhibitors and decided that double bills must go. The ruling becomes effective with the first release of the 1934-35 season.

In order to make its ruling effective, the board also said that any first run house violating the double bill ban will lose all protection, and its pictures will be open to all houses immediately. All other houses that venture to show double bills will be penalized by having their pictures set back 182 days behind the time they are supposed to get them.

The much-discussed and knotty problem of "previews" was also set-

(Continued on Page 4)

Raoul Walsh To Direct Lowe-McLaglen Again

The "Flagg and Quirk" combination will be together again in "Sand Hogs," an original story by Borden Chase and Edward Doherty, which Jack Kirkland is adapting.

After a leave of absence of more than a year from Fox, his home lot, Raoul Walsh was yesterday assigned to direct the picture.

Two Want Harvey

Lilian Harvey is being paged by Paramount and Columbia. Paramount wants her for the Gaby Delys story, and William Pearlberg just wants her on the Columbia lot.

Jewish Conference Joins War on Dirt

New York.—The Central Conference of American Rabbis, in annual meeting yesterday at Wernersville, Pa., added the voice of its church to those of other churches in the war against indecent motion pictures.

The Conference deplored the harmful influence exerted by many pictures upon the public mind and morals, especially the minds of youth and children. It recommended the appointment of a committee to consider a program by which the Conference can most effectively co-operate with other religious and civic bodies in bringing home to the picture producers their responsibility for taking immediate steps to elevate the standards of pictures.

'U' Buys 'Silver Fox'

Universal yesterday purchased "Silver Fox," a stage play by Gaetano Sazio, and signed Ferdinand Reyher to write the adaptation. The picture will be handled by Lou Ostrow as one of the first on his associate producer's deal with the studio.

Geraghty-Banks Team

London.—Tom Geraghty, off the British and Dominions payroll because of the shelving of "Sons of Guns," is doing the script of "Funny Face," which will star Monty Banks for British International.

Louis B. Mayer East

Louis B. Mayer leaves on the Chief tonight for the MGM convention at Chicago. He is accompanied by Howard Strickling, who makes his second trip East within ten days.

Edmund Goulding Here

Edmund Goulding, who has been ill in New York for several weeks, arrived here on The Chief yesterday.

PARA. DELEGATES TOLD ADMISSIONS GOING UP

The depression days are over, so far as theatre patronage is concerned. Theatre attendance has returned to normal in the United States and Canada and, with its return, we will probably see a gradual but slight increase in admission prices throughout the country.

This was the concensus of opinion of fifty leading theatre operators, expressed yesterday at the Paramount Convention at the Ambassador Hotel. Much weight was given the opinion of

(Continued on Page 5)

McCrea Ducks Lead in Universal Picture

Joel McCrea begged out of taking the leading role in "Million Dollar Ransom" at Universal yesterday.

Phillips Holmes was engaged to replace him, and a newcomer, Mona Smith, is slated to get a break in the bracket position. Murray Roth directs the picture from a William R. Lipman script. Eph Asher is supervising.

Norman Taurog directing "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" Paramount

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Ralph Jester is sculpting Claudette Colbert at the moment. . . . The Tommy Meighans back in town. . . . The Cary Grants (Virginia Cherrill), with Larry Starbuck in the rumble-seat, got as far as Santa Ana Saturday on their trip to Chicago, when the Packard burst into flames! So they spent the night there while the car cooled off! Nothing like a motor jaunt, "we always say!" . . . The Nunnally Johnsons and the Lynn Farnols are sharing a house on the beach nort hof Malibu. . . . Drue Layton's right name is Freya Laigh. . . . And speaking of names—Mary Lou Wham, Overbridge Horsey, and Naughtybird Kirksey (found by Alexander Woollcott) aren't bad!

•

A famous blonde star is in danger of being victimized by the old badger game very soon—but there's no use warning her—she's too "mad about the boy." . . . Kay Francis throwing a farewell luncheon at her menage today, then flying to sail for Europe with Dorothy Di Frasso Saturday. . . . The Dick Barthelmesses are still trying to make up their minds in what direction to travel. . . . Sam Berman will exhibit his drawings and cartoons at the Vendome for a week beginning Thursday. . . . They used to bring a horse right to Jack Haley's door in N'Yawk—but he doesn't ride in Hollywood because if he wants a hoss here he has to go and get it!

•

Miriam Hopkins lunched twenty-five on Sunday. . . . And most of the film colony stormed Jeanette MacDonald's house for a great big cocktail party same day. . . . Bob Ritchie, fresh from the train, helped greet some hundred and fifty guests. . . . Bebe Daniels, Pauline Gallagher and Mrs. A. Pantages are opening branches of their Westwood shops in Palm Springs this Fall. . . . What this bizness needs are more producers who look like Lew Gensler! . . . Corinne Griffith and Walter Morosco (newly unfettered) are never apart! . . . The Will Rogers, Billie Burke, Dorothy Arzner, Adolphe Menjou, Veree Teasdale, Ernst Lubitsch, Eddie Hillman with Mary Carlisle, Anita Loos, John Emerson, the Charles Laughtons, John Brandeis, dining at the Vendome.

New York REVIEWS

"ARE WE CIVILIZED?"
Edwin Carewe prod.; director, Edwin Carewe; writers, Harold Sherman, Finis Fox
Rivoli Theatre

American: "Are We Civilized?" is a filmed story of man's inhumanity to man through the ages. Starting with a picturization of the days of the Pharaohs, it tells its gruesome and always absorbing story from that time until the present day of unsettled Germany. William Farnum, grand trouper of an early day, makes his return to the Broadway picture theatres in Edwin Carewe's production. This reviewer hastens to toss a laurel branch in the general direction of both.

Times: William Farnum, the veteran star of many silent pictures, is the principal player in this production, a haphazard, melodramatic piece of work, which declares, through the medium of its leading character, that "mankind will never be truly civilized until all races become one in spirit, understanding and brotherly love."

Herald-Tribune: "Are We Civilized," is one of the most ambitious and least satisfactory of the patchwork films. It is a contemporary drama of intolerance and violence has been embellished with a thumbnail sketch of the entire history of the world. The material has been slung together in so maladroit a fashion, however, that whatever thesis is implicit in the work emerges faintly ridiculous.

Mirror: This movie makes a timely appeal to reason. Because it is a movie with a message, it does not fit into the catalogue of sheer entertainment. It is more a rousing film preachment for tolerance and liberty. It is skilfully made, powerfully acted by William Farnum, and it features some stunning spectacular scenes which seem to have been clipped from the stirring film epics of the past.

Post: Edwin Carewe is to be commended for the sincerity and intensity of the convictions expressed in the new production which opened at the Rivoli yesterday. "Are We Civilized?" is an ambitious stunt and Mr. Carewe is a brave man. His picture is an indictment of the ignorance, greed and intolerance of the entire human race, and a plea for peace on earth. The acting is pretty sad and the direction something less than inspired.

News: Edwin Carewe bit off more than he could chew when he undertook to present a history of civilization through the medium of a moving picture in his attempt to deliver a message to his fellow men on the necessity of tolerance, fraternalism and the breaking down of national barriers in order to live in the peace and comfort our civilization has fitted us for. His attempt is a sincere and worthy appeal, but its accomplishment is a dull affair.

World-Telegram: Although the intentions of "Are We Civilized?" are sincere and highly commendable, the results are far from satisfactory and the film emerges a generally feeble and mediocre preachment against intolerance as well as a less than acceptable entertainment. The film is badly managed throughout.

Journal: The producer doesn't directly answer the question that he asks, but he offers enough evidence on the negative side to let the audience decide for itself. It is not screen entertainment in the conventional meaning of the phrase. It is, rather, a narrative that might be described as an illustrated text-book.

Sun: Mr. Carewe and Mr. Farnum sound a few trumps of doom at the Rivoli this week. Edwin Carewe directed, William Farnum returns to the screen in "Are We Civilized?" and they make pretty plain that the answer, whatever it may be now, pretty soon will be "No." As a whole "Are We Civilized?" is a confused though worthy production, interesting at times, topical and with a certain vitality. But the general effect is a jumble.

RKO Takes Over Four Lee Ochs Theatres

New York.—RKO Theatres are taking over four of the Lee Ochs New York houses, Ochs withdrawing from the management of the Yorktown, Midtown, Costello and Uptown.

Dinner For Wally Young

Waldemar Young, Paramount writer, who is leaving on a four-months trip to the South Seas and the Orient in about ten days, will be guest of honor at a dinner given by a group of his friends at the Writers' Club tomorrow night.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

less an authority than Adolph Zukor himself has said that. If the showmanship average of production can be raised by the experience and counsel of these "Paramount guests," and there is no doubt that it can if both sides sit in conference with open minds, their presence here will repay the company many times over.

Van Dyke Champion Shooter - Arounder

W. S. Van Dyke, MGM's champion schedule sprinter, won new laurels last night when he completed four whirlwind days of production on "Hideout," with the feminine lead opposite Douglass Montgomery yet to be cast.

Van Dyke plunged into production last Friday and is reported ahead of schedule, but he has been shooting around Loretta Young the entire time.

Miss Young, set for the part from which Maureen O'Sullivan withdrew last week, has been confined to her bed since last Tuesday. She will be taken to the Queen of Angels Hospital Thursday for a minor operation by Dr. Walter Holleran, and expects to report for further MGM assignments in ten days.

Van Dyke hopes to find his new lead tomorrow, as he takes the "Hideout" troupe on location at Santa Cruz Thursday or Friday to finish the picture.

Eddie Cline Held For Six More For Lesser

As Eddie Cline set off for Santa Ana with his "Peck's Bad Boy" unit yesterday, Sol Lesser notified him that he was exercising his option for six more pictures at once, and handed him the contract notice to clinch it.

One of the six will be the first of the George O'Brien action features.

CUTTY SARK
SCOTS WHISKY
WELL-MATURED • MELLOW

A Product of
BERRY BROS & CO.
LONDON
Established in the XVII Century
Distributors
for the Pacific Coast
Geo. Herrmann Company
816 W. 5th St. Los Angeles Tel. MUtual 8053
300 Front St. San Francisco Tel. GArfield 1980

PRODUCERS
who desire national or states rights and foreign distribution of motion pictures are invited to communicate with CONTINENTAL PICTURES CORP.
723 Seventh Avenue New York City

PARA'S. 'SHOOT THE WORKS' IS GOOD ENTERTAINMENT

Direction, Acting And Music All Hit

"SHOOT THE WORKS"
(Paramount)

Direction .....Wesley Ruggles
Play.....Gene Fowler, Ben Hecht
Screen Play.....Howard Green
Dialogue .....Claude Binyon
Lyrics and Music....Gordon and Revel, Rainger and Robin
Photography .....Leo Tover
Cast: Jack Oakie, Dorothy Dell, Ben Bernie, Alison Skipworth, Arline Judge, Roscoe Karns, William Frawley, Lew Cody, Paul Cavanagh.

A good picture with grand music and swell acting that is a minor triumph for the adaptors and director, considering the fact that "The Great Magoo" was the basis of the present opus. It takes you from side-shows to Broadway acclaim along a road a bit long, but nevertheless fairly amusing, and the people who take the road are interesting and human and completely inoffensive.

It's a formula story about the side-show barker and the vaudeville actress who pinned her faith on him, only to be let down with a terrific bump. The actress then proceeds to climb the stairway to fame, along with an obscure orchestra leader who had once worked with the barker. The barker never does give up his ridiculous bluff of being the great "I Am," but in the end is re-united with the actress and, through her, started on his own road to fame and fortune and Loooove.

Jack Oakie is, of course, the barker, who is just too smart and too swell-headed for his own good and the good of anyone who loves him. But, beneath it all, he's a regular guy who realizes Things, and, Mesdames and Messieurs, Mr. Oakie is just the lad to play that part and give it everything. He's more than good and has dropped a number of mannerisms that were pure Oakie and never should have interfered with a part.

Arline Judge as a gaga gold-digger, a nice girl, mind you, (really in love with a flag pole sitter) is just grand and looks marvelous. Roscoe Karns as the flag-pole sitter, slightly goofy and insanely jealous, is very funny. Dorothy Dell and Lew Cody are excellent. Alison Skipworth and William Frawley give great support in minor roles.

And then there is the Old Maestro and, for Ben Bernie fans, he is really very good and there's certainly no denying the fact that his orchestra is among the top few really good ones. And right here and now credit must be given to the recorder of this picture because never has music come from a screen and sounded better. Our nomination for the best song is "Take A Lesson From The Lark," which should have been featured more. It's peppier and catchier than "Dreaming With My Eyes Wide Open."

Wesley Ruggles has done a nice job with the direction, and Leo Tover, as usual, gives the picture a million dollars worth of photography. Green and Binyon had a tough assignment on the writing and they crashed through nobly and successfully eliminated all the bad taste.

New Barrie Play For Elizabeth Bergner

London.—Sir James M. Barrie is writing a new play which is designed as a starring vehicle for Elizabeth Bergner, the actress who won such success in the picture, "Catherine the Great." It will be produced in London next season.

Theatre Pool Deal To Be Signed Today

New York.—The fifty-fifty theatre pooling deal between the Paramount and the Capitol theatres is expected to be completed today by the signature of Loew's Inc.

The stage shows at the Paramount will be elaborated and the budget for this type of entertainment stepped up. The deal is for one year, with a ninety-day cancellation clause. The idea originated with George Schaefer, of Paramount.

Jane Baxter Completes 'We Live Again' Cast

With the arrival from England of young Jane Baxter on Saturday, Rouben Mamoulian's cast of principals to appear with Anna Sten and Fredric March in "We Live Again" is complete.

Miss Baxter will be seen as Missy, the patrician and lovely young daughter of Prince Korchagin, in this screen transcription of "Resurrection." This is the Hollywood debut of one of the most promising young film players in England.

New One-Reelers For Release By Columbia

New York.—Columbia announces that it will release next season a series of one-reelers to be produced by Mentone Productions. The series will be called "The Spice of Life."

Warners Assign Tone

Warners have assigned Franchot Tone to the lead opposite Josephine Hutchinson in Alice Tisdale Hobart's novel, "Oil For the Lamps of China." Tone's loanout from MGM starts the middle of July. Laird Doyle is scripting the novel, with no director set as yet.

Judith Kandel Set

Judith Kandel was handed the assignment to write a screen play for the recently purchased Gladys Unger story, "$25 an Hour," at Columbia. Felix Young is supervising.

Durkin For 'Herbert'

Junior Durkin was signed yesterday to play the son of Aline MacMahon in Big-Hearted Herbert" for Warners. Henry Willson, of the Polimer office, set the deal.

Erik Rhodes to Radio

New York.—Erik Rhodes leaves for the coast by plane today to play his original stage role in "The Gay Divorce" for Radio.

Paramount Cash Position Improved

New York.—The three Paramount trustees, Messrs. Hilles, Leake and Richardson, have reported to the court that the company's cash position is improved, having $3,226,836 on hand June 9, as compared with $2,074,480 last September.

The trustees recommend that no dividends be declared at this time and say also that negotiations are pending with Eastern Service Studios for a continuation of the lease of the Astoria plant. Negotiations for the readjustment of the $2,900,000 bond issue on the West Coast studio and the Paramount theatre building have not been successful.

Hays Office Orders 'Born To Be Bad' Retakes

Jack Conway will put "Born To Be Bad" back into work for retakes of almost half of the picture, which was ruled out by the Hays office.

Anita Loos and John Emerson are re-writing the material. The new shooting may be delayed some time since Franchot Tone is now working in "Four Walls" at MGM and Patsy Kelly is in a Radio picture.

Sol Lesser Sets July 5 For Start of 'Chandu'

With Ray Taylor's notification yesterday that he would have his Universal release next Saturday, the start of production on Sol Lesser's "Chandu" was set for July 5.

It had been tentatively announced for next Monday, but the newly-signed director was kept on at Universal as directorial coach with Stuart Walker on "Romance in the Rain."

Radio To Hear Product

Chicago.—Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO-Radio Distributing Corporation, will announce the 1934-35 product of the company at today's session of the annual sales convention being held here. Others who will speak are B. B. Kahane, Lee Marcus, Burt Gillett and Eddy Eckels.

Term For Meehan Jr.

Universal yesterday converted John Meehan Jr's. one-picture contract into a term deal. He recently completed the original screen play of "Wake Up and Dream," which will have Russ Columbo, June Knight and Roger Pryor in the leads. The deal was negotiated by Hoffman-Schlager.

Newman on Lloyd Score

Harold Lloyd has set Al Newman to score his recently completed picture, "The Cat's Paw." It will be released August 17, one month earlier than previously planned, and will probably open in the Radio City Music Hall.

Van Pelt on Race Meet

Ernest Van Pelt has been loaned by MGM to Police Inspector Cannon to handle exploitation for the National Motorcycle Championship races at the Coliseum, July 1, 2 and 3.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

That great question of story buys pops up again most persistently, with particular reference to the short story field. It seems that the main argument against the buying of short stories is that they don't contain enough characterization or enough story line. Which is a pretty ridiculous argument against their purchases, for several reasons.

In the first place, if the author of a short story were to make it any more complete and detailed, he'd find himself writing a novel, and if he wrote the novel and it were bought by a picture company, the writers assigned to adapt it would only have the tough job of first eliminating the details to get down to the story line that makes a picture. And too often the details so overcrowd the actual story that the process of elimination is so difficult that it's almost impossible to know what to throw away, and the results are slow movie.

•

In the second place, when a story is bought for pictures, the author only in rare instances adapts it for the screen. That story is usually turned over to writers who know what it takes to make a picture and how to BUILD that picture. Therefore a good idea that they can embellish, an idea that suggests a logical train of thought from conception to finish, is far better material for a motion picture writer to work on than something he must first tear down in order to build up again.

•

Damon Runyon, having beeen a writer of short stories for perhaps five years, was suddenly "discovered" by a picture company that had a sudden rush of thought to the head last year. Mr. Runyon has made the statement that his stories are only as good as the screen writers make them. Mr. Runyon is obviously a bit more than modest, although there is a lot of truth in what he says. His ideas, concisely, simply written in short story form, are of more than fifty per cent value to the making of a good moving picture. The writing of the actual picture is the hard work, the drudgery, but given a good idea to start with, most of the drudgery is eliminated, and the work is routine, with the inspiration coming from the original idea.

There are many, many other short story writers who have plenty to contribute to the field of motion pictures, but somehow nobody has yet convinced the majority of producers that Runyon isn't a "freak" success, so that they are buying every line that Runyon ever wrote (and for that much we can be grateful) and still rejecting short stories by other writers for the same old exploded theories—that there must be more wordage and characterization in order for them to use their imagination and picture them as movies.

BOB RITCHIE SHOWS MGM WHAT HE FOUND ABROAD

MGM executives yesterday attended a private preview, presented by Robert Ritchie, at which they saw and heard the European stars with whom Ritchie signed five-year contracts, assignable to MGM, on his scouting mission.

The forthcoming imports include Viktor de Kowa, said to be Germany's biggest male picture star; Luise Rainer, just finished her continental tour for Max Reinhart in repertoire; and George Rigaud, lead of Rene Clair's "Fourteenth of July."

Ritchie also introduced from the screen two of his new managerial proteges, Mila Parely, 17-year-old French girl, directed by Fritz Lang in "Liliom"; and Louise Ulrich, German actress seen in this country in the Viennese film, "Unfinished Symphony."

Miss Parely is already in New York and will be the first of the new talent brought to the coast. Miss Ulrich's contracts hold her in Austria the rest of this year, and she will be better known before her arrival in America, as an English version of "Unfinished Symphony" has just been completed at the Sascha studio.

"These people are outstanding names in Europe," said Ritchie, "and the wonder is that they haven't been snapped up for Hollywood before. It was probably because it was not known they could speak English. How well they do speak it, these tests demonstrate."

Of the continentals whose contracts are already at MGM's option, George Rigaud will be the first to arrive, coming next month. He is a smiling six-footer from the Argentine, described as combining the virility of Gable with the charm of Novarro.

Victor de Kowa is another young giant, of the American Cagney type, but six feet, one inch tall. He starred in eight pictures last year, is a free lance, and has three pictures contracted ahead before he can come to Hollywood. He is expected early next year.

Luise Rainer, Reinhart star, will sail in about six weeks. She is a young girl, in appearance between Helen Hayes and Elizabeth Bergner. She has done one film in Germany, at Ufa, opposite Hans Alper.

Besides the contracts and tests, Ritchie brought back a couple of plays for MGM option, and secured personally the rights for United States and Canada of two pictures starring Annabella.

Hungarian Play To Be Given at Writers' Club

"Broadway Lover," a sophisticated comedy by Desider Pek, will be presented at the Writers' Club for three nights, beginning June 27. It is being staged by Don Brodie, and the cast includes Corinne Williams, Earle Foxe, Georgia Hale, Marion Lessing, William Brisbane and Eugene Renard.

Mitzi Cummings in Mag.

Mitzi Cummings, MGM writer, is doing a series called "Hitting Hollywood Highspots" for Photoplay magazine. The first appears in the July issue.

'Rosy' Names New Committees Today

Washington.—Sol A. Rosenblatt yesterday announced that he has received no protests in connection with the announced intention of appointment of committees for the working out of codes of fair practice for the motion picture industry under the NRA Code.

Earlier this month he announced that such protests would be received by him up to June 16, which would be the final date for filing them. Inasmuch as no protests have been received, it is expected that he will now at once appoint the long-awaited Actor-Producer and Writer-Producer Committees to settle the actor and writer problems.

Binnie Barnes Set For 'What Women Dream'

Binnie Barnes' next for Universal will be a top spot in "What Women Dream," which Ernst L. Frank directs from a script by William Hurlbut.

"There's Always Tomorrow," her first American picture, goes back on the stages today for retakes.

Eddy Eckels East

Eddy Eckels goes to New York Thursday for an indefinite stay at the RKO-Radio home office.

London House To Show 'All-British' Pictures

London.—The New Gallery, one of the noted London cinemas, is now operating under a policy of showing nothing but British pictures. British Gaumont believes this move justified because of the increasing demand for home product.

New Hays Plan To Clean Up Pictures

New York.—It is understood that the Hays organization is planning to do away with the studio rotating committee which handles decisions about studio product and to transfer its duties to the board of directors of the MPPDA. This board will be the final arbiters on all disputed points.

It is hoped that, in this way, the industry will be able to keep a closer check on any pictures which may come under criticism as being suggestive or salacious.

20 Meglin Kiddies in MGM's 'Have a Heart'

"Have a Heart," the Buddy De Sylva-Dave Butler musical in which Jean Parker conducts a dancing school, got going at MGM yesterday under Butler's direction.

Twenty Meglin Kiddies are working in it. Jimmy Dunn, Stuart Erwin and Una Merkel are also in the cast.

NRA Stops Double Bills

(Continued from Page 1)

tled by the board, which has ruled that there shall be no more "exchange previews," that the only previews shall be of those pictures that have not been released, and an admission price of 55 cents MUST be charged for every seat in the house when there is a preview showing.

These two questions, double bills and previews, have had the local theatre men suffering from jitters for months. Producers have begged, pleaded and threatened in order to get the theatres back to single bills. The theatre men have been voting on it. But the Clearance and Zoning Board has settled the matter for them. Likewise the preview question.

Another drastic ruling of the board is one that practically wipes out five-cent shows and five-cent children's matinees. This rule prohibits the showing of pictures in such houses until 365 days after they have been shown in down-town Los Angeles in the first run house.

These are some of the highlights of the clearance and zoning schedule on which the board has been working for eight weeks, and which was completed late last night. It has been forwarded to the Code Authority.

Clearance dates for the various prices houses as set by the board follow:

Houses charging 40 cents admission get pictures 21 days after they are shown in the downtown first run.

Thirty and 35-cent houses, 35 days.

For 25-cent houses, 49 days.

For 20-cent houses, 77 days

For 15-cent houses, 126 days.

For 10-cent houses, 182 days.

Five-cent houses, and children's 5-cent matinees, 365 days.

The board figures that the schedule, plus the drastic penalty of 182 days delay on pictures, will effectively stop the running of double bills. In the case of 10-cent houses, which have been running even triple bills, they would have to show pictures a year old if they violate the double bill ban. The board figures that there are sufficient teeth in the schedule to set the exhibition house in order and keep it set.

The clearance and zoning board members are Harry Hicks, Russell Rogers, W. C. Riter, C. N. Peacock, Reeves Espey, George L. Hanes and W. C. Mathes, the government representative.

ATTENTION

5-room apartment in La Fontaine Apartments. Beautifully furnished. Available on long or short lease, $200 a month. Call HEmpstead 7053 for apointment.

Columbia Claims Gilbert Services

Columbia popped its hat into the ring for John Gilbert's services yesterday, putting forward a claim to prior rights in negotiations for him and blocking Universal's running off a test for the bracket role with Claudette Colbert in John Stahl's "Imitation of Life."

Columbia has a string on him for the starring assignment in the Lewis Milestone picture, "The Captain Hates the Sea," which is due to go into work tomorrow. The status of the negotiations last night indicated that the deal will be closed today.

Thew Did Adaptation

Harvey Thew wrote the adaptation of "Murder in the Private Car" and not the original story, as reported in the review of the picture yesterday. The story was based on "Rear Car," a play by Edward E. Rose.

Suits Filed Against Erpi

(Continued from Page 1)

ducing equipment, replacement of parts and servicing.

The largest suit is that of the Standard Sound Recording Corporation of New York, which demands $9,000,000. The other plaintiffs and the amounts sued for are: Service on Sound Corporation, $4,500,000; Macy Manufacturing Corp., makers of and dealers in parts, $3,000,000; Granger Manufacturing Co., makers of vacuum tubes, $1,500,000; Standard Sound Service, $1,500,000; Audio Equipment Maintenance, $1,500,000; Sound Picture Engineers, $1,500000.

The Standard Sound Recording Corp. alleges that, after it had produced the first short of a series for Rowland and Brice at its New York studio, it lost the contract to produce the balance of the series because Universal, which had agreed to release the series, specified that they must be made with Erpi equipment.

These seven suits filed yesterday, together with three suits filed previously by the Biophone Corporation, Henry D. Baer and the Ninth Avenue Amusement Corp., all against Erpi, bring the total of actions against this company to $40,560,000.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES

you can borrow on

★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles

$10 to $300

24-HOUR SERVICE

Strictly Confidential

Small Monthly Repayments

Loans Arranged by the

LOCAL LOAN CO.

406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine

HEmpstead 1133

INTERNATIONAL SIX DAY BICYCLE RACE

GILMORE STADIUM

Commencing June 21, 8 P.M. — Finishing June 27 at Midnight

McNamara, Winters, Schaller, Testa, Horder, O'Brien, Yates, Wagner, La Fenetre, Petri, Echeverria, Schuller, and Other Madison Square Garden Stars

Reservations Now. Call WHitney 1308 or Any of the Ticket Agencies

PARAMOUNT SHOWMEN SAY BUSINESS IS NORMAL

(Continued from Page 1)

these men, for they are operating more than 1650 houses throughout North America.

The advance in prices is to be put into effect to take care of the increased cost of production and exhibition which the NRA film code has placed upon the business, stated Sam Dembow, Jr., vice-president of the Famous Theatres Company. He pointed out that the film code has materially increased costs, but that to date this has been taken care of by a general increase in attendance.

"The consumer of every other comcodity has, during the past six months, been compelled to pay slightly more for his purchases," said Dembow, "but motion picture admission prices generally have remained where they were during the worst of the depression."

Delegates to the convention had a busy day for the opening session. The morning meeting was devoted mainly to a speech of welcome by George Schaefer, followed by the announcement of the election of fifteen exchangemen to the Paramount "100 Per Cent Club." The meeting then adjourned to the Ambassador Theatre where "Shoot tht Works," featuring Jack Oakie and Dorothy Dell, was shown.

Yesterday afternoon was devoted to short subjects, with the announcement of Paramount's short subjects' policy and program for the coming season, and "The Scarlet Empress" was shown. Last night several newly completed features were screened.

Today will be devoted to the discussion of the company's production plans for the 1934-35 release season, and the feature program will be announced.

Coslow and Robin Set Record For Song Speed

Asked by Paramount to rush through two songs for Helen Morgan in "You Belong to Me," Sam Coslow and Leo Robin filled the order overnight, setting something of a studio record.

The assignment was handed out last Wednesday. The next day, Coslow had "I Ain't Gonna Carry No Torch" and, with Robin, he wrote "When He Comes Home to Me."

Veiller Pic. Delayed

Bayard Veiller has put a ten-day set-back on "A Son Comes Home." It's now on the starting list for July 5. The casting is still nebulous, Lloyd Nolan being under consideration for the son, but not set.

Para. Buys 'Dad's Day'

New York.—Paramount has purchased a story by Francis Wallace, called "Dad's Day," which will be published in Red Book. It is a football yarn.

Adrian Morris Signed

Adrian Morris, brother of Chester Morris, was signed by Paramount yesterday for a part in the Francis Lederer picture, "Pursuit of Happiness." Hallam Cooley set the ticket.

Duals Saved British Trade, Says Graham

While major producers in America declare that double bills are ruining them, just the opposite is the case in England, according to John Cecil Graham, Paramount general manager for Great Britain, here for the convention.

He points out that when legislation limited advance bookings in England to protect the home product, British production suddenly increased. With only 4000 theatres to serve, he says double feature bills proved a life-saver to the industry. "Without them," he declared, "there is no telling what would have happened to values."

Third-Dimension Short Shown to Convention

A new three-dimension process was introduced yesterday to the delegates to the Paramount convention with the showing of "Poor Cinderella," one of the Color Classics which will be furnished by Max Fleischer on the shorts program.

The picture, in Cinecolor, was given a tremendous ovation by the delegates and was one of the principal topics of conversation after the session. Aside from the coloring, the figures in the picture stand out almost as though they were seen through a stereoscope.

New Terms For Barbier And Gertrude Michael

Paramount yesterday exercised options on Gertrude Michael and George Barbier.

Miss Michael, who was in "I'm No Angel," is concluding her first lead in "The Notorious Sophie Lang," Barbier's last Paramount spot was in "Many Happy Returns."

Cobb a Hunter in Next

Irvin Cobb goes duck-hunting in the first of his next season's series of Hal Roach comedies, set to start next Monday under Hal Yates' direction. Cobb's try-out comedy, "Speaking of Relations," went on Roach's current all-star series.

Fields Limps to Lot

W. C. Fields appeared at Paramount on crutches yesterday, his first appearance since the completion of "The Old Fashioned Way." He strained tendons playing tennis and has been resting at his Toluca Lake home.

Sylvia Schulman Quits

New York.—Sylvia Schulman, formerly secretary to Katherine Brown, of Radio Pictures, has resigned and has joined the secretarial staff of David Selznick. She left for the coast yesterday.

Stephani Sells Rights

Frederick Stephani, Paramount writer, has sold the English rights to his novel, "My Candle Burns," to John Lang Ltd., of London. The book is in its third American edition.

Enterprise!

One of Culver City's theatres is reported to have cashed in on the Baer-Carnera fight in a big way by cutting the fight sequences out of "The Prizefighter and the Lady," and splicing them into its newsreel.

Paramount Drops All Two-Reelers

Paramount has decided to eliminate all two-reel shorts from its 1934-35 release schedule, and will replace them with a list of 100 one-reel subjects. This was announced yesterday by Lou Diamond, head of the company's short subject department, at the company's convention.

Diamond explained that careful study has proven that the public does not care for two-reelers, but does want one-reel subjects that are well produced and are really entertaining.

Diamond also stated that, while Paramount expects to make most of the Varieties, the company is willing to buy some of them from independent producers, provided they can furnish pictures that come up to the standards required.

Mascot Takes Space For Serial and 2 Features

Mascot Pictures yesterday engaged shooting space at Mack Sennett studio for one serial and two features.

The serial featuring Rex and Rin-Tin-Tin will be started next Monday, Jed Buell, assistant general manager of Sennett's, was notified. One of the features will be "Young and Beautiful."

Paramount Postpones Start of Two Pictures

Paramount's two expected starters for this week, "Pursuit of Happiness" and "Ready for Love," yesterday were routed down the production schedule to next Monday. "Enter Madame" is also listed for a June 25 start.

Casting delays and general conventionitis blamed.

'Bill' to Race Track

More than 70 of the cast and production crew for Columbia's "Broadway Bill" leave shortly for Tanforan race track for fourteen days of location shooting. Frank Capra directs, with Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy in the leads.

'Barbary' Advanced

A change in production plans on "Barbary Coast" at Sam Goldwyn's yesterday had the starting date on the picture set for July 1 instead of September as originally scheduled. William Wellman directs Anna Sten.

Hugh McCullom Weds

Hugh McCullom, co-producer with Jules White of the Columbia shorts schedule, was married yesterday to Josephine Chippo, former secretary to Frank Capra.

Frank Partos Returns

Frank Partos has returned to the Paramount writing staff after a round trip to New York by plane.

Para. Names 15 New '100 Per Centers'

Paramount yesterday paid signal honor to 15 men from the company's various exchanges, when they were elected members of the company's "100 Per Cent Club." This is an organization that was started in 1925. To it the company elects men from the exchanges whose ability and character stamp them as future executives.

Those honored yesterday were: J. J. Oulahan, Washington, D. C.; I. Lesser, New York City; J. B. Gardner, Columbus, Ohio; B. P. Brooks, New Jersey; L. C. Lowe, Atlanta, Ga.; Bert Adams, Charlotte, N. C.; Jack Curry, Oklahoma City; Lester Hughes, Maine; Frank Smith, Salt Lake City; William Esch, Indianapolis; M. C. Burles, Los Angeles; P. W. Robbins, Des Moines; G. H. Haviland, Seattle; L. M. Palmquist, Minneapolis, and Tom Dowbiggan, Montreal.

Each man was given a special gold badge and a paid-up $2000 life insurance policy.

Paramount Now Has 70 Players Under Contract

Paramount studio's list of contract players has now mounted to the imposing figure of seventy, according to an announcement made to the delegates to the company's convention yesterday.

The latest added to the contract list are Lloyd Nolan and Elisha Cook Jr., both of whom have been recruited from the New York stage. They are now en route to Hollywood. Nolan is slated to go into "Sacrifice," and Cook into "Ready for Love."

Hurley Back Monday To Start 'Wagon Wheels'

Harold Hurley returns to his Paramount office next Monday. He has been vacationing in the Sierras with Mrs. Hurley since June 4.

Meanwhile Arthur Jacobson and Charles Barton are casting for "Wagon Wheels," which they will co-direct under Hurley's supervision next month.

New Deal For Polimer

Richard K. Polimer Inc. has been appointed Pacific Coast representative for William Morrow and Company, New York publishers. Vivian Gaye set the deal with Thayer Hobson, president of the Morrow firm.

New One For Invincible

Maury Cohen, Invincible producer, has bought "The Ghost Walks," a story by Charles S. Belden, which will be one of the new season's features. Belden also wrote the story for Invincible's "Fugitive Road."

Norton on Hopkins Yarn

John Norton was engaged by Radio yesterday to write the screen play for the Miriam Hopkins picture, "Richest Girl in the World," which William Seiter is slated to direct under the supervision of Pandro Berman.

Judgment For 'Blumey'

New York.—A. C. Blumenthal has been awarded judgment for $130,941.17 against Fox Theatres Corp., representing balance due on a defaulted note.

THEY DIDN'T WIN ACADEMY AWARDS BUT THEY ARE BOX OFFICE CHAMPIONS

"MOONLIGHT and PRETZELS"
(Motion Picture Herald Box-Office Champion, August, 1933)

"OUT ALL NIGHT"
(Motion Picture Herald Box-Office Champion, May, 1933)

"COUNTESS OF MONTE CRISTO"
(Motion Picture Herald Box-Office Champion, May, 1934)

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

STANLEY BERGERMAN PRODUCTIONS

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 36. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Wednesday, June 20, 1934

PAR. PLEDGES CLEAN PIX

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•POSSIBLY the biggest contributing factor to all this censorship mess can be found in the pages of fan magazines. There are today more than twenty magazines of this type flourishing in this country and spreading the bad word about Hollywood to hundreds of thousands of people. And the people love it, take it as gospel truth, while picture companies seem to feel that the publicity gained from the pictures and interviews printed justifies the means and the end.

Well, it begins to look as though the end were pretty much in sight and that the busy censors are about to take care of it. In reading over some of the statistics cited against the picture industry by prominent Church officials, it is quite evident that they were gleaned from reading fan magazines.

•

It is next to impossible to print a serious interview with a star that is relative to the star's work or art, as the case may be, or to print that star's opinion on anything intelligent or important. The cry is constantly for the sensational. Give a fan magazine a piece of straight news and immediately there is a complaint to the effect that there's nothing "hot" in it, that the readers aren't interested.

But, give them a divorce, a divorce that in any other part of the country would be written off to incompatibility or just plain "nobody's business," and the fan magazines spread a mess of story about it that is just plain shocking. No star can be seen out with anyone but what the fan mags comment with nasty implications, and if the star is married, so much the better, or worse.

•

Fan magazines aren't interested in the stars and their relation to the public, only in the stars' private lives, and the fan mags have made a sorry joke of that term. Not only that, but they go to great lengths to dig up "dirt" about anyone and everything connected with the picture industry on the bland assumption that it's the only thing their readers want and they're not in business for their health.

It was the fan magazines and their peculiar penchant for feeding the public a strict diet of sensationalism that first brought down the wrath of the

(Continued on Page 2)

$30,000 New Record Short Story Price

New York.—MGM is understood to have won the distinction of paying the highest price ever recorded for a short story when it laid down $30,000 for "A Lady Comes to Town." It is by Clement Ripley, an unknown author. Radio wanted the yarn for Katharine Hepburn and Universal wanted it for Margaret Sullavan.

DeForest Decision Is Upset by Court

New York.—The recent court victory of RCA, A. T. & T. and Lee De Forest in their suit against Radio Engineering Laboratories was upset yesterday by Supreme Court Judge Cardozo. The defendants in the suit admitted violating the DeForest patents on the feed back and oscillator, but insisted they were the inventions of Major E. H. Armstrong.

Judge Cardozo holds that the decision of the court was the result of scientific error and it is now held suspended until the Supreme Court convenes in October.

Para. Gets 'Red Pawn,' Maybe For Dietrich

Planning it as the next vehicle for Marlene Dietrich, Paramount yesterday secured the rights from Universal to "The Red Pawn," an original by Ayn Rand, in exchange for E. Phillips Oppenheim's "Great Impersonation."

The latter story will be the second for Edmund Lowe on his Universal two-picture deal.

Cohen Tells Convention That There Will Be No Censorship Problems In The Coming 64

Paramount will have no dirty pictures on its 1934-35 program. There will be nothing in the pictures of which the company's salesmen or theatre operators need be ashamed. There will be nothing that will call for the censors' scissors or bring down the wrath of those who are campaigning against unclean pictures.

Emanuel Cohen, vice-president in charge of production, yesterday gave his word on this to the 300 delegates gathered at the Paramount annual convention. And he backed up his promise by pointing out that his company already has led the way out of the censorship woods with its last 35 pictures. He declared that 30 of these pictures released during the past eight months have not had a single cut made by a censor, and, of the other

(Continued on Page 4)

Schenck Due in London Friday; To Fly To Italy

London.—Joseph M. Schenck is due to arrive here Friday. He will remain a few days and, on June 28, will fly to Italy to greet Darryl Zanuck on his return from his big game hunting trip in Africa.

Rivoli Dark For Month

New York.—The Rivoli Theatre closed last night with the end of the engagement of "Are We Civilized?" and probably will reopen the middle of July with "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back."

Winchell Demands Name Off Para.Ads

Walter Winchell and Paramount, as regards their friendly relations, have gone phfft!

The columnist has torn loose at Paramount for the manner in which, he says, the company started to use him in exploiting "Shoot the Works." Through his New York attorneys, Driscoll, Raftery and O'Brien, he has

(Continued on Page 2)

Mayer Decides Not to Attend Convention

After having made all plans to leave last night for the MGM convention in Chicago, taking Howard Strickling wit him, Louis B. Mayer decided not to go.

The MGM lot is so busy and there are so many conferences to be held with David Selznick, just back from England, that L. B. figured he could do more good here.

'U' Wants Jack Oakie

Universal would like to cast Jack Oakie as "Moon Mullins," and overtures will probably be made to Paramount to earmark him for the banjo-eyed comic hero of the Frank Willard strip. Arthur Kober is working on the script for Ed Grainger.

LaPlante-Asher Wed

Paris.—Laura La Plante and Irving Asher, production head at Warners' London studios, were married here yesterday. The ceremony was performed in the city hall. Jimmy Walker and his wife, Betty Compton, were their attendants.

J. Walter Ruben Back

J. Walter Ruben returned to Radio yesterday from a two-months vacation in Europe. He has one more picture to direct at the plant before completing his deal by September 1.

ACTORS AND WRITERS FOR CODE COMMITTEES NAMED

Washington.—Sol A. Rosenblatt yesterday announced the actor and writer members of the five-five Code committees which will attempt to work out a code of fair practice between producers and writers and players. The actors named were:

Kenneth Thomson, whose alternate is Ann Harding; Ralph Morgan, alternate, Chester Morris; Richard Tucker, alternate, Pat O'Brien; Robert Montgomery, alternate, Paul Muni; Claude King, alternate, Mary Astor.

Writers named were: Ralph Block, alternate Gladys Lehman; John Emer-

(Continued on Page 3)

Arliss As 'Iron Duke'; H.M.Harwood Writing It

London.—It is finally settled that he George Arliss picture for British Gaumont will be "The Iron Duke," based on the life of the famous Duke of Wellington.

H. M. Harwood is writing the story, which goes into production in August.

Ben Bernie To Star

Paramount pushes Ben Bernie to the top spot in his next picture, studio closing a deal yesterday for the Vera Caspary story, "One Night Stand."

"Reb" Russell and Ann Darcy in "The Man From Hell" A WILLIS KENT PRODUCTION

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

There must be a moral to this story —only it escapes us at the moment. So Gloria Swanson and Herbert Marshall took themselves a private yacht and sailed over to Catalina the other day for a nice, quiet week-end. Maybe it was quiet—but our guess is that it wasn't so "nice"—because the day after the Swanson-Marshall yacht pulled into the bay, another boat with Walter Winchell on board, pulled in and anchored right alongside!!! Not a hundred yards away! Heh! Heh! But that's not all! Seems that when Gloria discovered "who the neighbors were," she wouldn't go ashore, and donned dark glasses, with a shawl over her head, for the next day or so. But that didn't stop W. W., who was right busy with a pair of field glasses (there wasn't anything else to do anyway)—and besides, he even took movies of the pair and the surrounding country!

•

Richard Boleslavsky, who will direct Garbo's next flicker, hasn't met the glamorous one yet—even though the picture is scheduled to start in about ten days. The other day Boley was sitting in Adrian's office, just talking things over, when Adrian excused himself for a few moments to go to another office. When he came back Adrian said he had just met Garbo outside, and that she was on her way to his office, but when she heard Boley was there she ran away. So Mr. B. left the following note in Adrian's office for Greta: "I am more scared of you than you are of me—so why did you run away?"

•

A certain very boring young man has been getting by here mostly for the reason that so many locals think he is quite the stuff socially in the East. They probably think so because his first two names are the same as those of a prominent blue-blooded family. BUT in the case of this particular fellow, it just so happens that he isn't even remotely related to any branch of that family. In fact, his poppa was gardener on the estate of the social tribe, and named his son after "the master"—an "old American custom." (!)

LIGHTMAN FOR CLASS MOTION PICTURE HOUSES

The church drive against dirt in motion pictures is going to be one of the greatest and most beneficial tonics the industry has ever had. This is the opinion of M. A. Lightman, prominent theatre man, who is here from Memphis to attend the Paramount convention.

"This drive is something we have needed," said Lightman. "I am certain it will prove a distinct asset, for it will, and is now arousing an interest in pictures among a class of people who never thought of pictures or attended movies before. The picture business will clean house, clean up its dirty pictures, and you will see thousands upon thousands of new customers flocking to the theatres.

"A clean-up is good for any business. It would be foolish to say there was nothing wrong with pictures There was. But they will be cleaned now, and I hope that, with the new deal and the new audiences we shall get, a new system of theatre operation will result.

"I believe we should have class picture houses. I don't think we should show all pictures in all houses. We should have the family theatres, the cheaper picture theatres, and the sophisticated theatres. Why not? The legitimate theatres have always been classified. They have their burlesque houses, their stock houses, their houses where sweet, romantic dramas and clean comedies are presented. They also have their houses for the sophisticated plays. The same should go for pictures.

"Then, if a company wants to buy a book or story that is sophisticated, that company can reproduce it faithfully, with all the lines and action as intended. If it is shown in the sophisticated houses, those who do not wish to see it do not have to go. I think the public should be given its right to see the type of pictures it wants, just as it is allowed to select its own books, automobiles and pictures.

"And I do not think that a big, expensive production should ever be allowed to play a 10 or 15-cent house. Make cheap pictures for the cheap houses. Make good ones for the higher-priced houses. Let's get this thing on a business-like basis."

Hearst Won't Accept Bid to Visit France

London—William R. Hearst and his party arrived here yesterday from Spain. Although Mr. Hearst has been invited to visit France during his trip, the present indications are that he will not do so.

Winifred Dunn to Fox

Fox yesterday signed Winifred Dunn to write an untitled screen play which Frank Strayer will direct and Edward T. Lowe Jr. will supervise, under Sol Wurtzel. The deal was negotiated by Hoffman-Schlager.

Harry Goetz East

Harry M. Goetz, president of Reliance, left by plane yesterday on his return to New York, after being here a week in conferences with Edward Small, his production chief.

'Men In White' Held By British Censor

New York.—The British censors are holding up the showing of MGM's "Men in White" because the company will not consent to make the cuts the censors have demanded. Arthur Loew says the matter will be straightened out this week.

Gaumont 'All-Star' Bid For U.S. Market

London.—British Gaumont is making a bid for the American market and plans to produce several "all-star" pictures in the hope that the United States will take as kindly to them as it did to "Henry VIII" and "Catherine the Great," both made by Korda's London Films.

Its first attempt along these lines will be the production of the famous Tolstoi novel, "Anna Karenina," in which the company will co-star Conrad Veidt and Madeleine Carroll.

Marjorie Rambeau May Play With Lew Fields

William Rowland is considering Marjorie Rambeau for the spot opposite Lew Fields in "The Naughty Nineties," which will follow "The Girl Friend" on his schedule for Columbia.

Rowland also declares he has a juvenile who looks like Dick Powell and can sing, in the person of Joey Ray, for the second production.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

censors on so-called "leg art" pictures. The fan magazines had demanded and secured pictures of stars and players scantily attired to attract the eye of the tired business man.

And when the fan mags aren't purloining sensationalism, they go in for the worst kind of mawkish sentimentality that is even more of an insult to a normal, thinking person than straight bawdiness. There is practically nothing normal, nothing wholesome, nothing uplifting in fan magazines, and the industry would be a whole lot better off without the kind of publicity that most of the stuff printed in them offers for public consumption.

RKO Theatres Add Three to the String

New York.—RKO Theatres Corp. is busily engaged in trying to increase its string of houses in the New York territory, fearing the competition that is sure to come if either Loew's or Warners gets the Fox Met chain.

It has just acquired three more theatres—the Forum and the Luxor in the Bronx, and a house at Rockville Center, Long Island. These additions bring the RKO holdings in the territory to 49 houses.

George O'Brien Has Own Film Company

Sacramento.—Articles of incorporation of the George O'Brien Productions, capitalized at $75,000, were filed with the Secretary of State yesterday.

Sol Lesser is president, and Louis Lurie, San Francisco capitalist, is vice-president. The company announces plans to make six pictures for Fox release.

Cummings to Roach

Hughie Cummings moves from the Radio writing staff to a similar berth on the Hal Roach lot.

Winchell's Name Off

(Continued from Page 1)

slapped the company with an order to take his name off the advertising.

Winchell's blow-off came after he saw the picture in which William Frawley plays a columnist character, which he declares, offensive to him. He also takes exception to the manner in which the picture handles his comedy feud with Ben Bernie, Paramount having made it appear that the feud is real, when it is actually a gag battle through which the two old friends have built each other up over a period of years.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

VACATION TIME IS HERE
LET US SOLVE YOUR TRAVEL WORRIES
Sam Revel Travel Service
6724 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.
HOllywood 2241 (Hotel Christie) 24-Hour Service
Complete Travel Information — Positively No Charge
AIR - STEAMSHIP - BUS - HOTEL - RESORT
Reservations Arranged To Any Point
Free Delivery On Tickets With Complete Information
Just Phone HOllywood 2241 — PERSONAL ATTENTION

SELZNICK BACK, WILL START 'COPPERFIELD' IN FOUR WEEKS

Lloyd George May Come to Hollywood

David O. Selznick, MGM producer, returned to the studio yesterday from his trip to England, bringing with him a delegation of notables and practically completed plans for the production of "David Copperfield" and other pictures.

In the party were Hugh Walpole, famous writer, who will do the dialogue and act as editorial consultant on "Copperfield"; George Cukor, who will direct it; Howard Estabrook, its scenarist; Peter Trent, a young English dramatic student, a candidate for the title role; Fritz Lang, noted international director and at present a refugee from Germany, who has been signed to an MGM contract. Mrs. Selznick also returned, as did Myron Selznick, who opened a London office for his agency firm.

Outside of the "Copperfield" plans, Mr. Selznick had several other important announcements. One was with regard to the picture he is to make based on the life of David Lloyd-George, announced in the Reporter some days ago. Mr. Selznick says that, if a satisfactory story can be worked out from the notes that Lloyd-George is to send him, the British statesman will come over to supervise settings and casting for the picture.

Plans for Lang's first picture are tentatively set, the story, which Selznick and Lang worked on together, being called "Tomorrow."

Another foreign notable expected is Leontine Sagan, woman director of "Maedchen in Uniform," who is also a refugee from Germany and who will be here next month. She has recently been directing a stock company in England.

Louis Bromfield, American novelist, is another added to the MGM roster by Selznick. He will be here in October to do the script of his own story, "Living in a Big Way," for Marie Dressler. Another writer signed is John Paddy Carstairs, who arrives next month.

Two players were also signed. Jean Cadell, English character actress, will play Mrs. Micawber in "Copperfield", and Antoinette Cellier, a 19-year-old actress now on the London stage, has been given a term contract.

Mr. Selznick said that Mr. Cukor had interviewed more than 1,000 players and has brought back tests of 100 or more as "Copperfield" cast possibilities. Options have been taken on twelve. The cast, Selznick says, will be 100 per cent English, being made up half from the prospects found in England and half from the English actors now in Hollywood. All cast decisions will be made within ten days and the picture will go into production in about four weeks.

While in England, Selznick made a survey of production possibilities and also made preliminary arrangements for the production of MGM pictures there, as announced in this paper recently.

Buy a Sandwich and See a Picture Free

Memphis.—Local theatre men have turned to the restaurant business in protest against the Tennessee Sunday blue law which forbids picture shows on Sundays. The Orpheum last Sunday sold sandwiches at 40 cents each, and gave a free show with the food. Others are going to follow. Thought was suggested by country clubs doing the same.

Colbert Signs For Seventh This Year

Claudette Colbert added a seventh picture to her year's commitments yesterday, signing with Warners to do one, what and when not specified.

She is currently set to start "Imitation of Life" at Universal on a transfer from one of her four remaining Paramounts, and has pictures to do for Reliance and Columbia.

Stahl Hesitating on Burnt Cork or Nature

John Stahl, requiring pickaninnies for "Imitation of Life," hasn't made up his mind whether to put white kiddies in burnt cork, or to use the real article. He's been testing both at Universal.

Universal has given up the idea of trying to put Jack Gilbert in as Claudette Colbert's lead and is shopping some more. The picture is supposed to start next Monday.

Talbot For 'Lost Lady'

Lyle Talbot yesterday was given the part in Barbara Stanwyck's "Lost Lady" in which John Eldredge was originally cast. Talbot replaces Charles Starrett, who was chalked in that spot as well as cast in "Lady Surrenders," the Jean Muir picture at Warners. The parts conflicted, so Starrett was taken out of the Stanwyck film.

Milestone Starts Today

Lewis Milestone shoves off today on his first Columbia production, "The Captain Hates the Sea." Victor McLaglen and Florence Rice head the cast which includes Fred Keating, Alison Skipworth and Wynne Gibson. Wallace Smith adapted his own novel in collaboration with A. Belgarde.

Coward Play in Oct.

New York.—Arch Selwyn and Harold B. Franklin will open Noel Coward's "Conversation Piece" at the 44th Street theatre on October 15 or 22, with Yvonne Printemps in the lead. The piece is set for twelve weeks.

Glasmon at Columbia

Columbia yesterday signed Kubec Glasmon to write an original screen play for the title, "Police Headquarters." No cast has been set as yet, though the story will probably be one of the action series with Johnny Mack Brown in the lead.

New Pictures on B'way This Week

New York.—Six new pictures are coming to Broadway this week in the hope that they will be attractive enough to overcome the hot weather. The list comprises:

Yesterday, "Murder on the Blackboard" at the Rialto; today, "Dr. Monica" at the Strand; tomorrow, "Let's Try Again" at the Music Hall; Friday, "Great Flirtation" at the Paramount, "Operator 13" at the Capitol, and "Affairs of a Gentleman" at the Roxy.

Maureen O'Sullivan Is Back in 'Hide-Out'

For the 'steenth time, Maureen O'Sullivan yesterday cancelled her vacation in Ireland plans and accepted the role in "Hide-Out" at MGM which Loretta Young was forced to vacate because of illness.

Miss O'Sullivan was originally slated for the role, but begged off when she learned her father was sick. W. S. Van Dyke directs, with Robert Montgomery in the lead.

Warner Home-coming

Jack L. Warner leads the executive contingent home this morning from the Coast and Mountain sales convention in San Francisco. William Koenig, George Bilson, S. Charles Einfeld and Edward Selzer are in the party.

Alan Crosland Starts

Alan Crosland put "The Case of the Howling Dog" into production at Warners yesterday. Addison Richards went into the cast, and Helen Trenholme arrived on the Chief yesterday for her lead opposite Warren William.

'U' Newsreel Moving

New York.—The headquarters of the Universal newsreel will move Monday from the Consolidated Laboratory building to the Duart Lab building on 55th street.

Lucille Ball on Way

New York.—Lucille Ball, who is to have a role in the coming Eddie Cantor picture, left here for the coast yesterday.

Code Com. Named

(Continued from Page 1)

son, alternate Rupert Hughes; James Gleason, alternate John F. Natteford; Dudley Nichols, alternate Seton I. Miller; Waldemar Young, alternate Courtenay Terrett.

This group is made up entirely of members of the Screen Writers' and the Screen Actors' Guild, and no Academy members were chosen, except Young, who belongs to both the Academy and the Guild. The Code Authority will appoint the producer members, and the committees will then start to try to untangle the problems of the players and the writers.

Not that it MATTERS

by Helen Gwynn

We would like very much to be able to print names in the following story, but we have been requested not to because it might cast a poor reflection on a director's ability, so we'll just tell the story because it's just about the nicest thing we've heard of in a long, long time.

A major company recently put in a bid of fifteen thousand dollars for the purchase of a story. When the offer was brought to the author of the story, he asked the name of the company. When told which one it was, the author said that he didn't want the fifteen thousand, but would give it to that company for nothing if the bill of sale were made to read that a certain director on the lot was to be assigned to direct the story for the screen. And the reason for the strange request was because the director named by the author was not only the right person for the job, but because he was the only person in Hollywood who had ever gone out of his way to help the author and this was the author's opportunity to repay him. P.S.—The story was sold for ONE DOLLAR and the director guaranteed the job.

•

Mrs. Patrick Campbell is annoyed. First because this paper called her a "veteran" British actress. Mrs. Campbell insists that a veteran is someone who walks around on crutches. And then because she is not "returning to England." She is about to VISIT England and RETURN to Hollywood. Mrs. Campbell is keeping her house in Beverly Hills because she's grown quite fond of the place and because Moonbeam has become so accustomed to the trees in her backyard that she wouldn't think of depriving Moonbeam of them.

•

Phillip Moeller, of the Theatre Guild, suh! started work on his first moving picture, "The Age of Innocence," yesterday, and is probably the most excited person in all of California. The possibilities of the camera are "positively thrilling" to him, and he's just like a kid with a new toy. However, a funny thing did happen. Someone handed Mr. Moeller a list of leading men for him to check. Moeller looked at the list and asked who they were; he had never heard of them. It was explained to him that they were all well-known picture actors. Moeller replied: "Well, I've never heard of them; they've never been with the Theatre Guild." To offset that bit of "preciousness" though, it must be said that Mr. Moeller is quite nervous over his first picture venture because Radio has given him the best of everything on the lot and, if the picture should possibly go wrong, Moeller says he'd have no alibi.

PARAMOUNT ANNOUNCES 64 FEATURES FOR COMING SEASON

Cohen Guarantees All Will Be Clean

(Continued from Page 1)

five, only minor eliminations were necessary.

He declared that such results have not been due to any accident, but rather to a well thought-out plan in which the company has brought John Hammell, its own censorship expert, right into the studio to help.

Censored at Source

"From the very selection of the story, the writing of the script and in the actual daily shooting of the picture, Hammell sits in on the problems affecting censorship and the reaction of clean-thinking patrons to the pictures to be made," said Cohen. "He has my complete and positive authority to eliminate anything he believes offensive or censorially objectionable."

Cohen declared that he believes the present assault upon Hollywood is, to a large extent, unjustified. He said that the producers appreciate fully what errors have been made, but assured the delegates that they were not "deliberate flaunting of decencies, but were mistakes in judgment." However, he assured them that in the future no pictures would be offered them to sell without the proper regard for the matters that have drawn down criticism.

Cohen went deeply into the entire production situation. He stressed the fact that Paramount has pulled its productions out of the rut in which he said they were in 1932-33, and stated that the organization has built up a personnel that makes it possible for him now to promise a product second to none.

He emphasized the fact that, starting with 1932, the company has had to build up a list of players to fill the gaps that then existed, and he pointed to the present roster of seventy contract players, many of whom are among the biggest money-makers in the business.

Many New Directors

Taking up the matter of developing and acquiring new directors, Cohen declared that Paramount has made great progress in developing directors from within its own ranks who have already shown more promise than many of the directors hired at larger figures.

Among these he cited Mitchell Leisen, who directed "The Eagle and the Hawk"; Al Hall, taken from the ranks to direct "Midnight Club", "Torch Singer" and "Little Miss Marker"; Henry Hathaway, now doing Gary Cooper's "Now and Forever"; and Gil Pratt, also from the ranks, now doing his first picture, "Elmer and Elsie."

Cohen then paid tribute to the long list of Paramount producers, its writers and the men in charge of the selection of story material. Declaring the company has ample funds to carry on, he brought his speech to a conclusion with a whole-hearted tribute to Adolph Zukor and George Schaefer.

The meeting was then turned over to the associate producers, each of whom described to the delegates the pictures planned for him during the coming year.

$6000 and Split For Baer at Paramount

New York.—Max Baer goes into the Paramount Theatre for the week beginning June 28 at $6000 per week and a split. He will be in a revue which will feature Benny Rubin.

Two For Mae West

Mae West, who has just completed "It Ain't No Sin," will be starred in two—"Gentlemen's Choice" and "Me and the King."

Marlene Dietrich's "The Scarlet Empress," is ready for release and she will have another feature, the story now being prepared.

Cecil B. DeMille's offering is "Cleopatra," with Claudette Colbert, Warren William, Henry Wilcoxon and an all-star cast.

"The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" is set for production, with Gary Cooper, Cary Grant, Richard Arlen, Sir Guy Standing and Frances Drake, Henry Hathaway directing.

"College Rhythm," with Joe Penner of radio fame, Lanny Ross, Richard Arlen, Ida Lupino and Lyda Roberta, to be directed by Norman Taurog.

"R.U.R.," picturization of Karel Capek's Theatre Guild play, directed by Mitchell Leisen.

Bing Crosby and Miriam Hopkins in "She Loves Me Not," with Kitty Carlisle and Lynne Overman, directed by Elliott Nugent, with songs by Mack Gordon, Harry Revel, Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin.

Claudette Colbert in "The Gilded Lily," with Cary Grant.

Anna May Wong Back

Sylvia Sidney and George Raft in "Limehouse Nights," with Anna May Wong. Alexander Hall will direct.

Sylvia Sidney in "Desire," with Marion Gering as director.

Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard in "20 Hours by Air," hailed as the "Shanghai Express" of the skies.

"Sailor, Beware," picturization of the New York comedy hit, with Bing Crosby starred.

Francis Lederer in "Pursuit of Happiness," another Broadway success, supported by Joan Bennett, Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland and Walter Kinsford. Ralph Murphy will direct.

The show-boat story, "Mississippi," with W. C. Fields, Lanny Ross, Evelyn Venable and Grace Bradley, with story and songs by Herbert Fields, Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart.

"Love Thy Neighbor," with the sextet from "Six of a Kind," Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, W. C. Fields, Alison Skipworth, George Burns and Gracie Allen.

"Her Master's Voice," with Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland and Joe Morrison, directed by Marion Gering.

"People Will Talk," with Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, Ida Lupino and Kent Taylor.

"Ladies Should Listen," with Cary Grant, Frances Drake, Edward Everett Horton, Rosita Moreno, George Barbier, Nydia Westman and Charles Ray. Frank Tuttle is the director.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," with Pauline Lord, W. C. Fields, Zasu Pitts, Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor. Norman Taurog directing.

One For Shirley Temple

Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard and Shirley Temple in "Now and Forever," with Sir Guy Standing and Charlotte Granville, and Henry Hathaway directing.

George Raft and Carole Lombard, stars of "Bolero," again teamed in "Rhumba," to be made by Wesley Ruggles.

Claudette Colbert in "Are Men Worth It?"

The naval academy story, "Target," with Sir Guy Standing, Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie, Evelyn Venable, Joe Morrison and Gail Patrick.

"The Glory of the Damned," spectacular drama with an all-star cast.

Bing Crosby and Kitty Carlisle in "Here Is My Heart," which Elliott Nugent is to direct.

Charles Laughton in Harry Leon Wilson's "Ruggles of Red Gap," with Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland and Sir Guy Standing. Leo McCarey will direct.

"The Big Broadcast of 1935," with Lanny Ross, Jack Oakie, Paul Gerrits and a cast of radio stars, including Jessica Dragonette.

Lee Tracy and Carole Lombard in "The Case Against Mrs. Ames," the Arthur Somers Roche mystery story. Alexander Hall will direct.

"One-Night Stand," with Jack Oakie, Ben Bernie and his band, Gertrude Michael, Joe Morrison, Grace Bradley, Alison Skipworth and George Barbier.

Three outdoor stories, "Wagon Wheels," "Home on the Range," and one other Zane Grey drama to be chosen later. Randolph Scott to be starred.

Four by Hecht-MacArthur

Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur will produce four, the first of which is "Crime Without Passion," with Claude Rains, Whitney Bourney and Margo. The second will introduce Jimmy Savo, stage clown, against the background of the Russian revolution. Two additional Hecht-MacArthur stories will be announced later.

Cecil B. DeMille's spectacular "Buccaneer," with Henry Wilcoxon as Morgan, the pirate, and a cast of thousands. Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson are the authors.

Others listed are "You Belong To Me," with Lee Tracy, Helen Mack and Helen Morgan, directed by Al Werker; "Ready For Love," with Ida Lupino, Richard Arlen and Elisha Cook Jr., "Enter, Madame," with Cary Grant and Howard Wilson; W. C. Fields in "Back Porch," directed by Norman McLeod; Damon Runyon's "The Lemon-Drop Kid," with Lee Tracy and Helen Mack; "Shoe the Wild Mare," Gene Fowler's novel; "The Yellow Bargain," with Lloyd Nolan and Evelyn Venable; "McFadden's Flats," with a cast of comedy stars; "Lovers in Quarantine," with Ida Lupino, Richard Arlen, Gertrude Michael and Randolph Scott; VinaDelmar's "Evening Star," with Cary Grant, Helen Mack, Gertrude Michael and Sir Guy Standing; Cary Grant and Frances Drake in "Eyes of the Eagle"; Carl Brisson and Kitty Carlisle in "All the King's Horses."

Short Subjects All To Be One-Reelers

In the short subject field, Paramount offers as wide a variety of entertainment as is planned in the feature production. In addition to 104 issues of Paramount News, there will be twenty-six Paramount Varieties; eighteen Paramount Headliners; thirteen each of Paramount Pictorials; Grantland Rice Sportlights, and "Pop-Eye the Sailor" cartoons; twelve "Betty Boop" cartoons and six Color Classic cartoons. Max Fleischer will produce the Pop-Eye, Betty Boop and Color Classics. All of these will be one-reelers.

Today's Program of Para. Convention

Today's program for the Paramount convention at the Ambassador Hotel is:

9:15: Fiesta room, distribution department hears about advertising and publicity from Robert Gillham, Tom Baily and Bill Pine. Louis Phillips, attorney for the company, will talk on NRA Code matters, and Neil Agnew, general sales manager, talks on sales policies.

At the same time the theatre operators will hold a meeting in another room at which George Schaefer and Sam Dembow will outline certain distribution and exhibition policies. Here the theatre operators will have the chance to present whatever complaints they may have.

The afternoon session will be taken up with individual meetings by the distribution department with Neil Agnew, Joe Unger and Charles Reagan.

Child Plagiarism Suit Against Paramount Off

New York.—Federal Judge Woolsey yesterday dismissed the plagiarism suit brought by Richard Washburn Child against James Hagan and Paramount, based on the picture, "One Sunday Afternoon."

"There was no plagiarism," the court stated. "The charges are absolutely unwarranted."

Cohen Will Entertain Delegates at His Home

Paramount's convention will close tomorrow evening with a reception at the home of Emanuel Cohen, vice-president in charge of production. It will be the first entertainment for the delegates since the convention began.

Endor Places Novel

Guy Endor, Paramount writer, has placed his novel, "Babouk," a story of a revolution in Haiti, with the Vanguard Press, which will publish it in August.

Grace Bradley Set

Grace Bradley's first assignment since checking out of the hospital is slated to be a featured role in "Pursuit of Happiness," at Paramount.

THE TREND OF PICTURES

POINTS TO–

COSTUMES

We Have Over 400,000 Complete Costumes in Stock to Select From.

Over 100,000 Square Feet of Floor Space Devoted to Housing the Largest Stock of Professional Costumes in the World.

AT YOUR SERVICE
— 24 HOURS A DAY —

•

RESEARCH DEPARTMENT

•

MEDAL AND DECORATION COLLECTION

•

LEATHER MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT

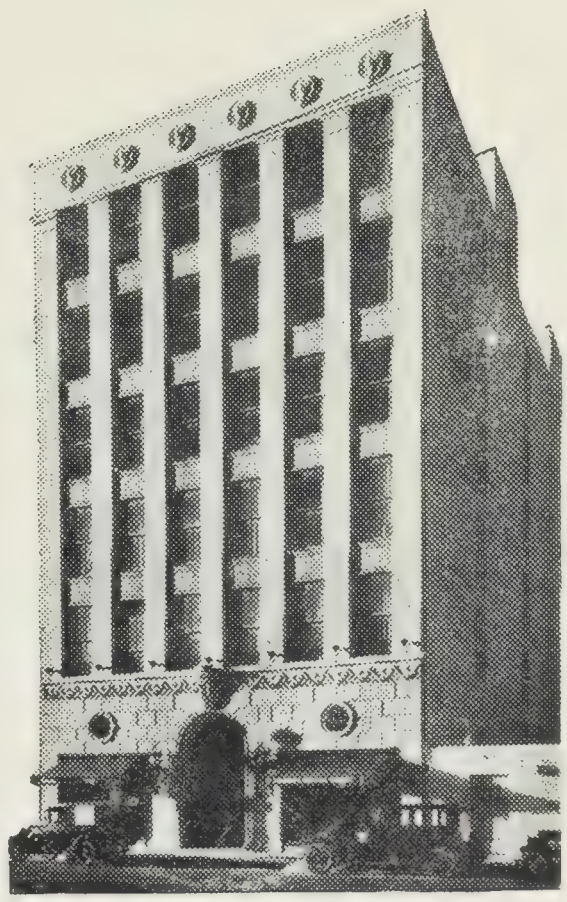
•

MEN'S TAILORING DEPARTMENT

•

LADIES' DRESSMAKING DEPARTMENT

•



EMBROIDERY DEPARTMENT

•

JEWELRY MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT

•

HAT MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT

COMPLETE COSTUMING
MILITARY CIVILIAN
CHORUS SETS
CHARACTER
EITHER FROM STOCK OR MADE TO ORDER

•

COMPLETE STOCK OF JEWELRY

•

SWORDS

•

GUNS

•

WIGS

•

AND HAND PROPS OF EVERY NATURE

You Are Cordially Invited To Pay Us a Visit and Inspect This Plant

WESTERN COSTUME CORP.

"THE WORLD'S LARGEST COSTUMERS"

5335 MELROSE AVENUE

GREETINGS

PARAMOUNTEERS

FOX WEST COAST

THEATRES

FACING the FUTURE

Off with the old,

on with the new...Box-Offices eat up personalities, stars dim in luster...the world moves on...the old cry for new faces is ever in the air. New faces for old box-offices, new attractions to stimulate business, new personalities to capture public fancy . . . who will they be? . . . where will they come from? What is your box-office future?

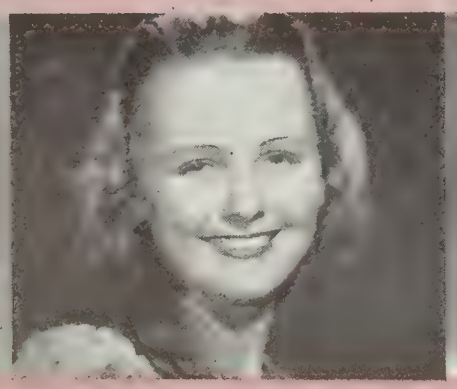
Turn the page and face it—

PARA

PARAMOUNT
who introduced to you this year (1933-34) such potential stars as

CARL BRISSON

KITTY CARLISLE



KATHERINE DeMILLE

FRANCES DRAKE

GWENLLIAN GILL

CHARLOTTE HENRY

IDA LUPINO

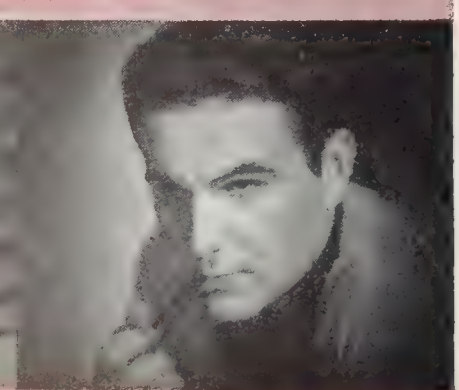
HELEN MACK

JOAN MARSH

GERTRUDE MICHAEL

RAYMOND MILLAND

GAIL PATRICK



LANNY ROSS

KENT TAYLOR

EVELYN VENABLE

HENRY WILCOXON

AMOUNT

PARAMOUNT will bring to motion picture audiences of the world in 1934-35 such new personalities as

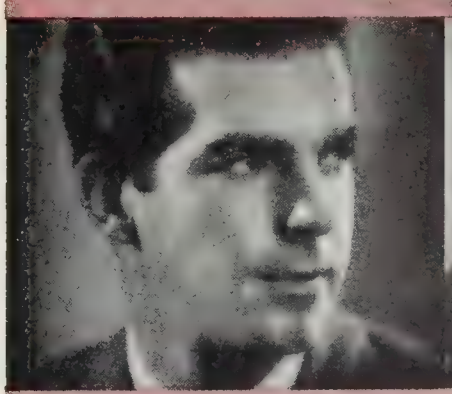
BEN BERNIE

WHITNEY BOURNE

EDDIE CRAVEN

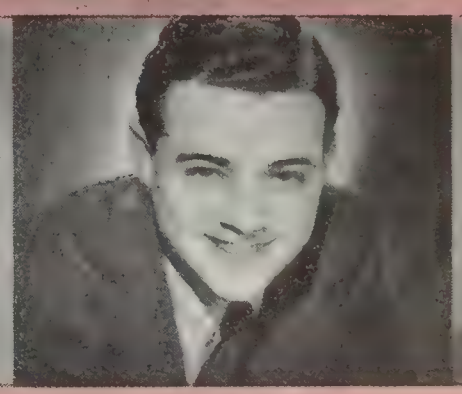
JESSICA DRAGONETTE

PAUL GERRITS



DEAN JAGGER

JOHN LODGE



PAULINE LORD

FRED MacMURRAY

MARGO

JOE MORRISON

LLOYD NOLAN

JOE PENNER

CLAUDE RAINS

JIMMY SAVO

CLARA LOU SHERIDAN

YOUR FUTURE is PARAMOUNT

PARAMOUNT who brought forth last year the greatest money-getters on the screen . . . MAE WEST and BING CROSBY ...PARAMOUNT who introduced to the screen in 1933-34 Carl Brisson, Kitty Carlisle, Gwenllian Gill, Katherine DeMille, Frances Drake, William Frawley, Charlotte Henry, Ida Lupino, Helen Mack, Gertrude Michael, Joan Marsh, Raymond Milland, Lanny Ross, Evelyn Venable, Henry Wilcoxon ...PARAMOUNT who will introduce to screen audiences in 1934-35 such potential draws as Pauline Lord, leading actress of today's stage, Ben Bernie, Whitney Bourne, Eddie Craven, Jessica Dragonette, Paul Gerrits, Dean Jagger, John Lodge, Margo, Fred MacMurray, Joe Morrison, Lloyd Nolan, Joe Penner, Jimmy Savo. PARAMOUNT combs the earth for new attractions for your box-offices and gets results.

Your future is PARAMOUNT

Paramount Pictures

To the favorite men in my life—
Paramount men

You can take it from me—

"IT AIN'T NO SIN"

Has what it takes

And what it takes will be your take.

You did a swell job with "I'm No Angel" and I know it—you're the men I'll never do wrong. I wish you could all come up an' see me before you go, but you have to have a permit to hold a meeting here.

From a bad woman with a good heart.

MAE WEST

Sole Management
WILLIAM MORRIS AGENCY

Sincere
Welcome
and Greetings

to all members of Paramount International
Sales Convention

Gary Cooper

So Long, Paramounteers

"WHERE'S ELMER?"

Over at Paramount with "Elsie" wishing you all lots of luck when you go back home.

Sincerely,

GEORGE BANCROFT

GUY STANDING

GREETINGS TO

PARAMOUNT CONVENTION DELEGATES

"DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY" "THE WITCHING HOUR"

NOW PLAYING
in
"NOW AND FOREVER"

HELLO . . .

PARAMOUNTEERS

✦ ✦ ✦

GRACE BRADLEY

✦ ✦ ✦

Paramount Pictures

Just Completed
"THE CAT'S PAW"
for Harold Lloyd

WELCOME . . .

PARAMOUNTEERS

✦ ✦ ✦

MONA MARIS

As COUNTESS RITA In

"KISS AND MAKE UP"

"There is a flash of Mona Maris which is worth the price of admission."

—Hollywood Reporter, May 25, 1934.

Paramount Pictures

Just Completed
"THE DOWNFALL"
For Paramount, N.Y.

RADIO ANNOUNCES FIFTY FEATURES, 200 SHORTS

Chicago.—The Radio Pictures program for the coming season, as announced at the convention yesterday, comprises fifty features and 200 shorts. Two of the features are listed as specials: "Last Days of Pompeii" and "She," both of which will be produced by Merian Cooper. The rest of the list follows:

"Joan of Arc," "The Forsyte Saga," and "The Little Minister," all three starring Katharine Hepburn; "Radio City Revels," a big revue; "The Fountain" and "Alien Corn," starring Ann Harding; "Roberta," a musical, co-starring Irene Dunne, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers; "The Age of Innocence," co-starring Irene Dunne and John Boles, and two other Irene Dunne pictures; "The Three Musketeers," "El Dorado." and "Romance in Manhattan," starring Francis Lederer;"The Gay Divorce," co-starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers; "Kentucky Kernels," a Wheeler and Woolsey.

"Ho, For Shanghai," a Lou Brock musical, and another Brock musical, as yet untitled; "Jungle," a Frank Buck picture; "Adventure Girl," a Van Beuren production with Joan Lowell; "Three Stand Alone," starring Johnny Weissmuller; "Anne of Green Gables," "By our Leave," "Freckles" and "Laddie," two Gene Stratton Porter stories; "Hide in the Dark," "The World by the Tail," "The Richest Girl in the World," with Miriam Hopkins; "The Sea Girl," to be produced by Cliff Reid; "Wednesday's Child," "False Dreams," "Farewell" and "Hudson River," the latter a Glen Allvine production.

There will be eight series of two-reelers and 3 one-reelers, with Lee Marcus in charge of the two-reelers.

The Radio list of producers includes Merian Cooper, Pandro Berman, Kenneth Macgowan, H. N. Swanson, B. P. Fineman, Glendon Allvine, Jane Murfin, William Sistrom, Lou Brock, Cliff Reid and Zion Myers.

Today's sessions of the convention include talks by Robert Sisk, publicity head, Barrett McCormick, Phil Reisman, Jules Levy and some others of the sales department. The annual banquet is at the Drake tonight.

Paris Film Men Here

Bernard Natan, president of Pathe-Cinema, Paris, and Henri Diamant-Berger, also of Paris, are in Hollywood for a few days. They say the visit is purely a social one. They leave Saturday.

Grinde on 'Babes' Yarn

Frank Butler, Hal Roach's scenario chief, yesterday engaged Nick Grinde to work with Ray McCarey in preparing the screen play for "Babes in Toyland," the Laurel and Hardy feature which McCarey directs.

Muni With Levee

Paul Muni signed a managerial ticket with M. C. Levee yesterday.

All British Houses Report Big Business

London.—The motion picture business is flourishing in Great Britain. In spite of the intense heat, practically all the theatres throughout the United Kingdom are reporting heavy grosses.

Universal Draws on MGM For Talent

Eph Asher drew on MGM for a lead and a dialogue director for "Million Dollar Ransom," which started at Universal Monday with Murray Roth directing. Edward Arnold stars in it.

Mona Smith, who replaced Joan Bennett in the cast yesterday, is a Philadelphia girl who drew MGM pay checks three months without an assignment. She got her Culver City release last week and yesterday was fixed up with a Universal termer.

Irving Rapper, who went in as dialogue mentor, had been bracketed at MGM with Frank Davis to direct "Forsaking All Others,' which is temporarily off the MGM schedule.

Three For Mary Forbes

Being signed by Radio yesterday for "Age of Innocence," Mary Forbes now has three assignments on three different lots. She is working in "She Was a Lady" at Fox and jumps to Warners for "The Case of the Howling Dog" before doing her Radio role. The deals were negotiated by Freddie Fralick.

ITOA Again Hits at The Code Authority

New York.—M. Weisman, counsel for the ITOA of New York, who withdrew his Federal Court petition for an injunction against the Code Authority, yesterday filed a similar petition in the State Supreme Court, before Judge Walsh. It is returnable Friday before Judge Dore.

Weisman says the difference between this petition and the former one is that he is now asking an injunction to restrain the Code Authority and various local boards from entertaining complaints against members of the ITOA who have not signed assents, if the Code Authority insists upon not hearing complaints brought by such members.

Chicago Fair Scenes For Cantor's Picture

The forthcoming Eddie Cantor picture will have an opening scene laid at the Chicago Fair. At the invitation of Rufus Dawes, president of the Century of Progress, Samuel Goldwyn is sending a camera crew to Chicago, Cantor and Ethel Merman to follow later.

Goldwyn has discarded all previously mentioned titles and is now seeking a new one.

New One For Henigson

Henry Henigson will handle production of "What Women Dream," planned for Binnie Barnes at Universal. William Jutte is working on dialogue for the William Hurlbut story.

CORDIAL GREETINGS
To Everyone Attending
Paramount's International Convention
EVELYN VENABLE
"CRADLE SONG"—Para.
"DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY"—Para.
"DOUBLE DOOR"—Para.
"DAVID HARUM"—Fox
Paramount Pictures
Currently
"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch"
Paramount

WELCOME...
PARAMOUNTEERS
DOROTHY WILSON
Under Contract To
Paramount Pictures
Latest Release
"Eight Girls In A Boat"

CHAMPAGNES

JEREBOAMS
MAGNUMS
QUARTS
PINTS
SPLITS

The best vintages, the most select brands, many of them special British Cuvees (G.B.)

ALL OF THEM OUR OWN DIRECT IMPORTATIONS

BOLLINGER (1924)
Extra Quality Brut

CLICQUOT VEUVE (1923)
Gold Label
Yellow Label

GEORGE GOULET (1921-1923)
Extra Quality Brut
Gout Americain

LANSON, PERE ET FILS (1926)
Extra Quality Dry
G. B. Extra Dry

KRUG (1926)
G. B. Private Cuvee

G. H. MUMM & CO. (1920-23-26)
Cordon Rouge Tres Sec
G. B. Cordon Rouge Tres Sec

MOET & CHANDON (1921)
G. B. Dry Imperial

PERRIER JOUET (1923-26)
Reserve Cuvee Extra Dry
G. B. Finest Quality Dry

PIPER HEIDSIECK (1921-23)
Extra Quality Brut

POL ROGER (1921-23)
Special Brut
G. B. Extra Cuvee

POMMERY & GRENO (1926)
G. B. Vin Nature

LOUIS ROEDERER (1923-26)
Extra Quality Brut

ST. GERAN
Brut

VENDOME INC

6666 SUNSET BOULEVARD
HOllywood 1666

SEND AN ATTRACTIVE GIFT BASKET OF CHAMPAGNE

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 37. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Thursday, June 21, 1934

$4,000,000 FOX MET. BID

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•THE classification of motion picture theatres according to the type of pictures shown is the idea advanced by M. A. Lightman, one of the leading exhibitors of the country and a guest at the Paramount convention. While the idea is not new, it is interesting. Mr. Lightman believes that, if this can be done—and he sees no reason why not—it would be only a short time before picture patrons would learn just what houses were showing the type of entertainment sought and would make their choice by reason of the theatre, rather than by the title of the picture.

As has been said, the idea is not new, although the picture industry never has tried it. For years it was in vogue in the legitimate theatre. For example, some years ago if a theatre-goer wanted high-class plays, he sought the Frohman or the Klaw and Erlanger houses. Musicals and revues were found in the Shubert theatres. The Al H. Woods houses specialized in bedroom farces and other attractions that might be a bit off-color. In New York, the Palace was the home of high-class vaudeville, while the Proctor houses ran a cheaper variety of the same type of entertainment. And, if burlesque was the object of the search, there were the Columbia and the Minsky house.

•

This classification may not have been 100 per cent, but it was near enough so that patrons made few mistakes. Mr. Lightman believes that such segregation of theatres and attractions will work just as well in the picture business as it did in the legitimate. Suppose Loew's State or the Four Star became known as the house in which the so-called "sophisticated" pictures were shown. People who wanted that type of picture would naturally go to that house. Furthermore, such a plan would stop the squawking about pictures unfit for children to see. It would be up to the parents, knowing where such pictures were being shown, to keep their children away. If they were permitted to go to that house, the onus would be on the parents.

•

It would seem possible in these days of big circuits and more or less

Continued on Page 2)

French Court Says 'Nana' Is All Right

Paris.—The French courts today upheld the original Hollywood scenario of Samuel Goldwyn's "Nana," starring Anna Sten, and tossed out the protest of the heirs of Emile Zola, who said it was "idiotic, naive" and nothing like the original story.

Catholics Move To Protect Exhibs

Boston.—A move, sponsored by William Cardinal O'Connell, was started here yesterday to bring about the termination of contracts between exhibitors and film producers after July 31, if the pictures supplied are found to violate either a pre-production censorship or the motion picture code of morals.

A special hearing was held before the rules committee of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, to determine the admissibility of a petition

(Continued on Page 3)

'Invitation to Murder' Purchased by Warners

New York.—Warner Brothers yesterday bought the screen rights to "Invitation to a Murder," Rufus King's latest mystery play which is one of the late season successes on Broadway. Pinker and Morrison handled the deal.

MGM Heads to Chicago

New York.—Nicholas Schenck and Felix Feist left here last night to attend the MGM convention in Chicago, opening today.

Loew's, Warners and "Blumey" Make Joint Offer; Would Put Skourases Out Of N. Y. Field

New York.—A move which would eliminate the Skourases from the field of theatre operation in New York and throw the Fox Metropolitan chain to Loew's and Warners was made yesterday in Federal court when Saul Rogers submitted to Judge Mack an offer of $4,000,000 cash for control of the chain. Rogers was acting for Loew's Inc., Warner Brothers and A. C. Blumenthal.

J. Robert Rubin and Leopold Friedman were in court to watch the Loew's interests, Abel Cary Thomas represented Warners, Beekman, Bogue and Clark appeared for the theatre chain, and Hughes, Schurman and Dwight for the bondholders' committee. The bondholders' attorneys opposed acceptance of the cash offer and favored adoption of the reorgani-

Continued on Page 2)

Katharine Hepburn May Do 'Tudor Wench'

J. Walter Ruben is reading the script of "The Tudor Wench" and may do it as the last picture on his Radio directing deal.

If he decides to direct the picture it will be the first for Katharine Hepburn on the new schedule and will probably replace one of the three now scheduled for the star.

No Loan For Curtiz

Warners has turned thumbs down on Michael Curtiz directing the Clive Brook picture for British Gaumont, although the director is en route to London for a vacation.

Paul Robeson Heads Korda 'Congo Raid'

London. — Alexander Korda has signed Paul Robeson and Nina Mae McKinney for the leads in his forthcoming picture, "Congo Raid." This is the picture for which an expedition was sent to Africa to get background and atmospheric shots.

Robeson recently scored a big hit in the title role of "Emperor Jones," his first picture. Nina Mae McKinney has been in pictures in Hollywood and more recently has been appearing in a night club in Athens, Greece, where she was billed as the "Black Greta Garbo."

British Film Players Seek Equity Shelter

London.—A movement is on foot among the British motion picture players to form a branch of the Actors' Equity Association and place themselves under the protection of that organization.

This has been tried before, but failed to jell, although Equity is strong on the British stage.

Gouverneur Morris To Write One For Mascot

Gouverneur Morris autographed a Mascot contract for Al Levoy yesterday, and starts work at once concocting a yarn about a newsreel cameraman for the title "Anything Once."

Otto Brower was engaged at the same time to collaborate on scripting and to direct the picture.

MGM Deal For Musicals

MGM is negotiating with Lew Brown and Bobby Crawford, of the Brown, DeSylva and Henderson music publishing company, to become producers of the studio's complete musical pictures output. A deal with Brown went cold some time ago, but negotiations have been reopened with the two as a team.

A.T.& T. BIDS $5,000,000 FOR TRI-ERGON PATENTS

Washington.—It is understood that A.T.&T. has offered William. Fox $5,000,000 for his Tri-Ergon rights, but there is a hitch in the way, that being the necessity of satisfying the newly-formed Communications Commission that the acquisition is necessary for the public interest.

This new commission holds a lot of headaches for A.T.&T. Every purchase it makes, every matter of policy must be submitted to the Commission for approval and, if the Fox offer is turned down, either by Fox or the

(Continued on Page 8)

Trem Carr Comfortable

Considerable concern was expressed for Trem Carr yesterday at the Cedars of Lebanon, Dr. H. L. Uptegraff forbidding visitors. A late report, however, attributed Carr's condition to a relapse and had him resting comfortably.

Marc Connelly Here

Marc Connelly arrived yesterday by train from New York to start his Paramount writing contract on "A Village Tale," a novel by Phil Stong.

SAM COSLOW WRITING SONGS FOR HELEN MORGAN IN "YOU BELONG TO ME"—PARAMOUNT

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

The Wes Ruggles have done something that makes everybody say, "Why didn't I think of that?" . . . They're building a house (with all the trimmings) in Beverly, but they've had the swimming pool and bar built first and will use them all summer, even though the house won't be completed for some time! . . . Whitney Bourne, announced as a "coming Paramount star," only has two million dollars in her own name! . . . Hugh Walpole, who arrived here Tuesday, went to work at MGM yesterday—which isn't wasting any time! . . . Milton Beecher and Florine McKinney are ablaze. . . . Preston Foster is living on his boat at Balboa. . . . Dorothy Dare (formerly leading lady in the Joe Cook shows) gets here Friday for Warners.

•

Adrian leaps off on a vacation today —probably to the East. . . . Liz Dupont decided a few hours before plane time to go to N'Yawk with Kay Francis—which she did. . . . Grace Moore, Ruth Chatterton, Bee Stewart, Virginia Bruce, Frances Goldwyn among those at Kay's for a lunching farewell. . . . Richard Cromwell has bought a print of "Tol'able David," the first film he ever appeared in, for his own personal use. . . . Somebody in Australia sent Walt Disney two trick kangaroos as a gift—but when they arrived here, they were three. Nice work!

•

Lola Lane plays the piano and sings in a manner worth mentioning. . . . . Mae Clarke is "resting" by calling up her friends all day and night. . . Paul Kaye and "Buddy," Junior Laemmle's secretary, are in the throes. . . . The Donaldson boys, being educated by Joan Crawford, have finished junior college—and will be at U.S.C. in the Fall. . . . After his flicker is finished, the Gary Coopers will go East for several weeks—Sandra is sooo bored! . . Sign on a local theatre says, "She Made Her Bed" and "Three Little Pigs." . . . Aline MacMahon, Sally Eilers, Guy Endor, Nigel Bruce, Ad Schulberg, Ben Wasson, Wm. LeBaron, Mrs. Clark Gable, the Eric Blores, Mona Maris, Lewis Milestone, Max Steiner, Ben Lyon, Vivian Gaye, Charles Brackett glimpsed at the Vendome.

New York REVIEWS

"THE LIFE OF VERGIE WINTERS"
Radio prod.; director, Alfred Santell; writers, Louis Bromfiled, Jane Murfin.
Music Hall

Post: A touching story, intelligent direction and a handsome group of well-behaved performers. No great shakes of a story, but there are so many charming people in it and so little hysterics, that the production leaves a very pleasant impression. Miss Harding is at her best, and Betty Furness and Frank Albertson are stunning as the young couple.

Journal: "The Life of Vergie Winters" is told with a sombre dignity; costumed in the quaint fashions of the early 1900's and stresses the beauties—or, if you prefer—the results of self-sacrifice. Miss Harding and Mr. Boles play the familiar parts satisfactorily, and the small-town atmosphere in which the story unfolds is effective.

Herald-Tribune: Alfred Santell has given his piece human interest, a colorful atmosphere and an emotional content that will probably make the picture a good box-office draw, but he has failed to lend much subtlety to his portrayal, and the jerkiness of the unfolding episodes is a little annoying.

Mirror: The gallant Miss Harding is more gallant than ever in this Louis Bromfield story. It is far-fetched, but it provides the glamorous star with a congenial role and it induces the pleasant tears women always shed over movies about womanly sacrifice. It is cleverly directed and skilfully played.

Times: It is an ingenuous, sentimental affair, with competent acting for the most part and indifferent dialogue. Miss Harding gives a clever performance, but her good work is wasted on such a trivial narrative.

Sun: In a story not unlike "Back Street," John Boles again grows gray and distinguished while his true love, shut out of his life by circumstance, becomes more and more forlorn. "The Life of Vergie Winters" might well have been written for Ann Harding, so enthusiastically does she suffer and at such length. She has a dreary time of it and seems to enjoy it hugely. Direction and acting are workmanlike, but a little monotonous.

News: Most of the situations have been done time and time again on the screen, but in spite of the banalities of the plot Louis Bromfield's characters come alive on the Music Hall screen because they are presented by the director, Alfred Santell, with a refreshing simplicity and a realism that lifts the picture high above the average film.

American: As Vergie Winters, Ann Harding offers her usually effective portrayal. John Boles finds himself in the same position he occupied in "Back Street" and gives a sincere picture of a man whose duty binds him to two mistresses.

Mitchell and Durant Battered, But Here

Battered as a result of an automobile accident, Frank Mitchell, Jack Durant and their manager, Gene Mann, returned from New York yesterday.

The trio toppled off a Kearny, Nebraska, bridge in a speeding car, narrowly escaping with their lives.

4 Million Fox Met. Bid
(Continued from Page 1)

zation plan which was submitted earlier this month.

It was shown to the court that the cash assets of the chain are now $1,554,000 and that there is another $400,000 for the unsecured creditors. These amounts, with the $4,000,000 cash, would net the bondholders and creditors approximately 45 per cent of their claims.

Judge Mack will hold another hearing today and may approve the foreclosure sale and the acceptance of the Loew's-Warner offer. If this eventuates, the Fox Metropolitan chain will be split between Loew's and Warners, with the Skourases being definitely out of the field.

To satisfy counsel for the bondholders that the $4,000,000 offer was genuine, counsel for the two corporations submitted it in writing. The Fox Met bonds, on the strength of the offer, rose another seven points yesterday, after their jump of eight points the day before.

Foy Picture For Col.

Columbia has entered into an agreement with Bryan Foy to release his next picture, "That's Gratitude," which Frank Craven is writing and will direct when it goes into work next month. Negotiations are still on to set the release of his last picture, "High School Girl."

FOR RENT

Palos Verdes 43-acre Beach estate, 12 rooms, 4 baths, Large servants' quarters, garages. Completely, comfortably furnished. Two main kitchens accommodate two families. Good beach. Call WIGMORE, MIchigan 6403.

Col. Has 5 Features Left On Schedule

Columbia still has five features and three shorts to get into production to complete its season's releasing commitments.

"Hello, Big Boy," in Felix Young's department, will be the next to start. It had been scheduled for this week, but no director or leads have been assigned. "Orchids and Onions" was also on the board for this week, but goes back until a cast is fitted around Carole Lombard.

"Produce the Body," "Among the Missing" and "I'll Fix It," with Jack Holt, are the other features. Two Minute Mysteries and a musical short also must be turned out.

June Brewster Loses Teeth and Job Same Day

June Brewster had two wisdom teeth yanked yesterday and had to resign a part in MGM's "Four Walls" for which she was to have reported today.

Second bad break for the girl, as she lost a repeat engagement for Radio's new "Blondes and Redheads" series by being in New York when the lead was set.

Block Back to Warners

Ralph Block has returned to the Warners writing staff and has been teamed with Sy Bartlett to write an original for James Cagney.

Tradeviews
(Continued from Page 1)

centralized operation of theatres to divide the houses into classes so that, as in the legitimate theatre, there could be few if any mistakes made as to the type of entertainment shown. Houses for sophisticates, for lovers of musicals, for comedies or pictures "for the family", for action films could, it appears, be so established that each would have its own clientele. Then books, plays or stories could be produced as written, with a guarantee that the resulting pictures would be shown before audiences who desired and would appreciate that type of entertainment.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES
you can borrow on
★ Salary - Furniture or Automobiles
$10 to $300
24-HOUR SERVICE
Strictly Confidential
Small Monthly Repayments
Loans Arranged by the
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine
HEmpstead 1133

Lovely Ladies
Love to Wear
Lovely Intimate Wear
Exclusive Lingerie
and Hosiery

TRADE JUEL PARK MARK
BEVERLY HILLS
Wilshire Blvd. at Beverly Drive

MGM LISTS 52 FEATURES ON 11TH PRODUCTION PROGRAM

8 Super-Specials Head the Schedule

Starting its eleventh production season, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announces for the coming year 52 features, of which eight will be super-specials. The company prefaces its announcement with the statement that, in its ten years, the studio has never closed and that it has employed an average of 1600 workers and 6720 players and extras annually.

All production will be at the Culver City studios, under the supervision of Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg, David O. Selznick, E. J. Mannix, Hunt Stromberg, Harry Rapf, Lawrence Weingarten, Bernie Hyman, Lucien Hubbard, John Considine and Monta Bell.

The eight program leaders are:

"The Merry Widow", directed by Ernst Lubitsch, with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald; "David Copperfield", a David Selznick production, to be directed by George Cukor; "The Good Earth", based on Pearl Buck's novel, with George Hill directing; "Chained", from a story by Edgar Selwyn, co-starring Joan Crawford and Clark Gable and with Clarence Brown directing; "The Barretts of Wimpole Street", directed by Sidney Franklin, with Norma Shearer, Fredric March and Charles Laughton heading the cast; "Mutiny on the Bounty", with Gable, Beery and Montgomery, directed by Frank Lloyd; "Naughty Marietta", the Victor Herbert operetta, with Jeanette MacDonald, Robert Leonard directing; "Marie Antoinette", with Norma Shearer starred and Sidney Franklin directing.

S. N. Behrman's play, "Biography of a Bachelor", is to co-star Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery under direction of E. H. Griffith.

"In Old Vienna," Vicki Baum's drama, is to co-star Ramon Novarro and Evelyn Laye, with libretto by Oscar Hammerstein II and music by Sigmund Romberg.

Jean Harlow is to star in "His Brother's Wife", by George Auerbach; "Indo-China", an Oriental drama starring Joan Crawford, with Victor Fleming directing; "Movie Queen", by Sidney Skolsky, a Marion Davies starring vehicle; "Sequoia", with Jean Parker, Russell Hardie and others, and which was completed by Chester Franklin and Nick Grinde after two years in the Sequoia wilds, is also on the program.

Other important pictures include: "The Winning Ticket", with Louise Fazenda and Leo Carrillo, produced by Charles Reisner and Jack Cummings; "The Green Hat", with Constance Bennett and Herbert Marshall, directed by Robert Z. Leonard; "China Seas", in which Tay Garnett directs Clark Gable and Jean Harlow; Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Tish"; Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows", with Helen Hayes; "Soviet", directed by Frank Capra, with Wallace Beery and Clark Gable; "The Gravy Game", football story; "The Painted Veil", W. Somerset Maugham's story, starring Garbo, with Herbert Marshall, Richard Boleslavsky directing.

"Two Thieves", from Manuel Komroff's novel, an all-star production; Robert Montgomery in "Hide-Out", W. S. Van Dyke directing; S. S. Van Dine's "Casino Murder Case" to co-star William Powell and Myrna Loy; "Jungle Red Man", to be filmed among Amazon Indians by George Seitz; Ramon Novarro in Lezlo Bus Fekte's "Her Excellency's Tobacco Shop"; Wallace Beery and Clark Gable in Major Pechkoff's Foreign Legion story, "The Bugle Sounds", W. S. Van Dyke directing.

"No More Ladies", comedy by A. E. Thomas; Mady Christians, the European star, in Anne Austin's "Wicked Woman", directed by Charles Brabin; "Dolly", directed by Gregory LaCava and featuring Gladys George; Guy Gilpatric's "Any Port in a Storm", with Wallace Beery; Loretta Young in "Forsaking All Others", directed by Frank Davis and Irving Rapper.

Jean Parker and Jimmy Dunn are co-stars of "Have a Heart", directed by David Butler; "Four Walls" is being directed by Paul Sloane, with Franchot Tone, Karen Morley, Gladys George and others; "Death on the Diamond", directed by Edward Sedgwick, with Franchot Tone; John Monk Saunders' "Manners Make the Man"; "Timberline", Gene Fowler's story of Tammen and Bonfils; "The Wind and the Rain", with all star cast; "Man Crazy", Vina Delmar's Liberty magazine story; "Pamela Thorndyke", new Moss Hart comedy; "White Bird", Major Herbert Yardley's drama of the spy system; "Evelyn Prentice", by W. E. Woodward.

Also scheduled are "Repeal", from Charles Francis Coe's story, with Jean Harlow; Hugh Walpole's "Vanessa", for Helen Hayes; Louis Bromfield's "Living in a Big Way"; an untitled story for Gloria Swanson; and two all-star comedies to be produced by the new team of Reisner and Cummings, players to include Jimmy Durante, Charles Butterworth, Louise Fazenda, Stuart Erwin, Una Merkel and Ted Healy.

Presbyterian Synod Backs Catholic War

Wooster, Ohio.—A resolution supporting the movement for better and cleaner motion pictures and commending the stand taken by the Catholic Church, was adopted by the Ohio Presbyterian Synod yesterday.

British & Dominions Hit by the Dickens Bug

London.—The Dickens fad has hit the British picture producers, and British and Dominions is planning to produce "The Old Curiosity Shop."

Herbert Wilcox says production will start in August and that the picture will have an American star and director.

Natteford to Col.

Jack Natteford was signed yesterday by Columbia to write a western story, probably for the Johnny Mack Brown series.

Hays Office Steps on 'The Green Hat'

For the second time this week, MGM has run into Hays office censorship trouble on a picture which was already "in the can". This time it's "The Green Hat," which Robert Z. Leonard directed and finished about three weeks ago.

Monckton Hoffe has been assigned to rewrite the script on the objectionable scenes, and Leonard will put it back into work with Herbert Marshall and Constance Bennett in the leads.

"Born To Be Kissed" ran into the same trouble earlier this week.

Jerry Mandy Heads New Producing Outfit

A new independent producing company, Cavalcade Pictures, has just been announced with Jerry Mandy as its president and also its feature player in the company's initial production, the title of which has not yet been disclosed.

Others in the company include Harry S. Marks, producer-executive, and Darby Compton, in charge of exploitation. Two newcomers to the screen will be introduced by the company. They are Rudolph Cosonova and John Castahno.

Mona Smith Deal With Universal Is Held Up

A last minute hitch in terms yesterday resulted in the cancellation of final negotiations to place Mona Smith under term contract at Universal.

Mary Carlisle was borrowed from MGM to take the top spot with Phillips Holmes in "Million Dollar Ransom" instead. Murray Roth is shooting the picture, under Eph Asher's supervision.

Saal and Kelly Will Make a Gang Picture

New York.—William Saal and Burt Kelly, of Select Pictures, have bought Herbert Asbury's book, "Gangs of New York," and will produce it as one of the series of independent productions they are making at the Biograph studios.

Move To Protect Exhibs

(Continued from Page 1)

calling for such contract termination. It developed into a stormy session, with Father Russell Sullivan, S.J., appearing at the request of Cardinal O'Connell, emphatically declaring that the motion picture magnates cannot continue to offend an organization of 20,000,000 people.

Father Sullivan explained that those he represented desired to cleanse the screen without inflicting hardships on anyone. He also stated that he is willing to take the industry's code of morals to determine whether or not a picture violates proper standards. Father Sullivan declared that a boycott of two feature films a month would put any of the picture companies on the rocks.

Not that it MATTERS by Helen Gwynn

It took Henry Hull weeks and weeks to make up his mind whether or not to sign for pictures and then, when he signed with Universal, there was even more vacillating about just when he would leave for the Coast. At one moment, Hull thought he'd stick out the Summer in "Tobacco Road"; at another, he was threatening the management that he would leave. And then there was Universal which had something to say about the matter. Finally, Mr. Hull informed the assembled company one night that the show was closing because he was going to Hollywood. Much to his surprise and chagrin, the company informed him that he was slightly misinformed. That he was leaving, but that the show was not closing. They had found someone to play Jeeter.

The finding of this man represents one of the swellest pieces of showmanship that has been thought of in years. They needed not only an actor to replace Hull, but someone who would startle the public consciousness and give themselves another break in the papers.

•

And they found him in James Barton. Barton took over the Hull role Monday night and had to take fourteen curtain calls for his magnificent performance. His interpretation of Jeeter doesn't ape Hull's, but is every bit as effective, and the critical raves in every paper Tuesday, including the New York Times, were a complete justification of the management's choice of Barton. It also should prove to the critics who were so certain that "Tobacco Road" was Henry Hull, the fact that, granted it takes a good actor to make a part, the part must also be well written for an actor to give his best. The last legit role that Barton played was when he replaced the late Hal Skelly in "Burlesque."

•

Just one more Mrs. Pat Campbell story and then we swear off for the Summer. But this is the best critical description of a person we've heard in years. It was at a supper party in London and someone asked Mrs. Pat if a certain girl had been in her company some years before and whether Mrs. Campbell remembered her. "But of course I do," said Mrs. Pat. "She's the little girl who used to stand with her legs akimbo!"

•

Just on the face of it, we kinda like the type-casting that MGM has given "Four Walls." It is a Jewish story entirely about Jewish people, and Paul Muni once made a terrific hit in it. To date the main roles are being handled by Franchot Tone, May Robson and Karen Morley. To continue about MGM, "The Painted Veil" will be Garbo's last effort for that company under her present contract, so for the next eighty or ninety weeks, columns will be filled with speculations as to whether Garbo will sign or Garbo won't sign and Sweden will once again make the front pages.

RALPH RAINGER

AND

LEO ROBIN

wrote

"TAKE A LESSON FROM THE LARK"

and

"DO I LOVE YOU!"

for

THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE

"SHOOT THE WORKS"

Management
Small-Landau Company

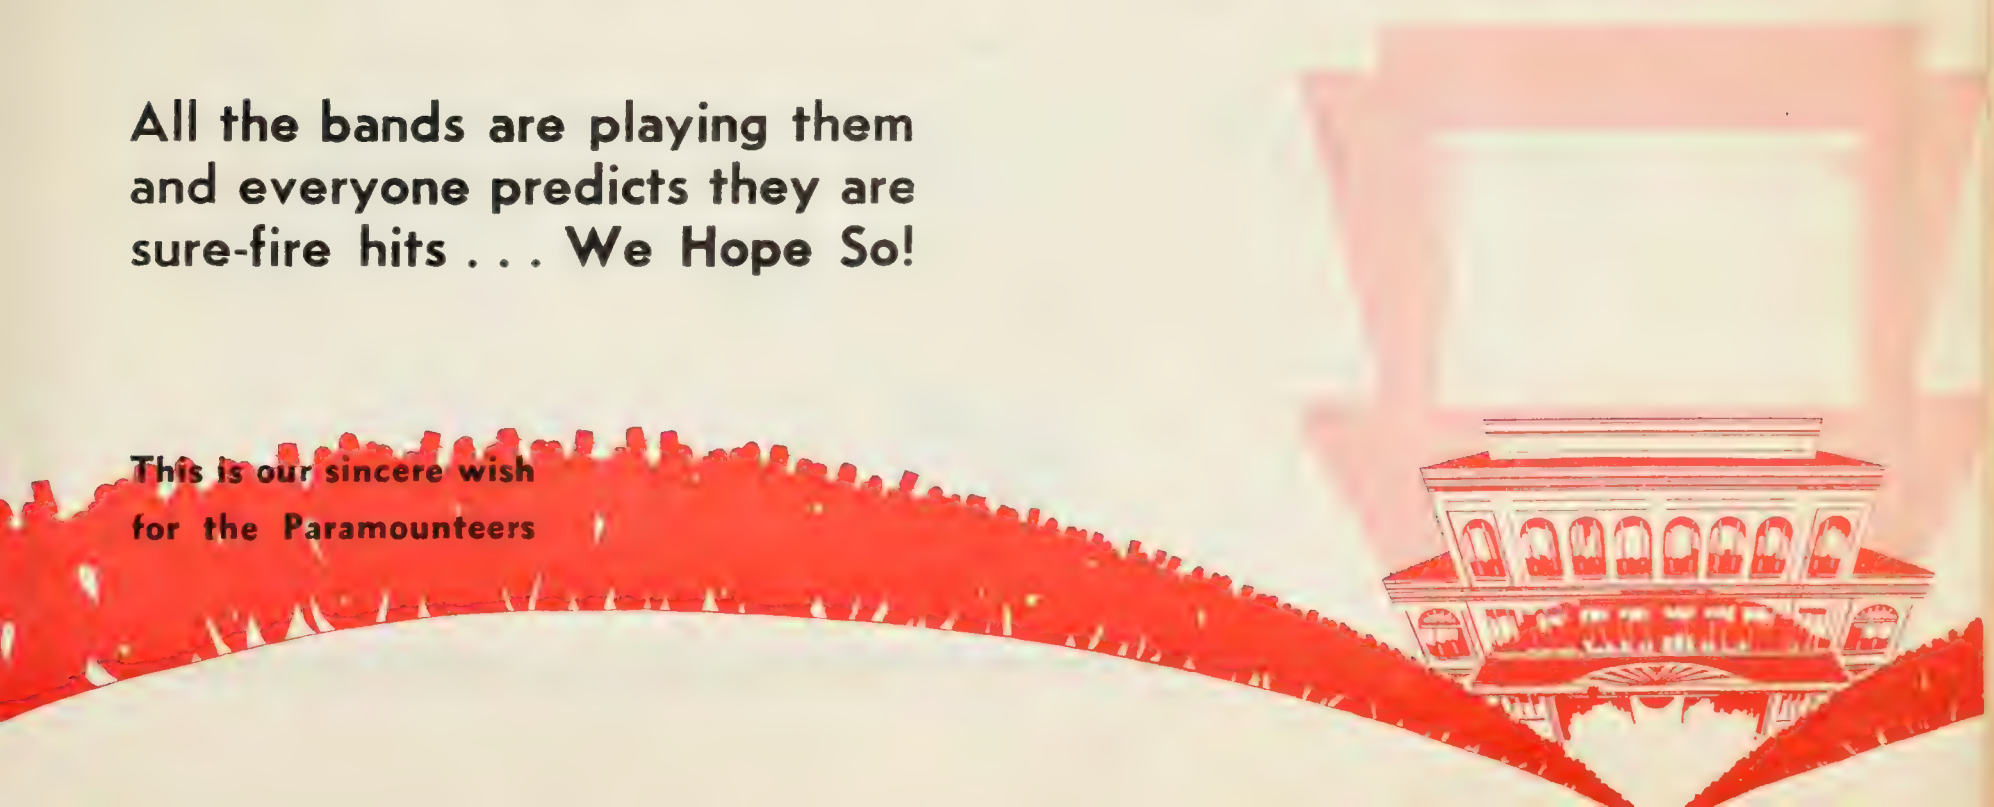
MACK GORDON

and

HARRY REVEL

wrote

"With My Eyes Wide Open, I'm Dreaming"



"Were Your Ears Burning, Baby?"

"In The Good Old Winter Time"

For the Paramount Picture

"SHOOT THE WORKS"

All the bands are playing them and everyone predicts they are sure-fire hits . . . We Hope So!

This is our sincere wish for the Paramounteers

This is

Howard J. Green

who collaborated with me on

"SHOOT THE WORKS"

CLAUDE BINYON

SCREEN PLAYWRIGHT

ARLINE JUDGE

as

JACKIE

in

"SHOOT THE WORKS"

Directed by Wesley Ruggles

PARAMOUNT SETS DATES FOR REGIONAL MEETS

Starting next week, Paramount's distribution organization will hold a series of regional conventions throughout the country to acquaint every member of exchange operation with the sales plans for the coming season.

The locations and dates of these meetings were decided upon yesterday at the Paramount convention at the Ambassador Hotel.

The first will be at San Francisco, opening June 25. Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland, Denver and Salt Lake exchanges will attend. As soon as this meeting ends, the Chicago meeting will start, with the exchangemen from Milwaukee, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha, Des Moines, Minneapolis and Sioux Falls.

June 29 and 30 will be the dates for the regional at Atlanta, July 2 and 3 there will be one at Washington, and on July 6 and 7 the final one at New York.

The convention closes tonight with a reception to all delegates at the home of Emanuel Cohen. Most of the delegates will be leaving tomorrow, but some are remaining for the collegiate track meet Saturday.

Yesterday's sessions were devoted to discussions regarding advertising, sales policies and NRA Code matters. The theatre operators, who are guests of the convention, met with George Schaefer and Sam Dembow for discussions of their problems.

Hopi Indian Life Will Be Screened

New York.—John L. Nelson, of the Museum of the American Indian, is planning to produce a picture based on the life and drama of the Hopi Indians. Lewis Jacobs, one of the editors of Experimental Cinema, has been engaged to direct it. An expedition will leave here for New Mexico and Arizona at the end of this week.

Jacobs is planning to experiment with montage theories, tying image to sound.

No Union Insurance For Airplane Deaths

Local 659, IATSE, the cameramen's union, yesterday notified all its members that, effective last Friday, the union will not pay any death benefits when death is caused by airplane accidents.

The organization has an insurance provision which, for all deaths but those by airplane, pays the estate of the member $1000.

Job For 'Bud' Lesser

Bill Plant has added Julian "Bud" Lesser, son of Sol Lesser, to his publicity staff on "Peck's Bad Boy" and "Chandu." He is a student at Stanford and will remain on the job during the Summer vacation.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Betty Furness, Ruth Channing, Cecilia and Linda Parker by MGM for the Pete Smith "Rugby" short.

Virginia Verrill to "Hide-Out," MGM.

Lynn Cowan for MGM's "Student Tour."

Adrian Morris to "Pursuit of Happiness," Paramount.

Irving Bacon for Paramount's "You Belong to Me."

Jameson Thomas to "Lost Lady," Warners.

Phillip Reed for "Big-Hearted Herbert," Warners.

Gwili Andre, Emily Fitzroy and Frank Conroy for "Captain Hates the Sea," Columbia.

Harry Holman to "Broadway Bill," Columbia, through Leo Morrison.

Bobby Watson for "Hide-Out," MGM, by Leo Morrison.

Robert Gleckler for "Million Dollar Ransom," Universal, by Leo Morrison.

Josephine Whittell for "Servants' Entrance," Fox, by O'Reilly-Mann.

Leon Waycoff for "Count of Monte Cristo," Reliance, by O'Reilly-Mann.

Earle Foxe to "Serenade," Fox, by Hallam Cooley.

Del Henderson for "Captain Hates the Sea," Columbia, by Hallam Cooley.

Bob Graves, through Hallam Cooley, for a Radio short.

Robert Allen and Barbara Read to "Broadway Bill," Columbia.

Mitchell Lewis for Edward Small's "Count of Monte Cristo."

Maynard Holmes, by Hoffman-Schlager, to "A Lady Surrenders," Warners.

Bob Custer to Mascot's serial, "The Law of the Wild."

George Baringer for "The Captain Hates the Sea," Columbia.

Andy Devine to "Million Dollar Ransom," Universal.

Snub Pollard to "One More River," Universal.

Russell Hopton to "A Lady Surrenders," Warners.

'U' Kid Is Tri-Lingual

Universal yesterday signed 2½-year-old Juanita Quigley to play the role of Claudette Colbert's daughter in "Imitation of Life." Universal claims she is the youngest actress in Hollywood to speak lines. She speaks English, French and Spanish fluently.

Brown a Director Again

Mel Brown forsakes play producing to make another try at directing after more than a year's absence. Monogram has signed him to handle "Redheads," the Jesse L. Lasky Jr. script, which Mrs. Wallace Reid is producing.

SOUND

by

PAGGI

in

"SHOOT THE WORKS"

A Paramount Picture

"MANHATTAN MELODRAMA"

SCREEN PLAY

By

Joseph L. Mankiewicz

(In Collaboration)

◆

Subscribed by the School Children of Bad Nauheim

◆

Under Contract To

M - G - M

BAER OF WRITERS TELLS HOW TO LICK THE FILM CARNERAS

Ben Hecht Advises Future Scenarists

Three great, and almost insurmountable, obstacles stand in the way of a writer's success in the motion picture field. They are the directors, the actors and actresses, and the bosses. And the most useless of the lot are the bosses.

But the time is not far distant when these obstacles will have been dropped by the wayside, will have passed on with the one-hoss chaise, and the writers will be running the motion picture production business.

This was the gist of a recent address given by Ben Hecht, the Max Baer of the writing profession, before a group of Columbia University students who are preparing for the business of writing for the motion pictures. Hecht outlined the obstacles they have to face, and gave them good, if somewhat satirical, advice on how to remove these obstacles.

Only a Pollyanna

"When you go to Hollywood, you will be confronted by three obstacles," said Hecht, "and if my remarks seem a little wild to you here this evening there will come a day when you sit embattled with the celluloid muse in Hollywood when these same remarks will strike you as the mild and gentle mouthings of a Pollyanna.

"I say you will encounter three obstacles. And the first of these will be an ex-parachute jumper, or ex-stock company actor, or ex-automobile mechanic, or ex-bondsalesman, or ex-haberdasher who bears the title of director.

"Long ago, some ten or fifteen years, when movies were silent and used to be written on the cuff, that is, made up as everybody went along, directors were the powers of Hollywood. They got the most money, wielded the most authority and were looked on by the bosses as sheer magicians.

Writers Began to Rise

"When the talkies came along, the directors found themselves being slowly shuffled off their thrones. And, what was worse, by a contingent of movie workers who, up to that time, had been the lowliest in cinema land, the writers. In the silent movies the writer was a sort of literary valet to the director. But when talkies came, all kinds of things began to happen. The theatre entered the movies. The panicstricken directors issued dicta that dialogue must be kept down, that dialogue was fatal to pictures. The playwright, fresh from New York, would hand in two pages of dialogue and get it cut down to a sentence and a half."

Hecht then pointed out that the director gradually began to lose ground, and described directors, with few exceptions, as being untrained in dramatic thinking, writing and verbal visualizing. He declared that the director tells the writer that said writer knows nothing about pictures, and he will chop down the lines, explaining sometimes that your words do not sound well in the microphone. And, in the end, only about one-third of the writer's work gets to the screen.

Screaming the Remedy

"There is only one remedy for this," said Hecht. "Scream and you'll win. Never admit that a single word of yours is wrong. Act like Shakespeare and Euripides and Dempsey, and two-thirds of your play will be shot. Or, you can resign. That's good, too."

He then jumped to obstacle number two, the actor or actress, and declared they are worse than the directors, because, he says, the star is responsible in an involved way for the general bankruptcy of the movies today. "Not the money he or she collects, but the more dire influence he exercises in the concoction of movies."

He asserted that, when the writers go to Hollywood, they are not allowed to write about something they know or have deep in their hearts, but are ordered to write what plots the particular stars can perform in.

"And this," he said, "is not like inventing things that might fit Bernhardt or Coquelin, or even Alfred Lunt or Ina Claire. There are plenty of first-rate performers in Hollywood, but with few exceptions they are not among the stars. The star is a phenomenon new in entertainment. A sort of freak greatness built up by publicity and the asinine infatuation of millions of goofs who go to the movies. Well, you write for these stars. And what you write is not judged by its merit, but by its tailoring. Will it fit the Crawford mouth? Will it afford the audience the Dressler belch?

Always Pan the Stars.

"There is an answer to this obstacle. You don't write for stars. When you get to Hollywood, begin a campaign against the stars. Broadcast the fact they are slipping. Answer all arguments with the flat statement that they are sure death at the box-office.

"Obstacle number three," Hecht continued, "is a very urbane and usually charming gentleman, with a fanatic interest in haberdashery and national political connections. His name may be Louis Mayer, Winnie Sheehan, Harry Cohn or Joe Schenck —or, if you want a lot of experience in a brief time—Sam Goldwyn. He is the Satrap who passes on the quality, purport, content, etcetera of your work.

"In the ten years during which I have invented some fifteen movies I have never yet worked for a boss who knew the difference between a theme and a plot, who was able to understand why the movie was written the way it was, who had the remotest interest in originality, the remotest conception of dramaturgy, or whose opinion was worth a plugged nickel in the creation of a movie."

The Mighty Will Fall

Hecht went on to say that the boss' chief function is to act as a sort of liaison Pooh-Bah between the studio and the bankers who are losing their money trying to pull the studio out of a hole that has been dug by the boss.

Swinging into his conclusion, Hecht declared that he feels these expensive bosses and their expensive relatives and assistants are going to be junked shortly.

"The director, too, will be demoted," he said, "to about the place he occupies in the theatre. And the star likewise will be shelved, except where his stardom is founded upon a bit of genuine merit. All this will happen because the movies are no longer the movies, but the theatre, and the theatre cannot be run like a sideshow. And when all the false powers of cinema land have been relegated to their proper spheres, the writer will emerge and occupy the same position in movieland that he does in the theatre."

Cantwell Predicts Federal Censors

Kansas City.—Bishop Cantwell, of Los Angeles, speaking here yesterday, predicted Federal censorship of motion pictures next season if the films are not cleaned up. The box-office is the sensitive point, he said, and the boycott is the only effective weapon.

Present Set-up on Way Out, He's Sure

Guild Names Board To Draw Proposals

The Screen Writers' Guild yesterday appointed a committee of eighteen to draw up the proposals that will be submitted to the producers when the five-five Producer-Writer committee gets together. On this committee are all the writer members and alternates appointed by Sol Rosenblatt. The list comprises:

Ralph Block, William Conselman, John Emerson, James Gleason, Ray Harris, Edward Hogan, Rupert Hughes, Gladys Lehman, James K. McGuinness, Seton I. Miller, John F. Natteford, Dudley Nichols, Allen Rivkin, Donald Ogden Stewart, Courtenay Terrett, Tristram Tupper and Waldemar Young.

AT&T Bids $5,000,000

(Continued from Page 1)

Commission, the big corporation faces possible suits for millions for infringement if the highest courts decide for Fox in the appeal A.T.&T. is taking on the Tri-Ergon decision.

"Public interest" is the one question the Commission will ask about every deal, and this undoubtedly will extend to such A.T.&T. by-products as the picture business. Insiders here believe that, eventually, Erpi will be forced to turn its stranglehold on the industry over to Warners, if indeed it has not already done so.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 38. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Friday, June 22, 1934

BISHOPS PRESS DIRT WAR

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•LADIES and gentlemen of Hollywood, we would like to introduce this morning one Philip Kinsley, of Chicago. Remember that name; he may come back. In the event that you have not heard of Mr. Kinsley, he is one of the bright young men of the Chicago Tribune staff, sent out here to take Hollywood apart, to see why it is so immoral and why motion pictures and picture people are so filthy. His findings are being published in the Tribune and are being read by the thousands of readers of that great and influential newspaper.

Just where Mr. Kinsley acquired the information he has relayed to his paper is hard to say, but, judging from its nature, it probably was partly from fan magazines, but mainly from the tabloids of eight or ten years ago. He has dug up for the edification of Tribune readers a lot of the poisonous stuff that used to be broadcast about the picture colony. As one example:

•

"From high romance to this dreariness. Effeminate man and masculine women. Mixed and broken codes. Stomach trouble and drugs. Breakdowns and suicides. Progressive polygamy."

And that kind of rot goes on in one issue of the Tribune for two and a half columns. That, and worse. We hate to think that Mr. Kinsley was sent out here and ordered to get and write that kind of stuff, but honestly we can see no other reason for it. Mr. Kinsley must be a good reporter or he would not have been given the assignment, and we don't believe any good reporter could dig around in Hollywood and believe a mess of stuff such as he has written.

•

The pity of it is that the Chicago Tribune is a big and important newspaper, with thousands of readers. Those readers don't know that this sort of stuff is the bunk, written for people who WANT to believe such stories, and they'll eat it up, hold up their hands in horror and chalk Hollywood down as a modern Sodom and Gomorrah.

They don't know that there is just as large a percentage of honest God-fearing, hard-working, decent people in Hollywood as in any other place of

(Continued on Page 3)

Grainger Signs For Another Year at 'U'

New York.—James R. Grainger, general sales manager for Universal, yesterday signed a new contract with the company for another year. The salary and percentage arrangement remains the same as it is now.

John Gilbert Signs At Col. for 5 Years

Columbia yesterday put through a long term contract for John Gilbert, getting him for two pictures a year for five years. "The Captain Hates the Sea" is the first assignment under it. Schulberg, Feldman and Gurney set the ticket.

'Morning Glory' To Have Paris Premiere Today

Paris.—"Morning Glory," with Katharine Hepburn starred, will have its premiere here today. The opening will be a gala performance at the Cine Opera, the proceeds going to charity.

A large number of French stage stars, including Annabella, who has just returned from Hollywood, will sell programs.

McGuire Sells One

Universal yesterday closed negotiations with William Anthony McGuire for the purchase of his original story, "The Saint in the Cellar." The deal went through the Schulberg-Feldman and Gurney office.

Prelates Order Extension Of League Of Decency—Breen Pledges Clean-up Under Code

Cincinnati.—There will be no let-up in the battle against indecent pictures, which was organized and is being led by the Catholic Church. This was determined today when an archbishop and three bishops of that church met here and announced that the fight for a "wholesome screen" would be intensified.

This announcement came after Joseph Breen, of the Hays organization, had admitted that the church campaign had hurt the picture business and had promised that the industry will enforce a new method of self-purification. This method calls for the replacement of the producers' jury by a code administration, with additional local authority and an amplified personnel. The final responsibility for the character of pictures,

(Continued on Page 4)

Ginger Rogers Signs New Five-Year Contract

Ginger Rogers signed and sealed her new long term contract with Radio yesterday. It is a five-year deal with options, and under it she goes into "Gay Divorce" with Fred Astaire as her first production.

Sophie Tucker in Pix

London.—Sophie Tucker, whose "red hot mamma" act and songs have been scoring a great hit here, has signed to do a picture for British Lion, entitled "Gay Love."

Zukor Pledges Good Taste in Para. Films

Good taste will be Paramount's production watchword in the future. This assurance was given yesterday by Adolph Zukor to the group of theatre owners and operators who have been the guests of the annual convention which closed yesterday afternoon.

Zukor declared that his company is going back to the production policy that governed Paramount in its early days when such stars as Mary Pick-

(Continued on Page 4)

Fox Takes Criterion For 'World Moves On'

New York.—Fox has leased the Criterion for a Broadway showing of "The World Moves On," and will put it on the two-a-day basis starting June 28.

Franchot Tone and Madeleine Carroll have the top spots. John Ford directed it.

Business Engineers Dig Into Paramount Affairs

New York.—The Paramount Stockholders Committee yesterday retained Coverdale and Colpitts, consulting business engineers, to make a survey of the company's affairs and prepare a report which shall contain facts that should be known before the reorganization plan comes before the court for approval.

Hal Wallises Return

New York.—Hal Wallis and his wife, Louise Fazenda, arrived here yesterday from their European vacation. They came on the Rex.

Breslow Aide to James

Lou Breslow, signed to a writing contract by Universal several weeks ago, has been promoted to Rian James' assistant.

BITTER FIGHT ON OVER SALE OF FOX MET CHAIN

New York.—A hard-fought battle is developing over the $4,000,000 cash bid made by Warner Brothers and Loew's Inc. for control of the Fox Metropolitan chain of picture houses in New York. Federal Judge Mack, who reserved decision as to acceptance of the offer at the hearing Wednesday, yesterday postponed the case until today.

Beekman, Bogue and Clark at yesterday's hearing again objected to the sale for cash, insisting that the reorganization plan submitted by the Bondholders' Committee was a better way out. The lawyers contended that

(Continued on Page 7)

Irene Dunne Goes to Fox For 'Music in Air'

Fox yesterday signed Douglass Montgomery and borrowed Irene Dunne from Radio for the lead opposite John Boles in the Jerome Kern musical, "Music in the Air."

Joe May will direct and Erich Pommer produces as his first picture for the studio.

144 Extras at Radio

Radio gave the extras a break yesterday and used 144, although only two pictures are in work.

LEO McCAREY JUST FINISHED DIRECTING "IT AIN'T NO SIN" PARAMOUNT

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

Hmmm, mm—what a blonde star is slowly but surely letting herself in for quite something! So she's been keeping steady company with an attractive furriner for some time and is currazy about heem. But the fellow has a wife. The star knows this, but is nothing daunted. In fact, at the moment, she is relieved because the wife has left town. Now, what the star does not know is that the man has been in exactly the same situation before—and that the wife, too, "has left town" under the same circumstances before. But she always comes back. And when she comes back, she and the husband usually wind up just a little richer. Maybe it's love this time—or maybe a movie star looks like "easy money" to both of them!

•

Latest from the Sam Goldwyn front is this: Sam was playing golf with some friends of his and, when they got to the green, the matter of scores came up. They all came to a halt, and Sam said quickly and firmly, "Joe—you're . . . , Bill, you're . . . . , Harry you're . . . "; then, "Caddie, what am I?" (!)

•

During the absence of a certain producer, a well-known director was put in charge of the shorts at a big studio. He did very well, too. But when the producer returned from his vacation, employees were astonished to note that every single thing which was contributed from under the director's wing only met with contempt from the head man. And then, recently, it was discovered that the producer has always hated this particular director, and never would have permitted him to hold his present position if he'd been around at the time he was hired!

Loretta Improves Her Convalescent Hours

Loretta Young underwent a minor operation at Queen of the Angels Hospital yesterday morning, and yesterday afternoon called for the script of "Forsaking All Others" to read during convalescence. She will have at least a week to read it.

The operation was performed by Dr. Walter Holleran.

New York REVIEWS

"PRIVATE SCANDAL"
Paramount prod.; director, Ralph Murphy; writers, Vera Caspary, Bruce Manning.
Mayfair Theatre

World-Telegram: From the moment Ned Sparks makes his appearance on the scene, "Private Scandal" goes over to farce completely and turns out to be a brisk, noisy, extravagant and funny burlesque of murder melodramas. If the beginning and the ending could be changed, this "Private Scandal" would be one of the most effective satires on mystery films the screen has yet produced.

Journal: Thanks to Ned Sparks, "Private Scandal" is better than average mystery melodrama. With Sparks as the detective on the case, a murder investigation practically turns into a farcical burlesque.

Times: In "Private Scandal" they solve the murder with such lack-wit methods that the picture produces a considerable body of loud and reasonably irresistible humor. The homicide itself is slipshod, sober and rather arrogantly routine in arrangement. But when Ned Sparks walks on the scene as the detective in the case, all hands wake up and the film begins to sparkle.

Sun: The Mayfair has a jolly murder mystery this week. It's not always so mysterious; but its general good humor seldom flags. Bright and lively to the last few minutes, "Private Scandal" falls to pieces at the end. The solution is an annoying disappointment.

American "Private Scandal" starts out a bit haltingly as a routine murder mystery. It gains momentum with the unreeling of every foot of film, however, and, with the entrance of Ned Sparks as the sour-faced and sarcastic police inspector, achieves an even faster tempo. Although actually one of the season's funniest comedies, the picture never loses its suspense.

Herald-Tribune: "Private Scandal" is a curious picture for several reasons. It contains, in its first half, some of the funniest dialogue heard on Broadway in a long time—the kind that brings shouts of spontaneous laughter from all parts of the house. Miss Pitts, of course, helps in the comedy, but it is Ned Sparks who really dominates the early humorous scenes. But the oddest thing about Mr. Murphy's picture is its dull ending.

Post: A typical Summer offering. The new picture is light, rather meaningless, and very amusing. Despite the fact that the plot centers around the solution of a murder, it just cannot be termed a mystery melodrama, as it contains such comics as Zasu Pitts and Ned Sparks. These two comedians make one forget the flimsiness of the plot, and instead, attention is focused upon their comedy antics.

News: The shivers vanish once your attention is attracted by the dead-pan and raucous voice of Ned Sparks as he goes about being a sort of diamond-in-the-rough detective. And that is not all to keep you amused. Zasu Pitts is abroad making dumb speeches and dumber gestures which are highly comic.

Chas. Miller, of Equity, Will Run For Congress

Charles Miller, for the past six years Western representative of the Actors' Equity Association and the Actors' Fund of America, yesterday filed his declaration of candidacy for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the fifteenth district.

Miller is an ardent Roosevelt supporter and his platform is based entirely on the Roosevelt policies.

WANTED

Business Executive with studio contacts who can invest $4,000.00 for third interest in old established business, must be familiar with art and technical problems of production. Telephone OXford 9030.

Roy Vickers' Greatest Novel
"Unforbidden Sin"
first feature production
for the 1934-1935 season
FAMOUS AUTHORS PICTURES CORP.
723 Seventh Ave. New York
Cable Address Famaut, New York

Grey Yacht For Lesser

Sol Lesser has closed for the rental of Zane Grey's yacht, Adventurer II, to use in the sea-going sequences of the new "Chandu" next month.

Complaints Swamp The Code Authority

New York.—So many complaints and appeals are being laid before the Motion Picture Code Authority that a plan has been adopted whereby ten committees, each of three persons, will be set up, each to take a share of the cases. Each committee will have on it a representative of the Code Authority, an unaffiliated exhibitor and a distributor. They will hear cases four days each week.

Sol Rosenblatt is arranging to hold public hearings in Washington on two proposed amendments to the code. The first says that people who fail to meet their assessments shall be held guilty of violating the code. The second has to do with the allocation of the budget for producers and distributors.

Laughtons Back in Town

Charles Laughton and his wife, Elsa Lanchester, returned yesterday from their Yosemite vacation. Next spot for both of them is "Marie Antoinette" at MGM.

Grand Opening FRI. NIGHT JUNE 22
Jay Whidden
AND HIS MUSIC THAT FASCINATES
WILL OPEN THE BEAUTIFUL
GALLERIE DES ROIS
(Gallery of Kings)
for the First time to non-members, after 7 P.M.
AT THE
Deauville Club
On the Strand
SANTA MONICA
COUVERT $3
(includes dinner)
OPENING NIGHT
DANCING
EVERY NIGHT
Except Monday
Broadcast Nightly
exc. Mon. KFWB
Dine ~ Dance
RESERVATIONS NOW Phone S.M. 26146

Just one block from Hollywood Boulevard Shops and Theatres!

"Design for Living"
[. . . created for Studio People]

- an ideal ultra-modern home
- spacious outside apartments
- new exquisite appointments
- 14 stories--magnificent view
- 24-hour switchboard service
- singles! doubles! penthouses
- rentals begin at $65 & $100
- subway garage is included

FONTENOY APARTMENTS
1811 Whitley Avenue Hillside 5191

'HER MAJESTY, THE QUEEN', WHOLESOME BUT INNOCUOUS

Pauline Frederick In Personal Success

"HER MAJESTY, THE WIDOW"

Her Majesty Company presents Pauline Frederick in "Her Majesty, The Widow," a comedy by John Charles Brownell; staged by Miss Frederick; setting by Karl Amend, at the Ritz Theatre. With Pauline Frederick, Grayce Hampton, Alexander Campbell, Thomas Beck, Frederick Bell, Isobel Withers, Laurette Bullivant, Charles Mitchell Harris.

New York.—From the number of curtain calls Miss Frederick took after the initial metropolitan performance of "Her Majesty, The Widow," which has played its way across country, it would seem that she still possesses a loyal following, and that John Brownell has provided a vehicle which did not disappoint that following.

It would be simple to dismiss this Summer show with a few condemnatory phrases about its antediluvian and totally innocuous aspects and let it go at that, but the fact of the matter is that a modicum of the customers enjoyed "Her Majesty, The Widow" and were undoubtedly entertained by it. And that's sumpin. And what's more, "Her Majesty, The Widow" may enjoy a longer run in the big town than most critics hereabouts anticipate for it. And then again, it may not. At any rate, it will be interesting to watch.

The story: Jane Seymour, rich widow, has a son, Robert, who falls into the clutches of Veronica Day, a scheming woman, several years older than Robert. Robert has been engaged to Elsie Reynolds, a pure young thing. It so happens that this Day woman had also, in her gold-digging peregrinations, run afoul of Peter Stuyvesant, a celebrated fiddler, who had been and still was the only love of Robert's mother. And now after twenty years he was coming back to pay her a visit.

It is not hard to guess what transpires when all the characters involved meet during a week-end and settle their affairs. Robert, of course, goes back to Elsie. Jane gets her Peter, after all these years; and Veronica does a fade-out. We musn't forget "Bunny" Williams, who spouts Havelock Ellis. Nor Sarah, the low comedy maid. Nor Judge Coolidge, the old friend of the family, who is also in love with Jane.

It's all sweet and clean and old lavenderish, you see; and maybe, if the Big Bad Boycott scares Hollywood enough, some company will be beguiled into seeing the dubious possibilities of a picture in it.

Of the players, it may be said that they all turned in "wholesome" performances.

Ryerson-Clements Novel

"Shadows", a new novel by Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements, is to be published soon by D. Appleton-Century Company. It is a murder mystery, laid in Hollywood.

Wynyard-Brook in 2 Radio City Houses

New York.—A peculiar situation develops this week in Radio City, with each of the two theatres playing a picture featuring Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook. The Center Theatre has "Where Sinners Meet," and the Music Hall is showing "Let's Try Again."

Para. Plans Three Father Brown Yarns

New York.—Paramount will make at least three of the Gilbert K. Chesterton novels of the "Father Brown" series, having taken an option on this number. The titles are "Blue Cross," "Flying Stars" and "Paradise for Thieves."

Guy Standing is to play the role of Father Brown, who, in the novels, is a Catholic priest who has a penchant for solving crimes, using both psychology and logic.

Franklin Starts Trick Shots For "Barretts'

Sidney Franklin completed his ten weeks of direct shooting on "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" at MGM Tuesday.

Yesterday he started its second production phase, the celebrated Thalbergan telescopic treatment for reducing and enlivening over-dialogued scenes. Norma Shearer and Fredric March are the top names.

MGM Postpones Its Stock Company Try-out

To avoid competition with Marion Davies' benefit Monday, the MGM "laboratory" stock troupe's one-night stand in "All Good Americans" at the Music Box is pushed over to Tuesday.

'Girl Friend' Delayed

William Rowland yesterday postponed the start of "Girl Friend" from Monday to July 7 because of Lupe Velez' personal appearance tour, which will not get her back to town until that date.

Cantor in 'Kid Millions'

"Kid Millions" will be the title of the forthcoming Eddie Cantor picture, which Sam Goldwyn will produce. Production starts July 1, with Roy del Ruth directing.

Boros to 'Fountain'

Ferike Boros was signed by Radio yesterday for an important character role in "The Fountain." She plays the nurse, supporting Ann Harding under the direction of John Cromwell.

Wexley on Karloff Yarn

John Wexley was set by Columbia yesterday to write an original story as the first starring vehicle for Boris Karloff under the latter's Columbia ticket.

Cutting of Extras Begins Next Week

Cutting down of the "extra" players of Hollywood is slated to actually begin some time next week.

For many weeks a clerical force has been busy listing the names and data regarding approximately 17,000 people now registered for extra work. Mrs. Mabel Kinney, chairman of the Code Committee for Extras, which will do the paring, stated yesterday that she expects the final tabulation work to be finished within a few days. She will then call a meeting of the re-registration sub-committee and the weeding-out process will begin.

She would not venture even a guess as to how long it will take to select the final group of approximately 1500 players who will be listed as those permitted to work.

Garbo Picture Will Start Within a Week

The MGM production schedule is clear for Garbo, "The Painted Veil" being the next picture to start, probably next week if the casting is successful.

No one has been inked in but Garbo, but Herbert Marshall and Preston Foster have both been mentioned. The directing job is Richard Boleslavsky's.

French 'Rothschild' Set For N.Y. Trade Show

New York.—The French production of "Rothschild," featuring Harry Baur and Claudia Cleves, will have a trade showing on the S. S. Champlain tonight. It is being given by J. S. Tapernoux, American agent for the producers, the Cine Corporation.

Florey Back in 4 Weeks

Robert Florey is due here in four weeks, having reported to Warners yesterday from Manila that he will be leaving there shortly. He has been away a little more than two months, shooting backgrounds for "Oil for the Lamps of China."

Mankiewicz-Lang Team

MGM yesterday assigned Joseph Mankiewicz to collaborate with Fritz Lang on the screen play of "Tomorrow." It will be the first David Selznick production for the imported director.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

its size. They don't know that the percentage of nitwits and damn fools who make the Hollywood news the papers love to print isn't any larger here than anywhere else.

They don't know anything about these things—and they don't care. Hollywood to them is just a source of dirt, of scandal, of sensationalism, and they'll read the Tribune and the other sheets that spread this mess and love it. That's the pity of it.

Not that it MATTERS

by Helen Gwynn

Every once in a while a convention really accomplishes something besides plugging all the old adjectives and superlatives to death. In the case of the recent Paramount convention, the first smart thing they did was to invite the help of exhibitors and also their encouragement, both of which they got, plus one pretty sound suggestion from M. A. Lightman.

The other and main thing that it served to accomplish was a sound belief in the future soundness of the Paramount organization and very much to Emanuel Cohen's credit was that soundness, voiced by him. The main reason for this was because Mr. Cohen confined himself strictly to cold facts and heart-warming figures. He employed no nebulous phrases of generalization, so that everything he said had meaning and was backed up by something concrete for the boys to appreciate. He showed pretty conlusively that Paramount has been successfully re-organized, not only for future promise, but future permanancy. Paramount is now geared to "go ahead"—and it is not only the salesmen who were imepressed by that fact, but those ole davvil producers, and when you've got the backing of your producers, you've got every reason to believe that you've succeeded in building an organization that will work.

•

After having seen his first production, we were considerably puzzled by the fact that a certain director ever got a job at an outlying studio. After asking several people who should have known, who the man was and discovering that no one had ever heard of him, we finally stumbled on the answer to how he got his job. It seems that he made great claim to having been Max Reinhardt's "right-hand-man" and, on the strength of his argument to that effect, was given a directorial contract. Unfortunately, after the contract was signed, Gottfried Reinhardt came to town, and one day a kind friend said to Gottfried: "You'll be glad to know that Soandso is here in Hollywood, too." Reinhardt immediately asked who that was, said he'd never heard of him, and the truth of the matter was that this director had never even met the great Max. And after seeing his picture, if he ever was Reinhardt's "right-hand man" it must have been at a time when Max's left hand knew not what his right hand was doing.

•

From all the activity going on at the studios, it looks as though by the time they get through, there won't be much left for the censors to censor. We've heard more complaints recently from authors and editorial boards to the effect that they can't buy anything that has the very least suggestion of suggestiveness in it, and stories are being changed all around to build up the Pollyanna attitude. Ho, hum, we're in for an era of sweetness and light that's just going to kill you.

INDUSTRY WILL BE OWN CENSOR, BREEN PROMISES

(Continued from Page 1)

Breen said, will rest with the board of directors of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. This board will be the court of last resort in any disputes between the code administration and the studios.

The bishops heard what Breen had to say and also listened to Martin Quigley, another industry representative. Then they announced that the League of Decency, formed by the church, would be expanded to "every city and town in the United States," and appointed a council of priests to carry on that work.

The four who met here constitute the committee on motion pictures of the Catholic Bishops of America. They are Archbishop John T. McNicholas, of Cincinnati, one of the founders of the League of Decency; Bishop John J. Cantwell, of Los Angeles, who recently made a biting attack on pictures in the Ecclesiastical Review; Bishop John F. Noll, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Bishop Hugh Boyle of Pittsburgh.

The bishops declared that they have "no wish to harm or destroy the motion picture business. But the evil character of portions of many motion pictures, and the low standing of some motion pictures, have forced the bishops to take direct and aggressive action in safeguarding the moral welfare of their people."

The pledges to the League of Decency, it was announced, in the 102 dioceses in the United States have already mounted into the millions. To increase these, the bishops named a committee consisting of Rt. Rev. Mgr. Hugh L. Lamb, chancellor of the archdiocese of Philadelphia; Rev. Edward Roberts Moore, head of the division of social action of the Catholic charities of the archdiocese of New York; Rev. George F. Johnson, associate professor of education, Catholic University, Washington; Rev. F. G. Dineen, S.J., rector of St. Ignatius Church, Chicago; and Rev. John J. Devlin, St. Victory's Church, West Hollywood, Calif.

The conference heard, during its session, that Rev. Samuel Cavert, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, had announced at Wooster, Ohio, at the national general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in North America, that a committee of that Protestant group will meet in New York tomorrow to discuss co-operation with the Roman Catholic League.

Para. Finishes One; Two End This Week

"Elmer and Elsie" was completed at Paramount by Gilbert Pratt Monday, after 27 shooting days. George Bancroft, Frances Fuller and Roscoe Karns were in leading spots.

"Notorious Sophie Lang" and "Now and Forever" are expected to finish before the week is out.

Termer For Atlas

Universal has exercised its option on the services of Leopold Atlas and the writer, brought from New York to work on "Great Expectations," goes into a long-term ticket under the wing of Edmund Grainger.

Dore Schary Working On 'Waterfront Girl'

Dore Schary and Nat Levine, whose falling out recently resulted in a Screen Writers Guild hearing on "Waterfront Girl," have patched up their differences, and the writer has joined Al Martin, E. E. Paramore and Earle Snell on the screen play of "Young and Beautiful."

Schary goes to MGM in two weeks to handle the script on Robert Hopkins, "Winning Ticket," for Louise Fazenda and Leo Carrillo.

Henrietta Crosman to Col. For Rogell Picture

Columbia yesterday signed Henrietta Crosman for the top bracket with Richard Cromwell and Billie Seward in "Among the Missing," which Al Rogell puts into work Monday.

It is an original screen play by Fred Niblo Jr. and Herbert Asbury, which Sid Rogell will produce. Al Kingston set the Crosman deal

'Americans' Finished

Edwin Marin checked in with "All Good Americans" at MGM Wednesday, making it a 15-day shooting job. Robert Young was featured in the Perelman play about Parisian Americans.

Good Taste in Para. Pix

(Continued from Page 1)

ford, Charles Ray, Marguerite Clark, Bryant Washburn and William S. Hart were developed. He pointed out that they and their wholesome pictures made money and entertained.

"The same policy which brought them to the screen and resulted in the kind of vehicles which sustained their popularity is now the policy of Paramount, the one which will govern this organization in the future," Zukor stated. "Every problem play, tragedy or comedy will be treated in good taste. Good taste will be the by-word of production in every Paramount picture."

QUICK LOANS

$10 to $300—CALL AND LEARN

ARRANGED ON SALARY, FURNITURE AND AUTOS

All requests are held in confidence. No inquiries of employer, friends or relatives Call and learn how easy it is to borrow thru us.

LOCAL LOAN CO.

406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine

Telephone HEmpstead 1133

JERRY WALD

Original Stories and Screen Plays

✦ ✦

"SAY IT WITH MUSIC"

✦ ✦

"GIFT OF GAB"

(with Phil Epstein)

✦ ✦

"NIGHT SCHOOL"

(with Lowell Brentano)

✦ ✦

"FOOD CENTER"

(with Dore Schary)

✦ ✦

"CALIENTE"

(with Carl Erickson)

✦ ✦

"20,000,000 SWEETHEARTS"

(with Paul Moss)

✦ ✦

Managament Leland Hayward-Selznick and Joyce

Under Contract to Warner Bros.

WHERE?

Where in America, except at the Vendome, can be found absolutely authentic, estate-bottled wines such as . . .

SCHLOSS JOHANNISBERGER (Prince Metternich)

LIEBFRAUENSTIFT KLOSTERGARTEN
(The true and original Liebfraumilch)

BERNCASTLER DOCTOR (Domain Wwe. Dr. J. Thanish)

ROMANEE CONTI - GRAND VIN
(Domain De La Romanee Conti)

CLOS DE VOLGEOT - GRAND VIN

CHAMBERTIN - GRAND VIN
(Chateau De Savigny, Vicompte De Vaulchier)

Some may say, there is nothing unusual about these titles, that many firms carry them. We will admit that there are "district" wines masquerading under these classic appellations and that it is sometimes difficult to determinte whether the wines offered are original and authentic, or whether they are merely substitutes.

The wines we list above (and there are thirty others in the same class) are authentic and we guarantee this without qualification. The quality of these classical offerings speaks for itself.

Don't think that we intend to libel "district" wines. Every wine and spirit merchant carries them and we ourselves have an unusual assortment at very modest prices. These wines are all sound, well-matured, and are the product of the very best vintage years. They were personally selected by us abroad (not by label, but by taste) and we can heartily recommend them.

The VENDOME

WINE AND SPIRIT MERCHANTS

6666 SUNSET BOULEVARD HOllywood 1666

Radio 'Names' For 'The Gift of Gab'

Lining up a group of Radio personalities for "The Gift of Gab" which Karl Freund directs when it starts July 1, Universal has signed Ruth Etting, Gus Arnheim and his orchestra, Gene Austin and his new crew and the Beal Street Boys, four colored singers who will be brought from New York. Edmund Lowe, Gloria Stuart and Victor Moore head the cast.

Rian James, who has written the screen play and will produce, will act as dialogue director.

Many Deals Closed For Bob Steele Westerns

The Hollywood Film Exchanges of New York, the Bay State Film Exchange of Boston, Graphic Film Exchange of Detroit, and Co-operative Film Exchanges of Los Angeles and San Francisco, have closed deals with Supreme Pictures Corp. to handle the series of eight Bob Steele Westerns.

J. S. Jossey of Cleveland, Security Pictures of Omaha, Trans-Oceanic Film Exports for Canada, Independent Film Distributing Co. of Dallas, and Southeastern Pictures Corp. of Atlanta, also have contracted for the series.

No Options For Wally

Waldemar Young's new writing ticket with Paramount is a one year's deal without the customary options, and he will take it up when he returns from a three month tour of the South Seas and Orient. Schulberg-Feldman and Gurney set it.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Spencer Charters to the Ruth Etting short at Radio by Al Kingston.

Henry B. Walthall, by Hoffman-Schlager, to "Serenade," Fox.

Huntley Gordon, by Menifee I. Johnstone, to "She Had to Choose," Majestic.

Nella Walker, by Menifee I. Johnstone, to Warners' "A Lady Surrenders."

Ferike Boros, by Al Kingston, to Radio's "Fountain."

Joyce Compton for "Million Dollar Ransom," Universal.

Frankie Darro to "Broadway Bill," Columbia, by Al Kingston.

Raymond Hatton, by Al Kingston, for "Four Walls," MGM.

Frank O'Connor and James Blakely for "Broadway Bill," Columbia.

Luis Alberni, John Wray, Del Henderson, Monte Carter, George Humbert, Charles King and Edmund Burns for "The Captain Hates the Sea," Columbia.

Pat Flaherty to "Million Dollar Ransom," Universal.

Darmour Title Change

Larry Darmour has changed the title of "Gaily I Sing" to "She Had to Choose." Ralph Ceder is now directing Isabel Jewell and Buster Crabbe in the top spots of the picture, which is the second on the current Majestic schedule.

Claudette Colbert Stops at Four a Year

Claudette Colbert stated yesterday, through her manager, Charles Feldman, that she will not work in more than four pictures this year.

The Warner deal, she states, has a two-year period clause, with approval of story and director. Columbia has her for one, with Frank Capra or Frank Borzage to direct and neither director will be available this year. Her next picture for Paramount does not start until September. Edward Small's contract was cancelled.

Bob Gillham a Guest

Robert Gillham, advertising and publicity head of Paramount, was the guest of the Publicity Committee of the Producers' Association at the regular monthly meeting yesterday. Only routine matters were discussed.

Dawn O'Day to Liberty

Dawn O'Day was signed yesterday for a role in M. H. Hoffman's "School For Girls." The deal was set by Henry Willson of the Polimer office.

It Wasn't Like This In the Olden Days

Paramount saw to it that the delegates to its convention this week were attending strictly to business. The studio left 7 a.m. calls for every delegate at the Ambassador, but some of the exhibitor guests didn't take so kindly to the rising bell.

Thorne Smith Dies At Sarasota, Florida

Sarasota.—Thorne Smith, who was on the MGM writing staff last year and who recently sold his novel, "Night Life of the Gods," to Universal, died here yesterday at the age of 41.

Smith was the author of a number of novels, all of extremely whimsical nature.

Grace Norton Quits

Grace Norton has resigned from the Wertheim and Norton Agency, splitting the firm. She returns to writing magazine stories from which field

CAVALCADE FILM CORPORATION

"The Pictures of Tomorrow"

Announces MR. JERRY MANDY, Famous Player, as President and Player,

MR. HARRY S. MARKS as Executive-Producer,

MR. RUDOLPH COSANOVA, of Baltimore, a Sensational New Find, in starting its independent productions.

London's Smartest Address—

GROSVENOR HOUSE

PARK LANE . . .

is also London's most modern hotel. An apartment at Grosvenor House provides an actual "home from home," replete with every modern aid to greater comfort.

The location of Grosvenor House is a happy blend of convenience and charm; in and around the hotel London's social life moves; near by are the best shops and the theatres; just across the way is London's great garden, Hyde Park.

Life is amusing, easy and pleasant at

Grosvenor House, London

Cable Address for Reservations: GROVHOWS, AUDLEY, LONDON

My Sincere Appreciation

to

BEN FRANK and His Associates—Cocoanut Grove
JAMES H. McCABE—Hotel St. Francis
FANCHON-MARCO—Paramount Theatre
OLD GOLD and COLUMBIA BROADCASTING SYSTEM
JACK CHERTOK and SAM BAERWITZ—MGM
LEE MARCUS and SAM WHITE—RKO
JACK L. WARNER and WM. KOENIG—Warner Bros.
L. BAUM—Mascot Pictures
HILLMAN-SHANE ADVERTISING AGENCY, Inc.
LOS ANGELES RADIO AND DRAMA EDITORS
THE MOTION PICTURE COLONY and to the

MUSIC CORPORATION OF AMERICA for making these engagements possible

Sincerely Ted Lewis

• off on an extended transcontinental trip.

INDIE PRODUCERS WILL FIGHT BAN ON DUAL-BILLS

The recent action of the Los Angeles NRA Clearance and Zoning Board in killing off double bills will be opposed at a meeting of the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association Monday. The indies believe that it is a question of staying in business or "being legislated out of it," according to Ken Goldsmith, a leading factor in the group.

Goldsmith recently returned from a tour of the independent distributors throughout the country and declared that it is his opinion the exhibitors "have the right to operate their business without the influence of monopolistic bodies."

He added: "It is now up to us to fight and we will throw everything we have into the battle against the trust. The first thing we have to do is remove from the Zoning and Clearance Board its power to carry through its dictates. It can penalize the exhibitor through the distributor and it has no right to invoke that power.

"The bulk of the industry has no sympathy for our branch of the field. The efforts to get rid of the double bill have been fostered by the major studios. We are fighting monopoly and the only way to do this will be to go directly to the public. We will retain Clarence Darrow and start a campaign to let the theatre-going public know what is happening."

Sam Wolf last night verified this plan to launch a campaign throughout the country, details of which will be worked out at the meeting.

'Three Weeks' Dropped As Swanson Picture

"Three Weeks" has been dropped from consideration as Gloria Swanson's next picture, and other story ideas are being worked out for her at MGM.

Fox is still pressing its loan application for her for "Music in the Air," on which a yes or no is due within a few days.

Fight To Get Fox Met.
(Continued from Page 1)

the properties should not be sold for cash, but suggested that, if Loew's and Warners wanted control, they could buy up all the bonds, thereby giving the bondholders a better break.

J. Robert Rubin, for Loew's, opposed this plan, and, in a speech lasting an hour, pleaded that the cash offer was bonafide and was sincerely made. He denied that there was any intention to remove Randford, Frisch and Rinzler or the Skourases from the management of the chain.

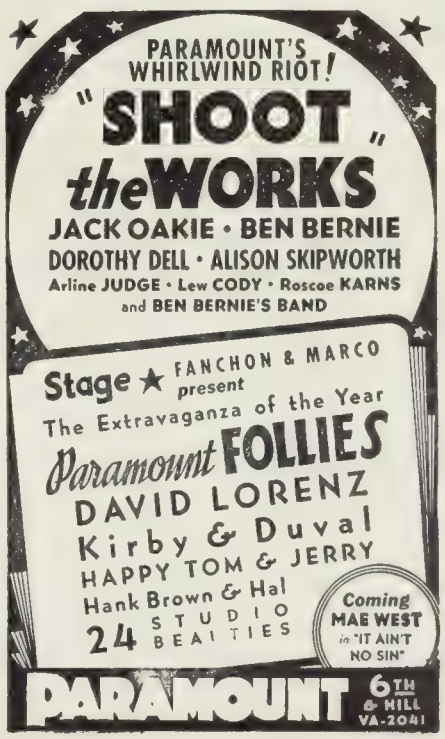
Opposition was also voiced by owners of some of the theatres in the chain on the ground that Loew's and Warners, if they got control, would squeeze out all houses in opposition to their own.

One reason for Judge Mack's decision to postpone his decision another day is that an offer is expected from interests represented by Walter Reade which will top the $4,000,000 bid.

Jay Whidden Opens at Deauville Club Tonight

Jay Whidden and his orchestra open an engagement at the new Gallerie de Roi at the Deauville Club, at Santa Monica, tonight.

A large number of the picture colony have made reservations, and entertainment will be furnished by Owen Caldwell, Clark Dennis, Nelson Hall and Lyle Hart.



'Border Town' For Muni

Warners have put "Border Town" back on the schedule and it will be the first picture Paul Muni will do on the new program. The script of his own novel has already been written by Carroll Graham. "Black Hell," which was announced to replace it, will follow.

Extras' Kicks 'Duds'

The 65 code complaints filed before Judge Lindsey by extra players proved to be a bunch of "duds," according to the report of the grievance subcommittee of the Code Comittee for Extras. Out of the batch only one complaint is being handled.

Warner Big Shots to Remain Here For Week

Headed by Major Albert Warner, a delegation from the Warner sales convention in San Francisco stopped off at the Burbank plant for a week's stay before returning to their respective territories.

Included in the group are Gradwell Sears, in charge of sales for the South and West; Carl Lesserman, his assistant; Norman Moray, in charge of shorts sales; Jack Smith, Southern district manager; Charles Einfeld, in charge of publicity and advertising, and Al Schwalberg, head of the contract department.

Break For Baby Star

Hazel Hayes, one of the Wampas Baby Stars signed by Mascot for "Young and Beautiful," gets a break in the picture. She has been singled out to sing a number especially purchased for her. It is "Come Back to the Mountain."

Studio Labor Board Gets Down to Work

After months of altercation and argument, the Studio Labor Committee this week actually started work on the complaints of code violations filed by technical workers of the industry.

The first committee was appointed last February. It held only one meeting, and finally was replaced by the present committee. Last week Washington ordered a batch of labor complaints, that had been filed with Judge Ben Lindsey, turned over to the committee. It is now working on these.

New One For Liberty

Gertrude Orr has been signed by M. H. Hoffman to write the screen play for "Without Children," based on Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's novel, "Eyes of Youth." This is the eighth on Liberty's schedule.

GOODBYE . . .

PARAMOUNTEERS

AND THANKS TO

PARAMOUNT

FOR TWO VERY ENJOYABLE ROLES

ALVIN RITCHIE
IN
"SHOOT THE WORKS"
CURRENT RELEASE

MAXIMILIAN BERNARD
IN
"THE NOTORIOUS SOPHIE LANG"
JUST COMPLETED

PAUL CAVANAGH

OTHER RECENT ASSIGNMENTS:
"TARZAN AND HIS MATE"—MGM
"UNCERTAIN LADY"—UNIVERSAL

MANAGEMENT
SCHULBERG-FELDMAN and GURNEY

% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 39. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Saturday, June 23, 1934

PROTESTANTS JOIN WAR

Allied Owners Corp. Asks For New Deal

New York.—The Allied Owners Corporation, a bankrupt subsidiary of the New York Investors Inc., which has on file claims for millions against Paramount and Loew's, yesterday filed a petition to be permitted to reorganize under the new Federal bankruptcy laws.

The major assets of the corporation are Loew's Kings, the Pitkin and the Paramount theatres, all in Brooklyn, Loew's Valencia at Jamaica, and theatres in Birmingham, Alabama, Fremont, Ohio, and Glens Falls, New York.

Last September the company filed a claim for $23,364,726 against the Paramount Corporation and no settlement of this claim has been made. Claims exceeding $10,000,000 have been filed against the two Loew's houses.

The official file with the petition gives excess of assets over liabilities, without allowing for depreciation, of $10,178,256, and cash in bank as $340,768.

Griffith Will Direct Dickens Story Abroad

London.—David Wark Griffith will return to active directing in England, having been engaged by British and Dominions to handle Charles Dickens' "Old Curiosity Shop," which United Artists will release.

New Deal For Stahl

Universal is working out a new deal for John Stahl. It is understood that the new arrangement will be as an independent unit producer, financed by Universal and Erpi, and releasing through the company.

Trem Carr Better

Trem Carr's condition was reported improved yesterday, but he is still being denied visitors at the Cedars of Lebanon Hispital.

Robinson to Rogers

Casey Robinson rejoins the Charles R. Rogers staff at Paramount and will write the screen play for "McFadden's Flats," Rogers' first on his new deal.

Silverstone Boosted

London.—Murray Silverstone, London manager for United Artists, has been promoted to be European chief for the company.

Sex Pictures Out, Declares Schenck

London.—In an interview on his arrival here, Joseph M. Schenck said that objectionable sex pictures are definitely out and that there will be no more exploitation of that angle in next season's productions.

$3,800,000 To Settle Warners-Erpi Suit

New York.—The settlement of the suit by Warner Brothers against Erpi involves the payment of $3,800,000 to the former by the latter, of which $2,500,000 is to be cash and the balance in notes. In return for this, Warners relinquish all claims to future royalties. There is also a sum of $200,000 mentioned for certain contingencies.

Warner Brothers will remain a licensee of Erpi, but it is not stated whether this means a license for recording or to manufacture equipment.

MGM After Mala For 'Jungle Red Man' Lead

Harry Rapf is negotiating with Phil Goldstone for the loan of Mala, Eskimo star, for the lead in MGM's "Jungle Red Man."

If it goes through, it postpones Goldstone's plan for a South Sea production for Mala.

Federal Council Of Churches Approves League Of Decency And Recommends The Boycott

New York.—The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, at a meeting held here today, approved the stand of the Catholic Bishops in the Catholic Church war on indecent films and recommended that Protestants throughout the country refuse to patronize theatres which show objectionable pictures or offensive vaudeville acts, or which use questionable forms of advertising.

Co-operation with the Catholic League of Decency was strongly urged and the churches were advised to exert pressure on the picture industry and at Washington to abolish block bookings.

Another suggestion was that clergy of all denominations use the third

(Continued on Page 3)

Hathaway Draws 'Bengal Lancer' Job

Henry Hathaway was selected by Paramount to direct "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" yesterday.

Waldemar Young finished his screen play on it at the same time the directorial decision was made and checks out on his trip to the Orient. Louis Lighton, who stuck with the production throughout its historical viscisitudes, finally sees it going into work.

Korda Doubles List; Is Building Studio

London.—The success everywhere of "Henry VIII" and "Catherine the Great" has pepped up Alexander Korda, of London Films, so much that he has decided to double his proposed output for the season and will make eight pictures instead of four.

The company has also started work on the erection of its own studio, which will have three sound stages and a laboratory.

Cobb Starts His New One For Roach Monday

Irvin S. Cobb's first picture on the new series he will do for Hal Roach starts Monday and is still lacking a title.

Hal Yates, who directed the first picture, which went into last year's program, again directs. Oscar Apfel, May Wallace, Benny Baker and "Snowflake" are in the cast.

Warners May Premiere 'British Agent' Abroad

Warners' English sales executives are boosting the idea of a London premiere for "British Agent" next month. The presence of Leslie Howard and Kay Francis, abroad on vacations, would work in with it.

Nigel Bruce to England

Nigel Bruce leaves tonight by train for New York on the first leg of his return to England. He has been here for nine months under contract to Fox, and for the past two months worked in "Treasure Island" on loan to MGM.

Brock and Wood Land

London.—Lou Brock and Sam Wood arrived here yesterday on the Ile de France from New York. Wood leaves for Scotland in a few days, while Brock goes to Switzerland.

REFORM DRIVE UPSETS PRODUCTION PROGRAMS

The church drive to clean up pictures is not only hurting theatre attendance, but is upsetting studio production schedules in many of Hollywood's studios.

Production plans have been turned topsy-turvy as the producers have discovered elements in their stories that might have been perfectly okay a year ago, but which have to be removed today in order to make and keep peace with reformers. Consequently, they are yanking stories off the schedule and are sending them back to the writing departments for a thorough renovating. All of which is causing a scramble for stories to throw into production to meet release schedules.

Free lance players are feeling the

(Continued on Page 4)

Cooper To Italy For Background Stuff

London.—Merian C. Cooper plans a trip to Italy for background material in Technicolor for his "Last Days of Pompeii." He also hopes to talk with Mussolini and Italian Board of Education officials about the picture.

There is a possibility of his returning to Hollywood for the direct shooting on the picture.

'U' After Sloane

Universal is negotiating with Frank Orsatti for Paul Sloane to direct Roger Pryor in "The Narrow Lane," which will be the first starring vehicle for the player. Sloane is now at MGM handling "Four Walls."

GARRETT FORT wrote the screen play "PRIVATE SCANDAL"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Aside to the blonde who's been lunching with Harry Ruby . . . His partner, Bert Kalmar, says that Harry doesn't "kiss and tell" . . . he just tells! . . . Margaret Lindsay is getting that push to stardom from Warners by drawing eighteen clothes changes in her next flicker. . . . Woody Van Dyke has a trick radio hook-up with about fifteen of the "infernal machines" all over the house, and the other night they all went bust at once . . . they made more noise than the guests at the party, if you can believe it! . . . . Richard Dix, having cleaned up pullenty on the Baer-Carnera fight, will stay in New York for a month and spend some of it.

•

If you want to get in Garbo's house (the back way) you have to go through miles of potato patch which, incidentally, is strung heavily with barbed wire! . . George Cukor got so thin on his way to England that none of his old clothes fitted him—so he bought a lot of new clothes and got so thin on the way back that none of the new clothes fit him—it's a terrible problem! . . . David Selznick, too, is but a shadow of his former self. . . . Irene Hervey and George Walcott are up in flames. . . . The Dick Barthelmesses have sent for their chillun—so they won't be back for a while.

•

Mae Sunday has just given the first in a long series of intimate dinner parties for thirty or more. . . . Lew Gensler charmed a cop out of a parking ticket yesterday. . . . Isn't it about time for Emil Coleman to introduce his five sons to Eddie Cantor's equal number of dotters??? . . . John Boles and Ann Harding go "Hollywood on the Air" Sunday night. . . . Betty Furness and Dick Green are finding out about love. . . . Clark Gable has two permanently injured fingers as a result of that stiff initiation last week! . . . Frances Marion with George Hill and Marc Connolly dining at the Vendome. . . . The Larry Weingartens, the Al Newmans, Mrs. Herbert Mundin, Chester Hale, the Louis Lightons, Nancy Carroll, George Oppenheimer, Wm. LeBaron, Charles Brackett, Hugh Walpole, Joan Bennett, Eddie Robinson, also glimpsed.

New York REVIEWS

"HERE COMES THE GROOM"

Paramount prod.; director, Edward Sedgwick; writers, Richard Flourney, Leonard Praskins and Casey Robinson.

Paramount Theatre

Post: The fear and trembling in Jack Haley's face when he is confronted by disaster, is still ace-high with me, no matter what nonsense Hollywood sees fit to supply to him in the way of a story. I can't remember much about the plot, but I do member some very hilarious episodes in which Mr. Haley is riotously funny.

World-Telegram: Once again we acknowledge our debt of gratitude to Paramount for giving us something to laugh over in "Here Comes the Groom," the slightly mad and wildly merry farce at the Paramount Theatre. A pleasant and crazy enough little fable. There is not one logical sequence in the film from start to finish. But the film makes no pretenses. Indeed, its one aim is to be funny, and this it does remarkably well.

Herald-Tribune: An abundance of farcical situations, consistently hilarious dialogue and a magnificently funny performance by Jack Haley make "Here Comes the Groom" an eminently successful screen comedy. With extraordinary cunning, a series of slap-stick interludes have been strung together, studded throughout with shrewdly comic lines and culminating in an up-to-date variation of the old Mack Sennett chase.

Times: In this rambunctious sea of troubles one finds the stoic Jack Haley, the personable Patricia Ellis and the amusing Mary Boland. It is the type of farce which might almost have been written while it was being produced, but here and there it has its bright spots.

Sun: "Here Comes the Groom" is about as unfunny as any picture featuring Mary Boland can well be. It does manage now and then, when Miss Boland puts over a line or when Jack Haley finds a real gag to do, to get a few laughs.

News: The New York Paramount has another ridiculous comedy this week. I am sorry to report that the current comedy isn't the laugh provoker that last week's picture was. It does stir up a few giggles in the audience, but there are no long and loud laughs to be heard and even the snickers and giggles come at too long intervals.

American: After one or two false starts, Jack Haley has established himself as a picture star. The erstwhile Broadway comedian, currently seen at the Paramount in "Here Comes the Groom," seems to have everything necessary for a brilliant Hollywood future.

Mirror: Ten years ago you saw movies like "Here Comes the Groom." It is a compound of all the antique situations which were funny when Hollywood was young. Paramount has used an ambitious cast to make it. It might have made a good two-reel slapstick.

Journal: It's Mary Boland, contributing—as always—an amusing characterization who animates the picture. One of those lightweight farces that inevitably pop up during the Summer months. The film resolves itself into slapstick misunderstandings and chases.

Wife's Illness Calls Victor Moore East

Victor Moore took the plane for New York last night in a race with death to the bedside of his wife, Emma Littlefield, veteran legit actress, at the Polyclinic Hospital. Mrs. Moore was operated on for appendicitis last week and pneumonia developed.

Stanley Bergerman and Stuart Walker, directing "Romance in the Rain," altered the schedule and spent yesterday making all of Moore's remaining scenes so that he could rush East.

Dickson Gets Play By Lasky Jr. and Preston

Morgan Dickson yesterday purchased the rights to "Hope and Prey," a new play by Jesse L. Lasky Jr. and Jack Preston. He will try it out at the Gateway Theatre, opening July 18 before taking it to New York. The deal was negotiated by Jerry Horwin.

Hersholt Quits Acad.

Jean Hersholt, long one of the Academy stand-bys, resigned this week.

Goldstone Party Find Sunken Ships

Otis Garrett wired Phil Goldstone yesterday that he and Jerry Fairbanks are on the lower Mexican coast, and have so far spotted seven sunken ships in their location tests for "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

They embarked in a fast coast-runner Monday, accompanied by a Mexican official, and worked down the Gulf of California. They continue on, probably contacting their plane at Ecuador. Before flying back to Hollywood, Goldstone said yesterday, they would probably tack off to the Galapagos Islands.

$600,000 To Be Spent in Renovating the Met.

New York.—The dingy old Metropolitan Opera House is to have its face washed and will have some new clothes, the sum of $600,000 having been appropriated for the purpose.

Most of the money will be spent in renovating the interior of the house and in the installation of modern lighting equipment.

Daughter For Forsyth

Mrs. William Forsyth, wife of the assistant director on Edward Small's "Count of Monte Cristo," gave birth to a nine-pound girl early yesterday at the Abbe Maternity Hospital. Both mother and child are doing well.

'U' Novices Tested

Philip Dakin and Lee Crowe, Universal's juvenile imports from Chicago legit, were given their first tests yesterday under the direction of William Wyler.

Charlotte Henry at 'U'

Charlotte Henry, the Alice of "Wonderland," was given the part of Doris Kenyon's daughter in "Human Side" at Universal yesterday.

Joe Rivkin
Inc.

Announces the Opening of Offices at 1776 Broadway,

New York City

With Exclusive Representation and Management of Artists, Directors and Authors
For the Stage, Radio and Motion Pictures

SUITE 903 CIRCLE 7-4728-9

'TREASURE ISLAND' CERTAIN TO PACK 'EM IN EVERYWHERE

Grand Job Done By All Concerned

"TREASURE ISLAND"
(MGM)

Direction .....Victor Fleming
Original Story..Robert Louis Stevenson
Screen Play.....John Lee Mahin
Photography: Hal Rosson, Ray June, Clyde DeVinna.
Cast: Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper, Lionel Barrymore, Nigel Bruce, Lewis Stone, Chic Sale, Dorothy Peterson, Cora Sue Collins, Otto Kruger, William V. Mong, Charles McNaughton, Edmund Breese, Olin Howland, Edward Pawley, Charles Irwin, Richard Powell, James Burke, John Anderson.

A rich pleasure and a joy forever to be able to greet those great friends of childhood days, Long John Silver, the Squire, Jim Hawkins, and the Doctor, to say nothing of Flint and Ben Gunn. A grand adventure story told on a grand scale, that provides thrilling, clean and amusing entertainment for the whole family and that will bring them to the theatre in droves to meet on the screen the characters they loved in story.

It is unnecessary here to go into that delightful story by Robert Louis Stevenson because it is one that is familiar and that has been read and re-read in front of every family fireside. Suffice it to say that the full flavor of that story has been faithfully retained, and that John Lee Mahin in his script has stuck to the colorful language of those times and turned in a piece of work that does full honor and credit to the Stevenson classic.

After that, it is, first and foremost, Jackie Cooper's picture. That child is still the first child actor of them all. Here he is seen in a part he was evidently born to play and as a hero that every child can want to like and still be a credit to his family. And then of course the ever-lovable Wallace Beery as Long John Silver, that villain who just couldn't help being bad, but who wouldn't see his "mate" come to harm for "certain sure." Beery is a joy, as usual. Barrymore stomps and shouts his way through his part of the film as Billy Bones, who early pays the piper for his sins. Nigel Bruce is thoroughly delightful as the too-talkative Squire, and Lewis Stone is excellent as the Captain of the ship.

But Chic Sale as the goofy Ben Gunn is the extra-special treat that the picture holds. That old "says you, says me" character is the special joy of the last part of the film. Dorothy Peterson, William V. Mong and every sailor that dons a pirate's uniform in the picture come through with flawless performances.

And for these performances, for the faithful mood of the picture and the swinging action, you can thank Victor Fleming. And for the photography that leaves a series of indelible beautiful pictures in your mind, thank Ray June, Hal Rosson and Clyde DeVinna.

And for the entire production, that surely comes forth at a psychological moment for the entire picture business, thank Hunt Stromberg, who has given you a Class A picture, clean from start to finish, that will clean up at the box office unless the public doesn't know what's good for them.

Rumor of Kennedy to Head Para. Won't Down

New York.—The report that J. P. Kennedy is to be president of Paramount when the reorganization plan is completed is stronger than ever. People who are fairly well inside say that Adolph Zukor is to step down and become president of the board.

London Holds Over Five American Pix

London.—The American pictures that have opened here within the past week have hit the taste of the London audiences and five of them are being held over. One of the five is "The House of Rothschild," which is still doing remarkable business. The other four are "When New York Sleeps," "Happy Family," "Murder at the Vanities" and "Hi, Nellie." One British picture, "Evergreen," is also among the hold-overs.

The newcomers for the week are "The Thin Man" at the Empire, and "Girl in Pawn" at the Plaza.

MGM Will Release 181 Short Subjects

A fifty per cent increase in the production of short subjects was announced yesterday by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Including the Hal Roach product, sixty-nine single and two-reel pictures will be made at the two studios, supplementing 104 issues of Hearst-Metrotone News and eight Fitzpatrick Travel Talks, which are compiled in New York.

Thirty-five per cent of the entire product will be made in Technicolor, it was announced.

Wexley on 'Eight Bells'

Columbia yesterday took John Wexley off the script of an untitled Boris Karloff story for which he was set Thursday, and assigned him to adapt "Eight Bells," a New York stage play by Percy S. Mandley. It will be a vehicle for Jack Holt and John Buckler, the latter having played the role on the stage.

'Girl' Still Missing

"Girl of the Limberlost" is aimed at a June 27 start by Monogram, with Christy Cabanne still stumped for the principal player. She must be young enough to go to school and old enough to have a love affair. And the gal must act.

Melford at Gen. Service

George Melford has taken quarters at the General Service studio and it is reported that he is working on a releasing deal with Paramount.

No Improvement in Broadway Grosses

New York.—There are plenty of long faces among the managers of the big Broadway picture houses these days because the grosses are not conducive to smiles. Here are the week's results:

"Life of Vergie Winters" at the Music Hall, $67,000; "Men in White" in its final week at the Capitol, $32,000; "Here Comes the Groom" at the Paramount, $19,000; "Let's Talk It Over" at the Roxy, $16,800; "Dr. Monica" at the Strand, $16,000; "The House of Rothschild" in final week at the Astor, $10,600; "Half a Sinner" at the Mayfair, $6500; "World in Revolt" at the Rialto, $7500.

Fields-Silverstein Returning to Majestic

Larry Darmour yesterday signed Leonard Fields and David Silverstein to write an original for Majestic which the former will direct.

The team, who wrote the first picture for the program, "The Scarlet Letter," will report back to Majestic when they complete "King Kelly of the U.S.A.," which they now are doing at Monogram.

Roberts With Berke

William Berke has signed C. Edward Roberts to direct his first for Famous Authors Pictures Corp., "Unforbidden Sin," a novel by Roy Vickers. The picture, which was scheduled to start June 25, will not get under way for several weeks.

Jane Baxter Arrives

Jane Baxter arrived by train yesterday on the last leg of her trip from London to complete the cast of Sam Goldwyn's "We Live Again." Rouben Mamoulian directs Anna Sten and Fredric March in the top spots.

Protestants Join War

(Continued from Page 1)

Sunday in October as an occasion to discuss the motion picture, its value to society and religion, and the issues involved in improving the moral and social qualities of the films.

The Council stated that it could see little evidence of any intent by the producers to improve the moral quality of pictures and announced that it plans to inaugurate a national photoplay review service for Protestant churches which will tell what pictures are indecent or otherwise morally objectionable. It will also state what local theatres in each territory should be denied patronage.

Meanwhile Rabbi David Phillipson, a leader in the Central Conference of American Rabbis, wired approval of the Catholic Church stand and said that the Rabbis are considering action.

Will Hays yesterday confirmed what Joseph Breen told the Bishops Thursday about self-censorship by the industry and said that the board of directors of the Hays organization assumed final responsibility for the character of forthcoming pictures.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

Oh, quite some weeks ago, someone came to Jerry Horwin with an idea for a ballet that he needed Horwin's help on because he had to get permission from Sogolow, the cartoonist, to make use of his character, the "Little King," and because he wanted someone to write whimsical music for it. Jerry immediately wrote a letter to Sogolow and thought it would be a grand idea to have Deems Taylor write the music, so he wrote to Taylor care of N.B.C. Within a week's time, Sogolow had answered Horwin to the effect that he was sorry, but he had signed away all permission to use his characters to an animated cartoon company and so could not give his permission to put the King in a ballet, thanked him very much, etc., and signed off. But weeks went by and no word from Deems Taylor. Then one day, just a short while ago, Horwin

For Refusing Role

Joel McCrea has worked his way into a jam with Radio. When the studio loaned him out to Universal for the lead in "Million Dollar Ransom," he balked, refusing to accept it. Radio retaliated by placing him in suspension and, according to his contract, it is possible to hold him under the thumb until he agrees to take a designated role.

His deal was due to expire July 7, he should hold everything, that he might have time to smoke a cigar or play a round of bridge or just quietly doze for a little while before he strikes another note. Well, my friends, Mr. von Sternberg who likes to attend to everything on a picture, whether you like it or not, wandered into the recording rooms where his picture was being scored and promptly took the baton away from the orchestra leader, mounted the podium and waved his stick at the boys who went right on playing. After a few minutes, Sternberg looked over the orchestra and noticed that the cellist wasn't making any effort to play at all, so he said to the cellist: "What are you supposed to be playing?" "Tacet," said the cellist. "Well," said the un-suppressible Von irritably, "let me hear it!" Heh, heh, it must have made a swell illustration of that old saying, "Silence is eloquent."

•

If there's a particularly sour note in those Chicago-Trib censorship articles, to a degree Mr. Kinsley is entitled to a peeve, but he shouldn't let that interfere with his reporting. Kinsley was sent here for a limited stay to get the WHOLE truth and statements from the producers. It seems that he has gotten half-truths, representing the smallest proportion in Hollywood, BUT when he tried and tried to get in to see Jack Warner for a statement from him, Kinsley couldn't do it. Warner couldn't or wouldn't see him and that's too bad. A good statement from a representative executive might have helped Hollywood.

Radio Claims 2500 Exhibs Signed Now

New York.—RKO-Radio announces that it has already secured signed contracts for the coming season from 2500 exhibitors out of a possible 10,000.

Radio Pictures has set production dates for its next five pictures. The first will be "The Fountain," which has just started. Then will come "The Gay Divorce," going into production next week; "Wednesday's Child," starting June 30; "The Richest Girl in the World," July 5, and "Anne of Green Gables," July 16.

Color Photography Holds Up Stahl Film

Selection of a seven-year-old mulatto girl for the "Imitation of Life" cast is delaying the start. Instead of Monday, John Stahl expects to get in production later in the week.

Stahl finally decided that real color was essential for the child parts, but the mulattos the lightest in appearance to the eye have shown too obviously negroid in the camera tests.

Heiress Signed For Falcon Pictures

New York.—Falcon Pictures yesterday signed Natalie Tyson, granddaughter of E. T. Stotesbury, for a role in "Convention Girl," exteriors for which are being shot at Atlantic City. It also took options on her for five more pictures.

The company will give contracts to four of the winners of the beauty contest to be held at Atlantic City today.

'Herbert' Gets Going

"Big-Hearted Herbert" went into production yesterday at Warners' Vitagraph lot in Hollywood, William Keighley directing Guy Kibbee and Aline MacMahon. Jay Ward went into the cast as Kibbee's son yesterday, replacing Mickey Rooney.

Spigelgass Improved

Leonard Spigelgass, Universal scenario head, is at home, feeling much better without his tonsils, and thinking about a trip to Honolulu and back if the doctor okays it. He puts "Princess O'Hara" into production as his first work of Universal supervision about August 1.

Keye Luke in Another

Bert Gilroy, in charge of shorts at Radio during Lee Marcus' absence, has signed Keye Luke, former publicity department artist, for the second Leon Errol short, which Al Boasberg puts into work Monday. In addition to his acting assignment, Luke will write his own dialogue.

Fight Over Fox Met Again Postponed

New York.—The legal battle over the offer of Warners and Loew's of $4,000,000 for control of the Fox Met chain, which had already been postponed twice, yesterday was set over until next Wednesday.

Del Rio Plans Own Clean-up Campaign

Dolores Del Rio is reported to be somewhat upset at hot elements in "In Caliente," her next Warners production, and to be on the point of inaugurating a one-woman, one-pic ture clean-up campaign.

Jerry Wald and Carl Erickson are working on the first draft of the story for Warners. This is intended as one of the Warner special productions for the new season.

Jimmy Savo Picture Slated to Start Aug. 1

New York.—Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur have set August 1 as the tentative starting date for their picture, starring Jimmy Savo. This is the second of the four they will make for Paramount release.

Lee Garmes, who photographed their first, "Crime Without Passion," will stay on for the next one.

Burns and Allen Sail For Six Weeks Abroad

New York.—Gracie Allen and George Burns sail today on the Rex for Italy and a tour of the continent, giving it six weeks. They return here for radio broadcasts, and Paramount has a call on their services for two pictures.

Agency Signs Two

Helen Wood, whom Sam Goldwyn brought to Hollywood from Nashville, Tenn., by giving her a contract as a graduation gift, signed a managerial ticket with the Beyer-MacArthur office yesterday. Sam Hardy also went with the company as his new managers.

Drive Upsets Prod. Plans

(Continued from Page 1)

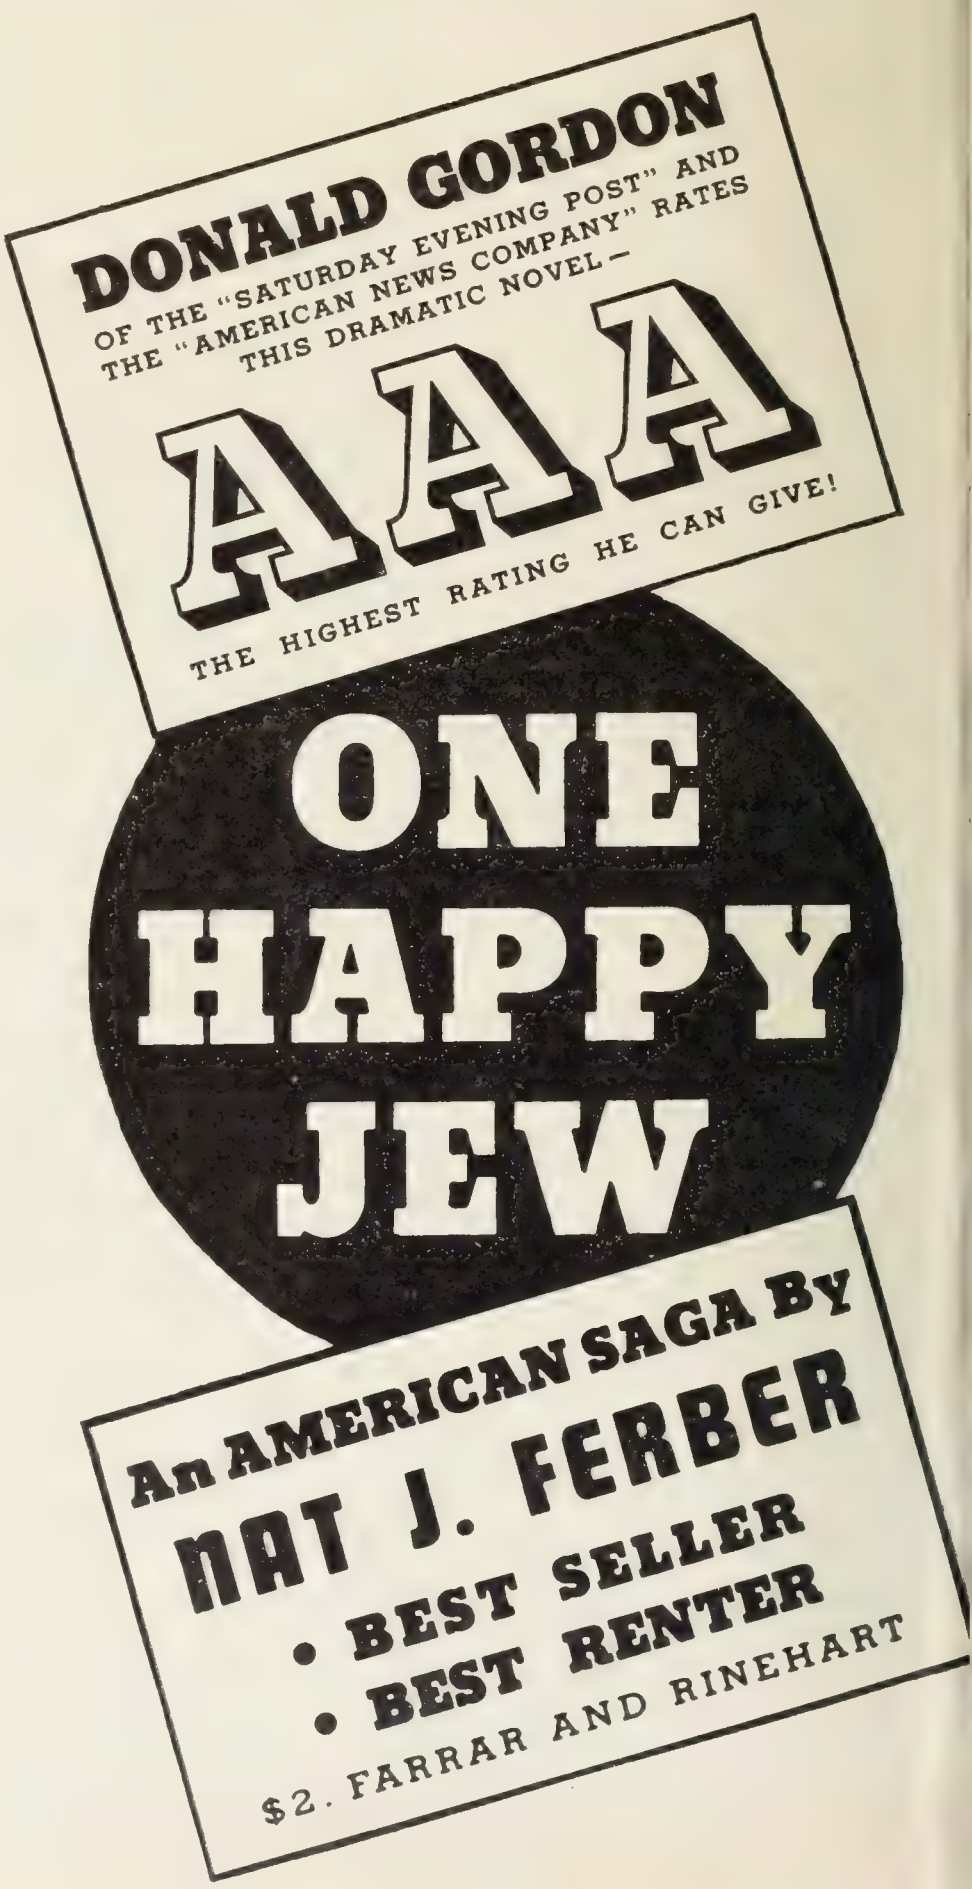
force of the church drive because, contrary to custom, the studios are not handing out contracts and earmarking players for future productions. Agents say this is due to the fact the studios haven't the slightest idea what pictures will be in production from week to week, and they do not dare to make player plans ahead.

Another problem facing the studios is that of getting stories for their stars which they can put into immediate production. In many studios pressure is being brought to bear on the story departments in an effort to speed up the work, while old lists of acceptable stories that have been found wholesome in the past are being combed over to see what will be acceptable in the present emergency. Star salaries must be met, so must release schedules, so must the demands of the churchmen. The result is a hodgepodge.

European Sailings

New York.—Sailing on the Champlain today are J. V. Connolly, of the Hearst newsreels; A. C. Brown, traveling auditor for Paramount International; Pierre Brasseur, Fox player; Andre Hornez and Bernard Zimmer, writers; and Felix Ferry, European producer.

Wallis-Wilk on Way



New York.—Hal Wallis, who, with his wife, Louise Fazenda, arrived in New York Thursday, is on his way to the coast with Jake Wilk.

Herzig and Meeker To Write 'Girl Friend'

William Rowland has signed Sig Herzig and Ed Meeker to write the screen play of "The Girl Friend," which Russell Mack directs when it starts July 7. Jack Haley, Ann Sothern, Jack Benny and Lupe Velez are already cast.

Allen on Foy Sales

Foy Productions has opened an exchange office in San Francisco and has signed Jack Allen to take charge of the territory as sales manager.

% READING DEPT.
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 40. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Monday, June 25, 1934

N.Y. SCHOOLS IN PIX WAR

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•IN this column a few days ago we commented on an idea expressed by M. A. Lightman which had to do with classifying motion picture theatres and running certain types of pictures in certain specified houses. Mr. Lightman expressed another view at the same time which is also interesting. That is that the present campaign against indecent pictures is a very good thing for the industry.

"We have needed a drive like this," he said. "I am certain it will prove a distinct asset, for it will, and is now arousing an interest in pictures among a class of people who never have attended movies before. The picture business will clean house, clean up its pictures, and you will see thousands upon thousands of new customers flocking to the theatres."

•

Mr. Lightman, we believe, is right in everything he said. So far as the industry cleaning up pictures is concerned, that is being done this minute in every studio where such action is thought necessary. The effort to get stories that will conform to the requisites that are being laid down by the churches, women's organizations and educators all over the country are shooting production schedules full of holes, but you can lay a bet that such stories are going to be found and made.

The task seems difficult only because it is new. There is plenty of material to be had, but the main trouble is that it must be found in a hurry. Release dates must be kept and, if any studio has pictures in preparation which might not get by under the new order of things, something must be found to replace them. Undoubtedly that condition obtains in some studios, which accounts for the activity in story departments.

•

MGM showed what could be done with stories that are absolutely clean when it made "Treasure Island," destined to be a great box-office success. Fox recently put out a navy picture—and they are popularly supposed to be always off-color—called "She Learned About Sailors," which is bright, clever, amusing and clean. Other studios

(Continued on Page 2)

Columbia Plans to Co-Star Lowe and Holt

New York.—Columbia is planning to co-star Edmund Lowe and Jack Holt in a series of productions on its coming program, hoping to make the team as famous as the Lowe-McLaglen combination, although in a different type of picture.

'Cleopatra' Next Film For Chinese

Sid Grauman is closing negotiations with Paramount to put "Cleopatra," the C. B. DeMille production, into the Chinese Theatre as the next attraction there. It will open in four weeks.

The showman has signed Hariet Hoctor, the noted dancer, to head the prologue. He is building the remainder of the stage unit now. Walter Kane set the Hoctor deal.

Pola Negri Feature in Lew Brown Musical Show

New York—Pola Negri, Mary Brian, Rosco Ates and Abe Lyman's band will be the features of the new Lew Brown musical show, which will be shown on Broadway this Fall and probably will have its try-out around July 15.

The title of the show is "Yokel Boy Makes Good."

Anita Loos East

Anita Loos leaves for New York July 1 for ten-days vacation. Her last story for MGM was her original, "Born To Be Kissed," for Jean Harlow.

City Superintendent Tells Will Hays That Characters Of Kids Must Not Be Undermined

New York.—Another element joined the war against indecent films Saturday, when Dr. Harold G. Campbell, superintendent of the New York City schools, joined hands with the Catholic and other churches in their campaign and notified Will Hays to that effect. Dr. Campbell told Mr. Hays very bluntly that the largest school system in the world is determined that the characters of school children shall not be undermined by sub-standard and inferior motion pictures which thwart the aims of the city's educational department.

The attitude taken by the Board of Education, of which Dr. Campbell is the spokesman, is considered by many to be a direct reflection on the New York Censor Board and an admission that that department, which comes under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Education, has failed in its work. It is felt that, had the Censor Board performed its duties as it should, there would have been no necessity for the New York Board of Education to take matters into its own hands in order to protect the school children.

Hall To Direct Sidney

Alexander Hall is slated to direct the next Sylvia Sidney picture for Paramount. It is "Red Woman," on which B. P. Schulberg is rushing work. William R. Lipman is writing the screen play.

McCrea Suspended For Refusing Role

Joel McCrea has worked his way into a jam with Radio. When the studio loaned him out to Universal for the lead in "Million Dollar Ransom," he balked, refusing to accept it. Radio retaliated by placing him in suspension and, according to his contract, it is possible to hold him under the thumb until he agrees to take a designated role.

His deal was due to expire July 7, with Radio having an option on his services. But the period of suspension is set to be added to the expiration date, pushing it back until he comes around.

Cummings Signed to Direct 'White Parade'

Jesse L. Lasky Saturday signed Irving Cummings to direct "The White Parade," a new novel by Rian James, which goes before the cameras early in August.

In the interim, he will handle another picture for Fox. Jesse Lasky Jr. is collaborating with James on the screen play.

'Wizard of Oz' Off

Sam Goldwyn has dropped plans to produce "The Wizard of Oz," at least on this year's program. The property was purchased by Goldwyn for Eddie Cantor, but the star refused to consider it on the plea that it was not his type.

Dieterle With Muni

Warners Saturday assigned William Dieterle to "Border Town," the next Paul Muni vehicle. Roy Chanslor is writing the script of the Carroll Graham original. The studio has no definite starting date.

WRITERS-ACTORS GUILDS IN $100,000 RADIO PLAN

A big broadcasting deal is in process of arrangement which will enlist the services of many of the most prominent members of both the Screen Writers Guild and the Screen Actors Guild. It is understood that, so far as the Guilds and their members are concerned, the plan is agreeable, especially as it involves splitting a sum of probably $100,000 between the two organizations.

The plan was advanced by John T. Adams and Gardner Osborn, both prominent in radio circles in New York, and they have the task of get-

(Continued on Page 8)

Paramount Hesitates Over 'Baby Racket'

Faced with the problem of eradicating the gangster element from the Fred and Fanny Hatton story, "Baby Racket," Paramount is undecided as to whether or not it will produce the story. It was formerly slated for the Bayard Veiller unit, but he is understood to have declined to handle it.

U. A. Paris Convention

Paris.—United Artists will hold a Continental convention here today, with Joseph M. Schenck presiding.

RALPH RAINGER
LEO ROBIN wrote "Take A Lesson From The Lark" Paramount

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

So far as we can gather, the "mystery of Toluca Lake" is as follows: The other night, a couple of gals fled the unwelcome advances of the scion of one of our best families ("private people"—not movie folk) and, in doing so, jumped into the lake to swim away. There's them as say the wenches swam away au naturel—while others say they just jumped in—clothes and all. Anyway they swam practically to the other shore, and were about to emerge right at Jim Tully's house, when they spotted Tully's son, and turned around and swam back in the direction of the first menace. So they wound up in W. C. Fields' back yard. So the next morning, when Fields found out what had been going on, he fired his watchman, chauffeur and a few of the neighbors' servants, for not waking him up. Or did he?

•

It was a hectic week-end anyway—wot with Frank Orsatti hiring the whole Hayworth Club and throwing a huge party for a couple of hundred guests, who ate three dinners each and had a swell time. Among those there were the Clark Gables, Ida Koverman, Sally Eilers, Harry Joe Brown, Eddie Hillman, the Clarence Browns (Alice Joyce), the Milton Brens, and a million blondes.

There was partying at Pickfair too, with Josh Cosden (who departs tonight), the Sonny Chalifs, Gene Raymond, Mrs. Harriman Russel, Whitney de Rham, the Sam Goldwyns, Lloyd Pantages, and a lady from Canada who has been writing fan-letters to Mary Pickford since she was a child, here at Mary's invitation, among those present.

A lamb-chop caught fire at the Vendome Sunday morning and there was a rush of smoke to the roof. They sent for some special chemical extinguishers and wot did they get? They got five fire-engines and enough excitement to please Nero! But no flames!

•

George Cukor and Hugh Walpole (w.k. novelist and lecturer) were discussing how much they did not want to go to a Pasadena dinner party scheduled for one night this week, and George did his bit by telling the Englishman how far away the place is, and explained what he meant by a "sleeper-jump." Walpole, already discouraged by hearing that the hostess was noted for "meeting all trains bearing English," muttered into his beard, "It is quite some distance, isn't it?"

"Yes," answered the elfin Cukor. "In fact, Hugh—the only way you can make it pay is to give a lecture while you're there!"

New York REVIEWS

"MURDER ON THE BLACKBOARD"
RKO prod.; director, George Archainbaud; writers; Stuart Palmer, Willis Goldbeck.
Rialto Theatre

Sun: "Murder on the Blackboard" is pretty continuously comic. It's an exciting little melodrama, as such melodramas go, with motives galore for everyone in the cast. It is right at the top of its class as a bright and lively farce-mystery drama.

Times: In some respects the story is quite ingenious, and when most of such yarns depend largely on spine-chilling effects and screams, this "Murder on the Blackboard" has the saving grace of a sense of humor.

Mirror: Having solved "The Penguin Pool Murder Mystery," the team of Edna May Oliver and James Gleason goes on to unravel this far more baffling and entertaining mystery, "Murder on the Blackboard." Filled with shocks and surprises, lightened by laughs, it is an account of the grim, but justifiable slaughter of an over-romantic school teacher. School children should love it. The mystery holds real depth.

Herald-Tribune: A sequel to the "Penguin Pool Murder," "Murder on the Blackboard" is worth sitting through. While it may not have so unique a plot or setting as the aquarium mystery, it still has the advantage of having Edna May Oliver and James Gleason in the principal roles. The film as a story, has no great significance, but it is deftly handled by Mr. Archainbaud.

World-Telegram: A neat little problem in murder is presented for mystery lovers in "Murder on the Blackboard." A nicely devised little problem, with clews that are neither too closely guarded nor too openly revealed, and that lends itself to a solution that is not too far-fetched. All of which makes for an excitingly eventful, smooth, colorful thriller.

Post: With Edna May Oliver again cast as a comic feminine sleuth, the new mystery farce at the Rialto, "Murder on the Blackboard," proves a thoroughly interesting and entertaining film.

Journal: There isn't much, ordinarily, that can be said for comedy detectives, but here the sleuthing is done by Edna May Oliver of the droll voice and the even droller mannerisms. Assisted by James Gleason and Edgar Kennedy, who are able comics themselves, Miss Oliver turns the film into diverting entertainment that is further enlivened by some really amusing dialogue. You'll find the piece fun.

News: The suspense is cleverly worked up before the murder and well sustained afterwards up to the very end of the picture. The cast works well together but Edna May Oliver's performance of the redoubtable Miss Withers tops that of all the others.

Acad. Meeting on Release Prints Set

Laboratory and sound department heads of all the major studios have been invited to attend a meeting of the Academy Research Council's subcommittee on improvement of release print quality Wednesday evening.

A report will be presented then containing proposals and recommendations for standardization of release print laboratory procedure, which the Council believes will result in an improvement in release prints supplied to the theatres. The report is based on an extensive survey made by Gordon Mitchell, manager of the Council, and L. E. Clark.

Eric Rhodes at Radio

Eric Rhodes arrived last night by plane from New York, was handed a script by Radio of "Gay Divorce" and goes to work for that company today.

Code Authority Hits Cash Premium System

New York.—The Code Authority has ruled that the giving of gold premiums by a picture house is rebating in the form of prizes and violates the code.

The ruling came on the complaint of Pacific National Theatres, of Los Angeles, against the Jay Benn Corporation, and the Benn outfit is ordered to stop the practice.

'Death Day' Premiere

"Death Day," the three-reeler edited by Walter Anthony for Sol Lesser from the Sergei Eisenstein Mexican collection, has its world premiere at the Shrine Auditorium Wednesday night as part of an Upton Sinclair political program. Sinclair is also staging one of his political satires.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

have done the same, so it can be done.

And, as Mr. Lightman says, such pictures will attract thousands of new customers and will not lose any of the old ones, because the picture fans will go to pictures, no matter what type they are. Even if they prefer the "sophisticated" variety, they will still attend the theatres, take what is offered and like it, for the picture habit, once acquired, is a hard one to break.

Old Warship To Be Built For 'Bounty'

MGM technicians have been assigned the preparation of an 18th century British warship, H.M.S. Bounty, for the Frank Lloyd production of "Mutiny on the Bounty," a novel by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, based on the 1790 narrative of the ship's commander, Capt. William Bligh.

Clark Gable, Wallace Beery and Robert Montgomery will be combined in the three-star production, and its spot on MGM's schedule depends on synchronizing their free dates.

Frank Lloyd, who is understood to hold an interest in the film rights to the story with MGM, will take the boat and cast to Tahiti during the production, according to present plans.

Warner Executives Leave For Their Posts

With Major Albert Warner and Gradwell Sears remaining here for about ten days more, the balance of the company's sales organization, who dropped in here Wednesday from the San Francisco convention, left last night for their respective territories.

In addition to discussing production problems and watching the making of pictures now in work, the group were shown the four most recently completed Warner films, "Here Comes the Navy," "Housewife," "Kansas City Princess" and "The Dragon Murder Case."

Kahane Back From Meet

B. B. Kahane, accompanied by Ralph Doyle, in charge of sales for Radio in Australia, and Jack Pegler, Lord and Thomas advertising agency executive, returned Saturday by train from Chicago, where they attended the Radio sales convention. Doyle will remain here about a week before sailing for home.

Clive Dominos' Guest

The Dominos will be hostesses tomorrow afternoon at a tea given in honor of E. E. Clive and members of the cast of "Keep It a Dream," currently at the Hollywood Playhouse. It will be held at the clubhouse, 1284 No. Crescent Heights.

QUICK LOANS
$10 TO $300 — REASONABLE COST
ARRANGED ON SALARY, FURNITURE or AUTOS
Studio Employees! You Can obtain ready cash for vacation or any other purpose thru us without delay or red tape.
LOCAL LOAN CO.
406 Taft Bldg., 1680 N. Vine
Telephone HEmpstead 1133

'TWO HEADS ON PILLOW' GOOD; 'MARRYING WIDOWS' WON'T DO

Director, Writer, Cast All Do Well

"TWO HEADS ON A PILLOW"
(Liberty)

Direction .....William Nigh
Original Story.....Dorothy Canfield
Screen Play.....Albert DeMond
Photography .....Harry Neumann
Cast: Neil Hamilton, Miriam Jordan, Henry Armetta, Hardie Albright, Dorothy Appleby, Mary Forbes, Edward Martindel, Claude King, Lona Andre, Betty Blythe, Edward Kane, Claire McDowell, George Lewis, Emily Fitzroy, Nellie V. Nichols, Dorothy Granger, Jilda Ford, Mary Foy, Jack Kennedy.

A good, workmanlike job has been turned out on a tried and true formula and, pointed as it is for tried and true laughs, it doesn't miss its mark. Nor will it miss its audience, thereby assuring it of its rightful place on any program.

This is the one about the hard-working young man, poor but honest (and in this case a lawyer), who married a rich girl from high society, with a termagant mother. They are almost immediately divorced. The girl becomes a lawyer too, and seven years later they meet again in court over an alienation of affections suit which strangely parallels their own marital case. Of course, the boy and girl still outwardly fight and about the same things that parted them the first time, but after sundry arguments for and against marriage, they decide to try it all over again and live scrappily ever after.

The picture doesn't really attempt to prove anything but the fact that, with a good cast of players, an uninspired but workmanlike script and a competent director, it is entirely possible to turn out a piece of entertainment on a very restricted budget that will please and amuse most of your audiences. The mother-in-law school of laughs is worked to a fare-thee-well, but it works, and that's the only answer to any objections.

Besides the presence of the ever-dependable Neil Hamilton, there are extra bright spots in all the scenes that include Henry Armetta and Claude King. Their names are not just stuck into the cast to make it look good. They have good parts and make the most of them. And there are also a number of old-timers who do their share, like Emily Fitzroy, Betty Blythe, Edward Martindel and Claire McDowell, who make the going a whole lot smoother than usual. Miriam Jordan looks perfectly beautiful, but does little else. Someone should find out what it took to wake up Elissa Landi and apply the same treatment to Miss Jordan because, with her looks, it would be worth it. Hardie Albright is right amusing as the incurable bachelor who suddenly finds himself involved in a breach-of-promise suit.

Albert DeMond wrote the script. The dialogue is consistently good and he very evidently knows what an audience will laugh at. William Nigh directed at a good pace and the photography by Harry Neumann is okay.

'Tarzan and Mate' Barred in Germany

New York.—The German Board of Censors has turned thumbs down on "Tarzan and His Mate," barring the picture from Germany. The board gives no reasons for its action against the MGM production.

U.A. Sells Product To Warner Houses

New York.—Although United Artists last year would not sell its product to the Warner theatres, a deal has been closed by the two companies for the coming season.

It is understood that all differences of opinion have been fixed up and that the United Artists pictures have already been booked into more than 350 theatres of the Warner chain.

Universal Sets New Lead For Joan Bennett

Universal is figuring on placing Joan Bennett in the leading role in "Weather Permitting." The studio has a one-picture ticket with her because of releasing her from "Million Dollar Ransom" to take Paramount's "Pursuit of Happiness."

Miss Bennett has not read the script and the final decision hangs on her agreeing to the assignment. Clarence Marks is producing it and Kurt Neumann is slated to direct.

Joel Sayre Latest to Write 'Bugle Sounds'

Joel Sayre handed in his new screen play on MGM's "The Bugle Sounds" Saturday and starts today with Paramount to write an original story for W. C. Fields, under William Le Baron's supervision. The William Morris office handles the writer.

Beery To Do 'Soviet'

"Soviet," the Russian story MGM has been contemplating the past year, is in line for Wallace Beery, following "West Point of the Air," unless "Mutiny on the Bounty" gets in ahead. Irving Thalberg is reported to have Lewis Milestone in mind to direct "Soviet."

Stevens on 'Kernels'

George Stevens has been chosen to direct the next Wheeler and Woolsey picture, "Kentucky Kernels." Fred Guiol was set to write comedy sequences for the picture, which H. N. Swanson is producing for Radio.

Shaw and Lee to Para.

Shaw and Lee were signed by Paramount Saturday for the comedy assignment in "You Belong to Me," the Lee Tracy picture. Walter Kane set the deal.

Sailings From England

London.—Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt and Walter Wanger are sailing for New York on the Ile de France Wednesday.

Old-Fashioned, and Hurt by Poor Yarn

"MARRYING WIDOWS"
(Tower)

Direction .....Sam Newfeld
Author .....Adele Buffington
Photography .....Harry Forbes
Cast: Judith Allen, Minna Gombell, Lucien Littlefield, Johnny Mack Brown, Sarah Padden, Bert Roach, Arthur Hoyt, Virginia Sale.

The story of "Marrying Widows" is a tremendous stumbling-block, over which the cast and director have tripped, fallen on their faces and sunk into the depths of discouragement. Which leaves the audience practically nothing to do but sigh a little and wish they'd stayed home.

The plot is a nice illustration of "familiarity breeds contempt," and offers a little excitement once in a while by getting all tangled up in its long white beard.

It's the yarn about the girl whose in-laws are so mean to her after her husband's death that she leaves home and goes to New York, and of the man who marries her for her money and then discovers that he loves her. Oh yes, and the lecherous brother-in-law.

John Mack Brown is the man who deliberately sets out to win the wealthy widow so that he gan get control of the Melford Sewing Machine Company and revenge his father, whose patents were stolen by the Melfords. He plays easily, but is difficult to understand. Judith Allen is the widow and her performance indicates that she can take care of better roles. Minna Gombell is her pal who helps her out of all trouble and eventually wins Bert Roach, Brown's partner. Lucien Littlefield, overcome by his role, is the unpleasant brother-in-law. Sarah Padden and Arthur Hoyt are the rest of the horrid family, and Virginia Sale is seen briefly.

Sam Newfeld directed against the odds supplied by Adele Buffington, who wrote the story, and Harry Forbes photographed.

The picture rates a very thin recommendation for the least sophisticated houses, and none elsewhere.

London Goes Strong For 'Postman' Novel

London.—This town is giving James Cain's novel, "The Postman Always Rings Twice," a big play. It was banned for pictures, but Jonathan Cape printed one edition here in conjunction with the American publisher, Alfred Knopf, and sold it out pronto. It is going into its second printing.

Schildkraut-Col. Part

Joseph Schildkraut and Columbia have agreed on a cancellation of the player's long-term contract, parting July 10. Inability to agree on assignments is given as the reason.

Mrs. Arch Reeve East

Mrs. Arch Reeve left for New York on the Chief Saturday to join her husband, Fox advertising director.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

It seems to us perfectly fair and equitable to classify pictures as Class A and Class B productions AFTER they are completed. But the idea of a production schedule listing Class A and Class B pictures BEFORE they are made seems to us a pretty silly thing to do. Particularly considering the basis on which such designations are made.

To a major company a Class A production is one on which the overhead may possibly run up to a million dollars, but heaven knows it has been conclusively proved that a million dollars worth of so-called Class A production does not necessarily an entertainment make. Whereas and contrary-wise, entertainment and good entertainment can abound in a picture that cost a mere one hundred and fifty thousand.

•

Then again, the psychology of rating pictures thus before they ever go before a camera is very bad for the people assigned to a Class B production. There is absolutely no reason to assume that any picture will fall into Class B. Every picture that goes before the cameras should be started with every hope that it will make the Class A grade. There is no excuse for any other way of thinking. After all, every picture on a major lot can use each and every facility a studio has to offer, mechanically and mentally.

•

Studios are constantly seeking a means to cut down their negative costs. Well, they could average matters up a great deal better if they weren't constantly stubbing their toes on this Class A and Class B rating. They have been geared in high for so long that they are willing to throw everything into what they are pleased to term a Class A production and give a Class B picture the left-overs. And that's not exactly good showmanship or good sense. Given a sure-fire story, they put into it their biggest stars and "draw" names, the best cameraman and the highest-priced director. Given a story that possibly needs a little careful working out, they write it off to Class B production, try out newcomers in it, give it a struggling director who is trying to make good and then tie him up in knots if he's enthusiastic enough to think that it could be improved and could be Class A with a few changes. They say it doesn't matter.

•

But it does matter. There should be room in every picture for a star and a future star. There should be room in every picture for a writer to do his best. There should be room in every picture for a director to give his best. And if that should be the case, there will be more Class A pictures at less average cost and better entertainment for the public all around.

British Gaumont To Release 12 In U. S.

London.—British Gaumont has selected twelve of its best current pictures for release in the United States next season. They are:

"Along Came Sally"; "Channel Crossing", with Constance Cummings; "Orders Is Orders", with James Gleason and Charlotte Greenwood; "The Murder Party", with Leslie Banks; "Friday the Thirteenth"; "Dick Turpin", with Victor McLaglen; "Strike", with Leslie Banks; "The Woman in Command", with Cicely Courtneidge and Edward Everett Horton; "Sleeping Car", with Madeleine Carroll; "Just Smith"; "It's a Boy", with Edward Everett Horton; "The Arson Ring", with Leslie Banks.

Long John Silver Is Bad For Beery's Leg

Wallace Beery has had trouble getting his leg unkinked from his pegleg pirate part in "Treasure Island," and leaves for New York tomorrow or Wednesday for special treatments from Dr. Maurice Rashbaum, who cures with lights.

On Beery's return, he goes into "West Point of the Air," story written about the government training school at Randolph Field, Texas.

Lesser Engages Lugosi For Role of 'Chandu'

Sol Lesser engaged Bela Lugosi Saturday to play Chandu in his 24-reel production based on the radio magician. Ray Taylor starts direction of the initial eight-reel feature the week of July 9.

Figuring that the Chandu character can be centered in other story ideas, Lesser took options for further engagements of Lugosi over a three-year period.

'Wagon Wheels' Going Into Work at Paramount

Harold Hurley returns to his desk at Paramount today, after a three-weeks absence, and will place "Wagon Wheels," a western, into work immediately. This is Art Jacobson's and Charles Barton's first crack at co-directing a picture after long service with the studio as assistant directors.

Reliance to Make Six

New York.—Harry Goetz, president of Reliance Pictures, announces that his company will make six features for the coming season. Three of them are "Count of Monte Cristo," "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round" and "Catalina."

MGM Doubtful on Three

Placing three pictures in the doubtful category, MGM has shelved them temporarily rather than raise any question on censorship with them. They are "Duchess of Delmonico's," "Undressed Parade" and "Indo-China."

Radio Signs Conover

Theresa Maxwell Conover was signed Saturday by Radio for a featured role in "The Age of Innocence," in which Irene Dunne and John Boles have the leading roles. The MacQuarrie office set the deal.

Ratoff to Work in Own Yarn in England

London.—Gregory Ratoff, who was supposed to return to America this week, has again delayed his departure and will do another picture for British International. It is "Eighteen Minutes," written by Ratoff himself, and Monty Banks will direct.

Schoedsack Wanted To Do New 'Chang'

Ernest Schoedsack is reported dickering with English interests which want him to head another expedition of an exploratory nature for a picture on the order of "Chang."

While Schoedsack has about two years to go on his Radio contract, he has had no office on the lot for some time, and is on suspension status, pending a story fitting his style.

He has been mentioned for the direction of "The Last Days of Pompeii," which Merian C. Cooper is planning in Europe.

Mae West Declines to Go on 'Hall of Fame'

Although Paramount okayed her appearance on the "Hall of Fame" broadcast yesterday, being anxious to work in a radio plug on "It Ain't No Son," Mae West bowed out of going through with the deal.

According to her Paramount ticket, she is her own boss on doing radio work, but declined a $7,000 offer because she could not get material for the broadcast that would satisfy her.

Duval on 'Red Pawn' For Dietrich's Next

Paramount is keeping Jacques Duval on its writing staff for one more assignment and will hand him "Red Pawn" to whip into a screen play as Marlene Dietrich's next picture with Josef von Sternberg. The latter acts unofficially as producer on the picture.

'Melody' Off For Time

"Broadway Melody of 1934" is off the immediate schedule at MGM, and lies in the free-for-all department for the acquisition and development of further ideas. Apparently the only factor set about it is music by Brown and Freed.

Rooney in 'Hide-Out'

Mickey Rooney went into MGM's "Hide-Out" Saturday, taking this picture instead of Warners' "Big-Hearted Herbert" because of a prior contract. Walter Kane set it.

Brooks With Durante

Matty Brooks, who used to write some of Eddie Cantor's broadcasting material and also wrote for Jimmy Durante last season, is back on the Durante writing staff.

Try-out of Segall Play

Harry Segall's new play, "Knock Wood," will have its try-out performances at Greenwood Lake, N. J., this Summer. Edward F. Gardner will produce it.

New York REVIEWS

"PRIVATE SCANDAL"

Paramount prod.; director, Ralph Murphy; writers, Vera Caspary and Bruce Manning

Mayfair Theatre

World-Telegram: From the moment Ned Sparks makes his appearance on the scene, "Private Scandal" goes over to farce completely, and turns out to be a brisk, noisy, extravagant and funny burlesque of murder melodramas. If the beginning and the ending could be changed, this "Private Scandal" would be one of the most effective satires on mystery films the screen has yet produced.

Journal: Thanks to Ned Sparks, "Private Scandal" is better than average mystery melodrama. With Sparks as the detective on the case, a murder investigation practically turns into a farcical burlesque.

Times: "In "Private Scandal" they solve the murder with such lack-wit methods that the picture produces a considerable body of loud and reasonably irresistible humor. The homicide itself is slipshod, sober and rather arrogantly routine in arrangement. But when Ned Sparks walks on the scene as the detective in the case, all hands wake up and the film begins to sparkle.

Sun: The Mayfair has a jolly murder mystery this week. It's not always so mysterious; but its general good humor seldom flags. Bright and lively to the last few minutes, "Private Scandal" falls to pieces at the end. The solution is an annoying disappointment.

American: "Private Scandal" starts out a bit haltingly as a routine murder mystery. It gains momentum with the unreeling of every foot of film, however, and, with the entrance of Ned Sparks as the sour-faced and sarcastic police inspector, achieves an even faster tempo. Although actually one of the season's funniest comedies, the picture never loses its suspense.

Herald-Tribune: "Private Scandal" is a curious picture for several reasons. It contains, in its first half, some of the fuunniest dialogue heard on Broadway in a long time—the kind that brings shouts of spontaneous laughter from all parts of the house. Miss Pitts, of course, helps in the comedy, but it is Ned Sparks who really dominates the early humorous scenes. But the oddest thing about Mr. Murphy's picture is its dull ending.

Post: A typical Summer offering. The new picture is light, rather meaningless, and very amusing. Despite the fact that the plot centers around the solution of a murder, it just cannot be termed a mystery melodrama, as it contains such comics as Zasu Pitts and Ned Sparks. These two comedians make one forget the flimsiness of the plot, and instead, attention is focused upon their comedy antics.

News: The shivers vanish once your attention is attracted by the dead-pan and raucous voice of Ned Sparks as he goes about being a sort of diamond-in-the-rough detective. And that is not all to keep you amused. Zasu Pitts is abroad making dumb speeches and dumber gestures which are highly comic.

NIGEL BRUCE

as "Troon" in "Coming Out Party"

JESSE L. LASKY — FOX PRODUCTION

". . Harry Green and Nigel Bruce have small parts in this picture but between them they steal every scene in which they appear . ."

London Star—May 7th

". . Mr. Bruce is excellent as "Troon" . ."

New York Times—March 17th

". . Best performance of picture is given by Nigel Bruce . ."

Hollywood Variety—January 15th

as "Lynch" in "Murder in Trinidad"

SOL WURTZEL — FOX PRODUCTION

". . but it is Nigel Bruce who is important . . . he is a fine addition to Hollywood ranks . ."

Philadelphia Public Ledger—April 7th

". . Easily one of the best films that has been shown at the Mayfair for months and one that is distinguished by Mr. Bruce's compelling portrayal . ."

New York Times—May 16th

". . 'Lynch' as portrayed by Nigel Bruce gives promise of becoming one of the great detectives of the screen . ."

New York World-Telegram—May 16th

". . It is Nigel Bruce who romps off with the acting honors . ."

New York Herald—May 16th

as "Johnnie Jelliwell" in "Springtime for Henry"

JESSE L. LASKY — FOX PRODUCTION

(The same role originally played 8 months New York Stage and 4 months London stage)

". . Nigel Bruce turns in a characterization that is wholly amusing and artistically superb . ."

Hollywood Reporter—April 19th

". . Nigel Bruce providing a remarkably fresh and outstanding comedy character . . marching away with the acting honors . ."

Hollywood Variety—April 19th

". . closely sharing the honors with Otto Kruger and almost stealing the show at times was Nigel Bruce with his comical 'Johnnie Jelliwell' . ."

Los Angeles Herald-Express—June 8th

as "Squire Trelawney" in "Treasure Island"

HUNT STROMBERG — MGM PRODUCTION

". . Nigel Bruce is thoroughly delightful as the too-talkative Squire . . ."

Hollywood Reporter—June 23rd

". . Nigel Bruce registers strongly as Squire Trelawney . . ."

Hollywood Variety—June 23rd

Representatives:

Hollywood

EDINGTON & VINCENT

New York Stage

BRISCOE & GOLDSMITH

It is an honor and a privilege to have a very small contribution to one of the finest pictures I have ever seen:

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

With a Profound Bow

To

A Splendid Artist

MISS GRACE MOORE

●

A Fine Director and Composer

VICTOR SCHERTZINGER

●

My Golfing Partner,

MAX WINSLOW

and

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Sincerely

Lyrics
"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"

GUS KAHN

The Senators From
"Stand Up And Cheer"

FRANK MITCHELL

JACK DURANT

"SHE LEARNED ABOUT SAILORS"

A John E. Stone-Fox Production

"Mitchell and Durant register solidly in every appearance."
Hollywood Reporter, June 11

"The breezy tale is a natural for Mitchell and Durant. They are hilarious in their stooge type comedy, building the laughs steadily and surely—a comedy wow."
Daily Variety, June 11

"Mitchell and Durant's knockabout eccentricities groove into the plot with hilarious hokum. They look permanent for pictures."
M. P. Daily, June 12

Exclusive Management
O'REILLY & MANN
California Bank Bldg., Beverly Hills

THRILLS GALORE IN MGM 'WEST POINT OF THE AIR'

With the equivalent of ten days shooting already in the can for "West Point of the Air," Richard Rosson returned from Texas last week to line up the cast to support Wallace Beery in the MGM story of army pilot training.

Two camera units, working simultaneously from the air and the ground, are still shooting at Randolph Field, near San Antonio, Texas. The first-cameramen teamed on this work are Elmer Dyer and Charlie Marshall, and Charles Cropun and Paul Vogel. Roger Manning is unit manager.

Six ships have been crashed by army pilots for the MGM cameramen during their nine weeks at the field. Desired stunts are studied by an official board, headed by Col. F. L. Martin, field commandant, and plotted to the scientific margin of safety, with the result that there have been no fatalities during this work.

Rosson and Monta Bell, supervising the production, go into their casting huddle tomorrow. It is possible that another star name will be put in the part of Beery's son. Beery plays the master sergeant, whose son, fresh from West Point, comes under the rigorous air-training regime—a situation Rosson found in real life at Randolph Field.

Field, men and ships have been virtually at MGM's disposition for the picture. Captain J. J. Cannon, director of flying at four government fields, has been the company's direct contact. For one shot, 210 planes were taken up in training formation. The only charge to MGM comes on conditioning motors of junk planes that are to be crashed.

Rosson gets his first MGM screen credit in the direction of "West Point of the Air." His four months shooting for "Eskimo" in the Arctic, and his Mexican production for "Viva Villa" were anonymous. Previously Rosson held co-direction credits with Howard Hawks on "Today We Live" and "Scarface."

Lichtig & Englander Start Radio Branch

L. Scott Perkins, formerly with NBC, has joined Lichtig & Englander as an associate in charge of the firm's new radio department.

The firm plans to offer screen personalities to the advertising agencies and network executives, with material that will be acceptable to the broadcasters, and also meet the requirements of the studios.

Erskine Caldwell Here

Erskine Caldwell stepped off the train Friday night and reported at MGM Saturday to write dialogue for "A Wicked Woman," on which Florence Ryerson has been preparing the screen play from the Ann Austin novel.

'Navy' Premiere Set

Warners will world premiere "Here Comes the Navy" at Loew's State in Norfolk, West Virginia, starting July 6. It will open there simultaneously with the arrival of the fleet in that city.

'Winning Ticket' for Reisner - Cummings

Chuck Reisner and Jack Cummings will inaugurate their own production office at MGM with "The Winning Ticket," in which Leo Carrillo and Louise Fazenda are co-featured. Miss Fazenda has just returned from Europe with her husband, Hal Wallis, and Carrillo is in New York making personals. Both come to the coast shortly for the Irish sweepstakes comedy.

Reisner will handle direction on the first of the feature comedies he and Cummings produce.

Linnit Here to Close Anglo-American Deals

S. E. Linnit, of the London agency of O'Bryen and Linnit, arrived Saturday in Hollywood for a two-weeks conference with William Hawks and A. George Volck.

Linnit will set matters of policy, since each firm represents the other. He will seek to close a number of deals that are on for local talent to go to London for a picture and for London talent to come to Hollywood.

Batcheller and Cohen Call Off Europe Trip

New York.—George Batcheller and Maury Cohen, heads of the twin producing companies, Chesterfield and Invincible, have called off a trip to Europe and will return this week to Hollywood to start their new program of pictures. They will make 28.

'Hide-Out' on Location

W. S. Van Dyke left Friday night for Santa Cruz with "Hide-Out" principals and production staff for two weeks location work. On his return he is expected to have only a few pick-up shots to make before turning in the picture.

Luci Ward Sells Yarn

Hearst's Cosmopolitan has accepted for publication "Cargo DeLuxe," the first short story by Brooke Nevins, the pen name for Luci Ward, secretary to Ben Markson, Warner writer. Her screen story, "Black Eve," is now being considereded by several studios.

Stone Off on Cruise

Lewis Stone got away Friday in his schooner, Serena, headed for parts unknown. It's the first time he's taken his boat away from San Pedro for over a year. MGM has no definite assignment on the board for him.

MGM Wardrobe Boost

Elaborate costuming called for by "The Merry Widow," "Vanessa" and "David Copperfield" has resulted in swelling MGM's wardrobe department payroll from 85 to 200 checks weekly.

Gene Towne East

Gene Towne left for New York last night to close a picture deal for the Towne-Baker writing team.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Claudia Coleman, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to "Four Walls," MGM.

Brandon Hurst, by Menifee I. Johnstone, to "Have a Heart," MGM.

Eddie Kane for two Radio shorts and Liberty's "School for Girls," by Bernard, Meilklejohn and McCall.

Diana Wilber to two at Goldwyn's, "Kid Millions" and "Barbary Coast."

Margaret Nearing, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to Universal's "Romance in the Rain."

Greta Meyers, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to "Servants' Entrance," Fox.

Evans and Mayer and John Larkin to a Warren Doane short, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall.

Gay Seabrook, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to Warners for a short.

Muriel Evans, Kate Price and Paul Page to "Have a Heart," MGM.

Ben Hewlitt for "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Paramount, by Hallam Cooley.

Dorothy Christy for "Million Dollar Ransom,"Universal, by Hallam Cooley.

Arthur Housman to "Mrs. Wiggs of Cabbage Patch," Paramount.

Clara Lou Sheridan, Gwenllian Gill and Eddie Borden to "You Belong To Me," Paramount.

Akim Tamaroff for "Four Walls," MGM.

Arthur Belasco for "Hide-Out," MGM.

Hughie White for "Million Dollar Ransom," Universal, by Max Shagrin.

Rafael Corio to "Love Flight," Fox, by Hallam Cooley.

Science Interested in Jules Verne Picture

The National Geographic Magazine has notified Phil Goldstone that it wants to send a representative on his "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" production voyage. The California Institute of Technology will also have representatives on Goldstone's boat.

Guilds in Big Air Plan

(Continued from Page 1)

ting a sponsor for the program. They have not troubled much about this as yet, preferring to be sure of their material before they tried to sell it. It is known, however, that they have been negotiating with the Gulf Refining Company and the Lucky Strike people, two of the largest broadcasting sponsors. The broadcast, of course, would be nation-wide over one of the big chains.

The plan at present is to have a minimum of thirteen broadcasts. The material, which will be in dramatic form, will be written by members of the Screen Writers Guild and performed by members of the Screen Actors Guild. It is understood that a large number of the top-notchers in both Guilds have expressed themselves as favoring the plan and as being willing to do all they can to help, either by writing or by acting.

LINCOLN'S PRICE SURPRISE

The new Lincoln V12 is a truly priceless car of precision, of performance and prestige . . . yet its price is surprising. This fine "12" sells for less than mere "8's" of competitive automobile lines.

MADDUX
INCORPORATED
1353 N. VINE
IN HOLLYWOOD
GLADSTONE 5171

BONDED WHISKIES

Aged, bottled in bond Bourbon and Rye Whiskies that were made prior to the prohibition era are becoming scarce. Wholesale prices, in the last ten days, have advanced from $5 to $15 per case. In New York City, brokers report active speculation in such whiskies. Local merchants have already advanced retail prices appreciably.

Vendome offers the finest Bourbon and Rye Whiskies available today in the following three items:

	Pints	Case
"OLD JIM GORE" (Chapin and Gore) (18 year old Bourbon)	$4.50	$100.00
	Fifths
"HIGHSPIRE RYE" (Berry Bros.) (18 year old Rye)	8.50	95.00
"AMERICAN RYE" (Berry Bros.) 1923	6.50	72.00

These three Whiskies are incomparable.

Vendome also has in stock "MELLWOOD," "OLD RAMSHEAD" and CEDAR BROOK" 17-year bonded whiskies of finest quality.

PRICES

Regardless of market conditions, we will not advance our Whiskey prices until present stocks are exhausted.

Items like "Old Jim Gore" and "Highspire," in a few weeks time, will be classed as rarities. It will be many years before comparable Whiskies can be obtained.

On other aged bonded Whiskies we can soon anticipate prices that will be little short of fantastic.

A purchase of any of these Whiskies at our present prices will, very shortly, pay handsome dividends on your investment.

The VENDOME

WINE AND SPIRIT MERCHANTS

6666 Sunset Boulevard HOllywood 1666

PICTURES NOW SHOOTING

PRODUCTION ABOUT THE SAME WITH 38 IN WORK

BAROMETER

This Week	38 Features
Last Week	37 Features
Year Ago	29 Features
Two Years Ago	26 Features
Three Years Ago	31 Features

Columbia

"BROADWAY BILL"

Cast: Warner Baxter, Myrna Loy, Lynne Overman, Douglas Dumbrille, Margaret Hamilton, Raymond Walburn, Clarence Muse, George Cooper, Charles Levison, Charles Wilson, Frankie Darro, Harry Holman, Richard Heming.
Director ..... Frank Capra
Original ..... Mark Hellinger
Screen Play ..... Robert Riskin
Photography ..... Joseph Walker
Sound ..... Edward Bernds
Producer ..... Harry Cohn

"THE CAPTAIN HATES THE SEA"

Cast: John Gilbert, Victor McLaglen, Fred Keating, Wynne Gibson, Alison Skipworth, Florence Rice, Leon Errol, Walter Catlett, John Wray.
Director ..... Lewis Milestone
Novel ..... Wallace Smith
Screen Play: Wallace Smith and Arnold Belgard.
Photography ..... Arthur Edeson
Sound ..... George Cooper
Producer ..... Harry Cohn

"AMONG THE MISSING"

Cast: Richard Cromwell, Billie Seward, Arthur Hohl, Henrietta Crosman, Ivan Simpson.
Director ..... Al Rogell
Original Screen Play: Fred Niblo Jr. and Herbert Asbury.
Photography ..... Joseph August
Sound ..... Glenn Ramminger
Associate Producer ..... Sid Rogell

Fox

"SHE WAS A LADY"

Cast: Helen Twelvetrees, Donald Woods, Ralph Morgan, Paul Harvey, Jackie Searl, Carol Kay, Doris Lloyd, Ann Howard, Monroe Owsley, Harold Goodwin, Barbara Weeks.
Director ..... Hamilton MacFadden
Novel ..... Elisabeth Cobb
Screen Play ..... Gertrude Purcell
Photography ..... Bert Glennon
Sound ..... Don Flick
Producer ..... Al Rockett

"SERVANTS' ENTRANCE"

Cast: Janet Gaynor, Lew Ayres, Walter Connolly, Louise Dresser, G. P. Huntley Jr., Sigfried Rumann, Buster Phelps, Ned Sparks, Katherine Doucet.
Director ..... Frank Lloyd
Novel ..... Sigrid Boo
Screen Play ..... Samson Raphaelson
Photography ..... Hal Mohr
Sound ..... J. E. Aiken
Producer ..... Winfield Sheehan

"JUDGE PRIEST"

Cast: Will Rogers, Brenda Fowler, Rochelle Hudson, Roger Imhoff, Tom Brown, Anita Louise, Frank Melton, Stepin Fetchit, Henry B. Walthall, Berton Churchill, Charles Grapewin, David Landau, Paul McAllister, Matt McHugh, Louis Mason, Hy Meyer, Hattie McDaniels.
Director ..... John Ford
Short Stories ..... Irvin S. Cobb
Screen Play ..... Dudley Nicholls and Lamar Trotti
Photography ..... George Schneiderman
Sound ..... Al Protzman
Producer ..... Sol Wurtzel

"WANTED"

Cast: Rosemary Ames, Russell Hardie, Pert Kelton, Victor Jory, George Irving, Henry B. Walthall.
Director ..... Louis King
Screen Play ..... Lester Cole and Stuart Anthony
Photography ..... L. W. O'Connell
Sound ..... S. C. Chapman
Producer ..... Sol Wurtzel

"SERENADE"

Cast: Pat Patterson, Nils Asther, James Burke, Herbert Mundin, Harry Green, Joseph Cawthorne, Henry B. Walthall.
Director ..... James Tinling
Story ..... Richard Carroll
Screen Play ..... Lynn Starling
Photography ..... Ernest Miller
Sound ..... George Leverett
Producer ..... John Stone

MGM

"BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET"

Cast: Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Sullivan, Ferdinand Munier, Katharine Alexander, Marion Clayton, Ian Woolf, Una O'Connor, Vernon Downing, Neville Clark, Matthew Smith, Robert Carlton, Allan Conrad, Peter Hobbes, Ralph Forbes, Lowden Adams, Leo G. Carroll.
Director ..... Sidney Franklin
From play by ..... Rudolf Besier
Screen Play ..... Claudine West and Ernest Vajda
Add. Dialogue ..... Donald Ogden Stewart
Photography ..... William Daniels
Producer ..... Irving Thalberg

"THE MERRY WIDOW"

Cast: Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Minna Gombell, Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, Barbara Leonard, Sterling Holloway, George Barbier, Joan Gale, Sheila Manora, Leona Walters, Edna Walde, Barbara Barondess, Shirley Ross, Dorothy Granger, Jean Hart, Elinor Hunt, Dorothy Wilson, Jill Dennett, Maria Troubetylcoy, Tyler Brooke, Cosmo Kyrle Bellew, George Lewis, John Merkyl, Charles Requa, Fifi D'Orsay, Dewey Robinson.
Director ..... Ernst Lubitsch
Original Operetta ..... Franz Lehar
Screen Play ..... Ernest Vajda and Samson Raphaelson
Dance Director ..... Albertina Rasch
Photography ..... Oliver Marsh
Producer ..... Irving Thalberg

"SACRED AND PROFANE LOVE"

Cast: Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Otto Kruger, Stuart Erwin, Una O'Connor, Marjorie Gateson, Akim Tamiroff, Paul Porcasi.
Director ..... Clarence Brown
Original ..... Edgar Selwyn
Screen Play ..... John Lee Mahin
Photography ..... George Folsey
Producer ..... Hunt Stromberg

"THE STUDENT TOUR"

Chast: Charles Butterworth, Jimmy Durante, Phil Regan, Maxine Doyle, Florinne McKinney, Monte Blue, Dewey Robinson, Doug Fowley, Mary Loos.
Director ..... Charles F. Reisner
Original Screen Play: Arthur Bloch and George Seaton.
Adaptation ..... Philip Dunne
Dialogue ..... Ralph Spence
Photography ..... Joseph Valentine
Producer ..... Monta Bell

"THE HIDE-OUT"

Cast: Robert Montgomery, Muriel Evans, Ed Brophy, Mickey Rooney, Louise Henry, Maureen O'Sullavan, Edward Arnold, Elizabeth Patterson, Whitford Kane.
Director ..... W. S. Van Dyke
Original ..... Mauri Grashin
Screen Play ..... Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich
Dance Numbers ..... Arthur Appel and Chester Hale
Photography ..... Ray June
Producer ..... Hunt Stromberg

"FOUR WALLS"

Cast: Franchot Tone, Karen Morley, Gladys George, Henry Wadsworth, Jack LaRue, C. Henry Gordon, Nat Pendleton, May Robson, Akim Tamiroff.
Director ..... Paul Sloane
Play ..... Dana Burnet and George Abbott
Screen Play ..... Bernard Schubert
Photography ..... Lucien Andriot
Producer ..... Lucien Hubbard

"HAVE A HEART"

Cast: Jean Parker, Una Merkel, Stuart Erwin, James Dunn.
Director ..... David Butler
Original ..... David Butler and B. G. DeSylva
Dialogue and Continuity: Florence Ryerson and Edgar Allan Woolf.
Photography ..... James Wong Howe
Producer ..... John Considine

Paramount

"NOW AND FOREVER"

Cast: Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard, Shirley Temple, Sir Guy Standing, Charlotte Granville, Tetsu Komai, Jameson Thomas, Gilbert Emery, Henry Kolker, Harry Stubbs, Egon Brecher, Buster Phelps.
Director ..... Henry Hathaway
Original: Jack Kirkland and Melville Baker.
Adaptation ..... Austin Parker
Screen Play: Vincent Lawrence and Sylvia Thalberg.
Music ..... Harry Revel
Lyrics ..... Mack Gordon
Photography ..... Harry Fischbeck
Sound ..... Harry Lewis
Producer ..... Louis D. Lighton

"YOU BELONG TO ME"

Cast: Lee Tracy, Helen Mack, Arthur Pierson, David Jack Holt, Lynne Overman, Helen Morgan.
Driector ..... Alfred Werker
Original ..... Elizabeth Alexander
Adaptation: Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt.
Screen Play: Lynn Starling and Harry Ruskin.
Photography ..... Leo Tover
Producer ..... Louis D. Lighton

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"

Cast: Pauline Lord, W. C. Fields, Zasu Pitts, Jimmy Butler, George Breakstone, Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Edyth Fellows, Verginia Weidler, Carmencita Johnson, Donald Meek, Charles Middleton.
Director ..... Norman Taurog
Original ..... Alice Hegan Rice
Screen Play: William Slavens McNutt and Jane Storm.
Photography ..... Charles Lang
Sound ..... Eugene Merritt
Producer ..... Douglas MacLean

RKO-Radio

"THE FOUNTAIN"

Cast: Ann Harding, Brian Aherne, Violet Kemble-Cooper, Paul Lukas, Jean Hersholt, Ralph Forbes, Sara Haden.
Director ..... John Cromwell
Story ..... Charles Morgan
Screen Play ..... Jane Murfin
Photography ..... James Van Trees
Sound ..... Clem Portman
Producer ..... Pandro S. Berman

"AGE OF INNOCENCE"

Cast: Irene Dunne, John Boles, Julie Hayden, Wesley Barry, Laura Hope Crews.
Director ..... Philip Moeller
Novel ..... Edith Wharton
Play ..... Margaret Ayer Barnes
Screen Play ..... Sarah Y. Mason and Victor Heerman
Photography ..... Henry Gerrard
Sound ..... John Cass
Producer ..... Pandro S. Berman

PICTURES Now SHOOTING

THIS WEEK AS COMPARED WITH 37 LAST WEEK

United Artists

Samuel Goldwyn

"WE LIVE AGAIN"

Cast: Anna Sten, Fredric March, Gwendolin Logan, C. Aubrey Smith, Jessie Ralph, Jane Baxter, Ethel Griffies.
Director .....Rouben Mamoulian
Based on Novel by.....Leo Tolstoi
Screen Play ..... Leonard Praskins
Photography .....Gregg Toland

Reliance Pictures, Inc.

'COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO"

Cast: Robert Donat, Elissa Landi, Louis Calhern, Sidney Blackmer, O. P. Heggie, Raymond Walburn, Lawrence Grant, Luis Alberni, Georgia Caine, Irene Hervey, Douglas Walton, Ferdinand Munier, Lionel Belmore, William Farnum, Wilfred Lucas, Clarence Wilson, Tom Rickerrs, Clarence Muse, Helen Freeman, Holmes Herbert, Eleanor Phelps, Alphonse Martell, Russell Powell, Juliette Compton, Walter Walker, Paul Irving, Wallace Albright, Edward Keene, Mitchell Lewis.
Director.....Rowland V. Lee
Original .....Alexandre Dumas
Screen Play and Dialogue: Philip Dunne, Dan Totheroh and Rowland V. Lee.
Photography .....Peverell Marley
Producer .....Edward Small

"TRANS-ATLANTIC MERRY-GO-ROUND"

Cast: Jack Benny, Nancy Carroll, Gene Raymond, Sydney Howard, Sid Silvers, Sidney Blackmer, Ralph Morgan, Shirley Grey, Patsy Kelly, Frank Parker, Jean Sargent, Robert Elliott, William (Stage) Boyd, Sam Hardy, Carlye Moore, Wallis Clark, Esther Howard.
Director ..... Benjamin Stoloff
Original .....Leon Gordon
Additional Dialogue: Joseph Moncure March.
Comedy Dialogue.....Harry W. Conn
Music .....Richard A. Whiting
Lyrics .....Sidney Clare
Dance Direction.....Larry Ceballos
Photography .....Teddy Tetzlaff
Producer.....Edward Small

Universal

"ONE MORE RIVER"

Cast: Diana Wynyard, Frank Lawton, Colin Clive, Henry Stephenson, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Jane Wyatt, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny, Kathleen Howard, Lionel Atwill, Alan Mowbray, Gilbert Emery, E. E. Clive, Robert Greig, Gunnis Davis, Tempe Pigott.
Director .....James Whale
Story .....John Galsworthy
Screen Play.....R. C. Sherriff
Photography .....John Mescal
Producer .....Carl Laemmle, Jr.

"ROMANCE IN THE RAIN"

Cast: Roger Pryor, Heather Angel, Victor Moore, Phillip Reed, Ruth Donnelly, Marjorie Davidson, Esther Ralston.
Director .....Stuart Walker
Story .....Jay Gorney and Sig Hergiz
Screen Play.....Barry Trivers
Additional Dialogue.....John Weaver
Music.....Jay Gorney
Lyrics .....Don Hartman
Photography .....Charles Stumar
Producer .....Stanley Bergerman

"THE HUMAN SIDE"

Cast: Adolphe Menjou, Doris Kenyon, Dickie Moore, Reginald Owen, Betty Lawford, Charlotte Henry, Joseph Cawthorn.
Director .....Edward Buzzell
Play .....Christine Ames
Screen Play: Ernest Pascal, Nat Ferber and Rian James.
Photography.....Norbert Brodine
Associate Producer.....Eph Asher

"MILLION DOLLAR RANSOM"

Cast: Edward Arnold, Marjorie Gateson, Wini Shaw, Robert Gleckler, Bradley Page, Edgar Norton, Hughie White, Phillips Holmes, Mary Carlisle.
Director .....Murray Roth
Story .....Damon Runyon
Screen Play.....William Lipman
Photography .....George Robinson
Associate Producer.....Eph Asher

Warners-First National

"DAMES"

Cast: Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Virginia Pine, Ronny Cosby, Zasu Pitts, Bess Flowers, Pat O'Malley, Mary McLaren, Johnny Arthur, Arthur Vinton, Hobart Cavanaugh, Arthur Aylesworth, Leila Bennett, Phil Regan.
Directors.....Ray Enright and Busby Berkeley
Original .....Robert Lord
Screen Play.....Delmer Daves
Music and Lyrics: Harry Warren, Al Dubin, Sammy Fain, Irving Kahal, Mort Dixon, Allie Rubel.
Photography .....George Barnes
Supervisor .....Robert Lord

"FLIRTATION WALK"

Cast: Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Pat O'Brien, John Eldredge, Ross Alexander, Guinn Williams, Henry O'Neill, Glenn Boles, John Arledge.
Director .....Frank Borzage
Story .....Delmar Daves and Lou Edelman
Screen Play.....Delmar Daves
Dance Director.....Bobby Connelly
Musical Numbers.....Mort Dixon and Allie Wrubel
Photography .....Sol Polito
Supervisor .....Robert Lord

"A LOST LADY"

Cast: Barbara Stanwyck, Ricardo Cortez, Frank Morgan, Rafaelo Ottiano, Phillip Reed, Henry Kolker, Willie Fung, Hobart Cavanaugh, Walter Walker, Edward McWade, Samuel Hinds, Lyle Talbot.
Director.....Alfred E. Green
Novel .....Willa Cather
Screen Play.....Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola
Photography .....Sid Hickox
Supervisor .....James Seymour

"A LADY SURRENDERS"

Cast: Jean Muir, George Brent, Veree Teasdale, Arthur Aylesworth, Joan Wheeler, Pauline True, Charles Starrett, Nella Walker.
Director .....Archie Mayo
Story and Screen Play..Mary McCall Jr.
Photography .....Ernest Haller
Supervisor .....Edward Chodorov

"CASE OF THE HOWLING DOG"

Cast: Warren William, Mary Astor, Helen Trenholme, Dorothy Tree, Gordon Westcott, Allen Jenkins, Russell Hicks, Helen Lowell, Harry Tyler, Eddie Schubert, James Burtis, Frank Reicher, Harry Seymour.
Oirector .....Alan Crosland
Story .....Erle Stanley Gardner
Screen Play.....Ben Markson
Photography .....William Rees
Supervisor .....Sam Bischoff

"BIG HEARTED HERBERT"

Cast: Guy Kibbee, Aline MacMahon, Patricia Ellis, Phillip Reed, Helen Lowell, Junior Durkin, Mickey Rooney.
Director .....William Keighley
Story .....Sophie Kerr
Play: Sophie Kerr and Anna Steese Richardson.
Screen Play: Lillie Hayward and Delmer Daves.
Photography .....Arthur Todd
Supervisor .....James Seymour

Independent Productions

Liberty

(Pathe)

"SCHOOL FOR GIRLS"

Cast: Sidney Fox, Paul Kelly, Lona Andre, Dorothy Lee, Kathleen Burke, Toby Wing, Lois Wilson, Russell Hopton, Dorothy Appelby, Joyce Compton, Lucille LaVerne, Anna Q. Nillson, Charlie Ray, Mary Forbes.
Director .....William Nigh
Novel.....Reginald Wright Kauffman
Screen Play.....Albert DeMond
Photography .....Harry Neumann
Producer .....M. H. Hoffman

Majestic

(Darmour and Talisman)

"SHE HAD TO CHOOSE"

Cast: Isabel Jewell, Buster Crabbe, Regis Toomey, Sally Blane, Huntley Gordon, Wallis Clark, Matt McHugh, Fuzzy Knight, Maidel Turner, Kenneth Howell, Jules Cowles, Arthur Stone.
Director .....Ralph Ceder
Story.....Mann Page, Izola Foster
Screen Play.....Houston Branch
Photography.....James Brown Jr.
Producer .....Larry Darmour

Mascot

(Mack Sennett)

"THE LAW OF THE WILD"

(Serial)

Cast: Rex, Rin-Tin-Tin, Jr., Ben Turpin, Bob Custer, Lucile Browne, Richard Cramer, Ernie Adams, Charles Whittaker, Jack Rockwell, Dick Alexander, Edmund Cobb.
Directors: Breezy Eason and Armand Schaefer.
Original Story .....Ford Beebe
Adaptation: John Rathmell and Al Martin.
Continuity: Sherman Lowe and B. Reeves Eason.
Photography .....Ernie Miller
Producer .....Vic Zobel

Sol Lesser

(Pathe)

"PECK'S BAD BOY"

Cast: Jackie Cooper, Jackie Searl, Thomas Meighan, Dorothy Peterson, O. P. Heggie.
Director .....Eddie Cline
Novel .....George W. Peck
Screen Play.....Bernard Schubert and Marguerite Roberts
Photography .....Frank Good
Producer .....Sol Lesser
Music .....Hugo Reisenfeld

Supreme

(Talisman)

"DEMON FOR TROUBLE"

Cast: Bob Steele, Nick Stuart, Gloria Shea, Don Alvarado, Walter McGrail, Carmen LaRoux, Lafe McKee.
Director .....Robert Hill
Original Screen Play.....Jack Natteford
Photography .....Bill Thompson
Producer .....Sam Katzman

WHAT'S WHAT

BRULATOUR BULLETIN

WHO'S WHO

Published Every Monday — J. E. BRULATOUR, Inc., Distributors — Eastman Motion Picture Films

the REFLECTOR

Public speakers usually bore us to tears . . . but at the Biltmore t'other night one of the boys slipped us a nifty. . . . He'd just referred to an eastern metropolis as "The City That Lives by the Forge" . . . 'nd a coupla minutes later (talkin' about Hollywood) he called our village . . . "The City That Lives by the Camera." . . . Righto . . . and all that sort of thing . . . BY THE CAMERA . . . yessir . . . NOT by the story (mind you) . . . not by the star . . . not by the cast . . . the sets . . . and how this old boy did emphasize CAMERA . . . he might have been spotted into this program by a joint committee from 659 and ASC . . . but there was no doubt in the mind of anyone in that great room . . . the CAMERA is plenty important to Hollywood and the M. P. Industry. . . . We've made up our mind to look him up (this speaker) next time he comes over (from England) and see if we can sell him an idea on sayin' a few words about WHAT goes through the camera.

•

And—speaking of The Camera—it's been our privilege to sit in on a couple of conventions of the biggies of the business during the past week. One top exec (addressing the exhibs) declared . . . "and we are giving thought and time and attention to the photography of every picture . . . be it a super feature or a short . . . there's no excuse for a single scene being badly photographed . . . that's why we've engaged the best cameramen in the business and also that explains why our laboratory is supervised as rigidly as our treasury . . . and, I assure you, that's some supervision." . . Encouraging!

•

Henry Gerrard, a tennis devotee, figured he got a great break when the picture he's now on called for several days' work on a tennis court. But—on the days scheduled to shoot—no sun. Now Henry's afraid they'll change to a ping pong game at the studio. . . Theodor Sparkuhl all fini at Fox and back home to Paramount. . . . Jimmy Howe will help Dave Butler make a grand picture of "Have a Heart"—both formerly of Fox—now MGMers. . . . Bob Planck and Jack Mackenzie both taking a breather at Monogram but both starting again any second. . . . Ollie Marsh about to kiss "The Merry Widow" good-bye. . . . Milt Krasner finished his first at MGM plenty under the gun—and they like him out Culver City way. . . . Jimmy Van Trees will sign a new contract with another big studio next week. . . . Little Eddie Buzzell has little Norb Brodine as his picture-taker on "The Human Side" at Universal. . . . Heavy dough for George Robinson—he's off on "Ransom, $1,000,000" also at Universal.

Portland Pleased

John Boyle is playing Portland, Oregon, with his Swedish production, and has been received warmly by the Oregonians. The picture has been playing to capacity business and the reviews are most flattering. Boyle has spoken before several civic and art groups, and his remarks were widely quoted in the Portland newspapers.

CO-OPERATION

On an evening late in past week we had a pleasant experience and learned a valuable lesson.

We were invited to attend an informal dinner at one of the major studios, and found in the dining room a number of front office executives, all of the cameramen who were not actually in production, the top bosses of the laboratory and sound departments respectively, other associated technicians of laboratory, sound and camera departments.

Following dinner a general discussion was launched. They talked about every day production problems, each man fearlessly and quite frankly expressing his own views and attitude. When there was a disagreement it was an emphatic one. On the other hand, there was a delightful absence of opinionated views or of stubbornness. If SUCH and SUCH was the answer to SO and SO, THAT was THAT!

Intensely interested, we inquired and found that these little group affairs are held here at no stated times; always informal; and they just happen whenever the department heads and technicians feel they can get together, and, gentleman, THEY GET TOGETHER!

Our host—Fox Movietone Studios.

Mileage

Ever watch a traffic manager of a big corporation doing his stuff? A peep inside Johnny Arnold's office at M. G. M. will bring recollections if you have. Head of the Metro camera department has plenty to do keeping track of his transient photographers. Last week Len Smith laid aside his dark glasses, brushed the bright light of Broadway out of his eyes, and followed the rails on his next assignment to St. Louis for special background shots, "Death on the Diamond."

Paul Vogel was picked up by one of Arnold's wires somewhere in Texas and re-routed to join the Big Moose in St. Louis. Clyde DeVinna radios first report on long jump to Indo-China, giving special information on shots turned at sea.

Mike's 'Minnie' Lab

Mike McGreal, Warner Bros. camera department chief, is installing at the Burbank plant, adjoining the loading room, a miniature laboratory where tests can be immediately developed . . . big sets . . . special effects . . . spectacular night scenes.

Tests will be developed, an enlargement made, which can be shown to the director within thirty minutes after the test has been shot. Cameramen and directors, who have been informed of the new departure, are naturally most enthusiastic. It is an intelligent move, promising tremendous values in return.

Rosson Improving

Flash report tells us Hal will be back with his friends in a few weeks. Swell news.

Martinelli To Fox

Arthur Martinelli has been called by the Fox Studios, where he will be in charge of the photography of "Love Flight," an original to be made entirely in Spanish under the direction of Frank Strayer. Martinelli's photography in a number of mystery stories has established him as a clever master of the camera. His effect shots are spectacular and have contributed much to the mood of the pictures with which he has been recently associated.

Polito Returns

Back to the Warner lot in Burbank comes Sol Polito from West Point, where he has been giving plenty footage a ride through his battery of cameras during photography of the Frank Borzage production, "Flirtation Walk." Polito is profuse in his expression of appreciation for the splendid cooperation given to him by eastern cameramen and other technicians.

Gordon Jennings Casting

Casting . . . . Not in the sense in which the word is commonly used in Hollywood, but with the delicate, sensitive, high-powered split bamboo fly rod and silken line . . . . high in the Sierras and beyond to the Jackson Hole country, and up into the Utah streams and lakes, which will keep him away from his other tricks and effects for at least three weeks.

Mellor's Number Two

Bill Mellor, who was recently elevated to first cameraman at Paramount, has completed his first picture, and has started on "Wagon Wheels."

BACKGROUND SHOTS

Henry Sharp, Cinematographer

Born in Los Angeles; started as assistant with Thomas Dixon at Sunset and Western in "The Fall of a Nation." First picture, 1920, Thomas Ince, "Homespun Folks." With Ince seven years; photographed original version of "Anna Christie." About 1922 photographed "Lorna Doone" with Maurice Tourneur.

1927 with Doug Fairbanks photographed "Don Q," "Son of Zorro" and "Black Pirate."

Then Metro-Goldwyn for three years, first picture being "The Mysterious Island," photographed 100 per cent in color. Also photographed King Vidor picture, "The Crowd." Returned to Doug Fairbanks for "The Iron Mask"; then to MGM for some of Lon Chaney's pictures.

In 1931 went 'round the world with Douglas Fairbanks.

For the past few years with Paramount. His last four pictures are "Ladies Should Listen," "Many Happy Returns," "Melody in Spring" and "Alice In Wonderland."

the BUZZER

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION: HOW DO YOU PREFER TO SHOOT NIGHT EFFECTS?

THEODOR SPARKUHL (Paramount): Where there are no sets or buildings which call for artificial lights I always prefer to make my night scenes in the daytime.

ARTIE MILLER (Fox): Whenever possible I like to shoot my exterior night scenes in the daytime, as a properly filtered and exposed sunlit exterior gives a moonlit effect that can be achieved in no other way.

MERRITT GERSTAD (Unievrsal): If out in the country where there are no artificial lights, such as auto, window or street lamps burning, then I would prefer shooting night effects in the daytime with filters. According to the prevailing light conditions, I would use either a 72 or a 70, a combination of 23A and 56, a 23A or a 21. There are other minor filters used in combination with the neutrals which I have used with excellent results for closer shots. Of course a proper balance of diffusion has to be obtained for each and every separate filter correction to overcome certain harshness.

CHARLES LANG (Paramount): If it is possible to play the scenes where the sunlight is fairly strong and well broken up by trees and foliage I much prefer making night shots in the daytime. If the landscape is flat and uninteresting I would rather make the night shots with lights. Of course nothing can replace the sun's single source for proper moonlight effects.

ERNIE HALLER (Warner Bros.) At night, if a definite source of light is shown, such as streets, windows, etc.; but if out in the desert or country I prefer to shoot night scenes in the daytime with filters, which filters are governed by the time of day, for the long shots 72 or 70, or the combinations; but on close-ups in the shade I use a 23A.

LOU O'COONNELL (Fox): My decision would be affected mostly by the character of the scenes. Intimate close-ups and small exterior sets can perhaps be handled best under lights. It should be remembered that highly colored costumes worn in heavily filtered night scenes may not appear the same when photographed inside under lights.

JIM BROWN (Darmour): On "The Scarlet Letter" just completed, in the town square sequence, photographed in the daytime in Laurel Canyon, on the long shots I used a combination 23A and 56B. On the closer shots a 5N5. Finally, at the end of the day, no filters at dusk.

SID HICKOX (Warner Bros.): I prefer to shoot night scenes at night, but when compelled to shoot night in the daytime, if necessary to pull down a sky, a 72 is very satisfactory. If not necessary to show sky I prefer 5N5. Changing light conditions, however, may make it necessary to use others, but our lab always helps us out on these special sequences. "Let Gage Worry."

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER STUDIOS,
% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 41. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Tuesday, June 26, 1934

N. Y. BANS WEST PICTURE

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•IT is sincerely to be hoped that, as a result of the campaign that is being waged for a "wholesome screen," the wholesomeness will not be overdone. There isn't the slightest doubt that the producers are quite a bit nervous over conditions. That is putting it mildly.

Of course, they can't be blamed for feeling the way they do. When organizations representing millions of potential customers flatly threaten a boycott unless a different type of pictures is produced, there would naturally be a lot of scurrying around to find material that will not offend.

The action of the New York State Board of Regents in barring the Mae West picture from that state because of its possible effect on the youthful mind was a heavy blow, not only to Paramount, but to the whole industry. No more effective argument could be advanced by the reform element than that the morals and characters of children were being endangered. Such a statement would naturally arouse the mothers of the nation, and mothers can make an awful lot of trouble when they start.

•

But, please, Mr. Producer, don't go too far on the wholesomeness idea. Even admitting that some pictures have been somewhat too "colorful," it is going to be a terrible thing if all of them suddenly become only sweetness and light. Love, sex, passion and other elements are needed for drama and the test for the producers will come not so much in the selection of the elements, as in the handling. Handled with wisdom, with restraint and still with showmanship, there is no reason why stirring dramatic pictures cannot be made. It will take care. Supervisors can no longer say: "This story is okay, but let's dirty it up," as has been the case in the past more than once.

•

But one danger is that, cowed by the growth of the reform wave, the producers will become too mild. We don't believe that the girls of today read "Elsie Dinsmore" or "Pollyanna," nor that the boys read the "Rollo" books. It is to be hoped that the attempt to "clean up" pictures will not reach that stage. The kids of today are not the kids of a few decades ago and, while it may be true that some

(Continued on Page 2)

Para. Stockholders Face $2 Assessment

New York.—Holders of Paramount stock face an assessment of $2 on each share under the reorganization plan being prepared by Kuhn, Loeb & Company, to create a fund to be used to retire the company's bank loans.

Lachman To Direct 'Inferno' For Fox

Definite decision was made by Fox yesterday to produce Dante's "Inferno." It is to be made as a big special, and Sol Wurtzel will produce it at the Western avenue studios.

Harry Lachman was selected yesterday as the director, and will immediately begin looking for a big name cast. Rose Franken and Phil Klein are doing the screen play. No date has been set for the start of production, but work will begin at once on the many unusual settings to be used.

New Darrow Slam at Pictures Is Expected

Washington.—The third report of Clarence Darrow's committee will be made public some time this week.

It is understood that Darrow is taking another heavy punch at the motion picture industry in this document.

R. W. Saunders Funeral

New York.—The funeral of Richard W. Saunders, formerly comptroller of Paramount, who died Sunday, was held yesterday in this city. He was about 68 years old.

Regents Turn Thumbs Down On "It Ain't No Sin" — Para. Will Change And Re-submit

The New York State Board of Regents, the supreme court of the state's educational system under which the Board of Censors operates, yesterday banned the Mae West picture, "It Ain't No Sin." Paramount last night could not or would not give out any detailed reasons, but said that up to Saturday the only objection had been to the title.

New York has always been rather lenient in censorship matters and it is felt that this latest action is due to the reform wave that is sweeping the country against questionable pictures. It follows on the heels of the declaration made to Will Hays last week by Dr. Harold Campbell, superintendent of the New York City schools, that the educational authorities would not permit the characters

(Continued on Page 4)

Andrews Aide to Cukor On 'David Copperfield'

MGM yesterday signed Del Andrews as assistant director on "David Copperfield," which George Cukor directs and David Selznick produces.

The picture will go before the cameras in three weeks under present plans.

Edwin Loeb Returns

Edwin Loeb returned to the legal office of Loeb, Walker and Loeb yesterday from Rochester, Minn., where he has spent the past few weeks at the Mayo Brothers' clinic in an effort to cure sinus.

Korda Asking Bids For 'Nijinski' Play

John Wildberg, New York attorney who arrived here from the East Sunday for a ten-days visit in the interests of several film clients, has been commissioned to negotiate the sale of Alexander Korda's rights in the play, "Nijinski," to a Hollywood producer.

This does not mean that Korda has abandoned the idea of making the picture in England, according to Wildberg, but that he will produce it there if he cannot get agreeable terms for its sale here. Korda owns the screen rights to the Romola Nijinski biography and is having Melchior Lengyel handle the screen play.

Margaret Lindsay To Be Starred by Warners

Warners plan an immediate stellar build-up for Margaret Lindsay, starting in the bracket with James Cagney in "Gentlemen Are Born," which Mervyn LeRoy is preparing for a production start next week.

Her work in "Fog Over Frisco" and "Dragon Murder Case" clinched her for stardom with Jack Warner.

Rogers and Paul East

Charles R. Rogers and Val Paul leave Friday with their families on a month's vacation from Paramount. They go by boat to New York and Boston before returning here.

Uncle Carl at Carlsbad

London.—This is last call before returning to America for Carl Laemmle Sr., who, after attending Universal's continental sales convention in Paris, went on to Carlsbad for his vacation.

Hal Roach in New York

New York.—Hal Roach arrived here yesterday for conferences with Felix Feist and other MGM executives on production plans. Roach will produce 32 two-reelers.

BRITISH PICS ON WAY TO TOP, ASSERTS WILCOX

New York.—Herbert Wilcox, production head of British and Dominions, believes that British pictures have at last broken down the barrier that has stood between them and the American theatres and that this coming year they will take their place in the sun of United States favor.

Mr. Wilcox, whose company produced "Nell Gwyn," brought a print of that picture to this country and will trade show it at the Astor Theatre on July 10. This picture is one of the reasons for his optimism about

(Continued on Page 4)

Bette Davis Suspended By Warner Brothers

Bette Davis has walked off the Warner lot and was placed on the suspended list by the studio, which notified all other studios by letter that the option on her services was being exercised for another period and that she cannot work for any other organization.

The situation arose from her refusal to accept the leading role in "Case of the Howling Dog." Warners replaced her with Helen Trenholme.

HARRY LACHMAN directed "BABY TAKE A BOW"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Everyone who has seen her tests on the MGM lot will tell you that Mady Christians is going to be a sanzation! . . . Jack Kirkland got himself a black eye defending a woman's honor over the week-end. . . . Kay Francis and some of the N'Yawk camera boys got into a tiff on the dock when she sailed —Kay was willing to pose—but didn't want to be snapped unawares. . . . . Don't blame her—it's the ones who "dodge" the photographers (but not quite!) who always manage to have those Godawful pictures of themselves get into print! . . . . Charles Vidor used to sing basso with a Wagnerian opera company—he gave it up when he discovered that a basso could never be a hero in the show!

•

The Charles Laughtons, back in town from Yosemite—their first trip in the U.S.A. . . . Minna Wallis here too, with the Hal Wallises. . . . Winston Guest, "ace" polo player, with his bride, house-guesting at the Don Stewarts. . . . David Selznick sick abed —and can't even complain because he's lost his voice! . . . Frank Morgan off for a five-day vacation on his yacht. . . . D'you know what newly-wed agent is so happee that he is now trying to marry off all his wife's girl friends to his various and sundry pals? . . . The Sam Jaffes, Al Hall, Lola Lane, Marc Connolly, Arthur Hornblow with Myrna Loy, Virginia Bruce, the Bert Kalmars, among the diners at Harry Ruby's Satiddy night.

•

Jean Muir is determined to play Joan of Arc—but got a terrific ribbing from a visiting N.Y. producer about it the other day. . . . Charles Brackett, with a mattress, and Gene Markey, in a bathrobe, strolling the Paramount lot—honest! . . Veree Teasdale working with a nurse by her side after a bad case of flu. . . . Ernst Lubitsch lunched his first guests Sunday—and everybody raved about the house, furbished by Harold Grieve. . . . Clark Gable won a medal (a gold one!) skeet-shooting Sunday. . . . . Dmitri Tiomkin must wear his hands bandaged for many weeks more—but how can he talk??

New York REVIEWS

"LET'S TALK IT OVER"
Universal prod.; director, Kurt Neumann; writers, Dore Schary, Lewis Foster, John Meehan Jr.
Roxy Theatre

World-Telegram: A generally feeble and uninteresting variation of the Pygmalion theme, made more so in this instance by some incredible stale situations and a commonplace dialogue. Such stories have been the backbone of program pictures for years and, while they may fill a certain niche in the scheme of cinema entertainment, they are only diverting when their treatment is fresh and imaginative and their dialogue and situations brisk and light-hearted.

Journal: It looks from here as though we'll have a Summer of movies about sailors. Anyway, the first of this minor cycle is now on display at the Roxy Theatre under the title of "Let's Talk It Over." You won't have much difficulty in anticipating the plot as it goes along.

Mirror: Once more the talented Mae Clarke makes a fairly entertaining movie with threadbare material. "Let's Talk It Over" is unworthy of her, as it is unworthy of Chester Morris. But the two play with such conviction, they gloss over the feeble spots in their material and make the film fairly interesting.

Times: The Roxy's latest screen offering is a negligible pictorial story. It is the sort of yarn which is long on action and short on plausibility, an extravagant piece of work which becomes not a little wearisome when it takes itself too seriously.

News: Dore Schary and Lewis Foster, authors of "Let's Talk It Over," should have devoted a little of their time to talking it all over before they wrote their story and decided whether or not they were writing a comedy or a melodrama. Instead they switched from one mood to the other without warning and evolved something that is hard to classify.

American: Chester Morris, who has been absent from the local screens for too long is in the comedy called "Let's Talk It Over." This time he is a very tough and very difficult sailor but, withal, a veritable diamond in the rough.

Sun: A lively, exaggerated romantic comedy. A light, restrained direction and some equally deft performances have made the little comedy surprisingly credible. It is light but entertaining Summer fare.

Herald-Tribune: Perhaps such effort as was put into this production seems a bit futile for the juvenile results, but that is strictly up to the spectator. The piece has been directed with sympathy and earnestness.

Post: "Let's Talk It Over" is a mess. It takes a hackneyed story, which is no crime in itself, and handles it about as badly as it has ever been handled before, which is something of a trick. It will undoubtedly help business in all the bars around the theatre.

Wyckoff Again Named To Head Cameramen

The cameramen's union has nominated Alvin Wyckoff for another term as president of Local 659. As there were no other nominees, this assures Wyckoff of re-election for his fourth term. He has headed the union ever since it was organized.

Other nominations were: For vice-presidents, Roy Klaffki, Hal Mohr, Jack Mackenzie; recording secretary, H. L. Broening; financial secretary, J. O. Taylor; sergeant-at-arms, Len Powers; trustees, Dewey Wrigley, Gus Peterson, Rolla Flora.

Hoffman Quits Col.

John Hoffman resigned as special effects technician at Columbia yesterday, a spot that had been created for him. He last worked on "Whom the Gods Destroy" and quit because he felt the urge. He came into pictures as a protege of Slavko Vorkapich.

New Play For Biltmore

Henry Guttman has leased the Biltmore Theatre and places his play, "Soviet Princess," into rehearsal July 6. Edgar MacGregor will stage it. Nina Wilcox Putnam and Guttman made the dramatization from a Russian play.

Ray Fernstrom Back

Ray Fernstrom has returned from a three-months trip, during which he photographed a series of Fitzpatrick Traveltalks in Technicolor's new three-color process. They were made in Holland, France, Switzerland and Ireland.

Shirley Changes Agents

Shirley Temple yesterday signed a managerial contract with Bern Bernard, of the Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall agency, and at the same time obtained a release from O'Reilly and Mann, her former agents.

OPEN FORUM

The Hollywood Reporter:

In your issue of June 23, you carried a story with the headline "Del Rio Plans Own Clean-Up Campaign," in which I was reported to be somewhat upset at hot elements in "In Caliente," my next picture for Warner Bros. The article further stated that I was on the point of inaugurating a one-woman picture clean-up campaign.

The story is without foundation. I haven't even seen the script.

Would very much appreciate your making this clear in your paper.

DOLORES DEL RIO.

Goldwyn Will Alter 'Nana' If Repaid

Paris.—The Zola heirs, who recently sued Sam Goldwyn and United Artists for alleged changes in Zola's novel, "Nana," have withdrawn their suit, but both Goldwyn and United Artists are clamoring to have it tried unless the heirs return the 200,000 francs Goldwyn paid them for the picture rights to the book.

Goldwyn's attorney declared that, for the 200,000 francs he secured the right to make any changes in the story he desired. He and United Artists are understood to be willing to change the title and omit Zola's name if they get their money back. Otherwise, nothing doing.

Mayer Luncheon Host

With screen players, local newspaper publishers and representatives of the French government as guests, Louis B. Mayer yesterday tendered a luncheon to Emile Schreiber, noted French economist and publisher, and his wife, at MGM. The visitors leave today by plane for San Francisco.

Dickson Morgan at Col.

Columbia yesterday signed Dickson Morgan to act as dialogue director on "Among the Missing," which Al Rogell handles. Richard Cromwell, Billie Seward and Henrietta Crosman have the top spots.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

pictures have been a bit too strong, the modern youth isn't going to be harmed by commonsense treatments of dramatic themes, nor is he going to be willing to subsist on milk and water for his picture diet.

SCREEN WRITERS RALLYING TO AID OF THE INDUSTRY

Offer Hays Help In Propaganda Work

Hollywood's creative talent is rallying to the support of the industry in an effort to thwart the censorship danger that the present church drive against pictures is creating.

It was learned yesterday that the Screen Writers' Guild is planning to take an active part, and one of the first things Will Hays will do when he arrives here shortly will be to get into a huddle with Ralph Block, president of the Guild.

Members of the Guild have been discussing the dangers to the business that the present agitation is building up. With so many nationally known writers on the rolls, it was felt that these men should be able to do much to spread the real truth about Hollywood through the pages of the various publications to which they contribute.

Block recently contacted an executive of the Hays' organization and suggested that the Guild would like to do whatever it could in whatever plan the Hays' office might have in mind for the defense of the industry. A few days later Block was informed that Mr. Hays is particularly anxious to confer with him on the subject, and a tentative appointment has been made. In fact, Hays expects to see Block the first day he is here, which indicates the importance he places upon the work the Guild may be able to do. At the meeting it is expected that the Guild executives will be taken into Hays' confidence as regards his future plans, and the work for the Guild will probably be outlined.

The actors, too, are starting to rear up in defense of the much abused industry. Already, Lawrence Grant, one of the finest public speakers in pictures, is on a nation-wide lecture tour, speaking on "The Truth About Hollywood." Grant is getting right into the churches with his talks, speaking last Sunday night in Cincinnati under the auspices of the Ninth Street Baptist Church. This is the first time the industry has had a representative out among the religious bodies since the Academy several years ago sent Dr. Clinton Wunder on a good-will tour.

New Song and 5 Players For Universal Picture

Universal bought a theme song and five more players for "Million Dollar Ransom" yesterday.

Song is "Have a Good Time" by Solly Violinsky and Ben Ryan. Players are Dorothy Christy, Joyce Compton, Henry Kolker, Knute Erickson and Alice Ardell. Murray Roth is directing the picture under Eph Asher's eye.

New Script For Meehan

When John Meehan returns from New York in three weeks, he goes on the script of George Auerbach's "My Brother's Wife," which E. A. Dupont will direct under Larry Weingarten's supervision at MGM. Clark Gable and Jean Harlow will have the top spots.

Court Dismisses Stanley-Erpi Suit

New York. — Federal Judge Nields, in Wilmington, yesterday dismissed the anti-monopoly suit brought by Vitaphone and the Stanley Company against Erpi. This is a result of the Warner-Erpi settlement.

Clyde Elliott To Do Pic in East Indies

Clyde Elliott, who produced "Devil Tiger" for Fox and Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive," will leave Hollywood the middle of next month to make a picture, tentatively called "Yellow Waters," in China and the Dutch East Indies.

Columbia is going to release the picture, part of which is understood to be financed by the Dupont interests. W. E. Deming Jr. goes along as general assistant and sound engineer. Cast and camera crew are now being selected. It is expected the trip will take about six months.

O'Flaherty To Radio On Munitions Story

Liam O'Flaherty, who has turned in his screen play on "War Is Declared" to B. P. Schulberg at Paramount, starts at Radio today to write the screen play for the Larry Bachmann story, "To the Victor."

This is the munitions yarn concerning Sir Basil Zaharoff, which Pandro Berman is producing.

Edgar Kennedy Spotted For Three by Monogram

Monogram yesterday extended Edgar Kennedy's two picture deal to three pictures and assigned him to a spot with Guy Robertson in "King Kelly of the U.S.A.," which Leonard Fields directs. The player previously has been announced for "Flirting With Danger" and "Reckless Romeo."

Bart Play in August

"The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," play by Jean Bart, will probably get an early August spot on the Universal schedule. It's the one Edward Ludwig comes over from Warners to direct for Universal.

Sutherland Job Clicks

Sidney Sutherland turned in his treatment for "Beau Lafitte," Radio's pirate story, yesterday, and the execs were so well pleased that he was assigned to start on the script at once.

'Fanny' Still Castless

"Fanny" is still Universal's great uncast. However, William Wyler expects to make some definite choices by Saturday.

David Selznick Ill

David O. Selznick was home yesterday with an attack of laryngitis.

Paris Still Favors American Pictures

Paris.—American pictures still hold the edge in the Paris theatres in spite of the campaign against them that is being conducted by the Chambre Syndicale. The newcomers in the Paris house this past week are:

"Bottoms Up" and "Thunder Over Mexico" at the Pantheon; "Hypnose" and "The Diplomaniacs" at the Agriculteurs and the Bonaparte; "Broadway Through a Keyhole" at the Studio Universel; "Looking for Trouble" at the Lord Byron; "Morning Glory" at the Cine Opera; "Two Hearts in Waltz Time" at the Studio Caumartin; "The Crime Doctor" at the Club Dartois; "Bolero" at the Empire.

The holdovers are: "House on 56th Street" and "Convention City" at the Apollo; "Little Women" at the Edouard Sept; "Rip Tide" at the Elysee Gaumont; "It Happened One Night" at the Ermitage; "Sons of the Desert" at the Madeleine; "Cat and the Fiddle" at the Marboeuf; "Constant Nymph" at the Raspail; "Let's Fall in Love" at the Studio Des Acacias; "Dollars and Whiskey" at the Studio 28; "Footlight Parade" at the Clichy Palace and the Gaite Rochechouart.

Mintz To Universal To Work on Own Yarn

Through an arrangement with Radio, Universal yesterday closed a deal with William Stephens for the purchase of a story by Sam Mintz and the use of his services on a one-picture deal.

The story, "Women Are Like That," is an original which Henry Henigson will produce. Mintz goes to Universal after he finishes the screen play for "Anne of Green Gables."

'Bombay Mail' Can't Be Exhibited in India

London. — Universal's "Bombay Mail" has been barred from exhibition in India because an incident too closely parallels the recent case of a maharajah invited to visit England so his province could be cleaned up. The same film was turned down in Singapore because it shows the murder of a colonial governor.

Race Nights Charged

The Manchester Theatre yesterday filed a complaint with the Los Angeles Grievance Board, charging the Castle, Florence and Mecca theatres with violation of the film code in that they conduct race nights. The case will be heard Thursday.

Loretta Not So Well

Loretta Young, who went into the hospital some days ago for a slight operation, suffered a relapse yesterday and will not be out for another week.

Mervyn Light Arrives

Mervyn Light, Warners' new juvenile from Broadway, arrived at the studio yesterday and was assigned to a spot in "Just Out of College."

Not that it MATTERS by Helen Gwynn

A well-known moom pitcher writer, until very recently a client of one of the biggest agencies out here, was forced to leave said agency because of the weirdest piece of business an agency has ever pulled.

Now this writer is not only well known, but is a good writer to boot and one who earns darned good money for his work. He came back here a few months ago on a one-picture deal and the promise of more from the agency. The picture was completed in due time and then the writer sat back and waited for the promises to materialize. Nothing happened. After a few weeks of nothingness, the writer tried to reach his particular agent in the agency, and found it couldn't be done by telephone or personal appearances. Finally the writer hit on the brilliant scheme of writing a registered letter. The letter brought results in the form of a telephone call and the writer delivered his ultimatum. He told the agent that, if he didn't get a job in three days, his contract with the agent would be null and void. The agent assured the writer that he would get something.

At noon of the third day the agent's secretary phoned the writer to tell him that they had gotten him a radio job. The job was for the writer to dash off a fifteen minute script for the huge sum of one hundred dollars!

And you can't very well beat that. An agent offering a writer who gets around a thousand a week (ten per cent of which the agent has been collecting regularly for a couple of years) a hundred dollar job to keep him happy.

•

A slight oversight on the part of a major studio is costing it good money each week in the form of salary to a high-priced crooner. This crooner was signed up for pictures on the strength of his radio personality and following, and big plans were made for him. That is, he was assigned to any number of productions and one story was completely re-written to suit his talents—until he made his first picture. After that, most of the plans were called off and it is now just a question of completing his contract unless a miracle happens. You see, the lad can sing all right, but he can do nothing else; and sing was all he ever did over the air. They forgot to find out that in his radio programs, whenever the script called for the crooner to speak, the lines were given to a "double" to read—the crooner never spoke—just sang.

•

Shades of the days when prima donnas used to have their carriages drawn through the streets by an admiring and appreciative audience. Grace Moore's singing in "One Night of Love" is so remarkable that the other night, after a preview of the picture at which Miss Moore was present, it took three motorcycle cops to clear the way for her car, the admiring throngs were that large.

IATSE AND IBEW TO TRADE OFF THEIR DIFFERENCES

New York.—Those on the inside of the trade union affairs here yesterday were predicting that the jurisdictional battle between the IATSE and the IBEW which has resulted disastrously for the IA in the studios, will be settled before long in a "horse-trading" deal that is said to be on the fire.

While official confirmation could not be secured, it is generally understood that the IA and IBEW executives are soon to get together, and the deal said to be brewing is to give the IBEW all the electricians in the studios, removing them entirely from Local 37, IATSE, and turning all the sound technicians back to Local 695.

This would leave Local 37 with the grips and property men as its principal members, and would stop the raiding of the various locals in the war that has been going on in Hollywood ever since the IBEW stepped into the studio picture.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., is said to have promised to bring the fight to the floor of the convention this Fall, but suggested that a trading settlement between the two Internationals probably would be a better method. If this is settled, labor men feel that there will be a radically different set-up in wage scales brought about in the studios.

Atwater-Kent Finalist For 'Babes in Toyland'

Hal Roach yesterday signed Felix Knight, finalist in the Atwater-Kent radio contest in 1932, for the role of "Tom Tom" in "Babes in Toyland," making the first casting for the Laurel and Hardy feature. Ray McCarey will direct when the picture goes before the cameras the end of July.

Brit. Pics on Way to Top

(Continued from Page 1)

the future of British pictures in America.

He believes that next year will see a lessening in the number of pictures that England will need. Its average requirements for home consumption are about 600 pictures a year, and last year, including about 100 quota films produced by Americans, 720 were available. This, Mr. Wilcox says, was 110 above maximum absorption. For the coming year, he thinks about 400, including quota product, will be about right.

His company, British and Dominions, will produce eight to twelve pictures next year which will cost around $500,000 each and he plans to import first-line American artists and directors.

Mr. Wilcox meets Darryl Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck in London on July 21 for conferences over production and distribution matters, United Artists being the releasing organization in this country for British and Dominions product. Wilcox also commented on the London engagement of "The House of Rothschild," stating that he believed the picture would gross at least $1,000,000 in England alone.

Para. Regional Meet In Frisco Today

New York.—The first of Paramount's regional sales conventions opens in San Francisco today in charge of Divisional Manager Charles Reagan. At the close of that meeting Reagan goes to Chicago for a meeting there.

J. J. Unger, divisional manager for the East and South, will hold meetings in Atlanta on Friday, in Washington on July 2, and in New York on July 6.

Morgan and Dresser For 'Limberlost' Cast

Monogram yesterday signed Ralph Morgan and Louise Dresser for top bracket roles in "The Girl of the Limberlost," which Christy Cabanne plans to get into production by the end of the week.

The studio is still looking for a girl to fill the title role spot.

Nella Walker Held

Warners yesterday signed Nella Walker for a second picture and started negotiations for a third. The player, who is now in "A Lady Surrenders," next goes into "Big-Hearted Herbert." The deal was negotiated by Menifee I. Johnstone.

Amkino Film Opening

New York.—Amkino, the Russian film outfit, will open a picture called "Cavalcade" at the Acme Theatre today.

Woman Writer to Fox

New York.—Fox has signed Noel Pierce, local playwright, to a long-term ticket and she boarded a train yesterday for the hop to the coast.

N.Y. Bans West Picture

(Continued from Page 1)

of the children to be undermined by pictures of types that were becoming too prevalent.

Paramount has by no means given up hope of getting the picture into the New York theatres. The company starts today on re-takes, which will consume two or three weeks, and, with those completed, will re-submit the picture to the Regents. In the meantime, it will not be shown anywhere.

It was to have opened at the Paramount Theatre down-town Thursday, but this engagement has been postponed indefinitely. Also the release date of June 29 has been set back.

Paramount realizes that the picture might be booked into many places without any objections, but it realizes also that decisions given in New York state often influence censorship bodies in other spots and it prefers to take no chances.

So far as the title is concerned, objections to that give the company a chance to pull a good bit of showmanship by releasing the picture without any title ,and calling it simply "A Mae West Picture." This may be done, although it is not definitely decided as yet.

Oh Dear, Now Kisses Don't Mean Marriage

Albany.—Dr. Theodore Graebner, of Concordia Theological Seminary, has just discovered that people kiss these days at times other than when they seal their betrothal, and yesterday he tried to blame it all on the movies by telling the Evangelical Lutheran Synod the pictures are injecting some sort of love-life germ into the youngsters.

Jimmy Savo To Cavort In Russian Background

New York.—The picture which Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur are to produce at the Astoria studios with Jimmy Savo starred, will have a Russian background and a lot of Russian actors will be in it.

The producers plan to build an entire Russian village, somewhere in up-state New York.

Eddie Dowling Leases Theatre For Two Years

New York.—Eddie Dowling has leased the St. James Theatre from Vincent Astor for two years and will produce four plays and a musical comedy, starting this Fall.

New Bill at Kings Club

Heinie Brand, of the Kings Club, announces a change in his floor show, starting Thursday. The Herberts—Gracie and Charlie—formerly of the 225 Club, Chicago, will be featured.

Operators' Unions In Trouble Again

New York.—The records of Local 306 of the Motion Picture Operators union and of the Empire State Operators' union were seized by detectives yesterday and turned over to the Kings County Grand Jury on charges by members that $1,000,000 in dues had been collected and no accounting made.

It is alleged that "Dutch" Schultz received $7500, that $25,000 was paid to a detective agency and exorbitant fees to lawyers.

Phil Baker Signed For 'Gift of Gab' at 'U'

Phil Baker, said to be the first radio accordeonist to use a stooge, was added yesterday to the cast sheet of Rian James' broadcast picture, "Gift of Gab," at Universal. The Downey Sisters were also booked.

Rian James, scenarist and supervisor, will probably triple-play in the part of a radio columnist. Karl Freund directs.

Lucille Ball Arrives

Lucille Ball arrived from the East yesterday and reported to the Sam Goldwyn offices, where she is assigned to a part in Eddie Cantor's next picture.

New Para. Actor Due

Elisha Cook Jr. arrives today from New York to take up a two-picture contract with Paramount. He goes immediately into "Ready for Love."

NOTICE!

TO MY MANY FRIENDS—

OPENING

THURSDAY, JUNE 28

at

THE KINGS CLUB

8730 Sunset Boulevard

THE HERBERTS

Gracie and Charlie

America's Foremost Cafe Entertainers

Direct from the 225 Club, Chicago

HELEN MORGAN, Guest Artist

For Reservations Phone Crestview 9403

HEINIE BRAND

As REAL as Life Itself!

Made for that vast public which likes:

CLEAN HUMOR
HEALTHY LAUGHTER
WHOLESOME FUN
STURDY BOYHOOD
HOMELY PHILOSOPHY
GENIAL WIT and
A TOUCH OF PATHOS

SOL LESSER

presents

JACKIE COOPER

(by special arrangement with M.G.M.)

in

"PECK'S BAD BOY"

with

THOMAS MEIGHAN - JACKIE SEARL
DOROTHY PETERSON and O. P. HEGGIE

Story by BERNARD SCHUBERT
and
MARGUERITE ROBERTS

NOW IN PRODUCTION

directed by
EDWARD F. CLINE

The Season's Greatest Heart Throb—You'll love it! Watch for it!

IATSE Fights To Get Back in Studios

New York—The eyes of the IATSE will be centered on this town tomorrow, for at that time the newly elected president, George Browne, goes into conference with Pat Casey on the question of the labor troubles between the studios and the IATSE.

Browne pledged himself at the Louisville convention two weeks ago to get the labor troubles straightened out. This is his first step, and IA members are enthused over his quick action, especially as the extension of the Basic Agreement between the studios and labor organizations still lacks the official confirmation of the producing heads. Herbert Aller, business representative of Local 659, Hollywood, is here to take part in the conference.

Patsy Kelly and Baker Get New Roach Terms

Henry Ginsberg, Hal Roach general manager, yesterday took up the options on Patsy Kelly and Benny Baker.

Miss Kelly, who has been with the company one year, starts her tenth short with Thelma Todd next Monday. Gus Meins directs. Baker has been under contract three months.

Spewacks Head East

Bella and Sam Spewack are en route to New York on a leave of absence from their MGM writing contracts to set their new play, "Spring Song." They left by train Saturday.

Hecht and MacArthur Still The Playboys

Charlie MacArthur and Ben Hecht, with their penchant for decorating the places whereat they work, put up a lot of signs over at the Paramount-Astoria studios. One of the first to go up was a slogan which reads: "If it's better than MGM, it's not good enough."

Helen Freeman Leaves To Appear in 'Othello'

Helen Freeman, who finished her part in "The Count of Monte Cristo," leaves today to play in the Summer festival production of "Othello" at the ghost city of Central City, Colo.

Robert Edmond Jones is directing the production, for which Walter Huston, Nan Sunderland and Kenneth MacKenna come from New York. The season runs July 21 to August 3.

Garret-Sayre Teamed

Grant Garret was engaged by Paramount yesterday, through Beyer-MacArthur, to team with Joel Sayre on the screen play of "Back Porch," the next W. C. Fields production under William LeBaron's supervision.

Spigelgass on Leave

Recovered from his tonsil operation, Leonard Spigelgass, Universal scenario head and associate producer, leaves by train tonight for Del Monte, San Francisco and Yosemite. He will be away about two weeks.

Wrubel and Dixon Set On 'Golddiggers' Score

Because of their excellent work on "Flirtation Walk," Allie Wrubel and Mort Dixon, song writing team, have been assigned to do the score for "Golddiggers of 1935," which will be a Warner Brothers' special.

Robert Lord and Peter Milne wrote the original story for this one and Milne and Manny Seff have written the screen play.

Zimbalist Back With Outboard-Motor Shots

Sam Zimbalist, Hunt Stromberg's assistant, returned yesterday from New York with the Hudson River outboard-motoring shots for the Crawford-Gable picture, "Chained."

Zimbalist arrived minus both cameramen, leaving Herbert Fisher in a New York hospital recovering from stomach trouble, and Leonard Smith in St. Louis working on "Death on the Diamond" backgrounds.

Lee-Warners Dicker

Robert N. Lee, former Warner writer, returned last week from Honolulu and yesterday was at the studio on a possible deal to script the Erle Stanley Gardner mystery novel, "The Case of the Curious Bride."

Two For Garbo Picture

MGM yesterday signed Beulah Bondi and Cecilia Parker for "The Painted Veil," the first castings on the Greta Garbo vehicle. Richard Boleslavsky puts the picture before the cameras July 2.

Germany Now Has 4889 Wired Houses

Washington.—Germany now has 4889 picture theatres that are wired for sound, according to a report sent to the Department of Commerce by G. R. Canty, in Berlin. The report was compiled by the German Association of Cinema Owners. The seating capacity of these theatres is 1,862,104.

The total number of feature films released in Germany for the 1933-34 season was 193, of which 139 were German-made. For the coming season, 233 features have been announced, of which 166 are German.

Victor Moore's Wife Dies Before He Arrives

Victor Moore lost his race East to his wife's deathbed, receiving word at Chicago of her death of complications following her operation. She had been known professionally as Emma Littlefield.

Following the funeral services in New York today, Moore returns to the coast for his second Universal picture, "Gift of Gab," which starts Saturday.

Allen Case Postponed

Crowded court calendars yesterday added another postponement to the trial of Dave Allen, manager of Central Casting, and Gloria Marsh on a morals charge. The case has been set back to July 9 by Judge Fletcher Bowron.

"MEAL TICKET"

Starring
SHIRLEY TEMPLE
and
SPENCER TRACY

ANOTHER ORIGINAL STORY
FROM GENE TOWNE
AND GRAHAM BAKER

JOE PASTERNAK

Producing For Universal

"EVERY YEAR A HIT"

1930 Die Grosse Sehnsucht

1931 Zwei Menschen

1932 Unsichtbare Front
Paprika

1933 Grosse und Kuss Veronika
Romance In Budapest

1934 Csibi

Now In Production

"FRUHJAHRSPARADE"

WE ARE HONORED TO ANNOUNCE

OUR ASSOCIATION WITH

Oscar HAMMERSTEIN II	Nacio Herb BROWN	Gus KAHN	Dorothy FIELDS	Harold ADAMSON
Sigmund ROMBERG	Arthur FREED	Walter DONALDSON	Jimmy McHUGH	Burton LANE

AMERICA'S LEADING LYRICISTS AND COMPOSERS

ROBBINS MUSIC CORPORATION

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER STUDIOS,
% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 42. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Wednesday, June 27, 1934

FRANCE SLAMS U. S. PIX

Reduces "Dubbed" Imports, Doubles Duties, And Lessens Theatres For Foreign Films

Paris.—The hardest blow that has been struck by the French Government against foreign motion pictures, and a blow that hits United States harder than any other country, was delivered yesterday. American film men are convinced that, if its provisions are not softened, it means the end of American pictures in France.

The official decree provides that, for six months beginning July 1, only 94 foreign films may be imported for dubbing, the American percentage of these being about 80. Last year 242 were admitted and the French exhibs asked for 325. The order also doubles the import duties on foreign films and cuts the number of theatres in which either dubbed films or English-language pictures may be shown.

Showing of non-dubbed films is restricted to five theatres in the Paris district and ten elsewhere in France.

(Continued on Page 2)

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•THE recent visit of David Selznick to England resulted in a number of things of significance, not only with respect to MGM in whose interests the trip was undertaken, but important to the picture industry as a whole. The announced primary purpose of Mr. Selznick's trip was to get atmosphere and find players for the cast of "David Copperfield," which he is to produce, but the results went far beyond this.

Perhaps the most important result was the advancement of the idea of MGM to produce pictures in England. Most of the pictures made over there by American producing companies have been purely for quota purposes, and they have added nothing to the reputation or the bank accounts of the producers. But MGM contemplates going into production abroad on an entirely different scale and for different reasons.

•

These reasons include the building up of the British market, the saving in production costs, and the development and use of the wealth of acting talent that exists in England. The market argument comes first. The insularity—or patriotism, if you prefer—of the British is proverbial. Anything British comes first in the hearts of the people. While they patronize American pictures because they are the best, if pictures made in Britain can even approach American quality, they will get infinitely more play than they do now. The slogan "Buy British" is very real to the British people.

More than that, the picture patrons are demanding British pictures and good pictures. Alexander Korda has shown them that British product can be made that will compare favorably with American product. The question of who produces it does not make so much difference, so long as it is made in Britain. Therefore, MGM figures that, with a corporation formed under the British laws, turning out pictures comparable with Hollywood's best, it could enormously increase its receipts in the British market.

•

It is admitted that British directors and technicians are not equal to American, but it would be a simple thing to send American technicians over there to train the British crafts-

(Continued on Page 4)

Report on Picture Salaries Due Soon

Washington—It is understood here that the Research and Planning divisions of the NRA will shortly make a report on the salaries of motion picture executives and stars as required in the code, in spite of previous denials that there would be any such report.

Hammons Boosts Budget For Shorts

New York.—Encouraged by the success that the movement against double features is having in various sections of the country, Earle Hammons, president of Educational, has announced that his company has increased its production budget by 20 per cent.

He believes that, if single features are going to be the rule, shorts of exceptional merit will be demanded and he proposes to make them. Without such shorts, he says, the double bills will continue.

Sigmund Romberg Here

Sigmund Romberg arrived yesterday by train from New York and reports at MGM to work with Oscar Hammerstein II on the musical numbers for "Tiptoes," the Novarro-Laye picture.

Jerome Kern To MGM

New York.—MGM has concluded a deal with Jerome Kern and he is slated to go to the coast to work on a musical picture.

Schenck Flying To Budapest For Meet

Paris—United Artists has just completed a three-day Continental convention here and Joseph M. Schenck, who presided, is flying to Budapest to hold a meeting there.

Darryl Zanuck is due in Cairo from his hunting trip on July 2 and goes from there to Italy, where Schenck will meet him.

LaCava To Direct Hayes In Barrie Pic

With "Dolly" indefinitely set back on MGM's schedule, Gregory LaCava was yesterday assigned July 15 as a starting date for "What Every Woman Knows," in which he will direct Helen Hayes. This also pushes "Vanessa" back on the production list.

Irving Thalberg will handle the production of the J. M. Barrie play, for which the screen play is being written by Monckton Hoffe. It will be LaCava's first work under his new two-year contract, which has already run two months.

Bing Crosby To Stage In Theatre Guild Play

New York—It is understood here that arrangements have been made to have Bing Crosby appear in a Theatre Guild production in September. The play is called "American Dances."

Hitler Ousting Would Restore German Films

Berlin.—The rumor that Hitler is to be forced to abdicate is arousing great interest in the picture business. It is felt that, if Hitler is ousted, the German picture industry will be back on the map.

Laughton As 'Micawber'

MGM is closing a deal with Charles Laughton for the role of "Micawber" in Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield," which George Cukor directs when it goes before the cameras in three weeks. David Selznick produces.

Frank Joyce on Way Home

New York.—Frank Joyce left here yesterday, bound for his home in Los Angeles. He will stop over to see the Chicago Fair.

'BARBARY COAST' OFF TILL REFORM WAR ENDS

Samuel Goldwyn has indefinitely postponed the production of "Barbary Coast" because of the wave of censorship activity prevalent all over the country. While, under normal conditions, he feels that the picture would be all right and would create no adverse comment, he is convinced that fault would be found with it by the more bigoted among the reform element. Therefore, he will call it off until such time as he feels he can produce it as it should be done.

"The possibilities of this picture are too great to be sacrificed in a clamor for pictures suitable for children," he said yesterday. "Leonard Praskins and

(Continued on Page 3)

Churches Block New N.Y. Burlesque Theatre

New York—Owing to strenuous opposition offered by Catholic and Jewish clergy, Max Wilner has been refused permission to present burlesque at the Apollo Theatre, in Forty-second street.

Alfred Savoir Dies

Paris.—Alfred Savoir, one of the world's great playwrights, died here today. He was really a Pole, whose name was Alfred Pozmanski. Among his plays were "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," and "The Bellboy and The Grand Duchess."

Edward E. Paramore Jr. SCREEN PLAY and DIALOGUE (in collaboration) SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S "BABY TAKE A BOW"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher
FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

The Marion Davies Foundation Benefit at the Biltmore Bowl Monday night was one swell party—as more than a thousand satisfied diners and dancers will testify. The affair was a great credit to all concerned, chiefly to Harrison Carroll, in charge of the program, and all those who worked to put it over. Almost all the stars showed up too, "as advertised"—and Eddie Cantor's m.c'ing, plus his antics and "epicgrams," were of the knock-out variety . . . (pardon the word, variety). Nelson Eddy, with his beautiful voice, Ethel Merman, Cantor (that man's here again!) and Rubinoff were among the show-stoppers—and it was a grand show—all of it. Everybody was there—well, nearly everybody. Mae West, we hear tell, didn't come, after preparing all day via hairdressers for the occasion, because she is supposed to have received more of those "acid throwing in the face" threats. Personally, we had so much fun, we were civil to the wrong people!

•

A Hollywood actor with a terrific reputation as an elbow-bending playboy, surprised everybody when he suddenly up and married a very wealthy girl, with a family of her own. He surprised them even more by settling down completely—and then by leaving town for a very domestic life elsewhere. He's back now, determined to take up his screen career where he left off—and with his looks and physique, should have little trouble. The main reason, however, that he wants a job so badly, is because his wealthy wife allows him only three dollars a day spending money!

•

At one time, when Jack Haley was going in for a stage tour, he was sent to Boris Morros, who does the booking for the Paramount theatres. They couldn't get together on money, and Haley wired his own manager: "Boris Morros Saw Us—Deal Off." The manager promptly sent the wire to Morros, who chuckled out loud. And, P. S., Haley got the job!

New York REVIEWS

"DR. MONICA"

Warners prod.; director, William Keighley; writers, Marja M. Szcepkowska, Laura Walker, Charles Kenyon.

Strand Theatre

World-Telegram: Ordinarily a play suffers in its transference from the stage to the screen, but the shadow version of last season's stage drama, "Doctor Monica," is so superior to its flesh-and-blood counterpart that even the most ardent deractors of the cinema will have to admit that there is no most ardent detractors of the cinema will have to admit that there is no better entertainment than the original. The fact remains that whereas the play was a pretty dreary, depressing and sterile affair, the film, thanks to Charles Kenyon's shrewd adaptation and some signally good acting, is a tolerably entertaining exhibit.

Post: It may be true that it's nice to have a man around the house, but the Warners were carried away by the idea a little unreasonably, when they injected Warren William into the cast of what was originally an all-woman play, and then gave him nothing more to do than walk around with his hands in his pockets. This little improvement robs "Doctor Monica" of the only claim to distinction it might have had and reduces it to the rather vague category of mild entertainment.

Journal: It's a talky little drama. The handsome Miss Francis contributes an effective performance, and, despite its thinness of plot the picture should interest Francis fans by virtue of its generally smooth acting and direction.

Herald-Tribune: The picture version is highly sentimentalized. Nevertheless, the screen production is interesting as a typical film melodrama. Mr. Keighley seems to know the value of climax and human-interest in his story telling, for he holds the attention throughout and embellishes his canvas with certain airy touches dear to the heart of the picture fan. There is a depth of feeling in the piece, due in part to the genuinely sincere performance by Kay Francis.

Mirror: "Dr. Monica" is a movie about women for women. It makes magnificent heroes, almost fantastic gallants, of the women with which it is concerned. Admirably played and skilfully directed, written with excellent dialogue, it should provide fun and induce a gratifying sense of superiority in the matinee trade. The situations are highly dramatic and quite touching.

Times: The film is not especially suspenseful, but it is superior to the parent work. It moves apace and the acting is excellent.

News: The picture is a liberal adaptation of Marja Szcepkowska's play. Only the essentials of the play's drama are retained for the picture, which is to the latter's advantage. William Keighley has given the picture competent direction. The backgrounds are well done and the photography is excellent. The story is one that will make a strong appeal to women and men will find it interesting enough.

Sun: The whole feeling of the picture, like its characters and its theme, is essentially feminine. It's a grand picture to cry over without feeling overly moved or depressed.

American: "Dr. Monica" is an interesting and generally worth-while film. It will, in the opinion of this reviewer, prove popular with the feminine trade.

Czechs Demand U.S. Films To Save Them

Prague.—The motion picture theatre business in Czechoslovakia is in a bad way, the worst condition in its history. Local film men are shouting their heads off about it and declare that the only things that will save the theatres are American films.

Even the local trade press, which favors German product to the extreme, is urging that American pictures be brought in and the political and economic bars be let down to save the situation. The public will not pay to look at the European pictures.

Jake Wilk Arrives

Jake Wilk, Warner story head, arrived at the Burbank plant yesterday after having stopped off in San Francisco for a few days en route here from New York.

Para. Signs Kantor

New York.—Paramount yesterday signed McKinley Kantor, author of "Long Remembered," to its writing staff and he leaves for Hollywood tonight.

Para. Trustee Has Not Quit, But Wants to Do So

New York.—Root, Clark, Buckner and Ballantyne stated yesterday that Charles E. Richardson has not yet resigned his Paramount trusteeship, but desires to do so because of press of private business.

The Federal Court will decide on July 10 whether or not the resignation shall be accepted. The court may permit the other two trustees to carry on until the reorganization plan is completed.

Asbury-Niblo Teamed

Herbert Asbury and Fred Niblo Jr. were commissioned by Columbia yesterday to work out a story for the "Produce the Body" title that remains on the studio's 1933-34 list. It comes on Sid Rogell's production sheet.

Eddy Eckels Returning

Eddy Eckels, Radio's studio publicity chief, is due to return tomorrow on the Chief. He went on for a look-in at the home offices in New York after the Chicago convention.

Schulberg Readying Three For Cameras

With three stories readying neck and neck, B. P. Schulberg cannot yet determine which he will have in production first, but at least two, and possibly all three, should be on the stages at Paramount before the end of July.

"Red Woman," the William R. Lipman story for Sylvia Sidney, the variously-titled Liam O'Flaherty war story for G. W. Pabst's direction, and "Village Tale," which Marc Connelly and Frank Partos are adapting and dialoging, are the parallel contenders.

Burr Gets Educ. Award

C. C. Burr yesterday was awarded a judgment against Educational Pictures for $675 plus interest since June 15, 1933, in Judge Crawford's court. The court ruled the amount due Burr for his services as director on his last comedy for the studio.

France Slams U.S. Pix

(Continued from Page 1)

But no more than two theatres in any department may show the same English films. The only exemption made is for animated cartoons, which lets Mickey Mouse in.

So severe are the new restrictions that Harold Smith, representative of the Hays office, has cabled Washington, asking the intervention of the State Department to save the American film trade in France.

The French exhibitors are wild about the new order, and their attitude is the same as that of actors and employees of the studios where dubbing is done. Telegrams of protest are flooding the Government offices, denouncing the "oligarchy that is being permitted to strangle cinema exploitation in France."

Harry James, president of the Syndicate of Artists Employed in Dubbing Films, stated that the dubbing industry last year supplied between 25,000 and 30,000 working days, with salaries that totaled more than 25,000,000 francs. Under the new order these figures will be cut more than fifty per cent.

$10 to $300 LOANS

NO DELAY — TERMS TO SUIT

ARRANGED ON SALARY, FURNITURE or AUTOS

When you need $10 to $300 come directly to the Local. Our simplified methods make borrowing easy. Quick private service.

LOCAL LOAN CO.

406 Taft Bldg., 1680 N. Vine
Telephone HEmpstead 1133

'HERE COMES THE NAVY' A HIT; LOTS OF LAUGHS AND THRILLS

Direction, Writing, Acting Split Honors

"HERE COMES THE NAVY"

(Warner Bros.)

Direction .....Lloyd Bacon
Original Story .....Ben Markson
Screen Play .....Ben Markson and Earl Baldwin
Photography .....Arthur Edeson
Cast: James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Gloria Stuart, Frank McHugh,, Dorothy Tree, Robert Barrat, Willard Robertson, Guinn Williams, Howard Hickman, Maude Eburne, George Irving.

Here comes the navy, and how! The Cagney formula rescued by the Navy to the tune of a lot of good hearty laughs and the thrills and fanfare that only a picture with uniforms can give. There's plenty to sell in this one that will more than please the buyers.

Cagney, as "Chesty" Jones joins the navy because he wants to get a chance to beat up one Pat O'Brien, as "Biff," seein' as how "Biff" on shore leave had hit "Chesty" while he wasn't looking and taken his girl away from him besides. The only trouble is that "Biff" happens to be his superior officer, and then the girl "Chesty" falls for happens to be "Biff's" sister. Soooo, it seems as how "Chesty" just hasn't got the proper spirit about the Navy. Like the first violinist in the symphony orchestra, he keeps on making faces and being a bad boy because he "hates" the Navy. However, after being transferred to the lighter-than-air branch of the service, effects a spectacular rescue of "Biff" in mid-air and the Navy is proud that it has made another man. P. S. "Chesty" marries the girl.

To repeat an old axiom, Cagney is one grand actor and maybe some day, if he lives long enough, they'll graduate him from this type of role and take full advantage of the lad's acting talents. Pat O'Brien is darned good as a straight man for Cagney. Frank McHugh as Cagney's side-kick proves he can be an elegant comic without touching a drop. Dorothy Tree is excellent as the gal sailors forget and looks like a great bet for the future. Maude Eburne doesn't appear until the end of the picture but her rendition of "O, Promise Me," with false teeth, would be worth waiting for even if the rest of the picture weren't so much fun.

Markson and Baldwin have devised a number of funny situations and the picture's running gag, (which turns out to be Maude Eburne) is one of the best.

Lloyd Bacon is a past master at this kind of picture and the present one is entirely up to standard, so far as his direction is concerned. Arthur Edeson's photography is okay, but stunning effects that might have been gotten are entirely covered by stock shots.

Nathanson Again Rumored Para. Head

New York.—The Paramount rumor market got busy again yesterday and once more set N. L. Nathanson as the head of the organization in the event that Adolph Zukor decides to resign the presidency.

New Pictures on B'way This Week

New York.—Max Baer in person will be the stellar attraction of the Broadway picture houses this week, opening at the Paramount Theatre Thursday. The picture is "Kiss and Make Up."

Other pictures set for the week are "Black Moon" at the Rialto yesterday; "The World Moves On" at the Criterion, "Of Human Bondage" at the Music Hall, and "Circus Clown" at the Mayfair, all on Thursday; "The Thin Man" at the Capitol, and "Baby Take a Bow" at the Roxy, both on Friday.

John Stahl Starting On 'Imitation of Life'

A little more than a year since he put his last picture, "Only Yesterday," into work, John M. Stahl today starts production on "Imitation of Life" at Universal.

Claudette Colbert heads the cast which, to date, includes only Louise Beavers, Rochelle Hudson, Freddie Washington and Juanita Quigley. William Hurlbut has written the screen play of Fannie Hurst's novel.

Gillingwater Cast In Milestone Picture

After ten days deliberation, Lewis Milestone finally picked Claude Gillingwater yesterday for the part of Judge Griswold in "The Captain Hates the Sea." Hal Cooley closed the deal.

Emily Fitzroy and Akin Tamiroff also got spots in the Columbia picture.

Winchell Pulls 'Em In

San Francisco.—Walter Winchell in person is doing great business at the Warfield Theatre here. Capacity audiences are the rule and the week-end business was close to record-breaking.

Gladys Lehman To Para.

Gladys Lehman was signed by Paramount yesterday to joining the writing staff July 5 and handle the screen play for "The Gilded Lily." It will co-star Claudette Colbert and Cary Grant.

Agency Signs Dare

Dorothy Dare has signed a managerial ticket with the Rebecca and Silton office. She holds a Warners term deal.

Holmes Finishes Short

Ben Holmes has just completed the third in the series of Clark and McCullough comedy shorts for Radio.

Irving Permanent Trustee For RKO

New York.—Federal Judge Coxe yesterday appointed the Irving Trust Company to act as permanent trustee for the RKO Corporation until such time as the reorganization plan is completed.

The appointment was made over the objection of James Young, a former film director, who, last March, sued RKO and its subsidiaries for $2,000,000, alleging infringement of his story, "What Price Sex in Hollywood?" The infringement, he claims, was in the Radio picture, "What Price Hollywood?"

'Pursuit of Happiness' Is Starting Tomorrow

"Pursuit of Happiness," now indicated for a start tomorrow, will be Paramount's only new production this week.

Minor Watson was engaged yesterday for the important part of the Revolutionary War leader.

Joan Bennett, who is teamed with Francis Lederer in it, was reported indisposed yesterday, but the studio expects her to be on hand for her part.

Meyer & Schneider Get Manhattan Playhouses

New York.—The nineteen theatres of the Manhattan Playhouses chain, which were supposed to have been sold to Si Fabian, have now definitely been sold to Meyer & Schneider, who owned them before the Manhattan circuit took them over.

'Enter Madame' Delayed

"Enter Madame," which was to have started this week at Paramount, is set back to a mid-July start. Picture was intended for Herbert Marshall and Kitty Carlisle. Elliott Nugent was to direct under Benjamin Glazer's supervision.

'Barbary Coast' Off

(Continued from Page 1)

Courtenay Terrett have written a red-blooded screen play, but it is not a child's story. It is, of course, a story about San Francisco's famous vice colony, and it will be just as good a year or ten years from now. Therefore, I am going to hold it.

"I had my cast and director engaged and preliminary plans well advanced for the production. Moreover, every censor board official to whom I submitted the story, approved it. In taking my present step, I am acting entirely on my own initiative, as my own censor."

Anna Sten, who was to have been co-starred with Gary Cooper, will finish "We Live Again" and then may go into another Russian story. Cooper goes back to Paramount for "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," and Director Wellman is taking a long vacation.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

Right here and now, in the midst of all the diatribes against the picture industry, we would like to go on record as saying that we like this industry. And it's not just because we feel we are a part of it, but because we have worked in many industries before finally lighting in the midst of this one, (including the cloak and suit), and we can testify to the fact that it is by far the most interesting, the most intelligent, (despite its stupidities), offers the greatest opportunities and always will have the greatest possibilities. For a community of its size, Hollywood is just about the healthiest place to live in, morally and physically, that we have found.

Taken all in all, Hollywood is the last place in the world that needs to be defended, and right there you have the kernel of our only resentment against Hollywood. The fact that it constantly allows itself to be put on the defensive by cranks and what have you, whereas if it would make use of one-tenth of its potential power, Hollywood could put practically anything it pleased on the defensive.

•

If the censors, (prohibition having been repealed), are intent on reducing the picture industry to an example for children only, then the picture industry should set itself up as a censor of everything that is wrong with this country as an example for the kiddies. Let them take away the so-called adult themes. Pictures for children are supposed to be instructive. Very well, let pictures instruct the little darlings in what is rotten in this "best of all possible worlds" and let pictures show them how to do away with the rottenness. It's very simple—far too simple.

Certain things are considered by the censors to be "un-American." Very well, let pictures show what is "un-American" and how best to rid the country of it. Give the censors what they want and they'll soon be told what they can do with it. But for heaven's sake, put some fight into it.

This industry can wield a far greater influence than ever any paper could. For every reader of an editorial, there are at least twenty people who go to the movies, see the newsreels, see the features, see the short subjects.

•

Make no mistake, nothing can kill this industry—it is one of the major industries of the world. It can and it does spread great good. It can and it does offer great opportunity. The people connected with it are, generally speaking, the best in the world and it's about time that the world knew of it in an intelligent manner. And anyone who says different and indicts an entire industry for the human weaknesses or vices of an infinitesimal few, is guilty of a great libel. Other industries, far less important, stand up and fight for themselves and suppress their critics. The picture industry should do the same.

ARTIST-PRODUCER CLASH ON AGENCY COMMITTEE

Owing to the wide divergence of opinion between artists and producers over what should and should not be incorporated in the code of fair practice for relations between agents, artists and producers, the NRA Agency Committee is facing what many members believe will be a virtual deadlock.

Already the conflicting opinions have resulted in one postponement of the committee's meetings. It was scheduled to meet last Thursday night with a completed code ready for discussion and a possible vote, but a postponement was asked for by the artist members while the problem of code content is being thrashed out.

The chief split has arisen over two questions. One is the matter of licensing agents. The other is the question of what duties an agent will be allowed to perform for his clients.

The producers are said to be emphatic in their demand that the agents be licensed. The artists at first were opposed to this. Now they are going to offer a counter proposition. They are willing to have the agents licensed, it is understood, providing there is a clause placed in the code that will whip the producers into line if they refuse to do business with an agent. The clause the artists are going to insist on is one that makes the producer liable to a penalty of $500 if he refuses to talk with an agent who has not been convicted of any violation of the provisions of the code. And the fine is to be slapped on each time the producer refuses to recognize the agent.

There is said to be a definite alignment of employers against agents and artists of the committee on the matter of what duties the agents will be permitted to perform. The producers are insisting that the agents be allowed to negotiate only on matters pertaining to employment or a modification of the terms of employment of the artist.

It is pointed out by members of the committee that this move of the producers is merely the continuation of the effort that was made last summer to get a clause into the film code. In fact, it was in the first draft of the code which was thrown out after the agents sent representatives to Washington.

The artists insist that their agents be their spokesmen in all matters with the studios. The producers insist they only speak on the question of employment and salary terms. Each side is said to be immovable in its decision.

Local Board Ordered To Publish Schedule

The Code Authority yesterday ordered the Los Angeles Clearance and Zoning Board to publish and distribute its clearance and zoning schedule which it completed a week ago.

While there was no special reference to its official approval of the schedule, the members of the board take it for granted that the order to publish indicates a 100 per cent okay. The highlight of the schedule was a virtual prohibition of double billing for this district.

Gordon Taking RKO Center In Few Days

New York.—Max Gordon's deal to take over the RKO Center Theatre and turn it into a legitimate house has not yet been definitely closed, but probably will be within a few days.

He plans to open the Continental musical production, "Waltzes in Vienna," there in September, and the theatre may close next week to be made ready for the new policy.

Two MGM Films To Use Hill's Chinese Shots

MGM is figuring on dividing the material which George Hill secured in China between "The Good Earth" and "The Painted Veil."

For the latter picture, slated for production late next month, the studio is already building sets. A reproduction of an ancient Chinese temple is being constructed as one of the biggest to be used in the Garbo production.

Two For John Halliday

Warners yesterday signed John Halliday for two pictures and he immediately started work in "A Lady Surrenders," with Jean Muir, Veree Teasdale and George Brent. When he completes that he goes into "Gentlemen Are Born," which Mervyn LeRoy gets before the cameras next Monday.

Lead For Phil Regan

Warners give Phil Regan a chance for a leading role in the bracket spot with Dorothy Dare in "Sweet Adeline." Warners is taking this chance with the singing cop after MGM gave him the spot in "Student Tour" which he is now finishing.

Raphaelson Abroad

Samson Raphaelson is checking out of Fox on a three months leave of absence in order to take a trip to Europe. His writing ticket gives him that privilege. He finished "Servants' Entrance" last.

Knopf-King Sell Song

A song by Edward Knopf and Jack King, entitled "Thanks Very Much," has been sold to British International Pictures and will be sung by Marion Harris in the Charles Farrell picture.

Eddy For Bowl Opera

Nelson Eddy is set to take part in an operatic presentation at the Hollywood Bowl, August 4.

'Roman Scandals' Barred by Germany

New York.—Germany is acquiring the barring habit. The latest picture to come under the Nazi ban is Eddie Cantor's "Roman Scandals," the reasons given being "artistic inferiority and immoral character."

Chaplin To Play In Shakespeare At Bowl

New York—Charles Chaplin is understood to have consented to appear in the production of "Midsummer Night's Dream" which Max Reinhardt will stage at the Hollywood Bowl in September. His role is not yet announced.

'Ready For Love' Set Back by Paramount

Coincident with Ida Lupino's illness, but apparently for other reasons, "Ready for Love" was indefinitely postponed at Paramount this week. Miss Lupino's doctor reports she is rapidly recovering from her attack of infantile paralysis and will be able to return to work by July 15.

Marion Gering was to have directed "Ready for Love," under supervision of Al Lewis.

Gene Lockhart, Comic, Signs MGM Contract

New York.—Gene Lockhart, comedian of the "Ah, Wilderness" cast, has been signed by MGM and left for the coast yesterday. Lucille Watson starts for the MGM studios today.

Wally Young Sailing

Waldemar Young leaves tomorrow for the South Seas and the Orient, to be gone until November 1.

Extras Reduction Starts Tomorrow

Tomorrow night the re-registration sub-committee of the NRA Code Committee for Extras meets to clear the decks for action in the matter of cutting down the registered extra players list to between 1500 and 2000 people.

Beginning then, according to Mrs. Mabel Kinney, chairman, the work of the committee will be in absolute secrecy. Not until the list has been completed and given the official okay of the Code Authority will any information be disclosed.

She did reveal, however, that instead of an estimated list of 17,000 names, only 8000 people have been nominated by the various casting offices, Central Casting and other organizations as the group from which to select the chosen few.

MGM Going To Mint To Record Clinking Gold

Dissatisfied with the sound now used in "Treasure Island" in several scenes where clinking gold is heard, MGM is going to pains to get the appropriate noises.

Since the real thing must be used, no other metal being imitative of it, the studio has asked the Treasury department at Washington for permission to record the gold clinking at the San Francisco mint. The metal is scarce in Hollywood.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

men in American production methods. Also interchanges of directors, players and writers could be made.

Production costs on the same grade of pictures would be lower than in America. A picture that would cost, say, $400,000 here, could be produced over there for a quarter to a third less.

The matter of available talent is also of prime importance. George Cukor, who will direct "Copperfield" and who went to England with Mr. Selznick, made tests of approximately 1000 people as possibilities, and brought back with him 100 of the best of these tests. There is a great number of players in England who, because of the smaller number of pictures produced, are not so steadily employed and are not so sewed up by contracts as in Hollywood.

•

Mr. Selznick arranged, while in England, to do a story based on the life of David Lloyd-George, one of England's most famous statesmen. Lloyd-George himself is to supply the material in note form and it is to be whipped into shape here. When it is completed, if he is satisfied with the treatment, Lloyd-George himself probably will come here to supervise settings, castings and other details.

This arrangement opens up a new field for picture material. There are many noted men and women today whose lives and careers would make absorbingly interesting picture stories. If such pictures can be made with dignity and veracity, they will not only be great box-office attractions, but they will help to bring the screen to the eminent position which it should have and will go far to offset the evil effects of such campaigns as the one being waged against the industry at present.

•

There is another angle to the Selznick trip, outside of England. He brought back with him Fritz Lang, one of the leading producers and directors of Germany, and also signed Leontine Sagan, the famous woman director of "Maedchen in Uniform," who will be here shortly.

These two, because of their race, have been made refugees from Germany by the Nazi Government. There are hundreds in the same predicament, and of these hundreds, there are many who shine with practically as great brilliance as Lang and Sagan. There is little in Europe for these artists. Practically all of them are turning their eyes towards America, and their artistry and experience would do much to raise the standards of our productions.

This is another factor that enters into the project of MGM to produce in England, because not only are many of these refugees already domiciled there but it would be an easy matter to bring to that country as many others as were needed.

The making of "David Copperfield," with an all-British cast, is an important step in picture production, but its importance is far outweighed by the world-wide significance to the industry as a whole of these other features.

M-G-M STUDIOS,
% READING DEPT.
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 43. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Thursday, June 28, 1934

'QUIT FRANCE' IS URGED

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•EVER since motion pictures became one of the world's greatest forms of entertainment, magazines and newspapers have felt it an editorial duty to print figures regarding the salaries of the stars.

Both writers and editors seem to be fascinated by the glamour of figures. The public, unfortunately, reads these stories and believes. And the sad part is that the magazines are NEVER correct.

The most recent example is found in Liberty, where, under the heading of "Vital Statistics," alleged salaries and other information are listed regarding the stars. A very common-sense viewpoint on this matter is revealed by the Screen Actors' Guild, which yesterday sent the following letter to the Editor of Liberty:

•

"We wish to enter a protest against the practice of publishing estimated salaries of motion picture actors, together with other facts almost uniformly wrong or misleading, in your reviews of current pictures.

"The Screen Actors' Guild has always deplored the wide publicity given the earnings of motion picture actors because of the false impressions created in the minds of the public, and also because it tends to cause further discontent in this period of unrest.

•

"Motion picture salaries are not really salaries, but percentages of profits. No motion picture player could command a large salary unless he was responsible for drawing patrons into the theatres. No one will contend that an inventor is not entitled to share in the profits of his invention, or an author to collect large royalties on a best seller, or for that matter, the publisher of Liberty to make a handsome return on his investment.

"It is no more logical for you to publish the salaries of motion picture players than it would be to announce to the public what you pay for each article of fiction or what you receive for each piece of paid advertising. In practically all businesses the practice has long been uniform that neither trade nor other publicity be given to what are simply private business dealings between employer and employee.

"Furthermore, your figures are almost wholly inaccurate. In the issue

(Continued on Page 4)

Mrs. Belmont Quits Council To Make War

New York.—Mrs. August Belmont yesterday resigned as president of the Motion Picture Research Council so that she may have more time to devote to the campaign against unclean pictures. She continues as a member of the executive board.

Trouble In Sight At Agency Board Meet

Plenty of fireworks are expected this afternoon when the NRA Agency committee meets in the office of Emanuel Cohen at Paramount.

The talent members of the committee will present a code of fair practice for negotiations between producers, agents and artists. This code contains everything that the writers and actors want, and it is not thought likely that the producers will take to it in a kindly manner.

Marian Marsh Signed For 'Limberlost' Lead

Monogram yesterday ended its search for a girl to play the title role in "The Girl of the Limberlost," signing Marian Marsh. Christy Cabanne puts the picture into work tomorrow. The studio also signed Helen Jerome Eddy through Menifee I. Johnstone.

Hal Rosson Recovers

Hal Rosson, MGM, was pronounced yesterday completely recovered from infantile paralysis and he will be released from quarantine next Tuesday.

Withdrawal From Country Is Advocated By Paris Offices Because Of New Restrictions

Paris.—At a meeting of the men who handle the distribution of American motion pictures in France it was decided that each should cable his home office, advising immediate closing of all offices and withdrawal from France. No answer had been received from New York at the time this message was filed.

It is understood United Artists and Universal have decided upon this course of action, regardless of what other companies do, and will transfer their offices to London.

The French exhibitors are panic-stricken over the new restrictions and are threatening to close every theatre in the country unless the decree is modified. The loss of the French business would be a heavy blow to the American film industry, as something

(Continued on Page 3)

British Censors Back Anti-Cruelty Campaign

London.—The British Board of Censors is backing the anti-cruelty campaign now being conducted in Great Britain and announces that it will ban any pictures which show cruelty to animals in the making.

MGM 'Rasputin' Appeal

London.—The appeal taken by MGM from the verdict of £25,000 given by a British court in the suit by Princess Youssoulpoff, based on the picture, "Rasputin," comes up for hearing next week.

Fox Met Deal Put Over Till Tuesday

New York.—The final disposition of the bid of $4,000,000 made by Loew's and Warners for control of the Fox Metropolitan chain was again put over by Federal Judge Mack yesterday, this time until next Tuesday. This was done at the request of the prospective buyers.

It is believed here that they will get the chain eventually, but it is said also that they have privately raised their bid to $6,000,000, with the bondholders of the chain demanding more.

Woollcott Gets Bid For Role at Universal

Universal yesterday wired Alexander Woollcott a bona fide offer to try his hand at acting in pictures.

The noted raconteur and critic made a sally at acting in "Brief Moment" on the stage. The studio has offered him a role in "Gift of Gab." The offer went through Zeppo Marx.

Helen Chandler Signed By British Gaumont

London.—Helen Chandler has been signed by British Gaumont and will appear in the English version of "Unfinished Symphony," which is being produced in Vienna under the supervision of Anthony Asquith.

Junior and Ed At Play

Carl Laemmle Jr. and Edmund Grainger got away yesterday for a two-weeks vacation. Their first stop is Santa Barbara, after which they will make a quick tour of northern California.

Rufus LeMaire Abroad

New York.—Rufus LeMaire will sail for Europe on the Ile de France on July 7 on matters connected with George Arliss' business.

BILL, BING, GENE, JIM AND MACK TO PRODUCE OWN PIX

W. C. Fields, Bing Crosby, Gene Fowler, Jim Tully and Mack Sennett are forming a new producing company to make feature pictures, it was learned yesterday by The Hollywood Reporter.

Both Fields and Crosby have deals with Paramount of such nature that they will not interfere with the plans of the group, which will make six pictures a year. A national release will be secured, although no move to obtain this has been started as yet. According to Tully, four pictures have

(Continued on Page 10)

Dressler's Condition Takes Turn For Worse

Friends of Marie Dressler were saddened last night when word came from Santa Barbara indicating that the valiant old trouper's condition has taken a turn for the worse.

Physicians stated that she has been failing during the last few days, and a constant watch is being kept by her bedside. She has been at Santa Barbara for several months at the home of friends where she has been waging a brave battle for her health.

ALFRED E. GREEN now directing Barbara Stanwyck in "A LOST LADY"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE..... .....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15 Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

Phillip Moeller is so engrossed in his art that the other day he flung himself at a piano on the set and played a certain tune to illustrate to the actors just the mood he wanted in the scene! . . . A girl named Dagmar Sewer lives in N'Yawk—and we can prove it! . . . The close friends of a big producer's wife are begging her not to go through with her present idea of walking out! . . . The new Garbo opus goes before the cameras Monday. . . . The Alan Dineharts celebrating their first wedding anniversary today . . . and Preston Foster just gave his wife fourteen eight-ounce bottles of perfume to celebrate many years of wedded bliss. . . . P.S. Mrs. F. likes perfume! . . . Suggested song title for Lyle Talbot, "Brother, Can You Spare a Dame?" (!) . . .

•

Raquel Torres sick abed after dancing in that draughty costume at the Benefit the other night. . . . There were sixty-five actual shooting days on the first version of the Mae West picture—but it wasn't the director's fault! Add famous last words: "Oh, Mr. LeBaron, when are you going to preview 'It Ain't No Sin'?" . . Being a father was too much for Franchot Tone's Scottie—and the doggie just died. . . . . The Gary Coopers, the Cedric Gibbons (Dolores Del Rio), Paulette Goddard with Samuel Kayser, among those at the Music Box opening Tuesday night . . . Betty Furness made a hit.

•

Bill Powell, back from his latest fishing expedition, in several new shades of summer. . . . When Merle Oberon (she was the beauteous beheaded brunette in "Henry VIII") comes to Hollywood, it won't be just to look the place over! There's a w.k. agent here who furnishes part of the reason for the trip! . . . Bill Seiter took a bunch of RKO pals to the Tingel Tangel last night—his brother produces the current show. . . . Mady Christians has gone for a small palace in Beverly Glen Canyon. . . . Walter Connolly, playing straight for Irvin Cobb at dinner at the Vendome. . . . Josef Stransky with the Baroness Edith de Greve, Leroy Edwards, the Freddie Astaires, King C. Gillette, William Slavens McNutt, also dining. . . Joany Bennett, ill with pharyngitis. . . Last night Ralph Graves and Betty Flournoy, St. Louis socialite, were planning to fly to Yuma, the Arizona marriage mart, this morning.

New York REVIEWS

"LET'S TRY AGAIN"

RKO-Radio prod.; director, Worthington Minor; writers, Vincent Lawrence, Allan Scott, Worthington Miner.

Music Hall

Mirror: With all this agitation about clean pictures and uplifting pictures, "Let's Try Again" comes along to raise the moral level of this season's films. It is a touching little picture, advocating intelligence in matrimony. And it makes no case for impulsive divorce, lurid love affairs or broken homes. It is clean and pleasant, beautifully acted, tender and charming. Its appeal is aimed at the mature and the married. It will entertain these.

American: It almost approaches the bounds of being a photographed stage play. Its intrinsic jollity, however, makes "Let's Try Again" a refreshing tonic for those endeavoring to escape the steaming thermometer.

Times: If "Let's Try Again," an adaptation of Vincent Lawrence's play, "Sour Grapes," is no tour de force from a dramatic angle, it can boast of being a thoroughly human story. Its psychology is unusually interesting and the incidents are kept on a high level. The film always exacts attention without ever inflicting on the audience trite ideas, which are all too common in motion pictures.

World-Telegram: It is a nicely dressed, well-acted little piece, but, I fear, somewhat too faint and too uneven for general effectiveness. "Let's Try Again" misses fire largely because it has the pace of a five-ton truck and because it is overcrowded with quite spineless dialogue.

Post: The talents of Vincent Lawrence and Worthington Miner, both well-known and respected on the legitimate stage, are involved in the new film, "Let's Try Again." The result is very unhappy—a conversational titbit that is dull and unconvincing.

Herald-Tribune: The considerable sincerity that has gone into the making of "Let's Try Again" and the assured acting of Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook do not succeed in excusing the screen drama's deficiencies. Adapted from Vincent Lawrence's play, "Sour Grapes," it is a rather somber contemplation of the marriage convention, so top-heavy with dialogue that the action frequently breaks down completely. Except for its brief moments of intense conviction and the skilful handling of their very difficult roles by the principals, the production proves a tedious entertainment, almost wholly lacking in cinematic distinction.

News: The picture, adapted and directed by Worthington Miner, is skilfully acted, attractively mounted and beautifully photographed, but in spite of these superior attributes the drama blows up into nothing at all like a brightly colored soap bubble which doesn't even go "pop."

Sun: "Let's Try Again," although originally credited to a Vincent Lawrence play, is typical of the very talkative talkies that all too often wander East from the RKO studios. Instead of action, they offer dialogue, somewhat artificial dialogue at that. "Let's Try Again" isn't much as entertainment.

Journal: The picture is a well-mounted, intelligently handled and slow-moving piece in which the players spend most of the time talking.

Howard Lang Throws A 'Showboat' Party

Howard Lang staged a "Showboat" reunion party at the Ambassador last night in honor of Oscar Hammerstein and Sigmund Romberg, now writing "In Old Vienna" for MGM, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rheinheimer.

The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Al Hall (Lola Lane), Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Brown, Ray Long, Mildred Temple, Bernard Fineman, Alma Lloyd, Ivan Kahn, Jeanie MacPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lyon (Bebe Daniels).

Versions For Iwerks

UB Iwerks, who recently completed foreign versions on several "Comi-Color" cartoons, is now turning out the Spanish, German, French and Italian versions on "Puss in Boots" and the "Queen of Hearts."

Marion Davies Again Heads Relief Fund

Marion Davies was re-elected president of the Motion Picture Relief Fund at the annual meeting, and plans were completed for the drive to raise $200,000 for the current year's work.

The other officers, all of whom were re-elected, are: Vice-presidents, Ronald Colman, Mary Pickford, Will Hays, Samuel Goldwyn; treasurer, M. C. Levee; executive secretary, F. X. Baur. New trustees for three-year terms are Irving Thalberg, Janet Gaynor, Frank Craven, Fredric March and Joe E. Brown. Re-elected trustees are Richard Barthelmess, Marion Davies, Cecil B. DeMille, W. R. Hearst and Carl Laemmle.

Utopians Hurt Theatres

Local exhibitors are blaming the Utopians, political secret society, for a recent dent in theatre attendance. Preliminary group meetings in private homes leading up to the recent mass turn-outs at the Shrine Auditorium and in the Bowl are cited as evidence of the number of people thinking more about economics than amusements.

'Bad Boy' On Location

Eddie Cline took his "Peck's Bad Boy" troupe back to its Santa Ana location last night. The cast, headed by Jackie Cooper and Thomas Meighan will work there until next week.

FOR RENT

Private office, furnished, switchboard service

$60 per month.

Ideal for writer or producer.

624 Equitable Building

Corner Hollywood and Vine

Attention!

ONE OF OUR STAFF, HAVING HEARD THAT MISS HELEN MORGAN MIGHT BE A GUEST ON OUR OPENING NIGHT, INSERTED A STATEMENT IN OUR ADVERTISEMENT THAT MISS HELEN MORGAN WOULD BE GUEST ARTIST. THIS IS A MISTAKE WHICH WE WISH TO CORRECT BY STATING DEFINITELY THAT MISS MORGAN WILL NOT BE OUR GUEST ARTIST.

THE KINGS CLUB

8730 Sunset Boulevard

'OF HUMAN BONDAGE' SINCERE ATTEMPT THAT DISAPPOINTS

Bette Davis Does Remarkable Work

"OF HUMAN BONDAGE"
(Radio)

Direction .....John Cromwell
Original Story.....Somerset Maugham
Screen Play.....Lester Cohen
Photography .....Henry W. Gerrard
Cast: Leslie Howard, Bette Davis, Reginald Denny, Kay Johnson, Frances Dee, Reginald Owen, Alan Hale, Reginald Sheffield, Desmond Roberts.

Unfortunately, the most that can be said for this production as a whole is that it represents a noble effort to transcribe to the screen the classic novel of this generation. Beyond that, it just doesn't go. The full flavor of the book is almost completely lacking and the net result is just not entertainment, nor will its subject matter have a very wide appeal.

To the picture's credit, and a very large one it is too, is the excellent taste displayed in its making, the reverence with which the story was handled and the superb direction that Cromwell has given the vital scenes.

As it turns out, the interest in the story as told on the screen is in Mildred, probably the most unsavory gal that ever haunted the pages of a book or stalked the screen. Mildred, as played by Bette Davis, is one of the remarkable performances of the year. You loathe her all the way through and despise the almost inexplicable hold that she has on Philip, the hero. Bette Davis does a job with Mildred that is worthy of a place in screen history though heaven knows it is never for one moment attractive, but she has caught to the life that repellent, compelling quality that was Mildred.

Leslie Howard as the club-footed Philip, harrassed by his ailment, his whole outlook warped by it, is good, but somehow his problem is not made quite vital enough. His was a difficult character to sketch, and the trouble is that it is merely sketched, despite the length of the picture. Alan Hale manages to steal a few scenes, as usual, and Reginald Owen is a complete delight in the only light moments the opus offers. Kay Johnson and Frances Dee are very good as the other girls in Philip's life.

For those interested in good picture making, there is superb photography by Henry Gerrard and special effects by Vernon Walker. There are the sets as conceived by Van Nest Polglase and Carroll Clark, and they are marvels of fidelity to time and circumstances. There is fine musical scoring throughout the picture that considerably helps the interest.

Lester Cohen had a difficult assignment in the screen play and it is a pity that it just couldn't be done. As said before, Cromwell has directed a few scenes magnificently, but there are old devices used in the picture that merely stretch out the dull parts to inertia and the pace, as a whole, is too slow.

MGM Weekly Gross Set At $1,100,000

New York.—It is authoritatively reported that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is taking a weekly gross of $1,100,000 from the business being done in this and foreign countries, indicating a yearly gross of more than $50,000,000 and a possible net of around $10,000,000.

Powell In Cagney Role At Warners

Warners stopped work on "Flirtation Walk" yesterday and the Frank Borzage company is due to take a three-weeks rest until Ruby Keeler returns from the East.

This makes it possible to swing Dick Powell into the role in "Gentlemen Are Born" which was formerly scheduled for James Cagney. He costars with Margaret Lindsay. Mervyn LeRoy starts shooting Monday, Sam Bischoff supervising.

Two other Bischoff pictures start early next week. They are "I'll Sell Anything," with Pat O'Brien in the top spot, and "The Perfect Week-End," with Cagney.

Roach Will Make Four Features This Season

New York.—Hal Roach, who left for the coast by plane yesterday, announced that he will make four features this coming season, in addition to the 32 shorts.

Two of the features will be with Laurel and Hardy, and the others will be all-star casts, the first being "Greek Meets Greek."

'Divorce' Starts Today

With Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers teamed in the top spots, Mark Sandrich today puts "The Gay Divorce" before the cameras at Radio. Alice Brady, Edward Everett Horton, Eric Blore and Erik Rhodes are in the cast. Pandro Berman produces.

Penner Leaves July 6

New York.—Joe Penner, famous radio comic, will leave for the coast by boat July 6. His Paramount debut will be in "College Rhythm" with Lanny Ross and Lyda Roberti. Ross leaves here July 18 by train.

Eddy To Sing 'Carlo'

Nelson Eddy, MGM's baritone, was assigned to a microphone part in "Student Tour" yesterday. He will furnish the voice singing the "Carlo," song-dance number written by Brown and Freed for the picture.

Carrillo Ordered Back

Leo Carrillo was ordered to call off his personals in the East and report to MGM at once for rehearsals in "The Winning Ticket," in which he teams with Louise Fazenda under Chuck Reisner's direction.

Economy Move By 'U' Is Stepped On

The Los Angeles Board of Education stepped in yesterday and stopped Universal from using a flock of children picked up in the Carthay district as atmosphere in scenes for "Romance in the Rain," shooting in the Carthay Circle theatre.

An extra player telephoned to Aubrey Blair, of the Junior Screen Actors' Guild, telling him that the kids had been gathered up and were being used without a permit and with ice cream cones as the only remuneration. Blair notified the Board of Education, which sent a representative immediately to the scene, ordered the youngsters out of the theatre and stopped the shooting.

Fox Sets Back Picture To Loan Player To 'U'

Fox yesterday consented to push back its starting date on "Marie Gallante" in order to accommodate Universal in its request for Ned Sparks.

This is said to be the first time that a studio postponed starting a picture in order to cooperate with another studio. Sparks was wanted by John Stahl for a role in "Imitation of Life."

Thorpe on 'Lady Tubbs'

Universal has assigned Richard Thorpe to direct "Lady Tubbs," an unpublished novel by Homer Croy, as the first job on his term deal with the studio. Adele Buffington is writing the screen play and Lou Ostrow will produce.

New Writer At MGM

MGM yesterday added Marjorie Klein to the writing staff to write the screen play of an untitled original story.

Baer M. P. Club Guest

New York.—Max Baer will be the guest of the Motion Picture Club at its Open Forum meeting on Friday.

'Quit France,' Is Urged

(Continued from Page 1)

more than twenty per cent of the total European income comes from that country.

The Hays organization branch in Paris can see little hope of any leniency on the part of the French Government and says that the only possible way to mend matters is through retaliation by the United States on French wines and other imports. It has already asked the State Department to help.

So far as could be learned, the only action taken by the Hays office in Hollywood yesterday with regard to the French situation was to make a survey of how many French people are employed in the studios. It was learned that there are 56 who were born in France and 350 of French parentage, but born in this country. This valuable information was wired to New York.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

This censorship business evidently has theatre audiences as worried over what they're going to get as it's got the producers worried over what they'll be allowed to give them. The other day, when the story broke that "It Ain't No Sin" had been completely barred by the New York State Board of Regents, it was our pleasure to go see a movie. In back of us a couple of fans were discussing the latest censor move and bemoaning conditions that made such a thing possible. Finally one said to the other: "Wonder what they'll do to 'Cleopatra'?" And the other one replied: "Oh, they can't do anything to that because that's in the Bible!"

•

If you want to hear sheer raving over a performance, listen in on the MGM lot to the superlatives they're using for Mady Christians. That gal made a forty-minute test that had them dizzy and the thing that evidently impressed them the most is the fact that Miss Christians can sing. Not only that, but when she sings her mouth is not wide open, so that you don't mind watching her while she's doing it. Anyway, she seems to be the pet white hope for next season and, if her first screen effort is only half as good as the test, it looks as though MGM has picked itself a real star. We can only add: As first reported in the Hollywood Reporter.

•

They must have started in hiring efficiency experts around this town again. At least it seems to us that only an efficiency expert could possibly have thought up the end of the following story: An agent took on a secretary with the understanding that she was to get twenty-five dollars a week for the first four weeks and, if retained beyond that period, she would receive thirty dollars a week. After working five weeks, the girl asked if she was satisfactory and was told that she was "swell." She then reminded the agent of their agreement and asked for the thirty per. The agent told her it wasn't time for a RAISE. The girl told him that she couldn't work for twenty-five, but would stay until they could get someone else. The next day, however, she was told she could leave and she did.

BUT, she had forgotten to collect fifty-six cents that was owed her for petty items she had bought for her boss. A few days later she received a check for fifty-three cents. Three cents had been deducted for postage!

Meighan In Pictures Again and Will Stick

Thomas Meighan yesterday voiced his intention to get back in pictures again. He came to the coast to play in "Peck's Bad Boy" for Sol Lesser. When the picture is completed he will return to Long Island to close up his home there for the winter, and return to Los Angeles in September.

GRATITUDE GAVE ALL PLACES ON 5-5 COMMITTEES TO GUILDS

Writers Pulled The NRA Out Of a Hole

Washington.—The real inside story of why only Writer and Actor Guild members were appointed to the important 5-5 NRA committees, which will have the job of settling the differences between producers and talent, was revealed today when it was disclosed here that the Screen Writers' Guild of Hollywood had come to the rescue of the NRA and had pulled it out of one of the most embarrassing situations it has been in since its inception.

Not only was all consideration of Academy members dropped, but a group of major producers were quietly persuaded to withdraw a protest which they had filed against the appointment of the 5-5 committees, and an announcement was given out from the NRA offices that no protests had been received.

The story is that a certain big magazine publisher was all set to start a terrific campaign against the NRA and was also preparing to carry his fight against it into the court. In brief, this man was set to give the NRA one of the worst body blows it has yet received. And General Hugh Johnson is said to have been frightened, worried and up a tree in his efforts to stop the campaign before it started.

When he was facing apparent failure, the Screen Writers' Guild is said to have stepped in and told General Johnson that they thought one of their members might be able to help him. The General accepted, and a Guild member contacted the publisher who called off his plans.

Both General Johnson and Sol Rosenblatt are said to have appreciated the help of the Guild so much that they decided a little cooperation on their part would not be amiss. So the stalling tactics in the appointment of the 5-5 committees, which had been held up for more than six months, were called off and only Guild nominees for writers and actors were appointed.

It was just at this time that the producers filed a protest against the appointment of the committees, asking for a public hearing to decide whether or not such committees were really necessary. But General Johnson and Rosenblatt are said to have kept that protest under blankets and to have gone to work on the producers, with the result that the protest was withdrawn and the appointments were made. That protest was never publicized.

Rosenblatt is said to have put the pressure on the producers to hurry their nominations for producer members to be appointed by him to these committees, and they are expected to be named within a few days.

Bull on One Lot 16 Years

MGM will owe Clarence Bull a cake with sixteen Roman candles on it July 4. It completes the portrait ace's sixteenth year on the lot, originally the Goldwyn studio.

Lehar Sends Score For 'Merry Widow'

Franz Lehar yesterday made a unique contribution to MGM's "The Merry Widow." It was a complete orchestration for the picture, written by himself, just to show that he is interested in the production. It will be used intact in scoring the picture.

Paramount Has But Three Pix In Work

With only one picture, "You Belong To Me," shooting at the studio and two others on location, Paramount yesterday hit the lowest prdouction level in more than six months. "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" worked at the Lasky ranch yesterday, and "Now and Forever" was on location in Westwood.

Of three additional pictures previously scheduled to be in work this week, one, "Pursuit of Happiness," has been set back until July 2, and the other two, "Ready for Love" and "Enter Madame," will not get before the cameras until the middle of next month.

Franz Schulz To MGM

Franz Schulz, the German scenarist who wrote "Two Hearts in Waltz Time," was added to MGM's writing staff yesterday and teamed with Edgar Allan Woolf.

'U' Purchases Songs

Universal yesterday purchased three songs by Albert Von Tilzer for "The Gift of Gab," the Rian James production which Karl Freund directs. The deal was negotiated by Hoffman-Schlager.

New Writer For Mascot

Ernest Frederick Chester has been signed by Nat Levine of Mascot to a writing ticket and assigned to work on an untitled original.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

of June 30, your reviewer was near the mark in only one case out of half a dozen. Even if you had access to the books of the motion picture producers and could publish accurate salaries of the players, you would still be creating a false impression in the minds of your readers. You do not take into consideration the enormous expenses incidental to motion picture eminence, nor the very few years an actor has in which to provide for his future, during which the government takes in income tax almost half of his salary.

"May we suggest that the flippantly written, inaccurate 'Vital Statistics' add nothing to the pages of Liberty, and in all fairness to the motion picture industry should be eliminated."

It is to be hoped that not only Liberty, but all other publications, will heed this good advice.

Harris Doubts Offer Of 'Nijinski' Rights

New York.—Sam Harris yesterday said that he doubted if John Wildberg, the New York lawyer now in Hollywood, has any authority to dispose of the screen rights to the "Nijinski" play.

Harris states that he holds an Authors' League contract with Alexander Korda for the stage rights, which carry the screen rights if the play runs three weeks. He believes that Wildberg is acting for Violet Cooper, who is Korda's agent, and that there is a misunderstanding of the situation. Harris expects to have the Melchior Lengyel script within a week and will at once submit it to Paul Muni, who, he hopes, will play the lead.

Harry Warner On Way

New York.—Harry M. Warner left for the coast and the Warner studios yesterday.

Indies To Discuss New NRA Rules

The recently completed clearance and zoning schedule, compiled by the Los Angeles NRA Clearance and Zoning Board, comes up for discussion by the members of the Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California at noon next Monday.

The schedule, which eliminates double bills and practically wipes out the five-cent houses, has been the only subject of conversation among the theatre men ever since its high lights were made public a week ago. As the full text of the schedule has not yet been made public, officials of the theatre organization and of the NRA board thought it best to present it at a meeting where everyone would have a chance to give his opinions. The meeting will be at the Elks Club.

'Countess' For Rogers

Completing his script on "Evelyn Prentice" for John Considine yesterday, Howard Emmett Rogers immediately was assigned to write the screen play of "The Blonde Countess," Herbert Yardley's novel. Lawrence Weingarten produces.

Lovely Ladies
Love to Wear
Lovely Intimate Wear
Exclusive Lingerie
and Hosiery

JUEL PARK
TRADE MARK
BEVERLY HILLS
Wilshire Blvd. at Beverly Drive

London's Smartest Address—
GROSVENOR HOUSE
PARK LANE . . .

is also London's most modern hotel. An apartment at Grosvenor House provides an actual "home from home," replete with every modern aid to greater comfort.

The location of Grosvenor House is a happy blend of convenience and charm; in and around the hotel London's social life moves; near by are the best shops and the theatres; just across the way is London's great garden, Hyde Park.

Life is amusing, easy and pleasant at

Grosvenor House, London

Cable Address for Reservations: GROVHOWS, AUDLEY, LONDON

DOLORES DEL RIO

as

Madame Du Barry

in the

Warner Bros.-First National Production

"MADAME DU BARRY"

WILHELM DIETERLE

directed

"MADAME DU BARRY"

EDWARD CHODOROV

Story and Screen Play

"MADAME DU BARRY"

REGINALD OWEN

plays

Louis XV

"MADAME DU BARRY"

Management
WILLIAM MORRIS AGENCY

MANUEL SEFF

"GOLDDIGGERS OF 1935"

SCREEN PLAY AND DIALOGUE

(In Collaboration)

••

FROM AN ORIGINAL STORY BY ROBERT LORD AND PETER MILNE

••

NOW PREPARING

SCREEN PLAY AND DIALOGUE

"A Present From Margate"

Warner Bros.–First National Productions

CHURCHES GIVE IMPETUS TO WAR AGAINST FILMS

New York.—Added impetus yesterday was given the campaign being waged by the churches and other reform elements against objectionable pictures through editorials in the publications of several religious bodies. The July issue of The Churchman will say, editorially:

"At last the Hays office and the Hollywood producers are on the run. The Hays promises of improved self-regulation were as a whisper on the Summer breeze when added to the long list of previous broken promises."

An editorial in the July issue of the American Lutheran will say:

"The film industry is poisoning the minds of youth and is the open sewer of America." It will also endorse the demand of the Civic Union for Federal censorship of pictures at the production source.

In Chicago, Archbishop McNicholas, of Cincinnati, counselled the National Catholic Educational Association to tend the campaign to include the 2,600,000 children in the parochial grammar and high schools. He said:

"If the Hays jury does its work as badly in New York as it did in Hollywood, there is nothing to do but to continue aggressive action."

The drive has now spread to Canada. An appeal was made yesterday to the Catholic Women's League in Victoria, B.C., to abstain from attending theatres where questionable films are being shown, and a Canada-wide movement to bring about reforms in the industry is advocated.

Robinson East With Rogers; Then To France

Casey Robinson, Paramount writer, accompanies Charles R. Rogers and Val Paul to New York by boat tomorrow on the first leg of his trip to Europe. While en route he will complete the screen play of "McFadden's Flats," which will be Rogers' first picture on his new Paramount deal.

Robinson then goes to France to confer with Renee Barteux, who is writing an original story for Rogers. He will be away a little more than two months.

Joan Bennett Ill, So 'Happiness' Is Set Back

Because Joan Bennett is suffering from a bronchial trouble, Paramount yesterday set back the start of "Pursuit of Happiness" again, now scheduling it for July 2. She has the lead opposite Francis Lederer.

The studio yesterday signed Barbara Barondess, through Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, and Olin Howland.

It's a Girl At Rogers'

Mrs. Mildred Rogers, wife of Howard Emmett Rogers, MGM writer, gave birth to a girl, her third child, at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital early yesterday. Dr. McNeal reported mother and child doing favorably.

Bee Spots the Marx

While serving the set point during a tennis match the other day, Sam Marx surprised the players by changing his style suddenly and slamming over an ace to win the match. He was asked why he changed his style and said: "Just as I started to serve a bee stung me."

Jack Robbins Issuing Songbook For 'Widow'

The "Merry Widow" songbook Jack Robbins sends to press next month, to issue simultaneously with MGM's picture, will contain six of the Franz Lehar songs with the modernized lyrics by Gus Kahn, and will have portraits and biographical sketches of Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Ernst Lubitsch and Irving Thalberg.

It is hoped to put the book in theatre lobbies where the picture is showing, in addition to tie-up sales over the regular music counters.

Cukor Busy Testing

George Cukor entered yesterday upon a week of intensive testing for "David Copperfield," having been interviewing prospects for the Dickens characters since his return from Europe. At least 30 more tests are to be made.

Cedric Worth To Para.

Cedric Worth was signed by Paramount yesterday to do the screen play on "Hold 'Em Yale," the Damon Runyon story. The deal was set by Vivian Gaye, of the Polimer office.

Major Prods. Files Stock Issue Plans

Washington.—Major Film Productions Inc., of Los Angeles, yesterday filed its stock issue plans for registration with the Federal Trade Commission under the Securities Act.

The corporation, organized May 3 last, proposes to issue 3000 shares of six per cent participating preferred stock of $100 par value, the proceeds to be used as working capital. According to the report filed, the underwriters are Blanchet & Company.

The officers of the company are Fred Church, of San Fernando, president; Sam I. Saunders, Los Angeles, vice-president; William DeLong, Los Angeles, secretary-treasurer.

Quintet To Produce

(Continued from Page 1)

been definitely decided upon, and will be announced later.

Production headquarters will be at the Sennett studio and both Fields and Crosby will be in the first two . Tully and Fowler will contribute their writing ability and Sennett will pitch in with his production experience.

They are financing themselves and will engage an important director to handle their first picture, according to Tully, who also said that if they could not find a man to suit, they will direct it among themselves. "My presence in the set-up," Tully said, "is to keep Fields and Crosby conservative. Otherwise, they are apt to be radical."

JANE MURFIN

ADAPTED

"THE LIFE OF VIRGIE WINTERS"

Radio PICTURES

What The Critics Say About

"PRIVATE SCANDAL"

Paramount Production—Ralph Murphy, Director

TACOOMA LEDGER: Ned Sparks steals the honors in "Private Scandal." His frozen face and take-it-or-leave-it attitude as the Detective give the audience a long series of laughs.

ST. LOUIS STAR-TIMES: They have thrown tradition overboard in "Private Scandal." With the assistance of Zasu Pitts and Ned Sparks, as the Detective, they make the incidents of a killing convulsively amusing. The result is that everyone comes under the suspicion of Sparks, the best screen Detective of recent years.

COLUMBUS STATE JOURNAL: Few things are funnier than mystery interspaced with comedy. That is just the plan of "Private Scandal." There's a murder, or is it suicide? There are plenty of suspects. And there is Ned Sparks as the Detective. What more could you ask.

NEW YORK TELEGRAPH: One of the real reasons I enjoyed "Private Scandal" was because Ned Sparks, for the first time in a truly able film career, is given the opportunity to take advantage of those comedy talents he possesses in abundance. As a Detective who just refuses to take his victims at their face value, Mr. Sparks goes through the film with the assurance that makes for good performance.

NEW ORLEANS STATES: It is astonishing how interesting a childish plot can be when the players are good. Take "Private Scandal" for instance. There isn't enough scandal to shock a Sunday School picnic, but with the splendid cast the play moves forward rapidly and delightfully. Ned Sparks' hard-boiled Detective is a smash.

DENVER POST: Mirth mixed with mystery by Ned Sparks. Dour Detective solves crime in "Private Scandal." Without the comedy with which it fairly sparkles, "Private Scandal" would have lost some of its privacy and entered the bone heap with the row upon row of good-but-not-great mystery films.

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL: "Private Scandal" mystery and comedy A-A-A. The key to the nature of the picture can be discovered in the statement—an authentic statement—that Ned Sparks is the Detective summoned to put his finger on a murderer.

NED SPARKS

Just Completed

"SERVANT'S ENTRANCE"

Fox Production, Directed by

FRANK LLOYD

•

Starting Immediately

"IMITATION OF LIFE"

Universal Production, Direction

JOHN STAHL

•

Signed Contracts to do two more productions for FOX

"MARIE GALLANT"

Direction of

HENRY KING

•

"LOTTERY LOVER"

Direction of

HAMMS SCHWARTZ

•

Exclusive Management

BEYER and MacARTHUR

YOUR BEACH HOME—
Is Its Cellar Stocked?

If you will call us up we will be pleased to send you our latest Wines and Spirits Catalogue, which is just off the press.

We offer attractive discounts on assorted shipments of a case or more, with free delivery to your beach home.
There will be many times this Summer that you and your guests will appreciate a long, cool drink.

In addition to spirits of every description, we can supply you with all the better grade imported and domestic Charged Waters, Ginger Ales, Imported German Munchener Beer, etc.

For one of the "hot-thirsty" days we suggest two novelties:

VERMOUTH-CASSIS

Made with 2 ounces of Martini and Rossi Vermouth and 1 ounce Creme de Cassis. Use a 12-ounce glass, 2 cubes of ice and fill with any good carbonated water.

AMER PICON AVEC SIROPS

Use 2 ounces of Amer Picon and Sirop Fraise or Framboise to taste. Serve with ice and charged water as with the Vermouth Cassis.

VENDOME

6666 SUNSET BOULEVARD
HOllywood 1666

% READING DEPT.
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI, No. 44. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Friday, June 29, 1934

FIGHT EXPECTED IN PAR.

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•GROWING out of all this uproar about unclean pictures, reform, censorship, boycotts, etc., there is one idea that might be worth considering if these troubles are not to continue. That idea is to let the writers in the employ of the producing companies write the stories for the pictures and write them as they would if there were no executive interference.

After all, the story is the backbone of a picture. We have plenty of men and women in Hollywood who know how that backbone should be framed, who know just where and how each vertebra in the structure should be placed. Most of the trouble with pictures, most of the kicks against them have come from extra vertebrae that have been inserted, some of them in not so healthy a condition.

•

There are today on the writing staffs of the major studios a great number of writers who have written in the past and who still write stories for national magazines which are interesting and exciting enough to be accepted and published by those magazines, and which have not the slightest trace of anything objectionable because those big publications would not stand for it. These writers have done plays which have been produced, novels which have been published, and without any talk of necessity for censoring.

It seems reasonable to suppose that, having done these things in the past, these writers could do the same type of work now—if they were given the opportunity and were not tied down by the orders received from their superiors. It isn't the writer who puts the extra and bad-conditioned vertebrae into his story unless he is definitely ordered to do so, and there is hardly a writer in the studios who has not, at some time or other, been told to "jazz this story up."

•

Most of them don't want to write off-color stuff, but it is a case of bread and butter—plenty of bread and lots of butter. So they do what they are told, take the weekly pay check, and shrug it off with, "If I didn't do it, someone else would."

It might be a good idea to give some of these men and women a free

(Continued on Page 2)

Dividend Declared On Loew's Preferred

New York.—The Board of Directors of Loew's Inc. yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.62 on the $6.50 cumulative preferred stock, payable August 15.

Lutherans Demand Pictures Clean-up

Albany.—The Evangelical Lutheran Church swung into line in the campaign against unclean pictures yesterday. At the Atlantic District Convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri and Other States, the lay delegates adopted a resolution calling for a crusade within the church to reform the motion picture industry.

The resolution declared that "the leading characters of the movies are better known to children than the Biblical characters of their Sunday school lessons."

Big Job For Kennedy

New York.—Joseph P. Kennedy has been offered the chairmanship of the new five-man Securities Commission and is now in Washington to talk about it.

Ginsberg Flies East

Henry Ginsberg, Hal Roach general manager, left by plane yesterday for New York to attend the funeral of his father, David Ginsberg, who died there Wednesday. He will return Monday.

Battle With Stockholders Looms When Organization Plan Goes To Court July 10

New York.—The reorganization plan for Paramount-Publix has been completed by Kuhn, Loeb and Company and the auditors and will be presented to the court on July 10. It is expected that there wlil be a sharp contest as to the best method to be employed in the rehabilitation of the company.

Frank Vanderlip, chairman of the Bondholders Protective Committee, announced yesterday that he did not expect the proceedings would be all smooth sailing and he was convinced that the stockholders would battle against the proposed plan to assess each share of stock $2 to create a fund to pay off the corporation's bank loans.

He said that the company's earnings

(Continued on Page 5)

Agency Committee Meeting Postponed

The scheduled meeting of the NRA Agency Committee, set for yesterday afternoon, was called off because of the inability of Adolphe Menjou to attend.

Menjou was working and, because of the importance of the meeting, at which a code of fair practice for producers, agents and artists was to be presented, the Screen Actors' Guild wanted him on hand. The meeting will be held next Monday night.

Hays Office In Air Over French Tangle

New York.—The Hays office is still very much up in the air over the situation created in France by the new restrictions imposed on American pictures. Major Herron, in charge of foreign affairs, said yesterday that he had not yet had a complete report from the Paris office and could not say how the distributors would take the situation.

He felt that the six months ban would have a very bad effect because, he explained, no company can function on a six-months period. So far as the import duty increase is concerned, he could not be definite, because he did not know how burdensome that would prove in comparison with the amount of business being done.

Para. Buys 'Beach Boy' For Hawaiian Musical

Paramount announced yesterday plans for an elaborate musical with a Hawaiian background, and purchased "Beach Boy," a Daniel Evans story.

Carl Brisson, Kitty Carlisle, Jack Oakie, Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland and Evelyn Venable were set for the cast. The remainder of the cast, director, writers and supervisor will be announced later.

Del Rio-Radio Split

Radio has let its deal with Dolores Del Rio for the second picture on the two-picture ticket the studio had with her on last year's program go by the boards, the contract expiring after both parties were unable to agree on a story. The player is under contract to Warners.

MGM After 'Irene'

MGM is negotiating for the purchase of "Irene," a musical comedy by James Montgomery which First National produced as a silent in 1926. Joseph McCarthy and Harry Tierney wrote the lyrics and music.

CONSOLIDATED, FEARING LAB WAR, BUYS RKO BONDS

New York.—Consolidated Film Industries has just purchased $1,800,000 worth of Radio-Keith-Orpheum bonds from the Chemical National Bank, paying par for the lot. These bonds have behind them as collateral the RKO negatives, all studio property and other assets.

It is felt here that the purchase is due to the fact that Consolidated believes a laboratory war is coming and desires to make its position with RKO even stronger than it is now. Consolidated at the present time handles all the company's feature printing, while the DuPonts take care of the Van Beuren work and, because of their interest in Pathe, of the Pathe newsreel work also.

Beahan With Goldwyn

Sam Goldwyn yesterday signed Charles Beahan to act as his Eastern story head. Beahan leaves for New York in the near future. He was recently Columbia story head.

Selznick Ill Again

David Selznick was confined to his home again yesterday, after having returned to his office Wednesday prematurely after an attack of largynitis.

Marie Dressler Sinking

At a late hour last night it was reported from Santa Barbara that Marie Dressler was sinking and the doctors had very slight hope.

Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin Music and Lyrics "Kiss And Make Up"

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957

New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15. Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE LOW DOWN

Hear tell (in spite of Bob Montgomery's gay denials in the fan mags) that the Montgomery divorce proceedings are a matter of moments. The situation has reached the "settlement" stage—and it's quite a settlement, from what we gather. Or maybe we should say, "from what Mrs. M. is going to gather." Well, anyway, we hear that the arrangements call for Betty Montgomery to share not only Bob's earnings since they've been wed—but for her to get considerable part of his future earnings on his MGM contract, which still has five years to run. So either somebody has a very good lawyer—or maybe somebody has a very guilty conscience—or maybe the age of generosity is upon us!

•

A startling bit of news is revealed to us by a famous local whose name we cannot divulge because he does not wish to be thought a publicity-seeker. There has been NO Infantile Paralysis Epidemic in Los Angeles this year! The hysteria which has caused families to isolate their children, empty the theatres, the stores and the beaches, is, upon the highest authorities, totally unfounded! The men sent here by the Rockefeller Foundation to investigate conclude that the only authentic cases of infantile paralysis here are those which have resulted in paralysis, and that seventy per cent of all cases diagnosed as such are questionable. Also that there have been no more infantile cases this year than during other years. The Medical Journal reports that the "wholesale inoculation" that has been going on is purely experimental and the result of the current hysteria by all who read the papers (which seem to go in for science a lot lately!) So calm your fears and go back to play!

•

And speaking of things clinical—a well-known actress has been confined in a hospital here for several days, supposedly for a rest. Now, we are very sad to report that the lady in question may have to remain confined indefinitely, for she is very ill—mentally. The girl has had many tussles with illness and accidents during her picture career, and at the moment is suffering from delusions and other mental symptoms that may be the result of her past troubles. Although very few know it, she is in a very bad way!

New York REVIEWS

"OPERATOR 13"

MGM prod.; director, Richard Boleslavsky; writers, Harvey Thew, Zelda Sears and Eve Greene.

Capitol Theatre

World-Telegram: It needed three adaptors to discover the rather obvious plot in "Operator 13," and none of them seems to have known just what to do about it. But Marion Davies did. So, when you go to see "Operator 13," go on the distinct understanding that you will see Miss Davies at her best in a film that isn't even half worthy of such a fine performance. Most of the entertainment's pleasantness is due to Miss Davies, who is at her best. And Miss Davies at her best is something that you can't afford to miss.

Sun: Still another spy story, this time a prettily costumed, sentimental affair of the Civil War. Written in the operetta vein, it is played apparently for straight melodrama and comedy effect. Brief bits o fcomedy save it from being dull. In spite of its elaborate production, "Operator 13" is one of the lesser spy dramas.

American: A wealth of visible and audible charm has been confected by Cosmopolitan Productions in making "Operator 13." Combined with the inspired talents of Marion Davies, Gary Cooper, Jean Parker, Katherine Alexander and a host of intelligent actors, "Operator 13" rightfully can be called "The Birth of a Nation" of the New Deal era.

Mirror: The master story-teller, the late Robert W. Chambers, evolved this thrilling and romantic account of a girl spy, active during the Civil War. It makes a fine vehicle for Marion Davies, whose talent as a mimic is required to put over the exacting role. The film is rousing and romantic, a handsomely produced and cleverly acted story, which is touching, thrilling, exciting and exhilarating. Don't miss it.

Times: If it is scarcely credible in most of its action, it is a well-staged production. In its own peculiar fashion it is entertaining and besides the capable work of Miss Davies there are splendid performances by Jean Parker and Gary Cooper.

News: The picture is careful to subordinate the historical facts of the War of the Rebellion to the love affair between Marion Davies and Gary Cooper, each cast as a spy in this photoplay. From a marital standpoint the picture is stirring and exciting.

Herald-Tribune: A Civil War drama with a spy angle, "Operator 13" offers Marion Davies a vehicle for a straight dramatic performance in which she exhibits far more talent than one might expect after seeing her in recent comedy roles. Under the talented direction of Mr. Boleslavsky, she brings to the picture a characterization believable, and at the same time surprising. While "Operator 13" is "no great shakes" among films, it offers an interesting and entertaining account of a spy's activities during the Civil War.

Post: An Opera Ball version of the Civil War is the film feature at the Capitol Theatre this week, and it's a swank and joyous affair, even if you can't see the war on account of the spies. It's fantastic, but you'll love it. It certainly has drama in it, but it is paper-doll drama and it is very pretty. Miss Davies never gets under the surface of anything, but she doesn't pretend to do anything else.

Journal: You'll have a marvelous time at Marion Davies' new picture, "Operator 13." The star is gorgeous. The story is extraordinarily fascinating. The sets, the direction and the supporting cast, headed by Gary Cooper, are tremendously effective. Whichever way you look at it, and it's the kind of picture you'll want to look at more than just once, "Operator 13" is superb entertainment.

Betty Flournoy and Ralph Graves Marry

As forecast in the Hollywood Reporter yesterday morning, Ralph Graves and Betty Flournoy flew to Yuma, Arizona, yesterday and were married.

Miss Flournoy left a note for her mother telling her where she had gone. Later in the day she wired the producer of a play she was to appear in, saying she could not appear. The newlyweds plan to return Sunday.

One For Schertzinger

Victor Schertzinger was assigned direction of "Hello, Big Boy," Felix Young's musical for Columbia, yesterday. Production is two weeks ahead.

Old Pix Showing In Continental Cities

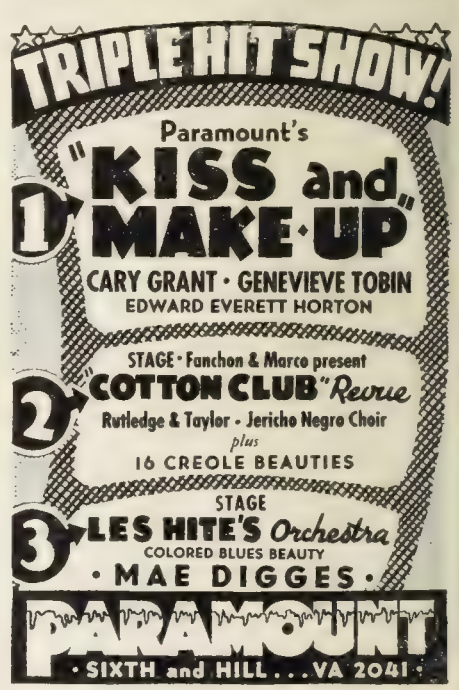
Vienna.—With the exception of the Mae West picture, "I'm No Angel," which is a sensational hit here, practically all the pictures showing in this city, Prague and Budapest are old ones, most of which are American. In Budapest, Universal's "Back Street" is being shown again and doing very well, being now in its fourth week.

Production in Budapest is heavy. Joe Pasternak is just finishing a Universal super, called "Fruhjahrsparade," which is being shot in German, French and English. There is also plenty of production in Vienna, where about twenty pictures are contemplated.

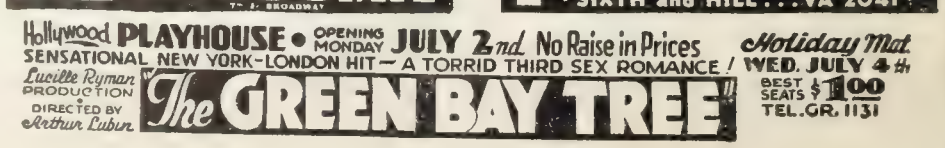
The most popular of the American pictures on the Continent are "Queen Christina," "Cavalcade," "Only Yesterday," "Lady for a Day" and "42nd Street."

Prinz Busy on Three

LeRoy Prinz returned from a tour of the country and started to work out special dance numbers for three Paramount pictures yesterday. He is on "Limehouse Nights," which Al Hall directs; "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Norman Taurog directing, and "You Belong to Me," which Al Werker is directing.



Rivkin Sets a Deal



New York.—Joe Rivkin Inc. made a deal yesterday with Fishbein Plays Inc. whereby he will be the motion picture representative for twelve plays to be tried out this Summer.

Tradeviews
(Continued from Page 1)

hand, to make a few pictures as they are written and see what happens. We may be all wrong, but we believe that the result would be better pictures, and pictures with which the reform element could not find fault.

'OLD-FASHIONED WAY' A RIOT; 'CHAN'S COURAGE' BELOW PAR

Fields-Morrison Steal The Picture

"THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY"
(Paramount)

Direction .....William Beaudine
Original Story.....Charles Bogle
Screen Play.....Garnett Weston and Jack Cunningham
Music and Lyrics.....Gordon and Revel
Photography .....Benjamin Reynolds
Cast: W. C. Fields, Joe Morrison, Judith Allen, Jan Duggan, Nora Cecil, Tammany Young, Baby LeRoy, Jack Mulhall, Joe Mills, Samuel Etheridge, Emma Hay, Ruth Marion, Dell Henderson, Clarence Wilson, Richard Carle, Otis Harlan, Dorothy Bay, Oscar Smith, Maxine Hicks, Lew Kelly, Davison Clark, Edward J. Le Saint.

Not only is this picture to be rated as a W. C. Fields laugh special, but it introduces a brand new screen personality in the form and voice of Joe Morrison, who will give the fans something to look forward to in a big way. Get behind this one with everything you've got, because it's entertainment from start to finish and there are laughs in it for every member of the family.

Come to think of it, there is no story—just names and a situation that serve as an excuse for having W. C. Fields amuse you for seven reels, and the less excuse there is for him, the funnier he is. As the Great McGonigle, Fields is quite priceless, and is given an opportunity to go through his old juggling act, just as good as new.

The really great thing that the picture accomplishes is to bring Joe Morrison to the screen. This will prove to be a boon to Paramount, the exhibitor and the public. Morrison is the lad who started the vogue for the "Last Round-Up," but all is forgiven with his performance here. His voice registers beautifully and stops the show. Besides which, his personality is grand and he photographs like a million dollars. He should be a big help to his company in the future.

According to the list of credits, "Cleopatra Pepperday" is played by Jan Duggan. We hope the name is correct, because we want to give credit to the right person for a particularly funny sequence, the rendition of that old ditty, "Gather Sea-shells." Baby LeRoy is a riot for a few short moments—just enough to make you want more. Tammany Young gives a stand-out performance as McGonigle's amaneunsis. In fact, the entire cast, large as it is, deserve individual acknowledgment for their good work.

William Beaudine must have had a time for himself directing this, because his own good humor is reflected in the way the gags go over. There is one in which the laughs are sustained for a full ten minutes. Weston and Cunningham have devised the situations and they are plenty amusing. Gordon and Revel have given out with another hit song, "Rolling in Love," and a "Mother" song that will undoubtedly be taken "serious" because it turns out to be so good. The Reynolds' photography is right up to par every moment.

Baer Breaks Record At N.Y. Paramount

New York.—Max Baer's personal appearance at the Paramount Theatre yesterday gave the house the biggest day's business it has done in 24 weeks. Baer clowns with Benny Rubin, sings, dances with the chorus girls, and introduces his brother, who is bigger than he is.

New Plan For FWC Ready In August

New York.—Arrangements under which the Chase National Bank, Fox Films and Wesco Corporation will reacquire the Fox West Coast theatres from their bankruptcy trustees are still under discussion. It is hoped to have a deal ready for submission to the Federal court in Los Angeles early in August. Whether the active Delaware corporation of FWC will be adopted as a direct subsidiary of Wesco, or a new holding link be forged to replace the bankrupt California corporation is not decided.

When approved, the trustees will bow out, except that Charles P. Skouras will remain as operating head of the California theatres.

S. C. Theatre Owners In New Organization

Sacramento.—Incorporation papers of the Theatre Owners Association of Southern California were filed here yesterday. The organization, formed in Los Angeles, wants to take in the territory south of San Luis Obispo, Kern and San Bernardino counties.

The directors named are Sherill Cohen, Elaine Waldman and G. A. Metzger. The organization is said to be for the promotion of the welfare of theatres in its district.

Chodorov To Produce Muni's 'Border Town'

Edward Chodorov is entrusted with the production of Paul Muni's next, "Border Town," which is ten days distant on the Warner schedule. Wilhelm Dieterle, who directs, is working with Muni on make-up tests.

The producer-director combination is the same as for "DuBarry."

Hoffe Off To England

Monckton Hoffe, having finished his work on "What Every Woman Knows," leaves for England tonight. He will be gone for two months and will then return to Hollywood, MGM having taken up its option on his services.

Glenn Tryon Assigned

Glenn Tryon was assigned by Radio yesterday to work on the script of "Richest Girl in the World," which will have Miriam Hopkins directed by William Seiter. John Norton and Barney Hutchinson are already working on the screen play.

WarnerOland Good, But Story Is Dull

"CHARLIE CHAN'S COURAGE"
(Fox)

Direction .....George Hadden
Author .....Earl Derr Biggers
Screen Play.....Seton I. Miller
Photography .....Hal Mohr
Cast: Warner Oland, Drue Leyton, Donald Woods, Paul Harvey, Murray Kinnell, Harvey Clark.

The latest of that series of popular mysteries, "Charlie Chan's Courage," is distinctly below par. It is languid, heavy-handed, and totally lacking in the usual Chan humor.

The story is not as interesting as its predecessors and even Warner Oland, although he performs with his usual skill, fails to be as effective as usual. Fault lies with the story itself and with the direction.

The plot deals with a string of pearls and the excitement attendant upon their delivery to the purchaser, Paul Harvey. Chan is commissioned to deliver them, but, disturbed by a couple of murders, one kidnaping and a mysterious stranger who lurks around corners, he delays handing them over to Harvey until the dirty work is explained.

To this end, he hires himself out as the Chinese cook in Harvey's ranch house, and takes with him Donald Woods, the young son of the jewel merchant. Mixed up some way in the plot is Drue Leyton, who seems to be a location scout for a motion picture company.

The two most interesting characters in the film are seen all too briefly. One is the engaging actor who plays the driver of an ancient flivver, and the other is a parrot which is killed all too soon.

Oland gives his best to the part, but has very little to work with. Miss Leyton is pretty and plays easily; Donald Woods is charming; Paul Harvey is strongly cast; Murray Kinnel has another of his slyly suspicious roles, and Harvey Clark is a good aid to the villain.

George Hadden's direction is noticeably slow; Seton I. Miller adapted Earl Derr Biggers' yarn, and Hal Mohr's photography is a big asset.

Fans of Charlie Chan will go, of course, to see this picture, but they will be disappointed.

Darrow Out of Board

Washington. — Clarence Darrow yesterday quit the Review Board and delivered his third report on codes, which includes additional slaps at the film code. It will be made public soon.

Cook Picture Off

It was reported yesterday that Fox had decided to call off the Joe Cook picture because of its inability to get a suitable story.

Songs For Dick Powell

Dick Powell warbles one or two numbers in "Gentlemen Are Born," which Mervyn LeRoy gets into action Monday at Warners.

Not That It Matters
by Helen Gwynn

Funny things may yet happen on "Stamboul Quest." But even if they don't, the story is worth repeating.

"Stamboul Quest" was originally bought as a possible vehicle for Joan Crawford. Somehow or other, when it got into script form, they decided it was not for Miss Crawford and wouldn't assign her to it. Then Wanger came along and said he'd make the story if they'd give him Crawford. This time the studio again turned thumbs down, with the excuse that they had to turn out a good picture in a hurry and for very little money and so they couldn't put Crawford into it. Well, Wanger resigned (not for that reason, however), and Myrna Loy and George Brent were given the leads.

In the meantime, Clark Gable, in two pictures for MGM and one for Columbia, leaped into first place again at the box-office and they can't wait to take further advantage of it. Also, they need material for Joan Crawford. Also the biggest team in pictures was Gable and Crawford. Also, they are now going mad trying to find a story to co-star Gable and Crawford, without much success.

Soooo, they took a look at "Stamboul Quest" and it seems that the picture is a honey and only cost around two hundred thousand dollars. And it has now been seriously suggested that they scrap the present picture because, for an additional three hundred thousand dollars, they could put Gable and Crawford into it and a half a million negative cost on a Gable-Crawford picture practically amounts to a mere quickie overhead. Of course, it probably won't happen, but the thought behind all this is something worth thinking about.

•

Our favorite producer has gone and said it again! He had issued orders to his writers to crash through with a story of modern Russia for his latest foreign importation and then called the boys in for a conference on it. Our favorite producer got up to tell them exactly what he thought should be in a picture about modern Russia and he said: "And don't forget, no story about Russia today would be complete without making use of their secret police—that G.O.P. organization!"

•

Just in order to keep the records straight, Mike Jackson wants it broadcast that he writes the picture reviews for Liberty and has had nothing whatsoever to do with the star-salary statistics which that magazine is printing. As a matter of fact, we're sure of it, because if Mike would consent to doing a thing like that, you can rest assured they'd be accurate, and Mike wouldn't do it anyway.

Leslie Howards In Paris

Paris.—The Leslie Howards have arrived here, having made the trip on the Majestic. Lou Brock is also here, flying over from London.

KAHANE ORDERS RADIO PICTURES KEPT CLEAN

B. B. Kahane, president of RKO-Radio Studios, yesterday instructed all producers in his company to live up to the letter and spirit of the Production Code; keep their pictures clean of smut, salaciousness, obscenity and at all times observe the sanctity of marriage.

Warning the producers that the present situation is serious and calls for whole-hearted co-operation, Kahane emphatically declared that any producer who fails in this cooperation will be fired from the studio.

Kahane, in a letter to his producers, stated that while some of the present criticism is unwarranted, a large part of it is justifiable, especially that coming from religious groups, prominent educators, Parent-Teachers Associations and the Motion Picture Research Council. He pointed out that RKO has tried to keep its productions free from criticism, but in a few cases has come in for attack.

"It is imperative," he said, "that henceforth still greater care be taken to avoid objectionable themes and offensive scenes and lines, and I expect all producers on our lot to give me their fullest cooperation. We do not have to eliminate 'sex' situations from our pictures. If we are to present honest dramas of human emotions and experiences, some scenes of sin and wrong-doing must necessarily be depicted. But there is no need and and no excuse whatever for productions which scoff at chastity and the sanctity of marriage, present criminals and wrong-doers as heroes and heroines, or in which smut and salaciousness are deliberately injected for the appeal they may have to coarse and unrefined minds."

Kahan then added that he hopes all producing companies will live up to the Production Code, whose provisions he says will keep pictures clean. "But whether they do or not, I shall insist that the producers of RKO Studios do so. The fact that other producers may be guilty of violations or evasions of the Code shall not be accepted as an excuse for a violation or evasion on your part."

Ben Lyon Gets Lead In Mascot Feature

Ben Lyon was engaged by Mascot yesterday for the lead in "Young and Beautiful." Mascot is still trying to find a girl to play opposite him.

Joseph Cawthorn was signed for an important role. The thirty Ed Lester Singers, Shaw and Lee, Roy Russell, Ray Mayer, are already set. Joseph Santley is slated to direct.

Mandel-Warner Suit Set

Trial is set for July 19 of the Frank and Alice Mandel suit against Warner Brothers for use of the title "Lady Killer" on the James Cagney picture, called, as an original, "The Finger Man." Harold A. Fendler represents the playwrights.

Hale For 'Imitation'

Alan Hale was signed by Universal for a featured role in "Imitation of Life," the John Stahl picture, yesterday. The Edington and Vincent office negotiated.

Ellis At Monogram

Robert Ellis signed with Monogram yesterday to play the role of the heavy in "Girl of the Limberlost." Harry Spingler, of the Small-Landau office, set the ticket.

Gordon and Revel Back

Mack Gordon and Harry Revel registered back at Paramount yesterday after a five-days trip to San Francisco.

Audience Applauds Single-Bill Notice

An audience at the Hermosa Theatre last night broke into spontaneous applause when a notice appeared on the screen that, beginning July 1, the house would adopt a policy of single features and short subjects.

McGowan-Para. Close Deal For Kid Shorts

Bob McGowan signed yesterday with Lou Diamond, Paramount shorts chief, to produce six Technicolor single-reel Kiddie-Kolor Comedies, with an option on extension of the series. McGowan hopes to put through a loan deal with Universal for little Juanita Quigley.

Opening comedy will be "Little Girl Blue," with a start aimed at July 5 at the Sennett studio.

Marge Decker To Wed

Marge Decker, secretary to Bill Pine, gave a party at the Hollywood Plaza last night and broke the news that she is to be married on August 11. When pressed for the name of the groom, she admitted it would be Cliff Lewis, also of Paramount.

Garnett-BIP Deal Off

Tay Garnett begged out of going through with a contract with British International yesterday for one picture to be made in London in September. The director will be occupied with "China Seas" at MGM at that time.

Fox Has Problem In 'Caravan' Retakes

Fox is facing a problem on "Caravan," one of the big guns on its new program. Erik Charell finished the picture and the studio decided that a portion of it must be remade before it gets the okay for release.

However, with Loretta Young in the hospital, Phillips Holmes at Universal in "Million Dollar Ransom," and Charles Boyer getting an abrogation of his contract, the studio is faced with a long wait before the desired retakes can be made.

QUICK LOANS

$10 to $300—CALL AND LEARN

ARRANGED ON SALARY, FURNITURE AND AUTOS

All requests are held in confidence. No inquiries of employer, friends or relatives. Call and learn how easy it is to borrow thru us.

LOCAL LOAN CO.

406 Taft Bldg. 1680 N. Vine

Telephone HEmpstead 1133

The Original French Version of

"L'Homme Vierge"

(The Virgin Man)

From the story by

Guy de Maupassant

First part of picture with dubbed English dialogue

OPENING TODAY

FILMARTE THEATRE

A PICTURE THE INDUSTRY SHOULD SEE

Opens July 2nd

Melrose-Bronson Branch Bank of America N. T. & S. A.

Convenient to

R. K. O. and PARAMOUNT STUDIOS

The Fourth Largest Bank in the United States

REELING around LONDON

Another orchid (say, why don't they open a florist shop on the side?) for the Disney factory for "Funny Little Bunnies"—it's playing almost all the West End houses here. . . . "House of Rothschild" is being serialized in the Sunday Chronicle. . . . Aileen Marson, under contract to British Lion, has turned down a Hollywood contract, we are told. . . . Of course, so have Wendie Barrie, Di Napier, Mistress Tom Cobleigh and all. We'd like to meet a British star who hadn't had or turned down a Hollywood contract. If they are turning down non-existent contracts we'd say Patriotism was not enough!!!

•

James Van Bibber Bryson, formerly with Universal, in a motor crash here. . . . Going to be some fights on the writing credits on "Falling in Love," the Charles Farrell-Gregory Ratoff pic. To date they have had Miles Malleson, Fred Thompson, Diana Bourbon, John Paddy Carstairs, Lee Loeb, H. F. Maltby, Monty Banks on the script from a story by Allan Hyman and Edward Baird and there is a possibility of Edwin Justus Mayer stirring the pot a coupla times! . . . Phil Tannura back in town and two big directors at G-B are fighting to get him to light their next opera; Phil raving about the swell time he had in Hollywood. . . . Gennie Tobin (without Mama!!) on the Evelyn Laye set at Gaumonts. . . . Sign of the times in British studios, everyone gets a break on the "dope" sent out by studios, assistant directors and second cameramen, but nary a writing credit!!! . . . That was a delightful photographic job on "Scarlet Empress," Bert Glennon.

•

Clarence Winchester mourning for that ole debbil Hollywood! . . . Connery Chappell spending his time in between movie scribbling, book writing and fiction, taking time out to see his wife, as Mister Stork has promised them a visit. . . .Enid Stamp Taylor looking lovelier than ever. . . . Jimmie Finlayson getting to be the best dressed chappie in the metropolis. . . . "Aunt Sally," a Gainsborough British pic, is doing very nicely in the provinces, thank you.

Hugh Walpole Ill

Hugh Walpole yesterday was taken to the Santa Monica Hospital suffering from antrum trouble. He arrived here a little more than a week ago to act as editorial supervisor on the screen play of "David Copperfield" for MGM.

'Gift Of Gab' Starting

Rian James expects to launch "Gift of Gab" into production today at Universal, Karl Freund directing, and Edmund Lowe at the top of the cast with Gloria Stuart.

Smart Manager Relays Roosevelt's Speech

Sherrill Cohen, manager of the Los Angeles Orpheum, last night hooked his office radio set to the theatre's public address system and broadcast the President's speech to his audience.

The pictures shown were timed so that the talk by the President fitted neatly into the program. With every member of the audience anxious to hear the speech and not miss any part of the show at the same time, the departure from routine went over with a bang.

Famous 'Blues' Singer To Be Heard In 'U' Pic

Ethel Watters, colored singer of the stage "As Thousands Cheer," comes to the coast for a spot in Universal's "Gift of Gab" in the form of camera footage and sound track. Her radio broadcast appearance will be recorded in the East for an insert in the Rian James production.

Fight Expected in Para.

(Continued from Page 1)

for the first quarter of this year were $1,600,000 and that, before the end of the year, the cash accumulation would be at least $10,000,000. He gives this as another reason why the stockholders will object to putting up any more money.

The auditors who have been working on the task have their report for the bankers in readiness, and are now preparing another report to be submitted to the stockholders.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Grace Hale, Gay Seabrook to "Human Side," Universal.

G. Pat Collins, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, for "The Captain Hates the Sea," Columbia.

Max Davidson to "Four Walls," at MGM.

John Hale for "The Case of the Howling Dog" and "Lost Lady," Warners, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall.

Rosalind Culli, by Wally Ross, and Gay Seabrook, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to Universal's "Romance in the Rain."

Andre Cheron, Bert Sprote and John Peters to MGM's "Merry Widow."

Mary Forbes, by Freddie Fralick, to "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," at Reliance.

Ray Mayer, by Bernard, Meiklejohn and McCall, to a Warren Doane short.

Marjorie Gateson for Warners' "Big Hearted Herbert."

Grant Mitchell to "The Case of the Howling Dog," Warners.

Inez Palange, "Age of Innocence," Radio.

Ben Taggert to "Among the Missing," Columbia.

Torben Meyer to "Wanted," Fox.

Roach Returns Today

Hal Roach returns today by plane from New York, where he conferred with MGM officials after attending the organization's convention in Chicago last week.

LEONARD FIELDS

DIRECTED

Possessing more plot than is customary, the picture moves along at a fast clip due to capital direction. Better than average story and all-round good cast.

Much of the credit for the success of the film should be awarded Leonard Fields.—Hollywood Reporter.

Monogram has a corking good picture in this one. Leonard Fields handled the direction and due credit should be given him for making it the fast moving and cleverly produced story it is.—Billboard.

Snappy entertainment and hilarious situations.—Box Office

"MANHATTAN LOVE SONG"

(SCREEN PLAY IN COLLABORATION)

NOW PREPARING "KING KELLY"

"BABY TAKE A BOW"

DIRECTED BY

HARRY LACHMAN

What The Critics Say:

Hollywood Reporter: The picture is a highly effective blending of drama and comedy. Directed by Harry Lachman, who can handle comedy as expertly as he can build up suspense.

Boston American: The stampede to Keith's Memorial was on in earnest yesterday. The rush should continue all week.

Los Angeles Times: It should be an enormous hit, the kind that gladdens the studio treasurer's heart.

Indianapolis Star: The director apparently used Shirley's powers to captivate audiences as a device for placing the audiences on the edge of their sets in the ensuing complications. In this he succeeded almost too well. One finds himself limp at the fadeout.

Daily Variety, Hollywood: The Temple sprite profits by deft, sympathetic direction of Harry Lachman.

Boston Record: Mark down another rousing success for that little Shirley Temple. The crowd at Keith's Saturday noon gloated over every morsel. It looked at the opening as if Keith would have one of its banner weeks.

Los Angeles Examiner: The shriek was a tribute to the suspense created by Harry Lachman with his direction.

Detroit, (Mich.) Times: The picture presents America's latest sweetheart to her best advantage.

Mid-Week Pictorial (N.Y.): The movie of the week, "Baby Take a Bow."

% MR. SAMUEL MARX,
CULVER CITY, CALIF.

THE Hollywood REPORTER

Vol. XXI. No. 45. Price 5c. TODAY'S FILM NEWS TODAY Saturday, June 30, 1934

HARD GOING FOR INDIES

TRADEVIEWS by FRANK POPE

•FOR two months, beginning July 1, French wines may come into this country in unlimited quantities. These free imports are permitted by our Government to check bootlegging and reduce liquor prices.

For six months, beginning July 1, the number of American motion pictures that will be admitted to France will be cut to a minimum, the import duties on them will be doubled, and the number of theatres where they may be shown will be decreased. So what?

American motion pictures have been having their troubles in France for some time, but, until this latest agreement between the secretaries of the Treasury and of Agriculture was reached, permitting the unlimited importation of alcoholic beverages for that two-months period, the picture industry had some basis on which bargaining might be done. Now that weapon is gone, unless the Administration can be induced to go to bat for the picture business and get the picture ban lifted.

•

The French situation has been growing more and more trying. A year ago the French government issued a decree about foreign films, aimed especially at American product, which was then called "the most drastic ruling yet recorded." It restricted exhibitions of foreign language talkies to five screens in Paris and ten in the provinces. Also it put what was then considered a severe restriction on "dubbing."

The French picture-producing industry was not so good. American pictures were infinitely better and French exhibitors much preferred to play dubbed versions rather than the native product. Then the French Chambre Syndicale stepped into the picture for the protection of the French industry.

•

The latest decree is the work of this body. The number of American films that may be admitted to France for dubbing is about eighty. The import duties are doubled and the number of theatres in which either dubbed films or English-language films may be shown is heavily reduced.

Already the Paris representatives of the American companies have advised closing the offices there and

(Continued on Page 4)

'Gorgeous Hussy' New Vehicle For Hepburn

Radio yesterday bought "The Gorgeous Hussy," a novel by Samuel Hopkins Adams, as a possible vehicle for Katharine Hepburn. The story is based on the life of Peggy Eaton, a character in semi-official Washington in the Andrew Jackson regime. It calls for hoopskirts. Pandro Berman will handle the production.

N.Y.Now Will Have Its Radio Theatre

New York.—The Casino Theatre, formerly the Earl Carroll, is to change its policy again. It closes tomorrow as a picture house and will open August 15 with radio broadcasting before paying audiences.

Haring, Blumenthal and Shiffmun have leased the house to the Theatre of the Air Inc., and this, without the Inc., will be the name of the theatre. The new management is convinced that, with the great interest in radio programs, the venture will be a paying one, and the lease runs for several years.

Joel McCrea and Radio Agree To Part Company

Joel McCrea walks off the Radio lot a free man July 8, release from his term contract having been agreed to by the studio yesterday.

McCrea had been dissatisfied with parts allotted to him and, when he declined to take a loan assignment to Universal recently, was penalized by suspension.

Passing Of Duals Killing Off State-Righters And Leaving Only A Few With Financing

Independent producers, with the exception of a few leaders, are finding tough sledding in financing their programs for the new season in the state right field. Private sources have frozen as a direct result of the ballyhoo against double-bills.

Erpi and Pathe, inside financiers for the independents, are avoiding getting involved in state right ventures in preference to releases through major channels. Both, however, are still willing to make exceptions where the indie can secure 130 percent in sound trade paper from distributors to guarantee 100 per cent deals.

The repeated disruption of the production map during the past year has brought the largest number of fatalities the indies have ever experienced, it is claimed. Where there was an

(Continued on Page 5)

'Mickey' Neilan To Direct For Para.

Marshall Neilan, recently working in the East, was signed by Paramount yesterday to direct "The Lemon Drop Kid," the Damon Runyon story on William LeBaron's production list.

Either Lee Tracy or Jack Oakie will get the lead. The picture is scheduled for starting late in July.

As his immediate assignment on the Paramount lot, Neilan will work with Herbert Fields on the screen play for "Mississippi," showboat story for Lanny Ross, W. C. Fields and Evelyn Venable.

Offer To Baer For 'Milky Way' Lead

New York.—Max Baer is reported to have been offered the lead in "Milky Way" by Paramount and is considering it in connection with other bids for his services. His manager also says that Max has another offer from a major picture company and several for personal appearances in theatres.

This is the reason, says the manager, why Baer will not fight again for some time. He believes in scooping up the gravy while it is flowing.

Radio To Do Picture On 'Stream-Line' Train

Radio is keeping abreast of the times in its story material, yesterday buying an original story laid in and around one of the new "stream line" trains that are now being exhibited throughout the country.

The story is called "Highball Limited," and was written by Roger Holt Wheeler. Wheeler was also signed to do the screen play. The deal was set by Arthur Klein and Jack Maurice office.

'Bondage' Doing Well

New York.—"Of Human Bondage," Radio picture that went into the Music Hall Thursday on a day's notice, is, despite the heat, reported to be doing the best business since "Nana." The management estimates the week will go over $85,000.

Bernard Bimberg Dies

New York.—Bernard K. Bimberg, who, in the early days of pictures, used to give sound effects from behind the screen and who once had a chain of theatres on upper Broadway, died here yesterday. He was 61 years old.

Schulberg On Way Back

New York.—B. P. Schulberg, who has been in seclusion here for a few days, starts back for the coast today.

2000 FEET WILL BE NEW STANDARD REEL LENGTH

After more than a year and a half of discussion among laboratory, theatre and exchange men, the matter of a new reel length will be settled within the next few days. The new reel will be 2000 feet.

A special committee from the Academy's Research Council has been working on the problem for some months. This week they called in representative laboratory heads for a conerence. The laboratory men were firmly for the 2000-foot real instead of the present 1000-foot one, or the

(Continued on Page 4)

Ned Wayburn To Produce

New York.—Ned Wayburn, for years a noted producer of musical shows, has formed a new film producing organization, called the Ned Wayburn Picture Co. He has announced no definite plans.

Col. Convention Monday

New York.—The Columbia convention gets under way at the Ritz-Carlton at Atlantic City Monday, with Jack Cohn presiding.

DAVID BURTON directed "Sisters Under the Skin" Now Playing Pantages Theatre

THE Hollywood REPORTER

W. R. WILKERSON.....Editor and Publisher

FRANK T. POPE.....Managing Editor

Published and Copyrighted by
THE WILKERSON DAILY CORP., Ltd.
Executive-Editorial Offices and Office of Publication, 6717 Sunset Boulevard
Hollywood (Los Angeles), California
Telephone HOllywood 3957
New York Office: Abraham Bernstein, Mgr., 229 W. 42nd St., Wisconsin 7-7193; Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave.; London, 2 Cathedral Mansion; Paris, 122 Blvd. Murat; Berlin, 83-84 Mauerstrasse; Buenos Aires, San Martin 501; Sydney, 198 Pitt St.; Antwerp, Gratte-Ciel.

Published every day with the exception of Sundays and Holidays. Subscription rates, including postage, per year in the United States and Canada, $10. Foreign, $15 Single copies, 5c. Entered as second class matter June 4, 1932, at the Post Office at Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1879.

RAMBLING REPORTER

All of us are plugging for Marie Dressler at the moment—of that we're sure . . . Howard Strickling and Frances Marion, one of Marie's closest friends, have been at her side for days . . . . Suggested as a re-make, because it was one swell movie in the silent days, "The Isle of Lost Ships"—we think Warners made it then . . . Aside to Lou Schreiber: "Come out, come out, wherever you are . . . . Richard Dix' sudden marriage to Virginia Webster was a terrible blow to what actress who has had her eyes on him for a long time? . . . . "The Virgin Man," which opens at the Filmarte here is the only uncut version of the picture shown in the U.S.A.—if that happens to excite you atall . . . .The Sam Jaffes, starting seasonal hegira to Malibu today . . . . Ginger Rogers has just acquired a police dog, already trained with a bag of tricks—thereby saving herself a lotta trouble . . . . Josephine Hutchison, after making make-up tests daily for weeks, has finally decided upon the screen face she wants to use. Now we can all go back to work! . . . When Gene Markey first met Don Stewart, Don had just finished an invention for Canned Peas—there were to be in a tube so that they would come out flat (like a ribbon) and lie down calmly on one's knife! . . Glenda Farrell (in N'Yawk) is denying the Bob Riskin marriage rumors, and is everywhere with her one-time sweetheart, Ronny Simon.

•

Woody Van Dyke, back from Santa Cruz, safe . . and more or less sound . . . Frances Drake and a w. k. Paramount exec will exchange glances over the week-end. . . . Samuel Blythe, famous writer and globe-trotter, says the Vendome has the finest wine cellar in America. . . . Veree Teasdale, Wm. Anthony McGuire, Leila Hyams, Mrs. Skeets Gallagher, Wm. LeBaron, Mel Shauer, the Buddy Leightons, Ernst Lubitsch with Sheila Manners, the Ric Cortezes, Dick Blumenthal, Chester Hale, the Ray Griffiths, the Carl Brissons, Diana Fitzmaurice, the Murray Feils, E. J. Brandeis, the Charlie Kenyons, Reginald Berkeley, Ronald Colman, the Bruce Cabots among the lunchers and diners there. . . Buddy Schulberg leaves today to meet Maurice Rapf in Russia!

New York REVIEWS

"THE GREAT FLIRTATION"

Paramount prod.; director, Ralph Murphy; writers, Gregory Ratoff, Humphrey Pearson.

Paramount Theatre

Post: The picture starts out as light comedy and ends up on the "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" note, and its course veers uncertainly between farce and pathos. It has some fresh and engaging passages, but the material is thin and not altogether worthy of Menjou's talents.

American: Since "The Great Flirtation" was written by Gregory Ratoff about Gregory Ratoff, it is something of a shame that the dynamic comedian didn't see fit to play the title role himself. Not that Adolphe Menjou doesn't give his usual excellent performance, because he does, but it would have been even more amusing to see Ratoff. The greatest surprise of the picture is Elissa Landi, who emerges as a fiery and most attractive young woman.

World-Telegram: "The Great Flirtation" begins languidly, teeters for a while on the edge of inertia and then acquires a brisk momentum on which it skirts to a fairly entertaining end. The result is a sufficiently light and amusing little film of the fair-to-middling variety.

Herald-Tribune: Although the theme of "The Great Flirtation" is pregnant with dramatic possibilities, they have been only partially realized in a confused screen production. The result is a preposterous mixture of low comedy and overly sentimental tragedy, spasmodically directing, almost never moving.

News: I didn't expect much of a picture with the above title, but I came away from the theatre full of enthusiasm for a genuinely entertaining film and ready to sing the praises of Adolphe Menjou and Elissa Landi for their unqualifiedly good performances in the leading roles. Ralph Murphy's handling of the picture resulted in a smooth, well timed, finished production.

Sun: A light comedy drama. In its study of the ways of actors, on and off the stage, "The Great Flirtation" is fairly amusing. As a straight story, however, it is neither credible nor lucid.

Journal: A diverting comedy of life among theatrical people. While Menjou, as usual, gives an excellent portrayal, it is Miss Landi who provides a surprise by turning in a much more animated performance than she has yet exhibited on the screen.

Phillip MacDonald Gets Termer With Fox

Phillip MacDonald was signed by Fox to a long-term writing ticket yesterday, after working for the studio for nearly six months as a free-lance on a picture to picture basis.

He has been specializing in keeping up the series of Charlie Chan pictures since the death of Earl Derr Biggers. He next writes "Charlie Chan in Paris," with Warner Oland having his usual role of the Chinese detective. Vivian Gaye, of the Polimer office, handled the writer's deal.

Randall Out of Hospital

Mon Randall, Eastern advertising representative at the local Universal studio, returns home today from the Hollywood Hospital after undergoing an operation for appendicitis ten days ago. He gets back to the studio in another week.

O'Connell Due Monday

Hugh O'Connell gets in Monday by plane from New York to start his Universal contract six weeks earlier than planned in "Let 'Em Rave." He was signed to a term deal from the cast of "The Milky Way" on Broadway.

Jay Flippen To 'U'

Jay C. Flippen, radio broadcasting star, was signed by Universal yesterday for a featured role in "Million Dollar Ransom," which Murray Roth is directing. Ralph Farnum set the deal.

Hoffe Postpones Trip

Added work on the script of "What Every Woman Knows" yesterday forced Monckton Hoffe, MGM writer, to postpone his trip to London.

MGM Keeps Walcott

George Walcott had his option taken up by MGM yesterday. The player has a featured role in "Four Walls."

MGM Lab Theatre To Aid Relief Fund

MGM is working out a plan to put the stage version of "All Good Americans" on again at the Hollywood Music Box for one more performance, this time opening it to the public in behalf of the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

The studio's Laboratory Theatre produced it Tuesday. It was favorably received. The repeat performance will occur in two weeks, according to Maurice Revnes, who is in charge of the experimental group. Martha Sleeper, Betty Furness, Mary Carlisle, Robert Taylor, Robert Livingston, Leo Chalzell head the cast. Oliver Hinsdale directs.

Belasco and Curran are dickering with MGM to book the entire production for a long run in San Francisco.

Writer-Yachtsmen To Race Over To Catalina

The members of the Pacific Writers' Yacht Club will hold a two-day cruise to Catalina Island on July 7 and 8.

Ern Westmore will present a trophy to the power cruiser that makes the fastest time over and back. Dick Schayer will give a prize to the sailing craft that wins the two-way race. A dinner and celebration will be held on arrival.

Roy Vickers' Greatest Novel
"The Unforbidden Sin"
first feature production
for the 1934-1935 season
FAMOUS AUTHORS PICTURES CORP.
723 Seventh Ave. New York
Cable Address Famaut, New York

Just one block from Hollywood Boulevard Shops and Theatres!

"Design for Living"
[. . . created for Studio People]

- an ideal ultra-modern home
- spacious outside apartments
- new exquisite appointments
- 14 stories--magnificent view
- 24-hour switchboard service
- singles! doubles! penthouses
- rentals begin at $65 & $100
- subway garage is included

FONTENOY APARTMENTS
1811 Whitley Avenue HIllside 5191

'SHE LOVES ME NOT' SURE-FIRE; 'JANE EYRE' GOOD PICTURE

Direction, Writing, Acting, All Swell

"SHE LOVES ME NOT"
(Paramount)

Direction .....Elliott Nugent
Novel by.....Edward Hope
Stage Play.....Howard Lindsay
Screen Play.....Benjamin Glazer
Photography .....Charles Lang
Music and Lyrics....Gordon and Revel, and Rainger and Robin Cast: Bing Crosby, Miriam Hopkins, Kitty Carlisle, Edward Nugent, Lynne Overman, Warren Hymer, Judith Allen, George Barbier, Henry Kolker, Maude Turner Gordon, Margaret Armstrong, Ralf Harolde, Matt McHugh, Franklyn Ardell, Vince Barnett.

A fun picture from start to finish. Taken at a goodly pace all the way through, this story of a chorus girl among the collegiates is something to recommend to your best friends and you can't go wrong with a Bing Crosby picture anyway. It's a honey, so make the best of it.

Curley Flagg, night club dancer, runs away from a murder because she has heard that witnesses manage to serve the longest jail sentences. She has just enough money to reach Princeton. She not only reaches it, but manages to install herself in it to the chagrin and embarrassment of a couple of nice college lads, the Dean and finally a U. S. Senator. Curley lands herself a movie contract, the college boys get a reprieve from the Dean, and chivalrous American manhood is vindicated.

Bing Crosby, a bit bigger around the hips, is very elegant as Paul Lawton, the boy who befriends Curley, is engaged to a nasty N. Y. minx but really loves the Dean's daughter. He's charm itself and his voice has all the old appeal. Miriam Hopkins does right well as Curley, but it seems a shame to waste the talents of a damned good actress on a part that might have made a newcomer over night. Hopkins is good, make no mistake, but far too good for the part.

Kitty Carlisle as the Dean's daughter is really something that Paramount should eventually do something about in a big way. The gal now shows that she has a good comedy sense besides a figure that's something to write home about, an interesting face and a personality that has that something it's hard to describe. Lynne Overman, as the press agent, is an object lesson to all comers who think they can act that kind of part. He's simply swell. Henry Stephenson is grand as the Dean, and Vince Barnett, Eddie Nugent, Warren Hymer and George Barbier are all to the good plus in their respective parts.

Elliott Nugent has done a completely satisfactory job with the direction, though there is nothing particularly inspired about the work and one could wish that, in the cloud sequence, if Art had to rear its beautiful head, it might have done so without the heads of the boy and girl. Barney Glazer has been entirely faithful to the play in his adaptation and it's hard to do better than that. Charles Lang, as usual, contributed A1 photography. The music is all okay, though pretty reminiscent—the reminiscences are all from good classical pieces, however, so why quibble?

Communication Board May Be Named Today

Washington.—President Roosevelt announced at the press conference yesterday that he would appoint the new Federal Communications Commission either today or tomorrow.

'Cucaracha' Short In Color, Gorgeous

"LA CUCARACHA"
(Pioneer Pictures)

Direction .....Lloyd Corrigan
Screen Play: John Twist and Jack Wagner.
Photography .....Ray Rennehan
Art Direction.....Robert Edmond Jones
Producer .....Kenneth Macgowan
Cast: Steffi Duna, Paul Porcasi, Don Alvarado.

"La Cucaracha," the first color short of Pioneer Pictures, is a distinct triumph. For sheer exciting and important beauty in the field of color photography, it has never been surpassed.

Although it runs for only about twenty minutes, the picture will take first place, dramatically and artistically, on almost any program. And yet so cleverly have the color and photography been blended into the whole, that the characters of the story, Steffi Duna, Don Alvarado and Paul Porcasi, are never overshadowed by the novelty of the film.

Robert Edmond Jones, in charge of the settings and color, demonstrates an undeniable genius in the blending of color, photography and drama into a strikingly impressive mood. Ray Rennehan photographed sensitively.

Lloyd Corrigan handled the direction with the great strength and taste, and John Twist and Jack Wagner wrote the screen play, which is perfect for this medium. The players distinguished themselves in their roles, especially Steffi Duna, whose exquisite emotional control is a thing of wonder. The music, and the use of the song, "La Cacaracha," are woven into the plot with stunning effect.

Too much cannot be said in praise of this picture. It will be a gorgeous decoration on any program in any house.

Hubbard-Hearst Will Confer On Davies Pic

Lucien Hubbard is making arrangements to meet William Randolph Hearst in Wales when he leaves on his trip to Europe shortly.

Hubbard is scheduled to supervise the next Marion Davies production, "Movie Queen," by Sidney Skolsky, and will devote a portion of his vacation to conferences with Hearst on the picture.

Virginia Bruce and Clive Share Honors

"JANE EYRE"
(Monogram)

Direction .....Christy Cabane
Original Story.....Charlotte Bronte
Screen Play.....Adele Commandini
Photography .....Robert Planck
Cast: Virginia Bruce, Colin Clive, Aileen Pringle, Jameson Thomas, Beryl Mercer, David Torrance, Lionel Belmore, Joan Standing, Adele Fellowes, Desmond Roberts, Ethel Griffies, Clarice Selwyn, Hilda Tyson, Gretta Gould, Claire DuBrey, Edith Kingdon, William Wagner, Olaf Hytten, William Burress, Gail Kaye, Jean Darling, Richard Quine.

A faithful, literal translation of the Bronte novel, that has been given an excellent cast and a really good production by Monogram. The story has about it a slightly dated odor, but manages to retain a great deal of charm, and the production itself is worthy of a good place on any program. There is a great deal to sell in this picture and there should be no difficulty with it whatsoever, particularly since it is so very important to bring along the whole family.

Mainly the picture serves to bring irginia Bruce back to the screen, and not only is the gal very beautiful to look at, but her performance is lovely and, actually, she sings. Just one song, but it's enough to prove that Miss Bruce has a voice that records well and without any facial contortions to distract the attention.

Miss Bruce is, of course, Jane Eyre, the little girl from the orphanage who becomes a governess in the house of Edward Rochester. She and the marster fall in love, but Jane runs away from the spectre of his insane wife, even though the marriage has been annulled, only to come back to Rochester for life after he has been blinded, trying to rescue his insane wife who finally succeeds in burning the house down.

Just why anyone would run away from Rochester as played by Colin Clive is pretty difficult to explain. The motivation for that act was never really clear in the book either, but with Clive in the part it's even more confusing. Aileen Pringle as Lady Blanche, and Jameson Thomas as the solicitor appear all too briefly. Their performances make you want to see them more. Beryl Mercer does well by the role of the very sweet housekeeper, and Adele Fellowes, despite the fact that she is an entirely capable child actress, is just too annoyingly lovable a niece for comfort. Unfortunately, the man who played the part of Poole is not listed, so that we cannot by name give him credit for an excellent performance as the drunken driver.

Adele Commandini has done a most respectful adaptation, and Christy Cabanne has given it the same kind of direction, but the picture could have stood a little pepping up. Robert Planck's photography is very good and so are the settings. In fact, Monogram is to be congratulated for the production.

Not that it MATTERS
by Helen Gwynn

A letter in the mails from New York divulges a few interesting tidbits about how the other half is living and carrying-on at the moment.

George White has postponed his "Scandals" production, because, strange as it seems, he's coming back to Hollywood to make another musical for Fox. His original contract with that company called for another picture from him IF the "Scandals" picture made a certain profit above cost, and evidently it did.

•

Sidney Harmon, producer of "Men in White," is engaged to be married. Georgie Hale sails for Yurrup today with the girls who are going into a show in Monte Carlo, after which Hale goes to London to do a musical for British and Dominions. However, before sailing away, Georgie was bending everybody's ear about how in love he is with Billie Seward.

Conde Nast threw a large party t'other evening and among those he wined and dined on his terrace were Bert Taylor and Olive McClure (who will visit Dorothy DiFrasso in Italy next week), Howard Hughes, Hilda Knight, Caleb Bragg, Alistair MacIntosh and the most beautiful girls in New York, including the gang Georgie Hale is taking to Monte Carlo.

•

Max Baer is amusing the town with statements to the effect that he is off women for the rest of his life—seems they done him wrong too often and Maxie wants to play smart. . . . New York went off the platinum-blonde standard some time ago so that Hazel Forbes stands out like a platinum-blonde in a crowded room, and she shows up a lot on the Waldorf roof, where Guy Lombardo is literally packing them in nightly. . . . The Mayfair Yacht Club is having a terrific vogue, what with the early hot weather season and its dining on a terrace overlooking the East River. . . . Ben Marden's Riviera is doing the same on ye olde Hudson, with Harry Richman entertaining and where gambling and gamboling mix well together. . . . Jack Dempsey, Hannah Williams and Estelle Taylor are all under one roof at the moment, otherwise known as the Warwick Hotel. . . . Mae Murray has a very attractive Englishman in tow these days, and Claire Windsor had a new beau at the Casino the same night that the Bryan Foys entertained a party of twenty in honor of Lawrence Tibbett.

•

You'll still find the old gang lunching at Twenty-one and it's still the surest way to reach anyone you want to see in New York. . . . Jack Rumsey has taken a cottage at the Westchester Embassy for the summer. . . . Will Stewart and Blumey still twosomeing for lunchat the Colony, and then there are the hundreds of sidewalk cafes where you can sit and watch the world go bye-bye, and that's New Lork for you these days, my friends.

UTOPIANS GET HUNDREDS OF RECRUITS IN STUDIOS

The Utopians, the new organization formed for the purpose of eliminating profits and poverty, is moving into the ranks of the motion picture industry with a rapidity that is startling.

Preaching the doctrine of no unemployment, they have made a flying start, especially among those men and women who have been faced with little or no work for many months. But they have not stopped there. Now the workers who are employed are being recruited and, while no one will venture an estimate as to the number enrolled, it is said to be surprisingly great.

Special committees have been organized to spread the propaganda among the various technical workers, and meetings are being held at least once a week which have been so largely attended that several times they have had to get an additional hall for the overflow. Many of the workers see a probable settlement of all labor problems, as well as the elimination of wage scale battles if the dream of the organization ever comes true.

Young Replaces Tone In 'Death on Diamond'

Franchot Tone's assignment in "Four Walls" yesterday caused MGM to change plans for "Death on the Diamond" and to replace Tone with Robert Young in the role of the baseball pitcher.

Ted Healy, Ed Brophy and C. Henry Gordon were slated for featured roles, the latter as the heavy. Edward Sedgwick directs.

Phyllis Ludwig Cast In 'Return Of Chandu'

Phyllis Ludwig was signed yesterday by Sol Lesser to play Betty in "The Return of Chandu," which Ray Taylor starts directing July 29. Bela Lugosi has the name lead.

Miss Ludwig is a sister of Edward Ludwig, Universal director. She played a Southern girl in Ruth Etting's Radio short last week.

'Chained' On Location

Clarence Brown has taken MGM's "Chained" unit on location at the Rancho Agua de la Centinela, a four thousand acre tract known as one of the oldest ranches in the Southwest. Clark Gable and Joan Crawford are co-starred in the picture.

Long Trip For Gordon

At the conclusion of his three-months agreement at Paramount on the screen play of "Sacrifice," Leon Gordon plans a visit to England and then to South Arfica for material needed for his projected original, "Empire Builder—the Life of Cecil Rhodes."

Aller Due Monday

Herbert Aller, business representative of the cameramen's union, is due Monday morning from New York, where he has been conferring with George Browne, now IATSE president.

Monogram Throws Party In New Home

Monogram inaugurated its new offices at RKO-Pathe yesterday by giving a house-warming. The company takes over the entire lower floor of the administration building, the offices once occupied by Tom Ince and last by Charles R. Rogers. The new quarters are still undergoing remodeling and the move from General Service will be made Monday.

The first picture to be put into work at the new lot will be "King Kelly of the U.S.A.," which starts July 6. Leonard Fields directs.

Walthall Signed For 'Girl of Limberlost'

Monogram yesterday signed Henry B. Walthall, through Hoffman-Schlager, for a spot in "The Girl of the Limberlost," which Christy Cabanne put before the cameras at Talisman studios.

The studio also signed Eddie Nugent, Gigi Parrish, Robert Ellis, Betty Blythe, Barbara Bedford and Tommy Bupp. W. T. Lackey produces.

Royalty At Opening Of 'Men In White'

London.—The London premiere of "Men in White," staged at the Lyric Theatre, was in the form of the benefit for charity, under royal auspices. Prince George attended, as well as many notables.

The play, with Jill Esmond, Robert Douglas and Lewis Casson heading the cast, was accorded a most enthusiastic welcome.

Janet Cohn Coming West

New York.—Janet Cohn, of the play department of Brandt and Brandt, is leaving for Hollywood today for a month's vacation.

Walpole Improved

Hugh Walpole checked out of the Santa Monica Hospital yesterday after spending one day for a treatment for antrum trouble.

Sound Men See Victory

(Continued from Page 1)

proposed 1700-foot reel. The committee has agreed on this length and will present the recommendation to the Council next week. It is practically certain of being accepted.

One of the deciding factors was a survey of theatres which revealed that in more than sixty per cent of the theatres of the country the operators take the film off the 1000-foot reels and wind it on 2000-foot ones of their own for theatre use. Every time this is done, four frames are taken off the picture, with the result that after a picture has been out a few weeks, such a chunk has been removed that a new section has to be put in or there is a jump in the picture.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE CASTING NEWS

Marie Osborne to "The Gay Divorce," Radio.

Ollie Connolly to "The Captain Hates the Sea," Columbia.

William Von Brinken, Bodil Rosing and Phyllis Ludwig, by Al Kingston, to "King Kelly of the U.S.A.," Monogram.

Herman Bing, by Menifee I. Johnstone, to "Kindling," Fox.

Arthur Aylesworth to Warners' "The Case of the Howling Dog."

Robert Barrat and Russell Hicks to "Big-Hearted Herbert," Warners.

Josephine Whittell for "Serenade," Fox, by O'Reilly-Mann.

John Marston to "Servants' Entrance," Fox, by O'Reilly-Mann.

Mischa Auer for "Student Tour," MGM.

Beulah Bondi for "The Painted Veil," MGM.

Ruthelma Stevens and Cornelius Keefe for "A Lady Surrenders," Warners, by Hallam Cooley.

Helene Millard to "A Lady Surrenders," Warners, by Sam Armstrong, of the Tom Conlon office.

Sam Flint to "Broadway Bill" at Columbia, by Sam Armstrong.

Sam Hinds, Stanley Price, Cyril Thornton, Lee Phelps, all to Minute Mystery No. 5 at Columbia, by Sam Armstrong.

'Chu Chin Chow' Gets Trade Show In London

London.—British Gaumont's lavish production of "Chu Chin Chow" had its trade show Thursday night and received a big ovation. The production is superb, the settings extremely lavish and the acting excellent. It is the general opinion that it is the best thing Walter Forde has done.

Craven Finishes One

Frank Craven completed work on the screen play for "That's Gratitude" yesterday. Lew Golder, president of Foy Productions, for which Craven is producing and directing the picture, arrives today from New York to be on hand for the start July 5. Columbia releases it.

New Job For Wells Root

MGM yesterday assigned Wells Root to write the screen play of "The Transgressor," a novel by Anthony Richardson. Lucien Hubbard will produce when he returns from his European vacation the latter part of August.

Rep. Ray Cannon Runs Amuck Again

Chicago.—Representative Raymond J. Cannon, who recently introduced a bill in Congress to legislate morals into motion pictures, went on the rampage in a radio speech here yesterday, declaring that the movies are the greatest menace to American youth and that he intended to revive his bill making it a crime to transport indecent pictures.

Will Hays, he said, is just a figurehead with nothing to say about production. He declared that the usual themes of pictures are divorce, free love, marital infidelity and exploitation of gangsters and racketeers.

"A vicious attack is being made on the sacredness of womanhood, the sanctity of the home and obedience to lawful authority," he said. He attacked Garbo's bedroom scene in "Christina" as "disgusting to fathers and mothers who view such pictures with their children."

He closed by saying that "what few good pictures are projected on the screen are almost always spoiled by suggestive scenes, vulgar mannerisms and offensive dialogue."

Henry Stephenson In Radio's 'Richest Girl'

Pandro Berman signed Henry Stephenson yesterday for "The Richest Girl in the World," in which Miriam Hopkins has the lead on a loan from Paramount. Stephenson was the kindly grandfather of "Little Women."

"Richest Girl" looms as the next starter on the Radio schedule. It will be William Seiter's first directing job on his contract status.

Tradeviews

(Continued from Page 1)

getting out of the country. This is a move that is dreaded by the French exhibitors and they are flooding the Government with protests, demanding that the number of pictures admitted from America be increased and not cut.

Such a move would be a distinct loss because France supplies better than 20 per cent of the foreign income of American pictures. But, under the new restrictions, operation there probably would be at a loss. So the American picture business is on a spot and the only possible source of help is at Washington. And, meanwhile, France will send her wines here in unlimited quantities.

VACATION TIME IS HERE
LET US SOLVE YOUR TRAVEL WORRIES
Sam Revel Travel Service
6724 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.
HOllywood 2241 (Hotel Christie) 24-Hour Service
Complete Travel Information — Positively No Charge
AIR - STEAMSHIP - BUS - HOTEL - RESORT
Reservations Arranged To Any Point
Free Delivery On Tickets With Complete Information
Just Phone HOllywood 2241 — PERSONAL ATTENTION

SOUND MEN SEE VICTORY AND DROP TRICK PLAY

The sound men's union of the IATSE is so certain that the IA is coming back into the studios that they have abandoned a project to build up a separate organization, patterned after the ASC, and yesterday recalled Harold V. Smith to the position of business representative of the Local.

Smith's resignation as business representative was announced last April, and he became executive manager of the newly formed American Society of Sound Engineers. Now it is revealed that Smith was given a leave of absence to go with the new society, which had been set up by members of the union. The plan was to model the society along the ASC lines with the hope that the producers would recognize it and give it a contract for sound men, similar to that now held by the ASC for cameramen.

Union leaders at that time felt that the IATSE Local was absolutely licked in the studios, and they did not want to have to go to the IBEW in order to work. However, Smith has just returned from Washington where he conferred with Sol Rosenblatt and other officials. He also conferred with the new IATSE president, George Browne. As a result of his conferences, the IA Local feels that the future is going to be rosy, and has recalled Smith.

The new society will not be abandoned, however, but will be kept as an off-shoot of the union and will be used as a means to further technical and research work in sound development.

Hillyer's One-Day Job

Lambert Hillyer started and finished shooting yesterday of "The Professor Gives a Lesson," one of Columbia's Minute Mysteries. He used Geneva Mitchell, Cyril Thornton, Charles Wilson, Samuel S. Hinds, Stanley Price, Lee Phelps and James Fawley in it.

Sackheim Scenario Head

Jerry Sackheim, Universal story head, has taken over the duties of the scenario department during the absence of Leonard Spigelgass, who is vacationing. Latter returns in about two weeks.

Todd-Kelly Starting

Hal Roach starts the second of the new series of shorts co-starring Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelly Monday. Gus Meins directs.

Ida Lupino Better

Ida Lupino sat up for two hours yesterday, according to her physician, and is on the way to recovery from her infantile paralysis attack.

Wally Beery In N. Y.

New York.—Wallace Beery arrived here by plane today to attend to some personal business and see a doctor about his bad leg.

Erskine Book For Fox

Fox yesterday purchased John Erskine's best selling novel, "Bachelor of Arts." Sol Wurtzel will produce it.

Summer Bears Down Hard On Grosses

New York.—Hot weather, and perhaps one or two other things, is laying a heavy hand on the grosses in the big picture houses. "Let's Try Again" at the Music Hall could get only $60,000 for the week, and "Operator 13" pulled $31,000 into the Capitol.

Six days of "The Great Flirtation" gave the Paramount only $16,000. "The Affairs of a Gentleman" took $15,500 at the Roxy, "Dr. Monica" at the Strand grossed $11,500, "Black Moon" at the Rialto got $10,500, and "Circus Clown" at the Mayfair pulled $7500.

Lull In Production For The Holiday Week

Independence week will be celebrated by very little new shooting in the central Hollywood studios. Neither Radio nor Columbia has anything starting next week.

The next new burst of Paramount activity is slated for July 16, with possible but not definite startings by "Pursuit of Happiness" and "A Son Comes Home" in the interim.

Gary Coopers East

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cooper leave for New York tonight to visit Mrs. Cooper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shields. A trip on the Shields yacht is in order. Cooper finished in "Now and Forever" yesterday, with his next assignment "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer."

Wally Westmore III

Wally Westmore, Paramount make-up man, is at the Hollywood Hospital recovering from an emergency appendicitis operation Thursday night by Dr. William E. Branch.

Hard Going For Indies

(Continued from Page 1)

average of thirty independent companies, there are now exactly nine in active operation.

These are Monogram, Majestic, Mascot, Invincible, Chesterfield, Principal, Liberty, Goldsmith and Supreme. The rest of the list is hanging on, hoping for fair weather.

Indie field during the coming season, probably will be divided by those still active, and no competition is expected from the dormant companies that maintain offices, hold in stock a list of titles and are "working on plans." Monogram is regarded as the strongest in the entire group, owing to its advantageous position in having its own exchange system. In a similar spot are the twin producers, Invincible and Chesterfield.

The hardest blow to the smaller indies was Phil Goldstone's abdication as financier. Since he declared he was out of the independent field and liquidated every financing interest he had, the horde of small producers has about vanished.

Greer's Trailer a New York Sensation

New York.—Howard Greer's auto trailer, with its green trim, red and white curtains, shower and kitchen, created a sensation here. He parked it in front of the Waldorf, gave luncheon parties in it and then drove his guests through Central Park.

Receipts Of Loew's Ahead Of Last Year

New York.—The receipts of Loew's Inc. are running well ahead of last year and vast improvement is expected in its financial condition.

It is estimated that the company's earnings for the second quarter of this year, ended June 9, will be around $1,600,000. For the 28 weeks, ended March 15 last, they were $3,973,472. The company expects that its earnings for the full year, ending August 31, will permit dividends of $4 per share. Cash and Government securities on hand amount to approximately $10,000,000.

Rogers Party Leaves For East By Steamer

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Rogers, the Val Pauls and the Casey Robinsons left for New York last night on the Santa Paula, going from there to Europe.

The Rogers office here will remain open in charge of Bill Pierce, the Rogers secretary.

N.Y.Times Digging Into Censorship

The New York Times has wired Douglas Churchill, its Hollywood correspondent, to make an exhaustive survey of the censorship situation in the film industry as it affects Hollywood.

The newspaper considers the subject of sufficient importance to have Churchill spend a couple of weeks digging into it and getting the personal reactions of all leading production chiefs. The lengthy article which he will write will be taken from the picture section of the paper and published in the Sunday magazine in three weeks.

Bob Collier Headed East With Ad Agency

Robert Collier, well known in picture advertising and publicity circles has gone to New York, where he will be a radio executive with the Blow Company, advertising counselors, and owners of radio station WNEW, New York.

European Sailings

New York—Sailing on the Paris today are Laurence Stallings, Pierre Brasseur, French actor, Truman Talley of the Fox newreels, and Sidney Towell, treasurer of Fox Films.

Breen On Way Back

New York.—Joseph Breen, of the Hollywood Hays office, left here yesterday for the coast, stopping for a day or so in Philadelphia.

Ken Goldsmith

Announces

"Little Men"

by

LOUISA M. ALCOTT

IN PREPARATION

BUFFET FROID

A Special Vendome Summer Service

VENDOME OFFERS, FOR THE SUMMER, AN ENTIRELY NEW MENU
THAT FAIRLY BRISTLES WITH ATTRACTIVE ITEMS

The "Buffet Froid" Service has proved most pleasing to our patrons.

Appealing cold dishes are attractively displayed on a moveable table. The various dishes rest on a bed of ice and so are kept in perfect condition.

The display is moved directly to the tables of the guests, who then make their selections.

Popular items of the Buffet Froid are:

CHINOOK SALMON IN JELLY
CHICKEN SUPREME, WITH ASPARAGUS TIPS
SLICED TURKEY, WITH GOOSE LIVER IN ASPIC
SLICED CHICKEN, MIXED GREEN SALAD

WINE CUPS

Warm weather is with us again and our thoughts are turning, quite naturally, to thirst-quenching, cooling beverages. With the Summer luncheon or dinner, nothing can be more delightful than properly prepared Wine Cups. They are not only delicious to the palate, but are satisfying, and, having a low alcoholic content, are far more healthful and desirable in hot weather than spirituous beverages.

WINE CUPS

CHAMPAGNE	STILL HOCK
SAUTERNES	CLARET
SPARKLING MOSELLE	STILL MOSELLE

In the preparation of Wine Cups we use only choice vintage wines (or the wine may be your own selection), assorted fresh fruits, with fine old Cognac, Curacoa, Maraschino, Jamaica Rum, Benedictine or Grand Marnier as flavors. Cups are always served quite cold and are made up with Appolinaris, Perrier, White Rock or Schweppes Club Soda, as may be desired. Wine Cups may be had in both large and small sizes.

HOT WEATHER SPECIALS

Have you tried either Vermouth Cassis or Amer Picon Avec Sirops?

For the occasional drink they are novel, thirst-quenching, and altogether delightful.

VENDOME

6666 SUNSET BOULEVARD
HOllywood 1666